Texas Oil Industry Nears All-Out Status

German Troops Still Lacking Winter Clothes

MOSCOW, Nov. 21 (AP)—Some of the German army's winter equipment has appeared on the Eastern front, and though it is better than last winter's, when the Nazis were caught completely unprepared, it still is insufficient to cope with the rigors of the Russian climate, front line reports said today.

Rommel Corps Racing Into Defense Area

CAIRO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Striking swiftly beyond newly-captured Bengasi, the British 8th army squeezed Marshal Rommel's chastised Africa Corps into the approaches of the El Agheila defile tonight in a race to deliver a knockout to the hapless Axis survivors before they could burrow into the natural defenses of that 30-mile wide Libyan coastal strip.

Position Perilous Rommel was believed already to have gotten the main body of his broken army into the El Agheila area, which lies on the Gulf of Sirte, along the border between Tripolitania and Cirenaica.

By BRACK CURRY AUSTIN, Nov. 21 (AP)—Texas' multi-billion dollar oil industry moved closer toward all-out production for the nation's war effort today under two directives issued by the state railroad commission to sustain production and conserve waning reserves.

Demand Price Boost Asserting demands of increasing United Nations military equipment would call for oil in unbelievable amounts, Jester predicted a shortage "will be entirely within the realm of possibility, especially if the Axis should capture more Allied oil sources in the Middle East or elsewhere."

Pampa's Air Base To Be Expanded; Cost $1,000,000

Pampa's air base will be expanded by one-third over the original authorization granted last May, according to a telegram received by The Pampa News this week-end from Congressman Gene Worley.

Naval Defeats Probably Have Destroyed Jap Striking Power

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Every important naval engagement churns up a wave of speculation as to how the balance of sea power has been altered between the Axis and the United Nations.

Anti-Poll Tax Bill Is Doomed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The senate held a clinic today over the moribund anti-poll tax bill, but lectures by its friends and foes only deepened the general conviction that the measure would die Monday.

School Aid Bill Threatens New Row

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Proponents of a Federal program to allot $300,000,000 a year for aid to schools urged today that the long-pending measure be speedily enacted in view of curtailments in state revenues, but economy advocates promised a fight.

Free French In First Contact; Nazis Dig In

By WES GALLAGHER ALLIED FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 21 (AP)—Allied forces tonight hurled themselves upon German dugouts protecting Tunis and Bizerte in a test of strength, while the main British and American forces rushed toward the front to bring the full weight of their attack upon the Axis troops.

A French unit fighting beside the British and Americans attacked German positions about 30 miles from Tunis after British, French and American soldiers had snatched control of an important cross-road in the Tunis area from Nazi armored columns.

Nazi Attacks Against Reds Broken Down

MOSCOW, Sunday, Nov. 22 (AP)—German assaults intended to better the Nazi position in the Caucasus after the smashing Russian victory before Ordzhonikidze have been consistently hurled back by Russian units and at least two companies and a battalion of the enemy have been annihilated or dispersed, the Russians reported early today.

Hitler Believed Flying Support To Troops; Escape Door Closed

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Cut off from retreat except by sea or air, the beleaguered Axis army of Tunisia braced itself in the outer defenses of Bizerte and Tunis tonight and prepared to fight it out with a more powerful British and American force moving in grimly for the kill.

That Nazi hope of establishing a rear door of retreat for Marshall Erwin Rommel in Libya already had gone glimmering was seen in a broadcast by the Berlin radio, quoting Allied sources in Spanish Morocco, that Allied columns of Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British First Army had reached the area of Hammamet, southeast of Tunis, on the Mediterranean.

Bombed Turin So Enveloped By Flames Target Difficult To Find

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP)—A fiery raid on Turin, the RAF's heaviest so far in its growing offensive against Italy, spread such a blanket of fire over the northern arsenal city Friday night that the raiders had difficulty finding clear spaces for targets, the British disclosed today.

State Officers Angered Over Jeffers' Remark

AUSTIN, Nov. 21 (AP)—Rubber Administrator William Jeffers' declaration that opposition to gasoline ration extension was financed by "people who should know better" today roused the ire of two high state officials.

HOMEWARD BOUND

Occupation of Hammamet by the investing forces would complete the encirclement of the Nazis on the landward side of the tip of Tunisia and leave them no alternative but to fight it out. The German radio also reported a Fighting French-American column was moving up from the south.

Believed Reinforced Though there had been no official confirmation, it was presumed the Axis continued to shoot a stream of reinforcements by air into Tunisia in hopes of building up a force that could withstand the Allies' onslaught.

Famed 5th Marines Turn Fighting Traditions on Japs

By JAMES CULLINANE
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The battle flag of the Fifth Marines—an emblem of courage known to fighting men everywhere—is flying in the breeze of enemy bullets again—at Guadalcanal.

And the gallant band of former men of the Fifth, now growing bald and gray, who followed that flag through Chateau Thierry, Belleau Wood, Soissons, St. Mihiel and Argonne Forest in 1918 have a new lease on life.

An "official mistake" disclosed the whereabouts of the Fighting Fifth when a news photograph from Guadalcanal was released, showing Marines kneeling in prayer.

The "old boys" have reason to be proud. In France they wrote unforgettable chapters of heroism. The Fifth and Sixth Regiments of Marines moved up to Chateau Thierry in May, 1918, when sledgehammer blows of the Germans had broken French lines and Sir Douglas Haig, British commander, declared "Our back is to the wall."

Field commanders of the American forces moving across Africa are well supplied with gold coins to buy friendship and military information from natives they encounter, military authorities here say.

Lieut. Gen. Mark V. Clark carried bags of gold with him on his secret submarine trip to Africa weeks before the invasion and returned to London with priceless military information. This was the first intimation that the United States had found a real war use for its idle yellow bullion at Fort Knox.

and Sixth Marine Regiments were attached, went into action with 9400 men. The Brigade recorded 14,968 casualties—a total of more than 150 per cent replacement—before it ceased firing.

Between wars the Fifth Marines chased the rebel Sandino in Nicaragua. After the fall of France the Fifth Marines moved to Caribbean outposts.

"They'll be in Tokyo soon, and that reminds me of the time—" said the old veterans. "No comment on troop movements," says Marine corps headquarters.

and behind rocks. We hadn't been taught jungle fighting, but we soon learned. And we drove the Germans out.

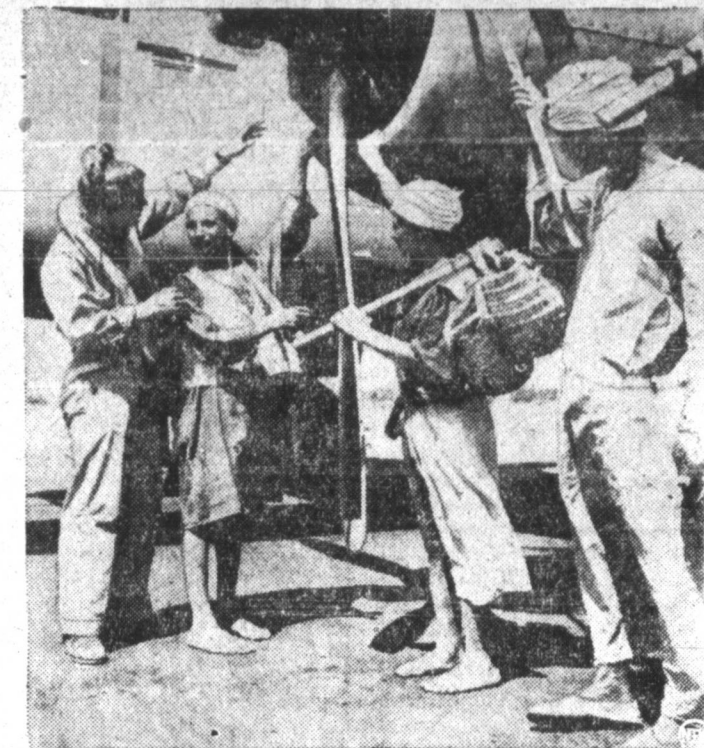

"The training the Fifth Marines had before they went into action this time made them a better bunch of fighters than we ever were. A bunch of Fifth Regiment veterans had a reunion two years ago. We went down to Quantico, where the Fifth was stationed, talking all the time about how they would never make Marines to compare with us."

THEY SHOOT BETTER
"When we saw those boys shooting like we could never shoot, our gang became awfully silent. Fact is, the boys haven't been doing much talking lately because we didn't know where the Fifth was in action."

"So they're in the Solomons now, eh. Well, that reminds me of the time we were at Soissons and—" ican paper money circulated in Africa by Nazis. The Germans stole it from occupied countries.

Axis agents, capitalizing on the universal confidence in the stability of American currency, have been banking large amounts of U. S. banknotes in French Africa, much of it in the form of bribes. Now this money is worthless.

SECRET MARK ON BILLS
All paper money passed in Africa by U. S. forces, Secretary Morgenthau says, will bear a distinguishing mark visible to the trained eyes of bank tellers. Banks are warned that the American government will not discount currency which does not bear the hidden mark.

The treasury, like the war department refuses to divulge how much American gold has been shipped overseas to smother the invasion path, but a spokesman said the vaults at Fort Knox are still far from empty.

Even after Gen. Clark lost $18,000 in gold when the small boat returning him to his submarine capsized, the treasury had some $22,741,000,000 left in its gold reserves.

Hitler, stumped in Russia and losing in Africa, may choose one of these five offensives if he decides to risk countering the allied moves in North Africa with an aerial or military attack of his own.

- 1 INVASION OF BRITAIN? Unlikely, though Hitler may try it as a desperate diversion... 2 GIBRALTAR GRAB? Nazis may follow occupation of southern France with drive through Spain toward British garrisons... 3 ATTACK IN AFRICA? Outnumbered in Tunisia, his forces on the run in Libya, Hitler faces loss of all north Africa... 4 THRUST THROUGH TURKEY? Ideal move to flank Russians in drive for Baku oil, to seize oil of Iraq and Iran... 5 OFFENSIVE IN RUSSIA? Forced to draw troops from Russian front to guard Balkans, Hitler may have to abandon drives on Stalingrad and Caucasus.

DEFEATS

for aircraft carriers, already badly needed in the Pacific. Carriers built and projected total far more than the number shown and the same is undoubtedly true of all types except battleships.

JAPAN The thrice badly defeated navy now operates almost entirely in home waters or waters close by. There it has not been challenged and is still supreme. It at once defends and depends on a highly intricate system of island bases from which spreads an umbrella of land-based aircraft to shield the surface ships.

Following is the Japanese naval picture based on what was reported here when the war started: 66 cruisers, 125 destroyers, 71 submarines—total 260.

Building—8 battleships, 2 carriers, 10 cruisers, 11 destroyers, 7 submarines—total 38.

Lost to date—2 (possibly 3) battleships, 6 aircraft carriers, 33 (possibly 34) cruisers, 48 destroyers, 28 submarines—total 117.

It is doubtful whether any of the categories for the Japanese are reasonably accurate except the list of ships they have lost, and Navy men feel their reports on destruction are conservative. Unquestionably the Japs had more aircraft carriers, just as they had more cruisers than we thought they had at the start of the war.

Pointing out that an increase in the price of oil of 25 cents a barrel in the past always has brought an immediate increase in drilling and discovery of new pools, Thompson declared:

"There is no doubt in my mind if the price administrator will allow the price to come to parity with other basic commodities, we promptly uncover enough new fields to make possible the production of 5,000,000 barrels daily."

"In order to keep our current reserves up to standard," he said, "we must discover a new 30,000,000-barrel field every week, and this is not being done for the reason the price does not justify wildcatting."

Of 100,304 producing wells in Texas, at least 30,000 are presently produced at loss, Thompson said.

Moving to check the decline in East Texas' bottomhole pressure, the commission Friday issued a special order establishing a water-oil ratio and a maximum reservoir liquid displacement volume.

Busy Schedule Of Activities Assured Pampans Thursday

In observance of Thanksgiving, a majority of Pampa's grocery and other retail stores and both banks, will stay closed all day Thursday.

The Pampa Ministerial Alliance has announced a Community Thanksgiving service to be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at the First Baptist church.

On Thanksgiving night, the McClellan Boat club will sponsor an army relief benefit dance at 9 o'clock at the Southern club.

One of the most brilliant patriotic pageants in the Panhandle will be held when Pampa and Amarillo join hands at the end of the football game Thursday afternoon, Thanksgiving day, at Amarillo's Butler field.

Directed by Ray Robbins, the combined bands of Pampa and Amarillo will march onto the field, form the letters U. S. A., and play "The Star Spangled Banner," as a prelude to the auction of the football used in the opening kick-off, which is to be autographed by members of both the Pampa and the Amarillo football squads.

Immediately after the ceremony Mason King, of the Amarillo News-Globe, will start the fast-moving auction sale. Everyone is encouraged to purchase Victory bonds, regardless of whether they bid for the football or not, as the game is dedicated to former Harvesters and Sandies now serving in the nation's armed forces.

To the person purchasing the greatest amount of Victory bonds will be presented the autographed football.

Prominent parts in the ceremonies attending the auctioning will be taken by Mayor Fred Thompson, Pampa and Mayor Joe Jenkins, Amarillo.

To manage the drill and playing of the 150-member band will require much planning. Director Ray Robbins said it would be necessary for the band to practice Thursday morning.

This will make it necessary for the Pampa band to leave from the high school band room here at 9 a. m. Thursday. They will arrive at Butler field around 11 o'clock for a 45-minute rehearsal, then go into Amarillo for lunch.

Since buses are "out" this means Director Robbins has the difficult problem of securing transportation. He's asking for help again from civic-minded Pampans. Everybody who has a car to provide transportation for the band members is asked to call Mrs. Lou Roberts at the High school office, 1461, and register the car.

It will mean a little extra driving this time, for persons giving "lifts" to the band members will have to leave early in the morning, go to Butler field, wait there until the rehearsal is over, take the students into Amarillo, return them for the game, then bring them home.

Youths Needed For Tank Destroyers

Pampa and Gray county men, 18 and 19 years of age, now are offered opportunity to enlist in the Tank Destroyer command, at Camp Hood, near Temple.

Men are needed for this branch and mechanical training they will receive will equip them with experience and skill helpful in a trade or craft in the future.

By enlisting now, while opportunity is available, men are enabled to obtain their military training close to home.

James A. Pool, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pool, 503 S. Gillespie, played on the 1932 and 1933 teams, now Sergeant Pool with a medical profession at the post hospital, Fort Bliss.

J. R. Green, whose parents reside in Houston, played on 1924 and 1935 teams, now at U. S. N. T. S., Corpus Christi.

A. C. Miller, son of Mrs. J. R. Miller, 318 N. Starkweather, left halfback, 1937, now a private in 421st technical school squadron, Barracks 395, Sheppard field.

A blank was also received bearing the name of Truman Rumpie, former Harvester, who enlisted in the army and was killed at Pearl Harbor. His mother resides in California.

Pampa and Amarillo will be paying a tribute to all the Harvesters and Sandies in the armed forces to the present teams, to all our defenders, and to those who have died that we might remain Americans, in the "Thanksgiving day game."

With gasoline rationing not far distant, it may be the last "big" game in this section for the duration.

It will be an excellent means of Pampa and Amarillo forgetting their long-standing feud, at least for this game, and for promoting more amicable relations between the two Panhandle cities. It was stated at the joint meeting of the Pampa and Amarillo committees in Amarillo yesterday afternoon, when further plans for the All-For-America game were formed.

WACO, Nov. 21 (AP)—The engine of Missouri-Kansas-Texas freight train loaded with high test gasoline derailed and burned five miles south of here this afternoon, killing the engineer and fireman.

The engineer was J. F. Crizard of Keith C. Phelps of 3724 Hackberry street, San Antonio.

Pampa Vets To Sell Xmas Trees

Annual sale of Christmas trees by Pampa Post 1657, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be started here this week, Fred Fender, commander, announced today.

A carload of spruce and fir trees has been ordered, and is due to arrive in mid-week. The trees will range in height from 3 to 12 feet, sell from 35 cents to $6, and net proceeds will go into community relief.

In the south, pro-Allied French still control Gabes, despite a German attempt to force a connection between the Tunisian Axis armies and Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces in Libya.

American and British planes were harassing German positions although bad weather restricted air activity except at Algiers where the Luftwaffe staged a night raid.

The Americans were also lending French fuel to aid in their mobilization. This will be paid back later from French stocks not immediately available.

Hold Negro Youth For Disturbance

A 21-year-old Negro, charged with creating a disturbance, is being held in city jail today, in alleged connection with reported attempts to enter three places in Pampa early Friday morning.

He will be turned over into custody of county officers tomorrow. The Negro was almost caught by the police at 6 p. m. Friday, after a several hours search, but managed to elude capture.

That afternoon, however, police located the man in the north central part of the city and arrested the Negro.

The man has been identified by three women as the Negro who attempted to enter three places on Cuyler and one on Mary Ellen street. Police Chief Ray Dudley said.

rationing, said he had received thousands of letters protesting tension of gasoline rationing and that 99 per cent of the mail was from people who would be unable to finance any movement.

"I don't believe Jeffers was speaking the truth when he said what he was alleged to have said," the governor declared at a press conference.

It was his opinion that opponents of gasoline rationing in Texas were honestly trying to make a living, and at the same time support the war program.

"They feel rationing will hinder their efforts to support the program," he added.

Smith took the position that the manner in which Jeffers referred to rationing opposition in effect intimated bribery and asked that Jeffers wire him on what evidence he made his statement or that he publicly retract it "in the name of fairness."

SERIAL STORY THE EDGE OF DARKNESS

BY WILLIAM WOODS

THE STORY: While their fathers in Trollness are planning action against their German conquerors...

AN SS OFFICER ARRIVES

CHAPTER VI HE kept looking at her. It made his breath come faster to see his eyes on her.

"I hate you," she cried. "We're enemies. No decent Norwegian girl..."

"Karen!" Margit clapped a hand over the younger girl's mouth.

He burst into delighted laughter. His eyes got smaller and smaller, with little wrinkles in their corners.

Karen stamped her foot. "Stop," she cried. His face sobered immediately. "How did you know my name?"

He leaned back without answering, pulled a mouth organ out of his hip pocket, and watching them quizzically, with one eyebrow lifted, tapped it on his knee and began to play.

"How did you know my name?" Karen cried again petulantly.

He stopped. "I saw you one day last June," he said. "You had on black boots and a yellow kerchief, and were planting in the doctor's garden."

"Oh," she said, and then a moment later in a lower voice, "But now you have to go."

The soldier looked brown and healthy and happy. He had no intention of going.

Margit saw them look at each other, and got up stiffly and went into the hut by herself. A strange, faint feeling came over her. The mouth organ played outside. Then it stopped. Something was in the air. It was wrong. Softly, beyond the sun-drenched hill, she heard their voices. "Oh, Karen," she thought suddenly, "please..."

And then all at once Karen was in the door. Margit ran to her. "What happened?"

She felt Karen cling, sobbing, to her shoulders. "What happened?" she kept asking. "What happened?"

Karen broke free and ran out again. The soldier was gone. Margit followed her. "Karen, what happened?"

But Karen would not look at her. "I never want to see him again," she whispered. "Never, never." Then she whirled round and cried passionately, "We are Norwegians. I don't like him. Do I, Margit? Do I?"

"No," Margit said, and went to her, shyly at first, then bravely, took her and held her close, stroking her hair. "No, Karen," she said. Over and over again. "No, no, of course not."

The hotel was a rambling, gabled structure of dark brown wood, that stood in a grassy clearing half a mile up the hill.

An enormous red and black swastika flag rippled gently from a pole on the porch roof. From the broad steps, one could see down over the pine tops to the village itself, and westward out beyond, to the sea, sparkling in summer sunlight.

In peacetime, the town had been something of a tourist resort, where Englishmen and Americans had come up on the excursion boats from Trondheim and Bergen, and on summer evenings gathered at the hotel, where there were music on the veranda and Japanese lanterns strung between the trees.

But now everything was changed. The gray-green uniformed troops were quartered there, and milled about the restaurant evenings, talking and drinking beer. During the day, when they were down in the village on duty, or else going through maneuvers back in the hills, the place was deserted.

In the hotel restaurant, some 25 or 30 soldiers were sitting at the round tables playing cards or talking in low voices. The room, broad with a beamed ceiling, was warm and hazy from cigarette smoke. Gerd Bjarnesen sat stern and decorous in her alcove under the stairs and watched.

Even at this hour the men were in regulation uniform, complete and ready for inspection. She marveled sometimes at their adherence to rule, even in conversation. Tonight, for example, not a word had been said about the debacle of Stokstad (it was forbidden), even though they could hardly have had much in the on their minds. "It is as bad for them," she thought, "as for us, not to know."

One thing she had noticed over and over again, how even in the midst of laughter, a man's eyes would be fixed on his neighbor's lips as they drew out something that lay beyond the words. They were tense, even when resting. It showed in their quick, nervous reactions when one of them mentioned the war. Yet they were the battle-trained troops who had marched into Prague and thundered over the bloody plains of Poland, who had fought six of the great armies of Europe and never lost.

She feared and hated and respected them with a silence and fixedness that not even they could have altered. For she saw them not as manifestations in themselves, not as episode, but as climax to all of her uneventful 40 years. She forgot in her hatred of them her own plainness and barrenness, the loneliness, and the still rankling fear of her stern father that had oppressed her even after his death. The three things most important to her, the hotel, the memory of her father, and the young boy Trygve, who was not her son, faded into the welter of daily trivia before the new, physical fact of a company of men who sat every evening in her restaurant, and talked, smoked, drank, and played at cards.

It was about 9 o'clock when Karl came in from his day's leave. The men greeted him with curt nods. He waved at them, sat down, and ordered beer.

Two soldiers were shooting darts over in the corner. Toward the front of the room, a bridge game was going on. The players were all older men, and went at their game with great seriousness.

DOWN near the cashier's cage an argument developed. Phrases floated over. "Two million men... mine throwers... the attack on Kiev." The corporal had gone over. Everyone heard his voice, unexpectedly loud. "Must you always be talking about the war?"

The men sitting at the tables looked up at him, and one or two shifted in their chairs. He fumbled for words. "You start talking about war, and soon... soon you can't think of anything else."

The voices in the room died away. "I, for one," said the corporal, "am sick of the... the talk."

A tightness came into the air. The mouths of the bridge players froze in the midst of laughter. The fat one stopped with a card suspended, and looked at his partner. Somebody cleared his throat.

At that moment the porch door was flung open and a giant of a man in an SS officer's black uniform strode quickly into the room. He turned his shaggy head right, then left. The soldiers snapped to their feet. Gerd Bjarnesen came sliding out from behind her desk.

"I wish to see Captain Konig," the stranger said in a clear voice. An orderly scurried from a table. "This way, sir."

The men sat down. The room was unnaturally still.

War Reaches 'Bums' Of Bowery; it's Work For The Boys Now

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—The war reached into the Bowery today, as the city called on the men of the flophouses to lay off the cheap liquor and get into useful war work.

Up and down the dingy street of dirty saloons, special police squads kept a sharp eye open for men, whom some call bums and some say are gentlemen, who reside on the Bowery. Some of the vagrants took it with a shrug; others seemed willing to gamble with work.

In the opening drive to clean up the Bowery of its fashion new war workers, the police pulled 202 vagrants, including two women, into precincts last night to prepare them for court appearance.

Some had no draft registration cards. Many were too old for the draft. Ten boasted working in skilled trades in happier days. Chief Magistrate Henry H. Curran said the aim of the magistrates before whom the Bowery folk would be arraigned would be to "hook them up with jobs."

Alarming Shortages Of Food Feared

DALLAS, Nov. 21 (AP)—Predicting alarming shortages of some food commodities, steps are taken, Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex.) said today the House Small Business committee would consider recommending a government inventory of all commodities and provision for their equitable distribution.

He said, in an interview, that such shortages including milk and meat, likely will result unless OPA ceiling prices are increased to enable producers to meet higher labor and feed costs.

The committee, on a tour to listen to the problems of small business men, completed its Texas hearing at Houston yesterday.

"We found," Chairman Patman said, "that federal price ceilings vary in different parts of the country, and that food shortages are occurring in areas where low ceilings exist because foods are being shipped to other areas where higher ceilings prevail."

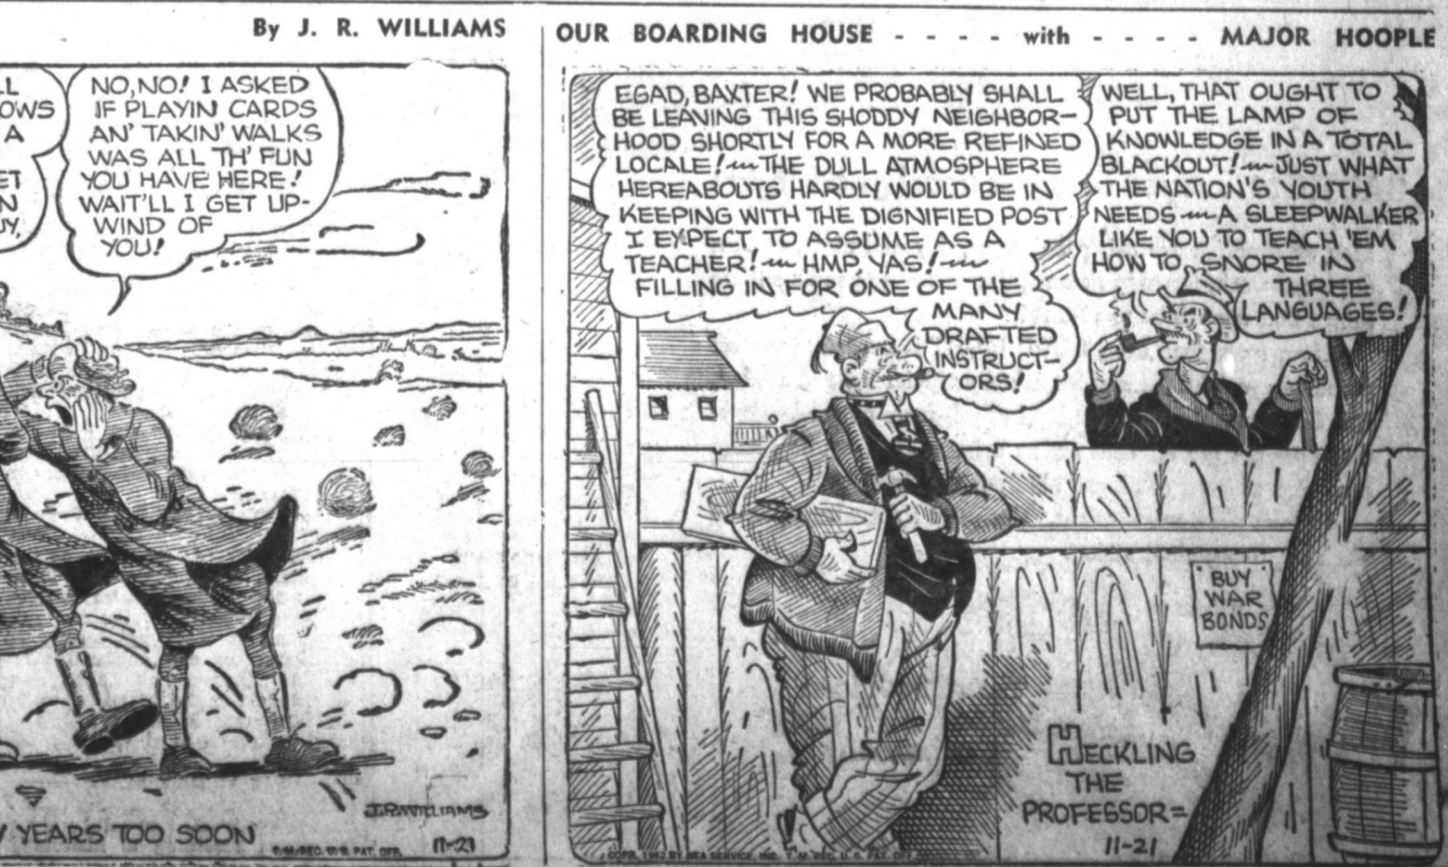

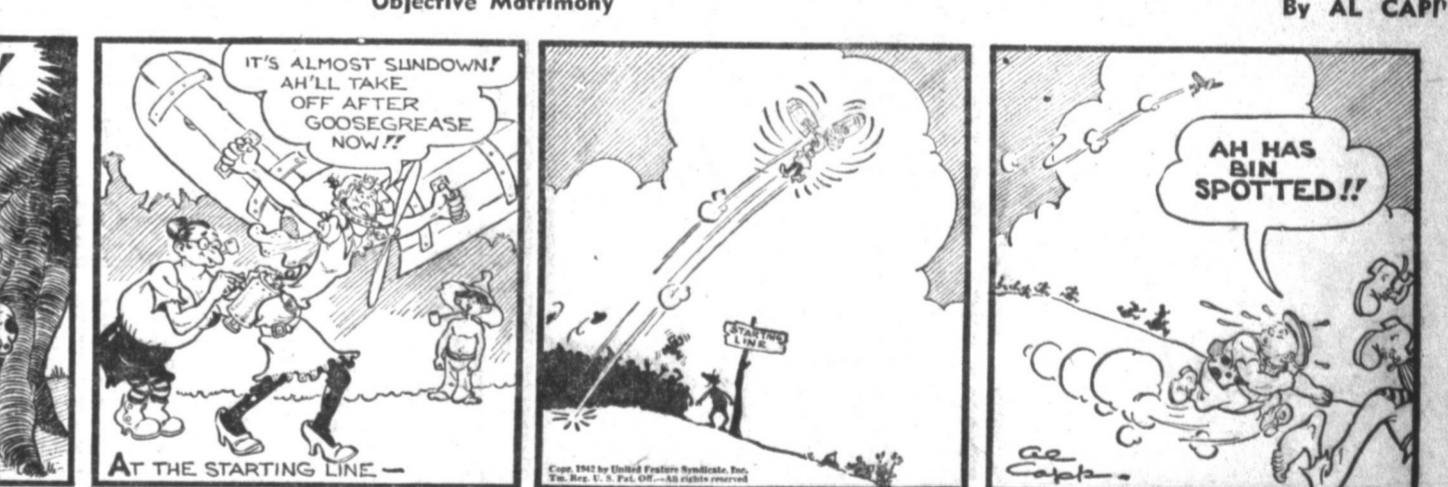

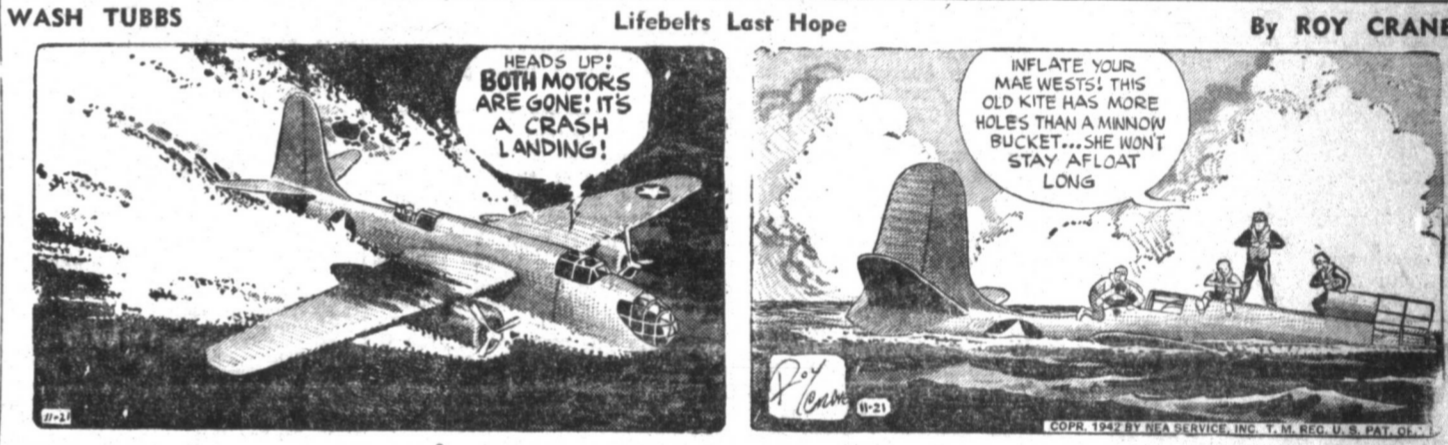

In an earlier statement Patman had said that "I would like to see rationing start on a liberal basis, with fuel given to those needing it, and the cut later if found necessary. I personally don't believe cuts would be necessary. The people realize the shortage of rubber. They have sense and won't waste their tires."

War And The Top O' Texas

Vital Information

Lieut. Col. Marvin B. Durrette, commander of the West Texas Recruiting and Induction District, has announced special openings in the engineer specialists corps. Men enlisted will be assigned to the engineer unit training center in Camp Claiborne, La.

The following specialists are needed at once: blacksmiths, blasters or powdermen, bridge builders, construction foremen, electricians, utility repairmen, quarrymen, riggers, sheet metal workers, linemen (telephone or telegraph) and jack-hammer operators.

Specialists enlisted will be forwarded to reception centers in the usual manner and will then be sent to Camp Claiborne without delay.

Men skilled in any of the above trades should contact the West Texas Recruiting and Induction District office in Lubbock or the Pampa army recruiting office.

The war department has announced publication of a booklet entitled "Personal Affairs of Military Personnel and Their Dependents."

Every member of the army will have access to the 46 page booklet. The booklet was printed by the United States Government Printing office. Dependents and others desiring copies of the booklet may secure them by writing to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. and enclosing 10 cents to cover the cost of printing.

Among subjects covered in the booklet are transportation of dependents of military personnel and shipment of household goods; allowances of pay and deductions; pay, allowances, and allotments of personnel reported missing, missing in action, or captured by the enemy.

If a consumer has registered and secured War Ration Book 1 he will not be required to register again to get coffee, as stamps No. 17 through 28 will be used to secure coffee rations, regional OPA officials said today. In any case, officials emphasized, consumers must have sugar ration books before they can get coffee.

Excess passenger car tires turned in by motorists under OPA's idle tire purchase plan numbered 1,483,800 on November 7, OPA reported.

Details of the plan to handle Canadian requirements for petroleum and petroleum materials on the same basis as those of the United States have been announced by Petroleum Coordinator for War Harold L. Ickes. The plan includes a provision for consideration of Canadian petroleum war plants as integral units of the U. S. war plant construction program and scheduling of material deliveries accordingly.

ported. Under the plan, which went into operation on October 15, car owners are required to dispose of all passenger tires over five per cent to the government to qualify for mileage rationing books.

OPA announced price reductions that will save farmers an average of $3 to $4 per ton on their purchases of oil meal and oil cake, chief source of vegetable protein for cattle, hogs and poultry. The reductions pass on to farmers savings made by the Commodity Credit Corporation in its contracts with oil seed crushers.

Postponement of ODT's mileage rationing program for commercial motor vehicles from November 15 to December 1 was announced by Director B. Eastman. The 15-day postponement will correlate ODT's program with that of OPA, which has put off the start of mileage rationing for private passenger cars from November 22 to December 1, and also will give commercial motor vehicle owners additional time to submit their applications for ODT certificates of war necessity.

WPB took tighter control over delivery of natural and manufactured gas, to cope with possible gas shortages in many parts of the country this winter. Order L-31, governing natural and mixed gas, was revised to provide that WPB approval must be obtained after November 30 for all new non-residential deliveries on a nationwide basis.

Prospectors "Strike It Rich" In Georgia's Gold Mines

U. S. Marine Staff Sgt. Samuel W. Lee and Isabelle Miller look over a huge drill salvaged from a defunct Georgia gold mine and now classified as scrap steel.

By DAVENPORT STEWART
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

ATLANTA, Ga.—They're working North Georgia's long-dormant gold mines again and taking out something that is now more precious than gold—scrap metal.

The new "strike" is yielding hundreds of tons of high-grade scrap vital to the nation's war effort—thousands of pounds of steel, iron, copper and brass. The gold in "them thar hills"—and, incidentally, that famous expression was born in Dahlonega, Ga., in '49—is of less value to the nation today than is the old machinery in shutdown mines and stamp mills.

RICH SCRAP VEIN

From the high, forested hills of Lumpkin county in the famed old Dahlonega gold belt, are being taken huge iron and steel stamps once used to crush quartz, copper amalgam plates once used to catch the particles of gold after the crushing operation, pipes through which once flowed water for hydraulic operators, and narrow-gauge railroad rails.

Much of this scrap, but some is being salvaged and converted for use in mining iron ore and manganese.

Mines which haven't been worked in more than 40 years are being stripped of machinery. Some 100 tons of metal were taken from the stamp mill of the famous old Consolidated Mining Company at Dahlonega. Completed about 1900, this mill was operated at a profit for only a few months and in 1904 it was shut down completely. Consolidated was the state's biggest projects.

Coffee Sales Stopped As Rationing Begins

Xmas Mail Must Be Posted Early Postmaster Warns

S. G. Surratt, acting Pampa postmaster, today repeated his warning to Pampans that the bulk of Christmas mail must be in postoffices by December 1 of this year if deliveries on time are to be assured. "It is physically impossible," Postmaster Surratt said, "for the railroads and air lines, burdened with vitally important war materials as rapidly as in normal times. "If the bulk of parcels and greeting cards are held back until the usual time—the period between December 15 and December 23—they simply cannot be distributed in time. "The postal service over the nation usually borrows about 2,500 trucks from the army, and rents 10,000 from private owners to handle the Christmas mail. This year, of course, it will be difficult to obtain enough of these vehicles to meet even a substantial part of the need."

The "prospectors" in the Dahlonega gold belt these days seek scrap and more scrap, not gold. The Dahlonega Lions Club has salvaged the metal from about 30 old diggings; the WPB special projects salvage section at Atlanta has assisted in getting title to metal equipment from eight mines where ownership was complicated; the U. S. Bureau of Mines, the WPB surplus equipment division and Capt. Garland Peyton, Georgia state geologist, have worked together in scouting the hill country for machinery not too rusty or obsolete for conversion to other mining

Coffee joined the select circle of tires, tubes, gasoline, and new automobiles, among rationed articles, when coffee sales in Pampa retail stores were halted at midnight last night.

The sales suspension lasting one week, will permit grocers to stock up for the start of coupon rationing, midnight, November 28, when every adult will be entitled to buy one pound every five weeks.

Coffee will be available to all persons over 15, who possess War Ration Book 1, Stamp 27 will be used. It will be good for one pound of coffee, for the entire period from November 29, to January 3, 1943. There will be only one pound every five weeks for adults.

Registration dates for what is defined as "institutional users" (restaurants, hotels, hospitals, and other such institutions) have been set for tomorrow and for Wednesday.

Institutions on those dates will bring to the office of the Gray County War Price and Rationing Board, at the city hall, inventories of the pounds of coffee used during September, 1942, during October, 1942, and the inventory of coffee on hand as of midnight, November 21.

In addition to this information, institutional applicants also are asked to submit a sheet listing names and addresses of all persons or firms from whom they have purchased coffee during September and October, and quantities purchased from each.

The coffee registration does not apply to grocery stores, but only to the classification mentioned.

Women For WAACS Are Sought Here; Platoon Planned

While the Pampa Army recruiting station has provided Uncle Sam with 244 recruits since March of this year, not a single Pampa woman has joined the Women's Army Auxiliary corps.

To offer the opportunity to enlist in the WAAC, Second Lieut. Rose L. Smothers from the West Texas Recruiting and Induction district headquarters, at Lubbock, will make her third visit in Pampa this week.

She will be on duty from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Friday, at the Army recruiting station, in the basement of the postoffice.

Every patriotic woman is reminded that by enlisting in the corps she is performing a double service to her nation:

She is herself serving in a unit that is actively doing war work; she is relieving for active service with fighting units a man who otherwise might be employed in a job that could easily be done by a woman.

Lieutenant Smothers will explain the corps, and take applications for enlistment here Friday. She is making a trip over the Panhandle to form a Panhandle platoon of the corps, to be known as the Panhandle Platoon of Rangerettes, corresponding to the Panhandle Platoon of "Skybusters," unit of Naval Air recruits.

Plans are now to swear in the Rangerettes in Amarillo December 7, anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

President Andrew Jackson and his wife both liked to smoke corncob pipes, according to historians.

EYES AT WORK

CAUTION... eyes at work need good light!

Men of America are using their eyes, day and night, to turn out extra work, to study new requirements—to produce those things that contribute to victory!

Now, more than ever, GOOD LIGHT is needed to protect precious eyesight. Therefore, when artificial light is needed, it is important that you use light of adequate intensity—light that does not glare. That means using a good reading lamp equipped with a fresh Mazda bulb of the right size!

Protect precious eyesight. Use good light where you do work requiring close vision.
