

Naval Recruiters Announce 'Nice 'N Nautical' Revue Here Monday

By THE ROVING REPORTER.
With Gray county naval enlistments lagging far behind the August quota, the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, the Civilian Defense Council and civic clubs today announced that they would take up the recruiting campaign in dead earnest.

The August drive for sailors will receive its greatest impetus Monday night at the high school auditorium at 8:30 o'clock where Dixie Dice of Amarillo will present her famous patriotic naval musical comedy which was staged before 10,000 spectators in Amarillo.

The show will be free and the public is invited. Special invitation is extended to all who have relatives in any branch of the service.

The matter of securing naval enlistments in Gray county is being taken up as a serious proposition. For a while, Pampa lightly regarded Amarillo's challenge that Potter county would raise its quota before Gray did, but now Pampa is more concerned about raising the August quota than beating anyone else. Gray county is almost at the bottom of the August list in naval recruiting in the Panhandle, and Potter county is at the top. Monday night, Chief C. M. Norman of the Amarillo naval recruiting station, will announce the September quota for the county and he has already said it would be far larger than the August quota.

That's the reason the recruiting drive is being taken over by the Chamber of Commerce, civic clubs, the Civilian Defense Council.

"It's going to take everybody to raise these quotas," said County Attorney Joe Gordon, civilian chairman for recruiting in Gray county.

"Ace" Eastus, president of the American Federation of Musicians, Local 532 of Amarillo, will bring union musicians from that local to play for the show.

Barney Ogle, well-known radio and stage emcee will be master of ceremonies for the production, which will be a salute to men who enlisted from the Panhandle in the navy.

Vital Information

Notification has been sent to 6,000 new and used car dealers, finance companies and automobile insurance companies in Texas by Thomas L. Immediate disposal of scrap cars was demanded. The action is part of a nationwide program to get junk autos into war production.

Members of the fire department mourning the loss of one of their pet grey squirrels. The squirrel was run over by a car yesterday afternoon. The squirrels were given to the firemen some months ago by a man who was leaving the city. Recently the firemen moved them from their cage to the trees around the station where the pair were right at home.

J. A. Meek, for the past 15 years principal at the B. M. Baker school, has been named principal of the Sam Houston school to succeed Kenneth Carman, who has been given a leave of absence to become an instructor at the Amarillo air school.

A successor to Mr. Meek has not been named by the school board, which announced the transfer last night. Mr. Meek's appointment will be permanent but the appointment to Baker school will be temporary only.

The school board in session last night accepted the resignation of Ernest Cabe as supervisor of instruction of the Pampa school system. Mr. Cabe is now employed in the U. S. Engineer's office of the local air port installation. The board, in accepting Cabe's resignation, expressed the hope that he would return to the system upon completion of his work with the engineering office. No successor was named.

Mr. Cabe had been with the Pampa school system for eight years as teacher in both the Junior High school and high school and also as principal of Junior High school. He was named supervisor of instruction four years ago.

Three new teachers were elected at last night's meeting. William C. Pool of Austin was named physical education instructor and Junior High school coach to succeed C. P. McWright, who recently resigned to enter defense work. Pool graduated from the University of Texas last year. He played football at Clifton High school but was too light for the university squad. He was manager of the Longhorns for three years.

Landing with tanks and heavy weapons, American ranger troops, British Commandos and Allied forces smashed at the Nazi-occupied French "invasion" coast at Dieppe for more than nine hours today while giant U. S. army flying fortresses pounded a German fighter plane base at nearby Abbeville.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The navy announced today that a small British merchant vessel was attacked and torpedoed by an enemy submarine early in July in the Atlantic ocean off the northern coast of South America. Survivors have been landed at a gulf coast port.

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—United States flying fortresses raided a German fighter plane base at Abbeville today during the landing raid operations at Dieppe, United States army headquarters announced. A communique said bomb bursts were seen on the target area, and all the big four-motor planes returned safely. Two squadrons of the giant bombers took part in the attack. They were supported by RAF and RCAF fighters.

MOSCOW, Aug. 19 (AP)—A broadcast statement attributed to W. Averell Harriman that Americans would be fighting on a front with the Red army was discussed widely today by the Russians.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—A United States submarine has sunk a Japanese cruiser or destroyer in the western Aleutians, the navy announced today, bringing to 23 the total of enemy ships announced as sunk or damaged in that area. The navy said that conditions made it impossible to determine an exact identification of the ship destroyed.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 19 (AP)—All Brazilian soldiers on leave were recalled urgently to duty today and the navy forbade furloughs for regular reserves as this nation at the "gates of war" hastened steps to meet the threat of Axis submarines that recently sank five Brazilian ships.

There has been some speculation that requisitioning of railroad tank cars in other parts of the country for use in transporting petroleum products to the East might cause a shortage of such transportation in the Midwest and Southwest, thus necessitating the rationing of gasoline in these areas.

School Tax Rate Lowered

The Pampa school district tax rate for next year will be 82 cents on the $100 valuation or 13 cents less than last year, it was decided at a meeting of the school board last night. The valuation, however, will be increased from $30,180,000 to $35,885,000.

Oil properties will stand most of the increase in valuations with new homes making up the balance. City and business property in the city will remain the same as last year in an effort to equalize valuations.

The school board early in the year decided that city property was assessed too high in comparison with other property in the district. The board instructed the Thos. Y. Pickett Co., of Dallas, oil evaluators, to equalize the oil properties. The company decided to raise oil valuations so that the board could have a lower rate.

Malta Received Vital Supplies By Convoy

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Malta has received vital supplies, brought by a convoy which made a hectic voyage under heavy attack to the Mediterranean stronghold at a cost of four British warships, the admiralty announced today.

We Can Lose War If We Do Not Get Scrap In, WPB Official Says

Country roads of Gray county and the farms will be gone over with a fine tooth comb today, as farmers seek to harvest a bumper crop of scrap iron for Uncle Sam as their share in the national scrap harvest, the second scrap metal campaign of the year.

Not only on the farms but in town, everyone has the duty of clearing out every bit of scrap iron they can get their hands on and turning it in to the nearest junk dealer.

Reason for the second campaign was explained here yesterday by Lewis C. Huff, assistant executive secretary of the Texas Salvage committee. War Production board, Dallas. Secretary Huff spoke twice in Pampa yesterday, once at the regular monthly membership luncheon of the senior and junior chambers of commerce, held at noon at the First Methodist church, and again at 3 o'clock at a meeting held in the district court room.

While Japan has a supply of scrap metal sufficient to keep furnaces going five years, America's supply is so low that less than a month's supply remains. This means that unless there is a tremendous increase in scrap metal, the nation will be unable to produce the steel needed for the war effort.

Fighting Still Raging On Coast After Nine Hours

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—First units of the Allied commandos who smashed at the French coast returned to a British base in gay spirits this afternoon.

Soviet Troops Again Fall Back In Bend

MOSCOW, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Germans poured strong reserves today into the Don Bend and Caucasus battles from south of Voronezh to the high plains of Pysatigorsk and the bolstered onslaught pressed a full-scale drive against Stalingrad and along the Baku rail line to the shores of the Caspian. The Russians were fighting back fiercely.

Canadians made up the majority of the strong forces that drove across the channel to Dieppe, 50-odd miles from Beachy Head, the nearest point in England, and 100 miles from Paris.

The Americans, specially chosen from a host of volunteers as the first American fighting men to set foot on the continent of an embattled Europe since 1917, proudly wore the title "Rangers"—after the famous Rogers' Rangers whose bold exploits made history in the French and Indian war of American colonial days 180 years ago.

First announced fruits of the raid were destruction of a six-gun German battery and an ammunition dump by troops who landed on the right flank, accomplished their mission and were reembarred by the British navy, which ferried all the forces across to France.

On the left flank the Canadians first were repulsed by strong German opposition, but bonded back to carry the beach by assault while their comrades were pushing tanks ashore in the center for the main thrust, which a noon announcement said still was continuing.

The landings were accomplished at every point selected in advance in a carefully-planned, closely secret operation that American officers of all services helped to arrange.

The Germans made no attempt to belittle the scope of the assault, and claimed they had thrown even their naval forces into the bitter conflict.

For the Canadians, thirsting for a fight for months or years, it was the first real action against the enemy.

For the Fighting French, whose commando organization was disclosed only on Bastille Day last July 14, the raid was a triumph.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19—All over the lot: The star-trading, story-borrowing, set-lending co-operation between the studios now is being extended to script characters, and there's no telling where all this camaraderie will end. Out at 20th-Fox, Producer Bryan Foy is whipping up a super whodunit which will call in all the famous movie sleuths before the murderer is tagged.

Philo Vance is first on the scene, but loses the trail and gets the help of Charlie Chan, Bulldog Drummond, the Falcon, Michael Shane and a lot more detectives. Nick the nemesis of the Thin Man will appear only as a voice on the telephone because there's no chance of getting William Powell. Even Mr. Moto, the Japanese detective, is to take part, impersonated by Peter Lorre. He'll hand out advice from behind the bars of the Santa Anita internment camp. George Sanders, who quit RKO rather than continue his detective series there, is under contract to 20th-Fox and has been assigned to play the Falcon.

MEAN MR. BENNY

Jack Benny isn't a guy you'd nominate offhand for the title role of "The Meanest Man in the World," but that's what he's playing, and he certainly is the dourst comedian in Hollywood. The sour-visaged demagogue of Mr. Benny is a welcome relief because most comics practically knock themselves out trying to be funny all the time, and their forced gaiety gets pretty tiring.

The story, taken from the old George M. Cohan play, has been changed to a comedy. At first Benny is an attorney who is a failure because his competitors are tough and ruthless. Deliberately, he sets out to be as mean and hard as possible, conditioning himself through simple devices of a warrior. He's taking candy from babies. Gets his comeuppance, though, when he tries to evict an old lady from her home.

IN A GILDED CAGE

Writer-Producer Norman Krasna is a director now, bossing "The Princess O'Rourke" at the Capitol Theatre. At first Benny is a film record of the progress of the picture. The miniature is called "The Birth of a Movie." On the title cards, the prop man, makeup experts, electricians and others get to billing. Only at first Benny, Robert Cummings and others of the cast are listed as "supporting players."

There's a sequence for "The Princess O'Rourke" in which Miss de Havilland dispiritedly talks to a caged canary, wondering how it feels about its life. Suddenly the canary looks like Miss de Havilland and it answers her. To make this shot, the studio built a gilded cage 20 feet high and fashioned a complete suit of feathers for the actress. Admitting it may be a good gag, she says she still feels awfully silly.

For a role in Paramount's "Crystal Ball," Producer Richard Blumenthal interviewed three crystal gazers and a couple of astrologers. Each wanted to read the past and future of the executive, but none could see ahead far enough to tell which would win the coveted job in the picture.

crease in the amount of raw materials to the plants, it will be impossible to keep going the furnaces that turn out steel.

What Load Represents

Represented in 10,000 pounds of scrap iron are:

Money value of $40; 10 37-millimeter anti-tank guns; 50 50-caliber machine guns; 100 30-caliber machine guns; 1,000 hand grenades.

Each week the furnaces in this nation use up 1,000,000 tons of scrap metal.

Here's what Gray county farmers will do about the salvage drive, as outlined at the meeting held yesterday afternoon:

The 514 farm families in Gray county, organized under 22 community leaders and 61 neighborhood leaders, will get in every possible bit of scrap metal they can find to the nearest junk dealer.

In some cases, neighbors will go together and one truck will visit several farms, collecting the scrap; in others, it will be done individually. Where it is finally disposed of makes no difference, that is, the farmers will haul the collection to the nearest junk dealer.

That dealer may be located in Groom, LeFors, McLean—but whichever one is nearest is the logical one to handle the material.

An award of $5 in Victory stamps will be given by R. G. (Dick) Hughes, Pampa insurance man, to the farm man or woman submitting the best slogan for the campaign.

To Display Cards

County Farm Agent Glenn T. Hackney will have this slogan painted on signs and as soon as a farm has been thoroughly cleaned of all scrap metal, and the community leaders have certified this fact, the farmer will be entitled to display the sign at his place. The winning slogan is to be in not more than three lines, or more than 15 words.

At the luncheon, Secretary Huff said:

"People want to do something to help, but are waiting for someone to tell them what to do. The trouble is most of us are looking for something big to do, forgetting the small things we could accomplish that would help."

"Steel is 50 per cent scrap and 50 per cent pig iron. That's why through the junk dealer. That's the only way we can handle it, for he has the experience, equipment, and facilities to do it.

"There are 75 different grades of junk. Just because you see a huge pile of junk in a dealer's yard, don't conclude that the junk isn't being shipped. Chances are that the dealer with the best filled yard is the one that is shipping the most. The dealer has to send it according to grade and not mix it up in the cars. He has to send exactly what is ordered."

At the afternoon meeting it was brought out that one person alone had brought in 14,000 pounds of scrap metal in the last campaign. He was Jack Stephens of Grandview, who was present at the session yesterday.

Also noted was the statement of the chairman of the industrial scrap metal salvage committee that his group estimated they had reported only 50 per cent of the scrap in oil fields has been brought to town, or half of the total amount available, despite the national record in the last campaign, attributable in a large part to the work of this committee.

At the luncheon, which preceded the meeting held at the court house, County Judge Sherman White introduced Secretary Huff. Visitors were introduced by Dan E. Williams. Invocation was by the Rev. E. B. Bowen, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Leading the singing of "Anchors Aweigh," "The Caisson Song," "Marine Corps Hymn," was the Rev. Robert Boshart, pastor of the Pampa Presbyterian church, with Mrs. W. Calvin Jones as pianist.

Setup Outlined

Judge White, county defense coordinator, outlined the setup of the salvage campaign.

There are three groups, the Pampa Civilian Defense council, salvage committee, and industrial scrap metal salvage committee.

Pampa Civilian Defense council, E. J. Hanna, chairman; Garnet Reeves, Steve Matthews, Doyle P. Osborne, E. J. Dunigan, Jr., Frank Cuthbertson, Bud Martin, Don Conley, Mayor Fred Thompson, Judge White, all of Pampa; G. W. Ross, B. J. Diehl, Mrs. Ralph Ogden, Mayor W. F. Wall, all of LeFors; the Gray County War Price and Rationing board, composed of James B. Massa, chairman, Clyde Carruth, FASTER PRODUCTION CALLS FOR FASTER SEEING!

In our battle against Time let it be remembered that no man on a lathe or assembly line can work faster than he can see.

So in this crisis, industry is turning to lighting as a potent means of speeding production, and relieving strain on eyes and nerves and bodies. For it is now known that we actually see faster in better light. It has been proved repeatedly that workmen can produce faster—with fewer accidents—and less spoilage—and with definitely less fatigue—when lighting is adequate.

Actual reports from wartime plants show production increases up from 3% to 15% as a direct result of improved lighting.

Does that give you an idea of the value of LIGHT to America today? Isn't it worth while for you to find out what better lighting can do for your business? Why not let one of our Lighting Service Specialists survey your lighting tomorrow?

Commandos Jump 20-Foot Cliffs

By RICE YAHNER
AT THE UNITED STATES RAN-

...GERS BATTALION SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, Aug. 19. (AP)—The United States Rangers, Uncle Sam's new brand of fighting men who joined Canadian, British and Fighting French Commandos today in the first A. E. F. invasion of Hitler's Europe, had been training secretly for weeks under the tutelage of their seasoned British partners. Their mentors are men who toss hand grenades across the dinner table and casually jump 20-foot cliffs and their American pupils have been taught to kill with the cunning of the Indian and the ruthlessness of a gangster. I was the first American newspaperman to visit one of their camps when they were putting the finishing touches on training for such ventures as today's raid on Dieppe.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE—I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

It Can't Be Done

First, there was a wave of popular enthusiasm, when Henry J. Kaiser proposed a huge fleet of aerial box cars to carry war supplies from factory to fighting front, high above lurking Axis submarines.

Then, inevitably, there arose the chant which so often has sounded the death knell of progressivism: "It can't be done."

The heavy thinkers, the experts, the traditionalists are warning us that nothing like Mr. Kaiser proposes ever has been done, and therefore nothing like it can be done.

Unfortunately, to the voices of consistent pessimists and let's-do-it-the-old-wayers have been added the discouraging advice of some who in the past have shown willingness to try new pathways after the old have led to dead ends.

Perhaps it really can't be done. Perhaps it is not feasible to provide 200-ton or even 70-ton cargo airships, built largely from non-critical materials, as substitutes for the vessels which Axis U-boats are sinking faster than they can be replaced.

Certainly there are very grave barriers in the way, of which the highest hurdles would be engines and precision instruments.

Nevertheless, to brush off the Kaiser proposal so cavalierly, without any attempt to find a way of achieving the ostensibly impossible, would not be the approach by which this war is going to be won.

If one were to sit down in a cozy armchair, canvass the war situation today and draw inferences from history, he might conclude that the United Nations cannot win this war.

By conventional standards already we are beaten. We are beaten up to now, by a nation which 10 years ago could not possibly, by conventional standards, have been conceded a fighting chance against even France—not to mention Britain, Russia and the United States.

The Germans, whom we considered a stolid, unimaginative people, have cleaned up all of continental Europe except Russia by forgetting that things "can't be done," and doing them.

The Russians, whom we considered inept imitators of more original-minded peoples, have withstood the Nazi blitzkrieg marvelously well because they didn't concede that "it can't be done."

Are we, whose greatest pride has been our inventive genius, our willingness to take a chance, going to curl up and die because somebody thinks "it can't be done"?

Perhaps it can't. Perhaps it shouldn't. How do we know? Have we tried?

Poor, Abused Argentina

Foreign Minister Guinazu of the Argentine is enraged because the United States, fighting for her national existence, will not supply armament to Argentina without any strings attached.

The "strings," says Guinazu, were a request that the Latino republic convey shipping part way toward the United States. This the foreign minister resented as an obvious attempt on our part to get Argentina in wrong with Germany.

If those were the "strings," our government certainly was wrong. What we should have demanded was that any munitions we supplied be used against Hitler and his allies.

Friendly Gesture

The justice department made a gracious gesture when it agreed to permit 15,000 Chinese sailors, serving on United Nations ships, to come ashore when their vessels are in American ports.

By this one stroke a sore spot was healed. We have given substance officially to our protestations of friendship. Suppose two or three, or 20 or 30 do skip ship. How long could they remain undiscovered nowadays? And what harm would they do among our 140,000,000 inhabitants?

SILVER NONSENSE (Chicago Tribune). When the war broke out silver was believed to be one of the substances for which little use could be found. The white metal which once had occupied an important place in the monetary system of the world had been discarded as the measure of value by one country after another until China was the only country on the silver standard.

The spokesman in congress for the silver interests, Sen. Key Pittman of Nevada, was one of the delegates to the London economic conference in 1933. He engineered an understanding with other countries by which the United States was to keep its annual production of silver all over the world. Since 1933, the United States has been buying the domestic output of silver, paying the producers on the average about twice as much as it was selling for in the domestic market.

When even this fantastic scheme didn't succeed in advancing the world price of silver, Sen. Pittman and his friends put thru another measure which required the secretary of the treasury of the United States to buy not only the domestic production, but any other silver until we had such a pile of it that in value it would be one-third as great as the stock of gold. The silver wasn't to be hoarded. It was to be used in any way. It was just to be hoarded.

Word about this supreme idocy passed all around the world. In China, India, Turkey, England, and South America an effort was made to gather up money or silver objects to sell to Uncle Sam, who had gone crazy about silver. China abandoned the silver standard to contribute its bit to our big silver pile, and tons of silver money were brought to the United States.

The silver people didn't think silver was good for anything. It was just a racket. Now it turns out that silver has a wide range of uses in war-time. It makes bearings for airplanes which are superior to any other. It makes the best kind of solder. It is outstandingly the best electrical conductor and is essential for contacts in airplane en-

Common Ground

By R. O. HOILES

"I speak the pass-word principle. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms." —WALT WHITMAN.

GOVERNMENT OF LAWS, NOT MEN

One often hears the expression that we want a government of laws and not a government of men. This is rather a difficult expression to understand. It is too abbreviated to be intelligible. We are inclined to think of a government of laws as being a government of man-made laws. And if it is a government of man-made laws, then the expression is meaningless because then it would be a government of men.

What then does the expression really mean? It means that the laws are natural, or God's, laws, rules, principles and axioms; that these rules and principles and laws are eternal and cannot be changed by the will of man.

The two essential things in these rules or laws that are eternal and cannot be changed by the will of man is, "all or none" and "equal." No man can change the law that things that are equal to the same thing are equal to each other. No man can change the fact that "none" excludes "everyone." There are no exceptions. A government of laws—God's laws—would mean that all men were equally free to pursue happiness on the same terms. Laws, subscribed to by man, that complied with this norm would be a government of laws, not men. It would mean that each and every man was owner of himself and no one else.

These laws are impersonal. They favor no individual. As contrasted to this, a dictator is governed by no eternal, immutable laws. He is law. His will can change.

This would also be true with a government controlled by majority rule. It would be a government of men, not of immutable principles, rules or laws.

A government of natural or God's laws can be depended upon. Men can know exactly what to count on, because they do not change. That is they do not change if they are really God's laws, or nature's laws. On the other hand, a government of a majority, or a government of a dictator, is a government of men and cannot be depended upon. It cannot be depended upon because it changes with the will of the dictator or with the will of a majority.

Governments that are more nearly governed by God's laws, as contrasted to man-made laws, are the ones under which men make the most progress; that is, under which men have the most happiness, prosperity and tranquility. This is true, because men can know what to count on. They can know what other people will do. They can make contracts and depend upon them. They can cooperate. They can plan ahead and depend upon the word of others. They can depend upon the word of others, because the government of eternal laws, enforced by men, compel men to live up to their voluntarily made contracts.

We Approved a Government of Laws. Between 1868 and 1913, the United States was more nearly a government of laws—God's or nature's laws—than any other government in all the world. It is because we have digressed from this form of government, that furnishes the reason we find ourselves in the predicament we have been in during the last three decades.

Labor unions are purely a government of men. They know no rules, no eternal principles. The will of the bare majority, or of a dictator at the head of the labor union, is the law of the union. There are no eternal, immutable rules or principles. There are no God's laws governing labor unions. They are purely man-made to promote the selfish interests of those in control, without any regard whatever for their fellowman.

Yes, there is nothing more important than that people come to know the difference between a government of laws—God's laws—and a government of men, changeable with their wills. The columns are open for the readers to submit a better explanation of the difference between a government of laws and a government of men.

gines, which must not misfire; besides, it can't often be substituted successfully for tin, the supply of which has been cut off, and copper, of which we are running short.

When a break for the government! The stuff it bought to please powerful political interests, out to be a most valuable strategic material. We can have the best plane engines, tanks, shells, and bombs because we have enough silver to put in each of them to make them superior.

But having hoarded all this silver to please some politicians and the interests they represent, and having met with the discovery that it is priceless in making weapons, the government is prevented by the same politicians from using the stuff freely. They resolutely refuse to permit Morgenthau's silver pile to be used as needed for the national defense.

In recent weeks there have been further developments. Some of the big civilian users of silver, like fountain pen manufacturers, who had substituted silver for metals which had been denied them, went down to Mexico shopping for supplies of silver. They discovered that there was quite a lot of metal to be had if you were willing to pay enough for it. The price in Mexico rose in recent weeks from about 35 cents to nearly 70 cents. The latter price was no more than the treasury is paying the American mines, but OPA Administrator Henderson didn't like it. He has now announced that after Aug. 10, foreign silver cannot be imported at a cost exceeding a little over 35 cents an ounce. Thus the government maintains a ceiling of 35 cents on imported silver, and a floor of 70 cents an ounce on domestic silver.

The government hoards silver and won't let American industries get foreign supplies, unless they can get it at half price the government is paying for domestic production. The best that can be said of this is that it is nuts. A more accurate characterization would be to call it sabotage.

HOME THOUGHTS AND "ABROAD"

Of all the various formulas which are used by government spokesmen at the moment in order to put up some sort of shelter against the high, wild winds of criticism perhaps the most generally expediting is the suggestion that if people are "seriously misgiving abroad," what is causing and will continue to cause serious misgivings abroad is precisely what is causing the same thing in this country—the continual and occasionally staggering absence of any evidence that we are getting anywhere at all (except in the wrong direction) in the actual conduct of the war. They will think nice things about us abroad just as soon as we are in a position to think nice things about ourselves at home; but any one who imagines that the bulk of the population of this country is in any mood for hero worship at this moment very gravely mistakes the temper of the times. And any misgivings that they may feel abroad are as nothing to the annoyance that is felt in this country, where opinion is not in the least demoralized or "defeatist," but disgusted almost beyond belief.

THE RACE AGAINST TIME

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

Pampa is certainly proud of Ensign Harold Haslam, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Haslam. A week ago Harold was among the cadets who were awarded their commissions at the U. S. Naval Air station at Corpus Christi. He is the first Pampa boy to receive naval aviation wings. He will leave Pampa around the first for San Diego. Then he will fly with the fleet. . . . In talking with Harold there was one thing about him that impressed me, and I am sure that it applies to the men in the service. He flies a dive bomber, but there is not the slightest vestige of fear in him. The only thing to fear is fear," he said quoting his commander-in-chief, the president of the United States. . . . I talked to Harold the day before he left to take training Oct. 1, 1941, and he's the same now as then except now he's full of confidence and a death-defying patriotism. He's won the most coveted wings in the world, and those wings mean life or death for all of us. I am proud of Harold Haslam—utterly proud and I know you are, too. . . . It's strange how a person's life and outlook can be so completely changed in a year. In 1941, Harold was a carefree student at Texas Tech, taking a pre-med course. He was happy and smiling youth and today he's even more happy and smiling, but the difference is that he realizes that the fate of his country depends upon his wings, and that's why he has infinite courage.

Speaking of courage, The Pampa News this fall will not use that word and many more like it that sports writers have been using for years in accounts of football games, no "corrid battles," no "courageous field generals" on the sports pages because the only men in the fall of 1942 who deserve to be called "courageous battlers" will be the boys in the service. It takes a lot of plain old guts. Many of the men who were heroes on the football field last year and the years before are and will be heroes in this war because they could put it out and take it. That should be an inspiration to the boys on the football fields.

Story In Names

GREENVILLE, N. C., Aug. 19. (AP)—A Greenville businessman several months ago named his first-born son for his partner. Recently they disagreed and dissolved the partnership, so the father went to city hall and had the name of his son changed.

That's not the end of the story. The other man thereupon named a new-born mule for his former partner.

News Behind The News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

DESTROYER—American inventive genius has developed a "secret weapon" which may change the whole character of the war and eventually place the Reichswehr's panzer divisions behind the eight ball. The novel device has been described to several congressional committees but for once members are keeping mum. There has not been a "leak" on this subject.

Washington correspondents who possess close contact with senators and congressmen know details but obviously are sworn at silence. It would not be brought into production on a large scale until early next year, according to the present program. But if it lives up to advance promises Herr Hitler will be sorry he started this conflict. Without divulging any confidences one can say that the mysterious implement is not gas.

Our top military men have revealed the particulars of this destructive power to the Russians and the Chinese in an attempt to hold those nations in line. Stalin and Chiang Kai-Shek have responded as expected and will continue fighting until we can supply them with this amazing destroyer.

SACRIFICES—Primary results in 30 states may stiffen the administration's spine. Although the present congress has been damned for its behavior before and since Pearl Harbor, less than 10 of 300 members facing the electorate in these early tests have been defeated. Isolationists and interventionists both have been returned with astounding pluralities.

The outcome seems to indicate complete confidence in men who, no matter how they voted on defense issues before December 7th, have since backed the president on all war measures. In a similar way, the demonstration that folks back home are far ahead of Washington in their desire and determination to make sacrifices. Unlike F. D. R.'s political advisers, they do not want to wait until after election to give up their lives, to submit to general rationing or to pay heavier taxes.

As frequently suggested in this column, the White House wants to defer these demands until after the crosses are counted in the fall. But the balloting to date suggests that mothers and fathers of boys in the armed forces—and Mr. Roosevelt may be included in that number—are ready and eager to scrimp on food, gasoline and other essentials.

LOSSES—Whether we win or lose in the Solomon Islands—and it looks as if we shall win—the encounter represents a complete change of heart by the administration in its conduct of the war. British and Americans have tried to save lives and to wage a nice, polite conflict. Our enemies, on the other hand, have fought ruthlessly. For many months the capital held the theory that we could succeed with a minimum of sacrifice. Political and military considerations bulwarked that opinion. F. D. R. himself believed the Allies could succeed and the war was being fought from the same humanitarian complex. It explains United Kingdom defeats from Dunkirk to Singapore. President Roosevelt has altered that mental attitude. In the present engagement, we are taking big chances. We shall probably suffer huge losses—in fact, we have already—but our men are living up to our historic martial tradition. Their ac-

Today's War Analysis

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, Wide World war analyst, is written today in MacKenzie's absence by Glenn Babb.)

Commandos of the United Nations, Americans of the "Ranger battalion" along with the British and Canadians, were giving Adolf Hitler this morning a foretaste of "the day of liberation."

Lord Louis Mountbatten's tough young men were reminding the Fuehrer that while leaders of the Allies have been plotting the outlines of their grand strategy in the east, fixing the lines at which his surge toward Asia is to be held, the preparations for the eventual offensive in the west have gone forward with a grim, fierce determination that the Nazi defenders of the Dieppe beaches now know at first hand.

Today's obviously is the greatest of all the commando raids, larger in scope and of longer duration than its four predecessors which have harried the invasion coast. The Dieppe raid, therefore, takes on the aspect of a full dress rehearsal which may be followed soon by the real thing. The second day of the second front, using all the weapons that will be used on that day—the umbrella of air support overhead, the heavy fighting ships offshore laying down a barrage, the special landing but the important fact is that it is being spread by the anti-Mecklenburg crowd. They say that when Jim was a trackwalker he saw Train Number Six rushing full speed east on Track Number One. He also noted that "Train Number Twelve was booming along west on the same rails with a fatal collision inevitable."

When Mead was placed on the stand in the investigation of the wreck he was asked what he had done about the situation. "I didn't do anything," the senator is supposed to have replied, "I went back to my shack and said to myself, 'That's a hell of a way to run a railroad.'"

And the Farley crowd moralizes, That is how the president is managing New York politics.

BOY—The rapid promotion of army officers has become a mild "scandal" at the capital. Nobody disputes the need for trained highups, but it seems strange to find that yesterday's shavetail is a major general tomorrow. The situation has sparked the following tidbit which nobody enjoys more heartily than Chief of Staff Marshall:

A telegraph messenger boy was sent with a wire to the new and elaborate war department building in Virginia. He was lost for three days trying to find his customer. When he returned to the District of Columbia, he was a lieutenant colonel.

SERIAL STORY

LUCKY PENNY

BY GLORIA KAYE

COMMUNITY SING

CHAPTER XI

BACK in the office of the Courier next day, Penny checked hurriedly on proofs of the literature she had prepared for her Friday night meeting. Circulars, posters for store windows, the newspaper ad—all were in readiness.

No one would suspect, from the innocent wording, the real intent of the mass meeting. "Community Sing" and "Concert" were the big headlines. The men in the mill had been given double notice by Penny's friends there.

The weatherman proved cooperative when Friday evening arrived. The auditorium was filled. The Kirktown Glee Club took its place on the stage. Rafter's echoed to the lusty lilt of their voices. Men predominated in the audience, and their voices lifted in song as the concert proceeded.

Quietly, before the last refrain died down, Lou MacDonald, Jim Vickers, and Penny seated themselves in their appointed positions on the stage. With cheers for the glee club still ringing, MacDonald stepped forward.

Quietly, before the last refrain died down, Lou MacDonald started, "my story is not pleasant, but must be told. It affects every one of you." He told the audience, simply and truthfully, of the tragic cases that came regularly to the attention of the Humane Society. He laid the blame squarely on Castro's machinations. There was no mirth in the sober faces uplifted to him.

When Jim stepped to the speakers' platform, a spontaneous cheer attested to his popularity. The men admired his courage and respected his judgment.

"Fellows," Jim said simply, "Not long ago there was a tragic bridge accident here. You or some member of your family was saved from death only by the will of Providence. A crooked city administrator was responsible for the death of two of our best friends. I call it plain, cold-blooded murder. Eloquently Jim recited the many factual instances of graft and favoritism and crookedness.

NOW Penny stood before the sea of faces, displaying no sign of the nervousness she felt. "I haven't known you very long, but I feel I know you very well," Penny began. "There isn't a coward in the crowd! You have power! You're strong! Let's show Castro he can't run Kirktown! Tonight—together—let's chase him out of town!"

There were shouted affirmatives. Men jumped from their seats, ready for action. "Wait! Just a moment!" Penny shouted. "No one wants to start any violence. We are all interested only in peaceful means with which to remedy conditions in Kirktown. The sheriff is here tonight. He has named Bud Walsh and several of your men as deputies. Let's go as an army of citizens—not as a mob. You won't need to start a fight. When Castro sees you, he'll know he has had enough."

Bud Walsh was already organizing the eager crowd. They were flooding through the wide-open doors in orderly fashion. Their march to Castro's hangout had begun.

Bud Walsh was already organizing the eager crowd. They were flooding through the wide-open doors in orderly fashion. Their march to Castro's hangout had begun.

Jim was white with anxiety. "What have you done, Penny?" he worried. "The Castro gang won't give up its easy pickings without a fight. Someone is sure to get hurt."

"Perhaps this will change your mind," Penny handed him the red-lettered warning to leave Kirktown. "It's up to you to make up your mind, Jim. Either Castro goes or I go. Both of us can't stay here."

Grimly Jim said, "Come on!" With long strides he reached the head of the column of marching men. Bud Walsh had naturally fallen into leadership. Penny was orderly. The men went as orderly as a disciplined army—and no less tough!

"All I want is five minutes alone with Castro," Jim told Bud. "You'll have your five minutes," Bud promised. As they approached Central avenue, Bud halted his column.

"Quiet, men," he ordered. "We want to surprise Castro. No one has had a chance to tip him off. We'll all wait while I send a couple of scouts ahead." The men liked this game. "Like the old covered wagon days, looking for Indians," someone whispered.

"Let's go," Bud shouted when his scouts signaled. They pushed through two swinging doors into a back room. There, in a room filled with slot machines, gaming tables and gambling devices, sat Castro and a prize group of city officials. The surprised mayor of Kirktown opened his mouth in a morose stare. An unlighted cigar dropped from the lips of the safety director. Castro swung around, a vicious revolver in his hand.

"Shoot—if you dare," Jim invited through set teeth. Castro hesitated. He studied the silent crowd. Bud Walsh had a gun. So did at least a dozen others. Castro glanced quickly at the barges disgorging their steel-clad fighting machines on the beaches that once formed one of Europe's gayest playgrounds.

The German radio's description of the raid stresses its scope and boldness of conception. This may betray genuine alarm, may reflect the mounting Russian attack which the Germans doubtless watch their western barricades while trying desperately to finish the war in the east before the blow falls elsewhere. Or it may be merely a build-up for a story of an alleged British failure to be broadcast after the commandos have returned across the channel.

Whatever the outcome of this adventure, it emphasizes again the steady development of a unified, world-wide plan of action to which the United Nations are beginning to fir their conduct of the war. Especially in the west, the pattern of attack against the European end of the Axis becoming more definite.

The United Nations still have nothing to match the singleness of direction which Adolf Hitler's great general staff gives to the campaigns in Russia and Africa and the recently disposed in western Europe. But Winston Churchill's journeys reveal that something that ultimately may match the unity that Hitler imposes on his own people and his satellites is in the making.

The British prime minister, in London in July, Cairo and Moscow in August, has made himself into the most distinguished liaison officer in history, binding together the purposes of the world's greatest powers, helping stiffen the resolve of Russia at an extremely delicate juncture, and assuring the growing might of the United States will be brought to bear, as the American people desire, in the battlefields where it will be most effective.

Today's accounts of Churchill's sojourn in Egypt earlier this month with the war were concerned there with the other half of the problem with which he and Joseph Stalin grappled in Moscow. In the East the problem is to smash that vast pincer with which Hitler is attempting to engulf the Middle East. In Moscow it was Russia's defense against the northern claw that was the chief topic. In Cairo Churchill devoted his attention to the task of blunting the southern claw, which rests menacingly now a bare 80 miles from Alexandria. His visit has been followed by a bold shakeup in the British Middle East command which at least liquidates the taint of disaster and failure that had attached to the leadership which suffered the loss of Tobruk and the invasion of Egypt. It remains to be seen, of course, whether General Alexander, whose reputation rests chiefly on his role in two historic retreats—Dunkergue and Burma—can cap his fame with a successful offensive.

THE crowd cleared a space for the returning men who had rounded up other members of Castro's gang. "The good work at this prize collection of apes," Bud Walsh invited. "This is the last time you'll see such specimens in Kirktown. They're going to be so rare that there will be a reward for their capture, even in slightly damaged condition, within the city limits."

Bud turned to the mobsters. "You guys have just two hours to get packed and beat it," he warned. "We mean business and we're plenty tough. If you can't understand our nice treatment, we'll have to teach you a lesson." A good movie director would have found a note of comedy in the way guns, marked cards, extra aces, and a special collection of crooked dice were piled on the cement floor, awaiting destruction.

"Stars moving," said Bud, twirling his gun menacingly. There was relief in the faces of the gangsters as they left. They had expected much worse treatment.

"I've waited for this for a long time," Jim said softly. The fight which followed, Bud Walsh always said, was the toughest he had ever fought. He had never had a more vicious fight in his life. He lunged viciously. Jim felt no pain, but he knew from the red on Castro's weapon that the dagger had found its mark on his shoulder. Cautiously, he circled out of Castro's reach.

The room's unshaded light singled out the gangster's knife. Swiftly, painfully, Jim lifted a broken chair and shattered the bulb. Automatically, he lunged forward as darkness shrouded the room. He twisted the knob of Castro's door. Then he lifted Castro to his feet.

For weeks, Jim would show the scars of his battle. For months after the scars were gone, he would look back happily to the day when the Castro gang left Kirktown forever.

O'Daniel Boomed In Port Arthur Speech

By LEDGERWOOD SLOAN
 FORT ARTHUR, Aug. 19. (AP)—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel heads northward from the Gulf coast today with his political caravan of two automobiles, a sound truck and a canopy-covered speaker's stand mounted on another machine.

The four carries him from Silsbee, where he opens in the morning, through piney woods to Crockett, Alto, Center and Carthage. Most of the places he visits gave him majorities in the July senatorial primary.

The senator told of his friendship for labor during yesterday's trip over congested Southeast Texas highways. He said defense workers' trailer homes under most-festooned trees.

At Port Arthur, a union stronghold, boos were audible among the applause as O'Daniel declared his senate runoff opponent, James V. Allred, got the vote of "laboring and striking men."

"I got the votes of the laboring men,"

The senator hastened to add that he was "only fighting the racketeers" and favored "the democratic right of collective bargaining, picketing and strikes."

A heckler appeared at Port Arthur but it is doubtful that the senator, his own voice blaring in his ears from his sound truck, heard him.

"My boy died at Pearl Harbor," shouted the heckler, who said he was H. Johnson, "Allred man and a union man."

The Port Arthur crowd, which filled most of a roped off block, applauded several times, including at the close when O'Daniel asked for "your prayers" in addition to votes.

Several times during his addresses on street corners in the humid heat, O'Daniel said his opponent had made the "cotton farmers mad because he wants to hold cotton to two bits." The speaker also listed other farm products and said those who raised them were displeased with his "little yes man" opponent because "he forgot about everybody but the cotton farmer."

Thus O'Daniel ignored repeated statements by Allred that he favored 25 cent cotton as a floor, not a ceiling price, and would work for above-parity prices on all farm products.

O'Daniel spent goodly parts of his addresses vigorously denying he is a foe of organized labor and an isolationist.

"I believe wholeheartedly in union labor and its right to bargain collectively and to strike if a majority of its members so decide," he declared.

He also branded as "untrue" charges of isolationism which he said his opposition had made.

The senator held up during an address at Alvin a newspaper advertisement linking him with such isolationist senators as Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

Then he read a newspaper clipping in which he was quoted as saying last September he had par-

Allred Promises Utter Support Of President

By J. E. KRUEGER
 GARLAND, Aug. 19. (AP)—Jimmy Allred has laid his case before the people of West and North Texas and today he strikes out on a path leading to Lufkin, Beaumont, his home town of Houston and possibly to the U. S. senate.

His case demands an end of isolationism, a thorough victory over the Axis, a parity for farmers and ranchers which will level the disparity he says exists between their selling power and their buying power, and utter support of the president's war policies, a "sensible approach to the labor problem" entailing a ceiling on union fees and dues and a ban on strikes in war industries.

These are his main points. He has personally explored them in detail from Dalhart to Dallas for the last two weeks. This 43-year-old Texan who has a wife and three sons, has been district attorney, attorney general, governor, and federal judge, has three days left to whittle down the huge plurality senator W. Lee O'Daniel achieved July 25.

He has gone about the job with directness and informality.

Yesterday in Kaufman men and women of the town gathered in a circle about him at the side of the road.

He spoke with Wheeler during an absence. He explained this placed him in the position of voting against anything Wheeler favored and made "sure my vote is cast right."

The Alvin address was interrupted when the fire department, beside whose station O'Daniel spoke, was called out. The firemen returned later to report they couldn't find any blaze.

O'Daniel usually got laughs from his audience when he said his opponent "commented looking around for a platform and found ours."

In each address, the senator spoke at length on his charges that "labor leader racketeers" have taken away "our God given right to work."

He told his audiences that there was great danger which the "politically controlled press" refused to tell them about. This, he said, was the danger of losing "our democratic form of government."

Reminding them of his position he declared "every word I say must be true."

"I can't get out and talk loosely as some people do. Everything I say must be backed up by the record."

"If they can get their yes-men in there," O'Daniel said of those he asserted wanted to change the government, "then they can get any laws they want made."

He added "they are spending money to elect U. S. senators and congressmen they believe will be their yes-men."

Often the senator told of what he said were untruths printed by the "corporation controlled newspapers."

"They sure make up some good ones," he declared at Liberty. "That gang makes them so big nobody believes them."

The audience roared when he asked at this point, "Did you know O'Daniel had ingrown toenails?"

North Africa May Become Second Front

LONDON, Aug. 19. (AP)—The infusion of new brains and new blood into Britain's precarious Middle Eastern front, coupled with the close attention Prime Minister Churchill gave it on his way to Moscow, stamped that battle theater in many British minds today as a zone of impending major action.

North Africa has immense strategic potentialities. It might become the United Nations' second front. With only a thin 80 miles separating his armies from Alexandria, on the other hand, Hitler scarcely could neglect that arm of his vast middle eastern prong if his goal is to master the trans-Caucasus by winter.

Britons, therefore, weighed these sudden developments with some optimism and some anxiety:

1. Churchill's stop-over in Egypt en route to his talks with Joseph Stalin, during which he inspected the front at such close hand he came within earshot of the enemy and met virtually the whole "who's who" of the United Nations leadership in North Africa.

2. The announcement, swiftly following his visit, that General Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander had been called to command in the middle east in place of General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck.

3. The arrival in Egypt of new United States contingents, including ground staffs for the American army air forces whose medium and heavy bombers already are in action and whose fighter planes have completed their last desert training.

Although in Alexandria the British have picked an advocate of attack and surprise to match wits with the Axis' wily Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, some of the misgivings arose over the fact that British once again had switched middle east commanders.

"The process of selection by trial and error already has proved far too costly," commented the Daily Mail.

One unanswered question was whether Auchinleck had resigned, or was being given another post. No new assignment was announced for him and the War Office offered no comment. Some unofficial British sources, however, said it was unlikely that a general of Auchinleck's standing and experience would be sent into retirement.

(Silence concerning the replaced middle east commander might mean that the British were keeping the enemy guessing. Auchinleck commanded the forces which took Narvik from the Germans in 1940 but when the Nazis invaded France soon after his arrival in Norway he was ordered back to defend Britain. He later succeeded General Sir Archibald P. Wavell in North Africa and the latest Nazi drive, stalled now at El Alamein, was stopped after he had taken personal direction of the Eighth Army in the field.)

U. S. Pilot Bombs, Sinks Axis Sub

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 19. (AP)—A United States pilot bombed and sank one of the Axis submarines lurking off the Brazilian coast after the sinking of five Brazilian ships brought this biggest South American republic to the "gates of war," an official announced today.

The first official word of the sinking came from Commander Ernani A. R. Amaral Peixoto, federal liaison officer in the state of Rio de Janeiro, who told a crowd gathered before the presidential palace that one of the undersea raiders had been destroyed.

Government press department and other accounts in Brazilian newspapers gave this version of the attack:

The submarine was sighted 50 miles off Brazil's coast by a United States plane piloted by Capt. Jack Lacey. The plane dived, machine-gunning the submarine and forcing it to the surface with bombs when it attempted to submerge.

The Diario Carioca, quoting authorized sources, said the submarine apparently was damaged in this first attack. The United States plane dived again, this time finishing the submarine with direct bomb hits.

Meanwhile, a naval spokesman said that Axis surface raider prowling the South Atlantic had been sighted near the Brazilian island

It was the first time they have set foot on the soil of their native land since the German conquest of 1940. Observers on the British shores said there were more aircraft than ever before seen and heard over the channel, as bombers and fighters shuttled across to assault or reload. Indicating the size of the present operation, it was recalled on at least one previous occasion 1,000 fighters participated in a sweep across the channel.

Informed quarters cautioned, however, that for all the broad participation of troops, tanks, naval guns and planes, the raiding forces would be withdrawn when they had achieved their objectives. This was not a second front.

The objectives appeared to be these: To test the enemy's defense organization and to test the Allied plans for landing and the RAF ability to cover a big landing force.

Additional reports disclosed the size of the German troops and equipment in the cross-channel area that once was a vacation resort but now is a nest of Nazi fortifications.

The British radio urgently warned the French public that the raid—strongest of the numerous commando smashes up and down the coasts of Nazi-ruled Europe since March, 1941—was not an invasion.

The French were cautioned not to rise in support of the Allies until they should be given the word, lest there be a repetition of the tragic St. Nazaire battle, in which French patriots battled the Nazis for days after British commandos had withdrawn and drew stern reprisals from the Germans.

United States officers, it was announced, are "serving as planners and advisers alongside officers of the British, army and Royal Air Force" on the staff of Lord Louis Mountbatten, supreme chief of the commandos.

These American officers include: Brig. Gen. L. K. Truscott, Jr., army, Charlottesville, Va.; Commander E. B. Slaus, navy, Washington, D. C.; Lieut. Col. H. D. Campbell, marines, of Vermont; Lieut. Col. Loren B. Hillsinger, army air forces, Washington, D. C.; Major T. J. Conway, army, of San Francisco; Major P. M. Hamilton, army air forces, of New York; Major J. B. FDR Orders Plant Seized

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. (AP)—President Roosevelt ordered Secretary of War Stimson today to take possession of and operate the plant of the S. A. Woods Machine company at South Boston, Mass., where a management-labor dispute has impeded war production.

The chief executive signed an executive order at 9:40 a. m. Central War time, directing government seizure of the plant, after the war labor board laid the case before him yesterday for appropriate action.

The company management had refused to comply with a board order that it grant arbitration and maintenance of union membership privileges to the CIO's United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers.

The plant has orders for production important to the war effort, but the management has demanded in a telegram to WLB that union maintenance and compulsory arbitration had nothing to do with output in a plant. The management had urged that the WLB compliance order be held up until the firm had tested its powers in court. The board had rejected this suggestion.

Survivors are the son, E. A. McKercher, LeFors; a sister, Mrs. Ella Gomer, and a brother, H. L. McKercher, both of Pittsburgh, Pa. Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Dukenel-Carmichael Funeral home chapel by the Rev. Don Beltz, pastor of the LeFors Baptist church. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery here.

Veterans Asking For Bronze, Copper, Brass

The Veterans of Foreign Wars brass, copper and bronze drive will swing into high gear along with the county scrap metal drive but will not end until August 31, according to Mike Roche, chairman of the committee. Other members are O. K. Gaylor, D. E. Cecil, H. G. Lawrence, E. W. Moore and Earl Schweig.

The organization will also accept gifts of scrap metal. All money derived from the sale of brass, copper, bronze and scrap will go into the Service Men's Entertainment fund being created for the entertainment of the men who will be assigned to duty at the Pampa bomber base now under construction.

Boxes where the donations may be deposited are located at Buckingham Service station across from the Junior High school, Phillips station across from the city hall, Courthouse cafe and Friendly Men's Wear. Other boxes will be announced soon.

The post will accept any item of brass, copper and bronze, no matter how small or how large. Acceptable will be a key, out of which can be secured enough material for a 30 caliber shell, or a water faucet, tubing, just anything.

SCHOOL TAX

the state had the high rate and low valuation.

Dunigan said that he understood the board ordered Pickett and company to place a high valuation on property so that a low rate could be set. He was informed that the board had never authorized Pickett to use that method and that if the company did so it was on their own initiative or at the request of an oil company or companies.

However, the board told Mr. Dunigan that a public hearing on tax problems might be called next year before the valuation procedure was adopted. The board also approved a plan whereby the company to be hired to value oil lands would be asked to hold its hearings with oil company representatives in Pampa instead of in Dallas as has been the procedure of the Pickett company. Members said they would like to sit in on the meetings and that it was impossible for independent operators to go all the way to Dallas to attend a hearing, or hearings.

the veterans believe the entire community should participate.

Only from the purchase of tickets for the dance can these end-of-parties be financed. If there isn't sufficient public spirit in Pampa to cause a record turnout for the dance, it naturally follows the veterans can't go ahead and honor the selectees in the future as they earnestly desire to do.

"We've simply got to have the support of other organizations to keep this project alive," Commander E. B. Tracey of the local post said today, "and everyone must buy dance tickets to make it possible. Otherwise, there'll be no end-of-parties and Gray county selectees will not have the honor that is their due."

Series Of Three Meetings For Gray Farmers Announced

A series of three meetings for Gray county farmers was announced today by Glenn T. Hackney, Gray county farm agent.

First of these will be from 9 a. m. to noon Saturday in the district court room; the second, on September 1, when a subdistrict conference will be held at 2:30 p. m. in the county court room; the third, a poultry clinic, on Wednesday, September 9, the place to be announced later.

For the first meeting, speakers will be E. A. Miller, agronomist, Texas Extension service, and F. T. Dines, Amarillo, representing the Texas Wheat Improvement association. Both the speakers will also be heard over radio station KPDM, Pampa, from noon to 12:15 p. m. the same day.

Purpose of the meeting is to encourage growing of pure strains of wheat.

Gray, Armstrong, Carson, and Roberts counties will be represented at the second meeting, when grain storage, farm labor, and synthetic rubber will be among topics discussed as a part of the general subject of "Farming in Wartime."

W. M. Deck of Perryton, vice-president and director of the Texas Farm bureau, will be in charge of the conference, one of five to be held over the Panhandle.

Other officials attending will be R. G. Arnold, from Alabama, southern region organizational director of the American Farm bureau, and J. Walter Hammond, of Tie, president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Boy Reeves of McLean is president and Gene Shackleton of Pampa is secretary-treasurer of the Gray County Farm bureau.

and destroyed many trucks and seven German tanks, the bureau said.

While the Germans gained in a Don Bend sector, three vain attacks were cited in which they lost four tanks and more than 300 men. More than 100 German automatic rifle men were reported slain on the approaches to a village.

Southwest of Stalingrad, Red army tanks were active overnight and one was credited with the destruction of seven Nazi supply trucks, a searchlight installation and two anti-aircraft guns behind the German lines.

Fighting flamed again on the Bryansk front southwest of Moscow. The information bureau said a Soviet artillery battery repulsed eight attacks, wiped out a river crossing and killed at least 500 Germans.

School Budget Provides More For Salaries

The Pampa school budget for 1942-43, as adopted by the school board last night, will be $34,862 less than last year although actual expenses last year were $29,103 above the budget figures. The new budget, besides being less than last year, includes the paying of $31,300 on outstanding loans, warrants and interest for completion of the new high school, thus making the actual expenditures $65,862 less than last year.

Only item on the budget showing any large increase over last year is in teacher salaries where the new budget sets aside $204,195 compared with $190,000 last year. The difference is an increase of $10 a month given all teachers in the system and a sliding scale increase given principals and heads of departments.

The board also decided on redemption of $41,000 bonds this coming year instead of $39,000 as last year.

This year's budget was set up to conform with state regulations and along lines used by a majority of schools in the state. Under this plan a comparison of schools can be made. This year the salary of the supervisor of instruction, the school nurse, physical education instructor will be placed under the head of supplies and special courses instead of under education administration, that fund being reduced $6,600.

Large expenditures, other than teacher salaries, include salaries of janitors, $14,000 or $1,000 less than last year; fuel, lights and water, $10,000, same as last year; transportation, $17,250, or $750 more than last year; assessing and collecting of taxes, $2,500, or $1,250 less than last year.

Estimated receipts include $292,509 from taxes, $80,530 state allotment, $6,000 tuition, and $6,600 vocal aid.

The budget was approved at a public hearing last week.

A RECENT VISITOR IN PAMPA WAS H. W. OWEN, ABOVE, CHIEF YEOMAN ABOARD AN AMERICAN WARSHIP. MR. OWEN IS THE SON OF MRS. O. E. PALMER, 307 E. BROWNING. HE HAS SERVED SIX YEARS IN THE NAVY. PREVIOUS TO THAT TIME HE SERVED FOUR YEARS IN THE U. S. MARINES. CHIEF Petty Officer Owen has already seen action in this war, and although no details can be given his ship has engaged the enemy.

Best Friend, or if I catch a man loafing when he should be studying at night he'll write on the subject, 'Pooping Around.' We have a lot of fun here, even if it is hard work and we are accomplishing a lot. "Everything is fine here and I hope all is well at home too. It is mighty hot here and I am out in the sun all day. I like my job. I rate every night liberty but don't take it. It's good, though to know I have liberty whether I take it or not."

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Trend became mixed in today's stock market after profit selling halted an early rise which carried a number of rail and industrial leaders to new peaks for the year or longer. The carrier stocks absorbed considerable selling based on their recent substantial advance, but as a rule they wielded ground grabbing and held near previous closings in the final hour.

Aircrafts showed late resistance while steel, rubbers, motors, and some industrial specialties were off fractions to around a point. Stocks given rather consistent support included Boeing, Curtiss Wright, Sperry, Lockheed, Cerrro de Pasco, Phillips Dodge, Pennsylvania, United Airlines, Colman, Corn Products, and Hiram Walker. Baldwin Locomotive certificates pushed up about a point on active transfers. Inclined to softness a good part of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber preferred, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, American Gas, and Atlantic Coast Line.
