Control Heads Await Signal From Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eric Johnston, Michael V. Disalle, and Cyrus B. Ching, the government's new first-string lineup for stabilizing the economy, looked to the White House today for an order spelling out their assignments.

President Truman was due to act shortly — maybe today or tomorrow — to set up Johnston as a general umpire and policy supervisor of the stabilization program, including prices, wages, rents, and credit controls.

Last week the President appointed Johnston as administrator of the Economic Stabilization Agency (ESA) to replace Alan Valentine.

Another prospective mobilization move — which officials said might be forthcoming during the day — would assign more steel to defense orders.

National Production Authority (NPA) regulations now say that no steel company is required to accept defense priority orders for shipment in any one month in excess of certain percentages of its average monthly shipments during the first part of last year.

Officials said these percentages will be raised because of the increasing volume of defense priority orders for steel.

Mr. Truman, in the executive order spelling out the duties of the stabilization officials, was also expected to split the 500 employees of the ESA simply into two separate operating agencies.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS), under Disalle, the plump, witty, 42-year-old former mayor of Toledo, whose staff may eventually reach the peak OPA strength of 60,000, though he says he hopes not.

Johnston has taken a nine-month leave from his post as chairman of the U.S. Rubber Co., who is more than a foot taller than Disalle and 32 years older.

Death Toll Mounts From Alpine Slides

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—The death toll stood at 136 with many still missing today as rescue workers in three Alpine countries continued to dig through snow and debris left by disastrous weekend avalanches.

Austria had at least 62 dead, Switzerland 59 and Italy 15 as a result of great slides crashing down Alpine slopes for the past three days.

The semi-official Swiss News Agency said that the disaster struck at least 15 localities in Switzerland. Besides the 59 dead, it said, 20 others were missing and another 20 were reported seriously injured.

In Italy, in addition to the dead, at least 50 persons were injured, many of them caught beneath roofs crumpled by the weight of the snow.

The snow still was falling on the Italian side of the Alps, causing fears there would be more avalanches. On the Swiss side the number of avalanches appeared to be decreasing, but officials warned that there still was danger.

Thousands of British and American sports lovers were temporarily isolated at swank ski resorts. Among the marooned were 600 British and 70 Americans at Davos, Switzerland.

None of the resorts were believed to be in any danger, however. They were said to have ample food stocks.

The unusual number of slides resulted from heavy snows last week. Avalanches are not uncommon in the Alps, but the weekend number was believed a record.

Harley H. Lucas, Former Pampan, Dies in Louisiana

Harley Harold Lucas, former manager of the Pampa Coca Cola Bottling plant, died unexpectedly Sunday afternoon in the Roosevelt Hotel, New Orleans, La.

Cause of death was not known here by former close friends and associates, but it was believed by his attorneys that he may have suffered a heart attack. Mr. Lucas suffered from a heart condition, the first attack hitting him in February, 1942.

Mr. Lucas came here in April, 1939, from Terre Haute, Ind. He was a member of the Terre Haute Methodist Church and attended the First Methodist while here. He also belonged to the Lions Club and the Shriners. Mrs. Lucas died during his stay here.

In 1942 he left the Coca Cola plant and went with the Chattanooga Glass Co., with whom he was employed at the time of his death. Funeral arrangements are pending at Terre Haute.

Known survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Lula Cottrell, N. Terre Haute and Mrs. Mamie Worthington, Chicago, Ill.

Communists Flee Thrusts By Powerful UN Columns

Russian View Is Sought In Big 4 Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S., Britain and France will call on Russia this week to state its attitude toward sitting down with them to talk over a wide range of world problems.

The western powers' note, carefully worded, will be delivered in Moscow, probably Tuesday. It will be the fourth in a series of exchanges between Russia and the West on the idea of holding a Big Four meeting.

The curious thing about this exchange is that none of the governments involved seems to feel that a Big Four session actually would result in substantial agreements and thereby lessen world tension. On the contrary, some authorities here feel that tensions at the end of any such session might be worse because of its failures.

Nevertheless, the three western governments, and particularly the British and French, seem to think it is necessary to go through the motions of meeting and talking things over for two main purposes: first, to prove an interest in leaving no possible avenue to peace unexplored; and second, to gain whatever propaganda advantage there may be in the course of the talks.

Because these are apparently the real reasons there is likely to be considerable sparring over details which among friendly nations interested in solving problems would be quickly worked out or passed over.

The exchange started late last year when Russia proposed that the Big Four Foreign Ministers should meet on the question of German demilitarization. This was regarded in Washington as an effort to throw a monkey wrench into the developing plans of the western allies to build up western German strength against that of semi-militarized East Germany. Yet it did show Russia a willingness to talk.

Youngblood Rites Today

The funeral of Howard Youngblood, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Velma Faye Stone, was to be held at 2 p. m. today at the Church of God with the Rev. Lester Foster, pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. A. R. Mitchell.

Burial was to be in Fairview cemetery under the direction of the Poston Funeral Home of Pampa.

Howard's body was taken to Panhandle Saturday from Galveston, where he died early Friday morning. The youth died from cancer after an illness of about seven months.

Beside the boy when he became unconscious just before his death was his father, Artie Youngblood — just as the boy had wished.

The story of Howard's wish to see his father for the first time was given wide publicity recently. Just before Christmas Youngblood was located in Albuquerque, N. M.

Mrs. Stone, his mother, said Howard became weaker Thursday.

Toward the early morning hours they insisted that I go home to rest," she said. "They called me from the hospital when they saw he was dying, but before I could dress and get there he was gone."

Besides his mother and father, Howard is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mrs. V. Cowan of Berger, and James Watkins, Sand Springs, Okla.; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Youngblood, Albuquerque; a half-sister, Jacklyn Faye Loven, Pampa; and four step-brothers, Gene, H. W., Samuel and Donald, all of Albuquerque.

Bradley Okays U.S. Plans For Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley told Congress today the military forces the United States is planning "are sufficient in my opinion to avert disaster for our country."

Testifying before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said bombing of American cities might be possible, but "there is little real danger now of the continental United States being invaded and overrun so far as we can see."

Bradley said U.S. air defenses, combined with the efforts of the Canadians, "could avert a complete disaster" but "if a determined enemy is willing to expend the effort, some bombers will get through."

Bradley was before the committee to endorse the Defense Department's proposals for drafting of 18-year-olds and extending the period of draft service from 21 to 27 months.

He gave the committee in addition a briefing on how the services plan to meet any attack. "The initial retaliation against an enemy by strategic bombing will be provided if the airpower and the necessary army and navy support to seize and hold the bases from which to operate are in our hands the moment an emergency arises," he said.

"The closer the bases are to the enemy the easier it will be, and the less costly it will be, to provide a sustained retaliation air attack."

"Our strategy does not include a retraction of all of our military power to the continental limits of the North American continent when we are attacked."

Some senators are questioning the proposal to draft 18-year-olds. Senator Hunt (D-Wyo.) said he felt Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's view of the need for this step should be secured before Congress votes on the issue.

It's still too early to determine the graduating class, but at this time, there are 187 members of the senior class.

Allies Push Within 25 Miles Of Seoul

TOKYO (AP)—Four powerful allied columns looking for a fight thrust deep into Communist territory today but Reds on western Korean front didn't answer the challenge.

The motorized columns were bolstered with tanks and mobile artillery. They returned to the main allied lines late Monday afternoon after blasting several Red patrols in minor skirmishes.

The columns ranged across a 50-mile span of the western front and pushed within less than 25 miles of Red-held Seoul. Termed officially a "reconnaissance in considerable force," the scouting patrols were charged with taking Red prisoners and obtaining information on Communist troop buildups.

"I guess they saw us coming and ran to the north to hide," an allied intelligence officer said. "They seem to be willing to stay and fight when we send out small patrols. But when we beat one up and hunt them out with it they run away."

"Then we pull out and they filter back into their former positions."

On the central front, allied forces retook Wonju airstrip and nearby Hill 233 Monday after a three-hour fight. A Communist regiment had held the commanding hill for two days.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway landed at the field a few hours after the fight. The Eighth Army chief said the central front situation "is perfect and getting better all the time."

Wonju is the road and rail gate to the heart of South Korea. Allied forces withdrew last Tuesday after a fighting stand there of nearly three weeks, but strong patrols returned last Friday. They have fought in and around the city for the past four days, usually retiring a short distance to the southeast each night.

Ridgway praised the Second Division for its dogged Wonju stand and lauded French troops fighting with it.

He cited specially a "magnificent bayonet attack" by the French battalion earlier this Tuesday after checking stand there of nearly three weeks, but strong patrols returned last Friday. They have fought in and around the city for the past four days, usually retiring a short distance to the southeast each night.

An Eighth Army communique Monday night said the Second Division stood at Wonju starting Jan. 8 and apparently planned to hold the Communist offensive through the mountain passes south of Wonju. But it added:

Late reports indicate the Communists are again building up strength in the Wonju area for another offensive. The Communists are again building up strength in the Wonju area for another offensive. The Communists are again building up strength in the Wonju area for another offensive.

Services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday for Mrs. Mattie Elizabeth Baker, 69, at the First Methodist Church with Dr. Orion W. Carter, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Baker died Sunday night at a local hospital. Her residence in Pampa was 120 S. Starke. She was born May 19, 1882 in Hartford, Ark., moving here 20 years ago from Breckenridge, Tex.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. C. C. Organ, Pampa, Mrs. Sunny Banner, Pampa, Mrs. R. A. Jewell, Pampa; two sons, Carl C. Jones, Snyder and John F. Jones, Dallas; two brothers, John Nordin, Fort Smith, Ark., and Arthur Nordin, Modesto, Calif.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, under direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Palbearers will include G. H. Kyle, Lewis Jones, Paul West, G. Chase, Ollie Wilhelm and Floyd Organ.

Communists Recall Colorful Grenadier

TOKYO (AP)—The Chinese Communist army has resurrected a colorful figure out of the military past — the grenadier.

He is not working very well. UN combat evaluation reports disclose. His grenades are no good. And the Chinese, lacking America's baseball tradition, just can't handle grenades very far anyway.

Chinese grenadiers do not carry rifles. Their only weapons are small potato-masher concussion grenades.

Red officers either use the grenadiers as a first wave or pass them through the first wave as soon as possible.

When they are less than 50 yards from UN lines the Chinese start tossing grenades. The trouble is the weak-armed enemy has muscles trained for lifting and pulling instead of throwing.

Most of them, throwing an underhand loop, can't heave a grenade more than 20 to 25 yards. One recent battle became almost comic. The Chinese were less than 20 yards below a hilltop UN position. For an hour they tried to throw a grenade over the top and never did make it.

U. S. soldiers express only contempt for the Chinese grenadiers and grenadiers. The grenade makes a lot of noise but almost never kills or seriously wounds anyone. Not being the fragmentation type, it throws only light splinters. Officers report one aviator American group had between 50 and 60 grenades thrown into its position. The Yanks kicked about 40 out before they went off. The others exploded but while every soldier was hit none was killed or even seriously wounded.

Casualties are tremendous among the Chinese grenadiers. They did not have rifles to defend themselves and have to expose their bodies to throw grenades.

In a war of firepower and modern weapons only a nation with tremendous masses of men could afford grenadiers. Not so in the military past when the grenadier swashbuckled through Europe's battlefields.

Back in 1640 when the Monks' regiment restored Charles II to Britain's throne, armies had pikemen and musketeers but no grenadiers. (See COMMUNIST, Page 5)

Hearing of the President's remarks upon their evacuation to the Treasure Island Marine Base at San Francisco, Chatterson said he and 19 other wounded Marines were so angered that they put their purple heart medals in the same envelope and addressed it to President Truman.

Rochelle Park, N. J., January 20, 1950
To Whom It May concern:
We owe our daughter's life to Chiropractic and can't find sufficient words to express our thanks to Chiropractic for the wonderful restoration of our six-year-old daughter's health.
On January 7, 1949, Adeline had a convulsion and was given heavy doses of penicillin and sulfa. After ten days in the hospital we brought our daughter home, but she had lost all her mental faculties. She didn't even know us as parents and had to be fed and handled like a baby. The diagnosis was severe encephalitis resulting from an upper respiratory infection.
Neurologists told us that after eight weeks she would start improving. During the eight weeks we had to keep Adeline under heavy sedative drugs to keep her calm. It also was necessary to keep her in a harness fastened to each side of the bed.
However, after eight weeks she grew worse. She became unable to swallow, and we had to feed her through a tube. Then that had to be stopped because the passage became irritated, and the doctor said there was nothing that could be done. He didn't believe she could live more than a few days.

We had been urged by a friend and my parents to try Chiropractic adjustment, but we were hesitant because it was so unfamiliar to us. In desperation we went to a Chiropractor, who took X-rays and found that the first vertebra of her spine was out of place and causing pressure on the spinal cord.
We began adjustments at once, and after a series of them, our daughter could once again swallow. She continued to improve gradually step by step, and by the sixth month her speech returned. What a joyous day that was for us! She continued to improve further, and by November she was able to return to school. Today she is a healthy, normal child, thanks to Chiropractic. Our hearts shall always be filled with grateful thanks for the miraculous healing of Chiropractic.

Unique House Plans Utilize Room-By-Room Construction

URBANA - CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — House plans which permit standardized construction practices and yet avoid the appearance of being "mass produced," are now available under a system of unit planning developed by the University of Illinois Small Homes Council.

The system is described by the council in a new publication, "Contemporary House Development From Room Units." The book presents results of an 18-month study in house planning made under a research grant given to the University by the Lumber Dealers Research Council, Lynn Boyd, Pampa lumber dealer, is a member of the executive group sponsoring the research project.

From a large series of standardized plans for rooms, or groups of rooms, presented in the book, the homeowner can select the four basic units — a living-dining area, a work area, a sleeping area, and a garage — which best fit the living needs of his family. These he can combine in several ways to form a complete house plan. From these several choices, he can select the one that best suits the requirements of his room as designed.

Twenty-eight house plans designed from these units are shown in the book; an unlimited number of house plans can be developed from the units.

Two of the 28 house plans which use identical units, have been built in Champaign this winter as a demonstration of the flexibility of the unit planning principle. A third house demonstrates how additional flexibility can be obtained through variations in exterior materials.

"Each unit," the report states, "is carefully planned within itself without regard to the rest of the house or the exterior. For example, the bedrooms in the sleeping units have an acceptable relationship to the bathroom and the linen closet which are also part of those units. The bedrooms are large enough to accommodate the usual pieces of bedroom furniture and have a pre-determined amount of storage space (depending on the number of people for whom the room is designed).

"Such a unit of bedroom and bath can answer the needs of a dozen houses, no two of which might be alike except for this inner relationship within the rooms of the unit."

Since other units are similarly designed, considerable variety in appearance and flexibility in room arrangement are offered in planning a house. This flexibility is essential because different families use a house in different ways.

Moreover, flexibility in the structural design of a house and in the materials is also possible. In combining the units into a house plan, the homeowner or builder has his choice of exterior materials, roof type, floor construction and materials, window type (number and size), interior finish material, heating system, and extra elements, such as fireplaces, and outdoor terraces.

The units are designed for one-story basements houses; however, alternate schemes for the work area units have been developed to show basement stairways.

Each series of units provides for a wide variety of room sizes. Minimum houses can be built from the units, as can larger, more generous ones.

In order to insure the livability of the units and the houses developed from them, the sizes of the living-dining areas and of the bedrooms were determined by studies which involved furniture, traffic lanes, and possible door and window locations. The work areas were designed in accordance with space and storage standards established through research at the University of Illinois.

Besides the basic units, optional type units have been developed: extra-room units which can be used to provide a separate dining-room, bedroom, study or porch; also sleeping expansion units which can be used to give extra bedrooms, or in some units, a children's playroom.

The units are designed to take advantage of the savings which improved building techniques and standardized construction make possible.

"Waste in the use of labor and materials is reduced," according to the report, "because the units are modularly planned; that is, the dimensions are coordinated with those of modular building materials so that the materials can fit into the house with a minimum of cutting and fitting. This is possible because the dimensions of the units and those of modular building materials are each divisible by a common unit of measurement (4 inches or multiples of 4 inches)."

By making use of the modular principle, the random, unrelated selection of dimensions for rooms, windows, and closets is eliminated. This, in turn, eliminates the inefficient practice of measuring, cutting and assembling the many and various pieces of a house while it is being built.

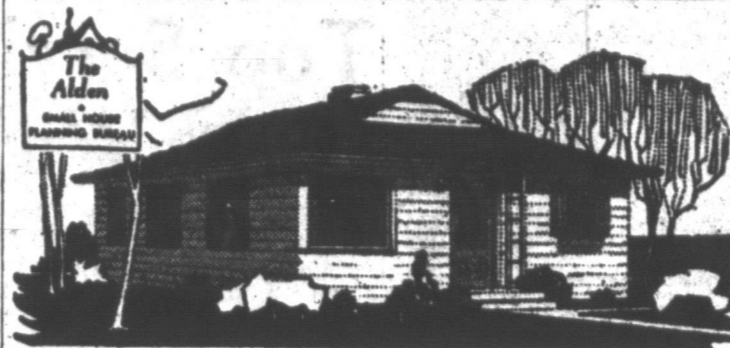

Because the units are modular, job operations can be easily laid out in the drafting room before construction begins. This makes possible improved framing details which reduce the amount of labor needed on the job.

Lumber can be pre-cut to size by power tools; roof trusses, wall panels, and gable ends can be detailed for pre-assembly on the ground; closed walls can be used for interior partitions.

The use of roof trusses, as shown in most of the 28 house plans, eliminates load-bearing interior partitions and allows sheet materials to be applied on the entire ceiling of a one-story house efficiently and quickly.

It Is Wise To Repair Those Dangerous Cracks In Floors

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Highly waxed floors are old standbys for cartoons about the unwary man-of-the-house who suddenly finds himself doing a back-flip or sliding across the living room on a skating rug.

You can fall just as hard, however, when you trip on cracks that develop between the boards of wood floors. These cracks aren't very pretty to look at, either, whether you contemplate them from a standing position or clean from the spot where you landed when you tripped.

If the cracks are caused by shrinking floorboards in a new house, which is what happened in the home of one reader of this department, you have good reason to suspect the builder just can't be packed with a hopeless job, you can cut narrow strips of wood (or have them cut at a mill-work shop) and glue them into the gaps. Unless you get a perfect match you'll have a refinishing job on your hands.

If the trouble is in just one room, you might want to hide it with a wall-to-wall carpet (with a good protective matting underneath).

In entrance foyers, or smaller small floor areas, a good answer is covering the whole thing with linoleum or asphalt tiling. Your floor covering dealer will be glad to suggest the best material for a particular space, and will give you directions for doing the job properly.

You'll wind up with a floor that's a lot easier to keep clean, under the traffic of wet shoes and muddy feet, than a wooden one.

Q — How do I get rust out of a bathtub? — R. K.

A — If the rust is a stain caused by iron in the water a weak solution of caustic soda (get it at your hardware store) ought to do the trick. Don't leave it on very long, and follow up with a weak ammonia solution and a thorough rinsing. Lemon juice and salt will remove minor rust stains. If the rust is caused by a spot worn through the porcelain bath the iron mesh and apply several coats of heavy white enamel over the spot.

Vestibules Moving Out

"Sheltered entrances are becoming increasingly more popular for homes, while the trend is away from vestibules," according to American Builder, leading magazine in the home building industry.

The influence of the ranch type dwelling is largely responsible for this, says American Builder. Hallways have literally become a part of livingrooms in most so-called ranch style houses, with entrances almost directly into this room rather than into a vestibule or well defined hallway.

A sheltered entrance, which is usually an overhang or extension of the roof, is then necessary to provide protection from the elements to anyone standing at the entrance.

In two-story dwellings, sheltered entrances are usually provided by recessing the entrance area. In many cases, according to American Builder, the entrance is a part of a deep recess extending more than half way across the front, with the front wall extending upward from the extreme projection.

When Mauna Loa, Hawaii, erupted in 1950, the volcano's lava flowed at a rate of 40 miles an hour.

'51 Believed Mystery Year

Key men in the building industry feel that 1951 will be a "mystery year," where caution rather than a complete optimism or pessimism should be the byword in home building.

This was the opinion of 18 leading builders and materials dealers expressed in an interview recently by American Builder, foremost magazine in the building industry.

"Almost without exception, anticipated scarcity of building materials is looked upon as a contributing factor to declines in home building starts this year. One key man in the industry, however, believed that declines in new starts may offset possible material shortages," according to American Builder.

Most of the men interviewed believed Regulation X will cause the low-cost home market to suffer, because of the inability of most young families and other low-wage earners to amass the down-payment necessary to qualify under the financing regulation.

"Generally, builders and distributors reporting for specific areas predict a decline of one-third in 1951 compared with the totals for 1950," American Builder reports. "Higher cost homes, in the opinion of most observers, will not decline in volume. Some even predict sizeable gains in volume in this class."

But all predictions are based on a big "if," and most builders are waiting to see what actually happens to the as yet untested effect of Regulation X and the effect of further materials curtailments.

ELECTRICAL TIPS FOR THE HOME

DO NOT check your home to see if one fuse is in the bathroom. A lamp placed in this position casts shadows on the sock and shoe, making shaving and other close-shaving jobs difficult.

DO install two switches on each side of the door — one on each side of the door. For convenience, glasses, light, and other things can be turned on and off from either side.

Expert Says Color Glamorizes House

Color, used with imagination and taste, is one of the most effective ways to glamorize a house, and the most economical way, as well, declares Beatrice West, New York color consultant.

People want distinctive colors on the exteriors of their houses, Miss West writes in a recent issue of a building publication, and many builders have discovered that color is just as important for houses as for autos and clothes.

Whatever they buy, including houses, women usually are impressed by color before design and quality, says this expert.

To illustrate what color can mean to house appeal, Miss West cites the case of a Texas housing development where well-built homes were selling slowly despite the housing shortage. The trouble proved to be monotonous colors. After a new color plan was adopted, the homes sold quickly.

A color plan, it is pointed out, should harmonize sidewalls, roof, trim and accent colors; it should suit the architecture of the house, and it should blend with the surroundings.

To "individualize" a house with color does not cost anything extra with most finishing materials, Miss West explains.

For example, a variety of pleasing colors — built into the material — is available in asbestos-cement siding, shingles at no price premium. Miss West uses gray, cedar, white and gray asbestos siding in her color plan for the famous Levittown, N.Y., housing development. Color of asbestos siding, a durable, fire-safe material that never needs paint for preservation, also include buff and browns.

Interior colors are assuming importance beyond that of making the outside appearance attractive. Miss West is a leading advocate of decorating plans in which exterior colors help determine colors used in interiors.

This integrated color concept she regards as "challenging, stimulating and intriguing."

Furniture Industry Prepared To Meet Challenge Of Today

By EYFA BROWN
CHICAGO, Ill. — At the mid-winter opening of the international Home Furnishing Market here, the primary question is usually, "What's new?" To this, the queries has been added this year: "How's business?" and "What are prospects?"

In answer to "What's new in the '51 furniture market?" there is, perhaps, a greater use of a variety of woods than in the past several seasons — both exotic and native. Also, two woods are frequently combined in a single piece of furniture. Cherry and walnut are used in combination, as are cherry and oak. Usually these pieces are finished in clear lacquer so that the beauty of both grains and the colorings of the contrasting woods are shown to best advantage. Light finishes and dark finishes are both in evidence, but there is a noticeable trend toward the fin-between since the surface is uninterrupted. The same is true of floors and exterior walls.

Working drawings for the 28 house plans shown in the book are being distributed by the Lumber Dealers Research Council through lumber yards.

Initial distribution of the Small Homes Council book was made today at the Council's sixth annual Short Course in Residential Construction for builders and contractors.

In addition to hearing a presentation of the research report, registrants at the two-day short course viewed the three demonstration houses in Champaign.

The booklets are not yet available in Pampa, Boyd, who will handle distribution, stated it would be approximately two weeks at least before he received his supply.

The present showing at the International Furniture Market gives good evidence of an abundance of imagination available to cope with whatever problems may arise out of our present world situation.

NOBLITT-COFFEY SERVICE TOP FEATURE

NOBLITT-COFFEY'S used car lot is a double-barrelled affair with entrances on both Foster and Gray. Here, Weldon Steward peddles the goodwill used cars that Les Reynolds' service crew puts in top running condition for your approval.

Top Service — Top Cars Are Must With Pontiac Dealer

With a national emergency doing its best to shove its nose into the daily routines of the people, the old bugaboo of shortages is beginning to cause a little consternation among a great number of the citizenry. Such, however, thinking should be relegated to the ash can according to the local Pontiac dealer, Ivan Noblitt.

Few people realize the tremendous importance of the impact of behind-the-scenes departments in the Automotive Sales Field. A prime example of what outstanding service departments can do for a firm is to be seen at the local home of Pontiac automobiles, Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac, Incorporated, now about to round out its first year in Pampa, has established an enviable reputation for high-grade service work in all branches of the firm. Ivan Noblitt doesn't hesitate to give credit where credit is due. When asked for the reason for the success of his organization during the past year, he readily placed the credit on the shoulders of Les Reynolds. Les, with twenty years experience in the field, is manager of the four-division service department of the Noblitt-Coffey firm. He supervises the efforts of eight men who are deployed advantageously in Body and Fender Shop, Front End Department, Paint Shop and general Overhaul Division. Reynolds prides himself on having a minimum of complaints and on most Pampans, is a local lad who made good in a powerful big way. Nobby was born on the "old sod" of the village and cut quite a swath in local football circles through the year 1936. Most "young-old-timers" can recall considerable of Nobby's gridiron prowess. Nobby has applied the same drive to his automobile business and the same success is obvious.

Across the street from the main plant of Noblitt-Coffey, the firm has established the Noblitt-

Coffey "Goodwill" used car lot. It is here that the fine service work of the firm really becomes evident. Those "Goodwill" used cars are the nearest to being new that any used car can be. Under the direction of Weldon Steward, general manager of the firm, those "Goodwill" used cars have gained an enviable reputation. Just as he does on new cars, Nobby backs up his sales agreements and the condition of his used cars.

It wouldn't be a waste of time for you to take some afternoon or morning off and go have a look at the offerings the company has prepared for your approval. Almost any popular make of your car is available, and at prices you can't afford to miss. Whether it's a new Pontiac or a used car, you'll be safe in dealing with Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac, Inc.

Howell Opens Borger Unit

Pampa has been witness to many success stories of the Horatio Alger Type. Some of them will never be forgotten because of their genuine spectacular nature. Others will be remembered through constant reminder. However, there is one rapid rise to success and permanent stability that has not been allowed to become "tip-of-tongue" gossip. The man responsible for it all came into Pampa quietly; quietly he went about establishing himself and his reputation; quietly he maneuvered his "chessmen" until he had a firm foothold. Each of his expansions has been a calculated thing that held risk, but the move was planned to such an extent that no startling reversals were probable.

Now Bert A. Howell & Company has made another expansion.

Warning To Home Owners

Leave it to an old standby like Des Moore to look after the interests of his fellow men. Des doesn't do much singing about his talents. His greatest forte is to go about his business doing the best job possible and letting the excellence of his service speak for itself. Must be a good policy. It would take a long time to find a better man in tin work than Des Moore.

Des isn't trying to throw a scare into anyone, but he is of the opinion that it might be a little bit difficult to get a sheet metal work done before many more months roll around. $500.00, it wouldn't be a bad idea to have a look at the old union. Unheralded and unsung, Bert and his boys chalked up another mark on the chart when they opened a Borger Unit of Bert A. Howell & Company. The Borger division is equipped to handle the needs of the Borger area in the same highly efficient and scientific manner that is characteristic of any Bert Howell operation.

Beauty Expert At Cretney's

Many women have wished they could journey to New York City to have trained beauty experts aid them with their own particular beauty problems, but New York City comes to Pampa this week in the person of a special representative of the famous Helena Rubinstein, leading cosmetician and world-famous beauty authority.

Introducing the same technique used in the renowned Five Day Wonder Course taught in Madame Rubinstein's fabulous Fifth Avenue Salon, Miss Ruth Burns, a "graduate" of the Wonder School, is visiting Cretney Drug all this week.

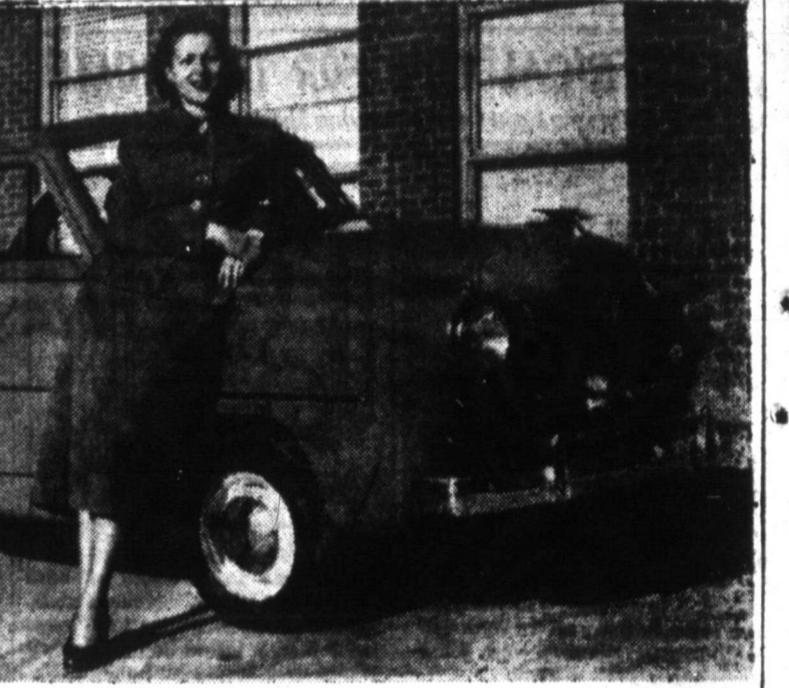

Madame Rubinstein's representative has an exciting beauty gift for all women who visit her. It is a booklet entitled "7 Day Beauty Plan" which ordinarily sells for $1, but is yours for the asking!

Bring your beauty problems to Miss Burns, who will be glad to aid you with problems involving care of skin and hair, make-up, hair styling, diet, exercise and fashion. She will tell you of the beauty secrets taught at the Five Day Wonder School in such a fashion that you will be able to carry on these same beauty rituals in your own home.

Be sure to visit Cretney's Drug during the week of January 22 homestead and see if there is any reconditioning to be done. Get Des out to make a bid and have the work done before it gets a bit tough to do.

ARE YOU FORGETTING TO OIL THE MACHINERY

Some businessmen look upon advertising as an expense to come under the knife. When expense must be cut, the advertising budget is first. THE TROUBLE WITH THAT METHOD IS—IT JUST WON'T WORK. The fact overlooked is that newspaper advertising represents only a fractional part of the cost of goods sold.

ADVERTISING IS THE INSTRUMENT WHICH BRINGS THE GREATEST RETURNS WHEN IT IS INTELLIGENTLY PLANNED.

Advertising becomes expensive when you don't use enough.

IT'S LIKE FAILING TO LUBRICATE A PIECE OF VALUABLE MACHINERY. YOU SAVE THE COST OF THE LUBRICANT. BUT EVENTUALLY YOU HAVE TO PAY THE BIG REPAIR BILL — AND PRODUCTION LOSSES WHILE THE MACHINERY IS IDLE.

THE MORE YOU TELL THE MORE YOU SELL

Grace Friend

Dear Grace:
I am 30 years old and three years older than the man who is my fiancé.

As the date for our wedding draws nearer I worry more and more about being older than he is. It may be a complex as my aunt was a few years older than her husband and it certainly left its mark on her as her husband never let her forget it. He was proud of the fact that he looked younger than she did and somehow always managed to remind people of it.

I should simply die if this happened to my marriage.

Right now my fiancé and I look much the same age but perhaps when I am 10 years older the difference will begin to show.

We do have much in common now. We both like to dance and go to shows and we also like to read and keep up with new books. We are planning to buy a new home and we hope to have several children.

Do you feel that all these things in common are enough to balance the difference in our ages? I hope that you can tell me something to encourage me as my own family thinks it will be a mistake. They say that girls age more rapidly than men and that it is wiser if they are several years younger than their husbands.

Dear Laura:
Many years ago it did seem that women aged more rapidly than men. There was a reason for it. They had more children and their lot was harder in that they didn't have the wonderful equipment to help them with their housework which is taken for granted by most modern housewives. They also lacked the beauty aids which are available to all women today, whether they come from the five and ten or from the most exclusive beauty salon.

With all of these things to keep her young, a modern woman can laugh at the old belief that she must be younger than her husband. She can stay as young as she likes both mentally and physically.

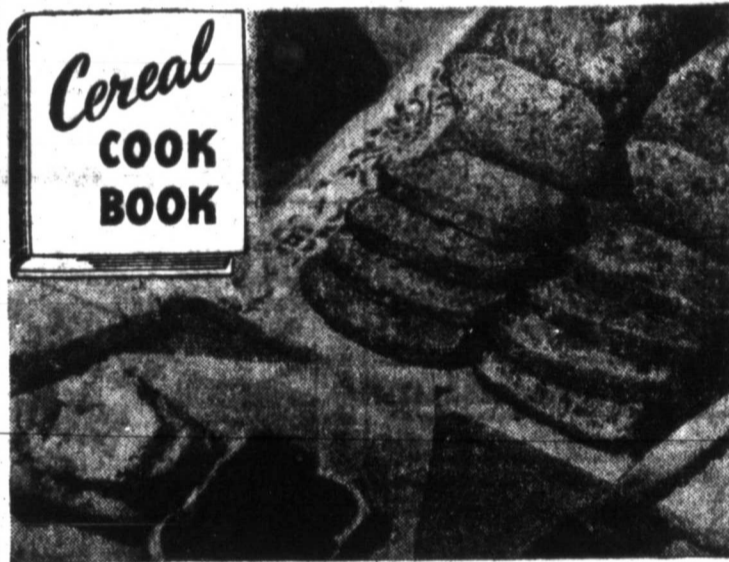

Women used to grow heavier with the years and nothing makes them look more mature— even the young ones. Nowadays we all watch our diet and keep our weight where we look our best. We eat the kinds of food which keep us in good health and we take care of our complexion so that our skins don't age as rapidly as they used to when they were subjected only to soap and hard water.

Add flour gradually and mix until a soft dough is formed. Knead dough on floured board until smooth. Place in a greased bowl and brush top of dough with melted fat. Cover and let rise in a warm place (85°-90° F.) until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Divide dough and shape into two loaves. Place in greased loaf pans 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inches. Let rise until double in bulk, about 1 hour. When loaves are about half risen, brush top lightly with milk and apply 1/2 cup rolled oats, which has been moistened with milk, in patches along each side of top. Bake in a hot oven (425°-450° F.) 15 minutes, then reduce temperature to moderately hot (375°-375° F.) and bake 30 minutes longer or until done. Remove from pans and cool. Yield: Two 1 1/2 pound loaves.

Thief Punished By Medieval Justice

Seat Developed For Air Safety

WASHINGTON — A new type of seat that throws the passenger back before crashing in the event of airplane crash is in the mill here.

Invented by an airlines executive, the seat is adaptable for military air carrier and for civilian ground use, as well as for commercial passenger service. It is coil-sprung, slung in such a way that any sharp forward impact swings the passenger down and back, rather than up and forward.

All you have to do to send the seat into a reclining position for napping while traveling, is recline. There are no levers to push or adjustments to make.

Inventor Jess B. Bennett, assistant to the president of Braniff International Airways, is correlating results of tests of his seat before making a final model and seeking a producer.

Mrs. Meadows Of Skellytown Has 90th Birthday

By CLEO TOM TERRY
Grandma Meadows, who walked to Texas from Arkansas because "there wasn't room in the wagon for but one and Mama was a poorly," celebrated her ninetyeth birthday with a big dinner in her home.

Nearly forty persons called at the farm home of Grandma and Effie Meadows during the day. Grandma Meadows, "Sarah" to her husband who died several years ago, "Sis" to Uncle Noah Reed, her baby brother, nearly eighty himself, but "grandma" to most of the rest of the community, is active and alert both physically and mentally. She helps with the work, and only in the last two years has quit milking and raising little orphan pigs.

Her history is the history of the state; the history of the pioneer woman. Though few live to be her age and few are as active and ambitious at far less than 90 years, Grandma lived along the White River in Arkansas as a child and watched the big steamers piling wood to drive the steam turbine-engines; she saw an army and married her sweetheart down in Central Texas, and moved to Hutchinson County in time to see the biggest fire the county ever had sweep from the U. S. Headquarters up near White Deer in Carson County north to the Canadian River.

Grandma buried her beloved granddaughter, Dollie, whom she and Grandpa raised, her husband, several infants, and her sons, Jeff of White Deer, Ol of Hedley, and Joe, who farmed the home place here and married her sweetest, Effie.

When Joe died, the family wanted Grandma and Effie to move off to town and take life easy. But taking life easy wasn't in the book when Grandma came here and helped to build a home, so she and her daughter decided to stay on at the old home and to run their cattle and farm with the help of Dan Holloway of the Spring Creek Community. And it is a lot easier than being lonesome and with nothing to do in town, Grandma thinks.

Her daughter Effie, and Pauline Huffines, whose friendship has been close and deep through the years since she first knew the Meadows, were hostesses at the big dinner on Sunday, Jan. 14, two days before Grandma's birthday.

Lee Meadows of Pampa, son to Grandma, said grace over the food shared by the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Dan Holloway and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meadows and K. A. H. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Meadows and two children, Mrs. Annie Mae Parker, Noah P. Reed, George, Bobby, and Pearl Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Huffines and Patsy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Meadows, Mrs. O. C. Meadows, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Horner, Carolyn and Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Meadows and Roger, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Matheson, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Meadows and Ramona, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Matheson, Cammie and Tom Terry, Effie Meadows, and Mrs. P. D. Meadows, better known as "Grandma."

Borger Newsman Waging Own Fight

BORGER, Tex. — (AP) — J. C. Phillips, quiet but determined general manager of the Borger News-Herald, has launched a one-man, one-newspaper, one-town campaign against communism which he hopes will spread throughout the nation.

"The sooner it is impressed on the national conscience that communism must be destroyed, that much sooner will we be united and prepared to destroy this evil," says Phillips. "Each of us knows full well that there can be no peace until we all face the fact that: 'Communism must be destroyed.'"

In bold-face type editorials that underline the news banners of stories on the Korean war, in his own column and even on the newspaper's letterheads, the editor is urging:

"Communism must be destroyed."

Phillips' own definition of communism is:

"Communism is an alien conspiracy directed from Moscow to overrun and enslave the world. It is not religion and it is not politics."

The editor has called on all Borger citizens to write congressmen and oppose repeal of the anti-subversive bill. "We cannot compromise with communism here at home any more than we can compromise with Moscow," he wrote. "If our Congress and courts cannot pass and enforce laws and root these alien conspirators out of any phase of our national life then the sacrifices made by our young men on the battlefield will have been in vain."

By telegram, he appealed to Senators Lyndon B. Johnson and Tom Connally and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to press for enforcement of the anti-subversive act. In his column, "We Can Do Something," he printed the favorable responses of these men.

In an editorial entitled "Red Snows of Korea," Phillips wrote:

"Write your movie stars and producers in Hollywood and tell them that you want more pictures showing in stark reality the evils of communism. . . . Communism does not retreat. It never gives up what it has gained. Our experience in Korea proves that communism does NOT intend to give anything that it can possibly hold."

"Each retreat before communism leaves our world smaller. Too soon it could become too small to exist at all."

"The only cure for communism is total defeat. This means that every communistic cell in this country must be destroyed and the seat of communism in Moscow must be eliminated."

"While we are making up our minds just what to do in this country there are men in Korea who know what to do. They are doing it."

The Borger editor hopes that his all-out campaign in his home city will spread throughout the Panhandle, the state and the nation.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Good Play Beat By A Better One

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

If you ask an expert for his favorite bridge hand, he won't come up with some weird, complicated squeeze nor with the time he held an eleven-card suit. The chances are that he'll glow at the memory of the time that some expert opponent made a good play which called for an even better play to offset it.

In today's hand Sam Stayman played the South cards, when the dummy came down, he expected no trouble. He was willing to lose two hearts and a trump. There was nothing to the hand, or so it seemed.

Then East, a villain by the name of Jacoby, complicated matters by winning the first trick with the king of hearts and returning the singleton jack of diamonds. Suddenly the picture had changed; for this defense threatened to defeat the contract.

If Stayman proceeded to lead trumps, as originally planned, I would take the ace of trumps and lead a low heart to West's jack. (I couldn't be sure West actually had the jack of hearts, but I would take that risk, as Stayman knew perfectly well.) Then West would lead a diamond, and I would ruff, setting the contract.

What could Stayman do about this? Sam thought about it for a moment and then came up with a neat answer. He won the diamond return with the king and crossed me up by not leading trumps. Instead he led the jack of clubs and then continued with two more top clubs.

Naturally, I ruffed the third high club, and Stayman carefully discarded his remaining small heart.

Game Warden Stars In Dowsing Book

(By The Associated Press)

In drought-ridden Texas areas where a barrel of water is often described as being worth a barrel of crude-oil, a book-length work by famed novelist Kenneth Roberts is likely to strike up more than passing interest.

In his new book "Henry Gross and His Dowsing Rod" (Doubleday), Roberts gives page after page of evidence where underground water has been discovered by the use of forked sticks from a willow or peach tree. Roberts not only believes strongly in this unusual talent of dowsing, or water-witching if you prefer, but declares skeptics are in the same class as those of 50 years ago who scorned the idea of radio, television or jet planes.

Henry Gross, is the hero of Roberts' book. Gross is a game warden in Maine and his dowsing is something of a pastime. Gross locates underground veins of clear, spring-water and makes no charges for it; often pays for his own gasoline to make the trips. And in this connection, says Roberts, ingratitude is one of the crosses that the dower must bear.

Roberts cites the discovery of three wells on the island of Bermuda as examples of the game warden's art. This island had had only rainwater for drinking for hundreds of years until only last year when Henry located three wells and all were brought in.

The writer offers the testimony of friends like Robert DuBois who saw Henry use his rod and later bring the well in. DuBois wrote: "I couldn't have brought myself to believe the experiments in this book unless, before reading it, I saw Henry's rod tell him all the details of water veins."

... than the '51 Ford

with new FORDOMATIC* DRIVE and 43 "Look Ahead" features

Built with an eye to the future, this '51 Ford is the buy for the future... with 43 new "Look Ahead" features that will keep it looking, acting, and feeling young for years ahead. A few of those long-life features are explained at right.

FORDOMATIC DRIVE

- The newest automatic drive
- The smoothest and most fuel-saving
- Cuts 22% of your driving cost
- Takes all "the a job"
- You're always best

AUTOMATIC RIDE CONTROL
It automatically irons out the bumps with Ford's new Variable-Rate Rear Spring Suspension. Rear Variable-Rate Control! Shock Absorbers, and Advanced "Hydra-Coil" Front Springs.

AUTOMATIC MILEAGE MAKER
It's a magic brain that gives you high compression performance and heat ray by ray, better mileage with any gas. New Waterproof Ignition System.

NEW DOUBLE-SEAL KING-SIZE BRAKES
A touch of your toe, and you stop straight and sure. They're double sealed against the weather, to prevent moisture-binding, too.

NEW AUTOMATIC POSTURE CONTROL
Front seat moves forward automatically at the touch of a lever. At the same time height and angle are adjusted for correct posture.

NEW "MAGIC LIFT" DECK LID
Just turn the key and the rear deck springs open. No action required to lift it or close it. And for space, so other low-tired cars can match Ford's deep-deck luggage locker.
