

Kansans Held At Canadian

CANADIAN (Special) — Three teen-age Kansan youngsters landed in county jail in Canadian Monday afternoon after leaving a trail of stolen cars in three states in the course of a week-end spree.

The boys were Larry Devoy, 16; Ronald Ashlock, 15; and Bobby Payne, 13; all of Coldwater, Kans.

The trio was placed under arrest at Perryton Monday morning after an Ochiltree County farmer had turned them over to Sheriff Ray Phagan, and were handed over to Hemphill County Sheriff Clyde Riskey Monday afternoon to be returned to Canadian to face charges growing out of the theft of a car belonging to Mrs. J. E. Gilbert here Sunday morning.

The Gilbert car, 1948 Chevrolet sedan, was taken from its parking place near the First Christian Church Sunday morning while Mrs. Gilbert was attending church services. It was recovered Monday from a pasture 20 miles north of Perryton where the boys had abandoned it after running out of gas.

A car which had been stolen from Woodward, Okla., was recovered here Sunday afternoon after theft of the Gilbert car had been discovered, and the car taken by the youngsters at Coldwater, Kans., on the first leg of their trip Saturday was found abandoned at Woodward.

The youngsters turned up at the office of Ochiltree County Sheriff Ray Phagan Monday morning, accompanied by an Ochiltree County farmer at whose home the boys had appeared early Monday morning looking for food.

The trio was charged here with car theft, and the boys were paroled to their respective parents after entering guilty pleas here. They still faced similar charges, however, in Kansas and Oklahoma.

The three youngsters had disappeared from their homes in Coldwater Saturday, parents of two of the boys said, and theft of a car there had been reported shortly afterward. They had no money, and were apparently driving the cars until gasoline was exhausted.

The Kansas car was abandoned at Woodward, and another car stolen there. The Woodward car was left in Canadian when the Gilbert car was taken. The youths escaped prosecution of federal charges because of their youth.

'Lord Loveth Cheerful Giver' Says Little Lady With Gift

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." That's how Mrs. Martha S. Reynolds explains her gift of $2,000 to the Korean war's first quadriple amputee, PFC Robert Smith.

Mrs. Reynolds, a bird-like little woman in her 60s, says she's always been very lucky.

True, she fell down a coal chute once, broke a leg and an ear drum and can't hear very well today.

And she had four husbands—all bankers.

Today her greatest pleasure is giving away money.

"I can't help it," she said. "I must help people. I love to give. Oh, how I love to give."

In the past ten or 15 years, she estimated, she has given away money at the rate of about $10,000 a year.

She looks in the newspapers for deserving cases. She gives heavily to organized charities, especially to cancer research. One of her husbands died of cancer.

She said she got her habit of giving from her mother, Mrs. Ernestine Schaffner who in the years before World War I was known as "The Tomb's Angel."

"The Tombs" was the dismal old prison in downtown New York. Mrs. Reynolds said her mother helped the inmates there.

Respectful, and sporting a pink suit and apron, beribboned hat, Mrs. Reynolds disclosed that she inherited considerable property and had been lucky in investments.

In her years of cheerful giving, she admitted she had been "taken" more than once.

"But, that's human nature, I guess," she said.

McLean Man Joins Force in Amarillo

McLEAN (Special) — Kenneth L. Goodman of McLean has joined the Amarillo police force. He is a veteran of World War II.

He had been associated with his father as a plumber in McLean since getting his army discharge.

In the meantime the E. Browning site was not without its supporters.

This morning a letter addressed to this reporter was received from a flyer who signed his name as Vernon Mieto, 736 Court St., San Bernardino, Calif.

Mieto's letter, written on a D. & R. Flying Service letterhead, read:

"To Whom It May Concern: If the above airport (Pampa Municipal Airport) had of been six or seven miles out of the country and not so convenient to your city, I would have landed at Amarillo or some other city close to where the airport was closer to the city."

The E. Browning site also has other non-flying supporters who claim they believe aviation will die in Gray County if the airport is moved to the northwest field due to its distance from town.

As the deadline for straw balloting (midnight Monday) drew closer both sides began urging their property owning taxpayer friends to mail in their ballots, and asking for the support for their favored spot.

The next meeting of the above groups will be held at 1:30 p. m., Friday, Jan. 19 when Church is slated to bring at least two of his superiors who will join in the conference.

In the meantime eligible bond issue voters were still urged to mail in their straw ballots, especially since proponents of the northwest site indicated it can still be considered regardless of what the CAA's district office may say or do on the grounds that it can always be reversed, if the majority of taxpayers indicate they want that site over the present one.

Industry in India Asks Government Aid

DELHI (AP) — Representatives of the iron and steel industry say they will need government assistance to implement plans to expand installed capacity by 450,000 tons.

They stressed this point at a meeting here with the national planning commission, which is coordinating various development projects. The steel men estimated the expansion would cost $70,000,000. Present capacity was placed at 1,071,000 tons of finished steel and 1,878,000 tons of pig iron.

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development was established under the Bretton Woods Agreement and began operations in 1947.

Price Hikes Set Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Price hikes are bursting out again all over the place. New records in some of the basic commodities are being set as the government admits it is in no position now to enforce general price controls.

The most spectacular jumps are in foreign markets beyond the reach of Washington's voluntary price control plan. In one day striking increases are reported in tin, rubber, wool, longstaple cotton.

But the commodity price structure moves up at home in many lines, too. Turpentine jumps 10 3-4-cents a gallon, for example.

The Associated Press wholesale expects meat prices to continue to climb for the next two months. Economists say there isn't much help for it as long as people go on eating so much meat.

The Associated Press-wholesale commodity price index sets a new alltime record high almost every day. The government's wholesale price index is 17 per cent above last year. Dun and Bradstreet's wholesale food price index is 22 percent above a year ago. And the Labor Department's cost of living index is at an alltime high.

Predictions are no more cheerful. Leading clothing manufacturer says that by fall the wholesale price of men's suits will be $4 to $5 higher.

Grand Rapids and Chicago furniture markets say that the new furniture will range 10 to 15 percent above the pre-Korean prices. The vegetable oil trade predicts prices are due for another rise.

Peace of Mind Search Futile

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — The search for peace of mind in this war-torn world is a futile one, it is being found here, last night. This is the advice of one of the nation's foremost psychiatrists, Dr. Karl Menninger of Topeka, Kans.

"People search so assiduously for peace of mind that they don't have any," he told a town hall audience here last night. "The only way to reach the increased tension is to lose yourself in love, thinking of others, pay, talk and work."

Sleuth Utilizing Electronics For Detection of Deceptions

JACQUES BRILL AND DETECTING GADGETS: "I can wire your home with you sitting there, and you'll never know it."

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—Jacques Brill is a private investigator, the kind of guy that moves would call a "private eye." But he uses so many other senses in his sleuthing that to be accurate you'd have to call him a private eye, ear, nose and throat.

By employing modern electronic gadgets, Brill traps his man (or woman) through sound or smell, just as often as he does by sight. He calls what he does "scientific detection of deception," which is another way of saying that a machine in the lab is worth a lot of questioning.

Brill, a criminologist for the state of New Jersey, is a dapper man with a dapper mustache and taking notes. Every once in a while, they call the office and record their notes on the Tele-Magnet. Brill says it gets their impressions and facts while they're still fresh.

He's quite partial to recording devices, claiming they have revolutionized crime investigation.

"I can wire your house with you sitting there," he says, with a sly twinkle, "and you'll never know it. Here's two gimmicks—I could come in as a phone repairman or to read your meter. I'd have your house wired and you'd be sitting there, unaware of it all. There's lots of ways."

Once the house is wired, wire recorder is set up and the investigators are in business. With just such a rig, Brill heard a political figure in a small town tell his housekeeper (and it turned out, his girl friend) not to get excited about people discovering his wife's body. The poor lady had disappeared, but Brill heard the man say something about under the floor in the garage. A little digging and there she was.

Portable microphones and transmitters can be hidden in such common and unsuspecting objects as briefcases, hearing aids and canes. An investigator carrying such a setup talks to the suspect while walking along the street. A car, following maybe a half-mile behind, has a receiver and a recorder.

Brill has used a new instrument, called a photoelectric recording spectrometer. With it, he can take a speck of paint, no bigger than the head of a pin, and tell the year, make and model of car it came from. That's because all car manufacturers vary their paint formulas year to year, and model to model. All the formulas are registered.

Reforestation Plans Being Made in Israel
TEL AVIV (AP)—The recent establishment of tree nurseries with ten million young plants forms part of a huge Israel afforestation program, the Ministry of Agriculture and the Jewish National Fund "Keren Kayemet" work in conjunction in this field.

The joint forestry program for Israel is designed to fight soil erosion, fix sand dunes and to create a timber reserve for the future. No forests are planned in the Southern Israel Negev Desert. Trees will be put there only as windbreaks to protect newly opened farm areas.

Daughter Agrees That "Mother Knows Best"
Folks in the city and in the country often disagree on many things, but they all nod their heads in agreement when they hear the familiar quotation: "Mother knows best." Mothers seem to have a way of knowing what is best for their sons and daughters.

For example, Mrs. R. H. Holder, 221 Columbus, Montgomery, Alabama, certainly agrees with this, for at one time Mrs. Holder was nervous and run-down—she felt miserable. Her mother recommended that she take HADACOL and now Mrs. Holder says, "Today, I feel wonderful, just wonderful, and I owe it to HADACOL. Mrs. Holder was suffering a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Mrs. Holder says: "I was nervous and run-down and I had lost weight and had no appetite—food just didn't interest me. I had aches and pains, I felt miserable. My mother started taking HADACOL and it did her so much good that I decided to give it a try. After the first bottle I noticed an improvement. After the second bottle I felt better. I have now taken 6 bottles and feel grand. I am no longer nervous or run-down. I have loads of energy. I have a big appetite and have gained the weight I had lost. No more aches or pains, either. Today I feel wonderful, just wonderful, and I owe it to HADACOL for it has done so much for me. I just can't praise it enough."

Hank Has Trouble Controlling Temperature of Water Bottle

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW ORLEANS—The hot water bottle is something I haven't given much thought to in many years, but since being bedded down with flu here in New Orleans the homely hot water bottle has become quite important to me.

It is on my mind practically as much as it is on my feet. I have been thinking about the hot water bottle, and how to improve its status, when I know I should have been thinking about more vital things such as President Truman's State of the Union message and why he hadn't made it two years ago; what goes on in Britain's head when it keeps stalling on U. S. demands that the UN brand China as an aggressor, and just what shade of red Louis Johnson's face must be that the super aircraft carrier is to be built with all possible speed.

But those things aren't right in bed with me, and the hot water bottle is. That is, it was right in bed with me up until a few seconds ago when I summoned my feeble strength and kicked it out before it could burn off two or three of my favorite toes and an instep that has been a lifelong friend.

The hot water bottle—or some form of it—has been in use since before the time of the pharaohs, but it hasn't been improved a lick. It is just as impossible to handle now as it was centuries and centuries ago. It is either too hot or too cold.

Just as no one can put a man's hat on for him, no one can get a hot water bottle to the correct temperature for a fellow being. The bellhop who is serving as my combination doctor and nurse is as understanding and conscientious a chap as you'd meet in ten thousand hotels, but he is as helpless with a hot water bottle as all the rest of us.

The first time he filled it for me, and snuggled it under the covers, a giant shiver shook my frame, and I took a peek to see if he hadn't run in a polar bear cub on me.

I told him he had hit on something new—filling a hot water bottle with ice cubes. He explained: he just wanted to be sure he wouldn't blister me.

He came back in a few minutes holding the bottle with tongs, and poked it against my feet.

My toes let out screams of anguish, crying that they hadn't served me for 44 years suddenly to be treated like wieners at a Boy Scout picnic.

So we tried wrapping the bottle in towels. There never has been a towel made that was exactly the right thickness. A bath towel is too thick to let the heat through, and a hand towel is too thin to keep the bottle from being hot as blazes.

There is no such thing as bringing the water to the proper temperature, either. For some reason water does not like to be confined in a hot water bottle and stubbornly refuses to cooperate.

A few minutes ago my bellhop—doctor—nurse—companion who, I am afraid, is losing his patience, suggested that he go down on Canal Street and get a brick.

"A brick?" I said. "Oh, yes, a brick to heat and use instead of the bottle."

He gave me a sinister sort of look before replying.

"Yes, I suppose I might use it for that. But that wasn't what I was thinking about."

You know, I had better pick up my bed and get to walking. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Charles Defends Heavyweight Boxing Crown Against Oma in MSG Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Heavyweight champion Esnard Charles, as trim and sharp as a razor, plans to ruin playboy Lee Oma's Cinderella ambitions well before the gong sounds for round fifteen in their title bout tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Lee Oma Esnard Charles

"If Jimmy Braddock was able to do it and if Joe Walcott was able to come close then maybe I can do it," is the way the 34-year old Oma sized up the situation.

But it looks like a case of "too little and too late" for the clowning Buffalo challenger. The coolly efficient champion, risking his prize battle for the sixth time, should chop down Lee somewhere between the eighth and 12th rounds.

The oddsmakers rate the improving champion a 1 to 5 choice to win and a 5 to 9 favorite to halt Oma within the 15-round limit. A light flurry of betting in a very quiet wagering mart dropped the prices down from 1 to 5 on the decision and 1 to 2 on the knockout.

Despite the light betting, interest in the scrap has picked up considerably and choice ring-side seats are selling at a premium. A crowd of 12,000 and a gross gate of at least $60,000 was anticipated by the promoting International Boxing Club.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Charles, who has won his last 21 fights, 14 of them by knockout, appeared to be in the best shape of his life when he ended his training Thursday.

His September triumph over Joe Louis has boosted his confidence and has made him a better fighter.

The big question is Oma's stamina or lack of it. The kid-some challenger, fourth-ranking heavy in the world, never has gone beyond 10 rounds. He really has trained for his first title shot like never before. But it's doubtful that one long training grind can make up for years of disipation.

Oma has won 16 of his last 17 fights losing on a knockout to Bob Satterfield. He made up for that loss by outpointing Satterfield in return match. His overall record shows 42 victories, 28 losses and three draws. He's knocked 28 opponents but has suffered 15 knockouts himself in an in-and-out career.

Charles, well ahead of Louis' record of defenses, has stopped 60 percent of his opponents. His last loss was on July 25, 1947, when he dropped a disputed, split 10-round decision to Elmer Ray. He knocked out Ray in nine rounds 11 months later.

Terry Recaptures Shamrock Scoring Lead From Tarbet

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Forward Vaughn Terry recaptured the scoring lead for the Irish basketball team with a 14-point barrage in the 40-38 victory over McLean last Friday.

He has racked up 113 points in nine games, for an average of 12.6 per-game. Terry's arch-rival, with 110 points, is his friend, guard Vernon Tarbet, who fouled off in the third quarter against McLean, after netting four points.

Tarbet forged ahead of Terry in the Samnorwood battle Jan. 2, with a 14-point spurge, against Terry's four.

They have been neck-and-neck in scoring since the opening battle, the old one-two punch of Coach McCall's Dist. 2A Title defenders.

Both Terry and Tarbet are veterans of the 1949-50 Irish championship quintet.

Other Irish scoring: Robby Hammock, 39; Dwayne Hager, 25; Carrol Valentine, 28; M. Terry, 18; Harral Dunnam, 5; Billy Harris, 4; and Jr. Bishop, Don Carlton, and Billy York, 2 each.

Shamrock has whipped Wellington once, McLean twice.

Next Tuesday, Jan. 16, they tackle another conference foe, Clarendon, here.

Carver Quintets Try Borger Teams In Tilts Tonight

Carver High School eagles engage the powerful Borger Negro High School quintets tonight in a basketball doubleheader at the junior high gym. The girls' game is scheduled to start at 7:30 and the boys' contest will get underway at 8:30.

Coach C. E. Petty's basketballers will shoot for their third victory of the season. Carver dropped its opening game to Borger, 23-22. But got back in the win column with victories over Shamrock, 41-17, and Paducah, 44-11.

Forward Roger Roiland and guard Billy Thomas will be counted on to supply the scoring punch against the Borgerans. They have been Carver's top point makers in its first three games.

Carver is in the Northern Conference which includes Borger, Shamrock, Memphis, and Hollis, Okla.

Coach Petty probably will stick with his regular five tonight—Ronald and Edmund Russey at forwards; Wade Bonner at center; and Thomas and Willie Hunt at guards. Bonner is the tallest man on the Carver squad, 6 feet 3 inches.

Reserves for Carver are Willie Thompson, Joe Oliver, Wesley Gary, Alford Parker, William Woods, Roy Watts and Ray Simmons.

Stokes Takes Decision From Hager in Heavyweight Bout

District action in the greatest show of them all, Golden Gloves, opened last night before a crowd of 1,200 shouting fans in Shamrock's American Legion Hall. And when it had ended the crowd had witnessed the first night of what appears to be a slam-bang tourney.

Action will be resumed again tonight and then finished up tomorrow night when the champions of all divisions will be crowned and sent on their way to the regional tourney in Amarillo. The fights will start at 8 p. m. the final two days.

The first night's action turned into a brother act, with Coach Robert Callan, in his first year at LeFors, moving his peak-conditioned Pirates into a six-point lead over brother H. Callan, who coaches the Shamrock Irish. Point standings for the beautiful team championship trophy at the end of the first night showed LeFors with 23, Shamrock 17, and Wellington with 12. Coach John Lee of Wellington found the going a bit rocky for his Red and White leather pushers in action against the Callan brothers.

A total of 14 bouts was staged last night, and the top scrap of the card was the 185-pound match between Billy Ray Free of Shamrock and Bob Clemmons of LeFors. Both boys showed plenty of poise and both were hard hitters. Clemmons started Free's nose bleeding in the first round with a straight right jab and then kept it bleeding the entire fight.

The decision was a close one, finally going to Free.

Another furious fight, for the little while it lasted, saw Billy Campbell of Shamrock score a first round KO over Odie Hood of Wellington in a 128-pound match. Both boys started swinging from the opening bell and didn't quit until Hood hit the floor midway through the round.

And another terrific scrap was staged in the 118-pound class between Tommy Harris of Wellington and L. B. Coberly of LeFors. It was another case of who could throw the most leather, both being finely conditioned and hard hitters. Coberly was tagged with a solid left and right at the end of the second round, and after being checked by referee Doug Graham, the bout was stopped and awarded to Harris on a second round TKO.

Another match that failed to go the distance saw referee Dean Webb award a second round TKO to Billy Helms of Shamrock over Howard McGill of Wellington. Helms, carrying the power of a mule kick in his right hand, was in charge all the way against the southpaw from Wellington. The fight was finally stopped near the end of the second round when McGill was out on his feet, and the fight was awarded to the Shamrock lad who formerly lived at Boys Ranch in Amarillo.

The only other fight of the evening that failed to go the distance was a 155-pound scrap between Paul Cooper of Shamrock and Dan Jamerson of Wellington. Referee J. C. Oakley stopped the bout in the third as the fancy shooting Cooper had Jamerson so busy he couldn't stop the punches any longer.

One heavyweight match was on the card. That saw footballer Don Stokes of LeFors, weighing in at 285 pounds, gain a decision over 190-pound Duane Hager, an all-regional tackle, from Shamrock. Both boys hit hard when they connected, and Stokes connected right at the final bell with a blow that floored Hager and won the decision for Stokes.

Complete results were as follows for the first night of fighting:

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
DALLAS — (AP) — Latest prediction from the 'insiders' in the drive to toss out the NCAA sanity code is that three fourths of the votes will be on their side when it comes up this afternoon.

Just a few days ago they were wondering if they could corral a two thirds majority, but the almost-unanimous swing of the big Eastern schools to the 'progressive' side and the strong opinions of some little independent changed the picture.

That seems to rule out the possibility of protracted bickering and name-calling and give the lads more time for lobby - shopping for coaches. Still you can hear some wonderful tales — a ome might even be true. One that Gen. Bob Neyland is headed for Southern California, persists in spite of denials. Another has Frankie Albert going to Stanford with Clark Shaughnessy going along to help him get started in the coaching trade. Want any more?

Andy Gustafson of Miami and Clemson's Frank Howard, rival Orange Bowl coaches, were grounded temporarily enroute here from Florida. While they waited, they re-played the game, including Andy's excited comments about the officiating. Gustafson hasn't forgotten the penalties that led to the deciding safety. After listening just so long, Howard spoke up: "Was, did you see any of those officials tackle that boy in the end zone?"

PAMPA ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH

First Lutheran Services Held in Pampa in 1941

Though Lutherans came into the vicinity of Pampa years ago, the first of establishing and organizing another Lutheran congregation in Pampa never arose until 1941 when the Rev. H. R. Frerking of Trinity Lutheran, Amarillo, conducted a survey of Lutherans living in this area.

The first service was held in September, 1941, and services were held twice monthly in the Nelson Funeral Home until the next year.

In September, 1942, the Rev. Henry G. Wolter, a graduate of the past spring, came to Pampa. He continued with regular Sunday morning services in the Nelson Funeral Home. In the spring of 1943, the services were moved to the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Lutherans in this area were organized into a congregation and incorporated in June, 1942. At about the same time, real estate was purchased on the corner of Pennsylvania and Duncan, where the church is now located. In 1944, a school building was purchased. It was moved in from about 12 miles east of Pampa and remodeled. This building serves as the present house of worship.

Before the remodeling was completed, Rev. Wolter accepted a congregation's call from Chicago, Ill., and left Zion congregation in October, 1944.

In November of that same year, the remodeled church was dedicated to the service of the Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Rufus L. Young arrived in Pampa to take up his new position as pastor, serving until August, 1949, when he transferred to Burkburnett.

In December, 1949, the Rev. A. Bruns, then residing and serving St. John's Lutheran Church of San Benito, accepted the call of Zion Lutheran Church of Pampa and is the present pastor.

Original members of this congregation were J. D. Schroedel, J. P. Carlson; W. T. Kus, W. F. Ernst, T. E. Eaglesfield, A. Miller, Fred Muetchelknaus, and L. G. Reim. Only two of these, Schroedel and Carlson, still live in Pampa.

The first baptism performed in this congregation was that of David Luz on Oct. 27, 1942. The first marriage performed in the church was that of Gordon S. Johnson and Mrs. Naomi Grayson on April 18, 1943.

Lutheran confirmation in Pampa was on Dec. 13, 1942, when Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kus and Mrs. Naomi Grayson were received into the church by the rite of confirmation.

The first funeral conducted in this congregation was that of three-month-old Wesley Leon Tillery, baptized a few days before.

It was in April, 1941, that the congregation purchased a house to be moved from East Francis to the present church building, reserving the corner lot for the future new church. The house was remodeled, the members doing much of the work, and in August, the pastor took possession of the new building.

The present membership of the church is 60 persons. The board of elders consists of G. D. Rich, A. E. Stroebel, secretary; Melvin Clark, treasurer; J. D. Schroedel, president; Arthur Gilliam, Sunday School superintendent.

Sunday school teachers are J. D. Schroedel, A. E. Stroebel, Mrs. J. D. Schroedel, Mrs. Clyde Hussey, Mrs. A. Bruns, the Rev. A. Bruns, Mrs. Dorothy Marie Bruns and Mrs. J. P. Carlson.

The Ladies' Aid, consisting of 12 members, has Mrs. Arthur Gilliam as president, Mrs. G. E. Rich, vice president; Mrs. Clyde Hussey, secretary; Mrs. A. E. Stroebel, treasurer, and Mrs. J. D. Schroedel, publicity chairman.

Services are conducted regularly every Sunday morning, Sunday School beginning at 10 a. m. and worship at 11 a. m. Zion Church is co-sponsor of the Lutheran Hour program over KPDM each Sunday at 2 p. m. and of the Family Worship Hour over KPDM each morning at 6 and at 7 a. m. Sundays.

'Thou Shalt Not Kill' Contradictory

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," the sixth in the Hebrew Decalogue (Exodus 20), stands as an admonition to mankind against age-long killings upon a vast scale.

Unfortunately, there is a discrepancy between the Commandment and the grim and terrible facts of the destruction of human life becomes all the more emphasized, when one considers the teaching of Jesus, not only concerning life and love, but enjoining even love for enemies.

In relation to this tragic and perplexing situation a correspondent in Wisconsin has sent me the following letter:

"May I have the truth concerning the teachings of the Bible in regard to our government's orders in the armed services you are ordered to kill the enemy. The Bible tells us in Exodus 20, 'Thou shalt not kill.'"

Which is to be feared and respected, God in heaven, or the bayonets and rifles at your back?

"With both sides praying to God for counsel and guidance, how sad and confused warfare is. I believe our men in government situations have no fear of God. Otherwise they would be honest in dealings and speak the truth. They are leading our nation to its downfall morally and economically. Then, at its downfall, the good must suffer with the evil ones."

"Why must this be? Why must the good suffer with the bad? May I have your God-guided reply?"

This was my reply:

"I would call your attention to Numbers 31, and especially to Deuteronomy 2:34, in which you will see that Moses did not regard the Commandment as absolute against every circumstance, though I hope that neither you nor I would justify such wholesale slaughter of women and 'little ones' because it is 'in the Bible.' There are two sorts of people: The one sort, typified by the good American citizen, and the principles of American democracy, believe in a society of law and order, in which men live peacefully with one another, respecting one another's rights and liberties; the other sort, typified by gangsters and aggressors, are willing and eager to kill and destroy, if they can thereby serve their own ends."

Help Daughter to Look Her Best

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The task of aiding your daughter in making the most of her looks is not one that should be stumbled into blindly. It's a problem that should be given much advance thought and planning, lest your prodding prove more harmful than helpful.

Tact and a proper choice of words is extremely important if you are to avoid tearing down the self-confidence you are attempting to build.

First of all, try to make your own thinking positive. Instead of selecting clothes to minimize her skininess, help her choose a wardrobe to make the most of her slenderness. Instead of just sympathizing with her about her height — whether she's too tall or too short — help her see that there are advantages to be played up either way.

Above all, avoid harping upon defects that can't possibly be corrected. It avails nothing but misery for your sensitive adolescent if you continually speak about her misfortune in inheriting a too-long nose from her father's family.

If the defect is one that can be remedied, such as posture, it's still a good idea to stick to your no-nagging policy. Putting your daughter on the defensive will only prolong the unfortunate trait. You may be sowing seeds of rebellion or inferiority that could have serious consequences later.

Every mother, of course, wants her child to look her best. But it's not wise to tackle the job of helping her with such dogged seriousness that you're both made miserable.

Eventually a mirror will inform her, with much more telling effect, the very things you're trying to say.

Victories that are easy are cheap. Those only are worth having which come as the result of hard fighting.

This Last Night

MAY had never seen him before. He was looking over the chipped glass top of his booth, past the tube of blue neon that bordered the flashing sign in the window. It gave her a chance to study him while her hands were busy filling the sugar bowls which she had assembled on the table in front of the bar.

The place was almost empty. Two men, wearing hats, sat at a table at the far end of the room. They were engaged in conversation. Pete was behind the bar, his beefy face hidden by the evening newspaper.

Insufficient, fly-specked bulbs, suspended from the mottled ceiling by naked wires, cast a pale glow that left the corners in chrome tinted gloom. The radio was playing. A gay, lilting tune winged through the sour beer-scented air. The tune didn't belong there.

The man was seated in a booth that claimed the deepest shadows. May had noticed that when he had come in he had looked around the room carefully and then had chosen that particular booth as though it served some special purpose.

His face when he had looked up in response to her, "What will you have?" had made her wonder. It was what she had seen in his face that made her curious. Nearly every night one or two newcomers were dropped in for a beer or two as this man had. It wasn't the fact that he was a stranger. He was a young man and his features were nice, not handsome, but just looked like a nice person. Just there was something more.

The pallor of his face, the sunken red-rimmed eyes, the tauntiness—they spoke of fatigue, perhaps fear, or some terrible sorrow.

As she watched him he turned his eyes from the window and shuddered as though the aspect of the cold, squalid, empty street matched his own feelings too closely. She noticed that his hand trembled as he picked up his glass and drained it.

May wiped her hands and went to him. "Will you have another?" she asked.

He looked up at her and replied with a brusque, "No."

She was about to turn away when he smiled contritely and said, "I hope you don't work on a commission basis."

His tired eyes looked at her almost hopefully. She sensed the urge the man seemed to feel for talk. She hesitated for a moment, then relaxed and leaned against the opposite side of the booth and permitted a wan smile.

"It's always slow just before you fellows get paid."

He seemed puzzled for an instant, then he looked down at his dungarees, stained from toil in the coal mines, and he nodded.

"Have you worked here long?" he asked.

"Nearly six months," May sighed. Her glance swept the shabby beer parlor, then she added with a little note of pride, which, though she knew to be foolish, she could not restrain. "I used to be hostess in the Coffee Shop at the Hotel."

"That would suit you better," he sounded as though he meant it. "Why did you leave?"

She dropped her eyes. "The boss couldn't remember that he had a wife, but I could."

HE frowned at his glass before he spoke again. There was the difference. Mer seemed to like to ask such questions. It went with the beer like pretzels, but this one didn't seem fresh. He didn't smirk.

He asked, "Don't you run into that sort of thing in a place like this?"

She shrugged. "The talk is rougher, but the men are easier to handle."

The music from the radio stopped. The announcer named the station, then introduced a news commentator, one of the big ones.

Pete reached up without taking his eyes from the newspaper, and turned up the volume. The stranger turned from May. He faced the radio and leaned forward.

THE familiar deep soothing voice of the commentator swept through the room. "Good evening, friends."

"Every once in a while in this so-called civilization of ours something comes to light that makes me ill, fills me with a torturing black despair, and causes me to wonder where and how mankind got off the track that was intended to lead to decency and understanding."

"Such is the story you have been reading in your newspapers the last few days—the story of a boy from Louisville, Ky., who took up a rifle in the recent war and faced the enemy on foreign soil. A boy who didn't have to go but felt that he should. A boy who came to know the hot bite of a German bullet, who wore a silver star next to his purple belt."

"That boy survived his wounds and came home, to a home that had been in his dreams, his heart, his very soul, every minute of the time he had been away. He came back to a home that meant so much more to him than just a structure of wood and bricks. A wife and child were part of that home, the real part—the part that, shining through the blackest of nights, had given him the strength and the will to survive his injuries so that he could return."

"To him, home was the place where his life was a life to be taken up again, a life he had fought and suffered to preserve from the threat of Fascism and slavery."

The announcer paused.

Lutheran Women Hear Mrs. Bruns

Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid held its first meeting of 1951 in Parish hall with the new president, Mrs. A. G. Gilliam, presiding.

The topic, "Our Missions in New Guinea," was presented by Mrs. A. Bruns in the form of a letter received by her from a relative who is stationed there as a mission pastor.

A gift of pine painted tea towels for the new parish hall from Mrs. Al Schneider and a serving table from Mrs. J. D. Schroedel were accepted.

The group decided to continue sending gifts to the German family and the Finnish Orphanage through 1951 as they did last year. The year books prepared by the executive committee were distributed.

Those present were Meses, A. Bruns, Melvin Clark, A. G. Gilliam, Clyde Hussey, J. D. Schroedel, A. E. Stroebel, Archie Sorely and the hostess, Mrs. G. D. Rich. Guests present were Mrs. J. A. Kay of Pampa and Mrs. Beatmont of Owatonna, Minn., and Rev. A. Bruns.

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

If some of these self-elected critics, who are always sounding off on what is wrong with American women would take a long, close look at American men they could really do a bang-up piece.

The number one fault, they'd have to admit, is that American men are so critical of American women. A woman may get annoyed or disgusted or critical of one man in particular — but in general American women really like men and find few faults with them as a group. But American men rarely have anything but criticism for women as a group.

Number two fault of American men is their insatiable appetite for flattery. It's gotten so bad that their spokesmen keep telling us: "Tell us we're wonderful all the time — or we'll find some other woman who will."

MARRIAGE ONE-WAY STREET
Number three fault is their refusal to accept a fifty-fifty responsibility for making a marriage happy and successful. They rush a girl off her feet, marry her and then sit back and dare her to try and hold them. Whether the marriage flourishes or founders is entirely her responsibility.

Then there is that little matter of dullness. All too often the American husband is a good fellow away from home, a genial host if there are guests, but a

VFW Seeking Total Mobilization of U.S.
MIAMI, Fla., — The Veterans of Foreign Wars want total mobilization. National Commander Charles C. Ralls of Seattle, Wash., declared here that all reservists and national guardsmen should be called to active duty immediately and draft orders issued for men between 18 and 35 without prior service. He said the present mobilization program is not fast enough and is coming four years too late. "Russia is seeking a world revolution," he said. "We are the only nation that can stop this revolution. But we are not self-sufficient and we need allies." Ralls said he favors "locking up" all Communists and fellow travelers in the United States.

Bosses, Pentagon Trouble Reserves
By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
One of the most bitter products of the Korean war is the damage it has done to the jobs of hundreds of thousands of reservists and National Guardsmen. Most Pentagon officials put the blame on employers. Employers blame the Pentagon. Most of the men who are affected blame both. About the only thing there is agreement on is that when this is all over, the present reserve structure of the services is going to have to be junked for something more modern and workable. Or there will have to be some kind of universal service or training.

A few typical examples tell the story best: Case A joined the National Guard before World War II, was called to active duty and served meritoriously. He rejoined the Guard after the war. Just before Korea his firm promised him a promotion with a good increase in salary. On the basis of this he bought a new home with payments his promised raise could easily take care of. However, when it looked as if he might be called to active duty after the Korean war started, the promotion never came through. Another man was given the job, the Guard member is about to lose his new home and all he put in it and there isn't much chance of his being called to active duty. Just before Korea, Case B quit his job to open a business of his own. He thought he had the finances all arranged through the local bank. But when the bank learned that he was in the reserves and might be called up, it refused to go through with the loan. Now he can't get his old job back, can't get finances to start his venture, can't get man for a job if we're going to lose him right away." "What's the sense of promoting a man to an important job when he'll only be able to hold it a couple of weeks and we'll just have to find another one for the job?" "We can't assign a man who is liable to call to any of our important defense work. His leaving will cause a delay in our production." The employers can point to the Air Force itself as an offender in this matter, too. The AF recently advertised for hundreds of new workers to open an air base. Next morning when a crowd of men gathered to go to work they were told by a public address system that all reservists might as well go home. Big grips of both employers and reservists against the services in the inability to get any positive information on a man's status. Pentagon spokesmen agree that more and more firms are being talked into handling their reserve personnel problems in a much more enlightened fashion. The Pentagon, in turn, is trying to give reservists more positive information. Brightest side of the picture is the fact that defense spending is rapidly creating a labor shortage all over the country and it is getting easier all the time for reservists to get jobs.

GOODYBY, OSCAR? — The Emmy Award offered by the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will, its boosters say, shove Hollywood's Oscars right out of the limelight by 1955. The Emmy, a gold statuette of a female figure in flowing robes holding a symbol of electronics over her head, is being handed over for the third year for excellence in television performances.

Neolithic Culture Shown in Israel
TEL AVIV — (AP) — Archeological evidence of a 6500-year-old culture, called the Yarmukian, is shown in the newly-opened museum of the Israel agricultural settlement of Sha'ar Hagolan, south of Lake Tiberias between the Yarden and Yarmuk rivers. The excavation of the Yarmukian finds began in 1943, was interrupted by the war, and resumed last year. It was directed by Professor Moshe Steklis of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. He said the excavation revealed evidences of the Neolithic period for the first time in this country.

A Business Man You Always Pay with Pleasure
FOR TWO reasons, people find it a real pleasure to pay their newspaper boy each collection day. One is that the newspaper itself gives them so much for their money: Exciting news, striking pictures, funniest comics, enjoyable lectures, lively sports, latest fashions, thrifty store news, and a hundred other things to inform and entertain the family. The other reason is the carrier-boy. They realize he's in business for himself, and that by paying him promptly they aid and encourage him to make a success of his first business venture.

A SHOT WITH A PUNCH—A North Korean army major crumples to the ground after being shot by a tough American sergeant. The dramatic action took place not in Korea, but in Hollywood. A new film, "The Steel Helmet," marks a milestone in movie history because, for the first time, it shows the murder of a prisoner of war by an American G.I. The sergeant, portrayed by Gene Evans, pays for his crime by cracking up mentally. The Korean officer is played by Harold Fong.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Marks the Expert Precision Defense

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the marks of the great expert is the ability to defend a hand with imagination and precision. The hand shown today illustrates those qualities admirably and shows why the whole world of bridge regards Howard Schenken as one of the all-time bridge greats.

After cashing the ace of hearts, Schenken decided that the contract could be set only if his side could get a diamond trick in addition to the heart and the two trumps he could confidently expect to win. He could win a diamond trick if his partner had the queen or if he could prevent declarer from getting enough discards on dummy's long clubs.

At the second trick, therefore, be deducted in Item 2, page 1 of the return.

2. Alimony, paid regularly but not necessarily at fixed intervals, under court order — include separate maintenance (but not lump sum settlements, nor payments made without court order).

3. Your share of mortgage interest and real estate taxes on a cooperative apartment.

4. Fees paid to lawyer or accountant for help in preparing your 1949 tax return.

Tax Primer Q&A

Q. While at the beach I lost my diamond ring worth $500. Can I deduct this as a loss?

A. No. Losses due to mistaking or losing an article are not deductible.

Q. My son earned over $500 in 1950 so he is filing a separate return and I cannot claim him as a dependent. However, I furnished over half of his support and paid $200 for medical bills when his leg was broken. Can I include the $200 with my medical expenses?

A. Yes.

Q. Since my wife and I separated I have been sending her $50 a month. Can I deduct such payments.

A. Not unless you were ordered by a court to make the payments.

Schenken led the king of diamonds. Dummy won with the ace of diamonds, and declarer hopefully cashed the ace and king of spades, continuing with a low spade.

After winning the first of his two trump tricks, Schenken stopped for an additional moment of thought. It would be useless to cash his second trump trick, for then dummy's clubs would give declarer all the discards he needed.

It was useless to lead another diamond, since East had played the deuce on the first round of that suit, thus indicating that he did not hold the queen.

If Schenken led diamonds again, declarer would get a free finesse.

Schenken found a way out of his difficulties by leading his singleton club. Now declarer couldn't get to his hand to draw the last trump. If he continued clubs, Schenken would carefully wait until the third round of clubs before he ruffed. Then he could exit safely with a heart, and South, unable to reach the dummy any more, would have to lose a diamond trick.

Declarer saw that his only chance was to take a diamond finesse in the hope that East held the jack of diamonds. It was a good try, but of course it lost, and the contract was defeated.

OPA phase, and for a long time before, Rollins was acquainted with and worked in cooperation with Joseph L. Brandt, the convict described earlier together with mention of his pardon.

Brandt, Rollins and Waring all were, in their turns, "chief investigator" or "director of investigation" for the Anti-Nazi League, which is a fictive, spying organization conducted for his own mysterious purposes by one Isidore Lipschutz, formerly of Belgium, a rich diamond merchant. Notwithstanding their background, both Rollins and Brandt easily got credentials from the OPA. After Brandt was "separated" from OPA, his superior had to appeal to the district attorney of the county of New York to make him give up his official identification card, which resembled that of the FBI.

The age limits for all these positions will be waived for persons entitled to veteran preference.

Full information may be obtained from the commission's local secretary, C. W. Stowell, at the postoffice.

Masked Men Rob Man of $8350

MULESHOE — (AP) — Two masked men who robbed a farmer of $8,350 and left him tied to his tourist court bed vanished without a clue.

Glen Teal, owner of farmland near here and at Abilene, said two men met him as he opened the door of his cabin about 8:30 a.m. yesterday as he prepared to go to town.

They ordered him back into the cabin, then tied him spreadeagled to his bed. It took him nearly four hours to work free of the ropes.

Teal said the money was "to pay bills and buy some stuff" and most of it was rolled in a rubber band in his trousers pocket.

at the extreme right of the printed schedule — with one limitation.

There is a limit to the amount you can deduct. This limit is computed as follows:

1. If you are claiming only your own personal exemption and no more in Item 1, the limit is $1250.

2. If you are a single person, or a married person filing only for yourself, but claiming dependents, the limit is $2500.

3. If you are filing a joint husband-wife return, the limit is $1240 for each person for whom an exemption is claimed.

4. If your allowable medical expenses, in excess of 5 percent of Item 4 were greater than this limit for your type of return, show the limit or ceiling figure instead of your own, in the right-hand column.

Among items that can NOT be deducted are life insurance premiums, funeral expenses, contributions — the cost of illegal operations or drugs, your doctor "for rest" or "for a change."

The miscellaneous schedule is the catch-all for deductions not taken elsewhere. Typical examples of items that can be deducted here are:

1. Expenses of earning your salary or wage. Any ordinary and necessary expenses which you incur for your employer's benefit are deductible. This includes dues, initiation fees, and assessments to labor unions and professional societies; entertainment of customers to promote specific deals, and not just for general good will; uniforms, workclothes, and costumes required in your work that do not replace your own ordinary clothing; safety equipment, tools and supplies necessary and customary in your work. It also includes expenses of travel for your employer when you did not stay away overnight. These were described more fully in the fourth article. Do NOT deduct on page 3 any travel expenses when you remained away overnight or any expenses for which you were reimbursed by your employer. These should be deducted in Item 2, page 1 of the return.

2. Alimony, paid regularly but not necessarily at fixed intervals, under court order — include separate maintenance (but not lump sum settlements, nor payments made without court order).
