MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
To save every cent's worth of fat you pay for, learn how to clarify your deep frying fats, and those from drippings pan, soups, stews, etc. What you do not use for your own domestic needs, give to Uncle Sam's national fat caudron for use in making munitions.

To clarify fat, use either of these two tested methods recommended by experts: Measure fat to be clarified. Add to it an equal amount of water. Boil a few minutes until fat melts. Stir occasionally and then strain through several thicknesses of folded cheese cloth. When fat is cool and has hardened, remove the solid layer of fat and scrape off any particles of meat or skin that have adhered to it.

Second Method
The other recommended method of clarifying fats is this: Cut up fat to be clarified into small pieces. For each pint of cut up fat (about 1 lb.) use a medium raw potato. Cut potato into thin slices. Add to fat. Heat gradually until potato is browned and fat is bubbling. Strain the fat through several folds of cheese cloth. Cool and store fat. The potato absorbs some of the fat flavor and also collects some of the sediment.

To prepare the fats which you are giving to the government's war program, strain fats from drippings pan and deep fats you will not use anymore into a spotlessly clean wide-mouth container, such as a large coffee can. When fat cools, store in the refrigerator. Take the filled cans to your butcher. He will buy the contents for the government.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART
Those last-minute invitations to country houses near a rail or bus line, or to a cool roof for dancing... what a respite. But, how imperative it is for every girl to have a few last-minute beauty refreshers tucked away in her desk, locker, or dresser table at home.

If your hair gets oily all too quickly after a shampoo, you should keep a container of absorbent cotton within easy reach. Put it between the teeth in the coarse end of your comb or into the bristles of a clean hairbrush, and comb or brush off the oil.

It's surprising how much and how quickly the cotton absorbs the droop-producing oil. Replace the soiled cotton with fresh, and give the hair a final going over. Then, dampen straggling ends slightly, pin them up for just a few minutes while you finish your quick conditioning.

For this purpose, you should keep a supply of hairpins, or some of those wonderful old-fashioned kid curlers—the simple strip of kid, which you get in the dime store—with your makeup preparations.

When your hair is very dry, simply brush and polish it until it looks clean, fresh, gleaming. For this purpose, it is extremely important to have two hair brushes, so that one always is spic.

KEEP PEROXIDE TO REMOVE STAINS

These reminders may prove helpful, too:
For quick removal of stains on fingers, especially around nails, keep a bottle of peroxide or fresh lemon juice ready. Naturally, you won't forget a bottle of lacquer matching your manicure shade, and sharp scissors for removing a hangnail or piece of jagged cuticle.

If you wear a bow in your hair, perking it up will do "magic" for your appearance. This can be accomplished quickly, too. Just hold the bow (or a hat, for that matter) over steam for a minute or two.

Remember, too, a drop of nail polish just below the garter run will stop the damage.

AMERICA IN 1950
IF THE AXIS WINS... you'll still be in a uniform whether you're a man, woman, or child. And your immediate superior won't be a hard-boiled American sergeant--he'll be a Nazi gunfitter, a storm trooper or a swaggering Japanese militarist.

IF AMERICA WINS... you can be certain that your loved ones now in uniform will be back with you, working at their old jobs and enjoying life as only Americans can. And to get that form of life, you have to support your government now, by investing 10% of your money in War Bonds.

White Deer Church Honors Service Men

Special To The NEWS
WHITE DEER, Oct. 15—Last Sunday evening preceding the worship service, the First Baptist church gave the first of a series of programs in honor of the men in the armed forces.

Mrs. Eva Craig of Panhandle, a former member of the White Deer church, gave a beautiful tribute, then the lights were turned off, and as Mrs. C. O. Lawson, superintendent of the extension department of the Sunday school, read the names of the men on the service flag of the church, Miss Claudia Everly lighted a candle for each man.

The candles were arranged in a large V-shaped candelabrum and above the pupil in red, white, and blue letters were the words "Victory Through Christ." When the names had been read, Miss Pauline McBride sang "God Bless America," accompanied by Mrs. Fred Rusk.

Names of 26 men who are members of the Baptist church or of Baptist preference were called. They were Bryce Miligan, Gilbert Tubb (in the reserve corps), Oscar Phillips, Carl Dittmer, Old Aaron Burrell, John Moore, Sam Moore, Howard Moore, Claude Everett, Charles Kirkwood, Chester Kirkwood, Richard Pearstion, Oscar Cun-

Central Baptist Revival Attended By Large Groups

Large crowds are attending the revival which opened Monday night at the Central Baptist church.

The Rev. J. C. Slesmore opened the revival series Monday night by speaking on the subject, "What is a Revival and How Can We Have One?" He pointed to many scriptures as his basis for the sermon. His 10 o'clock messages each day have been on the general subject of "Power and prayer."

The Rev. L. W. Hardcastle of Van Horn, is directing the music, and his interpretation of many of the old hymns of praise and power is highly inspiring. His special song, "Is Your All On The Altar," was a blessing to all last night. Mrs. Crumpacker at the piano adds to the success of the entire music program.

The public is invited to attend the services.

RED ARMY

German Burial parties were busy clearing the battlefield on the approaches to a Northwest suburb—site of the great Stalin tank works—where the Nazi assault failed to crack the backbone of Russian defense.

Little change was noted on the two major caucass fronts, along the black sea coast below Novorossik and in the Mosdok sector 40-odd miles North of the Grosny oil fields.

On the central front, residents of Moscow marked the first anniversary of the Soviet capital's greatest crisis.

Other European war developments:

Second Front—DNB, the official German News Agency, reported an increasing series of British commando raids along the Nazi-occupied French coast in September and declared:

"It can be deduced that the British commando intends to give way to the Soviet demand for a second front and to make Normandy the scene of such an attack."

DNB said the raids were carried out "on a larger scale," striking at several points, and asserted they were preparing for "a British landing on the coast of Normandy."

Second-front talk persisted in London and Washington.

In the American capital, Wendell L. Willkie reported to president Roosevelt on his 31,000-mile tour of the world's fighting fronts and again urged the establishment of a new battle zone.

In London, the conservative London Times, which often reflects the opinion of the Churchill government, declared that decisions must soon be taken to "determine the mode in which allied strategy is to assume the general offensive . . . above all to the opening of new fronts, without which Germany cannot be beaten."

Aerial warfare—hard-fighting defenders of Malta, Key British stronghold in the Mediterranean, where officially credited with shooting down 23 more Axis planes over the island yesterday, making a four-day toll of at least 65.

Five RAF spitfires were acknowledged lost.

The intensity of the attack on Malta suggested that the Axis was moving heavy reinforcements across the Mediterranean to North Africa. Coincidentally, field marshal Erwin Rommel, who recently saw Hitler in Berlin, was reported to have returned to his post on the Egyptian front.

United States and allied bombers have been repeatedly attacking the Axis supply port of Tobruk in the past few days, indicating that every attempt was being made to prevent a new influx of troops and supplies for Rommel's long-stalled armies.

House May Force Wider Distribution Of War Contracts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Drastic action in the house to force wider distribution of war contracts among smaller manufacturers was threatened today by a trio of New York representatives.

Telling the senate small business committee that the smaller war plants cooperation needed "extreme prodding," Rep. Celler (D-NY) said: "We mean this as a threat. If we don't get action, we are going to take drastic steps."

Celler's complaint against inactivity was echoed by Representatives Keogh (D-NY) and Lynch (D-NY). Meanwhile, Col. Robert W. Johnson, chief of the army's New York ordinance district, told the committee that from 70 to 85 per cent of the war contracts which cleared his office came in already earmarked for distribution to certain contractors.

"You would be in a much better position than Washington to determine whether contracts could be given to idle plants without piling up a backlog of orders in others," Chairman Murray (D-Mont) commented.

"I think most district officers are equipped to perform that function," Col. Johnson agreed.

Coast Guard Will Form Women's Unit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A measure setting up a women's auxiliary in the United States coast-guard—counterpart of the army's WAVES and the navy's WAVES—was passed speedily today by the house.

While no official title has been chosen for the feminine contingent, the designation "Women's Auxiliary Reserve of the Coast Guard" has been suggested, out of which is inexactly but euphoniously derived "WARCOGS."

Chairman Bland (D-Va) of the house merchant marine committee said the women would fill shore jobs, thus releasing men for sea service. He told the house that present plans called for a force of 10,000 women by the end of next year.

20th Century Club Has Program On Inflation Problem

"Inflation" was the topic of the program presented at the meeting of Twentieth Century club in the home of Mrs. J. M. Fitzgerald Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah was leader.

In keeping with the program, each member answered roll call with current newspaper references to inflation.

Giving a comparison of the methods which Canada and the United States have met and are meeting the problem of inflation, Mrs. James B. Massa pointed out that Canada and the United States are cooperating in the control of inflation.

"Canada started its program six months ahead of the United States and the program in the United States has been patterned after Canada's program to some extent, but the following fundamental differences exist:

One, rationing. Canada set up rationing and depended upon the untary compliance while the United States issued war ration book number one.

Two, freezing prices. Canada froze all prices straight across the board, including wages and farm prices; whereas, the United States until recently exempted these two explosive factors.

Three, Canada exempted military purchases from price ceiling control but the United States did not at first.

Four, Canada's administration of maximum price regulation was placed in the hands of administrators chosen from the representatives of industries, whereas, the United States administration was placed in the hands of people from other industries.

Five, Canada has no 40-hour wage law on its statute book such as the United States and this has been a material benefit to Canada to regulate prices."

"Inflation destroys morale; it is more destructive to morale than any other single factor," Mrs. Harrah stated in discussing "Consequences of Inflation." "Inflation divides the country; it sets up producers against consumer, workers against employers, and the people who owe money against the people to whom the money is owed. No group in the community profits from inflation in the long run except the three horsemen, speculator, profiteer, and hoarder.

"However, it is up to us. Be stingy. Do not buy anything you can do without."

In the business session conducted by Mrs. I. B. Hughey, president, Mrs. Fitzgerald was named chairman of the silk and rayon drive.

Attending were Mrs. Clifford Braly, Sr., W. R. Campbell, A. H. Doucette, Ivy E. Duncan, J. M. Fitzgerald, J. W. Gordon, R. J. Hagan, Raymond W. Harrah, Clifton High, I. B. Hughey, Paul Kasishke, James B. Massa, Roger McConnell, Roy McKernan, Roy McMillen, Farris C. Oden, J. C. Richey, F. L. Stallings, and Edwin S. Stary.

Hoof It and Like It, Ladies—It Pays Off In Beauty And Fun

By ALICIA HART
 You're going to do more walking as time and the war go on. So why not, right now, try walking just for fun? It will teach you to enjoy going places on your own feet, and once you experience the benefit to your looks of walking, you'll enjoy it all right any time.

If you can arrange to swim three times a week, you might enjoy it more, and get more out of it. There's no better general conditioning exercise. But right next to swimming comes walking, for all-around beauty usefulness—that is, when you walk correctly and like it.

Step straight ahead, toes forward, and step briskly. You don't have to put yourself into a pant, but you'll get bored if you lag along. And you'll find it more interesting to walk somewhere, instead of just walking, even when you're doing it for fun and exercise.

Take a hike past your favorite shop windows, your favorite park tree, or any spot that's convenient. You'll want to keep your shoulders back and arms free—which, by the way, will be easy if you put your key and compact into a pocket instead of a purse. The purse does encumber you, so leave it at home.

WALKING HELPS TO BUILD FIRM MUSCLES
 A half hour's walk several times a week will keep a good figure relaxed and vigorous, will help to firm stomach as well as leg and arm muscles which need exercise when their owner diets, and will serve any thigh-reducer very well.

If you cannot get out, you might try walking across your bedroom on all-fours five times a day. Keep your knees as straight as possible, neck in a straight line with your body.

This all-fours walk, by the way, is excellent for relaxing after being on your feet or sitting too long, working.

Party Entertains Wayside H. D. Club Members, Families

FARM BOY BECOMES LABOR UNION HEAD
VANCOUVER (AP)—A 16-year-old lad who got a job passing rivets in a Vancouver shipyard two years ago after moving to the city with his parents from a farm at Princeton, B. C., has become the youngest trade president in Canada.

He is Arthur Hewitt, elected president of the Rivet Passer-Boys Union which was formed here as a branch of the Boiler-makers and Iron Shipbuilders Union after three short sit-down strikes in efforts to obtain an increase in their wage rate from 45 to 60 cents an hour.

"Art" a short, stocky, serious lad, won the election over four other candidates.

Vital Information

At the request of automobile dealers, OPA has extended the deadline for completion of required maintenance operations to protect new autos in the nation's stockpile to October 31. Many dealers have been unable thus far to procure adequate indoor storage space and supplies of rust-inhibiting oil.

Answering the many inquiries being made by schools, hospitals and institutions regarding proper procedures for obtaining essential supplies and equipment, R. Eugene Risser, WPB region director, today urged that such institutions make every effort to fill their needs without priority assistance. He emphasized, however, that WPB field offices are available to furnish priorities information, copies of forms and orders to all such institutions without delay. In this region the WPB offices are in Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Fort Worth, El Paso, New Orleans, Shreveport, Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Motorists are warned by OPA to test the anti-freeze they saved from last winter, to make sure it is strong enough to protect their motors, before putting it back into cars. Anti-freeze production, cut to about 60 per cent of 1941 sales because its chemical components are critical each group was eligible. The action was taken in amendment 37 to ration order No. 1.

Wheeler Schools Abandon Athletics

Special To The NEWS
SHAMROCK, Oct. 15.—Interscholastic league activities in Wheeler county schools will be abandoned this year, chiefly because of lack of transportation facilities. This decision was made at the initial meeting of Wheeler County's Superintendents and Principals association held in Wheeler recently.

The sports to be done away with for the year include track and field, basketball, for many years a favorite, especially among the rural schools, and major physical education activity.

Supt. J. L. Gilmore of the Wheeler schools was named chairman of the first meeting and will serve for the remainder of the year. Supt. Jack E. Davis of the Mobeetle schools, was named vice chairman, and C. S. Witt, Wheeler principal, was elected secretary.

Next meeting of the organization will be held on Thursday, November 2, when delegates to the annual meeting of the Panhandle Division of the State Teachers' Association will be named and other topics relative to the association will be discussed.

All meetings of the year are to be held in Wheeler because of its central location.

TATTOOED CHICKENS KEEP THIEVES AWAY

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—West Virginia poultrymen think they've found a way to put the chicken thief out of business.

A simple inexpensive method of being used to identify each hen and rooster. They are tattooed with the owner's mark and number.

Each fowl is then checked into the files of the state police, the department of Agriculture, the state poultrymen's association and the West Virginia university extension service bureau.

Actual tattooing is done on the web of a wing and C. C. Blake, chief of the department of agriculture's poultry division, avers that even if the bird has been killed, plucked and placed in the oven, the tattoo identification will be visible to the trained eye.

Surveys are now under way to determine the basis for elimination of duplications of local rail and bus passenger service. Locomotives and cars will be made available for other uses where ever bus service is adequate.

About Communism

Apparently Communism in the United States is one topic on which it is forbidden to write frankly. In addition to the retorts which obviously come from "American" Reds themselves, any honest attempt to discuss Stalinist activity in this country brings protest from those who, honestly if mistakenly, consider such discussion subversive.

The thesis of these protestants is simple: Russia is our ally against Hitler. Russia's heroic resistance is giving us a chance to beat Hitler. Therefore Russia is ally white. Therefore American Communists should not be criticized.

To this thesis we take extreme exception. We can understand how the argument may appeal to those who have not studied Communist methodology — who naively measure the Red danger by the Communist party membership and vote. But we can't go along with the idea.

Russia is our ally. The Russian armies are doing a marvelous job against the Nazis at a cost to themselves that we can only guess.

As a result of the Red's success, the United States and Great Britain are enabled to prepare for the even greater task that yet remains, the aggressive blow which shall defeat the Axis.

But let us not deceive ourselves. Russia is not fighting for us, for Great Britain, for democracy. Russia is fighting for Russia. It happens, fortunately for us, that Russia's self-interest at this moment coincides with our self-interest. Therefore Russia is cooperating with us militarily, and we are cooperating with Russia.

The Russians are realists. They hate democracy. They see no reason for accepting democracy merely because Communism and democracy temporarily are allies against Germany. They are not permitting American, or pro-American democrats financed and directed from Washington, to agitate in Russia—to try to induce the Russian populace to put pressure on Josef Stalin to change his military policies.

Anybody who tried to do those things in Russia would disappear and never be seen again.

We should be as realistic as the Reds, if not as harsh. We shall not liquidate the Communist who represents Stalin's desires against American welfare, of course, but we can ignore his vociferations and be continually on guard lest he mislead us.

This, obviously, has nothing to do with military cooperation with Stalin and the Soviet as long as they fight the Axis.

No, we haven't said anything about Fascism here. Why should we? Every American hates Fascism, Nazism, Nipponism, and is fighting them to the limit.

It is Communism, making political hay while Russia is our ally, that we have to watch as intelligently and realistically as Communism guards against any infiltration of democracy into Russia.

MORE MEAT, LESS WHEAT WANTED

Of course, we are reaping when we have sown when we find we are scarce of meat and long on wheat. Every person who makes any pretense of believing there is a natural cause for everything and this cause cannot be changed by an omnipotent legislature or president, will know that if we gave a bonus for wheat and put a ceiling on meat that farmers would produce the thing that would reward them the most for their labor. When they can sell their wheat at a price that will reward them more than raising meat at a ceiling price made by government bureaucrats, it is natural that we do not have storage space enough for the wheat and have to be rationed on meat.

But the present administration thinks that people are too dumb to have the right of choice and prefer meat to wheat.

If we are to have a totalitarian government, or a planned economy, people must learn to eat what the bureaucrats tell them and not what their individual constitutions tell them they prefer.

The question is how much and how long we will have to do without things before we learn to believe that Thomas Jefferson told us the truth when he said "were we directed by Washington when to sow and when to reap we should soon want bread." In this case, we are wanting meat. Eventually we will want food, clothing, transportation and things of all kinds, if we come to believe bureaucrats of the government have more foresight and judgment and initiative than all the people under free enterprise.

HOW STUPID WILL STATE COLLEGES BECOME?

A nice example of the kind of leadership that state colleges develop into is illustrated by a new book issued by the California Polytechnic school on the subject of "Farm Victory Service—An Outline for Teaching the Importance of Student Farm Labor in the National Food Program."

Has our educational system been so visionary that our young people do not even know that we must eat in order to live and that we must have farm labor in order to grow produce?

But college professors and leaders of state institutions must have something to make themselves appear to be of service and to keep themselves busy. Any boy certainly knows that raising food requires labor and that food is necessary in order to sustain life. We do not need to have the State of California tax people to print such books and waste the time of our youth reading something that they already know.

ment in any field of action. Conversely, bitter experience taught that where too great discretion was granted to those wielding official power the time was sure to arrive when that power would fall into unworthy hands and would be abused. It should not make any difference what manner of man former Justice Byrnes is, in so far as his administration of the office of director of economic stabilization is concerned. Unfortunately, it does make a very great difference. The executive order issued by the President under the authority of the anti-inflation act, establishing Mr. Byrnes' office and powers, is so vague in its provisions, particularly regarding the stabilization of wages, that what the stabilization director is to do or, in some instances, whether he is to do anything, depends to a large extent on his personal political and economic predilections.

It is a bad thing that this should be so, but it is so, and since it is there is one phase of Mr. Byrnes' record that should give thoughtful Americans reason for concern. That is his concurrence as a member of a five to four majority in the Supreme court in an opinion of the court last June which held, in the Jehovah's Witnesses cases, that vendors of religious books and pamphlets may be licensed and taxed, notwithstanding the constitutional guarantees of freedom of religion, speech, and the press.

Mr. Justice Reed, speaking for the majority, held that constitutional liberties are not absolute but are subject to the right to enforce sovereignty to insure orderly living. In his dissenting opinion Chief Justice Stone asserted that "a way has been found for the effective suppression of speech and press and religion, despite constitutional guarantees. The very taxes now before us are better adapted to that end than were the stamp taxes which so successfully curtailed the dissemination of ideas by 18th century newspapers and pamphlets, and which were a moving cause of the American revolution."

The opinion in the Jehovah's Witnesses cases was a most serious repulse in the long continuing and never finished task of vitalizing and applying the constitutional protections of civil liberties. It was a significant demonstration that the so-called liberalism of the New Deal is less interested in preserving the individual liberties on which all our political and governmental advances have been based than in suppressing those liberties when necessary to facilitate an arbitrary and paternalistic program by the state for the supposed benefit of the citizens.

Neither Mr. Roosevelt's four freedoms nor the civil liberties protected by the bill of Rights can be maintained without economic freedom. If the right to make a living and the manner in which that living is to be made are to be dictated to the citizen by his government, it matters little to him that he still may possess a theoretical freedom of speech and the press and assembly and protest and worship, and guarantees of a fair trial and of his franchise. He may still possess those other rights, but he will not dare assert them if to do so means that he forfeits his food.

As director of economic stabilization Mr. Byrnes has been delegated greater powers over the economic life, the right to earn a living, of Americans than has ever been granted in the past to any agent or agency of government in this country. The exercise of those powers, which it is asserted are necessary to the successful prosecution of the war, would require the greatest forbearance in whomsoever's hands they were placed. It is disturbing that they have been placed in the hands of a man who by his recent action on the bench showed that he was more interested in strengthening the hand of the government than in protecting the liberties of its people.

Mr. Byrnes was a senator much longer than he was a judge. In the senate, while exercising his genius as a political tactician as a faithful partisan of the President, he did not always follow the party line of the more radical New Dealers. It may be conceded that his present appointment could have gone to others who have demonstrated a greater loyalty for the destruction of the American form of society. His vote on the Jehovah's Witnesses opinion should be regarded, perhaps, as a blot that can be erased by wise exercise of his present economic powers.

News Behind The News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

WEAPONS New style sabotage by German aliens was exposed when the Alien Property Custodian assumed management of the Machinery Buildings, Incorporated, a plant located in Long Island City, New York. Instead of firing or blowing up the place, as our enemies did in the last war, the Nazis were simply discharged efficient foremen and workers.

The factory made what is known as "high precision stuff" for the Army and Navy Departments, including recoil mechanisms and ammunition hoists. Week after week those two agencies complained about the slowness of deliveries and the quality of the work.

Mr. Ickes, a frigid person, wanted the lower figure for Uncle Sam's editors but President Roosevelt, a warm personality, accepted the P. W. A. head's suggestion.

Unlike Secretary Ickes, the unassuming Phil does not profess to be a pop-bah of heat. But he hopes that private dwellings and offices will accept his thermal decisions.

Incidentally, Brigadier General Fleming proclaimed his program only after consulting the nation's highest medical authorities, including Surgeon General Parran.

CRITIC Members of the Senate Finance Committee recently conducted an informal vote on the two most able members of the upper chamber. The winners are Senator Prentiss M. Brown, Michigan Democrat, and Senator John A. Danaher, Republican of Connecticut. Oddly, Prentiss is a White House leader, while John is F. D. R.'s chief and most constructive critic.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

Behind the screen: Nationwide gasoline rationing in November has put a taboo for the duration on Hollywood's favorite celluloid sport — the automobile chase. Rather than risk audience jeers, studios are minimizing auto films due for winter release. RKO has completely eliminated auto chases in the Falcon mystery series, heretofore top users of the highway chase for cinematic thrills.

It's a code in western pictures, the hero never gets rich. Western movie audiences like their heroes brave and daring—and broke every Saturday night. So up came the problem of what to do when Republic's ace cowboy star, Don "Red" Barry, stepped off his horse into a boulevard to play a straight role in a romantic drama, "The Crooked Circle." The plot has him acquiring a fortune in the final reel. So to keep his fans happy, Barry will wind up the film saying, "Money means nothing to me, anyway."

C'MON, CRACK WISE

When Director Michael Curtiz went east recently he was greeted by news reporters and photographers at the stopover in Chicago. His picture, "Yankee Doodle Dandy," was a hit everywhere and he thought maybe somebody would ask him for a serious interview instead of wise-cracking over his famous malapropos. One of the newsmen drew him aside very confidentially. This was it, Curtiz was sure. The man whispered to him, "Say something funny to me that the others won't know about."

There have been some very amusing title changes from time to time in Hollywood. Such as the novel, "The Pink Chimney," which reached the screen titled, "Come On Marines." But here's one that tops them all. In 1918 Fred Niblo, who was later to become the famous director, played opposite his wife Edith Bennett, in a sweet little romance called "Love's Young Dream." Niblo was the hero. It reached the screen as "The Bootlegger's Daughter," with Niblo playing the villain.

HOW TO GET A RAISE

The story of Mary Anderson is typical of Hollywood. Couple of years ago she was under contract and was given only bit roles. Finally her studio let her go. So she went to New York and became an overnight sensation on Broadway in the play, "Guest in the House." Now Mary Anderson is back at the same studio where she was fired two years ago—at four times her original salary.

Mary Martin doesn't intend to go into competition with Arthur Murray, but she just figures to worry him a bit. Since crashing the big money, Mary, the former Weatherford (Tex.) dancing teacher, is financing 1/4 of her former pupils in dancing schools in Texas and Oklahoma.

Says she: "It isn't that I'm making a lot of money. But it's a lot of fun, and who knows, maybe some day I'll be back at the 1-2-3."

Manpower Riddle Can Be Solved By Local Effort

By PETER EDSON

Everyone seems to be kicking in with his 2 cents worth on manpower these days, with the result that a lot of those things you see floating through the air aren't falling leaves at all, but inter-departmental memoranda on colored sheets of anti-skin paper, each containing another idea for solving the manpower crisis.

Within the War Manpower Commission itself there are dozens of drafts of proposed legislation to solve the shortages and surpluses. Every WMC sub-committee has its own ideas and congressional committees have their ideas, too. If all makes interesting material for discussion and more discussion, but it hasn't much more importance or authority than that.

For example—Jesse Irvin, formerly chief press agent for Gov. Paul V. McNutt's many activities, including the Manpower Commission, just his job the other day and went to work for a Washington newspaper.

First day on his new job, Jess broke an exclusive for his newspaper to give the draft of the new manpower law and a detailed account of why organized labor was against it. The story was a major sensation around Manpower headquarters, and a minor sensation in other Washington centers, but it didn't do much of a thing. The draft was apparently one of the dozens that have been drawn up and passed through the hands of Bernard C. Gavit, Manpower Commission's general counsel who, like McNutt, is an ex-dean of Indiana University Law School. But the draft expose had not been approved by anyone.

IT'S DEEP STUFF

Most of the double-doomed, deepish thinking, writing and speaking that has been done on the subject of manpower has dealt with it as a national problem. It is to the extent that it concerns every part of the country, but when you get it down to the fundamentals, this big national problem spells out as a number of local problems. To contribute just one more piece of paper to the national problem, I'll be at the curb in the October bonfire, these local problems shake down like this:

According to Dr. William Haber, ex-University of Michigan and U. S. Bureau of the Budget economist, who is now chief of the Planning Division of War Manpower Commission, there are 317 "labor markets" in the United States today—areas where there is concentrated and active hiring. For instance, Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Akron, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, Detroit, Toledo are each active labor markets in one chain.

Of the 317 labor market areas, the Manpower Commission reports indicate that 35 have surplus labor, 50 have shortages now, and 90 more are to be short in the next six months. The remaining 142—nearly half of the total though not necessarily representing half of the total labor force—are for the time being adequately supplied. The important point here is that the manpower shortage problem does not cover the entire United States like a blanket.

In adding up the reports from all these labor market areas you can get totals on what the manpower requirements will be by the end of 1943 and a good many experts have their own figures on the items making up those totals—many of the estimates are that by the end of 1943 the total manpower requirements—for Army, agriculture, war production, essential civilian occupations—will be 63,000,000 workers. The available supply he estimates at 57,500,000 making an apparent shortage of from 5 to 6 million. That looks easy, but all such figures include a number of variables which must not be overlooked.

DEMAND AND RESERVE

The labor demand is concentrated. The reserve is dispersed. The 63,000,000 figure assumes the fullest possible conversion of industry to war production, the concentration of civilian industry in plants that cannot be converted. It assumes a smooth flow of materials to all plants and a removal of all bottlenecks which now cause work stoppages. If this smooth flow of materials were in effect now, the present working force of the country might be producing 25 per cent more goods than it is, which would be equivalent to increasing manpower 25 per cent.

Democrats Seek Support For War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Calling next months congressional elections the most important in history, the Democratic National committee says the party's control of congress must be maintained and strengthened to prosecute the war under "a full head of steam."

Republicans this year are distributing to state chairman and candidates copies of the ten-point declaration of policies and principles recently adopted by house Republicans. This declaration recognizes that the United States had a responsibility to work with other nations to bring about a "world understanding and cooperative peace."

There is no contention that American patriotism is confined to Democrats, it says. However, destiny has charged a Democratic administration and Democratic congress with leadership in the great emergency.

Supreme Court Voids Commission's Order

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 (AP)—Because it was vague, uncertain and unreasonable the supreme court today voided a railroad commission order requiring the malodorization of natural gas as a public safety measure.

The court's ruling came in answering affirmatively a certified question from the Port Worth civil appeals court raised in litigation in which Mrs. H. S. Kelly of Tarrant county sought damages for personal injuries from the Lone Star Gas company, the result of a stove explosion.

Mrs. Barrett, 76 years old, passed away at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning, at the Saint Mary's hospital.
Rev. E. C. Derr, pastor, assisted by Rev. Ed. R. Wallace and Rev. Gray Carter, was in charge of the last rites and interment was made in the Shamrock cemetery by Clay Funeral home. Duard Price was in charge of the music, and Mrs. Plake George gave a beautiful vocal solo.

Mrs. Barrett, who has been in ill health for the past eight years, was born November 3, 1865 at Thomasville, Ga. She was married to Charlie Harris Barrett at McGregor, Texas in 1900. To this union was born one son, Price Conley Barrett, of Shamrock. Besides her son, Price Barrett, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Lela Ownby of Whitewright, Texas and one brother, John Smith, of Bonham.
Also surviving are one niece, Mrs. Horace Hudson, of Perryton, one nephew, Tom S. Dillard of Dallas, who attended the funeral.
Mrs. Barrett has made her home with her son since 1929 and had resided here previously, from 1900 to 1902.

Voluntary Meat Ration Explained By WPB Committee

DALLAS, Oct. 15—Housewives who wonder how they'll adopt voluntary meat rationing pending enforced rationing—tentatively planned for about Feb. 1—today had some of their questions answered by the war production boards committee on food requirements.
The two and a half pounds of cuts of beef, veal, pork, mutton and lamb to which the committee asks each person to ration himself weekly means meat with bones in it as it usually comes over the butcher's counter, the committee pointed out.
Besides the 2½ pound allotment, however, one may buy a long list of meats including liver, heart, kidneys, sweetbreads, brains and pigs' feet, without self-rationing.
Canned meat, sausage, scrapple, soups and similar products are not subject to quota restrictions except to the extent the amount of meat used in their manufacture is subject to restriction.
Neither is poultry, of which there is a larger supply than usual, nor fish on the restricted list.

AUSTIN, Oct. 15—Texas public schools will launch a series of eight victory concerts beginning today. The inaugural program will be broadcast over a statewide radio network with talks by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson and Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction.

Men And Women Wanted In Classes At Defense School

The army wants more recruits and the Pampa defense school wants more students, both men and women.
Fred H. Brownlee, supervisor of the school, located at the rear of the high school building, said today the school had recently graduated 12 of its students and had room for more in its classes.
Both men and women are eligible for the courses. Ages for women who are eligible to enroll in machine tool classes, are from 19 to 35.
"We need several more students to fill out our classes, some in welding, on the midnight to 6 a. m. shift, others in the 6 a. m. to noon."
"In arranging class work for women students, we will try to form a group to study from 6 p. m. to 11 p. m., to make it more convenient for them."
Persons interested in taking these courses can obtain full information from Mr. Brownlee at the Pampa defense school.

Tall, Dark, Handsome Cesar Romero Enlists As Apprentice Seaman

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15—The U. S. Coast Guard has done it again. Having already dipped deeply into Hollywood's male glamor ranks for personnel, the guard yesterday grabbed off Cesar Romero, the tall (six feet two) dark (it's the Latin in him) and handsome (ask any of the movie cuties) screen actor.
Romero, unaccompanied, unheralded and unpressageted, walked into the coast guard's San Pedro recruiting office and asked: "Can one enlist in the coast guard here?"
One could, and in a little while Romero had been sworn into the service as an apprentice seaman, the lowest grade in the outfit.

Woman Insists On Finding Teeth In Spite Of Bombing

MONTREAL, Oct. 15—Corporal Bernie Abrahams of the Royal Regiment of Toronto, who has returned from Britain, tells of an air raid warden trying to hustle an English woman out of her home into a shelter during a bombing.
"Wait till I find my teeth," the woman said.
"What do you think they're dropping, lady, sandwiches?"

Texas Highway Patrol Members Nonchalantly Describe Hurricane

BY WILLIAM E. KEYS
AUSTIN, Oct. 15—State Highway patrolmen who foregather like flies in a sugar bowl when the hurricane warnings go up along the gulf coast do the job at hand before they spin yarns about their experiences.
That's the reason the story of Patrolmen Jack Sutherland and W. B. Beeson did NOT seep in headquarters until long after their work was done during the hurricane of last August.
Riding a patrol car on the Matagorda Highway in the height of the storm, a gigantic wind-driven wave rolled over the road directly toward them.
Somehow, they scampered out of the car before it was washed away—a total wreck.
Here's how Sutherland related their experience:
"We got wet."
Brig. Gen. J. Watt Page was a storm casualty.
Dashing from his Camp Mabry quarters to get on the job he tripped on a concealed water sprayer in the lawn and injured an ankle.
Three days of intensive nursing the injured member followed.

Gen. Page is state adjutant general, state director of selective service and commander of the Texas Defense Guard.
He is NOT given to idle talk; considers well before he speaks.
Perhaps he has memorized the words of a sign under the glass on his desk.
It admonished: "A man with a head full of wisdom does NOT leak at the mouth."
Military intelligence:
The negro helper with a plastering crew redoing the capitol walls who tips his hat in salute to members of the adjutant general's staff as they pass in the halls.
President Roosevelt told a press conference the American planes that blasted Tokyo, were based in Shangri-La. Governor Stevenson has a Shangri-La too but there is no similarity between the two and perhaps they are not even in the same continent.
Shangri-La is the name applied to the Governor's Kimble County ranch by members of his office staff. The Governor sometimes slips away to the ranch for short respites from official cares.
Perspiration soaked, Boy Scout Cleave Nolen dashed up the capitol steps the other day and handed a message to Acting Governor H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton.
Nolen, on a bicycle, was the last of 10 scouts who relayed the message across 35 miles of land and water as a practice workout for an emergency messenger service organized as a war measure.

Notes from a vacation trek: John O'Hern of Laredo who lets out a whoop and a holler, sprinkles bread crumbs on the surface and thereby summons thousands of bees to the top of his water tank on the Big O Ranch. It's a fact.
Brig. Gen. Harry Johnson who makes those long

Glider School At Lubbock Will Be Opened On Sunday

One of the biggest glider pilot training centers in the world, the South Plains Flying school at Lubbock, of which Col. Norman B. Olsen, formerly stationed here, is commander, will throw open its doors Sunday, October 18, in a formal open house.
The flying school is located at and just east of the former Lubbock Municipal airport, five miles north of Lubbock on the Plainview highway.
Visitors will be permitted to pass the gate and inspect the hitherto closely-guarded and confidential field only from 1 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.
Glider flights and other operations will continue as usual, Col. Olsen said, and visitors will be permitted to inspect the gliders and towplanes—both large and small—marches with his troops to show 'em none is expected to do anything he can't do . . . Border Patrolmen now want to see your Selective Service Registration card when you head for the international boundary line. They are extremely courteous . . . The navy has a terrific appeal for youths on the border. Laredo has contributed several bus loads of recruits . . . San Antonio humming more than ever with military activity . . . State Game Warden J. T. Swanson who knows all the best fishing holes along the South Llano . . . Jim Kilday, motor transportation director for the railroad commission, munching peanuts at the Texas-Kansas game.

Texan Back From The Wars Ready To Return

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—A young Texan who learned to fly in an old crate with a motorcycle motor and went off to the wars for "the fun of it" came back to the United States today ranking as top American fighter pilot in the Royal Air Force.
Flight Lieutenant Lance Wade, 26, of Reklaw, Cherokee county, Tex., told interviewers he had "gotten used to the British and their planes" in England and the Middle-East, and thought he'd go back to the RAF after a "little hunting and fishing down home."
Already holder of the Distinguished Service Cross, Wade learned today that the British government had conferred a bar to his decoration for bagging 14 enemy planes, and said: "Oh, that! Well, all I can say was that it was good fun."
Most South Sea island colonies are self-supporting.

Japs Advised Not To Thumb Noses At U. S. Gunners

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15—Tip to the Japs—Don't thumb noses at Uncle Sam's gunners.
Let Sergeant Francis E. Hall of Baltimore, a gunner on the ill-fated Carrier Yorktown, tell the story: "Bombs and shrapnel were falling all around us, but the gun crews were firing as coolly as if it were target practice."
"One Japanese torpedo plane came roaring by, not more than 50 feet over the water, and the pilot thumbed his nose at us."
"Every gunner who could do so swung his weapon on the plane and it flew to pieces like a clay pigeon."
