Santa Managed In Good Measure, No Matter The War

Nobody yet has drawn a picture of Santa Claus pointing to a "C" gasoline rationing book, and saying "that's what I want for Christmas"; nor are reports that he has turned in his sleigh on the scrap metal drive guaranteed authentic.

Pampa stores are bright and shiny with the seasonal gift goods as in years past. There aren't so many different kinds of gifts, some articles are not in stock, but Santa Claus will be around on December 25, on schedule.

This is one year when "shop early" really means something, for the rich man is going to be up against it just like a poorer one if he does not. Quantity of some items is so limited the supply soon may be exhausted.

On the other hand, there appears to be plenty of toys for the children, judging from displays in downtown Pampa windows. It isn't as ample as in Christmas, 1941, but there is a sufficient supply to please nearly every child.

Decision Pends

No organization has announced any street decorations for Christmas this year, but indications are Christmas, 1942, will not be the spruce-holly-electric light affair on Pampa streets it has been in the past.

In the past Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce has sponsored the annual downtown street decorations.

Santa Claus day, another Jaycees event, has been dropped, Bob Miller, Jaycee president, said today. However, the Jaycees have not yet entirely abandoned their street decoration project, and decision still is pending.

A majority of the downtown Pampa stores will begin keeping open late for Christmas shoppers on Saturday, December 19, and in the period between that date and Thursday, December 24, Christmas eve, will remain open until 9 p.m., except on Saturday, when the closing time will be 10 p.m. Stores will open at the usual time, a majority at 9 a.m. in the same period.

Weather Suiting Santa Pays Pampa A Visit

Sleet, clouds, and a brisk wind, set the stage in Pampa today as advance weather for the annual trip of Santa Claus 21 days hence.

Cold weather has continued during this week, with the minimum temperature thus far being 14 degrees early Thursday morning.

Overnight low in Pampa last night was 23 and the thermometer had risen only four degrees from the minimum early this afternoon.

Between the actuality and the ideal there is a wide chasm. The church members of the community, unfortunately is rather formal, with little to distinguish the church member from any other good citizen who does not belong to a church. But it need not be and it ought not to be, for if church membership meant vital religious living and fidelity to God, then surely there would be almost revolutionary changes in the church and in the world.

The New Testament conception of church membership might be set forth in the following words: "He that is in Christ is no longer in the world." He that is in Christ is no longer in the world.

WHITE DEER—Rev. J. W. Hardin, pastor of the Baptist church, and Mrs. Hardin were surprised with an old-fashioned "pounding" Wednesday evening. Following the prayer service, the congregation accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Hardin to their home where they found the dining table piled with an assortment of groceries and other gifts.

BAAZAR and cooked food sale at Southwestern Public Service Co., Wednesday, Dec. 9, Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary.

FOR BETTER bicycling let Bob and Roy keep your wheel in excellent condition. 414 W. Browning.

CANADIAN—The Training Union of the Baptist church held their monthly session Wednesday night beginning with a 6 o'clock supper.

Mrs. John Waters is director of the training study.

CANADIAN—Prof. Herbert A. Hill left Canadian Wednesday morning to fill the position of director of music in the Adamson high school in Dallas.

Prof. Hill has been a teacher in Canadian and prominent in musical circles here for several years.

Before coming to Canadian, Prof. Hill had taught music, directed orchestras in the New England states. He has composed a number of musical pieces for the orchestra.

MIAMI—Pvt. A. B. Casey, a sea bee, is home on a furlough from Virginia, where he has been stationed since his induction into the armed forces.

MIAMI—Pvt. Vernon Carson, is home on a furlough from the army for a few days.

Think of the millions of church members here in America, to say nothing of other lands! What a world we should have if every church member were living up to this ideal of what the church member ought to be!

Perhaps we should thank God that so many church members do come up to the ideal. They are the salt of the earth, and the leaven that may yet leaven the whole human race.

"God The Creator" To Be Sermon Subject

"God The Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches on Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 6.

The Golden Text is: "All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and dost wondrous things: thou art God alone" Psalms 86:9, 10.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens: God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it to be inhabited: I am the Lord, and there is none else" (Isaiah 45:18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God fashions all things after His own likeness. Life is reflected in existence. Truth in truthfulness, God in goodness, which impart their own peace and permanence" (page 516).

Cpl Thurman D. Wheeler has returned to Camp Crowley, Mo., after a 10-day furlough spent visiting his wife at the South Phillips camp.

HITLER WORRIED?

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. In conversation should you repeat the name of the person to whom you are talking after every remark?

2. If someone tells you a smart thing their child did, should you tell it to top it with a story about an even smarter child?

3. Is it better to say "Can you come to dinner next Tuesday?" or "What night next week can you come to dinner?"

4. If you are writing a business letter to a woman and do not know whether or not she is married, is it all right to address her as Miss Smith?

5. How might you refuse an oral invitation to a party if you already have plans for that evening?

What would you do if—A new family moves in next door—

(a) Call on them?
(b) Don't bother calling?

Answers

1. No. It is a tiresome habit, likely to get on others' nerves.

2. No.

3. The former. Because it leaves the person a way of escape if he doesn't want to come.

4. Yes.

5. "I would like so much to come, but I've already made plans for the evening. I'm certainly sorry."

Better "What Would You Do" solution—(a) is the friendly, neighborly thing to do.

mainly unchanged during the month ended Nov. 15, at 169 per cent of the Aug. 1939-July 1941 average. The general level of prices paid by farmers for commodities used for family living and for farm production on Nov. 15 was 156 per cent of the 1910-14 level.

Farm Prices In Texas Move Up.

Late Survey Shows

AUSTIN, Dec. 4 (AP)—Prices received by Texas farmers continued to show a general advance during the month ended Nov. 15, the USDA reported today.

The gain was led by increases in prices received for grains, dairy, and poultry products. Of the 30 commodities reported on, increases were recorded for 16, there was no change in eight, and there were recessions in six, compared with October levels.

For the nation as a whole, the department reported, the general level of prices received by farmers for agricultural commodities remained unchanged during the month ended Nov. 15, at 169 per cent of the Aug. 1939-July 1941 average. The general level of prices paid by farmers for commodities used for family living and for farm production on Nov. 15 was 156 per cent of the 1910-14 level.

THE PERFECT CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR A LOVELY LADY..

Zale diamond

Straw in the wind? Adolf Hitler, has called Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, above, former Nazi finance minister, out of obscurity to prepare a report on what would happen if Germany lost her allies—or met defeat.

Longhorns Drew Biggest Crowds

Special to THE NEWS.

AUSTIN, Dec. 4 (P)—D. X. Bible's University of Texas Longhorns, who will meet Georgia Tech in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on New Year's day, have been the "bread and butter" team of the Southwest conference for the season they just closed as champions.

Despite the fact that war has hit attendance hard in all football sectors and that the Longhorns were not credited before the season with having a team of last year's proportions, they have drawn larger attendance than any other in the conference and have provided the largest crowd for each school they have met so far this year.

The Steers this season played to 222,000 spectators as compared with 262,000 a year ago, but this great drop was attributable to three key games: the Oklahoma game at Dallas, where a drop of 26,000 developed this year, the Rice game at Houston which drew 13,000 less than the same game drew at Austin last season, and the Arkansas game at Little Rock which attracted 11,000 fewer than saw the two teams at Austin in 1941.

For each school they played, the Steers were the big money team of the season. Baylor had never played as large a crowd as turned out to watch the game here, 23,000, and Texas drew 43,000 to Northwestern in Evanston, Ill., 2,000 more than came to see the Wildcats play Ohio State, ranked as the No. 1 team of the nation when the teams met.

The Longhorns finished here with Texas A. and M., last week drew 42,000 fans, the largest crowd of the year in the Southwest, and the largest of the year for A. and M. which also played to a good crowd at L. S. U. in Baton Rouge.

By J. NOMAN LODGE

MARINE FRONT LINES, GUADALCANAL, Nov. 4 (AP)—(Delayed) (P)—Barney K. Ross, the game little fighting man who lost two world's championships and never cried "we was robbed," today holds the greatest title he ever possessed. He was called a "damned good Marine" by his captain, after an overnight match with Jap snipers here on Guadalcanal.

For his undaunted show of heroism in standing guard over three wounded comrades and blazing away in defiance although it was almost certain death to remain exposed to a hidden machine gun nest. Private Ross now a corporal; and he has been recommended for the Navy Cross or the Army Distinguished Service Cross.

Capt. O. K. Leblanc of Abberville, La., the commander of Ross's company, related the story to me as we sat at the edge of a foxhole 300 yards from a Jap-infested hill.

"Ross, a hell of a good Marine," Capt. Leblanc started out.

After accomplishing its mission in covering an infantry regiment moving forward, Ross's patrol was hit suddenly by heavy, ambushed machine gun fire.

"Three stood guard over the wounded," Capt. Leblanc continued. "They were Private Barney K. Ross of Chicago, M. L. Guarnett from some Arkansas town, and Leo J. Nashville, a New Jersey boy."

"These three stood guard over the wounded all night, x x x Ross was in one foxhole with three wounded men, ministering their needs as much as possible and keeping up rifle and Tommy-gun fire between times."

"Shortly after midnight, two infantrymen armed with another Tommy-gun and a Garand rifle with plenty of ammunition tumbled into Ross's foxhole. It was cramped with three men, and three wounded, so Ross took charge, doing all the firing during the night."

"As the infantrymen loaded and reloaded the Tommy-guns and the Garand, Ross kept his head above the foxhole returning the Jap fire. Between firing he kept shouting to the Jap nest: 'Come out and fight, you yellow ----'."

"I figured Ross fired at least 450 rounds. He killed seven Japs for sure, and probably 10."

Some Of High-Scoring Teams Of Schoolboy History Are Matched

By The Associated Press

Some of the high-scoring teams of Texas Schoolboy history are included in the sixteen district championships that start play for the state championship this week.

Six of them have rolled up over 300 points, with four going over the 350 mark.

Topping the scoring parade is Breckenridge, which shows 395, followed by defending champion Wichita Falls with 385, and Highland Park (Dallas) with 384.

The best defensive mark is held by Goose Creek, which allowed 10 points, only 21 points.

Four bi-district games are scheduled for Friday and four Saturday.

Friday—Denison vs Highland Park at Dallas; Waco at Breckenridge; Longview at Lufkin; San Benito at Austin (night).

Saturday—Amarillo at Wichita Falls; San Angelo vs Bowie at El Paso; Amon Carter Riverside (Fort Worth) vs Sunset at Dallas; John Reagan (Houston) at Goose Creek.

Approximately 90 per cent of all American homes are of wood frame construction.

Players Catch Own Passes; Linemen Score

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—Two players caught their own passes, a guard scored twice in one game, and a tackle once carried the ball for a six-yard gain during the 1942 football season, which produced enough upsets to drive this fans crazy but didn't confine all its dizzy doings to the final scores.

These and other oddities were uncovered today in an Associated Press survey of the nation's gridiron goofiness, much of which contributed to the welter of form reversals.

Probably the prize oddity of the year came in the Illinois upset of Minnesota, when an Illini guard, Alex Agase, scored two touchdowns on plays that originated with the Gophers snapping the ball. Agase first stole the ball from Bill Daley on the dead run, and didn't stop until he crossed the goal line.

Then a bad pass from the Minnesota center scooted into the end zone, and Agase pointed on for another touchdown.

Big Six conference passers did all sorts of peculiar things. Ray Evans of Kansas, tossed a pass against Iowa State, but it was rattled back and he caught it himself for a one-yard gain. Royal Lohry, of Iowa State, pulled the same stunt against Villanova, but lost much more ground.

Bob Steuber, of Missouri, fumbled a pass intended for Marshal Shurnas in the Oklahoma game. The ball struck Shurnas on the head, bounded back to the line of scrimmage and was intercepted by Oklahoma's Dub Lamb.

Fooled by Snow

It was in the game between Texas A. and M. and Texas Christian that Wayne Cure, an Aggie tackle, caught the ball on a field goal attempt and rammed back for a six-yard gain. When T.C.U. played Texas, the ball changed hands on three successive plays—all fumbles. Cure took the show to stop Fullback Tom Butkovich, of Illinois, when the country's No. 1 team, Ohio State, faced Butkovich's home State's kickoff on his 20-yard line and ran through the entire Buckeye team. He was in the clear with no one near him when he ran out of bounds on the third-yard line after going 73 yards. Snow, which Tony thought was the boundary line, had blown onto the field and he was out by a foot. He got the touchdown on the next try, however.

The officials were late in arriving for a game at Knoxville, Tenn. Finally a visiting high school coach, summoned from the stands to pinch-hit, changed into official's garb and reappeared just as the missing referee dashed onto the field. But they couldn't find the ball.

Oklahoma kicked 11 straight points after touchdown in the 76-0 win over Kansas State, although one was nullified by a penalty, but against Missouri, with the Big Six title at stake, the Sooners missed the one that would have meant victory instead of a 6-6 tie.

Against Iowa State, Lee Roy Neher of Oklahoma, ran the width of the field three times on a play, reversing his field when trapped, and wound up with a gain of exactly one yard.

George York, freshman substitute center, of Boston University, intercepted a northeastern pass on the goal line and ran 100 yards for a touchdown. Herm Will, of St. Louis, returned a kickoff 100 yards against Loyola.

Glenn Dobbs, triple-threat star of Tulsa's unbeaten team, threw 10 passes against Washington, of St. Louis, and completed all of them, three for touchdowns.

The Missouri Valley's leading scorer, Ralph Tate of Oklahoma A. and M., had never played football before. A hurdler on the track team, he was "drafted" for a football and became a star in his first and last year. He is a senior.

Late Train Makes Billy Evans Prexy

By JUDSON BAILEY

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—The minor league took baseball's windfall away from the majors today, and the choicer topic of conversation was the busting of fact in convention but the startling switch of Southern Association presidents which brought Billy Evans back into baseball.

It was the most dramatic story in many years of minor league meetings. And it came about because a train was late.

All day yesterday Evans, former general manager of the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox, and for 22 years an American League umpire, was just another famous job hunter among the milling mob of baseball men in the lobby of the Palmer House.

Truman Scott, who had headed the Southern Association for five years, also was a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, for two, still was the president of his league, and no one suspected a change—least of all Evans.

Scott had left Atlanta on a train due here at 1:30 p. m. and intended to preside over the southern meeting at 4 p. m. But when his club owners convened, Scott had not arrived and crossed the goal line.

Then a bad pass from the Minnesota center scooted into the end zone, and Agase pointed on for another touchdown.

Big Six conference passers did all sorts of peculiar things. Ray Evans of Kansas, tossed a pass against Iowa State, but it was rattled back and he caught it himself for a one-yard gain. Royal Lohry, of Iowa State, pulled the same stunt against Villanova, but lost much more ground.

Bob Steuber, of Missouri, fumbled a pass intended for Marshal Shurnas in the Oklahoma game. The ball struck Shurnas on the head, bounded back to the line of scrimmage and was intercepted by Oklahoma's Dub Lamb.

They knew he was at liberty because Evans had come to the meetings rather than expecting to become president of the American Association while George Trautmann was on leave of absence as a colonel with the Specialist Corps of the Army. But the Specialist Corps recently was disbanded, and on Tuesday when the Army accepted his resignation, he returned to the presidency of the AA.

Miller is six catches behind Rogers although 87 yards ahead of the Aggie star in gains made.

The scoring leadership held by Jackie Field, of Texas, and the ball-carrying lead held by Roy McKay, also of Texas, do not appear in danger. Rogers would have to score 22 points to equal Field's mark, and Dick Dwellie of Rice, would have to gain 356 yards to come up with McKay.

Curtain Downs Tomorrow On SW Conference Season

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Editor

The curtain rings down tomorrow on one of the stormiest Southwest conference football campaigns in history, but the finish will be the quietest period of the season.

The title was packed away by Texas as last week; and when Rice and Southern Methodist play the conference final at Houston, only second place will be at stake.

One other circuit member has a game—Texas A. and M. battling Washington State at San Antonio in an effort to further the conference's inter-sectional record which hasn't been particularly outstanding this season.

Three individual leaderships also will be in the balance in these two games.

J. C. (Stoop) Dickson, who hasn't played for Rice in almost a month because of an injured leg, is leading the punters but his margin is thin. Barney Welch of Texas A. and M. and Sugar Cain of Rice both have a good chance of overtaking Dickson.

The passing and pass-receiving leaderships also are to be decided in these games.

Leo Daniels of Texas A. and M. boasts only 42 yards more in the air than Abel Gonzales of Southern Methodist. In pass receiving Hardy Miller of Southern Methodist is ahead in yards but not in receptions over past incidents, recalling seeing Evans on the scene for several days.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—You can put whatever value you want on Berlin radio announcements (and get plenty of change from a buck) but the folks who have been hollering that we ought to give up sports because of the current shortages of players, transportation and equipment may be interested in a recent item snatched from the airwaves.

The Berlin announcer informed that no fewer than six international sports events are scheduled in Europe next Sunday. They include tennis matches between Sweden and Denmark at Stockholm, international cycle races at Zurich, Switzerland; wrestling meet between Italy and Croatia at Bari, Italy; Budapest vs. Vienna women's swimming at Budapest, Switzerland vs. Sweden ice hockey at Zurich and a triangular amateur boxing meet involving Germany, Hungary and Italy at Berlin. . . . We pick the Italians to take the boxing meet. They've been getting plenty of road-work in Libya.

PROFESSIONAL ATTITUDE

In Canada they like to tell stories about the thrifty lads from the Maritime provinces, so when Andy Lyle, the Toronto star sport scribe, heard of recent disorders at Chicago hockey games, he was reminded of a brawl that took place at the Montreal Forum. While the players were fighting, the custodians showed their displeasure by tossing pennies, dimes and even quarters onto the ice.

And in the midst of it all, Gordie Drillon calmly skated around, gathered whose certificates do not provide as much gasoline as the operators think necessary.

The OPA, acting on a request from the ODT, has instructed rationing boards to issue temporary rations sufficient to take care of operators' needs between Dec. 1 and Jan. 31.

McGee warned, however, that all temporary transport rations will be deducted from the amount ultimately allowed by the ODT on a certificate of war necessity.

Another phase of gas rationing—hoarding of the precious liquid-caused OPA enforcement division attorneys in the regional office at Dallas to take steps to prevent development of any black market in gasoline and to ferret out large-scale individual violations of gasoline rationing regulations.

A number of vacant service stations in the Southwest region with full storage tanks, including some in Dallas, were being watched, the enforcement agency said.

Individual consumers of gasoline owned and in their possession before Dec. 1 may use it to operate registered or commercial motor vehicles if they destroy currently valid coupons equal in value to the number of gallons used, McGee pointed out.

He added that a rationing board could revoke a motorist's ration if he were found to have driven more miles than allowed by his ration and said this could be detected by speedometer figures shown on the tire inspection form.

At Lubbock, Fire Chief W. E. Twitty warned he would "let propane burn to the ground" rather than risk lives of the fire department where "we have reason to believe hoarded gasoline is hidden."

Members of the Dallas Citizens council sent to Washington a formal request for revision of gasoline rationing regulations, adopting a 12-point program submitted by O. Sam Cummings, member of the Dallas county war price and rationing board's mileage rationing panel.

The Dallas News said the far-flung activities of thousands of traveling salesmen bringing millions of dollars of business to Dallas wholesalers and manufacturers annually were at an almost complete standstill because of rationing.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART

Simple good grooming technique should be as natural and matter-of-fact for a girl of twelve as for her mother. A youngster who has been guided properly does not have to be reminded to wash her hands before coming to the table or to scrub her neck and elbows before going to bed.

A wise mother will handle the question of makeup smoothly enough to prevent its becoming an issue. In the first place, if your daughter's classmate has ups, that's a pretty real reason for her following suit—unless she is the very rare youngster who wants to be "different." Most normal youngsters want, decidedly, not to be "different," and modern experts advise against trying to make a teenager follow standards different from those of her "crowd."

YOUNGSTERS HAVE BEAUTY STANDARDS, TOO

However, it might be well to keep her informed of nationwide standards for girls of her age—to keep her informed, for instance, that the very young girl in most towns wears lipstick lightly, wears eye makeup never, but does brush her brows and lashes regularly and brushes them with cream or oil for a party.

She uses face powder designed especially for her young skin, and a mild cream or powder deodorant after her bath. She creams lips, hands and wrists frequently—and of course brushes her hair thoroughly three or four times a week.

Chronic skin blemishes should receive attention—expert attention if possible. Regardless of age, or sex either for that matter, modern parents don't shrug off complexion worries with "she (or he) will outgrow them." Take the girl—or boy—to the family physician for treatment. Very often a shift away from sweets, fats or other rich foods is indicated.

planes, or by U. S. cruisers, destroyers?

The sergeant was tight-lipped on that.

What did happen may be indicated in the wording of the citation: "Repeated, day and night, overwater instrument flights in West Aleutian area."

The Air Medal is defined as the "newest American military honor for crew members of planes sinking enemy submarines, and for heroism of extraordinary achievement in aerial flight, awarded at the direction of President Roosevelt."

Sergeant Anglin was cited for the Air Medal two months ago, along with 26 others, the first in the Alaska Defense Command to receive this honor. In the group were three technical sergeants, four staff sergeants, six corporals (one of whom was Anglin who since that time has been promoted to staff sergeant), two privates first class and seven privates.

Father Pampan

Sergeant Anglin was for one year announcer at Radio Station KPDN-Pampa. Then he went to Borger and Oklahoma City, worked at radio stations in both places, and in 1940, enlisted in the Army Air Corps at Lubbock.

From Lubbock he was sent to Denver, assigned to a squadron there, went to a radio school at St. Louis, and from there to Alaska, where he resumed his duties with his squadron.

In Alaska the sergeant was announced over KFQD, at Anchorage, Alaska's first commercial radio station, which was established in 1924—18 years ago.

Sergeant Anglin said he had been in Alaska ever since the start of the Japanese offensive in that zone, and had a part in most of the action. He said he is writing a story of the Alaska campaign, had already written 16 pages, and intends to sell the story when the war is over.

Parents of the sergeant have resided in Wheeler for 15 years. Sergeant Anglin attended schools at Shamrock and Wheeler, graduating from Wheeler High School in 1939, after which he came to Pampa to work for Radio Station KPDN.

On the Libyan flank of the two-way Allied offensive, British headquarters again announced "nothing to report" from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army, now drawn up awaiting the signal for a climactic assault on Axis defenses at El Agheila.

Allied planes meanwhile pressed home new attacks on Axis supply lines in the Mediterranean, sinking two more ships in a south-bound convoy off the coast of Tunisia and blasting an enemy destroyer with uncertain results.

Stiffening Nazi resistance in Tunisia, coupled with violent Allied sea and air attacks against Axis convoys in the Mediterranean, indicated that Hitler was attempting to shift powerful forces to the North African theater.

British naval officers related how the waters between Sicily and Tunisia were left filled with German troops Tuesday night when the royal navy sank three Axis destroyers and four merchant ships, but the presence of a Nazi U-boat kept the British from picking up survivors.

Ski Troops In Fierce Attacks Against Nazis

By EDDIE GILMORE

MOSCOW, Dec. 4 (AP)—White-clad Russian ski troops pressed the Nazis back on blizzard-swept battlefields west of Moscow today, while between the Don and Volga, the Red Army silently closed the trap on Stalin's besiegers from recaptured heights northwest and southwest of the city.

Battlefront dispatches gave this account of the steadily mounting Russian winter drive:

South of Leningrad and west of Moscow, the Germans were dying 1,000 a day as ski troopers, armed with tommy guns, clashed with Nazi Alpine reinforcements in some of the fiercest fighting of the past two weeks amid snow-blanketed Nazi tanks and trucks, now often abandoned and frozen.

On the Stalingrad front, the Germans were resisting savagely in a fight for life, and the Russian onslaught went into its third week but unbroken.

A communiqué said Soviet troops stormed and held another strategic height northwest of the city. This, with the height southwest of Stalingrad which was reported yesterday as recaptured, gave the Russians a field of fire over at least part of the German corridor of escape or reinforcement to Stalingrad.

The Germans rushed reinforcements into at least three key salients in a desperate effort to halt the Russian advance.

Lightly Clad

Izvestia, government newspaper, reported from the front that Germans were abandoning some of their mechanized equipment in the snow-drifts as they retreated.

Pravda, Communist party organ, described captives taken in the Rzhev sector as clad in summer uniforms, with only earmuffs to protect them from the cold.

Red Star reported white-robed Russian ski troopers, armed with Tommy guns, and riding atop tanks from village to village, met an enemy company and "awful destruction followed with the whole German company being ground in the snow beneath the tanks, while the ski troops raked the rest of its tanks with Tommy gunfire."

Battered by priorities and the manner of awarding war contracts, the men who run 10,000 little businesses in Texas now have a $150,000 government corporation assigned to help them secure war contracts.

Concluding hearings in several Texas cities on the problems of the small businessman, the House Committee on Small Business announced that the Smaller War Plants Corporation will open offices in the state to assist war-harried little businessmen.

Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex.):

"When the small businessman wants a contract he will go to the representative of the Smaller War Plants Corporation and get help in securing it. This representative will help him plan ahead and show him how he may use the facilities of his plant to the maximum."

The corporation functions under the War Production Board. It will serve as primary contractor on many war supplies, subdividing the contracts among small plants and factories.

Furnishes Capital

Giving the green light to the small plant owner, the corporation will remove two of the principal obstacles which have blocked war production by small industries—lack of capital to convert plants and inability to secure war contracts.

Many small manufacturers are unable to obtain materials to continue normal output for private industry and cannot get contracts for war production small enough for them to handle.

They want contracts from government agencies or from prime contractors struggling under huge backlog of war orders.

Patman asserted that the corporation, though formed last June, is subjected to many delays so that it only recently has been ready to serve the group for whom it was created.

The committee is conducting hearings throughout the nation, gathering information necessary for offering legislation to relieve the wartime plight of the small business.

With Representatives Charles A. Haleck (Rep., Ind.) and alter C. Plosser (Rep., Mo.), Patman received testimony on the ills of little business from businessmen from all parts of Texas.

"The hearings are being held to investigate the impact of the war on industry, including all lines of distribution of both goods and services," Patman explained. "The committee is concerned with what facilities exist in Texas and other states that are not being used for war production and essential civilian needs and why they are not being used."

"The members want to know the effect of rationing on all lines of distribution, how well the governmental regulatory agencies are functioning and what if any new legislation is needed."

Attending the Texas hearings were: Lieut. Comdr. F. R. McGregor, Navy Department; Major Al Hewett, War Department; Carl C. Bolte, of Smaller War Plants Corporation; Ernest Smith, Office of Price Administration; and Willis J. Ballinger, chief economist, Federal Trade Commission.

"This is your meeting," Patman told representatives of the state's small businesses. "We know in Washington that you men are working under difficulties, and when Rayburn has appointed us to bring back to Washington your complaints and any suggestions you may have that will help in the conduct of your business."

"This committee will operate for the duration, getting the facts for you and taking them directly to the ears of Congress."

"I couldn't help overhearing you, Mary, when you asked Jim here why they let the liquor companies use sugar to make whiskey when all the rest of us have to cut down on it. I happen to know the answer to that."

"You see, the fact of the matter is, the industry never has used a single pound of sugar to make whiskey. The bootleggers were the only ones who used sugar to make whiskey. On top of that, there's not a single large distillery in the country making whiskey any more. They're all working day and night making war alcohol for the government for gunpowder, synthetic rubber, chemicals, and medical supplies."

"Just as I told Ed down at the courthouse this morning, the government simply wouldn't be able to get all this alcohol it needs in time if we didn't have the distilleries available and on the job."

LABOR SHORTAGE AND GOVERNMENT REPORTS

The United States government is primarily responsible for the acute labor shortage that exists. Of course, we know that war has created a large demand, but the amount of labor available is quite elastic. But the government has interfered with this natural expansion that goes with the activity. Millions upon millions of hours are wasted by private firms in filling out government reports. While workers are filling out these reports, they can create no new wealth.

Darlán In North Africa

The position of Admiral Darlán in North Africa, as protector of French interests there with the approval of American military authorities, surely is paradoxical. No wonder everybody is puzzled, many annoyed and at least some bitterly resentful.

We have always regarded Darlán as pro-Nazi, and his influence as very bad. He cooly turned French Indo-China over to the Japanese. He had never made any corresponding gesture toward us.

Why, then, do we suddenly accept Darlán as an equal, an ally, an agent of our own in a position where treachery might be particularly harmful?

True, Darlán surrendered Algiers to us with a minimum of resistance. Thereafter he ordered all Vichy troops in Africa to cease fighting against us. Then he radioed a request to the French fleet to leave Touloύ and join the Anglo-American forces. He appointed as military leader for North Africa one of the few high French generals who commands universal respect from anti-axis peoples, Gen. Henri Giraud.

What does that mean? Does it imply, as critics of the arrangement argue, nothing more than that Admiral Darlán is a realist; that he has concluded that the United Nations are going to win?

That could be, of course. And yet, Roosevelt and Churchill, Eisenhower and Clark are realists too. One would be surprised if our realists accepted Darlán's realism to the extent of playing into his hands or to the extent of unnecessarily alienating our fighting French allies.

How did it happen that Admiral Darlán was in North Africa at the psychological moment when we struck—in position to assist us—bearing Petain's credentials as head of all French fighting forces, on land and on sea?

Could it be that Admiral Leahy, the President's chief of staff, who was our ambassador in Vichy for the principal reason of his long friendship with French military and naval chieftains, knows what lies behind Darlán's sudden conversion?

In any event, there is this to be considered, that presently we enjoy the advantage of having outstanding leaders of both factions of the French on our side.

Unquestionably the people of France will be confused. They are told by the home radio, which they know is Nazi-controlled, that Marshal Petain disapproves of Darlán's move. But they are told by Darlán who they know has enjoyed the chief of state's confidence far more than Pierre Laval ever did, that Darlán speaks in the name of the aged marshal.

We believe that the confusion must resolve itself into a strong suspicion on the part of the French public that only Laval really is pro-German. This decision inevitably would strengthen the anti-axis cause, would tend toward French unity in our interest, and might mean the difference between success and failure when and if Anglo-British forces seek to roll up the Rhône valley to Berlin.

Hod-Carriers' Election

The A. F. of L. Local 17 of Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers, by a vote of 135 to 27, re-elected Samuel Nuzzo as business agent. When re-elected, Nuzzo was under indictment on 89 counts of grand larceny and forgery, charging misuse of union funds.

Less than one-sixth of the local's membership voted. Was there that little interest in whether the local's business was to be turned back to the man who was under such serious charges? Or was the election so conducted that only Nuzzo supporters could vote? Is the membership entitled to protection from the courts? If not, why not?

PACIFIC WAR OUR GREATEST THREAT
(The Los Angeles Examiner)

The revelations concerning the war in the Pacific by Representative Melvin J. Maas, who recently returned from active duty in the Solomons with the Marine Corps, are accomplishing a two-fold purpose.

The major purpose is of course to persuade or compel American authorities to fight the war in the Pacific with an adequate force, and thus to win it.

And the latest account of the fighting there, reporting the sinking or damaging of upwards of thirty Japanese war vessels, suggests an effective, if belated, attainment of that objective.

But it is still essential to this purpose to convince American authorities that it is not a sideshow to the main war which is raging in the Pacific, but the main war accompanied by the greatest danger to the United States.

It is in the latter endeavor that Representative Maas is having his greatest difficulty, but is fortunately making progress.

It has been disclosed that before making a public report of his experience and observations, Mr. Maas properly sought to make a personal report to President Roosevelt.

The Congress has been informed that he waited two weeks without reply to his request for an appointment with the President.

Whereupon, Representative Lyndon Johnson of Texas who had been impressed by Mr. Maas' report and who has the confidence of the President, interceded and obtained a five-minute audience with Mr. Roosevelt and advised against acceptance on the grounds that the time was insufficient.

Then, and only then, Mr. Maas saw the President.

And as Columnist Drew Pearson wrote:

"The President got an earful. He acts on Maas' report, which seems likely a lot of admirals will be shifted . . . Word trickled up to Capitol Hill that certain naval advisers close to the White House didn't want Maas to see the President. That was why he got the run-around."

Apparently, however, Mr. Maas did not get "action" from the President, and therefore took recourse to public disclosure.

SHORTAGES: Key reason for Congressional opposition to making Paul V. McNutt America's manpower lord was the effective critique and review of draft operations that Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey presented to the W.M.C. Although the handsomely Hoosier heads, although delivered at a secret session, friends of the director gave it wide circulation on Capitol Hill.

The Army officer's discussion of the problem is generally regarded here as the finest exposition of the subject. To Mr. McNutt's face he decried the commission's publicity campaign designed to discredit the patriotic and unpaid boards that have been managing conscription.

"It is not the Selective Service System," he contended, "but war itself which causes strain on manufacturers and farmers. The withdrawal of millions of men from industry and agriculture is certain to be an impact, regardless of the agency making the withdrawal. All anyone can do is to soften the blow, not avoid it."

"After the needs of the armed forces are filled, there will remain fifty-five to sixty million men and women available as workers, with fifteen to twenty million additional homemakers who can be recruited in an 'all-out' mobilization. When properly used, this is an adequate manpower pool for the home front."

Above the hysterical shrieks of certain Federal officials, the man who ought to know maintains that labor shortages exist only in a few people's minds. That is also the belief of members of Congress who have studied the question.

EMPLOYEES: General Hershey bitterly assailed the proposed plan to transfer from town and country bodies to Washington all authority on the process of induction as the McNutt faction advocates. He urged even fuller use of the present program, which he described as "selectivity by your neighbors".

"This principle," he said, "has been accepted by the country. It has been carried out by twenty-five thousand loyal citizens volunteering their time. Each of these board members, during his two years service, has passed upon at least five to seven thousand individual cases. He has become familiar with the problems of the registrants and their families, the needs of industry and agriculture and the requirements of the armed forces."

Through the board each community has a part in the war effort. The method of selection is open to public inspection. The men making the selection are not influenced by monthly pay checks. Ten million parents have been to date well content with the method by which their sons have been chosen. It is harmful to the war effort to attack local boards, and by general and unsupported statements to undermine public confidence in them.

"It would be unwise to take up their hands the function of classification of registrants. Such functions cannot and should not be placed in the hands of paid Government employees."

CUT: The Federal Communications Commission has joined the growing list of agencies which have stymied the war effort by political maneuvering.

As this column has repeatedly noted, the nation's telephonic and telegraphic system has been subjected to a terrific strain by emergency demands. Every sort of facility — wire, equipment, receivers, phone books — has run short. The Government has placed a strict arrangement of priorities on long distance messages of any kind. ## Distribution Of Doctors Stalled By License Laws

By PETER EDSON
The Pampa News
Washington Correspondent

This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, is written today by Chalmers Babcock, Mr. MacKenzie, now touring the Middle East war zone, is expected to resume shortly.

Hitler obviously has managed to transport a formidable force to dispute Tunisia with the United Nations and the campaign to clear the North African springboard for the invasion of Hitler's Europe promises to be one of the war's bitterest, perhaps longest and costliest for both sides. That is the import of the latest announcements from General Eisenhower's headquarters.

Three days ago advance units of General Anderson's first army were fighting east of Djedda, which is 12 miles west of Tunis. Yesterday the Allies were fighting in the western outskirts of Djedda. This can only mean that the first Allied thrust from the west has encountered such resistance that at some points it has had to recoil while the command regroups and increases its forces.

Every doctor must pass a stiff examination to get his license to practice medicine in that state, but no state will honor the license of other states, and a doctor licensed in New York can't practice in New Jersey unless he first passes the New Jersey examination. He can treat New Jersey people who come to his New York office, but not the other way around. A uniform law to correct this nuisance by providing for temporary licenses has been recommended to the state legislatures by the Council of State Governments, but it would take several years to have this corrected in any reasonable number of states and as matters stand today only 38 states of the Union have reciprocal arrangements for transfer of licenses and nine states require the transferring doctor shall have been practicing for from one to 10 years.

One way to get around those restrictions would be to commission a doctor in the U. S. Public Health Service. He would then be a federal officer and he could be moved into any part of the country.

HOWL IS HEARD

To some people it has seemed that compulsory mobilization in this manner is the only possible solution to the shortage of doctors now developing in some war production areas. But as soon as any government planner even so much as thinks about this, a big yell goes up from the spokesmen for the American Medical Association, which a spokesman at headquarters describes as the key to the military situation in Tunisia. The Germans have been placed under the necessity of making costly counterattacks in the effort to break this control. Apparently it stands firm and the battle has entered a temporary standoff phase in which both sides must bend every effort to bring new striking power to bear.

Telling Blows Struck

Each side faces tremendous difficulties in its problem of reinforcement and supply. The British and Americans, provisioned from ports from 150 to 400 miles to the west, must contend with some of the world's worst roads, a rainy season and the constant attentions of the Nazi air force. General Nehring, the Nazi commander, must be supplied by air or sea, and the sea route across the Sicilian narrow, although short enough to permit moderately fast ships to make the passage between nightfall and dawn, is patrolled by the British navy and the Allied air forces.

Tuesday night four Axis transports were sent to the bottom by British warships; Wednesday night flares lit at least two more off the coast of Tunisia. Those are crippling blows. Even air transport has proved hazardous; large numbers of the big cargo and supply planes have been shot down in the sea.

The fact that despite the high costs the Axis has moved such a force into Tunisia seems 14,000 front line combat troops and perhaps a like number in supply and other auxiliary units — proves not only the capacity of the Nazi high command but the intensity of its determination to keep a hold on the North African coast as long as possible.

The German know that once the Allies have closed that gap of some 700 miles between Tunis and El Agheila, where Rommel apparently is making ready for a stand, the job of keeping the coasts of Hitler's Europe free of invasion will be twice as onerous as it has been since Dunkirk.

The northern Mediterranean coastline, excluding Spain and not counting minor indentations, is some 4,000 miles long, roughly equal to the western coasts from the Bay of Biscay to the Arctic which Hitler has been manning against invasion since his great opportunity to leap the English channel slipped away two years ago. Hitherto this southern coast has been the soft underside of the Hitler realm, comparatively feebly defended because there was no real menace from across the Mediterranean. Now the Allies have closed that gap of some 700 miles between Tunis and El Agheila, where Rommel apparently is making ready for a stand, the job of keeping the coasts of Hitler's Europe free of invasion will be twice as onerous as it has been since Dunkirk.

As a matter of fact there is no apparent plot on the part of even the social planners in the government to use the present emergency for further socialization of medicine.

The anti-trust division of the Department of Justice is bucking the American Medical Association for its opposition to group health plans, yes. The Federal Security Administration is interested in furthering the Social Security program along broad lines. But the U. S. Public Health Service, which is also a part of the FSA and whose commissioners public health officers are primarily regular physicians, is not out thumping the tub for socialized medicine.

THERE'S A WAY

If the commissioning of civilian doctors in U. S. Public Health Service has to be resorted to as a device to permit physicians to be sent into any war production center without violating state laws, such an arrangement might be worked out. It would be a last resort and it would be for the duration only.

There are approximately 400 war production communities. Public Health Service gets reports from them every week. They pay particular attention to places where there are acute shortages of medical help. Then, through a committee on medical assignment, a concentrated effort is made to get additional doctors into those areas. To date over 200 doctors have actually been re-located, and the job is just beginning.

F.D.R. AND WILLIE

(News Week)

Friends of both men reveal that relations between F.D.R. and Willie are now strained almost to the breaking point. When Willie came home from his recent trip he was angry. Early in his 75-minute conference with the President there were hot words and, as a result, F.D.R. has now had from Willie a full report on his trip. Since then, Willie has publicly criticized the President's foreign policy, clearly implying that the President has lost his touch in handling international affairs, a point on which F.D.R. is particularly sensitive. Indications are that Willie will continue to support generally the government's war and foreign policies, but his criticisms of the President are likely to be more frequent and pointed.

THE BOATS RETURN

CHAPTER XVII

THREE quarters of a mile on the other side of the forest, Mortensen, the farmer, climbed wearily out of bed and started dressing to go up on post at the plateau.

Like an old hurt, the thought came back to him of the short letter he had received that day from Trygve, stamped with the censoring seal, Oberkommando der Wehrmacht. Barely hidden between the empty words, he had read the boy's hatred and bitter loneliness. The letter was dated August 21, and contained half a dozen sentences in his son's terse, emotional style that he could never quite understand. "Great Broken Karen for me," he had written at the end.

"You're a fool to go out tonight," his wife called from the bed. "Your educated son gets himself in prison, and you have to go out and do the same." She laid particular emphasis on the word "educated," as if that were a crime in itself.

Bundled up tightly at last, with a fur hat on his head and a dickey, lantern light and binoculars in the deep pockets of his jacket, he went out to the kitchen and stirred up the fire. A few minutes later, having drunk a plate of soup and buckled on his snowshoes, he was on his way up toward the plateau in the cold and biting air.

As he was crossing the little strip of woodland that separated his own field from the long meadow, he thought he smelled smoke. It puzzled him for a moment until he put it down as a crazy notion and plunged on. But coming out from behind the trees, he saw Osterholm's saeter cottage in the bright starlight, with smoke pouring from the chimney, and the window facing him, gleaming yellow with light.

His first thought was that the troops had taken the place over. They, too, might be watching for signs of him, so the whole point was between. He stopped in consternation, wondering what to do. This would mean that everything was ruined. They might not even be safe in their beds if the troops saw an English signal. The first thing he asked himself was what Trygve would have done. Gone to investigate, of course.

He drew the dictionary, the field glasses, and the light out of his pockets, and hid them behind a tree. If he were searched, at least they would find no evidence. Then, keeping cover as well as he was able behind the drifts, he crept slowly toward the cottage.

Red Cross First Aid Course Ends; Nine Are Certified

Another Red Cross First Aid class has been completed, with Mrs. W. R. Campbell as instructor. Thirty-nine first aid courses now have been completed within the last year in the Pampa Chapter.

This rapid progress is indicative of the national first aid consciousness which has developed since Pearl Harbor. Harold F. Enlow, national director of the American Red Cross first aid, water safety, and accident prevention service, has announced that 3,000,000 men, women, and children were trained in first aid in the year ending June 30, 1942. This is as many as were trained in the preceding 31 years.

In addition to the course just finished, a first aid course is in progress at Sam Houston school. Other classes in first aid began December 1.

The following have completed the first aid course and are asked to call at the Red Cross office for their first aid certificates:

Mrs. N. J. Basford, Gleta Camp, Hazel Erwin, Mary E. McMurry, LaNelle Scheihagen, Mrs. V. N. Osborne, Jessie Mae Leaverton, Margaret Hutchinson, and Mrs. J. W. Ellington.

Suggestions continue to come in for names for the Army Air Force Advanced Flying School located 11 miles east of Pampa.

Latest is that of Mrs. R. A. Nipper, Box 561, LeFors, who would have the base called either Gray-Pampa Field or Gray Field.

Ordinarily, fields are named after fliers.

An officer at the base, said it required an act of Congress to have a field named, and has suggested that one way of getting the base properly named might be to have a petition prepared for that purpose.

6-DAY BICYCLE RACE

They joined the share-the-ride movement!

From a distance of some fifty yards, he stopped to see if there was a guard. The dark building, with its low eaves half buried in the snow, stood out in sharp relief against the glistening white field. The whole air had that peculiar, gray, translucent quality of winter nights. Far on the northern horizon behind the hills, he thought he could see the pale, blue wif of the northern lights.

Minutes passed. He crept nearer. When he judged he was close enough he stood up and dashed for the wall under the window. And there he crouched again with his heart pounding under his thin ribs, and waited. Still no sound, but the wall was warm from the fire on the other side.

He was answered by utter silence. Mortensen followed him in the pupit and hinted rather broadly that it had been his influence that had got them this concession. "It is not that our friends do not need the boats," he said, "but that in all fairness we feel you need them more." He outlined the new regulations that would govern their use and then launched into a peroration in which he told them that by their hostility they were only cutting their own throats and alienating themselves from the rest of the country, since all Norway was coming to see the virtues of a new order that would guarantee them peace and security for the remainder of their lives.

"What about the fights in Oslo and Trondheim?" somebody called. "Why is the king still in London?"

"What happened to the general strike?"

"Did you build a blockhouse in good faith, too?"

"What of Lofoten?" another cried. He was referring to the British fleet up into the islands.

Torgersen waved his arms for silence, but was met by boos and laughter. The men filed out of the church while he was still standing there, and went down to look at the ships.

Hour after hour in the bitter cold and silence, he swept the dark horizon with his glass. Not even a branch rustled against its neighbor. Far to the left, and almost a mile below him, the saeter was dark. But now and then he looked in that direction to rest his eyes, and fancied he could still see the cottage window far off, gleaming and small and yellow like a star. He left the plateau at four o'clock and went to bed. But at half past six he was already up again.

THAT morning the boats came back to Trollness from the south, billowing in around the point under full canvas, to the amazement of the entire village. They were manned by German crews that swarmed about the streets waiting for a steamer that was coming to pick them up by evening. "It's a trick," was the

Italy's Morale Now Facing Critical Test

BERN, Switzerland, Dec. 4 (AP)—The test of Italy's morale under terrible aerial bombardment at home and military reverses on the battlefield is near a climax, and Italians, from Premier Mussolini down, make no effort to conceal that they know the effort is on to force them out of the war.

Whether this can be done—Germany's 1941 onslaught against Britain failed to attain the same objective—remains to be seen, but many Italian sources acknowledge that Italy's position is serious.

Mussolini promised that Germany would send more anti-aircraft defenses to augment the already considerable German military strength in Italy, and said more would be done about air raid shelters, a subject discussed a great deal in the Italian press.

Genoa, Turin and Milan now are largely cleared of non-essential civilian population, but housing problems in other parts of Italy are becoming difficult. These difficulties will increase, for appeals now are being published for civilians to leave Rome, Livorno and other centers of population.

Transportation is similarly difficult. The Milan railroad station is crowded with the baggage of evacuees.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

STAY IN SCHOOL

You have attended school for six, seven, eight or nine years. By this time you realize your lack of knowledge and you are aware that you have merely skimmed over the surface of what the public schools of our country have to offer you.

Up to now your parents have fed, clothed, sheltered and protected you. They have given you as many of the luxuries of life as they can afford. Life has been made as easy and pleasant for you as they could.

But now is not the time many of you believe something else is more pressing. Nothing is more important than the best education you can get.

Would you voluntarily put on your back as added burden the curse of ignorance? You may have the chance to fill a good position in this highly specialized world of ours within a few years. Without training you will not qualify.

Schools must be kept open at a great cost to our nation, because our nation depends upon trained men for survival. Will you be an aid and a leader in the future, or will you be an ill-fitted, uneducated man who can find no place in the plan of the future?

BONDS

In buying war bonds, perhaps you would like to know some of the important statistics about a bond.

First, a war bond is an indirect favor to the people of the United States by the United States government. These bonds went on sale March 1, 1940, and by April 15, 1941, two and a half million American men and women placed more than $3,900,000,000 of their money in bonds or stamps. The large sum of money has a maturity value which exceeds $5,200,000,000.

This large sum of money is invested in one security—that of the American people.

It represents the faith in our leaders, citizens, and soldiers to come through with final victory.

These bonds are the quickest way to serve your country and conserve your earnings.

I believe that our wartime slogan for Junior High might well be "Serve your country and conserve your earnings."

Besides serving our country it gives us a chance to support the four freedoms by being victorious in the present fray. Then in 10 years we may use the money for a college education which seems vitally necessary in this, our industrial nation. By then if college is over it might be the means of a beginning in one's chosen profession.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR FLAG ETIQUETTE?

Last week during the parade the flag of the United States passed many times. This person noticed that about a dozen men and women (herself) saluted when it passed. Soldiers have been known to knock men down who failed to salute the flag. That is how proud they are of the flag.

Do you know the rules? Boy and Girl Scouts give the scout salute. Women and girls and bareheaded boys put their hands over their hearts. Men take off their hats and place them over their hearts.

Now that is simple. Wake up next time the flag passes by.

ACTING TOGETHER

If calisthenics teach us nothing more, it does one thing. It shows us we can act together. That is one great accomplishment during this, our national crisis, our global war.

Turnover Great As Developments Begin Anew

When developments had been chosen last Tuesday, most of the Junior High students moved into new classes for another nine weeks. According to rolls submitted by the teachers, two-thirds of the former class moved into other classrooms to explore other fields of study.

Twenty-seven teachers direct the activities they chose to teach at this time each morning.

Developments available for the third period follow: chair (selective), three classes; Spanish, three levels of learning; journalism (a class for three higher grades); geology ( ninth only); geography; accounting; chemistry; public speaking; dramatics; military drill; commercial art; costume design; advanced art; library science; Bible stories; advanced P. E. (selective); basketball rules interpretation; first aid (two classes); Reaper hand (selective); parliamentary law.

Roll Nears Limit When 39 Students In Development

Mrs. Jerome Tovice reports 39 students from the seventh grade wishing to learn the intricacies of journalism and eager to report what the other fellow does (after they get their own names in print, of course.)

Future editors and "slaves" will result from the class of would-be writers. (If only they knew what they are in for!)

All Pampa Schools Give 100 Per Cent To Junior Red Cross

Miss Lillian Mullinax reports that for all schools in Pampa, the subscription ran 100 percent for Junior Red Cross last week.

Junior High made five cents the minimum amount this year. Fifty cents of this pays for the magazine which comes to the room. Thirty-five cents of the donation buys materials for promoting the various projects for soldiers which are carried on each year. This includes cost of boxing and mailing menus and such in peace time and purchase of thread for sewing wool scraps together for afghans in war time.

Sports Static

Ninth grade tournament in volleyball went through two games a day, completed the schedule in one week—except for the runoff for third place.

Room 211, Mr. Faundie Gallman's, with 32 boys on the roll chalked up first place as they also did in touch football in the first tournament of the year. Jack Dunham is coach of the boys in this room.

Second place went to Room 214, Mr. Hayden Morgan's room. Billy Gethin and Gene Bain, room coaches. Third place lies between Miss Violet Durrett's Room 113 and Mr. C. T. Hightower's room, 215.

Eighth grade tournament opened Monday when Room 2B, Mrs. Jo Hutchens' room, won over Room 219, Mrs. Dan Busch's room, 19 at. At the second half of the noon hour Room 216, Miss Nancy Sparks' room, won over Room 213, Miss Corinne Landrum's room, 14 to 7.

By Friday the eighth grade volleyball schedule for boys should be completed.

Pinball For Girls

With a tang of football in the game, the ninth grade tournament came to a close last Monday with these rooms winning the first three places toward Intramural award: First place, Room 211; second place, Room 214; third place to be played soon between Rooms 215 and 113.

Red hats were in evidence at the Harvester-Sandy football game in Amarillo last Thursday. Reapers plan on a winning streak when they become Harvesters in a few years.

Coach Haskell Folsom returned to his home state and was called upon to officiate at the football game between Harshorn and Hallsville while he was home during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Room 211 won the volleyball championship in the ninth grade, but they knew they had been against a team when Room 214 lost to them for second place.

The Reaper football picture is really flashy. Coach Folsom and Mr. Winston Savage, principal, promise letters this year. Jackets may not be available.

Coach Haskell Folsom remarks that teachers can run their major and minor subjects into the ground. He thinks a teacher should be able to teach any school subject where he is needed most. He says he even taught penmanship once and has often informed students in the details of diagramming sentences in English. He is a shop major and signed up for physical education in his present position.

Schedule for Ninth grade intramurals follows:

November 23, volleyball began December 31, basketball begins January, ping pong begins March, baseball begins May, track events begin Two volleyball games will be played a day.

214 Holds Party In Patriotic Motif

Room 214 had their annual homecoming party in the Red Brick dining room Monday night. They played games for the first half of the period.

Red streamers on a white cloth ran to each plate with place cards. A patriotic motif was held throughout.

On the social committee was Beth Trollinger, Jean Tally, Marlene Wilson, and Marjorie Wilson. Charlie Hatcher leads the room as president, and Russell Neef is vice president. The home room teacher is Mrs. Hayden Morgan.

Students Flock To Cafeteria For Milk Now Sold For Penny

Crowds of boys and girls come to the school cafeteria in the Red Brick for penny milk. Many boys who ordinarily would not eat here have begun buying their lunches since the new milk price set by the government.

One boy drank five bottles and seemed satisfied. Drinking milk is a step in being ready for action when and if the time should come. It makes students amply supplied with vitamins and so can learn faster.

Aviation News

General Jimmy Doolittle and his companions who bombed Japan are now seeing service in northern Africa where the Americans and British are seeing things through.

In the battle of the Solomons a downed Zero revealed that the pilot had to be taped because of the vibration in the little plane. Many items for comfort and safety of pilots is omitted in enemy fighter planes such as the Zero to keep up climbing speed.

Lieut. Jimmy Doolittle, son of Gen. Doolittle, is taking training at West Point.

Lieut. Mabry Simmons, brother of Miss Katherine Simmons of the Junior High faculty, received the Silver Star last Sunday in Australia for gallantry in action over the Indies in January and in more recent action over New Guinea and the Solomons. He attended Pampa Junior High completing his freshman year in Pampa before moving to another school. Lieut. Simmons is a first pilot on one of the Flying Fortresses in the South Pacific under General MacArthur.

Our Soldiers

George Davis, brother of Bobby Davis of junior standing in Senior High, has broken a silence of a year and written his mother that he is safe with Americans. He was reported missing at Corregidor. This is the best news to come to Pampa concerning the boys who were on the Bataan peninsula.

A letter from Jack Taylor at Randolph field, states that he expects to continue his general education at night if necessary. He says that he hopes his Pampa friends who may be neglecting school work will listen to his advice. "After this war, education is going to count," states the boy who two years ago was not sure that education was so important.
