GIs Paying For Own Fun

RANTOUL, Ill. — (AP) — The banishment of slot machines from Chanute Field has put the cost of GI entertainment on a strict personal basis.

Brig. Gen. Byron Gates, the commanding officer at the Air Force base said that since he ordered the slots off the base six weeks ago the enlisted men's club has had to finance itself by charging for shows.

As an example, Gates said each soldier paid $1.50 cash or authorized that amount deducted from his pay for admission to two shows given by comedian Bob Hope.

About 4,100 enlisted men and officers attended the shows. About $6,000 was raised. Hope came here at his own expense and presented his shows without charge.

Gates said the enlisted men's club, also known as the airmen's Club had made a profit of about $10,000 a month on the slot machines and the money was used to pay the costs of entertainment. But he added that he believes the paid-entertainment program is essential to base morale and welfare.

The slot machines were ordered off the base, he explained, after Congress enacted a law banning them from interstate commerce.

Gen. Gates said the money received from the shows probably will go to the Airmen's Club — a club set up strictly for GIs at the field. It is comparable to the officers' clubs in military posts, offering various forms of recreation.

There are 10,000 men at the base, including 6,000 GIs. Monthly dues of $1 are paid by each member of the club which Gates said he organized himself a year ago.

"We borrowed money to set the club up," he added. "Then we had to get rid of the slot machines, so something had to be done to keep the club up."

State Demo Committee Meets And Checks Responsibilities

AUSTIN — (AP) — The state Democratic Executive Committee held a get-acquainted meeting here Tuesday with 37 of the 64 members present. It was their first meeting since they were named at the state Democratic convention in Mineral Wells last fall.

John C. Calhoun of Corsicana, retiring chairman, reported: "The count is about in good shape as it ever was. We lost one in Dallas County but gained one in the Panhandle."

He was referring to the Democrats' victory in a Panhandle congressional race and loss in a Dallas County state representative election.

Calhoun turned over an "imaginary" gavel to J. E. Wheat of Woodville, the new chairman.

Old friends of Calhoun and old members of the committee presented Calhoun and his wife a heavily decorated sterling silver water pitcher.

Rep. Bill Stump of Georgetown presented a summary of what the citizens commission on election laws has recommended.

Proposals included voting by check mark rather than scratching the ballot, a heavy penalty for destroying ballots ahead of law, and authority for the secretary of state to send for election returns if the county judge fails to report them on time. Wright Morrow of Houston, national Democratic committeeman from Texas, told the group that "we are responsible as members of the Democratic Party for the leadership of the world."

Gov. Allan Shivers spoke to the group briefly, telling them: "Both you and I have a deep obligation to the people of Texas to make democracy work and to make the Democratic Party work."

The committee adopted resolutions regretting the deaths of the late Bascom Gist of Tyler and Col. Myron C. Blalock of Marshall.

Gist, a member of the state Democratic Executive Committee from 1946-1950, was described as "a distinguished lawyer, true patriot, a Christian gentleman, a Texan and an American worthy of emulation."

Morrow spoke briefly in praise of Blalock, a former chairman of the state Democratic Committee and a former national committeeman from Texas, as one held in high esteem by the national committee.

JUST FOR CHILDREN is this new Toronto hospital. Everything for the comfort of youthful patients is included in the structure.

Largest Children's Hospital Has A Stroller Parking Lot

By JAMES MONTAGNES, NEA Special Correspondent
TORONTO — (NEA) — The world's largest hospital just for children — "where no child knocks in vain" — is ready to open the doors of its new $12,500,000 building for its first new patients.

The 14-story building was designed like a Lilliputian city at new headquarters for the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, whose patients have come from all over the world since it began 75 years ago.

There is even an indoor parking lot — with attendant — for baby carriages for the younger patients who arrive on wheels. About the only facility not on a junior level are the light switches. They have been deliberately put at a higher than usual level so juvenile hands can't play with them.

The whole ground floor of the building is devoted to clinics, since the hospital has the largest out-patient clientele of any hospital for children. In the crowded old building the new structure replaces 70,000 out-patients were treated last year.

Much of the equipment in the new hospital was designed especially by the staff. A portable ambulance for prematurely born babies contains a compartment for hot water which is warmed up as soon as physician or nurse phones that the ambulance is needed. The ambulance has a little crib and blankets, a thermometer to tell the heat of the box, and a screened ventilating outlet so the baby can breathe as soon as it is placed in the box and the lid has been closed.

The hospital has its own bathing pool with a hydraulic elevator to allow paralyzed children to receive therapeutic treatments, and another arm-high pool for exercise of paralyzed arms.

In the infant wards and infectious disease wards there are ultra violet ray light barriers to ensure full protection for the children.

There are special soundproof rooms for treatment of the deaf. And there are playrooms for the convalescents. Baths are on pedestals to enable the nurses to better help the young patients, and toilets and washbasins for pre-school age patients are made in Lilliputian size and at the right height for their use. There is even a toy shop.

Numbers Give GIs Worries

By HAL BOYLE
WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN KOREA — (AP) — The war in Korea has boiled down again to the same old military problem: There aren't enough doughboys to hold the hills.

The unusual sound effects of the massive Chinese force — its bugle calls, blowing whistles and clashing cymbals — have created no hysteria in the American battle-line. It is the number of rifles the Chinese can concentrate at will that disturbs frontline officers.

"As it is now, they can send men in faster than we can kill them," said a major. "We run out of small arms ammunition shooting them down."

"But if we could put about 80 divisions in a line across this country — 50 divisions of the same strength we used in Europe in the last world war — we could then kill them faster than they could reorganize and bring fresh units against us."

"And we could hold that line until hell froze over, even if they attacked us with five million men."

FOX HUNT—Leaving the town of Elham, Kent, Eng., behind, a fox-children-only meet is staged by the East Kent Fox Hunt. Preceded by howling hounds, the youngsters take off in pursuit of their quarry, having the thrill of a lifetime. The saddle-less horse in the center seems determined to go along even without a rider.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Filmsy Overcall Spells Danger

By OSWALD JACOBY, Written for NEA Service

Few players understand the difference between an opening bid and an overcall. It may be seen in the hand shown today.

East didn't have a great deal more for his opening bid of one spade than South had for the overcalls of two hearts. However, it is much safer to make a weak opening bid than a weak overcall.

How often do you get caught badly when you have opened the bidding with a rock-bottom minimum bid? Very seldom, because it is very difficult for the opponents to close the jaws of the trap on you. If one of them doubles, the other usually bids; and you're out of the trap. If they don't double, your loss is trifling.

An overcall is more easily punished. One opponent has already announced strength by means of an opening bid. The other opponent can rely on that strength when he doubles the overcall.

South had a good chance to learn all these basic facts when he played the hand. West opened the seven of spades, and East won a finesse with the king of diamonds, forcing out South's ace.

South next led a club, West winning with the king. West led a spade to his partner's ace, and East then cashed the queen and jack of diamonds. East led a third spade, for his partner to ruff, and West then cashed the ace of clubs.

By this time, South's hand had been stripped to his five trumps. He had already lost seven tricks and was bound to lose two more tricks to West's trumps.

It cost South 1100 points to discover that an overcall is a dangerous bid to make on a filmsy hand.

Rep. Gray Wants Warnings Printed On Liquor Bottles

AUSTIN — (AP) — Rep. J. F. Gray wants it printed on all liquor, beer and wine bottles that alcohol is dangerous and may be habit forming.

He introduced a bill to require these words printed on all bottles or containers:

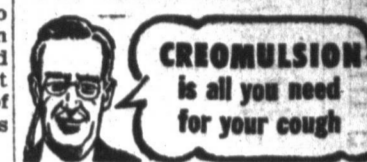

"Warning: Do not overindulge alcohol may be habit forming."

"Danger: Do not drink and drive — the life you take may be your own."

It would also require the same warnings be used in all alcohol advertising—written or spoken.

Failure to comply would mean a fine of $100 to $500.

'NEARER MY GOD TO THEE' A Dying Actress Reads The Bible

In 1887 a tall, beautiful woman with regular features, walked off the London stage, broken in health. When she was five years old her mother had died of tuberculosis. Her only sister had contracted the disease and now Sara Flower Adams had played her last role as "Lady Macbeth."

Partially regaining her health, Mrs. Adams turned to writing verse, dramatic poems and hymns, drawing themes for the latter from the Bible. In 1840, when she was 35 years old, the actress was reading the book of Genesis when she came across the story of Jacob at Bethel. Thus was born the theme for what has been called the greatest hymn ever written by a woman. It was among thirteen from her pen to appear in print the following year.

While nursing her sister, Eliza, Mrs. Adams broke completely. She lingered two years after her sister died in 1848.

On September 19, 1901, every city in America paused in silent prayer for five minutes... and to sing the assassinated William McKinley's favorite hymn. He had whispered its title as a dying prayer.

"Nearer, My God to Thee" has rarely been sung since the sinking of the luxury liner Titanic, in April, 1912, without associating it with that marine disaster. As the few life boats pulled away with their cargo of 600, all hope was lost for those left on deck. The ship's band went down playing a composition by Lowell Mason, the dean of hymn-tune writers, as 1,500 helpless souls sang the words of a dying actress who had read the Bible and, like Jacob at Bethel, had a vision of being drawn...

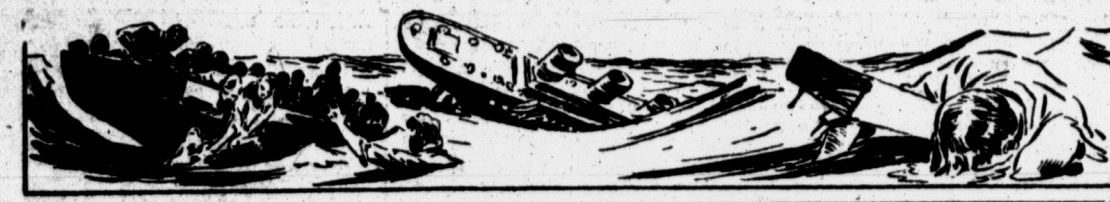

Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee;
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me;
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Though like the wanderer,
The sun gone down,
Darkness be over me,
My rest a stone;
Yet in my dreams I'd be
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

There let the way appear,
Steps unto heaven;
All that Thou sendest me,
In mercy given;
Angels to beckon me,
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Then, with my waking thoughts
Bright with Thy praise,
Out of my stony griefs
Bethel I'll raise;
So by my words to Thee,
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Or, if on joyful wing,
Cleaving the sky,
Sun, moon, and stars forgot,
Upward I fly,
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee.

Only those who have the patience to do simple things perfectly ever acquire the skill to do difficult things easily. — Schiller

Be patient, therefore, like the old broad earth... Thy silent hours shall have as great a birth. — Cornelius Matthews

First Methodist Women's Groups Meet In Members' Homes For Study

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met for continued study on "Rural Prospects" and "The Near East." Circle One met in the home of Mrs. Price Dosier. In the absence of Mrs. Ross Byars, Mrs. Dosier, vice chairman, presided. An opening prayer was given by Mrs. Orion Carter. Announcement was made of the zone meeting Tuesday, Jan. 30.

Mrs. Henry Jordan, study leader, had charge of the program. Mrs. T. B. Barron gave a summary of the life of George Washington Carver, taken from "The Man Who Asked God Questions." Mrs. R. G. Epps led the group in general discussion on preference of a pastor 30 years of age or one 30 years of age.

Mrs. R. I. Davis discussed a part of the study "Rural Prospects." Mrs. Dosier read a paper on "Believe in the Rural Church" and the meeting closed with a prayer by Mrs. H. F. Barnhart. There were 17 members present.

Circle Two met in the church parlor with 14 members and one guest, Mrs. F. W. Shotwell present. Announcements were made and a report given on the circle finances.

The group decided to send a supply box of sewing materials to a mission. Mrs. John Hodge gave the devotional which was based on Scripture read from Matthew and John. Mrs. R. W. Lane, study leader, gave the third chapter of "The Far East." She was assisted by Mrs. Carlton Nance and Mrs. W. R. Campbell.

Circle Three met in Yellowship Hall with 15 members present. Mrs. Van Sickle conducted the business meeting. Mrs. John Heesey asked for silent prayer after which she read a poem. Mrs. Heesey presented the second chapter of the study "Rural Aspects." Mrs. Van Sickle continued her review from the book "So Sure of Life."

Two playlets were given; the first centered around rural church conditions and the other on community living. Mrs. C. F. Kitto gave a paper on "Sprigly Hill Community."

Circle Four met in the home of Mrs. M. E. Cooper with 14 members present. Mrs. W. R. Ewing opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Sherman White, chairman, presided at the business session. Mrs. Luther Dickson arranged the worship table and Mrs. Joe Shelton gave "The Parable of the Vines" as the devotional.

Mrs. Ralph Thomas, program chairman, talked on "The Church in the Rural Community." She was assisted by Mrs. R. K. Elkins, who told of the Maynard-MacDougall Hospital in Nome, Alaska, and Mrs. Guilford Branson who sketched the story of Robert Thomas, minister and doctor.

The meeting closed with the group repeating the "Rural Creed." The next meeting will be in the church parlor with Mrs. Thurman Cline as hostess.

Circle Five met in the church parlor with Mrs. Don Duggan as hostess. Mrs. Joe Wilkinson conducted a short business meeting. Mrs. W. L. Boosa, study leader, gave the third chapter of the study and closed the meeting with prayer.

Cake and coffee were served to 10 members.

Circle Six met in the home of Mrs. R. W. Karr with Mrs. G. M. Walls as co-hostess. Mrs. Ken Meaders, vice chairman, presided at the meeting. Social Relations Chairman Mrs. Price Dosier, Jr., presented possible annual projects for the group. They selected the Scarritt College for their contributions.

Mrs. J. B. Veale was appointed chairman of the junior activity committee for a six-month period. The devotional was led by Mrs. R. W. Karr. The study leader, Mrs. L. M. Hicks, led the group discussion and continued study of "Near East Panorama." She was assisted by Mrs. O. L. Statton, who gave a history of Islam.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. J. E. Levech with Mrs. Bruce Parker as co-hostess.

Circle Seven met in the home of Mrs. W. D. Waters with Mrs. H. H. Boynton as co-hostess. Coffee and rolls were served to 14 members and one visitor.

Mrs. Boynton gave the devotional, "A New Beginning for a New Year." Mrs. Joe Gordon asked that all members take sewing supplies to the next meeting to be sent to a Methodist center in Austin.

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell conducted the study, "Near East Panorama" and Mrs. Ell McCauley gave a part taken from the Methodist Woman, "The Love of Cober Village."

The next meeting, Feb. 7, will be with Mrs. M. K. Griffith, 1218 Mary Ellen. Mrs. H. W. Goodner will be co-hostess.

Mrs. H. H. Wade was hostess to Circle Eight. Mrs. Henry Ellis presided over the business meeting and Mrs. Knox Kinard, study leader, continued the study of "The Near East Panorama." There were six members present.

Women's Groups Of First Baptist Hold Sessions

All nine members of the Lillie Hundley Circle of the First Baptist Church were present for a meeting in the home of Mrs. P. G. Turner. The meeting was opened with a song, and an opening prayer was offered by Mrs. H. C. Wilkey. The mission study, "A Century in Nigeria," was presented by Mrs. Jess Reeves. Mrs. L. H. Musgraves closed the meeting with prayer. A new member, Mrs. Dewey Johnson, was presented.

The home of Mrs. V. Dowell was meeting place for the Geneva Wilson Circle with Mrs. J. H. Tucker leading the opening prayer.

The business session was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. T. Lane. The group drew names for secret pairs. Mrs. Lane reviewed the introduction and first chapter of the new mission book. Mrs. Dowell closed the meeting.

One visitor, Mrs. George T. Adams, and six members were present.

The Roberta Cox WMC Circle met in the home of Mrs. Glenn Day for mission study. Prayer by Mrs. Sidney Largin opened the meeting, with Mrs. A. B. McPherson in charge of the business session.

He Taught Them As One With Authority

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

In Matthew 7:29, where the above words are found, it is added "and not as their scribes." The contrast is striking for the scribes were supposedly the authoritative and official teachers of religion.

Jesus, so far as we know, had no authority other than that inherent in His words and deeds. He was neither a priest, nor a Levite, nor a scribe. He had nothing corresponding to a modern diploma or credentials, and His "school" must have been almost, if not completely, unique in the annals of education.

He occasionally spoke in the synagogue, with which a school was associated in a remarkable system of Jewish education. But His teaching was given as He went about from place to place; from a boat cast out a little from the shore (Mark 4); from homes where He was entertained (Luke 7:36-48); and most of all as He sat on a hillside, surrounded by His disciples (Matthew, chapters 6-7).

The great fact of this supreme, but unofficial, teaching, depending only on the inherent authority of the truth He uttered, is impressive. The lesson which it signifies should not be lost, or minimized.

There is, of course, another side to what I have said concerning authority and official sanctions. In our complex world standards are necessary. Our schools would suffer, if anybody without some standard or qualification should be permitted to teach; we should be at the mercy of quacks, if doctors did not have to have proper credentials; and shysters would probably outnumber honest and competent lawyers, if men and women were not "called to the bar" only upon fulfilling proper studies and requirements.

All that is plain. But what is important, and sometimes forgotten, is that such authoritative and official credentials, necessary as they are, do not by any means always guarantee what they are supposed to imply. An outwardly qualified teacher may in fact be quite incompetent, and I should like to make sure that the doctor or lawyer who serves me actually possesses what his credentials assume.

I have known incompetent doctors and untrustworthy lawyers. So authority does actually rest ultimately upon something more than official status, and sometimes a teacher, a hos-

Reds Have More To Fear From War Than The West

Because of recent Communist military whittles and openly expressed Russian threats, there are some in Congress and elsewhere who are writing their heads in a 'gesture unlike Americans'.

What Is A Jew?

BY DAVID BAXTER
PART ONE
Recent columns on Anti-Semitism brought in quite a few letters pro and con on the subject. There is another angle to this business that is interesting, though, and that is—WHAT IS A JEW? It seems a little absurd to be for or against Jews or to swell alleged 'racial' issues up to zeppelin size unless we can have some mutually agreed upon definition of what a Jew is.

McLemore Ready To Invite Stalin (And You) To New York

By HENRY McLEMORE
It stands to reason that Russia will never attack us if Josef Stalin is in this country. With our lack of preparation he'd probably be one of the first ones to get it. So, as a defense measure, I have asked Stalin to visit us for as long as he cares to. The letter of invitation was sent to the Kremlin several weeks ago and I am expecting a reply any day now. Now, ours isn't the most elaborate home in New York by a long way, but we do guarantee M. Stalin several appealing features. For one thing, when he gets back to Moscow he need not send us a bread-and-butter present. We want nothing. We have learned from experience that a letter of invitation is the best way of thanking you for hospitality, have a distinct talent for selecting items which no one in the world would want. Tucked away in the attic, cellar, and storage bin, are such things as a croquet set, a silent huller with a broken hinge, a year's subscription to the New Zealand Sheepbreeder's Journal, a collection of American stamps issued since 1949, and a brace of smoked wrens. That, mind you, in payment I do all right. Jean has an wardrobe which should get a long-term engagement as a contortionist. When Stalin gets here I'll hold one a week. When the top sheets get changed is a mystery to me. I do know, however, that the top sheet in the guest room has a record mileage of 347 days.

Rail Fans Help The Little Ferdy RR Puff Into The Black After 40 Years

FERDINAND, Ind. — (NEA) — The poor but proud little Ferdinand Railroad, which has been running in the red since its maiden trip 40 years ago, has at last puffed over to the black side of the ledger. The Ferdy Flyer made its initial run of 7.38 miles from Ferdinand to Huntington on Feb. 21, 1909. Then, as now, her rolling stock consisted of locomotive, tender and one was lit combination coach and baggage car. For that auspicious event there was a banner-reefing flatcar on which rode the town's silk-hatted dignitaries, and a brass band. Half the town's citizenry had raised $90,000 to make Ferdy possible, after abandoning hope that either the Pennsylvania or the Southern would run through Ferdinand. At one time the Ferdy was part of the old Indiana Railroad, which spiderwebbed the whole state, but which is now defunct because of his competition. Big reason for the Ferdy's sudden prosperity is midwestern railroad fans. On Sundays the fans and their cameras jut from every window, in dire peril of being brushed off by scraping branches. The Ferdinand Railroad is a serious enterprise for the town of 10,000. The local flour mill, furniture factory and lumber yard depend on it to pull their products to the main line. Twenty boys and girls go to school each week-day in Huntington, coming to the Ferdy Flyer. All the milk cans stops are made twice a day. Rail fans, who are most critical, say the Ferdy's roadbed is one of the best. There is little danger of the train running amok, though, as she chuffs along at a steady ten miles an hour. The engine is a Baldwin 4-4-0, which means that, reading from bow to stern, she has four pilot wheels and four drivers. The one running now is No. 3. The first one developed a wheeze that two years sent the road into receivership, where it has been, off and on, until very recently. Engineer Schum has spent 21 of his 34 years with the company at the throttle. Director Sylvester Schreiner, former station agent, came home from World War II and was promoted to general manager. His duties include working as a conductor, baggage man and mail clerk on each of the one or two daily runs. President of the Ferdy is Charles F. Olinger, who owns about 40 percent of the stock. Schum is possibly the only engineer in the world who always faces due south when he is working. The Flyer doesn't turn around when it reaches Huntington, but backs up for the return trip with its four-man crew. Now that the Ferdy is over the hump financially, its directors are forecasting some long overdue improvements. To the citizens of Ferdinand, this is bigger news than the birth of sextuplets.

FERDY FLYER IN ACTION: After 40 years, it's better news to the people of Ferdinand, Ind., than sextuplets.

Japan's Peaceful Intentions May Be Doomed By Room

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
John Foster Dulles, on leaving Washington for Japan to negotiate a peace treaty, used an expression regarding Nippon that invited speculation. The Republican foreign affairs adviser to Secretary of State Acheson expressed confidence that the Japanese will become worthy members of the free world, "now that their militaristic ambitions have been buried." One doesn't question Japan's present good intentions. Still it certainly is given to wonder, whether, despite the best of intentions, she may again encounter circumstances which will shake her resolve. What has impelled Japan to embark on her numerous wars? To a large degree she has been spurred by the lack of sufficient arable land. Japan's present population of 83,000,000 is more than twice that of France. Her population has been increasing at the rate of about 1,661,000 per year. At that rate her 83,000,000 would be doubled in about a generation. Yet Nippon is 12 times as densely populated as America per square mile of arable land. Her population — more than half that of the United States — is jammed into an area about the size of Montana. Moreover, only about 16 percent of Japan's land is arable, for it is mountainous. It's when you reach this point that you come to the uncomfortable realization that it is such circumstances which have caused many wars of aggression. The Japanese are among the world's most resourceful and energetic people. Yet Nippon, despite her efforts, has existed on a diet meager. Potentially Japan also is one of the great industrial powers, but here again we find her lacking in the raw materials she needs for manufacture. So we could continue, but it all adds up to the question of just how deep Japan's militaristic ambitions may be buried. The answer, so far as one can see now, rests largely in Washington — America — assuming the responsibility of helping Japan make up her deficiencies, and thereby removing any urge to use force to gain more territory.

Ed Harding Is Club Speaker

Ed Harding, the famous T-shirt humorist, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Top of Texas Knife and Fork Club, which will be held in the Senior High School cafeteria, at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Jan. 29. Harding, who styles himself D. L., that is, Doctor of Laughter, is considered to be the only sure-fire humorist in the United States. His humor is said to be rich, kindly and generally slightly bucolic, although he can be as sophisticated as the next fellow when the occasion demands it. Never brazen or brash, Harding does not depend upon dirt or double-entendre to put him over, and it is said by some that one may take his favorite Aunt Agatha to hear him without fear of running into anything embarrassing. Harding's ability has made him one of the most sought-after speakers in the U. S. and, according to Hueylyn Laycock, secretary, the local club considers it most fortunate in having him as a guest speaker. Dinner tickets may be purchased by members at Clyde's Pharmacy. Deadline for tickets is Saturday. The board of directors have voted this meeting as guest night and members may invite as many guests as they care to. Three new directors, who will serve three-year terms, will be elected at the meeting, Laycock said.
