congress a bill abolishing the practice despite a senate vote effectively shelving the measure for this session.
The senate voted 41 to 37 yesterday against limiting debate on the measure and it was pigeonholed by unanimous consent a few minutes later.
Southern opponents of the measure, who had filibustered against it for more than a week showed surprising strength by obtaining a majority vote against invocation of the drastic cloture rule, which limits each senator to an hour's discussion when they needed only a one-third vote.

Funeral services for Mrs. C. P. Sloan, 75 who died early yesterday morning were to be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in First Methodist church, of which she was one of the first members. Mrs. Sloan had resided in Pampa for 37 years.

At services this afternoon Rev. E. B. Bowen, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Rev. B. A. Norris, pastor of First Christian church, will officiate. Pallbearers will be Billy Davis, Fred Herndon and Jack Sloan, grandsons; Joe Landreth, Rupert Orr, and L. N. Atchison. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

The News regrets that through an error the photo published in yesterday's paper was not that of Mrs. Sloan.

By The Associated Press
The Phillips Blackhawks carry Texas schoolboy football's longest winning streak into the bi-district round of the Class A football play-off this week.
The Blackhawks have now won 33 straight. Their last victory was Friday night as they beat Canadian 25-0 for their third consecutive district championship. They also have two regional titles to their credit, and will be seeking another as they battle Hereford in the first round.

"Sailors. Not Factory Workers" Is Goal Of U. S. Maritime Schools

A U. S. Maritime Service policy officer gives instruction in helmsmanship to a group of potential quartermasters, students at the Hoffman Island, N. Y., training school of the U. S. Maritime Service.

By TOM WOLF
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—For the want of a seaman, a ship was lost; for the want of a tank, a tank was lost; for the want of a sailor, a sailor was lost. Well, it all boils down to this, without more ships and more men to sail them, "too little, too late" could become the epitaph of democracy.

The ships are on the way from U. S. shipyards and this is a story about the men who sail them.

Manning the rapidly expanding fleet calls for 125,000 trained officers and men. The emphasis is on the word "trained." To get such men, the U. S. Maritime Service has greatly expanded its school program for both officers and men. More importantly, the War Shipping Administration, which directs America's wartime merchant marine, has recently ruled that no new sailor can go to sea without first attending one of the five U. S. Maritime Service training schools.

"SEND SAILORS TO SEA"

"We've got to start sending sailors instead of factory workers to sea," said Lieut. G. E. Harrington, USNR, executive officer of the training station at Hoffman Island, N. Y. "The difference is a vital one. The factory worker does not feel himself individually responsible for the welfare of his whole factory. A sailor must. In case of fire, he cannot say 'Oh, well, the boss is insured' and jump out the window."

The 1500 apprentice seamen at Hoffman Island, the Maritime Service's "mother" training station, have a constant visual reminder of the importance of the job ahead of them. Their station is a nine-acre dot at the entrance to New York harbor. Past them steam convoys to and from all parts of the world.

Before being admitted to the Maritime Service schools, a prospective seaman must join the Naval Reserve—thereby giving the government, which pays him $50 a month during training, an assurance that he will go to sea. If he doesn't do so voluntarily, the Navy can't induct him at the end of his training.

The schooling program was recently increased from three to five months. Even the unions, which once opposed the training program, fearing the creation of an excess labor supply which might threaten them, now applaud it.

After the basic training, a student specializes in one of the three ship departments—deck, engine or steward. He will eventually graduate as seaman second class, fireman third class, or mess attendant second class.

Before he is graduated, every apprentice puts in almost 100 hours in the life boats. The men need no prodding to master this phase of their training.

Graphic stories of courage in these lifeboats at sea are to be heard at the recently founded United Seamen's Service's rest homes for the rehabilitation of "shell shocked" sailors—who can, and want to, go back to the sea, but whose nerves are frayed after some particularly harrowing experience.

A Puerto Rican deck hand who broke his back in a loading accident plays Chinese checkers in the comfortable sun parlor of the Key-mil Roosevelt home at Oyster Bay, L. I. with a Negro seaman—survivor of nearly a month in a lifeboat under such torturous conditions that there were reports of cannibalism.

RESCUED, NEARLY DEAD

Down the wooded hill from the main house a young Yorkshireman, after five days on a raft off Iceland, sits in the sun, reading and sleeping, occasionally taking a busman's holiday in a rowboat.

His ship torpedoed as he slept, he managed to grab a pair of trousers and slippers before jumping into the icy ocean. A fireman shared his raft, for two days before he froze to death. The Yorkshireman lost consciousness on the fifth day, was sighted by a ferry command bomber and fished out of the sea, three-quarters dead, by a passing convoy.

In the huge, paneled library of the main house other men read, play cards, listen to the player-

The Hoving Reporter goes to sea to sea. Pictured above in this non-editorial outfit is Archer J. Fullington, yeoman first class in Uncle Sam's navy, who has been stationed at Davisville, R. I. The former city editor, who has written scores of cut lines similar to these now becomes the subject himself. Fullington enlisted in the navy at the time when Amarillo and Pampa were waging a feud as to whether Potter or Gray county would enlist in a certain period.

WAAC Leader To Seek Girls Here

Many West Texas cities, including Pampa, are not represented in the Women's Army Auxiliary corps. Only half as many women have enrolled as are needed at this time, therefore only half as many soldiers can be released for combat duty by December 1, as was originally planned.

To take up this slack is the purpose of the visit here Friday of Second Lieut. Rose L. Smothers. She will be on duty at the army recruiting station here to enlist women in the corps.

West Texas leads in army recruiting for the eighth service command, and Lieut.-Col. Marvin B. Durrette, West Texas district commander, wants to see the district lead also in the W. A. A. C. enlistments.

Additional training facilities have been set up at Des Moines, Iowa and a new training center will begin operations on December 1st in Daytona Beach, Fla. It is believed that women will respond in greater numbers since the need for non-combatant workers is so great. Civil service workers do not lose their status held at time of enrollment. They can return, at the expiration of their enrollment, to their former position or one of similar grade without loss of seniority rating.

Auxiliaries now earn the same pay as soldiers. Women entering the WAACS receive $50 per month plus clothing, food and lodging, medical care and hospitalization. Junior leaders receive $66 per month, leaders $78 per month and first leaders receive $138 per month.

Women who demonstrate unusual leadership qualities will be selected for officers training. These women will be placed in officer training schools and upon completion of the course will be commissioned in the WAAC as a third officer, who is equivalent to a second lieutenant in the Army.

An American engineer with 25 years of sea service behind him walks through the woods by himself. He can forget the bombings and sub attacks, but not the sharks that nearly got him at the end of the trip.

A Danish seaman, playing darts, is trying to regain the 40 pounds he lost during 48 days in a lifeboat. A Swede tankerman is trying to regain his hope and faith after losing 33 of his 39 shipmates in the flaming seas that consumed his play cards, listen to the player-

Postmastership Test Papers Now Here

Application for examinations for the postmastership of Pampa are now open. They must be filed not later than December 15.

Annual salary of the office is $3,500. The man chosen to be Pampa's postmaster will succeed S. G. Surratt, who has been named acting postmaster, succeeding C. H. Walker, who was automatically retired because of age regulations.

In order to be eligible for the examination, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must have actually resided within the delivery of this post office, or within the city or town in which the office is located, for at least one year immediately preceding the date fixed for close of receipt of applications, must be in good physical condition, and within the prescribed age limits, certain ways of the age limits being allowed persons granted veteran preference. Both men and women are admitted.

Under the terms of an act of congress, approved June 25, 1938, the Civil Service commission will certify the names of the highest three qualified eligibles to the postmaster general who shall thereupon submit the name of the eligible selected to the President for nomination. Confirmation by the senate is the final action.

Applicants will not be required to assemble in an examination room for written tests, but will be rated on their education, business or professional experience, general qualifications and suitability. The Civil Service commission will make an impartial inquiry among representative patrons of the office, both

If you own a passenger car and didn't register for gasoline rationing in the three-day period, November 19, 20, and 21, you still have a chance to do so.

From 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow at the red brick school building on the Junior High school campus, gasoline rationing registration will again be held.

Whether additional days will be provided has not been decided by the Gray County War Price and Rationing board.

Meanwhile, the board is "swamped" and has sent out an S. O. S. for volunteer workers to help in the registration tomorrow. If you can give even two hours' work, please notify the board at once in the office in the city hall.

The board today was considering applications for gasoline rationing of those persons unable to register before because the vehicle belonged to someone other than the applicant.

First to be considered by the board on gasoline rationing applications will be the applications of fleet owners and non-highway users of gasoline. Such applications should be submitted at once.

SHAMROCK—A census report shows that 1,171 bales of cotton were ginned in Wheeler county up until November 1 as compared with 1065 bales for the same period of 1941. The crop in Wheeler county is moving rapidly with the gins running day and night and the next report, which will be released by the department of commerce, in about two weeks, should show a tremendous increase over last year.

USO Rooms Will Be Open Tonight

Soldiers who have been "holding up the signs" in front of theaters and stores in Pampa, will be relieved from the boredom of being off duty with nothing to do when the United Service Organizations center is opened at 308 W. Foster at 6 o'clock tonight.

Enlisted men of the Air Corps are coming in constantly increasing numbers to Pampa, and are having a difficult time to spend the off-duty hours.

It is because of the immediate need that the center is being opened now, without waiting for the regular U. S. O. personnel to arrive.

Operated by Pampans drawn from clubs, associations and councils, the center will be temporarily in their charge until the U. S. O. personnel can arrive and take over.

A meeting of representatives of various civic groups was held at 1:30 p. m. today in the BOD committee room at the Chamber of Commerce to decide management details.

Pampans have been quick to respond to the call for loan of equipment to furnish the place. However, there is still need of all the articles originally asked for.

Ping pong tables, divan, chairs, magazine racks, floor lamps, record players.

If you have any of these or similar article you are willing to lend for two weeks, please call the chamber of commerce office, 383.

For the current period, the U. S. O. center will be opened only from 6 p. m. to 11 p. m., at the suggestion of Lieut. Col. Daniel S.

Party For Drafted Men Tomorrow

Invitations have been mailed to the next group of selectees to attend the regular send-off party to be held at 7 o'clock tomorrow night at the American Legion hut, 706 W. Foster.

Three Texans Win Coveted Air Honor

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA—(Associated Press Special Correspondence)—Three Texans were included among the 23 officers and men of the United States Air Corps who yesterday were awarded purple hearts for action in the Netherlands East Indies, the Philippines, New Guinea and areas north of Australia.

The awards were announced by Lieut.-Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Allied air forces in this area, who also announced awards of six silver stars.

Winners of the purple heart for wounds received in action included First Lieut. Robert J. Hinson, Lubbock, Tex.; First Lieut. John Thomas Hylton, Jr., Danville, Tex.; and First Lieut. Clarence E. McClaran, Marshall, Tex.

Campbell, commanding officer of the Pampa air base.

He explained soldiers will not be allowed off duty in the daytime for a few weeks and hence it would not be worthwhile to keep the center open except at night.

MEN OF 18 AND 19 ENLIST TODAY IN THE COAST ARTILLERY!

(HARBOR DEFENSE AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT)

- How would you like to shoot the wing off a Junkers bomber—or watch a Zero come tumbling down in flames under your fire? Thousands of red-blooded young Americans are joining the Army's Coast Artillery Corps for that kind of thrilling action.
- Mobile anti-aircraft batteries of the Coast Artillery not only guard our own country but go to every part of the world where the fighting is toughest. Armed with the deadliest guns, the most modern detecting and range-finding devices, their exciting job is to knock Axis planes out of the sky. Their slogan is "We keep 'em falling!" And they're equipped to move fast, wherever attack threatens.
- Coast Artillery men operate giant searchlights to hunt down the night raiders. They use automatic weapons, so startling and so effective that they've made Hitler shake in his boots. They handle the big barrage balloons that form a spider web of defense about our vital areas.
- If you are 18 or 19 and want action, here's your chance! Today, while you still have the chance to choose, enlist in the Coast Artillery or one of the other branches of the service open to you. Get full information at the nearest Army Recruiting and Induction Station—now!

THERE'S ALSO PLENTY OF ACTION IN THESE U. S. ARMY BRANCHES:

- AIR FORCES—Learn to fly and fight and keep 'em flying in one of more than 26 Air Force jobs. Bombardiers, navigators, pilots, gunners, radio men and mechanics are needed. Train for a career in this lightning service.
- ARMORED FORCE—Smash the enemy with a fast-moving, powerful team of tanks, combat cars, trucks, "jeeps," motorcycles. There's thrilling action for gunners, drivers, radio men and mechanics in the Army's toughest armored divisions.
- CAVALRY—Whether you like to ride a good horse or handle a fast armored car, motorcycle or truck, there's a place for you in the Cavalry's mobile striking force. The toughest the going the better the Cavalry likes it.
- CORPS OF ENGINEERS—In the forefront of the fighting much of the time, you'll see a lot of action with the Engineers. Building bridges, roads, air-fields and tank-traps—planning camouflage—destroying enemy installations—are all in the day's work.
- FIELD ARTILLERY—Here's the outfit that softens up the foe with a barrage of shell-fire, smashes his supply lines and his reserves. The guns roll fast behind speedy trucks and tractors. Plenty of action for loading drivers, gunners and mechanics.
- INFANTRY—Moving 40 miles an hour in big trucks, skiing in snowy mountains, dropping by parachute or flying into enemy territory in transport planes, today's infantry is streamlined. Eleven different weapons give steady fire-power. Upon enlistment you may receive assignment for tank-destroyer training.
- SIGNAL CORPS—In the nerve center of the Army, Signal Corps men "get the message through." Radio, telephone and other means of communication are their tools. They work with "electronic tricks" and other secret weapons, and get front-line action.

POST OFFICE BUILDING, ROOM 10-12, PAMPA, TEXAS

This automatic director puts anti-aircraft guns "on target." Like the secret detectors, so sensitive they can locate distant planes whether the motors are roaring or silent, these delicate machines take skilled handling.

They call anti-aircraft searchlight crews the "Moonlight Cavalry." Traveling far and fast, their powerful beams are lances of the dark, pinning enemy planes to the night sky—setting them up for the guns.

These big "ears" are the sound-scouts of the anti-aircraft units. They amplify the sound of approaching planes, locating them and determining their direction miles away.

The Coast Artillery is ready to blast hostile ships far at sea. Giant coast defense guns are of various types, some being from fixed emplacements, others mounted on wheels or railroad cars for swift mobility.

Barrage balloons, tested in action, have proved extremely effective in keeping enemy aircraft away from target areas. They force the attacking planes to stay at high altitudes.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE—"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Initiative, Energy, Materials

Henry J. Kaiser, probably the world's greatest shipbuilder, has this to say about the place of private industry in the future: "It has to be pounded into Americans that now is the time to make industry great. . . we have the whole world to produce for and there is no limit to it if people only realize it."

What our privately-operated industry has done for America it can help do for the world, if we give it a chance. To give it that chance we must guarantee its existence as free enterprise under equitable public regulation.

A Living Symbol

Families or parents who have men in military service have something to be thankful for that they probably do not fully appreciate as yet. Our military forces enjoy the most technically perfect, the most humane medical care ever conceived.

An incident that happened recently aboard a battleship "somewhere in the Pacific" may not prove unusual. An enlisted man was abruptly stricken with acute appendicitis. After a successful emergency operation in the ship's surgery, he found himself attended by his family doctor from his home town.

The doctor is a vital connecting link between the service men and the country for which they fight. And he takes far more into the Army with him than the skills of his profession. He takes with him the cream of American character instilled in him through years of study in our cultural and medical institutions.

Cars Are Essential

A significant change has taken place in our approach to the tire problem, since Mr. Jeffers became "Rubber czar." Nobody is trying to kid us any more into believing that all but a comparatively few of the nation's 27 million automobiles are luxury.

The United States News reflects this new common sense attitude in a report to car owners: "Automobile owners now have the government's assurance that they will be permitted to buy tires for essential operation of their cars. Whether the tires they buy will be new, used or recapped depends upon the amount of driving required by the car owners in their business and necessary household pursuits.

Poor Kids

Four Oklahoma youngsters, promised the privilege of christening the Liberty Ship Will Rogers in reward for scrap metal collection achievement, were disappointed because the WCTU objected to their smashing bottles of champagne on the hull.

The Nation's Press

We know of a business concern which employs half a dozen boys to run errands and do minor clerical work. Recently the boys told their supervisor they were being offered jobs in other places paying several more dollars per week than they were getting.

FREE TRADE FOR OUR BENEFIT

A reader who prides himself as being practical and chides me as being a theorist, implies that I want free trade from a philanthropic standpoint or with the desire of helping raise the standard of living of the people in India and throughout the world.

I will concede that their extreme poverty is due to another cause but I will not concede that free trade, everything else being equal, would not to some small degree improve their lot.

But I will admit that I am not interested so much in free trade for the benefit of the people who live in India or Japan or any other country, as I am interested in free trade because I think it would improve the living standards and reduce the poverty in this country.

I believe this because I am convinced that both parties are benefited when they exchange. I believe this because I am persuaded there is no nation or no people who know as much as all the world knows. I believe that trade is a great educator. I believe that the division of labor promotes efficiency.

Yes, I believe in free trade because I believe that if we freely exchange with the people in all the world we would have a higher standard of living in this country. We would have it because we would learn from the rest of the world. We would save human energy in the division of labor and then we would have no pricks of conscience if we had free trade and no immigration laws about the poverty and misery that exists in other countries.

CAUSE OF THE TREND IN VOTING

Many people are of the opinion that the sweeping change away from the Democratic party was a vote for the Republicans. I hardly think so. It cannot be regarded a vote for the Republican party because they have no program or platform much different from that of the New Dealers.

Since all of this happened, there has been set up procedure which will permit a tentative decision in cases such as described. Even so it will be some months before the boys and their employer will have a final ruling on their financial relationship.

Salary and wage control was not a project which bloomed overnight. It has been discussed for months. Early last summer reliable Washington dispatches told of official consideration of machinery very similar to that adopted. It was not until September when President Roosevelt brought the discussion to the stage of action. A law was enacted in early October. And in late October there was not in existence the machinery by which an employer conscientiously attempting to comply with the law could do so.

Of course the fact that the salaries of half a dozen boys should be subject to Government approval at all is absurd. But that absurdity is inherent in Government regulation. It is something that the most expert administration could not avoid, nor even very much mitigate.

When the Government starts to regulate salaries, it regulates all salaries; not just part. If it left an exempt class, it would create a situation where a great many people would be eager to take advantage of the exemption. Numerous people would be seeking the jobs in the favored places and none would want jobs in the other places.

So when a half dozen office boys want more money, a request must go through the Government mill. How many other office boys, stenographers, clerks, sub-executives and executives must be employed to pass on the request we do not know. It is a pretty safe guess that their salaries and expenses will be many times the few hundred dollars a year which the request involves.

DEEDS: Uncle Sam's all-out participation in overseas action has imposed new and heavy burdens on certain embarkation cities whose names cannot be given for obvious reasons. One Atlantic port, for instance, in addition to its usual requirements, must supply seven million gallons of water a day to soldiers concentrated there for shipment abroad. News Behind The News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

POST: The Republican Party may kick away its 1944 chances through an internecine struggle just as the Democrats did when Al Smith clashed with the late William G. McAdoo at the 1924 convention in New York's Madison Square Garden.

At the meeting of the national committee to be held December 7th, the fight will revolve around a successor to Chairman Joseph W. Martin. "Joe" and his group are supporting Werner Schroeder. The Wilkieites have turned thumbs down on the Illinois man because they regard him as an isolationist.

REJECTED: No matter how loyal American citizens with relatives in Germany or Nazi-occupied countries are being rejected for Army and Navy commissions. There have been several instances where Berlin has learned of Teutonic descendants in the United Nations' forces and has applied pressure on their folks in the homeland.

INGENUITY: New York executives believe, that business has learned from the experiences of war the secret of being a lack-of-all-trades. This versatility is likely to revolutionize postbellum industrial life. Instead of a shoemaker's sticking to his last after his product has become a flop, he will switch to more profitable lines.

PACKED: Although news of American military victories in North Africa and Guadalcanal drowned out certain Capitol Hill voices, a New Deal spokesman, Claude Pepper, expounded one of the most amazing theories in recent political or judicial history regarding Congress-Supreme Court relations.

There has been much-heralded conversions like those of auto and locomotive factories. But these require expensive and complicated tools and presses and are emergency measures. The more simple expansion into kindred fields will be permanent. Adaptation—not hidebound specialization—will be tomorrow's trend.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Service Staff Correspondent Behind the screen: Hollywood's outstanding Cindarella girl of 1942 is bespectacled 15-year-old Shirley Din-dale. Eighteen months ago she was just another little girl, albeit a brilliant one, attending school in San Francisco. Today she has a fat radio contract and film offers from every studio in town.

Shirley's father, a San Francisco puppetmaker and artist, was asked by an old vaudeville star, Lawrence Johnson, to make him a new ventriloquist dummy. Papa agreed if Johnson would give his daughter a few ventriloquism lessons. Shirley learned in four lessons.

Director Alfred Hitchcock was bedded the other day with the flu and Joe Cotton telephoned to see how he was feeling. During the conversation, Cotton mentioned that the director's agent, Myron Selznick, also had the flu. Replied Hitchcock: "That's understandable. My agent gets 10 per cent of everything I get."

AN AGREEMENT

The United States, however, has been content to make sure that the island was not used by the Vichy French or indirectly by the Germans. One agreement, negotiated last December, permits the Caribbean French possessions to continue their trade to keep the inhabitants from starvation, in return for pledges that the planes and ships would not be used against the United States.

10 PER CENT Director Alfred Hitchcock was bedded the other day with the flu and Joe Cotton telephoned to see how he was feeling. During the conversation, Cotton mentioned that the director's agent, Myron Selznick, also had the flu. Replied Hitchcock: "That's understandable. My agent gets 10 per cent of everything I get."

Short, short story: When he first arrived in Hollywood, Kurt Katich, the Russian-born character actor, didn't speak English too well. So his studio bosses ordered him to study hard, read the comics, listen to the radio and consult the dictionary frequently. Katich studied and practiced and went out of his way to pick up Americanisms. Months later he reported back to the studio. He could hardly wait to show how well he'd done with his English. Studio executives were impressed. They said they were proud of him. Next day the studio cast him in a picture. His role—a deaf-mute.

MORALE LIFTER

Everyone who has watched the effect of that musical morale lifter, "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," can see and hear the power of music as a propaganda medium. Its concrete evidence of what music can do for civilian morale. But it tells only half the story, according to Leith Stevens, the composer-conductor.

"Musical propaganda must be a two-edged sword if it is to accomplish broad-scale results," he says. "Today's music must re-create healthy traditions, express determination for a better world after the war."

In other words, "Praise the Lord and Pass the Compositions." -BUY VICTORY STAMPS-

A shabby "financier" went to a thriving town in California several years ago, organized a number of stock companies, started a bank, deposited all the money of the companies in his own bank, and then promptly went into bankruptcy. A few of the principal losers called on the supposedly insolvent promoter to determine if anything could be salvaged from the wreckage. They found him enjoying the luxuries of a magnificent apartment.

Shady Financier (mournfully)—I regret very much gentlemen, but I have practically nothing left. My wife owns this house and some business property, but I have nothing. Believe me, if I could do such a thing, I would give you my body and let you divide it among you, for there is nothing else I can give.

Angler (to a small proudly displaying catch)—Thank goodness, you have caught him. I'm tired of throwing the little beggar back.

French Islands Over Here Once More In Focus

By PETER EDSON The Pampa News Washington Correspondent

French possessions in the Western Hemisphere are again in the limelight as a result of the North African occupation by U. S. troops. The strategic possessions are St. Pierre and Miquelon, islands just south of Newfoundland, Martinique and Guadeloupe in the eastern Caribbean, and French Guiana on the northern coast of South America. While all have been the cause of trouble and diplomatic dickering, the official position of the United States today is that this government will continue to deal with the local French officials, ignoring anything that the Laval government in France may have to say. U. S. policy is first to safeguard American interests near these possessions; second, to protect them for the French people and to see that they are not turned over to puppet governments or individuals seeking to exploit them for private gain.

Most valuable of the possessions is Martinique. In the harbor of its capital, Fort de France, are a French naval aircraft carrier, 100 American planes on two cranes, and 140,000 tons of merchant ships. Back in the hills is buried a stock of French gold bullion, rushed there by the French republican government just before the fall of Paris.

The planes, hot stuff in 1940 are now probably obsolete. The battleships have been immobilized and their ammunition removed. The ships have only enough crews, fuel and equipment to keep them from deteriorating. Their escape is impossible, but there has been considerable pressure on the United States to move in on the island and seize it. The Free French in particular would like to see the gold stocks turned over to them.

EVIDENCE

Evidence is mounting that Burma and the adjoining Chinese province of Yunnan will be one of the war's major battlefields this winter. The question remains whether the choice of time and place will be made by Japan or the United Nations. Generals Wavell and Stilwell have made no secret of the Allies' determination sooner or later to retake Burma, scene of last spring's disaster which cost the lives of "humiliating as hell." Before the Monsoon comes again next May to draw its streaming, humid curtain over the battlefields that campaign may have begun. But will the Japanese wait? Can they afford to wait?

The logic of Japan's strategic situation calls loudly for action in southeastern Asia. This might take the form of a preventive thrust into eastern India, a two-headed drive from Burma and French Indo-China into Yunnan to occupy all that province, or even an all out attempt to destroy Chiang Kai-Shek's armies, attacking from the east as well as the south. It might well begin as the second and develop into the third. The Chinese are well aware of this danger and Chungking's military spokesman only a few days ago told of a new and formidable Japanese concentration in Indo-China and in the small slice of Yunnan along the Burma border which the invaders seized last spring.

Sunday's punishing American air attack on Haiphong, northern Indo-China's chief port, probably was aimed to interfere with such concentrations. It is entirely possible that a thrust into Yunnan would be the Japanese way of forestalling an Allied drive into Burma from India. The Tokyo High Command might be preparing ultimately to trade Burma for Yunnan, fighting only delaying actions in the former while seizing the latter and closing China's back door even tighter than now. Burma's chief strategic value to Japan was that its conquest closed the one effective avenue of Allied help to China. But conquest of Yunnan will achieve the same purpose and at the same time bring Japanese armies within striking distance of the heart of free China.

Look at it from the standpoint of Japan's problem of logistics. To supply her armies in Burma and Yunnan she must send ships all the way around the Malay peninsula, nearly 5,000 miles from her home bases and nearly 3,000 from her main southern China base at Hongkong. Now if her Burma-Yunnan armies could be supplied by way of Haiphong and the long unused railway through northern Indo-China and Yunnan to Kunming, the distance from Hongkong could be cut

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are bothering you, you may have tired kidneys. Do not ignore them. Backache may be warning, too, that your kidneys need attention.

The kidney is the chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste accumulates in the blood. These poisons may start nagging headaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep, and dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, backache and dizziness. Frequent or acute urination with irritating and burning sensations shows that something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give heavy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
