

Germans Close In Like Octopus On Caucasus; Stalingrad Menaced

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor
Germany's mechanized armies, fast closing an octopus-like stranglehold on the Upper Caucasus, reported the fall of Tikhoretsk on the Caucasian railway 99 miles south of Rostov today and developed a new pincer threat to the great Volga river steel center of Stalingrad.
Tikhoretsk is on the Stalingrad-Novorossiisk railway terminating at the Black sea, just below Kerch strait.

Soviet advisers said Russia's carefully saved reserves were going into action against the terrific Nazi offensive, fighting bitterly to stem the new threat to Stalingrad.
Dispatches from Moscow said the Red armies, taking up new positions along a strong line east of the Don river, were driving back powerful German tank assaults 95 miles southeast of Stalingrad.

A second big-scale battle was in progress in the Kletsakaya sector, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, where the Russians said the upper claw of the German pincer aimed at Stalingrad was stopped dead.
The danger in the Caucasus increased, however, as the Germans drove new wedges into Soviet lines at a great sacrifice in lives, front-line dispatches said.
A bulletin from German field headquarters said-Nazi spearheads, racing southward from Voroshilovsk, had reached the main trans-Caucasian railway linking the Black and Caspian seas.

This apparently meant that the invaders had seized the rail line between Armasvir, key junction on the route, somewhere in the vicinity of Nevinnomysskaya, which lies due south of Voroshilovsk. It would represent an advance of about 235 miles into the Caucasus.
As the crisis mounted, with the Red armies hurried back in two key sectors during bitter all-night fighting, Europe's capitals rang with new talk of an Allied second front in Western Europe.

"Every day brings nearer the time when the agreement signed between Britain and the U. S. S. R. on the urgency of establishing a second front in Europe will be put into effect," the Moscow radio said.
In London, Premier Pieter S. Gerbrandy of the Netherlands government-in-exile broadcast to his countrymen in Nazi-occupied Holland, declaring that the tide of war was turning.

"Await with wise patience the moment when the call comes from here not only to take a passive but also an active part" in the opening of a new Allied front, he said.
Simultaneously, a fresh flood of Nazi-inspired propaganda emphasized the asserted strength of German defenses to combat a cross-channel invasion attempt. One dispatch told of "mighty fortifications of concrete and iron" extending deep inland from the English channel coast.

On the Russian front, massive battles raged throughout the night, and at mid-day, the Soviet command acknowledged that Marshal Semion Timoshenko's armies had been forced to retreat in the Belaya Glina sector, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, and in a new zone at Ko-telnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Masses of German tanks and infantry were reported surging toward Kotelnikovski in a drive menacing the southern approaches to Stalingrad. From here, the Germans also could strike toward the vital Caspian sea port of Astrakhan, at the mouth of the Volga, 240 miles across comparatively flat country.

Vital Information

Washington reports that World War II has not brought "silk-shirt" prosperity and free spending to the average city family in the U. S., but it has brought a high increase in savings with which Americans have bought War Bonds and Stamps and paid taxes. Although income rose over 7 per cent between 1941 and the first quarter of 1942, average expenditures for common carriers increased less than 2 per cent. Based on B. S. survey figures, savings are about 70 per cent higher in 1942 than in 1941.

KEENE, N. H., Aug. 6 (AP)—Told that No. 7 coupon of her sugar rationing book represented a "bonus" of two extra pounds of sugar, one woman here took the word literally, and wound up at her rationing board demanding clarification.

"Isn't the No. 7 coupon a bonus?" she asked.

"It is, madam," a board member replied.

"Well," she said, "the storekeeper made me pay for it."

ODT, under limitation order L-104, has taken control over a fleet of several thousand new buses for use as "trouble-shooters" wherever needed for additional transit facilities develop. All integral-type buses are not yet disposed of by manufacturers, as well as those still to be built, are affected by the plan. The buses will be sold only as authorized by ODT.

In a further step to permit the free movement of farm products and supplies during harvest season, ODT has issued a general permit relieving common carriers when engaged in such service from the necessity of clearing their trucks through joint information offices. Exemptions become void after Oct. 31.

OPA's canned fruit and berry regulation lifting wholesale and retailer price ceilings between 15 and 25 per cent from their prevailing March ceiling levels, was made last Saturday by Price Administrator Henderson. Maximum price regulation 197 passes on to the consumer only the actual increases in raw material and labor costs over the expense of packing such products in 1941. The regulation became effective yesterday.

In order to help obtain additional truck facilities for transporting petroleum products, OPA has extended to Sept. 1 the effective date for price ceilings on transportation by tank trucks other than common carriers.

In order to prevent a sudden, sharp advance in retail lamb prices, OPA has placed a 60-day temporary ceiling on lamb at the wholesale and retail sales levels. Temporary maximum price regulation No. 29 sets the wholesale and retail ceiling at the highest price charged by each seller, to purchasers of the same class, during the period July 27 to 31, 1942.

A simplified system of issuing sugar purchase certificates to industrial users who make numerous deliveries to certain exempt government agencies has been announced by OPA in amendment 7 to rationing order 3. Instead of requiring an industrial user to present receipts of each delivery made, local boards may accept other evidence of deliveries.

FDR May Appeal To Indian Revolt Heads

FDR Vetoed Rubber Bill, Names Agency

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Asserting it would block progress of the war effort President Roosevelt vetoed today legislation to create an independent agency to stimulate production of rubber from grain and simultaneously created a committee to look into the whole rubber problem.

Bernard M. Baruch, who was head of the War Industries Board in the last war, will be chairman of the committee named to recommend the best program to produce the synthetic rubber necessary for the war effort and for essential civilian uses.

By The Associated Press
A deadlock in the crisis arising from India's demand for immediate independence from Great Britain appeared inevitable today amid conjecture that President Roosevelt might address an eleventh-hour appeal to India not to complete the task of those who are fighting for the preservation of human freedom.

The quotation is from Secretary of State Hull's recent broadcast, in which Mr. Hull, without mentioning India by name, emphasized that American sympathy for freedom-seeking peoples was reserved for those who "by their acts show themselves worthy of it."

In a session starting tomorrow, barring a last-minute compromise, the All-India Congress is expected to authorize Mohandas K. Gandhi to lead India's 390,000,000 in a struggle on non-violent lines on the widest possible scale against British rule.

The chances of a solution appeared meager.

In London, Sir Stafford Cripps, the prime minister's special representative, declared today that Britain intended to "preserve law and order" in India until after the war.

"The hard facts of war make a complete change in India's government impossible at the moment," Sir Cripps said.

In Bombay, the All-India Congress working committee was equally adamant, declaring it was hopeless to appeal to Britain again. Bombay observers agreed that the program for a mass civil disobedience campaign was almost certain to be ratified by the All-India Congress tomorrow.

In Washington, the state department watched the ominous turn of events closely.

Officials avoided comment, however, either on India's proposal of whole-hearted cooperation with the Allies if independence is granted, or on British charges that Gandhi and most of his colleagues were "appeasers" of Japan.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, former president of the All-India Congress party, told an audience of 10,000 Indians in Bombay that "the first step should be for Britain to withdraw," but declared that did not mean that Allied armies should leave India.

"We Should Not Hesitate To Take Life Of Traitor"

DETROIT, Aug. 6 (AP)—Max Stephan, first person in 159 years to be convicted of treason in the United States, was sentenced in federal court today to be hanged.

U. S. District Judge Arthur J. Tuttle directed that Stephan, German-born American citizen, be hanged on Nov. 13, 1942, within the walls of the federal detention prison at Milan, Mich.

Stephan was convicted in federal court here of aiding the flight of a Nazi flier escaped from a Canadian concentration camp.

"The life of this traitor, Max Stephan, is less valuable than the lives of our loyal sons who are being given in the cause of the United States," said Judge Tuttle in pronouncing sentence.

"We have been too soft, to the extent of being mushy. There are too many in the so-called traitor list who are not loyal sons of the United States," said Judge Tuttle in pronouncing sentence.

First Absentee Ballot Cast Here Yesterday

Absentee voting in Gray county for the second primary of August 22 was started late yesterday afternoon, when J. L. Gatewood of Pampa turned in the first absentee ballot, prepared earlier that day by a subcommittee of the Gray County Democratic Executive committee.

County Clerk Charlie Tate said he expected to mail out 180 absentee ballots before today ended.

The official ballot for absentee voting contains these names:
For United States senator, W. Lee O'Daniel, James V. Alford.
For lieutenant governor, John Lee Smith, Harold Beck.
For state treasurer, W. Gregory Hatcher, Jesse James.
For railroad commissioner, unexpired term, Pierce P. Brooks, Beauford H. Jester.
For chief justice of court of civil appeals, seventh supreme judicial district, E. C. Nelson, E. L. Pitts.
For sheriff, Jess Hatcher, G. H. Kyle.
For commissioner precinct 2, H. C. Coffee, John Haggard.
For constable, precinct 1, LeFors, George Hawthorne, Henry Shoffit.

August 19 is the last day for absentee voting.

The unofficial ballot for the August 22 primary will be prepared by the county committee after the state committee certifies winners in state races and canvasses the returns of the July 25 primary. Ballots will be mailed today.

Kid Gangs In Los Angeles Arouse City

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (AP)—City and county authorities have united in a rigorous campaign to wipe out sporadic warfare between juvenile gangs which was climaxed by the fatal beating of one youth in a clash of rival mobs at a birthday party.

More than a score of youths have been detained for questioning in the death of Jose Diaz, 22, in a gang fight on a ranch near here early Sunday. The fight took place, police were told, when one mob attempted to break up a birthday party being staged by another group of youths.

The fatal battle took place after months of less serious uprisings among youthful neighborhood gangs, composed chiefly of boys and girls from 14 to 22, of Mexican descent.

Police Inspector E. M. Lester, director of the juvenile control divisions, said there are probably 25 or more juvenile gangs operating in Los Angeles and environs, "at least half a dozen of them real toughies." He said the situation has been building up for months.

"First they fought with fists," he commented. "Then they graduated to rock-throwing, and now they're using clubs and occasionally even knives or guns."

Even as the grand jury and law enforcement agencies tackled the PORT SMITH, Ark., Aug. 6 (AP)—Charging the national administration and labor groups worked "hand in hand against us" on the recent congressional fight over farm parity prices, President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation said today farmers should "wake up to what is happening in this country."

"No farmer could have observed the labor groups and the administration working together in the recent battle over farm prices without being gravely concerned," O'Neal said in a speech prepared for delivery at a farm rally here today.

He censured the administration for not putting a ceiling on wages and warned that "there is at least a possibility that the recent wage increases granted to steel workers may be the match to set off a whole string of wage increases that will pop like firecrackers."

Mysterious Murray Appears Before Senate Committee
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—A mysterious Mr. Murray told a senate military subcommittee today of a formula for making concrete submerges so secret that he didn't want the official stenographer to take down what he said.

After Chairman Lee (D-Okla.) waited 45 minutes for the man to appear for a public hearing, the inventor, chemist or whatever he was, asked for an executive session, declined to identify himself without the hearing of reporters and told Lee he would prefer that the stenographer not record his remarks. His request for the closed hearing was granted.

Before the man appeared, Lee said he understood he had, not so much plans for a submarine itself, but a formula for water-proofing concrete for use in making a submarine. He was the only one heard today in the subcommittee's inquiry into war cargo-carrying possibilities.

City Asks Tree Limbs Be Trimmed

In these days of tree conservation more people are walking to work from town as they go to work and do their shopping.

But on many of Pampa's streets it is a hazardous business—this walking.

That's because of overhanging tree branches that hit you in the face, knock off your hat or glasses if you're not exceedingly careful.

City officials indicate that they may take some action if property owners do not trim their trees so that no limbs hang nearer than six and one-half feet from the sidewalk.

City Manager Steve Matthews today issued an appeal to all property owners to cut their branches and remove this barrier to safe walking.

It takes only a few minutes to do the job and may be the means of saving injury to the eyes of some pedestrian.

Congress Ought To Junk Army Contract System, Says George

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee expressed the opinion today that congress ought to junk the present system of negotiating military contracts and establish an over-all limitation on war profits.

George's statement was prompted by an appeal by Henry B. Ferner of Montclair, N. Y., for repeal of provision of the law which permit the army and navy to renegotiate contracts to scale down profits.

Speaking for the American Mining Congress, the witness said this provision created confusion and interfered with operations of the excess profits levies of the tax laws.

George interjected to say that he believed that the renegotiation provision was "entirely unworkable," adding that the committee was going to have to deal with the question of its repeal.

Before the committee met George had said that a good many members were "very much interested" in a sales tax in their search for additional revenue.

Higgins Got Dirty Deal, Says Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Senate advocates of a cargo-carrier expansion program that would combat the submarine menace searched today for a solution of the steel problem, which led the Maritime Commission to swamp the plan of A. J. Higgins, New Orleans ship-builder, to make 200 Liberty ships.

The defense investigating committee called Reese Taylor, chief of the iron and steel division of the War Production Board, to tell what he could of the steel supply and allocations.

Chairman Truman (D-Mo.), meanwhile, condemned the navy department's bureau of ships for "negligence and willful misconduct" in dealing with a "vehemently important" problem, which led the Maritime Commission to swamp the plan of A. J. Higgins, New Orleans ship-builder, to make 200 Liberty ships.

Truman also accused the Bureau of Ships of "biased and prejudiced treatment" of the Higgins industries in insisting that the shipyard use models of the bureau's design "despite the repeated failures thereof."

What the committee sought to learn today was why the Maritime Commission had to cancel the Higgins contract for assembly line production of Liberty ships. The commission gave a shortage of steel as the reason.

The military affairs subcommittee of Senator Wash Lee (D-Okla.) took up a proposal to build cargo-carrying submarines of concrete, but Lee said his main concern, like that of Truman, was the steel situation.

Tires May Be Harder To Get In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6 (AP)—Press reports in Mexico are foreshadowing a stricter regulation of the purchase of tires in this country by foreign automobile owners.

One—the most authoritative—said that a permit from the ministry of national economy would be needed before tires bought in Mexico could be taken out.

This report says a device tightening restrictions had already been prepared by the ministers and submitted to President Avila Camacho for approval.

At present foreign tourists are allowed to buy tires in Mexico on an order from one of the automobile associations. These orders are issued if the tourist's own tires become unserviceable while in Mexico. Once the tires are bought, Mexico makes no objection to taking them out of the country, although the United States requires that they be driven at least 1,000 miles before they are brought in.

The report said export permits for tires would be issued by the national economy ministry if tourists' tires became unusable in Mexico, but that steps would be taken to reduce the sale of tires near the border, where sales have doubled in the past few months.

There also reports that domestic consumption of rubber would be rationed and that further restrictions would be placed on the export of other rubber articles in addition to tires.

Petroleum totaling 27,000,000 metric tons were produced in 1940 by Venezuela, which ranks third in petroleum production.

Panhandle Man Elected Jaycee Regional Head

Paul D. Dollarhide of Panhandle has been elected executive vice-president of region 6 of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds William Pearce of Lubbock who recently resigned to join the armed forces.

As vice-president in charge of local affairs, a position to which he was appointed by John Ben Shepper, state Jaycee president, Dollarhide will be in charge of local club projects and will represent Pampa, Brownfield, Borger, Snyder, Panhandle, Plainview, Lubbock, and Amarillo.

Dollarhide was elected executive vice president at a regional meeting held in Lubbock, when the region was organized to assist in recruiting aviation cadets, a program that has been adopted by the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce on a state-wide basis.

Col. M. B. Durette, commanding officer of the West Texas recruiting district, was present for the meeting and discussed with state officials the program for encouraging army and air corps enlistments in West Texas.

Following the business session the state officials were entertained at the air base in Lubbock by the army air corps officers.

Raspberry Changes Name
COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 6 (AP)—Ernest Pershing Raspberry has petitioned the Muscogee superior court to change his surname to "Berry."

His petition said the change was desired because "when petitioner is introduced socially or his name is called in public or in private, he is instantly looked upon in the spirit of puns, jokes and jests—all to his humiliation and embarrassment and annoyance."

Political Calendar
The Pampa News has been authorized to present the names of the following citizens as candidates for office, subject to the action of the Democratic voters, at their primary election Saturday, Aug. 22, 1942:

- For Sheriff: JESS HATCHER
- G. H. KYLE
- For County Commissioner Precinct 2: JOHN HAGGARD
- H. C. COFFEY
- For Constable Precinct 1: GEO. HAWTHORNE

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—The bullish angle of today's stock market, as in many recent sessions, was that bad news touched off no important liquidation and, on the other hand, enough investment demand remained to keep favored issue on solid ground.

Trends were indefinite in the closing hour, with minor fractional gains and losses pretty evenly divided. Numerous issues held at Wednesday's final levels.

Bethlehem Steel did not open until after 2 p. m. It was up a shade.

Stocks ahead at one time or another included American Telephone, Southern Railway, Texas Co., U. S. Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Boeing, and Douglas Aircraft.

Among occasional losers were duPont, Standard Oil (N.J.), Anaconda, Sears Roebuck, Owens-Illinois, Johns-Manville, American Can, Westinghouse, and Goodrich.

want to adhere to Germany?" "The court sees only one answer," the judge said. "It is the affirmative. Disloyal citizens know even better than the court does that a prisoner sentenced to life is eligible to pardon after 15 years and also that after the war such prisoners usually are paroled or their sentence commuted."

Judge Tuttle said it was now impossible to impose a sentence that would "teach Max Stephan a lesson so he won't do it again."

He said, "there was nothing more that Stephan could have done in the way of helping Hans Peter Krug (the escaped pilot) get back to Germany."

The courtroom was packed as the first man convicted of treason since the famous "whiskey rebellion" was brought before the federal judge for sentence.

Stephan, wearing the wrinkled gray suit in which he had spent through his trial four weeks ago, gave no evidence of emotion when he heard his fate pronounced.

When he was summoned before the bench, he rose quickly and came forward, though he had anything to say, the convicted traitor, in guttural tones, asserted:

"All I have to say is that I am not guilty of treason. That is all."

When the judge read off the sentence that gives Stephan only a little more than three months to live, a hush descended on the courtroom. There was no demonstration.

At Lansing, Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan said that he would make no move to intervene in the death sentence meted out to Stephan. Michigan law does not provide for capital punishment, and in 1938, when Anthony Chebatoris was hanged by the federal government for violation of the national bank robbery act, Frank Murphy, then governor of Michigan, contended that the hanging should take place in some other state.

"If Stephan has got to die, Michigan soil is no different than any other," Van Wagoner said today.

The 49-year-old Detroit restaurateur who boasted that his love for the fatherland was stronger than that for his adopted country was found guilty July 2 by a federal jury court of aiding a Nazi air force prisoner of war who fled from a Canadian concentration camp.

"Although I have become an American citizen," he once said, "my blood is German. I am not sorry for what I have done and I would do it again."

Stephan was taken into custody April 21 by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents after 21-year-old Oberleutnant Krug passed through Detroit in an attempt to reach Mexico and thence Germany after his escape.

He was first charged with unlawfully harboring an alien, a misdemeanor, but was the direction of Attorney General Francis Biddle, he subsequently was indicted for treason which accused him of 13 overt acts which gave "aid and comfort to an enemy in time of war."

Krug, who was recaptured in San Antonio, Tex., by FBI agents, was the government's most important witness. He told of his escape April 16 from the concentration camp at Bowmanville, Ont., of reaching Windsor and crossing the Detroit river in a stolen rowboat. Arriving here April 18, he contacted a German alien, Mrs. Margareta Bertelmann, whose address he obtained from packages she had sent to the camp. Mrs. Bertelmann in turn contacted Stephan, who later met and took him on a sightseeing trip of the city, before placing him aboard a Chicago-bound bus where he began his argosy to New York, Philadelphia, Memphis and finally San Antonio.

stressed the bloody toll inflicted on the invaders.

In the Kletskaya sector, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the Red army threw back repeated attacks and killed 1,200 Germans. Night-riding Cossacks dashed into a Caucasus village, slaughtered more than 600 Germans and disappeared widely in the darkness. Soviet cavalry cut down untold numbers of Nazi parachute troops who dropped behind Russian lines in groups of 100 and 150.

But although Moscow commentators hinted at the impending Russian counter-offensive, one Hitler's big push has lost its momentum, there was still no indication that the Red armies were able to do more than fight a stubborn retreat in sector after sector.

Amid this gloomy outlook, Maj. Gen. Follett Bradley, former chief of the first air force, U. S. eastern defense command, arrived in Moscow with a letter from President Roosevelt to Premier Stalin.

"I am here to facilitate any possible way to make aid to Russia more effective," said Bradley, who piloted his own plane, a B-24 bomber, part of the way on a 10-day flight from Washington.

Observers believe his arrival foreshadowed intensified American aerial aid for the Red armies.

FDR Grants Girl's Wish To Christen New Naval Vessel

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—The dream of an obscure Brooklyn girl, expressed in a letter to the president of the United States, will come true Saturday for 22-year-old Elsie D. Papajohn when she sponsors a new naval vessel.

"Is it necessary for a person to be well-known to christen a ship?" she had asked in her letter. "You see, sir, I am asking this question because I've always had an ambition to christen a ship even before the war, but more so now that I know our ships are going out to help destroy our enemies. x x x"

Miss Papajohn said her father, Michael, an artist, and her mother, were natives of Greece, although she was born in Brooklyn, and that her brother, Walter, a private in the U. S. army, is attending officers' training school.

The letter was forwarded by the White House to Captain J. M. Irish, supervisor of shipbuilding for the third naval district.

And so Elsie Papajohn will wield the champagne bottle when the new navy minesweeper, YMS-183, is launched at Greenport, Long Island.

Wedding Ring Lost In Courthouse Grass

EDINBURG, Aug. 6 (AP)—Search for that legendary needle in the haystack has been under way on the carpet-grass lawn of the Hidalgo county courthouse for several days, and thus far it hasn't been found.

It started when Corporal William V. Sears of Moore field and Miss Ruby Iris Gilliam of Edinburg decided to be married late one night. They successfully made contact with Deputy County Clerk Julio Guzman of Edinburg, who agreed to go to the courthouse and issue a marriage license. They were also successful in getting Justice of the Peace T. E. Jaspersen to come to the courthouse.

Accompanying them were Mrs. Kenneth Peasley, the wife of a Moore field corporal. Everything was ready, until they realized they lacked a ring. Finally, Mrs. Peasley offered to lend Corporal Sears and Miss Gilliam her wedding ring.

After the ceremony, the party was walking across the courthouse lawn. The ring was too tight and Mrs. Sears took it off to hand it to the owner. During the exchange, the ring was dropped into the deep carpet grass.

Three hours of search that night by the entire wedding party failed to locate the ring. Mrs. Peasley returned to the search next day with two dog-sweepers. Next day, the next day, a small group of friends covered that patch of carpet grass blade by blade, but still no ring. Mrs. Peasley wants everybody to know that if a wedding ring with three diamonds of 1 1/2 carats is found in that corner of the Hidalgo county courthouse lawn, it's hers.

FDR VETOES

ated a certain amount of rubber to be made from both agricultural products and petroleum, Mr. Roosevelt said that both types of plants now are being constructed and that others are planned for construction "at the greatest possible speed."

The president said that to take the problem out of the hands of an experienced board with an over-all knowledge of military and civilian needs would disrupt a unified and expeditious war production program.

The production of rubber from grain, even under the present program, Mr. Roosevelt said, would require almost 100,000,000 bushels. Despite great grain reserves, he added, we must bear in mind a steadily expanding demand for grain for the making of food for the armed services of both the United States and the other United Nations.

Discussing creation of the three-man committee, the president spoke of confusion over the rubber situation, saying:

"In recent months there have been so many conflicting statements of fact concerning all the elements of the rubber situation—statements from responsible government agencies as well as from private sources—that I have set up a committee of three men to investigate the whole situation—to get the facts—and to report them to me as quickly as possible with their recommendations."

"This committee will immediately proceed to study the present supply, the estimated military and essential civilian needs, and the various processes being urged; and they will recommend processes to be used, not only in the light of need for rubber, but also in the light of critical materials required by these processes."

"In a sense this will require a review of the program now being followed by the War Production board. It will form a basis for future action not only with respect to synthetic rubber, but also such matters as nation-wide gas rationing and motor transportation."

The chief executive emphasized that meanwhile the manufacture of synthetic rubber from oil and grain would continue "without interruption."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was "just as determined as anyone" to get rubber and get it as quickly as possible, but he added that it was necessary to "weigh the need for factories to care for civilian luxuries against the needs of our fighting forces."

"Therefore," he told the senate, "to take the determination of this question away from a board which is equipped by personnel and by experience and by an over-all knowledge of all our military and civilian needs, and to place it in an agency which is concerned principally with the manufacture of only one commodity, rubber, is in itself a disruption of a unified and expeditious production program. To go further, and to say that these materials can be taken away from ships and guns and ammunition and put to work producing rubber, so that some people might use it for automobiles for idle-hour pleasure, is to fly in the face of the realities of the present grave military situation which threatens all the world and civilization itself."

lots issued here to the county clerk are for absentee voting alone. The ballot of the primary proper will be drafted after the meeting of the state committee, scheduled for Monday.

Names of state candidates appearing on the absentee ballot here were drawn in accordance with reliable but technically unofficial information from state party leaders, and the county absentee ballot carries the same state candidates names as that for Potter county.

The reason for the preparation of the absentee ballot here in advance of the state committee's meeting was to facilitate absentee voting, which began Sunday. Had the ballot not been prepared, this would have meant absentee voting could not have begun before Aug. 10, possibly several days later, which would have cut the 17-day absentee voting period down to 12 days or less.

Tax Valuation Of Gray Cut $179,877

A decrease of 3 cents on the county tax levy and a decrease of $179,877 in the estimated assessed valuation of the county for 1943 have been noted in the 1943 budget. Gray county which has been filed with County Clerk Charlie Thut.

For the year beginning January 1, 1943, and ending December 31, 1943, the estimated assessed valuation of the county is $28,600,000. The decrease in valuation from 1942 is based on 60 per cent of the market value of property assessed, and the proposed county tax levy is 60 cents on the $100 valuation, a decrease of 3 cents.

Total amount of county taxes levied for this budget is $171,600. Of this amount $93.36 per cent, or $160,205, will be collected within the current tax year, and it is estimated that $7,100 will probably be delinquent on July 1, 1943.

Net outstanding bond and time warrant debt of Gray county on January 1 of this year was $1,192,000. On January 1, 1943, it is estimated this will be reduced to $855,000.

U. S. Fighter Bags Japanese 'Photo Joe'

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 6 (AP)—American fliers who shot down six Japanese planes in recent battles over the Gona-Buna area of New Guinea told today of a special prize they bagged—a "photo Joe."

They reported downing five Japanese naval Zero fighters and said the sixth plane—a twin-engine craft—unmistakably was a reconnaissance plane used by the Japanese for high altitude photography.

A formation of five United States medium bombers encountered the photography plane before meeting the Zeros.

Lieut. J. S. Kale of Bellingham, Wash., and Seattle, said "photo Joe" flew out of a cloud toward us as bold as anything. He knew we were in formation, probably under orders, so we wouldn't take after him."

"What he forgot," said Kale, "was our fighter escort above. My tail gunner, Sergeant Bemricken saw three fighters sweep down on photo Joe. He didn't have a chance then,

Nazi Lie Made Suckers Out Of U. S. Announcers

By PETER EDSON

While the soft pedal of censorship is definitely down on U. S. moves in psychological warfare, it is possible to take a peek at some of the Nazi tricks in this field to see what is meant when this new, fancy phrase of 1942 is bandied about by parlor generals in civies.

Back in the middle of last winter, when the cold and ice and snow were spread over Russia lower and deeper than they had been at any time since Napoleon took his licking, the Berlin radio unexpectedly came out with a bulletin that the Soviet armies had launched a tremendous offensive. This news was picked up and repeated by German-controlled stations in France. For a day or two they had this information exclusively, because no one else could confirm it. Moscow was silent. Then the British and American listening services picked it up and put out cautious bulletins on the story, carefully attributing it to the source. That should have been sufficient warning to take it easy, but it wasn't. U. S. radio announcers broadcast it as a flat statement of fact, without mention of source. The resulting impression was that the Russians didn't need help from anyone, even in the dead of winter.

The United States at that time had not extended Lend-Lease aid to the Soviet. It was being discussed, and the whole question of aid to Russia was in the balance. Editorial remarks in newspapers, the words of the radio commentators, even the debate in congress at the time all showed, according to the analysts, that the necessity for aid to Soviet Russia was neither great nor urgent. In other words, by this planted story, the United States was lulled into false confidence in the superiority of Russian arms.

PLAYED FOR A SUCKER

Actually, the Russian armies had not stirred. They were frozen in just as tightly as the Germans and the only action was in the air. This country was played for a sucker, and swallowed the bait, from hook to reel.

This example may illustrate the essence of propaganda warfare, but it must not be taken as a pattern. Once a trick is learned, the assumption is that it's no longer a trick. The technique must be changed to provide surprise and unexpectedness. Use of the short wave radio to spread propaganda may have been so thin that it may not be ineffective. Other devices have to be used, and that is where the Germans are at their best. When the Nazis wanted to stage a recent propaganda blitz in Turkey, for instance, their key diplomatic representatives simply did some direct whispering in important ears and started a wave of rumors that caused all kinds of turmoil.

The importance of propaganda warfare can, however, be overemphasized. To become really effective, propaganda warfare must be extended into psychological warfare, which is war plus the psychological factor. The first condition that caused all kinds of turmoil is direct contact between the two opposing armies. One reason more has not been heard about U. S. psychological warfare is that U. S. forces have not been in constant combat with the Germans or the Japs. So again, examples must be taken from German practice.

TERROR TACTICS TRIED

The over-destruction of Rotterdam, just to spread terror among the Dutch, Belgians and French, is a case in point. There is warfare, plus the psychological factor.

German psychological warfare can go haywire, too. Starving the conquered people, attempting to terrorize them into submission, have backfired and built up resistance to Nazi domination. Blitz bombings of Britain served to strengthen British resistance.

But for an example of how psychological warfare should not be waged, a recent announcement from U. S. headquarters in London offers a fair case. When the first U. S. army air force units took part in a raid on Germany not long ago, it was made the occasion for a communique of importance. Only a few planes took part, but this signified the beginning of active U. S. participation. The catch was that about a third of the U. S. planes were shot down, and did the German radio have a field day with that.

Women Telephone Operators Strike

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6 (P)—Long distance telephone service was impaired seriously today, except for war industries and other essential activities, as an estimated 1,500 women operators joined the strike of 2,100 Ohio Bell Telephone Co. maintenance and repair men.

Mrs. Therese Donehey, president of the Northeast Ohio Traffic county council, reported about 1,000 operators joined the walkout in the Cleveland area and an additional 500 in the Akron-Canton-Youngstown area.

So crippled was service in these cities that Mrs. Donehey appealed to operators to maintain at least skeleton crews at all exchanges so essential services would be continued.

Operators, like the striking maintenance and repair employees, recently asked a $5 increase in weekly wages. Operators' wages now range from $18 to $29 a week.

12-Year-Old Stumps Gasoline Board

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 6 (P)—A formal application for "one gallon of gasoline each six months" has stumped the local ration board.

The applicant is Clark Wesson, 12, who has a thimble-sized gasoline engine for operating a model airplane.

Conceding that the quantity sought wouldn't interfere with the war effort, Board Chairman Michael J. O'Hara said no machinery existed for authorizing purchases of such small quantities.

He has sent a "what to do" message to Washington.

Hungry Seamen Vainly Try To Catch Wild Jackasses

AN EAST COAST PORT, Aug. 6 (AP)—Wild jackasses on an otherwise uninhabited Caribbean isle looked good enough to eat to 47 survivors of an American merchantman after drifting 32 days in a lifeboat, but the exhausted men, plagued by hunger and thirst, were too weak to catch them.

The cavorting long-eared animals, however, saved the mariners by leading the way to a water hole, survivors said on finally reaching American soil yesterday—39 days after the ship was torpedoed by a U-boat far out in the Atlantic.

After two days on the desolate isle, they sailed on to an inhabited island and were taken to the Bahamas aboard the yacht of Betty Carstairs, noted English speedboat enthusiast.

The sinking of their craft, officially announced by the navy yesterday together with that of another U. S. ship and a British vessel, raised the Associated Press tabulation of announced wartime ship losses in the western Atlantic area to 414.

Tapicoa Scares California Residents

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6 (AP)—A plane swooped low and residents found thousands of little pill-like objects on the ground.

Fearing some weird Japanese weapon, they called police. Laboratory experts studied the white pills and decided:

"It's tapicoa."

The pellets didn't come from the plane; small boys had been using them in slingshots and pea-shooters.

RAF Bombs Ruhr

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The RAF's big night bomber squadrons, determined on destroying Germany's arsenal in any weather, smashed at the Ruhr valley last night for the second time running, the air ministry announced today. The weather still was bad and British sources said the night air operations were not on a large scale. The communique reported five of the raiders were missing.

No Surrender Dutch Motto Says Queen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (P)—Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, the first queen in her own right to visit the United States, told congress today that "no surrender" remains the motto of her people, suffering though they are under the alien rule of an invader in Asia and in Europe.

The grandmotherly monarch, addressing a joint session of the house and senate, said: "Imagine what it means for a liberty-loving country to be in bondage, for a proud country to be subject to harsh alien rule."

"What would be the American answer if an invader tried to cover his wholesale systematic pillage with the firing squad, the concentration camp and the abomination of the hostage practice?"

The 61-year-old queen, who issued a proclamation of "flaming protest" and sent her armies into battle when the German forces invaded Holland in May, 1940, continued:

"I doubt not that your answer would be: resistance, resistance until the end, resistance in every practicable shape or form.

"This is exactly the answer my people have given, and are giving every day. Inside occupied territory and outside, the fight goes on." The Netherlands government forced to flee has set up headquarters in London.

The queen came from London in mid-June by bomber, her first trans-Atlantic crossing. She landed in Ottawa. With her daughter, Crown Princess Juliana, and two granddaughters, she has been staying at Lee, Mass. She arrived here yesterday for an official White House visit.

Wilhelmina told the legislators that the Netherlands is in the war with the United States and the other United Nations to the last.

"United we stand and united we will achieve victory," she said.

In carrying on resistance, she said the Netherlands was using its resources to the best of its abilities. She reported that stubborn resistance continues in the Indies.

"Our navy is on duty every day," she said. "Our mercantile marine, still one of the largest, has been completely integrated in the navigational effort of the United Nations, fighting off Axis submarines and raiders in close companionship with your own brave seafaring men."

Explaining the Netherlands peace aims, the queen said:

"We want nothing that does not belong to us. We want to resume our place as an independent nation on the fringe of the Atlantic, on the dividing line of the Pacific and the Indian oceans and to remain your good neighbors in the Caribbean sea, and we accept the responsibilities resulting from that situation."

"And above all, we want to see suitable measures taken in order that henceforth no nation may think it can, with impunity, break its pledged word or attack others."

Pelley Found Guilty, Faces Prison Term

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 6 (AP)—William Dudley Pelley, convicted on 11 counts of criminal sedition and conspiracy and facing a possible maximum sentence of 220 years in prison, based his hopes for freedom today on a new trial.

A motion for a new trial will be filed within three days, Defense Attorney Floyd Christian said, and if it is denied the case will be appealed promptly to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The spruce little man who once headed the Silver Shirts of America was convicted last night by a federal court jury which also convicted two business associates, Lawrence A. Brown and Miss Agnes Marian Henderson. Brown and Miss Henderson were found guilty of one count of conspiracy to commit sedition.

The three were officers of the Fellowship Press, a publishing house at Noblesville, Ind., where Pelley's magazine, The Gallant, was printed once a week. The government charged statements in The Gallant were made "willfully to cause or attempt to cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny, and refusal of duty (in U. S. military forces), and also to obstruct recruiting."

Pelley did not appear to be ruffled when the jury returned its verdict after three hours and 15 minutes of deliberation, although he faces possible sentences of 20 years, plus $10,000 fines, on each of the 11 counts.

Judge Robert E. Baltzell said he would pronounce sentence next Wednesday.

New Men's Dormitory Open At West Texas

Special To The NEWS
CANYON, Aug. 6—Terrill hall, built originally as an NYA dormitory, will become a West Texas State college cooperative for men when the fall semester opens on Sept. 22.

Prof. and Mrs. Milton Morris will be host and hostess, respectively, of the new boarding place. Advance room reservations will be taken by Mrs. Morris whose address is Box 803, Canyon. Room and board is payable in four installments.

The new dormitory is located just north of Buffalo courts and is made of native stone. It will be refurnished and the grounds will be landscaped before fall. Residents of the cooperative will manage the adjacent dining hall. Each man will work an agreed number of hours each week in the maintenance of the property and operation of the dining hall.

Terrill hall will have a capacity of 36 college men, in addition to the host and hostess.

Did You Flunk Drivers License Test? Here Are Correct Answers

By RICHARD WEST
Associated Press Staff

The Texas Department of Public Safety, as a part of its wartime activity, intends to cut down on this serious business of killing people on the highways. Such killings do not help win the war.

In 1940, 1,757 persons were killed and 9,101 injured at an economic cost of more than $50,000,000. Fifty million dollars would buy a lot of war bonds.

The key to safety is the person behind the wheel.

The person behind the wheel must have a driver's license, and if you don't have a driver's license... brother, you're in for it.

You have to take an examination that's tough and the chances are you'll flunk it two or three times before you get your "diploma." This writer knows; he took it. He flunked the first time.

Most vehicles are safe—if driven correctly.

That's why the state is so finicky about your license. It denotes your car is safe and that you know something about the vehicle and about driving rules and that you yourself are mentally and morally capable of being a driver.

The theory is working.

For the first six months of this year Texas traffic deaths were fewer than during any similar period since accurate records were started in 1938—688 compared with 863 a year ago.

with the application of the driver for a license, showing his score in the examination and detailing any arrests and convictions for violation of motor vehicle laws.

The department means business. In the last five months nearly 2,000 licenses have been revoked in Texas.

Of this total, 1,500 were suspended because the owners were driving while intoxicated.

Mildly speaking, your examination is an ordeal—worse than that calculus final you took in college.

It consists of four parts: a road test, an eye test, strict written exam on road rules and a stricter driving demonstration during which you are accompanied by a state examiner.

If you think you know so much about your automobile and about Texas road rules, see what you can do with this.

What essential equipment must your car have?

What equipment must your car not have?

Name four things you must do when you are involved in an accident.

How quickly should your foot and hand brake stop your car?

What are the day and night speed limits in cities and on highways? (Sixty per cent flunk this one.)

On highways what does a yellow octagonal sign mean? A yellow diamond sign? A yellow circle? A yellow square? A black and white square and rectangular sign? (Fifty per cent flunk this.)

In what places on the highway must you never drive to the left of the center of the roadway?

When you must never pass and overtake a car?

How do you park when you are headed downhill? Headed uphill?

What does a blinking red traffic light mean? A blinking yellow light?

If you're driving on a slippery highway and start skidding, what should you do?

If you don't know the answers, you'll flunk your driver's test.

1942-43 Rate For BCD Cut To 9 Cents

Apportionment of delinquent tax collections of the city to the Pampa Board of City Development for 1942-43 will be at the lowest rate since 1933.

For the current year, the rate will be 9 cents on the $100 valuation. Last year the rate was 12 cents; in 1933, 7. The rate was set when the budget was presented at a joint meeting of the BCD and the city commission.

Reduction of the rate naturally is reflected in the amount of the budget which has been cut 25 per cent under last year. The new figure is $7,500 for the combined BCD and chamber of commerce.

In the past, work of the BCD has centered around securing improved highways, but the war has terminated that activity for the present.

Housing, schools, and recreation will be projects of the association during the current year.

Sadler Entertains At Rotary Luncheon

Harley Sadler and members of his company presented the program for the regular weekly luncheon of the Pampa Rotary club Wednesday noon.

The famous West Texas showman is a Rotarian with a 15-year perfect attendance record.

Jerry Plunkett, 3 sang three songs, the last number "The White Cliffs of Dover," which was dedicated to M. K. Brown, English-born Pampa pioneer.

A juggling act by Captain Plunkett and accordion playing by Eddie Laverne were other parts of the program.

Attendance at the luncheon was 37. C. H. Everett of Ardmore, Okla., the Rev. James Todd of Panhandle, formerly of Pampa, Mr. Sadler of Sweetwater, and J. R. Phillips of Berger, were visiting Rotarians.

Guests were Clifford Braly, local attorney, and W. C. deCordova, city tax assessor-collector.

We'll Soon Know

The Red army has retreated deeper into the Caucasus, on one end of the great crescent-shaped battle-front, but on the other it has tightened and appears to have stalled the big Nazi drive.

The call of Stalin to stand and fight to the death is being heeded. His words alone will not win the battle, but it is not too much to hope that his message may inspire the resistance to stop the Germans short of victory—resistance such as saved Moscow last November.

There is much wishful thinking concerning the fighting in southern Russia. Pierre Van Paassen, noted analyst of foreign affairs, is on record in a current magazine article as saying that the Russians have secret armies of several hundred divisions waiting to pounce on the extended Nazi lines.

More deserving of attention is the assertion of the Communist party newspaper Pravda of Moscow that Germany is throwing its last resources into the offensive, adding that "the enemy is not so strong as it appears to some panic-mongers."

Russian Major General Zhuravlev, a keen military commentator for the Moscow News, declared "the day is approaching when the Red army will deliver a counter-blow."

We know that there may be sufficient Russian strength, or sufficient German weakness, to change Nazi advances into retreats. Hitler's resources are on the wane, which is precisely the reason he is seeking to break into the Caucasus now.

While Red Marshal Timoshenko appears to be throwing reserves into some of the hot spots along the line, indications are that he is still keeping back large reserves.

The Red marshal's withdrawal has been carried out in a masterful manner, which supports the belief that Timoshenko plans to deliver a heavy counter-blow at the right moment.

The mammoth battle will work out that way remains to be seen. We ought to know soon. The conflict has now reached a stage when a real showdown of strength is inevitable.

Now For The Verdict

American justice has leaned over backwards in the case of the Nazi agents sent to our shores on a mission of death and destruction.

The members of the supreme court interrupted their summer vacations to hurry back to Washington to hear appeals of the saboteurs to escape military judgment.

The court upheld the legality of their trial before the military commission set up by President Roosevelt and refused to free them by issuing a writ of habeas corpus.

President Roosevelt today still was studying the commission's findings. The prisoners are without further avenues of appeal. The sentence imposed by the commission will stand, unless changed by the president.

And whatever the outcome, the prisoners will know that nowhere else in the world would they have received fairer treatment.

A National War

Ours probably is as nearly perfect a selective service system as has been devised. Its administration has been remarkably intelligent and free from serious errors.

The drafting of men into the army is done by districts. By reason of differences in types of population, one district may exhaust its quota of eligibles, in any classification, and pass on to the next while there are tens of thousands, in other districts, not yet called.

This is a national war, not one of communities. Why not select for army service on that basis?

LIBERTY IMPERILED: Action by Musicians' Car High-Handed (Los Angeles Examiner)

Dr. Walter Damrosch, whose name spells union fairness and all that is best in American music, puts his finger squarely on the great fundamental issues involved in the Gestapo-like acts of James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, when he says in an appeal to Vice President Wallace:

"In the light of important world events, I would hesitate to bring to your attention the plight of a group of young musicians in Michigan were it not for the fact that the issue at stake reaches the very heart of what we are now fighting for in all corners of the earth—freedom from dictatorship and one-man rule."

The "plight of the young musicians" to which Dr. Damrosch (who is himself a member of the American Federation of Musicians) refers was brought about by the high-handed action of Cesar Petrillo in forcing the National Broadcasting Company to cancel the fine choral programs of the young people of the National High School Orchestra at Interlochen, Mich., on the ground that they were not professional musicians.

As Dr. Damrosch pointed out, these high school players do not compete with professional musicians. They are too young to join the union."

This act, in contravention of liberty of the air and of fundamental American rights, was followed by the astounding order of Petrillo's Local 802 of New York City forbidding an ARMY BAND to play at the opening of the Times Square Service Men's Center, an Army activity.

Aside from the unpatriotic nature of these acts and the assumption of a totalitarian union dictatorship in Army music, these proceedings of Petrillo and his understrappers make our "Four Freedoms" program ridiculous.

The Administration should not tolerate tyranny of this type.

The "Four Freedoms" should begin AT HOME.

Common Ground

By R. O. HOLLERS

"I speak the past-word principal. I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms."

A GOOD LAW DOES INJUSTICE TO NO ONE. A defender of prohibition makes some statements that are evidence that the prohibitionist does not understand the essentials of a good law.

Here is the statement: "All laws curb one's freedom of action. Thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steal, curb your liberty and mind, but neither of us have felt aggrieved at the deprivations."

No, it has not curbed our freedom of action. We are not free to kill another unless it is in self-defense. Our liberty has not been curbed. There is no such thing as liberty or freedom without a related responsibility.

If I steal an automobile and the sheriff takes it from me, I have not lost my liberty because I had no liberty to steal and possess the automobile.

The same prohibitionist makes this statement: "Most laws do some injustice to some persons." If any law does an injustice to any person, it is not a good law. That is the real test of a law; whether it does injustice to any individual.

The great statesman, Solon, 500 years before Christ, in answering the question what is the most perfect popular government, answered by saying that, "Where the least injury is done to the meanest individual is considered an insult to the whole Constitution."

Any government, or any law, that does injury to any individual is not a good law.

This is the reason prohibition laws restricting production and distribution of liquor is not a good law. It makes a crime of an act that is not a crime. The use of alcohol in moderation is undoubtedly good for many people. Even most prohibitionists would permit doctors to prescribe it. That is admitting that it is good for some people.

But when it has to be used only with the consent of the state, then we have a nasty, political mess, that leads on and on to the belief that the bare majority has a right to tell an individual what is good for him to drink and to eat and eventually what to read and how to worship.

A law that attempts to prevent a man from stealing, by punishing him, does no injustice to any man. A law that attempts to prevent men from getting goods under false pretenses does no injustice to any man. No man has a natural right to attempt to get goods under false pretenses.

And a law against molesting and disturbing another does not do injustice to any person. No person has a natural right to do injustice or exploit another.

The supposed-to-be-rule of the greatest good to the greatest number to determine what is a good law is mere words that cannot be reduced to rules. It cannot be measured because there is no equal right for each individual as a norm of measurement. It is a collectivist way of determining right and wrong.

This euphonious meaningless phrase is exactly what Hitler and Stalin use as an excuse for taking away from an individual his inherent rights.

But true democracy and true Christianity respect the inherent personality and the right of choice of each and every man to choose so long as he does not interfere with another's equal rights.

The fact that even the prohibitionist would permit the manufacture and use of alcohol with a doctor's prescription, answers the prohibitionist's question as to whether I believe the buying and selling and using of liquor is an inherent right of humans. It certainly is. If it were not so in prohibition times, it could not be dispensed even with the prescription of a doctor.

No, any law that does an injustice or takes away the inherent rights from any individual should be repealed. We have so many of them that we have come to believe they are "O.K."

"Vice is a monster, of so frightful mien, As to be hated, needs but to be seen. But seen too oft, familiar with her face,

We first endure, then pity, then embrace." This test of the right kind of laws, of course, would eliminate most of the laws we have on our statutes because most of them do take away from an individual some of his inherent rights. But a true democratic government that only attempted to protect men's lives and property would have no laws that did any injustice to any man.

A government that only attempted to protect life and property would be a government that even a crook would publicly endorse. He would enter into a contract with others that they could punish him, if he violated this agreement. Yes, a real democratic government would be one with the consent of all the governed in their rational, deliberative moments.

perately to remain in the running for the republican Presidential nomination in 1944. Sometimes Mr. Willkie's overreaching ambitions lead him into crazy contradictions, but a solicitous press refrains from attracting attention to them.

Last week, for instance, Mr. Willkie enunciated a new doctrine, "I care not so much for what men say but when they say it, because that determines their courage, their imagination, and their leadership," said the Wall Street lawyer. Mr. Willkie made it clear that it matters not how ably and courageously a man supports the total prosecution of the war; if he didn't whoop it up for war before war came he just doesn't belong in public life.

Aside from the obvious nonsense in this kind of distinction, Mr. Willkie placed himself in a pretty untenable position. In the campaign of 1940, when his scouts reported the country to be overwhelmingly non-interventionist, Mr. Willkie launched a bitter attack on President Roosevelt's interventionist foreign policy.

"We do not want to send our boys over there again. We cannot and we must not undertake to maintain by force of arms the peace of Europe," orated Mr. Willkie at St. Louis on Oct. 17, 1940.

"We can have peace, but we must begin to preserve it," shouted Mr. Willkie at Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 11, 1940. "To begin with we shall not undertake to fight anybody else's wars. Our boys shall stay out of Europe. None of us is so simple as to think that Hitler is planning this moment to send an expeditionary force across the Atlantic. He is aware that if we make democracy strong here, his own system of blood and tyranny cannot survive forever."

Altho Mr. Willkie now insists that a candidate for office must have embraced the Roosevelt foreign policy before Pearl Harbor, he specifically denounced that policy in the 1940 campaign.

By his own definition of courage, imagination, and leadership, Mr. Willkie seems to have disqualified himself for public office. We hope so, and we hope the nation doesn't let him weasel out of his predicament by repeating his bland disavowal of all 1940 speeches as mere "campaign oratory."

One reason why Cecil Lansford wants to get back the billfold he lost here is that it has in it two blank passes to war plants in the Panhandle. He's afraid the wrong persons might get hold of the passes.

How many people from Oklahoma are working at the airforce school near here? Judging by the number of Oklahoma car licenses in town there must be a lot of workers who came to Pampa with the contractors, also from Oklahoma.

Miss Roy Riley, junior high school art teacher, is spending a vacation in Mexico City. "I love it and want to make this a hobby," she wrote.

Max Brewer who was a 13-year-old peewee if there ever was one when he left here five years ago came back to town yesterday with his folks who are moving back to Pampa. Max came back weighing 160 pounds and nearly six feet tall. He started on football and basketball teams at Weverka, Okla., and will attend the University of Oklahoma next term.

He has a job there. Max played end on the Weverka football team and forward on the basketball team, four starting players of which were Indians. Max is a real husky and has a chest that is a sight to see. When Max was in Junior high he and Billy Mounts, Jack Baker, Jimmy Schofer were inseparable buddies.

Billy Hawkins who is in the navy has sailed for an unspecified destination to make radio installations, his father has learned.

Apache War Cry Heard As Braves Join Army WHITE RIVER, ARIZ., Aug. 6 (AP)—For the first time since the Apaches themselves went on the warpath many years ago, the blood-chilling tribal war cry echoed over the reservation as 14 young Indians were sent to join the army.

In impressive ceremonies recalling the days when the Apaches were the most feared of Southwestern Indians, the tribe bade farewell to the recruits and admonished them to "fight like brave scouts."

News Behind The News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

STRIKE: A milder and a mellowed John L. Lewis may renew his offer of a peace embracing the squabbling factions both within and without the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. If he decides that the hour is opportune, he will extend his heavy paw at the October convention of the United Workers in Cincinnati.

The administration rejected a similar proposal when it was advanced last winter for fear—the bushy-haired leader suspects—that John L. would dominate any combination that was established. President Roosevelt countered by calling in William Green and Philip Murray, who were equally opposed to a triumphant return of the rebel. The anti-Lewis trio organized a War Labor Advisory committee that was designed to create the appearance of harmony, but with the U. M. W. chieftain forced to sing by himself. Proof that the hurriedly formed agency was only a "screen" is in its meeting once in April and not assembling again for a few weeks.

Meanwhile jurisdictional strife involving the Green and Murray unions has continued to the detriment of rearmament. Although the disputes concerned only a few workers the increased integration of industry since our entrance into the conflict transforms these stoppages into major hindrances and bottlenecks. Not one basic problem affecting relations between the front office and the shop has been solved except temporarily and tentatively.

And when Mr. Lewis appeals again to concord, the old pal and 1936 financial benefactor of the man in the White House will highlight this consideration.

LOYALTIES: John L. has not met the president for almost a year but does not appear to be embittered or downcast over his deliberate exclusion from the brawling labor family which F. D. R. has fostered since their 1940 break. The hostility which once marked the coal king's references to his old ally has waned. Sitting in his lonely watchtower a few blocks from the White House, he refrains stubbornly (though sometimes with difficulty) from hot comment on recent trends.

Privately he says he is "quite content" with his plight. His United Mine Workers union was never more powerful, numerically or financially, despite Phil Murray's refusal to repay the nine hundred thousand dollars alleged to be due the Lewis treasury. With a sphinx-like smile he opens the safe and shows the C. I. O. notes to close friends. His personal and industrial relations with management, as represented by such bigwigs as Myron C. Taylor, Eugene C. Grace and Ben Fairless are most satisfactory. Both sides have kept scrupulously prewar agreements the Welshman obtained on wage increases, the closed shop and the check-off.

His miners have responded to the government's call for sacrifice and hard work. Since Pearl Harbor they have dug ten per cent more anthracite than in a comparative 1940-41 period and twenty per cent more bituminous for factories and railroads. Their big boss is proud of that performance. Even New Deal sympathizers are troubled by Mr. Roosevelt's cold neglect of a figure who commands the loyalties of more than a million producing units of vital materials. And if they find the head man to be at all amenable they will suggest that he forgive, even if he cannot forget. Foreknowledge of these efforts accounts for Mr. Murray's latest overtures to Mr. Green. They want to sidetrack John L. for a second time.

PRICES: Gasoline rationing is slowly transforming the physical, social and economic landscape of the United States, according to government statistics. Since current data were obtained before inauguration of the more drastic curtailment on July 22nd, they present only a faint preview of eventual dislocations.

All agencies catering to or dependent on cars are suffering severely. Such fixtures as filling stations, small repair shops, restaurants, amusement centers and rural inns are dwindling in number from top to sixty per cent. The farther from congested areas the heavier the fatalities. At a few summer resorts, especially the beaches, cancelled reservations total almost one-half. National and state parks are hit hard, with attendance dropping two-fifths. Commonwealths, cities and public works, like bridges and tunnels, are squeezed. Besides losing revenue in the form of taxes, real estate values in sections accessible only by private transportation are dropping.

Community stores, notably independents, have profited though lower prices and greater variety of merchandise aid the chains. Buying habits are unbalanced. Housewives make large purchases over weekends, imposing a heavy drain on store personnel. Many order by phone and arrange for their husbands to pick up their packages on their way home. During the middle of the day there is a sharp fall-off in trade. The increasing populations of these cities and suburbs accentuate these problems, which are still in the embryonic stage.

TAPPED: The growing demand for more millions of men in the armed services will soon deplete institutions of learning, especially colleges. Army-navy deferment schemes for students are now undergoing scrutiny with a view to their revision or abolition.

Politics and departmental squabbling lay behind the origin of this system. Naval and military higher-ups contended that lads from eighteen to twenty, after a year or eighteen months of training, make the finest fighters. But at the time Selective Service was organized the admirals and generals feared that a draft of youngsters would be an unpopular move. The school lobby also warned that its classrooms would be deprived of needed revenue by such a summer Resourceful Frank Knox replied with the program in which an undergraduate enlists but finishes his studies before being called. As in old-fashioned stock and bond ads, there was a "catch" in this offer. In notices and in the contract itself there were printed in very minute type the warning that the applicant would be called in an emergency.

War Secretary Stimson was reluctant to follow the idea but he was forced by his navy rival's impulsive creation to adopt it. Otherwise the cream of the crop might have enlisted for sea duty. Now the day approaches when this reservoir of boys must be tapped. Professors and university presidents may oppose the program but several nationally known educators have been called quietly to Washington to work out a practical solution.

RAN: The general staff at Washington has complained repeatedly to London that the United Kingdom censors permit cabling of newspaper information which furnishes valuable tips to the Axis. On each occasion the foreign office has promised to crack down.

But within the last week the British allowed correspondents to wire articles on second front possibilities which Elmer Davis' Office of War Information had barred. By early Washington writer in the confidence of army and navy officials is cognizant of the various plans

TEX'S TOPICS

MOST persons you met yesterday were a bit jittery about the turn for the worse taken by the war news. We were told a month ago that the next 60 to 90 days would bring bad, extremely bad news for the Allies. This must be it. . . . But, we also were told that the worm will turn probably at a moment when we least expect it to turn. No. The thing to do is to keep the chin up and pitch in for the war effort wherever possible. . . . Those who have visited Washington recently say the nation's capital is expecting to be bombed in an all-out run. . . . The bombers, no doubt, will be members of a suicide squad.

Speaking of military objectives, it is not impossible that the Panhandle oil fields some day may be as important in this war as the Caucasus. Alarmist? Not necessarily. . . . If the Caucasus falls to the Nazis, there are those who say it will add five years to the duration of the war. . . . It can't last that long unless everything loses it. . . . In a cafe the other day we watched a man complain about the big, juicy steak the waitress brought him. . . . It didn't quite suit him. . . . It made us think of the women and children lining up for food rations in Nazi-occupied Europe—and not getting any! . . . You should complain! . . . I should complain! . . . Phooey! . . . Regardless of how it's being run and the mistakes that are being made, this still is a helluva good country!

ONE of the saddest news pictures observed in the papers lately was a long line of automobiles standing patiently behind a gasoline truck at a filling station in New York. . . . Motorists with tanks almost empty had started following that truck in the hope that it would lead them to a station where there was gas for sale. . . . The line had grown and grown until it ran for several blocks and numbered 70 cars. . . . It was funny, in a way, and yet somewhat pathetic. . . . It again reminded us of similar queues in European cities, not of cars, but of women, standing and waiting in the street for hours every day to get their pitiful food rations.

High on the list of minor war time fears for men is possibility of razor blade shortage. . . . Bostonian says he has a sharpener that enables him to get 800 shaves from one blade. . . . That's a lot of shaves from one blade. According to that claim a package of ten blades would last over 20 years!

WITH the hay fever season at hand, it's time to disclose that there's no such thing as hay fever. It's not a hay fever and there's no fever involved. . . . The real name for the eye-itching, nose-flowing, muscle-twitching malady is "seasonal pollenitis," direct relative of the allergies, which some people suffer year round because they are sensitive to dust, feathers, milk or something. . . . Chief hay fever offender is the rag weed, whose microscopic pollen fills the air, reaching height around Labor day. . . . Hundreds in Pampa are among sufferers, whose chief complaint is lack of sympathy from the immune.

In 1890 the government took only five cents of every dollar earned for taxes. No wonder they called them "the gay nineties." . . . In 1937 the government took 15% cents of every earned dollar for taxes. What they are taking now we can not say. . . . HOW right the man was who said:

"Lack is when preparation meets opportunity." . . . Put those words on a sign and hang it up in your son's room. . . . And your daughter's, too.

now under consideration. But each refrained from hinting at the specific locales which may be selected.

Tronic sidelight is that Frank Knox agreed to withhold publication of English ship sinkings because of journalistic protests on the other side. With such data prohibited to their newspapers, reporters and editors over there insisted that the ban be applied here.

Today's War Analysis

By DeWitt MacKenzie

World-Wide War Analysis The world-shaking crisis developing over the Indian Nationalist demand of absolute freedom from Britain gives added point to the following letter which I have received from Memphis, Tenn., regarding the stability of the British empire:

"Why you and other military experts continue to write as though England can win the war is beyond my understanding. England's true objective is to save the British empire as a whole. Unless England is successful in the end of the war, she cannot win that purpose she cannot win the war."

"The crushing defeat of the British in the Far East, climaxed by the fall of Singapore, will doubtless prove to be one of the most decisive campaigns in military history. Unquestionably it marks the beginning of the end of the British empire. England is therefore fighting a losing war, even if the armed forces of the Axis nations are ultimately defeated on the battlefields of the eastern hemisphere."

Well, is the British empire breaking up? We don't need to beat about the mulberry bush since there's no dark secret involved. Before we can answer, however, we must define "empire." Webster's New International dictionary says it is "characterized by the supremacy of a confederacy, or over its confederates, conquests and colonies."

That's clear enough, and viewing the query from this standpoint the answer very definitely is "yes." As a matter of cold fact we're a bit late in announcing such a conclusion, for the relations of Great Britain and the dominions (Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa) in this manner:

"They are autonomous communities within the British empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any respect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the crown, and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

That declaration was formalized in the passage of the Statute of Westminster in 1931 by parliament. So in the statute of Westminster we see Britain turning loose the major component parts of her empire with the exception of India.

Besides these wholly independent states, there are, of course, many other units.

The bond which holds together the already wholly independent parts of the British "empire" is slender, but it is strong. It is the bond of blood, and the community of interests and ideals. We have seen it bring all the sovereign states to the support of the mother country in this new World War. What the future will bring forth we cannot foresee, but it may just as easily be a strengthening as a weakening of the bond.

CHRISTIE'S LAST FLIGHT CHAPTER XIII

"I was in our World War that I got that letter from a French girl—one of those Mademoiselles from Armentieres that the song is written about, I guess. Bart's mother was saying, 'Anyway, Christie, she wrote that she was in love with my husband; and what, in so many words, was I going to do about it?'"

"What did you do?" Christie asked. She had come to Bart's mother after a visit to the doctor. "Why, I wrote back that I could understand how she felt, because I was in love with him, too. But I didn't tell her she could have him, as she probably wanted me to do."

his familiar quizzical smile that was half a scowl. "What's up, Christie? Decided to finish those flying lessons?" Christie shook her head. "Just one more lesson. I want to take my solo cross-country flight."

"CHRISTIE wheeled her plane, fighting back the tears. Now that she thought about it, it seemed there was a rule about civil planes landing at army fields—something about shooting first and asking questions afterward. Heavens, of course you must have special permission. Just because Bart was assistant to the commandant of cadets he had acted exactly like she owned the place. Back at the airport, she brought the plane down, taxiing across the field.

Japs Claim Three Islands Off Australia

(By The Associated Press) Imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted that Japanese naval forces had occupied three more islands between Timor and New Guinea, thereby completing the tight-linked chain of potential invasion bases spreading in a vast arc above Australia.

A communique said the Japanese had taken Kel, Aru and Tanimbar islands, which lie 375 to 500 miles north and northwest of Australia.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported quiet on the New Guinea front, where the Japanese have started a menacing drive toward the key Allied outpost at Port Moresby.

Chinese headquarters announced that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies were attacking a string of Japanese outposts between the Port of Wenchow and the Kiangsi-Chekiang rail line to the northwest.

The town of Suichang, midway between the rail line and the Japanese-held Lichui in Southern Chekiang province, was reported recaptured.

Meanwhile, admiring Chinese pinned the nickname of "Sky Dragons" on the U. S. army air forces which on July 4 absorbed the "Flying Tigers" of Burma fame, and a Chinese army spokesman said the aggressive American fliers were making Japanese authorities at Hankow "rather jittery" with their hard-hitting attacks.

An Allied military spokesman said the new Japanese foothold in New Guinea offered no special threat. Answering criticism of the Allies' failure to prevent this landing, he said it was impossible to defend the Buna-Gona area "without sacrificing troops involved."

After inspecting an advanced Australian base, Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of Allied land forces in the Southwest Pacific, said today his troops looked extraordinarily fit and would be a tough proposition for anyone taking them on.

From a military standpoint, he added that Australia's position was improving steadily.

The criticism yesterday of the Allied command by Deputy Opposition Leader W. M. Hughes for permitting Japan's Buna-Bona landings brought forth the response from Prime Minister John Curtin today that neither "unwillingness nor incompetence" influences the Pacific command.

Japanese fliers shot down eight American planes in a 40-minute air battle over Hengyang, in South Central Hunan province, Dozei said today in a broadcast dispatch from Canton.

(There was no confirmation of these claims from Chungking either from the Chinese or from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters.)

Texas Faces Beef Shortage

(By The Associated Press)

An anticipated shortage in Texas of choice, first-grade beef is due primarily to the fact that Texas feeders usually feed lightly during the hot months and few "finished" heaves other than pasture-fattened cattle are now available, meat packers at the Fort Worth livestock market declare.

Pasture-fattened steers, either grain-fed or cake-on-grass-fed heaves, rarely grade "better," "good," or "top choice" under United States Department of Agriculture grading, it was pointed out.

The Fort Worth Packers explained most feeders of good beef in Texas place stock in the heavy fattening ration in drylots during the cooler months so cattle will be bothered less by flies and high temperature.

Another difficulty was said to be selling prices of corn-fed loin and rib cuts, purchased in corn belt markets and going to the select club and hotel trade.

Shippers have been reportedly losing from two to five cents a pound when marketing these cuts in Texas, but some packers felt they should take this loss to furnish their customers with an assortment of meats, trade sources said.

Fort Worth packers believed Texans will have to take "medium" and "good" grades of meat, until fall supplies of grain-fed heaves arrive at market, because of the demand of military establishments and the scarcity of choice beef.

The Dallas News said the first meat shortage of the war will be felt next week and that independent packers attribute the situation to selling prices on processed meat products and no ceiling prices on livestock.

Packers were quoted as saying they were losing money because rising livestock prices had passed the packers' ceiling price.

Albertson Faces Death Sentence

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (AP)—Oscar Albertson, 43, San Pedro blacksmith and chauffeur, convicted of first degree "murder by mail" faces a mandatory sentence of death Monday.

The first jury to try him disagreed. The second, composed of nine women and two men, late yesterday found that Albertson had mailed John Kmetz, 54, poison capsules labeled "vigor restorers," causing his death Oct. 12.

The state charged that Albertson was infatuated with Kmetz's wife, Esther, 33, church school teacher, who had lived at his home. Mrs. Kmetz, described as an unwilling witness by the district attorney in the first trial, could not be found for the second.

Albertson listened quietly as the verdict was read, then broke into tears. The jury did not recommend clemency, making the death penalty mandatory.

Machinery Salvaged From Oil Field

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6 (AP)—With the importing of oil machinery from the United States difficult because of war priorities, the government petroleum administration has sent working parties to abandoned oil fields to seek usable machinery.

The first find was 2,000 tons of boilers and tubing from the property of the Aguila Oil company, one of those expropriated in 1938.

70 Per Cent Of Drivers Who Take Test Fail In Their First Attempt

By RICHARD WEST
Associated Press Staff

Seventy per cent of Texas automobile drivers who take the Texas Department of Public Safety's examination for a driver's license fail in their first attempt. And was this writer's face red when he flunked out on the first test!

Applicants range from bank presidents to negro laborers. You may have driven a car 25 years without an accident; you may be in perfect physical condition; you may know road rules.

The chances are still better than three-to-one you'll flunk. In the Dallas district offices the other day a man walked out of the ranger building on the fair grounds where exams are taken and smiled broadly.

"Finally got her," he said. "Been drivin a six-wheel truck over the country for 15 years without a bobble but it took me three times to pass this examination."

The department wants it that way. You must know every road rule; you must have good vision and control of yourself; your car must be in perfect condition.

These are the keys to safety. And the department's campaign is showing results.

Texas traffic accidents the first six months of this year were 20 per cent below the comparable 1941 period. The national average was only 11 per cent.

The first part of your examination is an eye test.

It is similar to that test given by any oculist when testing for glasses. Sitting in a chair beside the examiner, you must read certain letters on a board about 30 feet away. The examiner covers one of your eyes and tells you to read the letters. The procedure is repeated with the other eye.

If your vision is less than 40 per cent as sharp as the standard you will not be passed. If you cannot pass the test without wearing glasses, you will be required to wear glasses while driving.

Value of this test is obvious. There are a lot of near- and far-sighted people driving on the highway who cannot judge distance or see adequately at night.

Next come road signs—those little standards dotting every highway, warning you a curve or a railroad crossing is ahead, repeatedly advising you to slow down and specifying speed limits.

Sixty per cent of the applicants flunk these sign questions. Here's what you must know:

A yellow octagonal sign with black letters means stop.

A yellow diamond sign with black letters means danger.

A yellow square with black letters means caution.

There are more of them . . .

Major proportion of exam failures come on the written tests for road rules.

The average driver at one time or other has observed all these rules. Yet he cannot answer all of them in writing.

Here are answers to some of the most commonly asked questions:

Q. What essential equipment must your car have?
A. Foot and hand brakes; two headlights and red tail light (which can be seen 500 feet back of your car); a horn that can be heard 200 feet away; muffler, and rear-view mirror.

Q. What equipment must your car not have?
A. Any red light showing to the front; siren, bell, whistle, or air horn; muffler cut-out; spot-light; anything extending over running board and fenders.

Q. What should you do when you're involved in an accident?
A. Stop immediately and render all possible aid to the victim; notify nearest police officer; make a written report of every accident involving a death or injury to person or total estimated property damage of $50 and send within 48 hours to the department of public safety in Austin; if you run into a vehicle that doesn't have a driver or if you do damage to property, leave your name and address on the vehicle or property so that the owner may find it when he returns.

Q. How quickly should your foot and hand brakes stop your car?
A. Within 45 feet from a speed of 20 miles an hour.

Q. What are speed limits?
A. For cars, 30 miles an hour in cities day and night, 60 on highway in day, 55 on highways at night.

Q. In what places on the highway must you never drive to the left of the center of the roadway?
A. Approaching a bridge, viaduct, or tunnel; at railroad crossing or underpass; intersections; approaching top of hill or on a curve where you cannot see 500 feet ahead; where approaching car is so close that it is not safe to cross the center line; where there are two or more traffic lanes in each direction.

Q. When must you never pass and overtake a car?
A. Never on curves, hills, intersections, or when approaching within 150 feet of any bridge or viaduct not more than 18 feet in width.

Q. What does a blinking red and yellow traffic light mean?
A. Stop on blinking red, go slowly through blinking yellow.

Q. If you're driving on a slippery highway and start skidding, what should you do?
A. Never apply the brakes; turn your steering wheel in the direction of the skid and do not disengage the clutch.

Final phase of your driving examination is the driving. The examiner tests your lights and brakes, then tells you to drive slowly . . . apply the brakes . . . drive in reverse several feet . . . make left and right turns and park near a curb.

He notices your posture and attentiveness to signals.

Then he grades you poor, below average, average, or above average. If your car is in good condition this test is not hard.

But the rest is tough. You'll know road rules and driving when you're through.

Judge Holds Court In Morning, Pitches Hay In Afternoon

MONTROSE, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP)—Judge Edward P. Little's old teammates at Yale would pop right out of their turtle-neck sweaters if they could see how he's in there pitching to win the war.

The 50-year-old jurist spends five afternoons a week in the hay fields—with no time off for good behavior—helping his farmer friends beat the labor shortage.

"Sticks," explained the judge, "I've been pitching hay for years. It isn't anything new to me—but I do seem to be going at it more strongly than ever."

Every day except Monday during harvest season, the judge bangs his gavel at noon, stuffs his six-foot, 220-pound frame into overalls and lights out for the countryside to offer his volunteer labor where it's needed most.

Judge Little was born in this small upstate town, played football and rowed on the crew at Yale, served in the first World War and was Squab county district attorney from 1924 to 1936.

Appeal To Remove Sheriff Denied

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 6 (AP)—The attorney general's suit to remove Nueces County Sheriff John D. Harney from office, appealed from 94th district court in Corpus Christi, was denied Wednesday by Chief Justice Edward W. Smith in the fourth court of civil appeals here.

In his opinion, Justice Smith said "we have reached the firm conclusion that the contentions of the sheriff must be sustained; that the purely local action to remove the sheriff of Nueces county should have been brought, if at all, by the district or county attorney of this county."

Sheriff Harney, charged in the original suit with misconduct, had contended the attorney general was not empowered to bring such action.

The court's opinion, which followed argument that began two weeks ago, added:

"The right of local self-government in the several counties of the state is one of cherished value, and any attempt under vague or indefinite delegation of constitutional or statutory powers in derogation of that right should be frowned upon by the courts."

The district court in Nueces county had ruled similarly.
