Foreign Minister of Norway Is Compromise Candidate for Post

LONDON, Jan. 29—(AP)—Top officials predicted today that the Security Council shortly will nominate Norwegian Foreign Minister Trygve Lie as a compromise candidate for the $20,000-a-year post as secretary-general of the United Nations Organization.

In the tense dispute between Russia and Iran, representatives of the two countries were expected to meet today to seek a solution of that controversy.

2 Young Men Questioned on Kidnap-Killing

CHICAGO, Jan. 29—(AP)—Chief of Detectives Walter Storms said today that two young men were held on open charges after several hours of questioning in connection with the kidnap-killing of Suzanne Degnan on Jan. 7.

Storms said that the youths, whom he identified as Theodore Campbell, 22, and Vincent Costello, 19, had told him they had made calls to the Degnan home on the morning of Jan. 7, after Suzanne had been kidnapped.

The detective chief said the two were to be questioned further today and that detectives sought to trace the movements of the two youths on Jan. 6 and 7.

Storms said that Costello had been given the so-called "lie detector" test and that the results "did not stack up so far." Campbell was to be given a test later.

"The information that he had been the cause for Campbell and Costello being picked up for questioning," Storms said. He did not amplify his statement.

HUNDREDS OF TIPS
Police, in their search for the maniac killer of the six-year-old Degnan girl, have questioned scores of persons, and have racked down hundreds of tips and clues.

Storms did not further identify either of the youths other than to state that Costello had been on parole from the training school. They were questioned from mid-afternoon yesterday to early morning today by Storms and other high ranking officials of the police department and state's attorney's office, including Commissioner John C. Prendergast and State Attorney William Touthy.

Storms said that a search was being made for another youth wanted for questioning.

'One-Man Army' Says He Doesn't Even Know Nurse

MANILA, Jan. 29—(AP)—A Bataan civilian nurse today asked annulment of a marriage she said she had contracted Dec. 7, 1941, with Maj. Arthur Wermuth, famed "one-man army" in ignorance of the fact he has previously married in the United States.

In Traverse City, Mich., Wermuth said the alleged marriage in Manila "is news to me. I don't know anything about it. I want to flatly deny it, right now."

The annulment petition, filed in the Manila courts, was signed Mrs. Olivia Josephine Oswald Wermuth, (Wermuth, who recently announced she probably would see a U. S. senate seat when he leaves the army said he didn't even know her. Wermuth married Jean Wilkins of Chicago on June 1, 1935.)

Miss Oswald, who has been using her maiden name since she learned of Wermuth's marriage, said in her petition that she married him after a whirlwind courtship, on the roof garden of the great eastern hotel in a twilight ceremony the day before the Japanese bombed Manila.

An army chaplain whom she named as H. Stainback performed the ceremony, she said, and her honeymoon was spent in the tragic setting of Bataan where Wermuth earned world renown as the slayer of at least 116 Japanese before he was captured.

Wermuth had been ordered back to his regiment within 24 hours after her wedding, her petition continued, and the tall, attractive brunette, now 25, joined him on Bataan, acting as civilian nurse. After the surrender, she followed the death marchers to camp O'Donnell—hoping to aid him.

Efforts To Halt Nationwide Steel Tieup Near Showdown

Steel Head Is Conferring In Washington

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—Efforts to halt the country's two greatest postwar strikes—the nationwide steel tieup and the 70 day General Motors walkout—nearer the showdown stage today here and in Detroit.

One high official of the labor department said he expects both disputes to be ended within the week.

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel corporation, was in Washington for conversations with unnamed government officials.

At both the White House and the labor department officials gave credence to reports that a majority of top steel men now favor prompt settlement with CIO's united steel workers.

WHITE HOUSE ACTION
If an agreement is not reached between the steel disputants by midweek, it was stated, some definite action may be expected from the White House. Presumably this would be a new effort to get industry acceptance of the 13 1/2 cent an hour increase recommended by President Truman.

Meanwhile, the government reportedly is disposed to let the dispute simmer and watch the outcome of Fairless' conferences.

NO SEIZURE PLANNED
An expression of hope that the government will not find it necessary to seize the industry was voiced by civilian production administrator John D. Small.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 29—(AP)—A survey of manufacturers and union leaders today indicated that the nation's steel industry will not be without work for another month.

750,000 CIO MEMBERS
The figures include the 750,000 members of the CIO-United States workers, who walked out at midnight Jan. 20 to enforce payment of an 18 1/2 cents hourly pay raise recommended by President Truman.

Already 41,450 other workers have been laid off in scattered closings, attributable to the steel strike.

LACK OF MATERIALS
Early furnishing of another 950,000 workers was predicted in four states alone—Michigan, Ohio, Missouri and Connecticut.

If the strike continues a week

'Braggin Buggy' Transports Food

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—The "Braggin Buggy," a special cargo plane carrying choice Texas food for the Texas Bragg dinner here tomorrow night, was scheduled to arrive here this morning at 5 a. m.

The "Buggy" took off from Arlington, Texas, yesterday after a ceremony at which Mrs. L. M. Burchfield christened the plane by smashing a pink grapefruit on its nose.

Prior to the take-off a five-foot rattlesnake, part of the cargo, escaped and caused a flurry of excitement before it was recaptured.

Not all of the food shipped from Texas will reach the capital, however, passengers aboard the plane reported that during a stop in Shreveport, La., last night the airport restaurant was closed and they sampled the cargo.

State of Siege Is Decreed in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 29—(AP)—The Chilean cabinet was reconstituted today as the government prepared for a showdown with labor by imposing strict censorship on a 60-day state of siege following a bloody riot yesterday afternoon between police and labor demonstrators in which five persons were killed and 77 injured.

MILITARY ORDERS
Mounted troops, patrolled Santiago streets early this morning and the government ordered all soldiers on leave to report to their barracks and hold themselves ready for duty.

Two changes were made in the cabinet, giving military men new posts of authority, and some quarters predicted other appointments would be forthcoming.

NATIONWIDE STRIKE
During the rioting, which took place in the heart of this city, Bernardo Ibanez, general secretary of the Chilean workers federation, grasped a microphone and announced that a general nationwide strike would be called immediately to protest the action of the police.

One of those killed was a woman. Six women and five policemen were known to be among those wounded. The condition of 25 of the

Truman's Leaders Plan Compromise Over USES Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—President Truman's congressional leaders disclosed their willingness today to compromise the fight over returning the United States employment service to state control.

They told reporters after a meeting of the democratic steering committee which will permit consideration of all amendments dealing with labor. Backers of the bill don't want the measure to become a vehicle for catch-all labor legislation.

Should the committee act as Sabath predicted, opponents of general labor legislation said they will try to get the house to override the rules committee's recommendation by means of a roll-call vote.

If this fails and "the worst comes to the worst," one opponent told reporters, "our strategy will be to load it so full of amendments that the President will have to veto it."

Numerous amendments are in the offing. Some would penalize striking unions, require all unions to make annual financial reports to the securities and exchange commission and curb union political activities.

UNO Group May Witness A-Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes said today President Truman has approved his proposal to invite the United Nations atomic energy commission to witness the tests of the atom bomb against naval ships.

Byrnes emphasized that even with the President's approval, however, his proposal should not yet be construed as the final government policy on the subject.

He explained that it was his understanding that War Secretary Patterson and Navy Secretary Ford are still discussing the question of witnesses with General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and their staffs.

ARMY, NAVY EXPERIMENT
If the Byrnes recommendation is finally adopted, it would mean that officials from Russia, Britain, France, China, Australia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Brazil, the Netherlands, Egypt and Canada would be on hand for the experiment.

The navy and the army expect to try out the bomb against warships this spring off the mid-Pacific Marshall Islands.

COMMISSION MEMBERS
All members of the United Nations security council plus Canada are members of the UNO atomic energy commission which was established in London last week. Canada is a member because it participated with the U. S. and Britain in the development of the atom bomb.

Byrnes said he was willing to have at the demonstration either the commission members or a committee appointed by the commission.

When a reporter remarked that a state department opinion on such a matter, backed by the President, would "come pretty close to repeating 'United States' policy," Byrnes said he hoped so.

He added, however, that his proposal should not yet be construed as U. S. policy. It did not mean, he said, that only the nations represented on the atomic commission would be invited.

Property Owners To Meet Monday

A mass meeting of all property owners in Pampa has been called for next Monday, Feb. 4, to be held at 7:30 p. m. in the Palm room of the City hall to discuss plans in connection with the Pampa-to-Perry highway.

Chamber of commerce officials who have called the meeting urge all business and property owners in Pampa to be present.

Announcement of the meeting accomplished that of the appointment of a special committee by Crawford Atkinson, chairman of the chamber of commerce highway committee, to be responsible for the acquisition of the right-of-way for the proposed highway.

Frank Culbertson heads the special committee. Other members are C. P. Buckler, Jake Garman, William Fraser and DeLea Vicars.

Members will work with committees from Roberts and Ochiltree counties in securing the right-of-way as designed by the state highway department.

Texas Production Of Oil Unchanged

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 29—(AP)—Losses in a number of states and gains in others balanced off at a 14,100-barrel increase to 4,584,450 in daily average crude oil production for the week ending January 26, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The gains came in Wyoming, 7-300 barrels to 92,200; Oklahoma 800 to 392,650; Illinois, 2,200 to 206,500; and Colorado, 850 to 22,150.

Kansas production declined 7,050 to 254,450; California, 8,200 to 837,500; the eastern area 2,900 to 63,300; Arkansas 650 to 76,850; Louisiana 50 to 368,750 and Montana 50 to 22,000.

New Mexico, at 100,350, and Texas at 2,000,800, were unchanged.

The Rocky Mountain area of Colorado, Montana and Wyoming came up 1,000 barrels to 1,000,000.

Mississippi's production was 54,300 barrels compared with 56,600 the previous week.

The committee was informed that Avery was ill and that Murray could not keep the appointment. A clerk said Murray's reasons were not supplied.

Exemption Slips Must Be Renewed Annually
All persons over 60 years of age who have been exempt from poll tax payment must now obtain a certificate of exemption before January 31 in order to vote in the 1946 elections. It was emphatically stressed today by county officials.

Because of a law passed at the last special session of the state legislature requiring these certificates of exemption to be renewed annually for all persons in cities of over 10,000 inhabitants, persons over 60 years of age living in Pampa must renew their exemption certificates.

All persons who were 60 years of age on January 1, 1945, are included in the new requirement.

James Dewey Seeking To Settle GM Strike As Special Mediator

DETROIT, Jan. 29—(AP)—Plunging quickly into his task of seeking an end to the 10-week-old General Motors strike, Special Federal Mediator James Dewey conferred this forenoon with Charles E. Wilson, GM president, and had an engagement to meet immediately afterward with top officers of the CIO Auto Workers union.

The General Motors strike, growing out of demands for a 30 percent wage increase, later cut by the union to 17 1/2 percent, has kept 175,000 production workers idle for 10 weeks.

Hopes ran high for an early settlement as both the CIO United Auto Workers and General Motors corporation agreed to accept mediation.

HEARING HELD UP
Dewey, who received his orders yesterday afternoon from Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach, declared he hoped to meet with management and labor representatives later today.

Meanwhile there was a possibility that the national labor relations board hearing charging GM with failing to bargain in good faith might be held up after one day's testimony pending further mediation moves.

GIVEN FREE HAND
Dewey, who has played an important part in settlement of labor fares here during the last 11 years, said he had been given a free hand to try a repeat performance.

Ford Motor Co., which came to terms with the UAW Saturday by offering an 18 cents hourly wage increase, yesterday announced another pay boost, this one a 15 percent raise to cover some 19,000 salaried employees not covered by the union's new contract.

President Henry Ford II, announcing the action, said the increase would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

In the first day's testimony in General Motors' NLRB hearing, the corporation filed counter charges.

City To Ban All Horse Racing at Recreation Park

Mayor Farris C. Oden told those attending the city commission meeting today that all horse racing, gambling, drinking and other illegal acts being committed at Recreation park were going to be stopped immediately.

Officials of the Top of Texas Rodeo and horse show association charged that several local and out-of-town persons had staged a large horse race at the park Sunday and that this was in violation of the city's contract with the association.

Mayor Oden instructed City Manager Garland Franks and Chief of Police Louis Allen to confer with County Sheriff G. H. Kyle and see that such activities are halted.

The Recreation park question was one of two major developments in which affairs brought before the commission.

A question on management and operation of the municipal airport was referred to the aviation committee of the chamber of commerce.

Several parties now operating at the airport, which was leased, in part, to Roy A. Webb Jr., some time ago, told commissioners that, in effect, the contract between Webb and the city was not written with a great deal of foresight.

Members of the chamber aviation committee agreed to discuss the matter and submit it next week.

It developed that several parties were interested in securing airplane agencies here but the contract blocked most of their efforts.

Webb told the commission that he is spurring his building program in order to take care of the expanding air activity. He now holds exclusive maintenance and repair rights, including sale of gasoline and oil.

Harry L. Hopkins Dies at Hospital In New York City

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, 55, former special assistant to the late President Roosevelt, died at 10:35 a. m. (CST) today at Memorial hospital.

Hopkins entered the hospital last November. He had been in ill health for several years and resigned his White House post last July 3, saying "I must take a rest."

A hospital attack said the nature of Hopkins' illness had not been determined.

He had been reported in serious "but not critical" condition early today.

Since leaving Washington, Hopkins had been impartial chairman of New York City's cloak and suit industry. He succeeded former Mayor or James J. Walker to the post. His salary was reported to be about $25,000 yearly.

Born in Sioux City, Iowa, he became federal relief administrator during the depression years of the 1930s and later became President Roosevelt's closest confidant.

GI's Overseas Regard Further Draft a 'Must'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—GI's overseas today regard continuation of the draft a "must," reports Secretary of War Patterson.

The men are looking to selective service, he said, to apply their replacements so they can be relieved and come home.

Back from a month-long inspection tour of garrison forces in Europe, Asia and the Pacific, Patterson held firmly to the war department's contention that the army can't be reduced safely below 1,500,000 after mid-year and still do its job.

However, he promised that the army will fulfill "unconditionally" the pledge of Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower to have all enlisted men with two years service or 40 points discharged or in the process of discharge by June 30.

Meanwhile the senate military committee was called into closed session today to examine the report of a special demobilization subcommittee to which Eisenhower gave a report critical of the general

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Take it from a Richmond, Va., sports writer, who was conversing with Herman Hickman last December when young Charlie Gabriel phoned, that the story about the attempted "heft" of Gabriel from Catawba college is slightly exaggerated. The way Larry Leonard told it, Gabriel did most of the talking while Hickman explained that he had promised Chubby Kirkland, the Catawba coach, that he wouldn't call on the kid. Later Hickman said that Gabriel's uncle had first approached him to inquire about West Point. Selling note about 3,000 of the cheaper tickets for the Notre Dame-N. Y. Sports Shots

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF AP Sports Editor

DALLAS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A lot of these Texas schoolboy track and field performers who shine in the border Olympics at Laredo, the southwestern exposition meet at El Worth and city district and regional meets won't be around to help their teams in the state meet at Austin May 2 and 3.

It's all because of a rather unusual rule that wasn't drafted fully until late in the season last year. This rule says that if a boy becomes 18 after May 1 he can compete in everything until May 1 the following year. But, here's the trouble that arises: The state meet comes after May 1. Thus the Texas interscholastic league had to rule that a boy although eligible for all other sports of the school year was not eligible for the state meet.

So, if a track field has a boy who became 18 years old after May 1, 1945, he can compete in all meets with us until all day on the 31st of April, but he's out of luck at Austin. An amendment has been voted to correct the situation. This was done last October but it won't be effective until next year. That's the rule on a change by referendum in the Texas interscholastic league—it must wait a year to become effective.

You might expect sports fans to be quite tame these days. You'd think they would be satisfied because the war is over, prosperity is with us and all can go out to football or basketball game, sit back and enjoy things without worry.

But not so, my friend. There have been cases of officials getting soaked, cussed and forced to leave town in a hurry. The problem has been presented to officials of this and that sports body with a plea that more protection be furnished the boys who try to keep the games within the rules.

What's the reason for this sports hysteria? Well, said one man who deals with many referees and umpires and crowds, this may explain it partially at least.

The war's over. Folks expected by now to have settled into the routine of making a living, working, having fun, automobile and enjoying life as they did before the war. But there are strikes, scarcities of this and that, tax troubles, red tape and just about everything to keep a guy ready to fly off the handle when a nut goes.

The officials are trained to take the abuse. They get paid for doing it. But some of them are wondering if they're getting paid enough. Some of these days or nights there's going to be a big explosion. The regression will fan sporadic to its foundations.

A. B. (Happy) Chanoler, baseball's high commissioner, while in Dallas last week had some pertinent information for high schools of Texas that want to take up the sport.

In this state it's lack of capable coaches since the game never has been played in Texas high schools. But Chanoler says his office can solve his problem.

"Any school wanting a coach can contact my office. We will locate an old-time ball player in the locality of the school making the application and get him to take the job. There are few fellows who ever played the game who don't like to coach it."

Ben Hogan Beats Keiser for Title; Heads for Tucson

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 29.—(AP)—William Benjamin Hogan was en route to Tucson, Ariz., today with the Phoenix open golf crown on his lead and the $1,500 first prize money in his pocket.

The little shotmaker from Hershey, Pa., made his putter behave yesterday and that, combined with his driving ability, proved too much for Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, who had to be content with the $1,000 second prize. Both are entered in the $7,500 Tucson open which starts Friday.

In an 18-hole playoff for the Phoenix title, the first of the professional golfers association 1946 winter tour, the 37-year-old Hogan went around the Phoenix country club in 35-33 to fashion a three-under-par 68. The best the 30-year-old Keiser could produce was 34-36-70.

Yesterday's victory left the 137-pound star first in money won on the tour to date with $4,678. Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, leading money winner last year and winner of three tournaments this year before he left the tour, is second with $4,259.

Buck Cage Teams Both Lose Tilts

Pampa's Gorillas and Reapers, all former members of the Harvester cage team, defeated White Deer 2-1 last night in game played at the local gym.

The Reapers, led by Derrell Davis, turned back the White Deer Freshmen 34-21, while the Gorillas won 21-17 over the White Deer "B" team.

With Davis pumping in 10 points in the first half, the Reapers surged to a 20-12 lead. Davis scored four more in the last half for a total of 14 points as the Reapers held their lead.

The White Deer "B" team, against Coach Jiggs Whittington's Gorillas, could get only one point in the first half and four in the last. Pampa led 10-1 at the half.

Coach Whittington used 15 players in the game. Charles Thorntorpe was the leading scorer with six points.

DALLAS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A lot of these Texas schoolboy track and field performers who shine in the border olympics at Laredo, the southwestern exposition meet at Ft. Worth and city, district and regional meets won't be around to help their teams in the state meet at Austin May 2 and 3. It's all because of a rather unusual rule that wasn't digested fully until late in the season last year. This rule says that if a boy becomes 18 after May 1 he can compete in everything until May 1 the following year. But, and here's the trouble, that date is the state meet, which starts on May 1. Thus the Texas intercollegiate league had to rule that a boy although eligible for all other sports of the school year was not eligible for the state meet.

So, if a track team has a boy who became 18 years old after May 1, 1945, he can't compete in all meets, including city, district and regional, out he's out of luck at Austin, when he sustained a splintered bone in one ankle that benched him for several weeks.

Son of a former Kansas City blues pitcher, Stromeyer will major in business administration and minor in physical education at Notre Dame. If he makes the varsity there he hopes to put in a season or two at professional football after he receives his degree. Otherwise he may take up coaching.

McMillan Wants To Play TCU and Texas

PORT WORTH, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Coach Bo McMillan of Indiana university says he would like to play Texas Christian and Texas in football again soon. Indiana met T. C. U. at Bloomington in 1941 and the Hoosiers also owe Texas a game in Austin which McMillan hopes to arrange in 1947 or 1948. McMillan, who got his start in football at North Side high school in Fort Worth, is visiting here. Indiana was champion of the big ten last fall and was undefeated.

32 Women Enter Miami Tournament

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Thirty-two of the nation's outstanding feminine golfers matched strokes today in the first match play eliminations of the 14th annual Helen Lee DeHerty tournament. Mrs. Jane Crum Covington of Aberdeen, Md., cupped two spectacular chip shots for a 79 split medal honors with Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga. They clash later in the week for a medal playoff.

Ben Hogan Beats Keiser for Title; Heads for Tucson

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 29.—(AP)—William Benjamin Hogan was en route to Tucson, Ariz., today with the Phoenix open golf crown on his head and the $1,500 first prize money in his pocket.

The little shotmaker from Hershey, Pa., made his putter behave yesterday and that, combined with his driving ability, proved too much for Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, who had to be content with the $1,000 second prize. Both are entered in the $7,500 Tucson open which starts Friday.

In an 18-hole playoff for the Phoenix title, the first of the professional golfers association 1946 winter tour, the 37-year-old Hogan went around the Phoenix country club in 35-33 to fashion a three-under-par 68. The best 30-year-old Keiser could produce was 34-36-70.

Yesterday's victory left the 137-pound star first in money won on the tour to date with $4,675. Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, leading money winner last year and winner of three tournaments this year before he left the tour, is second with $4,250.

Buck Cage Teams Both Lose Tilts

Pampa's Gorillas and Reapers, all future members of the Harvester cage team, handed White Deer two set-backs last night in game played at the local gym.

The Reapers, led by Derrell Davis, turned back the White Deer Freshmen 34-21, while the Gorillas won a slow 18-5 victory over the White Deer "B" team. With Davis pumping in 10 points in the first half, the Reapers surged to a 20 lead. Davis scored four more in the last half for a total of 14 points as the Reapers held their lead.

The White Deer "B" team, against Coach Jiggs Widdington's Gorillas, could get only one point in the first half and four in the last. Pampa led 10-1 at the half.

Coach Whittington used 15 players in the game. Charles Thornborg was the leading scorer with six points.

Here's Use for Old Christmas Cards

Don't throw away those Christmas cards you received a month ago; The "Save the Children" federation wants them when you are through with them, and is appealing to church women and church organizations to gather them. The federation is organized to serve underprivileged children in many parts of the United States — and rural sections, the mountains, city slums, trailer communities, industrial shack-towns and other places where beautiful pictures are seldom seen. People are asked to pack the cards, and mail them or send them by Railway Express to the Save the Children Workroom, 8 Washington Place, New York 3, N. Y.

When you buy a sheet make sure it does not feel heavy or stretchy as it will not give you good wear.

Rusk Spread Balances Soup Meal

Brittany crust soup is a balanced meal in itself.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Here is a French peasant soup that is hearty, delicious and wonderful to eat.
Brittany Crust Soup (Crouste Bretonne)
(Approximately yield, 1 1/2 quarts)
Two pounds shin of beef, 2 pounds beef bones, 2 sliced carrots, 1 parsnip cut in pieces, 1 medium size onion, 1 stalk chopped celery, 2 sprigs parsley, 1 bay leaf, 2 sprigs thyme, 1 sprig marjoram, 1/3 teaspoon pepper-corns if desired, 1/8 teaspoon salt (or more to taste), 1/8 cup unbleached flour, 2 quarts water, 6 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, rusks or unsweetened zwieback.

Cover beef, bones, and spices (except nutmeg and cheese) with water. Bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. Skim. Cover and simmer 3 hours. Swirl again. Add vegetables and simmer 1 hour longer. Strain.

Mince vegetables and meat very fine. Mix with nutmeg and cheese. Spread on rusks or unsweetened zwieback. Lay in greased baking pan and brown lightly in oven. Serve piping hot and eat with the soup.

Legion Auxiliary Head Works Hard

AP Newsfeature
CHARLOTTE, N. C.—Mrs. Walter G. Craven, newly elected national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, brings to her new post a wealth of experience in legion work.

Unopposed choice for president of the Auxiliary at its convention in Chicago, Mrs. Craven can look back over 25 years of legion service—five of those years in the national hierarchy of the Auxiliary.

Modest but not retiring, she credits her selection to lead the Auxiliary's 700,000 members to "hard work." And she should know. She has been hard at it now for longer than she wants folks to know. At the time of Pearl Harbor Mrs. Craven was North Carolina department president of the Auxiliary. When she completed her term in 1942, she became area child welfare chairman, responsible for 13 states and Panama. In addition she served as national executive committee member.

Her next step in the Auxiliary was the vice-presidency of the southern division, a position she held at the same time she was serving as assistant North Carolina director of Civilian Defense.

After that came her appointment as national child welfare chairman. "That is really my field," Mrs. Craven says of this Auxiliary responsibility. With experience as executive secretary of the Mecklenburg county chapter of the American Red Cross, child welfare work was right down her alley.

The national child welfare post came at the American Legion Auxiliary convention in the fall of 1944. In the ensuing months she traveled the length and breadth of the continent, attending on one tour conferences in San Francisco, St. Louis,

WHO'S NEUROTIC?

An Englewood, N. J., school teacher has been trying to form a national organization of neurotic malcontents to do something about the state of things in general. He claims statistics show that one out of 20 Americans is or has been under treatment for mental ills of one sort or another. And he concludes that there must be something wrong with an environment in which these mental ills flourish.

The Englewood educator seems to feel that psychiatrists have been going about the job the wrong way. They have been trying to fit the individual to his environment, he says, when they should be fitting the environment to the individual.

Well, a lot of people these days are trying to do just that. But they are discontented, and maladjusted, or full of persecution complexes and delusions of grandeur. They aren't, however, the self-confessed neurotics that the gentleman from Englewood is seeking. On the contrary, they are people who would heartily resent any suggestion that they aren't mentally healthy, normal and, of course, dead right in their beliefs.

The results of their symptoms and their efforts are obvious. Discontented soldiers are clamoring to come home. Discontented wage earners are out on strike. Persecuted employers are refusing to budge an inch, claiming that the discontented wage earners are out to destroy them.

Delusions of grandeur are busting out all over—among congressmen, industrialists, labor leaders, all of them self-appointed saviors of democracy, the American way of life, free enterprise, or anything else that happens to way saving at the moment.

The great trouble, of course, is that these people are trying to change the national environment to fit their own particular tastes. And since their tastes have a way of being totally dissimilar, the result is the rather sorry mess we find ourselves in today.

So maybe the man from Englewood has something there, at that. Perhaps what we need is an organization of admittedly confused people, humble people who will say, "We ain't happy," and then try to do something about it.

Of course, it might be that they, too, would get into a fight over what is wrong and how to fix it. But it might also be possible that their search for surroundings of reasonable happiness and contentment would take them back to some fundamentals that have become lost in the postwar shuffle—things like a fairer shake for "us" rather than just for "me"; an end of economic strife for strife's sake; less grandiose promises for tomorrow and more effort toward a pleasanter world today. Anyway, it would be an interesting experiment to watch for those of us who occasionally wake up in the middle of the night with the cold feeling that everything's screwy, everyone's discontented, and that only the Grade A neurotic has much chance of keeping his balance.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

In the last issue I quoted from "The Rise of the Tyrant" by Rev. Carl McIntire. I want to quote further from this timely book on fighting collectivism as sponsored by the leading Protestant denominations in America.

Rev. McIntire does not mince words; he names the leaders of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and analyzes their writings and points out their errors.

He names such men as J. Henry Carpenter, G. Bromley Oxnam, E. Stanley Jones, James Myers, Harry F. Ward and Samuel McCrea Cavert, leaders in Protestant churches and the Federal Council. He devotes about 70 pages quoting from these men and explaining how closely their beliefs parallel with the constitution of Russia.

Rev. McIntire has no more respect for Dr. E. Stanley Jones and G. Bromley Oxnam than he has for reading their works. He explains the mysticism in Dr. Jones' use of the phrase, "kingdom of God." Concerning it he says:

"It runs through his various writings. But the kingdom of God is the establishment of a society that is to replace capitalism, go beyond communism, and give us the ordered, controlled, and 'free society' in which, according to Dr. Jones, man was made by God."

In discussing Dr. Jones' last book, "The Christ of the American Road," he quotes this mystic statement of Dr. Jones that has no meaning unless it is collectivism:

"The Kingdom of God gathers up into itself the truth in individualism and the truth in collectivism and yet goes beyond each. The end is not a compromise, or an amalgam of both, but is a new product—a new man out of both parties."

Rev. McIntire explains this paragraph from Dr. Jones' last book as follows:

"Here, in this strange application, Dr. Jones destroys the whole basis of the individualism. The freedom of individualism cannot be reconciled with the tyranny of collectivism. The two cannot go together to something that is beyond, because there is no beyond. Freedom? You have reached the ultimate when you have freedom. To move on to something that is beyond is to leave your freedom and embrace something else. Dr. Jones uses a very subtle and brilliant twist to make people think they are going to something. For the individualism of the free enterprise system in which individualism alone can exist."

Then he quotes again from Dr. Jones' book:

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN

Well, lots of people are saying that it's too bad we suffer of today don't have the hardy pioneer spirit of our forefathers. They point and that strikes a n d shortages wouldn't bother us a bit if we pitched in and made the things that are lacking with our own hands. I've seen them get so excited about this that they loosen their collars—made in Boston, roll up the sleeves of their shirts—made in Chicago, and pound on their furniture—made in Grand Rapids.

I've tried this pioneer thing out, goodness, I frankly admit that my efforts haven't turned out so well. The butter I tried to churn was sort of a cross between a milkshake with lumps and a polish for yellow shoes. And if George only wore the clothes I made on a spinning wheel he'd be cold—and arrested.

Rev. McIntire explains this quotation thusly:

"This is the society that man—Dr. Jones and our generation—must establish! This divine society, to be brought in by man, is to be completely totalitarian! If it is not completely totalitarian, it cannot be free. It cannot possibly be free if it is a controlled society. Dr. Jones is right. Totalitarianism demands the allegiance of everything and everybody in the whole of life. That is the very nature of totalitarianism. This society, according to Dr. Jones, is what Jesus Christ held before us in His talk of the kingdom!"

Then he draws this logical conclusion:

"What we are saying is that the local churches, the individual denominations inside the Federal Council, are not merely implicated in this program of radicalism that we have considered, but they are the ones who have made the program possible."

He recognizes the radical collectivist leadership of the Methodist church. The Methodist General Conference of 1944 adopted the following:

"Where the rights of property conflict with the establishment of social justice or the general social welfare, those rights should be overridden, modified, or, if need be, abolished."

"We endorse the stand taken by the Delaware Conference (Federal Council of Churches): 'We believe that a new ordering of economic life is both imminent and imperative.'"

Dr. Jones says, "The Methodist Church has gone all out in support of this program, more so perhaps than any other of the Protestant denominations in the United States."

Anyone who has read the late books of Dr. E. Stanley Jones, Bishop Francis J. McConnell and Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam knows that the Methodist church is probably the most socialistic of the denominations in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

We will quote further from this book in another issue.

BITTERNESS—The morale of army-navy officers has fallen to almost as low a state as that of the G. I. is now staging demonstrations against the slowness of the demobilization program. In fact, they are slightly aggrieved because the White House congress and the public have neglected what they consider their legitimate complaints.

General "Ike" Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz have warned that they may have insufficient personnel to fill vacancies in army-navy ranks unless redeployment is slowed down or recruiting stepped up. But the chief of staff and the chief of naval operations are privately worried over a prospective dearth of officer material. The file of resignations and requests for discharge at G. H. Q. in Washington is appalling.

Military and naval commanders below the grade of general officers say that they see no future in either service. The demand of the public and the politicians for an overnight dismantling of the war machine leads them to believe that history will repeat itself. With the arrival of peace, they look for skimpy appropriations from congress, a loss of interest in the armed services, slow promotions and return to the starvation days and diet of the pre-war period.

The feeling of bitterness is especially acute among navy officers, although they cannot afford to publicize their resentment. They think that they discern definite indications that the army and the air forces will be the fair-haired arms under the present administration.

TRIBUTE—The beating which the "brass hats" have taken on and off Capitol Hill since V-J Day lies behind the growing spirit of restlessness and disillusionment. In view of the attention and adulation they enjoyed during the fighting, the commanders led our forces to victory on land and sea and in the air entertain the suspicion that the American people are now different to their achievements.

A single spectacular incident before the senate military affairs committee rankles most heavily in the officer class; they regarded it as a congressional lap in their collective face.

The senatorial group invited an army private to attend an official hearing and to sound off his grievances against his superiors. He was permitted to give slangy expression to every gripe a soldier has had about "the boss" since the beginning of warfare, although it developed that his own service was extremely liberal and unheroic.

But the august legislators filed past him at the conclusion of his testimony, begging for the honor to shake his hand. They paid him greater tribute than they gave "Ike" Eisenhower on his several appearances before congressional bodies.

WALKOUT—The scene struck the public as humorous and sportsmanlike. It is probable that every private and non-com in the army shared the witness' thrill. But it did not set well with the objects of the G. I.'s criticism. In many other ways the men who wear the stars and bars feel that they have been humiliated, neglected and shoved around.

In themselves these supposed slights are not important, perhaps, except to the individual officers. But to men toying with the idea of carrying a career in either of the services, there is the impression that the army or navy in peacetime is not a good lifetime investment.

There are even more fundamental factors behind the exodus of officers from active or even reserve duty. The proposed merger of the forces may lessen their chances of advancement, especially in the navy. Adoption of universal military training may have the same effect; for well-trained mass armies should reduce the need for general officers.

At present, there is the repercussion which the atom bomb may have on our national defense establishment. Future tests of that weapon demonstrate that there is no future in the army, navy or any allied profession.

"Brass hat" griping may seem only a petty and personal matter to most folks, and perhaps it is. But the prospective walkout is no joke to General Eisenhower, Admiral Nimitz and General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air forces.

BACKGROUND—It is no secret around Washington that many of President Truman's troubles flow from his enforced reliance upon inexperienced military principals in the navy and state departments to which he delegated Samuel I. Rosenman, who joined the White House staff as a special legal adviser to the late President Roosevelt, to draft an executive order defining the power of the Pearl Harbor investigators.

Minority members wanted the right to confer with some of the officers. The White House staff as a special legal adviser to the late President Roosevelt, to draft an executive order defining the power of the Pearl Harbor investigators.

MACKEENZIE'S Column

(This is the fifth of a series of columns on Generalissimo Franco by Dewitt MacKenzie, to whom the Spanish chief of state has just given an interview.)

AP World Traveler MADRID, Jan. 29—Freedom of the press naturally is an ideal which never ceases to flame within the newspaperman, and your correspondent would have been indeed poor representative of his kind if he hadn't raised this question in his interview with Generalissimo Franco.

The subject is especially close to me because during the generation of my forefathers, I've worked under censorship in many countries of both hemispheres. Move to the point, world peace depends on real acquaintance among the peoples of all DEWITT MACKENZIE'S

Dale Evans' story about the concealed actor who had been rushing a girl. One day he cornered her and exclaimed: "I've been rushing you with the way our romance has progressed—you're a wonderful girl and I have decided that you deserve me. . . . Van Johnson getting temperamental and turning down a new M-G-M picture, "The Risen Soldier."

Producer Hal Wallis picking the title "Top Secret" for his movie about the development of the atomic bomb. . . . Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., turning producer for movies starring himself after completing a role in "Sinbad the Sailor" at RKO. . . . Former heavyweight champ Max Baer talking contract with Hollywood on starring in his own life story. . . . Robert Preston and Paramount calling off their battle over Bob's contract. He just signed a new one after charging the studio with bad faith after he returned from the army air force.

The Spanish government at the end of the last decade freed information for foreign correspondents. Spain desires not to conceal its truth from the world, and during the last ten years it has been devoting its attention to preventing the irritation of its relations with other countries by excesses of its press or its radio, and has refused to accept any opinion a moderation which does not deliver them of the noble defense of that which affects us or of the serene and dispassionate international events.

"I can assure you that this moderation has favored peace and good relations with the United Nations, and when any newspaper has slipped in criticism, the ambassadors have presented verbal notes asking for that moderation which has been the norm of the Spanish press and which, unfortunately, has not been matched elsewhere."

In this and previous articles I have covered the full ground of my interview with the Spanish chief of state, excepting for one sentence which stands by itself.

"If these statements which you have requested," said Franco, "serve to help to reestablish the trusts and increase the bonds and sympathies between our peoples, we shall have contributed to some extent to those ideals of peace of the North American people, which find the most perfect echo in our nation and in my government."

All of us know that isolation is impossible now. Everybody must to know the whole world on his heart. We must think globally—Rev. Samuel M. Shoemaker, New York City.

America's people are fully conscious of their destiny and their transcendent responsibility in the world of tomorrow—Adlai E. Stevenson, acting U. S. delegate to UNO.

he learned of the blunder. He was forced to repudiate the Rosenman scheme publicly and promptly, a reversal which embarrassed him. He gave permission for the individual investigators to talk with anybody, but denied them the right to commandeer any official papers without committee authorization.

As he walked, he wondered about Fay. What had happened to her? This could be a trap. He could have been over-susceptible to those green eyes with their faintly troubled look and that shining auburn hair. But he had to find out.

He stopped and lit a cigaret. He thought he heard someone behind him. Up the road there was a rustling in the bushes. It wasn't the wind. There wasn't a breath of air stirring. Some animal, he thought. He listened, but the animal or whatever it was remained quiet.

He started on down the road again. He went into the woods by the curve in the road and began to feel his way. It was as dark as it was last night, but not so wet. He was approaching the house from the other side.

He saw the house. He saw the urn with the red and blue flowers. He saw the porch where Roger Bland had quietly closed the door behind him last night, lit a cigaret, and walked calmly off in the rain. And he saw a light.

The moment Pike saw it, it went out. So quickly that he was not quite sure it had not been a reflection. A moment later a car passed on the Valley Road going toward the SADDLEBACK. The loom of its headlights cast a ghostly haze over the barren front of Bateman's bungalow.

Pike went through the woods behind the house. He could see the back windows, silent, dark, vacant.

He crossed the lawn and passed the back steps. They might creak, chums, but for another fiscal year or more yet.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Hollywoodites are talking about . . . Those numerous celebrations for the success of the film "The Lost Weekend," a preachment against the evils of drink. All the celebrations are in the form of cocktail parties. . . . Betty Hutton's desk pounding at Paramount. She wants a straight dramatic role instead of another musical. . . . Singer Jane Froman undergoing her 20th operation for injuries received in the crash of a clipper plane in Lisbon Bay. . . . Motion picture exhibitors rating popcorn, peanuts and chocolate bars as 1-2-3 in a poll of moviegoers who go to movie theaters to eat as well as look.

The Hollywood Canteen, as we predicted months ago, being leased to a night clubowner. Servicemen now will have to pay to get in. . . . French actress Danielle Darrieux, cleared of nazi collaboration charges, returning to Hollywood in March for a screen in new movie titled "The Unfinished Symphony." . . . George E. Plair's observation that with labor troubles popping up everywhere, even the spooks are walking off the job. Coming up is a film titled, "The Case of the Ghost Who Wasn't There."

Columnist Writes of 'Mere Boys Who Became Persuaders of Men'

(Editor's note: The following article, by Edith Johnson, was written for the Daily Oklahoman, published Oct. 6, 1945 in the interest of those "little merchants" who deliver the paper to the readers' door each day. It is entitled "Mere Boys Who Became Persuaders of Men." It is reprinted here for your enjoyment.)

When Governor Kerr proclaimed this day "newspaper boys' day" he indirectly was appealing to the public for its support and appreciation of that great army of boys who all during the war emergency carried the news morning and evening to the homes of this city, the state and the nation.

While social agencies, educators and courts discuss ways and means of helping teen-age boys to use their time, talents and energies for constructive purposes, newspaper boys are so busy learning how to serve their customers, how to sell, collect and keep books and how to spend or invest their earnings that they solve their own problems as wholesomely busy boys always have done.

During their impressionable years they learn to be punctual and courteous, to be reliable and thrifty. During the war years newspaper boys in this city, alone, bought more than $40,000 worth of war bonds, purchased real estate, set up savings accounts and in many instances bought all of their clothing. With money of their own jingling in their pockets they could develop hobbies and spend for other things that they could enjoy.

Because newspaper boys work and earn they have a degree of personal independence not shared by the boy who goes to father or mother for every dime or dollar he spends.

Men who used to be newspaper boys have been fighting all over the world. As Maj. Gen. James W. Ulio, adjutant general of the U. S. army, said recently, many of them have made excellent officers, and others have developed into real leaders in civil life because they learned in boyhood to be "persuaders of men." No one knows how many men who have scored distinguished records started out for themselves selling papers. Among them were Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith, in whose memory friends and admirers of his career are raising a fund to build a big hospital. Another is Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to the Court of St. James, and in our own town, Federal Judge A. P. Murray, Allen Street, B. D. Eddie, Lyall Barnhart, and Roy E. Pinney.

Newspaper boys from a cross-section of society, the majority belonging, however, to the "better families" in their neighborhoods. "Usually there is a father or a mother who gives a newspaper boy encouragement and backing, for it takes much youthful stamina for a boy to deliver his papers in the snows of winter, in the storms of spring or the heat of late summer afternoons."

As more than 93 per cent of the newspaper boys in this city attend school regularly, they are bound to be industrious. There is no place for a loafer in their ranks, and little time to get into mischief.

One of the most important things any of us can learn is how to get along with other people, and that is something a newspaper boy must find out for himself. For in the course of his selling, collecting and delivering, he encounters all sorts of conditions of people, not all of them so thoughtful and considerate as they should be.

As he learns to understand them and deal with them he has a definite advantage over other boys who have not had that experience. When he reaches adult years he has a pretty clear idea of what this world of ours is like, what he may expect of people and not expect of them. Consequently, he knows how "to take it," undismayed by encounters that upset his fellows who go from job to job, never quite fitting into any situation.

He is more mature than many of his fellows and has the "jump" on them, he reaps his reward.

"YOU didn't take my advice," she said. "No," Pike said. "You should have." Marcia Clay said simply. "Where's Fay?" Pike said. "Father detained her," Marcia said. "Why didn't you go away?" She spoke almost placidly. "Now I'll have to kill you," she said. "Don't you realize that won't do any good?"

"Yes!" She was a ghost-like shadow in the darkness. "Killing never does any good. But a drowning man will always take one more stroke—even when he knows his case is hopeless."

"What about Mary Butler?" "She's there," Marcia gestured, with her pistol toward the divan. "She had a nice clean t-shirt. After we left her aunt's, I told her we were to meet you at Bateman's. When we got here, I made her a cup of tea."

The girl flittered. "Do you like tea, Mr. Clayton?" she asked. "You mean Mary Butler's under the divan?" Pike said. "She's in it," Marcia said. "It opens like a hop-chest, but then there gets a while. I think she began to get on Bateman's nerves."

"Then to soothe his nerves you made him a cup of tea?" "No," Marcia shook her head. "He drank bottled spring water. I put the pills in that day before yesterday when I found he knew."

"Knew what?" Marcia looked at him. "You're pretty cute," she said. "Aren't you?" "No, I'm not."

"Yes, you are. You knew all along that I'd killed Emma's kid. You told Father you knew. He told me."

"Did he?" Pike said. "I hated her," she said calmly. "And I killed her. And Father punished it up. He's so indignant. Pike gazed at the darkness between them. It he could keep her talking. (To Be Continued)

STOP JOHN CLAY

By Lionel Mosher

Wide. Just the way Pike had left it last night. HE pulled himself up, got his leg over the sill, and he was in the kitchen. He stood and listened. The clock. He heard it ticking slowly, methodically, inexorably, that was all. There was a peculiar odor in the house. The smell of death. Pike went through the little hallway and started into the dark living room. He could see a little. His eyes were accustomed to the darkness. But he was going to have to light matches again. Instinctively, Pike looked over to the leather divan where Bateman had lain last night. He could almost see him now. Actually, that uneven outline against the symmetric contour of the divan. You don't suppose they haven't taken him away yet, Pike thought. He went closer. He leaned down. He took out his matches, cupped his hand over the packet, and lit one. He raised the match slowly, then blew it out. It was not Bateman. Lying there on the divan was Roger Bland. Stretched out full length, just like Bateman, only not quite so peaceful looking. Because Roger Bland had a hole in his forehead. It was time to call in the police. Not Parker, but someone unaffected by the influence of John Clay, the State Police. They could step in now, and Pike could tell them who he was and what he knew, for he had a body now. Not Mary Butler's, but one just as good. Pike went over to the telephone. He put his hand on the head-set and someone said: "Put that phone down." There was a step behind him. He had been so busy smelling death that this fragrance had escaped him. He turned around. She stood there by the clock. She had a flashlight in one hand and she shone it on him and then on the Card of Thanks I cannot think of them as dead. Who walk with me no more. Along the path of life I tread. They have but gone before.

The Father's House is hallowed fair. Beyond my vision dim; All souls are His, and He and There Are liv'ing unto Him.

And still their silent ministry With me is undiminished day. As when on earth they walked with me, And met me face to face.

Their lives are made forever mine; What they to me have been I'll feel eternally. My soul and sign Engraven deep within.

Mine are they by an ownership Nor time nor death can free; For God hath given to Love to keep Its own eternally.

I am the way, the truth and the life; No man cometh unto the father, but by me, John 14:6.

Pampa Honored for Fire Prevention

Pampa is one of 177 cities in the United States that has been specially honored for its participation in last year's fire prevention and clean-up contest.

The contest, which was held October 7-13, 1945, was sponsored by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Pampa was one of six Texas cities honored. El Paso ranked first, San Antonio second, and Houston, Victoria, Amarillo and Pampa were listed on the honorable mention list.

The U. S. commerce department places the total national debt, public and private, at 284,000,000,000 or $2.743 per capita.

French President Outlines Program

PARIS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—President Felix Gouin told the constituent assembly today his foreign policy envisaged "a grand tripartite accord between Russia, England and France."

In his inaugural address to the legislature, the new president also outlined a more extensive program of nationalization, taking in business banks, part of the merchant navy, mines, insurance companies, electricity and gas.

Gouin declared for closer relations with the United States.

"We will pursue our cooperation with all the Allied nations and friends, with Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Norway, Holland, Luxembourg, Italy, the states of central Europe and the East, and South America, without forgetting the new China who was our associate in the war just finished," the successor to President de Gaulle said.

Gouin said he hoped one day to see Spain in the United Nations, but that first "Spain must rediscover the road to democracy."

The president bluntly told the French people that until the next harvest it would be necessary to maintain the present bread ration. He said the wine ration must be reduced immediately, that the meat supply could not be expected to increase soon and that there was no relief in sight for the potato shortage.

He said France's financial situation is "serious."

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE Associated Press Staff

Rolling, rolling, over the Texas plains: The "hottest" stolen vehicle in a East Texas has been found. It was a pickup truck loaded with dynamite caps.

Constable Ed Rose of Marshall said if the thief had hit a bad bump, or had been in an accident, it would have been curtains.

There were enough dynamite caps in the truck to demolish truck and driver.

But it was recovered in time, in Harrison county, and returned to the owner in Jefferson. The suspect was jailed.

A Dallas woman called the cops to report she had a stolen bicycle in her possession. She asked if anyone named Pearson had reported one stolen.

She said she had called all the Ferguson's in the telephone directory, but none had lost a bike. She said she knew the owner's name was Pearson because the word Pearson was stamped all over the seat.

The officer explained patiently that that was the name of one of the largest bicycle seat makers in the nation.

A 15-year-old boy from New Mexico was held by Dallas cops for transporting a stolen vehicle in interstate commerce—He stole a truck, in other words, and drove it to Texas.

But he had abandoned the truck and said he had gone only to the fourth grade, and couldn't read the name of the town where he had left.

Frank Bailey, a Fort Worth ambulance attendant, helped deliver a baby girl en route to the hospital. But he wasn't flustered.

"It was my 18th ambulance birth," he said. "Once I even had twins."

decrees involved shall be forwarded to the legislative yuan for action.

Decisions on the state council, as agreed upon by a unity conference subcommittee this morning and reported by government sources, were:

1—The power of appointment will be transferred to the council from the central executive subcommittee of the Kuomintang.

2—Emergency powers of the president of the republic must be approved by the council before they are exercised.

3—The president's veto may be overridden by the council by a three-fifths majority.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Buoyed by the improving situation, stocks bulked 1 to more than 6 points, many to 15-year peaks, in today's market on the fastest start since 1940.

The ticker tape was behind during most of the first hour as 1,000 to 50,000 share blocks changed hands on the upside. Turnover in the initial period was 1,010,000 shares, but in almost six years, there were no more than 100,000 shares traded although speed-ups were frequent.

While many favorites held around the top, most of the fluctuations were reduced here and there by profit taking. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 3,500,000 shares compared with 1,700,000 in 1940.

Piled on orders, brought late starts for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler and other pivots with some posting widest jumps for the day. Eastman Kodak climbed 10 points on a few transactions. Rail bonds firmed upward.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced today to the highest levels in nearly 21 years on general buying stimulus and indications of early ending of major strikes. Strength in outside markets also was a factor. The market closed steady at $1.75 to $2.60 a bale higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady at $1.75 a bale higher today. Sales 2,778; low middling 29.50, middling 25.30, good middling 25.70; receipts 2,547; stock 209,553.

Chamber Will Honor Draft Board Members

Work of selective service board members and government appeal agents during the duration will be recognized in ceremony to be attended by 49 representatives from 12 surrounding counties on Thursday, Feb. 7.

The ceremony will be held in the Junior high school auditorium, sponsored by the Pampa chamber of commerce.

A representative of Gov. Coke Stevenson, Lt. Comdr. Harold C. Benedict of the state selective service department, will present awards to the honorees.

John Y. Osborne, local attorney and recently discharged veteran, will be the master of ceremonies at the occasion.

C-47 Crash in China Kills Texas Officer

SHANGHAI, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The four crew members of a C-47 U. S. Army transport were killed near Nanking Saturday when their plane struck a mountain in a bad weather landing attempt and burned.

The plane struck Purple Mountain, a few miles northeast of Nanking. Victims included Lt. Carlton H. Crawford, Brady, Texas, pilot.

HOMELESS MARYVILLE, Kas., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The housing shortage plays no favorites.

Maryville's No. 2 fire truck is being "evicted" because the owner of the building wants to convert the property.

Gas Association Officers Elected

HOUSTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—E. Budrus, Chicago, president of the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company, has been reelected president of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America. The association is holding its first annual meeting here.

All other officers were also reelected. They were Paul Kayser, Houston, president of the El Paso Natural Gas company, first vice president; J. H. Dunn, Amarillo, president of the Shamrock Oil and Gas corporation, second vice president; F. W. Peeters, Tulsa, treasurer of the Oklahoma Natural Gas company, treasurer; and John A. Ferguson, Washington executive director.

Siege in Chile

(Continued from page 1) wounded was reported as serious. Some estimates placed the number of dead at 12, but only four deaths could be confirmed.

After the fighting the demonstration, members of the workers federation, paraded through the streets with banners dipped in blood.

The government blamed the outbreak on "extremist agitation," but the workers federation quickly issued an answering blast in which it placed the responsibility on the government.

The fighting broke out after police had asked speakers addressing a mass meeting in downtown plaza bulnes to moderate their attacks against the government.

A struggle ensued and shots were fired. The police, some mounted and armed with sabers and handclubs, clashed with the crowd. The crowd fought back.

The military committee also was occupied with work on President Truman's request for a merger of the armed forces, but strict secrecy surrounded all preliminary groundwork on this legislation.

GM Strike

UAW vice-president Walter P. Reuther, called by the NLRB as an early witness, said GM had refused during negotiations to discuss the UAW's demand for a 30 percent increase.

He declared the corporation repeatedly "trust us aside" when wages were brought up and "expressed no willingness to discuss the 30 percent demand."

Hold-Up

The current fad for wearing old-fashioned "Gay Nineties" fancy garters is getting strong support in Hollywood. Erskine Johnson, NEA Hollywood reporter, votes for Joan Leslie's as the "fanciest yet." They're made of black satin, trimmed with lace and ermine tails.

Government Row

One issue on which government officials have differed is how much of a price increase the strike-included steel industry should be allowed.

Small declined to disclose his ideas on this, but he said it was his understanding that the industry is entitled to a price adjustment "on the basis of the facts, regardless of the wage issue."

Texas U. Enlarges Drama Division

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—With more emphasis on background study of theater arts, the University of Texas department of drama has revised and enlarged its curriculum to include new courses in the spring term, which begins in March, Lawrence Carr, acting director, reports.

Whereas in the past only half a semester's study has been devoted to history of the theater, methods of drawing design for the stage, and costume and scene design, there will now be a full year's course in each of these subjects.

The revised curriculum will also include an introductory study of the theater, voice control for the stage, phonetics for stage diction and dance drama. The latter, offered this winter for the first time, is a course in creative dancing.

Two new courses will be offered this spring. One is on the contemporary theater, which will be taught by Major James H. Parke, professor of drama now in military service. This course will be a comprehensive study of what is happening in the theater throughout the world. The other is a course for radio majors on radio production directing. It will be taught by John Neal Watson, instructor in drama.

February Draft Quota Is Filled

No men from Gray county will be drafted during February by the county selective service board because the county February quota of eight men has been automatically filled by men enlisting in the service. It was reported today.

All county enlistments, are credited to the draft board.

A 3-year enlistment in the Regular Army now entitles American young men to a FULL COLLEGE COURSE or a Business or Trade School Education

By Act of Congress, benefits of the GI Bill of Rights are open to every qualified young man who enlists in the new Regular Army before October 6, 1946

HUNDREDS of thousands of intelligent young men finishing high school have been unable to afford a higher education. Now they can have it, free.

GREATEST EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY IN HISTORY Under the GI Bill of Rights every young man who enlists in the Regular Army before October 6, 1946, is entitled, after discharge, to education or training in the school or college of his selection at Government expense. For a period based on the length of his service, the Government will pay his tuition, up to $500 per ordinary school year, plus $65 monthly for living expenses—$90 if he is married. After a 3-year enlistment, for example, he may have 48 months of education, with a total of $5,120 paid by the Government!

Original enlistments are open to men aged 17 to 34, and may be for 1½, 2 or 3 years.

The Army itself is one of the world's best schools. Through training in one or more of 200 skills, trades and technical subjects is open to every soldier.

If you are 17 or over, and mentally and physically fit, you can earn while you learn in the Army. You'll get good pay, food, clothing, quarters and medical care. You'll get a 30-day paid furlough each year. If you enlist for 3 years you can choose your branch of service and your overseas theater in the Air, Ground or Service Forces.
