Soldiers See Pampa Sunday On Auto Tour

It can be done when Pampa does it. On only one day's notice in the newspaper on KPND, and that on the very day the event was scheduled, Pampans turned out in response to a call for automobiles and drivers to provide soldiers at the air base with a sight-seeing trip around the city.

There were 100 automobiles, enough nearly to provide each soldier with a car of his own for the trip.

The story calling for the cars appeared in The Pampa News yesterday morning, asking for cars to be in position on N. Ballard street, ready to start to the air base at 1:30 p. m.

Aside from radio announcement Saturday and Sunday and notice in Pampa churches, Pampans had no knowledge of the plan for the trip.

Yet, before 1:30 two lines of cars were formed on Ballard street for two blocks, headed by the guide car, a U. S. Army sedan driven by Sgt. James V. Arnett.

After driving to the air base, the caravan took aboard its passengers at base headquarters, and the soldiers were given a trip that included the following points:

Danger refinery, Pampa country club, Pampa airport, views of houses on E. Browning, Central Park, Mary Ellen street, Pampa High school, Charles street, Sam Houston school, N. Somerville, Worley hospital, the Hobart residence, view of the oil fields, General Atlas Carbon company, Cabot Shops, Inc., the Cuyler street underpass.

The caravan disbanded at the starting point on Ballard. Most of the cars failed to keep in close enough to the car ahead, so that some failed to make the right-hand turn at the underpass and continued up Cuyler, instead of going to Atchison and up Ballard as had See SOLDIERS, Page 8

27 Are Hurt In Rail Wreck

NEW BRAUNFELS, Nov. 30 (AP)—At least 27 persons were injured, one seriously, when two cars of the San Antonio-bound Missouri Pacific Sunshine Special were derailed half a mile north of here last night.

Witnesses said had the accident occurred 100 feet farther on, the cars would have plunged into the Guadalupe river.

The injured included: Mrs. Ada McFarland, Nogales, Ariz., treated and released; C. C. Sansome, Palestine, Texas, Pat O'Connor, of San Antonio, the brakeman; J. H. Riley, of San Antonio and Pvt. J. H. Harkins, Taylor, Texas.

I SAW

A rat ferrier at one of the gates to the Pampa air base yesterday who was battling a rat almost as big as he was. Ten minutes later he was still barking and hitting the rat, then in a sudden outburst of bravery, after killing the rat, the dog ran out and barked at the first car of the sightseeing motorcade. He was chased away by an M. P.

Match Was Fire's Cause Police Say

BOSTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—State and county law-enforcement officers went into immediate action today to determine whether any law violation had contributed to the Saturday night fire that suddenly converted the Coconut Grove night club into a house of flaming death for 477 merrymakers.

BOSTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—A tiny match flame in the hands of a 16-year-old busboy touched off a lightning-like fire that snuffed out the lives of more than 477 Coconut Grove night club merrymakers and injured more than 200—many seriously—in one of the nation's worst holocausts.

Deputy Police Superintendent James R. Claffin quoted the youth, Stanley P. Tomaszewski, as saying that he accidentally ignited a paper palm tree that caused the terrific blaze which threw about 1,000 persons into a fighting, clawing panic in efforts to reach safety.

The boy related, Claffin said, that he was trying to replace an electric light bulb which had been unscrewed by a prankster in the recently opened Melody Room of the club when the match flame brushed the flimsy palm and set off the devastating blaze.

The flames swept through the highly inflammable decorations as the orchestra leader raised his baton to signal for the national anthem as a prelude to the Saturday

Allies Storm Up Close To Tunis

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—British and American forces, supported by a rising tide of aerial blows at the enemy on both sides of the Mediterranean, have stormed forward to within less than 12 miles of Tunis in a drive which has all but isolated that city and Bizerte, main Axis-held strong point in Tunisia.

The Allied advance was disclosed today by a headquarters communiqué which said fighting now was progressing east of Djedeida, which is 12 miles northwest of Tunis on the Tunis-Bizerte railroad. This indicated the Allies were driving a wedge straight toward the coast to separate the Axis strongholds.

Bizerte was the target of an attack by Allied planes which scored hits on the naval base, the communiqué said, and Allied fighters were credited with destruction of four enemy planes in operations over forward areas.

The Allied announcement failed to disclose the extent of the thrust toward Tunis but the Morocco radio said yesterday that the Allies already were within cannon range of that capital of Tunisia.

Japs Striving For Toehold

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Their Kiska base under almost constant pounding by American bombers, the Japanese are attempting to secure a new foothold on the bleak little island of Attu, westernmost of the Aleutian chain.

The Navy disclosed yesterday that the enemy had reappeared on Attu by announcing Army "Flying Fortresses" had attacked a small Japanese cargo vessel off the island, setting it afire with three bomb hits on Thanksgiving day. When last seen, the vessel appeared to be sinking.

The communiqué said fighters accompanying the "fortresses" also had strafed enemy anti-aircraft installations on the island, indicating that the Japanese would attempt a show of resistance against attacks such as those that have made their Kiska base 160 miles to the east, virtually useless. Attu lies about three-fourths of the way from Alaska to the Kurile islands of Japan, and the enemy might well regard it as being more valuable from a defensive than from an offensive standpoint.

First indication that they were attempting to regain Attu, after the Navy's announcement of Oct. 7 that aerial reconnaissance showed no signs of life on either Attu or Agattu, came on Nov. 11, when it was announced that Army planes

Early Fire Guts Plant Of Packing House

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Panhandle Packing company, 1700 Alcock, at 3:25 a. m. today.

The blaze apparently started in the engine room. When firemen arrived at the scene, the packing company building was on fire from end to end. Fire Chief Ben White said:

Firemen strung 2,600 feet of hose and battled the flames until 7:30 this morning, or three hours and 25 minutes, before the fire was put out.

Only the walls of the building were left intact. Front of the building is of brick. Meat contained in a vault in the southeast corner of the building was virtually all that was saved.

Machinery, stocks of meat, and all sorts of equipment were lost in the fire. The loss was covered by insurance.

New Row Looms Over Ickes' Choice

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt may find a large part of his cabinet subjected to some lively congressional criticism if he goes through with a plan for a three-way shift making Harold L. Ickes secretary of labor with control over manpower.

Ickes already has been offered the post and if he accepts, the President would be expected to seek senate confirmation for this nomination as well as those of Paul V. McNutt to be secretary of the interior and Frances Perkins to be federal security administrator.

Republicans, and some Democrats, already are tuning up their vocal chords for this prospective opportunity of discussing the part the Roosevelt cabinet has played in the

300,000 Said To Have Fled Turin

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull indicated today the government was expecting explosive developments in Italy's internal situation soon.

Hull was asked at his press conference about reports of serious unrest, including mutinous behavior in the army.

Meanwhile, he added, one should not be surprised to hear of just such developments in Italy.

By ROGER D. GREENE Associated Press War Editor

RAF warplanes blasted Italy before dawn today for the second time in 36 hours, pounding home Prime Minister Churchill's warning to the Italian people to get out of the war or suffer a "prolonged, scientific and shattering air attack."

Simultaneously, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from the Italian frontier reported that 300,000 persons had fled the Italian arsenal city of Turin, normal population 622,000, since the RAF began its new trans-Alpine aerial offensive Oct. 22.

More than 100,000 incendiaries in addition to 8,000-pound "blockbusters" were unloaded on Turin in the RAF's Saturday night raid, and a Canadian pilot declared the city's buildings were left "seething as though they were bubbling with molten lava."

Travelers arriving in Turkey from Italy said the Germans were hurriedly building fortifications along the German-Italian frontier and along the Balkan side of the Adriatic sea against the day Italy quits the world war.

Other reports said Adolf Hitler had sent 60,000 Nazi "tourists" into Italy in an attempt to prevent the Italians from making a separate peace.

In a victory broadcast yesterday, Prime Minister Churchill promised that the war would soon be carried to Italy "in a manner not hitherto dreamed of by its guilty leaders."

He added significantly: "We expect to expel the enemy before long from the 2,000 miles of African coastline. But Africa is a halting place. It is not a seat but a springboard. We shall use Africa to come to closer grips."

On the Tunisian front in North Africa, American and British troops were reported in position for a climatic assault on Tunis, the Axis-held capital, after occupying the key rail junction at Djedeida, 12 miles northwest of Tunis.

Allied artillery was already drawn up within range of the fortified city, and military quarters said the big push would probably start with attacks on the three Axis-guarded airdromes around the city.

Russians Claim Success

British headquarters said Allied heavy bombers pounded anew at Tripoli, Tunis and Bizerte, softening up the German and Italian strongholds as a prelude to the land assault to drive the Axis into the sea.

For the fourth consecutive day, the British communiqué announced "nothing to report from our land forces" in Libya as Gen. Sir Ber-

Allies Succeed In Jap Blow

By The Associated Press

Allied troops today were reported to have captured a beach 500 yards east of the beleaguered Japanese stronghold at Gona, New Guinea, and apparently cut the enemy's 16-mile coastal defense strip after U. S. Flying Fortresses smashed a new Japanese seaborne attempt to land reinforcements.

Front-line dispatches said Australian jungle fighters, supported by planes and artillery, had run the enemy's beach defenses at Gona and were pushing on toward Sanananda farther up the coast.

Several hundred Japanese were believed cut off in a pocket at Gona. American fortress aircraft were officially credited with setting fire to two Japanese destroyers and forcing two others to sea in breaking up the enemy's latest attempt to land reinforcements.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the big fortress planes scored direct hits with 500-pound bombs on two of the enemy warships and both were believed to have sunk later.

Gen. MacArthur also reported that Allied naval forces had intercepted an 8,000-ton German auxiliary vessel with gunfire and captured 78 of the crew after the Nazis scuttled their ship.

On Guadalcanal island, in the Solomon, the Navy reported only minor patrol activity.

I HEARD... C. D. Hill of Associated Mechanics, who is a steamfitter and employed on defense jobs, saying his wife has a name for the Pampa air base. Mrs. Hill suggests naming it Worley Field, after Rep. Eugene Worley of Shanrock, in whom Mrs. Hill says a large part of the credit for setting the field located here is due. The army will no doubt consider what it desires, regardless of suggestions, and it wasn't the intention of this corner to make a naming contest. Nevertheless, we appreciate Mrs. Hill's suggestion.

Marriage of Miss Orene Alford And J. P. Vanderpool Solemnized

Miss Orene Alford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Alford, became the bride of J. P. Vanderpool, son of Mrs. A. W. Vanderpool of Beggs, Oklahoma, in a double ring ceremony solemnized last Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. E. Douglas Carver of First Baptist church.

The bride wore an ensemble of solid blue with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. For "something old" she carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother; for "something borrowed" she wore a necklace given to her mother by her father on their wedding day; for "something new" she carried a gold compact set by her brother, First Lieutenant Taber Alford of Fort Washington, Maryland; and for "something blue" she wore a service pin for her brother.

Attending the ceremony were the bride's parents. Following the ceremony, dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alford. An arrangement of red and white carnations formed the centerpiece for the lace covered table which was lighted with white tapers in crystal holders. A miniature bride and bridegroom topped the three-tiered wedding cake which was encircled in tiny rose buds and fern.

The couple left Saturday night for a trip to Oklahoma City after which they will be at home in Pampa. Mrs. Vanderpool was graduated in 1940 from Pampa High school where she was a member of the glee club and a cappella choir. She is a member of the young people's quartet of the First Baptist church. ### Ike And Ike, Were Much Alike; 'Little' Ike's Gone Off To Africa

By DANIEL J. MARSTON

TACOMA, Wash.—Big Ike and Little Ike always ran together in their boyhood home back at Abilene, Kansas.

So Big Ike—now Atty. Edgar H. Eisenhower, a leader in civic circles here the past 28 years—was duly proud of Little Ike—Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the American forces invading North Africa.

"Dwight could never get enough history," his brother recalled, as the story unfolded of our African operations. "That's one trait that, I think, led to where he is today."

FIVE BROTHERS
Looking back to their youth, Edgar Eisenhower said there were five brothers, Arthur, Milton, Earl, Dwight and himself. Arthur was the oldest.

"I came next," he recalled, "and then Dwight. When Arthur went off in the world, Dwight and I ran together. We went through grade school and high school together, played all the games, fought all the battles together. I was Big Ike and he was Little Ike. The kids called us Ike to abbreviate Eisenhower."

which was too much a mouthful to yell across the street.

The family had no military tradition. It had moved a couple generations ago from Pennsylvania to Kansas as pioneers. If their father had not been short of money with which to educate his big family of sons, Dwight Eisenhower might not be leading the American forces today.

"It was simply that Dad didn't have the money to send us all to college," Attorney Eisenhower said. "Dwight wanted an education and he found he could get it at West Point. So there he went."

BOTH HEARTY MEN
There is only a year's difference between the two brothers. Friends here who knew the general when he was stationed at nearby Fort Lewis say they are alike as "two peas in a pod." Both are hearty men, love a laugh and activity and shun any semblance of snobbery.

Mrs. Ida Eisenhower, their mother, a spunky, active lady although now 82 years old, came from Kansas to visit her Tacoma son in August. Their father died last March at Abilene.

The brother, Milton, is chief assistant to Elmer Davis, administrative head of the Office of War Information. Arthur is vice president of a Kansas bank and Earl an electrical engineer at Pittsburgh.

Edgar chuckled when he recalled what their high school class historian, a girl named Cecil Curry, had predicted for Dwight. It was that he would become a history teacher. Instead—"He became a history-maker," said Mrs. Edgar Eisenhower.

She started a training course here last week, will be here five weeks more, in the office of the Texas Old Age Assistance division of the department, at the court house.

Schools To Aid In Bond Sale

Gray county schools are due to have a new job of encouraging the sale of Victory bonds and stamps.

Now schools will be given a quota according to an Associated Press story from Austin, telling of a conference between Mrs. J. M. Walker of Plainview, associate director of the war savings program for schools, and L. A. Woods, state school superintendent.

At the conference, held in Austin, Superintendent Woods assigned quotas for every school in Texas. The conference also included Mark Larkin of Washington, consulting expert for schools at war. While Gray county schools have regularly been boosting the sale of Victory stamps and bonds, this is the first time quotas have been assigned, however, no notice of the Gray county schools quotas has yet been received.

WASTING MAN POWER IN ORDER TO REGIMENT It looks as if the New Deal were deliberately wasting man power by putting more than 1,000,000 unnecessary men on the government payroll so that they can have an excuse to regiment and goose-step the whole population.

THE BIG NOISE IN ITALY

They Say There's No Need To Be A Neurotic Nellie

By PETER EDSON The Pampa News Washington Correspondent A congressman from New Jersey recently called up the headquarters of the government agency charged with recruiting doctors for the armed services, moaning low that a lot of the people in a town of this congressman's district were protesting that one of the doctors of this community was about to be commissioned in the Navy Medical Corps.

Today's War Analysis

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb, Mr. MacKenzie, now traveling in the African war zone, is expected to resume in a day or two.) Winston Churchill's broadcast yesterday contained the strongest warning he has yet given Italy, delivered in that voice of doom he employs so sonorously and flavored with the richest flow of scorn he has ever turned on Mussolini, who may be labeled for all history by Churchill's fruity epithets.

Logistics

Frank amateurs, the American Service has shown a pretty keen grasp of the military sciences called "logistics." It has resulted as much from skillful logistics as from the weight of the guns. The Japs, under different logistics in a strictly professional way, are being fought.

Possibly they have thought of the remotely located citizen who will have to consume most of his ration of gasoline in getting his car to the point of testing.

STORM: Through its very effective underground, Belgian headquarters in New York has received word that the puppet government in Brussels has been ordered by Berlin to recruit five hundred thousand skilled workers for transport to the Reich. Apart from the indignity and heartbreaks involved in this act of slavery, a significant fact appears in the official notice for deportation: The conscripted laborers are all to be sent to the central European industries; none to the Rhineland.

KYSER has been so busy lately chasing around the country that he hasn't had much time to find out about his next movie, a musical starting soon at MGM. About all he knows is that he turned down the first script because it was a "one-man show," and that he'll play a character instead of Kay Kyser for the first time on the screen.

Stretch Is Out

All this is not set down to minimize the fact that there are genuine shortages of doctors in some areas, and that these shortages may be caused by heavy recruitment of physicians. You can't slap 50,000 or 150,000 workers into a new war production area that two years ago was a great open space and expect them to get along without doctors.

1942 Labeled Dizziest Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP)—The dizziest football season of them all, complicated by the uncertainties of war, had all but run its course today, leaving coaches, players and fans convinced that the definition of armed conflict by a fellow named Sherman was a masterpiece of understatement. In spite of an unprecedented quota of form reversal, all sections of the country have succeeded in crowning champions except the Pacific Coast, where they may need another two weeks and the help of a bloodhound to find a conference titlist and a host team for the Rose Bowl game. There still are a few odds and ends to be picked up elsewhere, the remainder of the country saw the screw campaign stagger to what amounted to a finish Saturday and undid what surprises it had left on an unsuspecting Holy Cross, a 4-to-1 underdog, crushed Boston College's previously unbeaten Eagles, 55-12. Navy planned a 14-0 defeat on an Army team that was favored at 3-to-1. And Georgia, humbled by Auburn the week before, bounced back to ruin Georgia Tech's spotless record, 34-6. All told, the day's activities added to the lineup of conference champions until now it looks like this: Western—Ohio State. League—Pennsylvania. Southeastern—Georgia. Big Three—Yale. Southwest—Texas. Big Six—Missouri. Southern—William and Mary. Missouri Valley—Tulsa. Big Seven—Utah and Colorado (tie). Pacific Coast—Still undecided. Washington State lost a chance to clinch a tie for the Pacific Coast crown by playing a scoreless deadlock with Washington Saturday, leaving U.C.L.A. and Pacific Coast with four victories and one defeat. Southern California, which still has a chance for a title tie, plays Montana this week and U.C.L.A. meets Idaho in conference play. Then U.S.C. collides with the U.C.S. in Dec. 1 in what looks like the deciding game. The Pacific Coast champ, when selected, will go into the Rose Bowl, Jan. 1, against Georgia, which was invited soon after its Saturday victory, clinching the Southeastern conference title. Tennessee closed its season with a 19-7 triumph over Vanderbilt and was named to play in the Sugar Bowl against Tulsa, Missouri Valley champion and only major team with an all-victories record. With the Southwest conference title tucked away, Texas has qualified for the Cotton Bowl and Georgia Tech has been invited as the other team. Both are expected to make their decisions today. In Saturday's Southwest conference games, Rice blanked Baylor, 24-0, and Texas Christian University, Southern Methodist, 14-6. The loop will close its season with S.M.U. playing Rice Saturday, although Texas A. and M. has an inter-sectional date with Washington State the same day. Ohio State, the Big Ten champion, finished with a convincing 41-12 victory over Iowa pre-flight which still has a game with Missouri this week. Michigan closed the Big Ten champion by stopping Iowa, 28-14. Notre Dame blanked Southern California, 20-0, and ties into Green Bay this week. Other games Saturday send William and Mary's Southern conference champions to Oklahoma, which finished second in the Big Six when Nebraska was upset by Stanford, 28-13, tackles California Sunday. The picture for the Jan. 1 Bowl games looked like this today (won-lost-tied records in parentheses): Rose Bowl at Pasadena—Georgia (10-1-0) vs. Pacific Coast champion. Sugar Bowl at New Orleans—Tulsa (10-0-0) vs. Tennessee (8-1-1). Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Texas (8-2-0) vs. Georgia Tech (9-1-0). Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.—No teams selected. Boston College, headed for the Sugar Bowl by the Holy Cross' thing happened, was reported invited to the Orange Bowl along with Alabama, but there was nothing official about either bid. The Corn Bowl, scheduled for Chicago's Soldier Field under the sponsorship of the Catholic Youth Organization, joined the list of post-season games yesterday with the initial invitation to Holy Cross. —BUY VICTORY BONDS Sports Roundup BY HUGH FULLERTON Jr. NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP)—Book for a tremendous turnover in football coaching before next season (if there is a next season)... Stanford May Get To Bowl

By RUSSELL NEWLAND SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30 (AP)—As the climax to one of the most remarkable finishes recorded in Western football in years, the Stanford Indians have elbowed their way into the Rose Bowl picture. They may not make it but there wasn't the slightest doubt today that Stanford would give the Rose Bowl conference heads would give the Indians consideration in the voting Dec. 12 to name the league's opponent for University of Georgia in the New Year's Day post-season classic at Pasadena. While the three top conference candidates, University of California at Los Angeles, Southern California and Washington State, have faltered in the stretch run, Stanford finishes like a champion with four lopsided victories. The Indians ran out their ten-game schedule Saturday with a routing 28 to 13 win over the powerful and previously undefeated St. Mary's navy preflight eleven. On preceding week-ends they knocked over such worthies as California, 26-7; Oregon State, 49-13 and Washington, 20-7. —BUY VICTORY BONDS YESTERDAY'S FOOTBALL SCORES By The Associated Press Fresno State 27, Loyola (Los Angeles) 6. Vols' Huffman Is One Deadly Block & Tackle

AP Features KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—"He's real dynamite wrapped up in a large parcel." This bit of description about Richard (Dick) Huffman was penned by publicity director Jack Joyner in the Tennessee football booklet before the grid season blossomed forth last September. "The sophomore tackle from Charleston, W. Va., has lived up to every inch of pre-season billing, displaying uncanny accuracy and deadliness in his flying blocks and terrific tackles as a Volunteer. Proof of his offensive tactics rests with such outstanding opponent stars as Steve Filipowicz of Fordham and Louie Johnson, Alvin Dark of Louisiana State. Both ran his way against Tennessee and both were jarred into realization that Huffman plays the game for keeps. Dark, heralded triple threat with the LSU Tigers whom Huffman had picked apart would beat Tennessee with his passes and running, experienced one flying block from Huffman and then staggered off the field not to return during the second half. The Volunteers there have been other examples of Huffman's exploits, but to Coach John Barnhill of the Volunteers the West Virginian's been worth his weight in sugar and coffee already. "Dick plays the perfect Tennessee type of football," Barnhill said. "He runs into practice what we preach about blocking and tackling. To win football games there must be good blocking; to stop the opposition there must be tough tackling. Huffman has done both remarkably well—and, well, we've won some games this year." Huffman doesn't let up even in practice sessions. THE EDGE OF DARKNESS

THE STOLEN GUN

CHAPTER XIII
'I DON'T know what to do,' she cried suddenly. 'They lied to me.'
And then a smile broke out on his lips. 'No!'

'Yes. Yes. They made me all kinds of promises, and didn't keep a one of them. They wanted me to work in a factory. They said I was only a Pole after all, but they hadn't talked that way when I was home, and could still have gone over to the English.'

'I told them I was an actress. Then they said that before I could act in the Berlin State Theater I would have to prove my loyalty. They made me come to Norway.'

'But what do you want me to do about it?'
She stopped, looking up at him with wide and pleading eyes. 'Please don't go to me, I thought since you were here, and were pretending to be a high officer, maybe you could talk to the captain and get him to send me back.'

Gently he put her hands away, got up, and went to the window. The clearing lay warm and still in the midmorning sunlight. Here and there beneath the trees a few red and yellow leaves slid sideways down like small ships. 'What a fool I am,' he thought. 'Here I stand talking to her, and God knows what's going on in her mind. He looked back at the girl, and was surprised to find how much the sight of her affected him.'

'So you are afraid,' he said. 'Why?'
'I don't know.'
'Have the soldiers been unkind to you?'
'No.'

'Is it my coming that made you afraid?'
'Oh, please stop asking me.' She came to the window and clasped him about the shoulders, pressing her cheek to the back of his coat. 'I'm so lonely,' she cried. 'I hate them. I can't stand being with them any longer. You must help me.'

'You will have to help yourself.' At last he turned. He saw her still, that small girl riding in the park, in the beautiful Laszlenki Gardens, with an officer beside her. 'I know your trouble,' he said. 'It is a bad conscience. Do you want me to tell you the truth?'
You will never play in the State Theater in Berlin, and in your heart you know it. Nobody needs you. There are many actresses with far more talent. The Germans you loved so much have made a fool of you.'

The tears started to her eyes. A pity woke in him for her weakness and unhappiness, and a pain for those warm, dead days when schoolmasters sat at their desks, and girls rode in the Laszlenki Gardens.
She mistook his silence, lifted her head slowly, and began to smile with a new bitterness about her mouth. 'I could do it so easily,' she said. 'Only one word. That's all I would need. Oh, yes, you think you can let me as you please. You think...'

'What would you gain?'
'She saw that his eyes were mocking her.
'I could go down to the captain,' she said in a louder voice. 'Oh, my poor Englishman. My poor, crazy Englishman.'

'Katja.' His eyes grew hard and narrow, and he strode forward and took her by the wrist. She cried out in surprise at the pain of his grip. 'You fool,' he said. 'You could help us all, instead of talking such chatter.'
'You think so,' she cried fiercely. 'But it's too late.'
'You wanted me to tell you what to do.'
She straightened up. 'Let me go. I don't need your advice.'
He dropped his hand, and she started toward the door.

RUCK turned to the window. His attention was caught by the sight of an old man climbing wearily up the path from town. Dressed meticulously in black, even to his flat-crowned hat and bow tie, and with his small beard neatly trimmed, he came striding slowly, with a sort of old-fashioned dignity, across the clearing. He carried a walking stick crooked over his right arm.
The soldiers must have seen him about the same time, for they started making good-humored remarks about him as soon as he came into the clearing. 'Ho, ho, the schoolmaster. Boys, have you studied your history? Look at that cane. He'll beat you if you don't know your lesson.'

The old man paid them no attention, but came slowly to the steps. 'Good morning,' he said. 'My name is Andresen. Sixtus Andresen.' There were little wrinkles at the corner of his lips as if he were laughing inside himself.

The Polish girl lay on her bed, staring with wide and frightened eyes at the ceiling. She had been crying. But now everything was still.
Katja was wavering between two choices. One was to help the people in the village as Ruck had asked her to do. But that would take courage. The other was to lead her own life and try to get back to what she had always wanted. That second choice, so much the easier, had been strengthened by the ever recurring hope that they would send her back to the continent.

She had come slowly to believe that it was really true, that there was no hope. And discovering at the same time that there was no real life for her in joining a fight with which she knew she could never be a part, she realized there was only one path left.
Katja knew suddenly what she must do. It would not be hard to steal a pistol from a soldier's room.

They slapped each other on the back and sprang to mock attention. One of them cocked his cap rakishly and spat onto the steps.
'Would you be so kind as to tell me if your commanding officer is here?'
'To be sure,' said one, rolling his eyes skyward. 'To be sure, and he started to bow, but at that moment, catching sight of the old man's face, stern, and yet full of quiet pride, his bow became awkward, as if before he finished he intended to become serious.

Sixtus Andresen started forward, but a burly trooper sitting on the porch landing crossed his long, booted legs in front of him, blocking the steps.
'Would you be so kind,' said Sixtus, and tapped the man's boots with his stick. The soldier started to laugh, but then he realized that the old man was staring at him strangely.
'Well, what's wrong?' he asked.
'Nothing. Nothing,' Sixtus said slowly, 'but your ancestors were Slavs, were they not?'

The soldier flushed angrily and scrambled up. 'What do you mean by that?' he burst out. What makes you say...?'
'High, receding forehead and flat-topped skull,' Sixtus answered, repeating every word distinctly. 'Next time you look in the mirror, you will find you are a bit different from your comrades.' And with that, and a little nod to either side, he stepped past and vanished into the hotel.

Syndicate Acquires Oklahoma Indians

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas League were purchased by H. O. Pope and C. F. Virtue, and the Holland family—which had guided the precarious fortunes of the club for 24 years—thus stepped quietly from the picture.

Sold were the franchise, Holland field, the $85,000 home park of the team, and the contracts of 16 players, six of whom are in the armed forces.
Pope and Virtue both said they were going ahead with plans for the operation of the team in the Texas league in the 1943 season, and would continue to operate independently of major league clubs, except for optioned players. They reported promises of players had been obtained from three major league clubs.

Letter Delayed
Davis enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1940. Their letter from him was written in 1941, just before war was declared. At that time he was a private. Gen. MacArthur's plan in the Philippines. Davis remained here in the forenoon she imagined a search for her son. She had gone downtown. She didn't find him for two hours and he, too, was almost overcome by the good news.

Accompanying the letter from their son was an official note to the Davis family telling them that it could not be divulged how their son escaped, nor how his letter was able to get through. He is known now to be living with Americans, and is in good health.

Trip Made On Schedule
A majority of the soldiers wanted to stay in town so it was not necessary to re-form the motorcade for any who desired to return after the trip to the base.

Sergeant Arnett drove at a conservative rate of speed, 20 miles an hour out to the base, and slightly above that on the trip proper. The guide car was back at the starting point at 4 p. m.

At the air base, there was a slight delay, while the guide car drove ahead to make contact with the photographer, Staff Sgt. M. Tamburano, who took pictures of the north gate, and of the cars as they were aligned after taking the soldiers aboard. On leaving the base, cars had to stop to allow soldiers to check their passes.

He also took a picture of J. R. Martin, member of the American Legion committee, who was the originator of the idea for the trip. Second Lieut. Harold Smith, public relations officer, Second Lieut.

Churchill Observes Birthday At Work

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill arose before dawn today and plunged into his arduous daily tasks with scarcely a moment to receive felicitations on his 68th birthday, and congratulations on his address last night when he bluntly advised Italy to get out of the war, and coupled his review of good war news with an admonition to expect a "stern and terrible" 1943.

"Now we'll have to make good the stamp the first thing when a customer comes into the station, for we're held accountable. This is going to require time and customers can't expect the fast service they have become accustomed to in the past, what with the war and stations short-handed."
