U. S. Marines Must Withhold Demonstrations

HONOLULU, Jan. 11.—(AP)—United States Marines in the Pacific theater are under orders of their commanding general not to stage mass demonstrations such as other service groups have held in Korea, Japan, Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines to protest the current demobilization program.

The order of Lt. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, issued yesterday to company commanders, cancelled a marine meeting scheduled last night at Camp Catlin, adjacent to Pearl Harbor.

"It's traditional with the marines," explained Geiger's chief of staff, Brig. Gen. Mervin H. Silverton, "that men go to their commanders with their troubles, whether they are family affairs, a belly-ache or anything else and we don't feel there is any occasion for meetings which are not a military formation that can be controlled."

Meanwhile, Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commander of army forces in the mid-Pacific, expressed gratification over the orderly manner in which soldiers of his command have held meetings in protest against the demobilization policies.

Fact-Finding Proposal May End GM Strike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Union and company representatives studied today a proposal to end the 51-day-old General Motors strike with a 17 1/2 percent pay increase.

They made no immediate commitment but one White House labor advisor said it was significant neither side rejected the terms during preliminary discussions with aides of President Truman.

Officials of the united automobile workers will consider the proposal Sunday at a meeting in Detroit.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president, declared the board "completely support the union's position that wages 'can and must be increased without price increases."

The corporation had nothing to say until experts could study the 50-page report of the fact-finders.

The men who counsel Mr. Truman on labor problems seemed hopeful the end of the GM temp was in sight and that this would influence solution of steel, meat packing and electrical industry disputes which have brought calls for 1,000,000 CIO workers to strike next week.

The panel, in addition to recommending a 12 percent, or 13 1/2 percent, pay raise.

could be found to man the switchboards "and we would furnish them ample protection."

W. M. Wallis, vice president and Texas representative of the striking Association of Communications Equipment Workers, said in Fort Worth the picketing would continue until he heard personally from the national president.

Wallis said he would not call off pickets in Texas until Ernest Weaver, New York, ACEW president, asked him to do so.

Some ministers submitted their resignations in conformity with Governor Stevenson's Jan. 4 political purge directive, said sources close to the government.

These sources also indicated that Shidehara originally desired the ministers' resignations on bloc, but agreed to remain in office and try a reorganization.

Steel Industry Talks Continue

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—With an industry-wide strike of 700,000 steelworkers at state heads of the CIO united steelworkers union and the U. S. steel corporation meet here today to discuss the union's demands for a 30 percent wage increase.

The corporation had nothing to say until experts could study the 50-page report of the fact-finders.

The men who counsel Mr. Truman on labor problems seemed hopeful the end of the GM temp was in sight and that this would influence solution of steel, meat packing and electrical industry disputes which have brought calls for 1,000,000 CIO workers to strike next week.

Secret Ballot System Seen as Undemocratic

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Russia launched an attack within the United Nations assembly today on the secret ballot system under which her candidate for assembly president was defeated at the first session yesterday.

Sentiment was reported developing within the American delegation, too, for abandonment of the rule under which Paul Henri Spaak, foreign minister of Belgium, was chosen assembly president, with the backing of Britain, and Trygve Lie, Norwegian foreign minister defeated despite his support by Russia and the United States.

Another development today was the possibility Australia may ask the assembly to reverse the preparatory commission's decision that permanent headquarters be near New York or Boston in order to bring up against the proposal to make the world peace capital at San Francisco.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: Exodus, Chapters 6-18, especially 6:6-8; 13:17-22
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

There is always something thrilling about stories of deliverance. Today, despite much agony, deliverance has been coming to ravaged lands and sorely stricken peoples. But there is mourning for the millions who have perished, for whom deliverance was too late, and there are tears in all our hearts, a deep plea of sympathy and helplessness for the Jewish people who have borne, with the Chinese and the Poles, the heaviest burden of the world's tragedy.
For these, too, no Moses has arisen. With doors closed against them by immigration laws, the less fortunate refugees have not even a wilderness to wander in, or the hope of a Promised Land.
Here, my friends, are tragic things that ought to be upon the world's conscience, and especially upon the conscience of all who value what Jews have given to the world—the Bible, and the Christ, with His message of love and brotherhood.
From this modern tragedy we turn to that ancient story which the devout of Israel have immortalized in the Feast of the Passover, a solemn but joyful feast that has become a feast of sorrow. The plagues of the people in Egypt after Joseph's death is set before us with a vividness that makes the blood run cold, though the oppression and suffering was of long ago. But from the dark arises a great and courageous leader, devoted to his people and their deliverance.
The babe cast upon the waters by his mother, the little basket of bulrushes, rescued and adopted by Pharaoh's daughter, had grown to manhood. The palace offered him security, luxury, wealth and power. No doubt it offered him, too, the affection of the kindly princess, his foster mother. But he was a Jew at heart. He saw the suffering of his people. He knew that he belonged to them and not to the palace.
As the writer of Hebrews puts it (Hebrews 11:24): "By faith Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter; choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season." The writer adds words that that simple statement, but his words are striking. It would have been sin, he suggests, if Moses had taken the ease and personal preference that the palace offered, instead of championing the cause of his people.
Moses was a great liberator and deliverer; and every one of us today has a chance to follow in his footsteps. We cannot lead peoples out of the wilderness into which war has plunged them; but we can give our support to all the movements for the aid that may help the stricken who have survived to recover the place in the world that they have lost, and a new hope of welfare and happiness.

Only a national administration refreshed and revitalized can restore America to internal harmony and to material and spiritual strength. That harmony and that strength cannot possibly stem from the poisoned roots of the new deal—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Mass. house minority leader.
Now is the day of all days when men who bear the vessels of the Lord should be good men and true, and when forces of righteousness should present a solid, united and inflexible front before an unbelieving, yet perishing world.—Montreal Star.

Baptist Pastor Sees Promise for Youth Movement

Rev. Rudolph Q. Harvey, pastor of the Central Baptist church, will fill his pulpit Sunday after being away for two Sundays. The pastor attended an International Youth for Christ Conference and an Evangelistic conference.
The "Youth for Christ" movement is spreading around the entire world, according to Rev. Harvey. It will soon enter into the heart of Germany. Martin Niemoller has asked the leaders of the "Youth for Christ" to come to Germany in February. There has already been one "Youth for Christ" meeting held in Tokyo in one of the cathedrals of the pagan god Budha. It may be that God will bring men back to Him through the youth of the world, the Baptist pastor hopes.
The Training Union study course will begin January 20, under the leadership of Miss Clara May and Miss Louise Vilman and Miss Thurma Dean Miller, state workers, will assist her. Every one is invited to attend regardless of belief.

Communion Services At St. Matthew's

Word has been received from Bishop Fenner, provision bishop for North Texas that the annual convocation of the district will meet on February 10th and 11th in Abilene. The women's auxiliary will hold its annual meeting at the same time and place. Any one who desires to attend either of the gatherings is asked to contact Mr. Henshaw as soon as possible in order that their registration may be sent to the Rev. Emergency Board Submits Report on Railroad Dispute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A special emergency board today submitted a five-point report designed to settle a dispute between the Texas and New Orleans Railroad Co. and hospital association of the Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana and employes represented by 13 railway labor organizations.
The board recommended:
1. That the carrier not revive a previous practice of giving a medical history on engine employes to its claim department.
2. That an employe withheld from service because of his physical condition be given a copy of the examining physician's findings and diagnosis.
3. That if an audit is desired by the employes of hospital association accounts that its cost be borne by the hospital association rather than the carrier.
4. That the hospital association have free use of hospital premises, grounds and equipment, but pay all taxes on them and that the company contribute $750 a month to the hospital association.
5. That the by-laws of the hospital association be changed so as to permit members not now active to be members of the board of managers, thereby seating E. C. Wolff and P. F. Gibson immediately.
The board held that it would be impossible under the present book-keeping system to determine the cost to the hospital association of treating on-duty injuries.

Sailors never whistle aboard ship, not because of superstition, but because the sound might be confused by a bosun's pipe, the engine room telephone, or the telltale squeal of an improperly lubricated piece of machinery.
The one thing of which the American people are sure is that their bank deposits are safe.—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

Revival Services Start Sunday at McCullough Church

Rev. P. E. Yarborough

A two week revival period begins at the McCullough Methodist church Sunday. Rev. P. E. Yarborough, pastor of the First Methodist church in Memphis, Texas, will hold two services daily at 10 o'clock in the morning and at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. His first service will be Monday morning.
At the Sunday morning service Rev. Will M. Culwell, pastor, will speak on the subject, "Sitting at the Feet of Jesus."
Rev. Ed Landreth, district superintendent from Clarendon, will speak at the evening service. Rev. Landreth will be in Pampa Sunday to open the first quarterly conference.
Young people's services will be held daily during the revival period at 6:45 o'clock. Children's services will be announced later.

Christian Science Sunday Study Topic

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 13.
The Golden Text is: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me? I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord" (Psalms 116:12-13).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth" (Matthew 5:5).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "What we most need is the prayer for fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds" (page 4).

Trials in Japan To Differ From Nazi Hearings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The War Crimes tribunal to try top Japanese war makers in Tokyo will differ greatly from the one in Germany, mainly because of the powers given to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.
As supreme commander for the nine Allied countries which signed the Japanese surrender, rather than just this country's representative, MacArthur will occupy the role held in Germany by the four-power Allied Control Council in Berlin—and then some.
Once the nine-nation court at Tokyo has rendered its decision, MacArthur—if he chooses—can lessen them, with power to lessen sentences but not increase them. If the court for instance, condemned former Premier Tojo to death, MacArthur could change the sentence to life imprisonment.
For thousands of young men who drop out of high school or who are unable to go to college, few civilian jobs can match the long-term advantage of pay, promotion, travel, security and education offered by the army today.—Maj.-Gen. Harold N. Gilbert, director, army procurement service.

Rev. Landreth Is Methodist Speaker Sunday

Rev. E. D. Landreth, district superintendent of the Clarendon district will give the address, at the morning worship service beginning at 10:55 in the First Methodist church Sunday. The senior choir under the direction of Mr. Warren A. Hohl will sing the "Gloria" from the Twelfth Mass of Mozart and Mrs. Harold A. Wright, soprano will sing "Within Thy Sacred Courts" by Benjamin Godard. Mrs. John R. Skelly, organist of First church will open the service with "Fugue in C Major" by Buxtehude and during the offertory the organ will be heard in "Sarabande" by G. F. Handel.
Reverend Landreth is well known to the people of Pampa having been here on numerous occasions and his message at this service will be an inspirational highlight of the church's mid-winter activities.
The informal evening worship service will be held at seven Sunday evening. Miss Mildred Martin, local organist and teacher of music will play the "Fantasia in E" of Dubois and "Evensong" by Steane for this service. Mr. Roy Tinsley, violinist will present several special numbers for this service and the evening message will be given by Rev. E. B.

Bowen, pastor of the First Methodist church.
Junior high Youth Fellowship will meet under the direction of Miss June Hodge at 6 o'clock Sunday evening.
Senior high group will meet in Fellowship hall of the church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock for an evening of recreation, games, and a short devotional meeting followed by refreshments.

Historical Events Portrayed in Story Of Rip Van Winkle

On January 16 the A. A. U. W. of Pampa will present the Clare Tree Major Theatre of New York in a new version of "Rip Van Winkle," the lovable ne'er-do-well who slept for twenty years on top of one of the Kaatskill mountains, according to Washington Irving's famous story.

Washington Irving first published this story of the lovable Rip in 1819. It was dramatized almost immediately and from that day to this, not a year has gone by that some company in the United States has not played "Rip Van Winkle."

The version which the Clare Tree Major players will present was adapted especially for youngsters by Mrs. Major. Historical events are presented as an integral part of the play, so the effect of "taking the lesson off the blackboard and putting it on the stage" is not apparent to the children, the sponsors say.

"Rip Van Winkle" is to be given here in the Junior high auditorium at 1:10 o'clock. The chairman in charge is Miss Lillian Mullinax. Tickets will be sold at Junior high and at the different grade schools to Junior high and fifth grade students. The price is thirty cents.

In England the harnessing of dogs to vehicles is forbidden, but in Belgium it is common practice to harness one or more to small milk carts.

Famed Austrian Pianist Appears In Third Concert Here

Walter Hautzig, brilliant new pianist, will be presented here this evening at 8:30 in the Junior high school auditorium.

Hautzig has appeared in New York Town Hall for his third consecutive season where his playing was declared by the New York Times "remarkable for its poetry and imagination, its inner life, spontaneity and insight."

Walter Hautzig likes to travel—which is a good thing because he wandered over four continents before arriving in America, after he fled the Nazis in Austria. He has a collection of souvenirs to mark some stops on the journey—Arabian wood-carving of camels, Egyptian jewelry from Alexandria, leather from Venice. The Alexandria mementoes are silver and ivory bracelets, one of which he keeps to illustrate how to bargain with an Egyptian. Hautzig asked the price of the piece. The vendor said 100 piasters. Hautzig offered five. And so, far, far into the night. The final price was six piasters.

Hautzig counts his two-year old nephew Gary as chief among his hobbies, and when in New York starts each day off by telephoning the youngster. His piano is near the phone, and when Gary is on the line, his uncle plays a strain, holding the instrument so the little boy can hear. Gary sings back the melody—he usually gets it correct the first time, the proud uncle will tell you. Gary has become so fond of telephonic singing that one day his mother found him with the receiver off the hook, singing "Number One Doodle" to the operator "Yankee please!"

ON THE SHEER ACCIDENT OF ANCESTRY

Recently in a suburban town near New York City a radio commentator was invited to make a speech to a woman's club. She did so, expressing fairly strong views on various controversial domestic and foreign questions. Whereupon, a week or so later an English instructor in the local high school, making a sort of rebuttal speech before another club rapped rather hard at the guest speaker.

This of course is perfectly legitimate, this matter of countering the arguments of fellow countrymen. It is the essence of our democracy.

But—The teacher said the radio commentator came from Italy, and he said, among other equally bigoted things, "I whose ancestors came over in the 1600's have a better right to have opinions on these subjects." We don't know whether the audience was composed of the elite 1600's, but we do know that the material used in the rebuttal was irrelevant and, moreover, just plain nonsense.

As for us out here in Texas, we don't know just exactly when our ancestors got here—but we are here, and that is what matters.

We are all descendants of immigrant ancestors. The teacher showed himself not a thinker but a snob. If he had a case, he certainly lost it by introducing the purely personal and immaterial fact of the radio commentator's change of nationality.

This is the sort of self-complacency based upon the sheer accident of ancestry which makes up a large part of the stuffing in many of the stuffed shirts. One may be honestly proud of forebears, but forebears in themselves convey no distinction upon their descendants—as can be seen in this particular case. People are not mysteriously better or worse because of their arrival time in the United States. Nor are ideas answered or arguments proven on this unthinking basis.

Ability-to-Pay Wage Theory

President Truman's statement that what is called the fact-finding committee should have access to the General Motors Corporation books brings up a very important issue.

If it is necessary to know the earnings of an employer in order to know what wages should be paid, we have, in fact, discarded the competitive system entirely.

Few people realize what a step like this would really mean. If wages are to be paid on an ability-to-pay basis rather than on a competitive basis, then good management can have all their rewards taken from them. Then the fortunate workers who happen, by seniority or labor union membership, to be connected with a firm that has good management will get the benefits of management's foresight.

This, of course, means that the capital that would remain in the hands of good management will be turned over to the workers to consume. Thus fewer tools will be produced and workers in every other line of industry will have to work with poorer tools. Because they will produce less with poorer tools, they will have to take less for their effort.

If wages are to be paid in proportion to the employer's ability to pay, then we have a one-way street. This is true because no worker would consent to work for less because an employer was losing money, if some other employer would pay the worker more. Nor should he work for less than some one else will pay him for an equal amount of sacrifice because his employer is not making money.

The large employer is not at all adverse to the workers knowing his earnings. These earnings have generally been already published. What a large employer like General Motors objects to is setting the practice of making one employer pay more for the same worker than another because he is a good manager. This is a repudiation of the American system that all men are equal before the law as they are before God.

God gave certain men certain talents. For the State or labor unions to deprive them of their right to use these talents and serve themselves and humanity is a reactionary step. It is reactionary because it means less production, and less production means higher costs and a lower standard of living for the workers as a whole.

President Truman in this move is advocating what would eventually lead to a complete planned economy. He is repudiating the competitive system by putting a handicap on men of foresight. And as Bastiat said, "The loss of one is the loss of all." We will all suffer untold hardships because he is of ability to pay, rather than on the competitive basis, is established.

It is a demagogic trick that puts the employer in an embarrassing position. It is not the earnings disclosure that he opposes, but the principle of discrimination against him that he has not only a right but a duty to oppose.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

SERIOUS—Private studies of the 1940 census disclose that America's great middle class faces eventual extinction of its own volition. While the extremes at both ends of the economic and educational ladder—the high and the low—continue to increase or to hold their ground in the population contest, the white-collar class seems to have lost interest in the struggle for survival.

Population experts discuss these trends delicately and reluctantly in their analyses, which are the first in this field. They don't want to be labeled as snobs in mourning and emphasizing the significance of these statistics. But a recent bulletin from a recognized organization says: "Most students of population believe that these differences in birth rates are the most serious population problems which the nation faces, and are the sources of many economic, social and health problems."

WARNING—It has long been the British and French contention, for instance, that their slow decline as world powers, as well as the second-rate nature of the MacDonal-Baldwin - Chamberlain leadership from 1929 to 1940, was because of the heavy casualties sustained in the ranks of future leaders—statesmen, industrialists and economists—in World War I. They are afraid that the recent conflict may have a like sequel.

There may be a warning to the United States in the obvious fact that the fittest do not always survive. I certainly hope that bootlegging doesn't lead to gang wars. I'd hate to pick up my paper and read that the Creamery Kid had been bumped off by Oleo Joe.

AMBASSADOR OPPOSES Granting of Funds
WARSAW, Jan. 8.—(Delayed)—U. S. ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane informed the Polish provisional government today that he would oppose granting of any United States funds to Poland "as long as present conditions prevail" in this country.

The ambassador was protesting against recent measures by the regime, including a decree nationalizing all basis industries nationalizing more than 50 persons per shift. Lane told the Polish foreign minister he considered that the 1931 commercial treaty between Poland and the United States had been violated. He said this treaty permitted free entry and development of commercial enterprises within Poland by American business men.

Peter Edson's Column: STATE DEPARTMENT ORDER CHANGES
By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—The lineup of the new, bigger and better state department organization is gradually emerging under assistant secretary in charge of administration Donald Russell, formerly of Spartanburg, S. C., where he was a junior law partner to Secretary Byrnes.

Late in January the department will go before congress with estimates of what it's going to take to run a modern office of international affairs, working as energetically for peace as it worked for war. Tentatively, the blueprint will show how an expanded foreign service, an increasingly important and intelligence divisions will be fitted into the purely political divisions which have in the past done most of the U. S. government's business with foreign countries.

Because a lot of new jobs have been dumped in its lap, the department of state, which in 1939 had less than 4700 employees and in 1945 had 10,600 employees, will for the fiscal year 1947, require at least 15,000 employees, maybe more.

Its budget, which in 1939 was 18 million dollars and in 1946 was 76 million dollars, will, for fiscal 1947, be in the neighborhood of 150 million dollars.

To a lot of state department critics, a complete reorganization of the old dump is necessary before this country can have an effective foreign policy. "Mr. Assistant Secretary Russell doesn't feel that way about it at all. He is bright and smiling, and even after four months on the job that ruined two predecessors in the past year, is filled with hope. He believes there is plenty of talent in the state department. All it needs is some co-ordination. OFFICE MAZE IS AMAZING
Some of the things that have been found unco-ordinated about the state department are almost unbelievable. For instance, it was found that cables coming into the department from all over the world might be referred to 127 different offices. Messages took days to code and decode and deliver, and no wonder some got lost. The department was 30 days behind in its duplicating and printing. Files were in terrible shape. Employees weren't getting paid promptly, and their War Bonds weren't delivered. Everybody had the reorganization jitters.

Worst of all, the growing department was scattered in 27 different buildings, branch offices of the same division frequently being lost in three or four different locations. It was wonderful confusion—and no wonder—Gradually, some of these things are being corrected. The number of offices getting cables has been cut to 17. A new message center has been set up under three young army officers who ran message centers for General Eisenhower and know the importance of speed in coding, decoding and delivery. Borrowing printing facilities from other agencies, the duplicating work is being caught up. So are the payrolls. And any day now, all the economic functions will be moved into one building or one general area.

MACKENZIE'S Column

AP World Traveler

PARIS, Jan. 11.—This is a confession of a shortcoming, and a promise to do better.

A comparatively few weeks ago, while food rationing was in effect in the United States, your columnist was sighing in self-pity and adopting a pharisaical attitude because our very well provided dinner table was lacking in some of the things to which we had become accustomed.

Looking back now, it's difficult to understand how a fellow could fall into such a frame of mind, especially after having witnessed the ravages of hunger in Europe during the First World War.

Anyway, I have a mighty guilty conscience now as I look about me here in France and see the thousands who haven't enough to eat. And of course there are many places in Europe which are much worse off than France, for this is a dangerously underfed continent.

Here in France only people who have sufficient means to deal in the black market can get sufficient food. As for the rest they are living largely on potatoes, carrots, cabbage and bread, with perhaps a quarter of a pound of meat a week. Their ration coupons call for more than that, but the food isn't available.

Conditions would be vastly better if it weren't for the black market operators who are living off the sufferings of their countrymen. The black-market operators have a much greater hold on France than on most other countries. The reason is that this illicit trading was deliberately fostered by the Germans during their occupation with the idea of breaking down French morale and giving the reich a stronger hold.

No matter how distasteful it may be, you are almost forced to trade in the black market if you are to get necessities. Even well-to-do folk can't afford more than the minimum needed, for prices are terrific. Mrs. Mack and I entertained a French couple at dinner last night, and they told us that one of their children had developed tuberculosis because of under-nourishment, and another had fainted on one occasion from weakness. The plight of the poor is, of course, terrible.

Food isn't the only commodity which is in the hands of the racketeers. Clothing and every other item is far out of bounds in price. You must have a big income to live decently in France these days.

Scotch and Chinese music have something in common, as both work with the pentatonic, of five tone, scale.

STOP JOHN CLAY

By Lionel Mosher

Copyright, 1945, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Mike accepts John Clay's dinner invitation. Marcia, Clay's daughter, greets him. They are joined by Fay Tudor and Gil Manson, a young man Mike has never seen before. Suddenly, Clay himself looms in the doorway.

John Clay put out his hand. "Mr. Calvin," he said. "How are you, Mr. Clay?" John Clay's underthrust lip did not relax. His slate gray eyes took in the whole situation, stripped it of all non-essentials, and he glanced at his watch. "Shall we go in to dinner?" he said.

John Clay had Mike at his left. He ate methodically and addressed pertinent comments to Mike. The rest might as well have not been there. Vaguely Mike wondered why they were present. There had to be a reason. This man did nothing without a reason.

John Clay said to Mike: "You're going to the Pacific." "Yes," Mike said. "When?" "As soon as I can get accredited."

"That should not be difficult," Mike shrugged. "Red tape," he said. "I could get you accredited tomorrow," John Clay said. "Mike looked into those slate-gray eyes that were measuring him dispassionately. "I'm afraid that would be a little too soon," Mike said. "You mean you have business here?" John Clay buttered a roll. "That's right."

John Clay bit the roll in half. His eyes never left Mike's face. "In your function as a correspondent?" he asked. "Mike nodded. "I read your book," John Clay said. "Did you?" Mike said politely. "This afternoon," John Clay said. "I finished it about an hour ago."

"That's quite a compliment," Marcia said. "Father never reads." John Clay gave his daughter a bleak stare. He said to Mike: "It was a good job—objective and informative." "Thank you." "You're a good reporter," John Clay said. "Stick to it." There was a little silence. Everybody had heard the conversation. John Clay's words were crisp and curiously unemphatic. Their content was innocent enough, but the implication was plain. Mind your own business. Then everyone began to talk at once.

When John Clay put down his coffee cup, it clattered in the saucer. He said: "You ladies may be excused." Act two, thought Mike. Marcia looked at her father thoughtfully. Fay Tudor got to her feet. "And, Gil," John Clay said. "We shan't need you." Manson shrugged innocently. When they had gone John Clay cut the end of a cigar carefully and lit it. He inhaled gently and blew the smoke across his underthrust lip.

"I've been treated badly by the press, lately," John Clay said. "I'm sorry," Mike said. "I could use a good public relations man, Mr. Calvin. Somebody to handle such releases as the public is entitled to." Mike said nothing. He merely waited. "I could pay as much as necessary to get him," John Clay went on. "If he was the right man. The work would not be too difficult and he would have a chance of future participation in my organization."

John Clay stopped. "You may have heard of the John Clay Associates?" "Jo." "The John Clay Associates" is a corporation with all stock closely held by a small group of very wealthy and influential men. It aims at the acquisition of certain properties that will be profitable and strategic." Pike said. "Strategic?" Pike said. "Yes," John Clay said. "In what way?" John Clay lifted his head and Pike saw his lower lip protrude than ever. Clay said: "In the postwar upheaval, there may be changes which would make it advisable for us to control both production and distribution of certain commodities that are wartime scarcities."

"Such as what?" "Let's talk money," John Clay said. "What will your income be this year?" "About thirty thousand before taxes," Pike said. "I could double that. And I could save you something on your taxes."

Inwardly Pike whistled. He said: "That's very attractive." "That's only the beginning," John Clay said. "But I couldn't make a decision on so few facts." "I couldn't possibly give you more," John Clay said. "You see," Pike said, "by profession I am extremely curious." "Yes," John Clay stood up. "That is a defect you may remedy in the future. Shall we join the ladies?"

John Clay came over and cupped one hand gently under Pike's elbow. "Just one thing more, Mr. Calvin. I happen to know why you're here."

Pike looked at him curiously. He was not quite sure himself why he was here. "I know you're not just a newspaperman after a story," John Clay continued in that curiously unemphatic tone. "I know all about the Stop John Clay movement. Well, let me tell you something."

He paused, puffed gently on his cigar, and said just as if he were announcing the fact that he was going for a little walk. "John Clay has met opposition in the past. And eliminated it. John Clay will not be stopped." (To Be Continued)

EYES ARE RATIONED

ONLY ONE PAIR TO LAST A LIFETIME!

Eyesight is their most precious possession. So protect their eyes with proper lighting at all times. When home work becomes tedious and the children begin to get sleepy before bedtime, chances are, it's the lighting in your home.

Make sure you have the proper-sized lamp bulb; that the bowl is clean and that the lamp is placed in the right position to avoid shadows and glare.

Remember, they have only one pair of eyes to last a lifetime, so protect them always.

Managing Editors OIAP Papers Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Managing editors of Associated Press member newspapers met here today to discuss common problems in keeping the ration informed on post-war news events and alert to the group since 1943. Almost 300 members of the Associated Press Managing Editors association were scheduled to be on hand at the opening of a three-day convention, first national-wide meeting of the group since 1943. John S. Knight, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and publisher of the Knight newspapers, planned to welcome the editors formally at a luncheon. Howard Blakeslee, science editor of the Associated Press, was scheduled to conclude the day's business program with a discussion of the atomic age. His talk will be followed by a banquet at which U. S. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz will speak.

Friday the managing editors will hear a report on war department activities from Lt. Gen. J. Lawson Collins, the department's director of information. They will also discuss the work of Associated Press correspondents abroad. The noon luncheon will feature a talk by C. R. Smith, chairman of the board of American Airlines. Saturday morning's session will be devoted to a discussion of news pictures, the report of the nominating committee of the association, and a meeting of the executive board.

UNO Meet

(Continued from page 1) have the two vice presidencies still to be assigned. The other five vice presidencies will automatically go to the five key powers.

Agreement also was said to have been reached allocating the peace agency's committee chairmanships as follows: political and security, Ukraine; economic, Poland; social, New Zealand; trusteeship, Uruguay; administrative, Syria; and legal, Panama.

51 NATIONS REPRESENTED
Elections were to be held after the assembly heard the reading of the preparatory commission's report and the presidential address of Belgian foreign minister Paul Henri Spaak, newly-elected head of the assembly.

Delegates of the 51 participating nations gathered early for the second session.

The all-powerful 11-member security council—which will control the UNO's "international police force"—probably will not be organized until tomorrow, conference officials said.

A fight loomed between Canada and Australia for a seat on the council.

Five of the remaining 10 seats will go to the key powers. The other five, delegates said, would likely be voted to Colombia and Mexico, as representatives of South and Central America; to Belgium for Western Europe; to Poland for Eastern Europe; and to Egypt for the Middle East.

GM Strike

mending a 19 1/2-cent hourly increase called for immediate end of the strike, reinstatement of strikers without discrimination, and restoration of the 1945 contract. The board said that the company had a right to cancel that contract on December 10, as it did.

Saying it was satisfied that the recommended wage increase would not have "inflationary consequences," the panel added in a footnote: "The lines are being observed to our judgment, the company can pay, in the first twelve months after the resumption of production, the recommended wage increase without increasing prices, we have assumed that: (A) General Motors will sell its products at 1944 schedule of prices, (B) productivity will be no greater than in 1944, (C) aggregate volume of production will equal that of 1944, (D) material costs to General Motors have increased 15 percent since 1944 and may increase more, (E) total pay rolls have increased and will increase proportionately with wage increases and (F) selling, general and administrative costs will be somewhat higher than in 1944."

While all these factors, prices of General Motors cars will be 12 percent higher than 1944 models but as productivity and output develops an increase of as much as 50 percent over 1944 production can be expected in 1947, the board said. It made no provision for higher pay for wage earners out of that melon, however. Of the 1947 prospect, the panel remarked: "This desirable development will greatly increase the company's profits and will give it the pleasant task of determining how such profits shall be distributed."

The official WPB report shows that the total war production amounted to $239,205,995,000.

TRUCK DRIVER KILLED
DENISON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Bob Palmer, Dallas truck driver, was killed instantly at 3 a.m. today when a truck hit a 20-ton concrete archway near here.

The official WPB report shows that the total war production amounted to $239,205,995,000.

General Eisenhower and General MacArthur.

The Honolulu edition of the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, which has carried outspoken comment on the current demobilization developments, reopened its columns today to soldier-written articles after a one day interruption prompted by its interpretation of a Richardson order. Richardson's directive was initially taken to mean the paper could not criticize army policies.

Richardson, at a press conference, said "there is no restriction placed upon freedom of expression of men of this command" then summarized as the clear intent of the directive: "Attacks on or derogatory references to the President, secretary of war, chief of staff of the army or 'others in authority in the army' as individuals are forbidden by the articles of war."

On Jan. 7, a headline in the Honolulu edition placed above a story of a demobilization protest meeting at Manila read "Paterson branded number one enemy by jeering mob."

impulses, containing weather data.

The balloon, at the News Office, was brought here by L. D. Fagan, Pampa.

A good deal of excitement was created when the balloon was discovered, since most people had heard at one time or another of the Japanese incendiary balloons sent over this country during the war. Fagan said the people were both excited and skeptical.

Telephone

He said he had at his disposal the facilities of the state department of public safety's short wave radio station.

The department said also it had assured its emergency call would be handled by supervisory telephone company workers.

Picketing of telephone exchanges in major Texas cities began before dawn today.

DIAL SYSTEMS OPERATE

Dial systems continued to operate, but all calls necessitating operator assistance were halted unless they were of an emergency or priority nature.

W. M. Wallis, acting state head of the Association of Communication Equipment Workers union, said in Fort Worth at midnight last night that he had not received official notification of plans to postpone picketing over the United States until Monday.

The scheduled Friday picketing once had been called off shortly after Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach had conferred by telephone with Ernest Weaver, union president.

Southwestern Telephone workers union members honored the ACEW picket lines and refused to go to work. Those working night shifts continued their duty.

First Texas pickets appeared in Amarillo and Fort Worth at 4 a.m. today. Pickets appeared around exchanges in Dallas, Beaumont, and Austin at 5:30 and in San Antonio before dawn.

Four workers in Fort Worth are reported to have crossed the ACEW picket lines, but all others did not.

Executives and office help crossed picket lines at Amarillo and most other cities as Southwestern Bell, saying there was no strike against the company itself, attempted to continue service as well as possible.

Picketing has been orderly and there have been no demonstrations. In Dallas, both men and women of the Bell management were handling switchboards. About 2,000 workers were affected there.

"The lines are being observed practically 11 per cent," S. A. Cline, Austin local chairman of the STWU said. Cline said only three girls were on duty inside the downtown exchange, in addition to supervisory workers. He said about 350 workers are involved in Austin.

The department of public safety, whose long distance calls would be affected by the strike, said it was depending on its own radio for emergency use, and upon supervisors at the exchange.

In Shreveport, La., 40 pickets were in front of the exchange. The main entrance was blocked by a large banner which said no one was on the testboards.

Demobilization

The congressional talk of hearing Eisenhower's opinions indicated that a joint meeting would like to listen to him next Tuesday in the library of congress, if present plans develop.

Otherwise, the chief of staff probably will be invited to testify before senate or house military committees or both.

Whether a joint meeting will be held Tuesday depends on senate democratic leader Barkley of Kentucky and House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, both of whom are out of town.

In Vienna, demobilization protests have led Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of United States forces in Austria, to appoint a committee to institute a study of personnel records in an effort to find an answer to the problem.

The committee, composed of four officers and four enlisted men, was appointed after 352 soldiers here had sent $1,000 worth of protest messages to newspapers and U. S. senators.

In Calcutta, a committee of GI's was delegated today to forward complaints against the redeployment slowdown to "proper persons" in Washington following a protest meeting attended by approximately 5,000 American soldiers last night.

In Shanghai, a spokesman for Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in the China theater, said today that General Eisenhower's demobilization speedup program would not affect this theater.

Surplus low-point men in China already have been sent home, said the spokesman.

But the state's attorney's office told Chief Justice Harold C. Ward of the criminal court the state had no evidence to warrant filing charges against either Verburgh or Desere Smet, 35, who also tends apartment buildings near the Degnan home, or Mr. Verburgh's wife, Mary, 64.

MONEY CHASERS

FEORIA, Ill., Jan. 11.—(AP)—When a gust of wind blew a $10 bill out of Mrs. Beatrice Lopez's hand as she emerged from a downtown bank, she had lots of helpers seeking to retrieve it.

Wind currents carried the bill high into the air, over several stores, back to the street and up into the air again, with many shoppers in pursuit.

Finally, the bill floated to the pavement and a motorist leaped from his auto, pinned it down and returned it to Mrs. Lopez.
