Polish Family Knows Thanksgiving's Import

By BUD ANDERSON
Today, one family in Pampa will sit down to a plain meal, bow their heads in prayer, and thank their God for the blessing that brought them to America and freedom.
They will thank their God that they no longer must fear as one army after another marches across their land; they can give thanks for rest and peace of mind, the home that is theirs and for a new beginning in a new land.
Iwan, Efrosyna and Helen

Mohylka have been in the United States a little more than five months now and already they have friends, have made a down payment on a home here and are working on a small house on the back of their lot which will add to their income.
HAPPY
They don't have much by the American standard, but they are happy. Iwan is out of work right now, but he has enough to tide him over for awhile. Too the Wheeler group that brought him and his family to the Texas Panhandle is watching over them and helping them along.

Their home, before World War II, was in Poland. When Hitler's army marched through their homeland, Iwan and his family were sent to Germany, where he was a laborer. He worked as a farmer under the Nazi regime.
"We didn't have any money and very little food," Iwan said. Then the American army came and the Mohylkas were moved to Leipsig which was then in the American zone.
When the partition of Germany took place following the war, the Mohylkas found themselves under Russian dominance and once more packed their belongings and moved again into the American zone.
Iwan wanted to bring his family to America, and when (See THANKSGIVING, (Page 2))

DISPLACED FAMILY GIVES THANKS — Iwan Mohylka, center, his daughter, Helen, right, and wife Efrosyna, give thanks for a chance to start in a new land. They were driven from their home in Poland in 1944 and have been moving ever since. They have seen life under the Germans and the Russians. Now they are in a new land in a new home and can hope for peace, rest and a new start. (News Photo)

Barkleys On Surprise Visit To Japan

TOKYO — (AP) — Vice President Alben Barkley arrived by plane today on a surprise visit to Japan.
His plane touched down at nearby Haneda airport at 7:55 a. m. (4:55 p. m. Wednesday, CST.)
On hand to greet him were Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme United Nations commander, Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida of Japan, Ambassador William Sebald and other dignitaries.
Barkley, accompanied by his wife, arrived in a special constabulary plane of the military air transport service. There was an honor guard of air police.
"This trip is not remotely connected with politics," Barkley told reporters at the airport.
"I want to get all the information I can about Korea and the whole situation over there and to contact as many troops as possible."
The vice president said Mrs. Barkley will accompany him on a trip to Korea, but will stay only a short time. He expects to be in Korea for several days and in the Far East two or three weeks.
"This is the first time I have been west of San Francisco," Barkley said. "I had really planned to make a longer trip, on to the Near East and the Middle East, but the late adjournment of Congress changed my plans."

Asiatic War Wives Come To U.S.

TOKYO — (AP) — Eleven shy and excited Asiatic war wives left last night for strange new homes in the United States with the American soldiers they married in war-torn Korea.

Ten are Korean Nationals. The other is Chinese, born in Peiping but a resident of Seoul since 1946.
Korean-American babies accompanied three.
The 11 families left on a military air transport plane for a 36-hour flight via Honolulu to San Francisco.
The wives and their husbands had spent 12 awesome hours in this bustling city. They came from Korea by boat and train.
In Korea the wives left war, hardship and bitter memories. Some had been caught behind Communist lines in the war. One was jailed for a time as a spy.
The parents of one were killed in the fighting. The parents of another and the father of still another are missing.
Today the wives were shyly hopeful of the future. They were neatly dressed in new tailored suits and blouses.
Wha Ok Brychel, wife of Sgt. Adam C. Brychel of Chicago, voiced their common view.
"I want very much to see the big stores, the movie theaters, all the cars and the big hotels my husband has told me about.
"But most of all, I am very anxious to meet my husband's family and I am praying that they will like me."

Air Force Chief Warns U. S. Of Expanding Soviet Power

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The chief of the United States Air Force spelled out today the "sobering lesson" of swiftly expanding Soviet air power as revealed in Korea, where American control of the air is being "seriously challenged" by planes flown by Russian-speaking pilots.

In a remarkably detailed and frank news conference based on his recent visit to Korea, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg read a 4,000-word formal statement and answered a barrage of questions. Of the air situation there, he said there had been a significant and "even sinister change." He cited these points:
1. The Chinese Communist Air Force had deployed in North China and Manchuria about 1,500 planes, approximately one-half of which are MIG-15 Jet fighters. The MIG "in many respects can outperform our own F-86"; it has out-climbed the best U.S. fighters and performed in combat at altitudes approaching 50,000 feet.
2. The MIG can fly "at speeds in excess of the speed of sound"—761 miles per hour at sea level. "This is the first time we have tested an already large number of military aircraft capable of supersonic flight."
3. "Overnight China has become one of the major air powers of the world," Vandenberg explained that while Red China lacks industrial and technical resources she is the "direct beneficiary of another power" which possesses those resources. He was referring to Russia.
4. The Communists are trying to push their airfield building program southward toward the place where the ground armies are locked in battle. By continuing bombing effort, the USAF has managed to keep three new enemy fields of this type inoperational.
5. While the U.N. Air Force at present still retains superiority over the Communist Air Force, its activities are limited by the "ground rules." It can not get at the takeoff points of enemy fighters, destroy them in great numbers and gain actual air "supremacy" (which means the enemy becomes incapable of effective interference).
Vandenberg, obviously referring to the ban on UN attacks on Red Air bases across the Yalu River in Manchuria, spoke of the "unusual and indeed unique limitation governing the scope of the air war." He said that "under the ground rules established at the outset of the Korean war, it is impossible for us to gain air supremacy."
This brought up two questions: has the air force made a new effort to get permission to bomb the Manchurian bases? Does it want to use atomic bombs in the Korean war?
To the first question, Vandenberg said "the crossing of the Yalu river is a political decision that must be taken by the United States with its United Nations Allies."
The second question, Vandenberg said, "is a matter of military necessity. We will use atomic bombs if we are in a position to do so."

Porter Boosted For National Committeeman

DALLAS — (AP) — H. R. Cullen, Houston multimillionaire, has projected himself into the continuing fight for control of the Republican party in Texas by coming out strongly for Jack Porter of Houston for GOP national committeeman from Texas.

Cullen's stand was bought to light in Dallas in an exchange of letters with Alvin Lane, Dallas Republican leader and one-time GOP candidate for governor.
"I am 100 percent for Jack Porter and will actively support him right down the line for the national committeeman's job at the state convention next May," Cullen wrote to Lane, to spike rumors of a Cullen-Porter split.
Porter is contending for the post now held by national committeeman Henry ZZZweifel of Fort Worth, long-time stalwart of the Republican "old guard" in Texas. The split fared this fall in connection with the South Texas visit of Sen. James Duff (R-Pa) on behalf of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower for President.

Garner Has Birthday And Ignores Politics

UVALDE, Tex. — (AP) — Spry and chipper John Nance Garner came to the eve of his 83rd birthday today still not talking partisan politics but urging Texans to rewrite their 75-year-old constitution.

Garner and his long-time hunting partner, garageman Ross Brumfield, look north and shotguns to a ranch in the rugged canyon country north of here. They will celebrate his birthday tomorrow hunting deer and turkey.
He steered clear of such questions as the Eisenhower Presidential boom, holding to his rule of no quotes on politics.
Garner relaxed it enough to rap voter apathy and suggest that Texas newspapers get behind a campaign for a new constitution.
Garner, who wants to live to half his life in public affairs and half as a private citizen, was proud of his dwindling waistline. An 18-pound drop in poundage has brought his weight down to a trim 178.
He talked and acted like a man who could achieve that ambition. He went into the kitchen to provide eating-meats for the hunting trip. It was a boiled calf head.
WE WILL EAT
"At least we'll eat. I might not be back until Christmas," he told friends who dropped in to wish him happy birthday.
Brumfield helped get their guns and other hunting equipment ready.
Garner was feeling so good that he decided to go hunting after telling Brumfield a year ago he was through for life.
"I swore I wasn't ever going to hunt any more but here I go again," he said.
"What you said was you weren't going to sleep on the ground any more," his son, Tully, reminded. "Up there at the ranch you won't have to sleep out."
Garner and Brumfield sat at the oil-cloth covered table on the back porch of Garner's big home, shelling pecans and planning the hunt last night. Garner agreed to bring the food and that led to the calf-head which he classed as a fine delicacy.
COUNTY JUDGE
Garner, who started in politics as a Texas county judge, went to the state legislature and Congress. He became speaker of the House and vice-president during the Franklin D. Roosevelt term.
Garner was greatly enjoying his private life. He wore an old corduroy shirt and a wrinkled leather jacket. His watch, tied, probably will be released today.

Americans All Over Honor Turkey Day

Santa's Mailmen Are Keeping Busy

Santa's mailmen were beginning to feel the first big push of the Christmas season from Pampa as local youngsters began pouring in more letters to the North Pole via The Pampa Daily News.
By Thanksgiving eve, 10 more had sent in requests for a merry Christmas.
Here is the latest group of letters to St. Nick:
"Dear Santa:
"I want a bride doll and a lot of doll clothes for my bride doll."
"Anne Evans."
"Dear Santa:
"My name is Brenda Edwards. I live at Star Rt. 2, Pampa, Texas.
"I want a blue bicycle for Goodrich store."
"Thank you,
"Brenda Edwards."
"Dear Santa Claus:
"I have been a good boy and Wanda Fay, my little sister, has been a good girl. Would you please bring me a little red wagon and nuts and candy and please bring by little sister a rocking chair. Please don't forget to leave my mommy and daddy something and all the little boys and girls.
"With love to Santa,
"Billy George and Wanda Fay Long
"616 Lefora St."
"Dear Santa:
"I want an accordion and trap drum set, if you don't have them I'll be happy with what you can bring me."
"Please remember all the other girls and boys."
"Kim, Wheelley, age 5,
"White Deer, Texas."
"Dear Santa at the North Pole:
"I have been a good boy. I help my mother, and I pick up my old toys when I play with them. Would you please bring me boxing gloves and punching bag and farm set like they have at White's with a cow and pig and a tool set.
"I have a little sister 2 years old and in the third grade. I like to be a girl.
"Please bring me a life-size doll dressed like a boy.
"My sister and I want a train together.
"Do not forget the sick and the poor little children because I want everyone to be happy on Christmas."
"I love you Santa Claus.
"A little friend,
"Janee Franklin."
"Dear Santa Claus:
"I am a little girl almost 6 years old. I try to be good. I want a big life-sized doll dressed like a girl.
"My sister and I want a train together. I want some fruit, nuts and candy too.
"Please do not forget all the poor sick children all over the world.
"I love you Santa Claus.
"A little friend
"Jean Franklin."
"Dear Santa:
"I am a little boy four years old. I have been a very good little boy. I would like for you to bring me a wagon with side boards also a machine gun and a truck with logs on it. I hope you can bring them to me. If I don't get all of these things I will understand. For I know there are a lot of other little boys and girls for you to give things to. I hope they get what they want."
"Thanks very much
"Fluffy Wayne Quarles
"918 E. Frederic."
"Dear Santa Claus:
"I want a bicycle. I am 8 years old and I am in the third grade.
"My little sister is four years old and her name is Beverly. She wants a play ranch, skates, table and chairs. We like you so much.
"Bill and Beverly Langley,
"Box 795, Pampa, Texas"

HOPE OF PEACE

Even on the far-off Korean battlefield, many American combat troops could heap their congratulations to make the eyes of their riced Communist enemies pop out. At one frontline post, the mess sergeant prepared a menu ranging from stuffed celery hearts, shrimp and shrimp cocktail to hot nutmeg pie.
HOPE OF PEACE
And there was hope, too, that the guns might soon fall silent as American officers expressed cautious optimism for a cease-fire in the bitter fighting that began almost 17 months ago.
The latest casualty list, a 700-named list from the Pentagon yesterday, showed just over 100,000 Americans killed, wounded or missing in action.
At Key West, President and Mrs. Truman planned to observe the day with a small family dinner. The President resumed his Florida vacation after a quick round-trip flight to make a public speech in Washington.
In forty-one proclamations for the day of Thanksgiving, Mr. Truman had called upon his fellow Americans to "pause in their autumn labors and give thanks to Almighty God."
Open-air football fans and steady-at-home TV viewers had a stay-at-home menu of games today and over the weekend as the gridiron season entered the homestretch amid the usual controversy over post-season bowl games.
COLD WEATHER
The weather bureau reported the coldest weather ever recorded so early in the season in the East and Southeast, but said it should warm up for Thanksgiving day in the eastern half of the country. Snow was forecast for some western areas.

Texas Too

By the Associated Press
Texans Thursday join the rest of the nation in observing Thanksgiving and the program includes lots of turkey dinners, 20 high school football games and one college game.
It will be the last Thanksgiving which the Lone Star State will observe on any day except the last Thursday in November.
The state legislature at the last session passed a law that after this year the last Thursday in the month will be Thanksgiving. By joint Congressional resolution the national observance of Thanksgiving is set for the fourth Thursday in November.
GAME MISSING
One important Turkey Day event will be missing from the program for this Thanksgiving—the traditional Texas University of Texas-Texas A&M football game. It won't be played until the last Thursday, Nov. 29, this year.
The only college football game in the state Thursday will be Abilene Christian vs. Howard Payne at Brownwood. But there will be 26 high school tilts to decide three districts and 17 high school football games in the state.
Partly cloudy weather with scattered showers and mild temperatures is in store over the holiday, the U.S. Weather bureau reports.
The turkey supply in meat markets was reported good with prices running about the same as last year. However, the typical Thanksgiving dinner will run about five percent more than the same dinner cost in 1950, a survey by the Beaumont Enterprise shows. A meal that cost $10 last year will be $10.50 this year, the newspaper said.
The traditional menu will be served to thousands of men in military camps Thursday. Fort Hood in Central Texas is preparing ten tons of turkey and Sheppard Air Force base at Wichita Falls will roast 13 tons of turkey—a pound per person. The Air base is also preparing 7500 pounds of ham, 12,000 pounds of potatoes and 750 gallons of ice cream to round out the meal.
The governor of Texas in all probability will eat turkey Thursday rather than venison.
Gov. Allan Shivers from Marfa reported Wednesday to his precinct in Austin that he hadn't bagged a deer on his current hunting trip and that he was planning to head homeward. The governor and his family will spend a "family" his family will spend a land.

House Probe Committee Clears King

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A House investigating group today cleared its chairman, Rep. King (D-Calif.), of rumors that he had intervened improperly in three Southern California tax cases.
After two days of hearings behind closed doors, Rep. Combs (D-Tex), acting chairman of the House Ways and Means subcommittee, issued a report stating:
"The subcommittee has unanimously concluded that the rumors concerning actual or attempted intervention by Rep. King in these matters are completely without foundation."
King's committee is in the midst of a sensational probe of the nation's tax collecting system.
King himself asked for an investigation of reports concerning his activities. He called them "malicious and false," and indicated that he did not feel free to direct the main inquiry until they were run to earth. He yielded the chair to Combs while what Combs called "the diversionary inquiry" was in progress.
Combs declined to disclose the source of the rumors, but he said some light would be thrown on this aspect of the case when a transcript of testimony taken at the closed hearings is released in a week or so. The committee's report continued:
"Not one scrap of evidence and, in fact, not even a single allegation, has been presented to the subcommittee in the course of these hearings that Rep. King, or persons purporting to act for him, has participated in or been connected with the disposition of these cases."
"On the contrary, the testimony of every witness has included an affirmative statement that no intervention or attempt to influence the outcome of the cases was made by Mr. King or anybody acting for him. The witnesses who have been heard have included every official of the Dept. of Justice or the Bureau of Internal Revenue who has had any significant part or responsibility in the handling of these cases."

Explosion Injures Four Houston Boys

HOUSTON — (AP) — Four Lamar high school youths were reported injured this afternoon in a "terrific" explosion that occurred in an automobile parked on the school grounds, about 3:15 p.m.
Six ambulances were called to the school and residents nearby said four left with patients.
The injured were reported as: David Dillman, Calvin Montgomery, Ted Strong, and John Cramer.
Jesse Madden, assistant principal of the school, said he understood the boys had been going to the public library and studying up on explosives.
"I was told that the boys had some sort of explosive in a container, which they had been shaking up as they left the building," Madden said.
"I heard an earth-shaking explosion."
"I ran out of the building. The four boys were lying on the ground, all around. They looked like they were pretty badly hurt."
"I can't tell you any more now—I have to get in touch with these boys' parents."
Mrs. Dorothy Tomlinson, religious education director at nearby Bethany Christian church, said:
"I heard a terrific explosion and ran outside. Windows were shattered. I saw the boys lying on the ground. They were covered with blood."

Lions Club Donates To Local Milk Fund

On hundred and twenty five dollars has been donated to the Pampa milk fund drive for underprivileged children by the local Lions club, Sherman White, club president, announced yesterday.
The money was donated by members who would have attended the weekly meeting of the club today. Because of Thanksgiving, however, no meeting will be held.

Exchange Of Coastal Lands For Old Scrip Gets Go By

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary Chapman today turned down the move by E. L. Cord and others to get oil-rich submerged coastal lands in exchange for old government land scrip.
The secretary of the interior announced he had denied all applications to acquire lands off the coast of Texas, Louisiana and California. They had been filed by Cord, former automobile manufacturer, and others.
The applicants bid for the lands with scrip the government issued many years ago. This scrip, or land certificates, allowed early settlers and Indians to choose acres of unoccupied public lands in exchange for lands which had been taken from them.
COASTAL LANDS
With the federal government claiming title to the oil-valuable coastal lands, it presented a knotty problem when Cord and the others turned up with quantities of this old scrip and called for delivery of the lands to them.
Cord said he and his associates paid more than $1,000,000 for the certificates they had collected for 4,000 acres.
"Turning down the applications, Chapman made public an opinion by his department's solicitor, Mastin White, holding that the lands applied for were outside the category of public lands and should be rejected for that reason alone."
OTHER REASONS
White added that there were other reasons, such as:
(1) The scrip could not be applied against mineral lands.
(2) That the lands applied for had never been surveyed and were not subject to being surveyed and consequently could not be selected under provisions of law limiting selection to surveyed lands or land subject to survey.
(3) Many of the areas applied for were occupied under claims for other persons engaged in producing oil from them, and thus would not have been open as "vacant, unoccupied or unappropriated" lands.

Messenger Injured In Local Collision

The condition of Gerald Latus, 505 E. Beryl, who was injured in an accident yesterday at Gray and Atchison, was reported in "good condition last night by hospital authorities.
Latus, messenger for the local Western Union office, was taken to Highland General hospital shortly after noon yesterday after the bicycle on which he was riding collided with a pick-up truck driven by Thomas Howard Lockhart, 1141 N. Starkweather.
Investigating officers said the accident happened when Lockhart made a right turn from Atchison onto Gray and was hit by Latus who was making a left turn from Gray onto Atchison. Latus was riding his vehicle on the left side of the street, police said.
An ambulance took Latus to the hospital where authorities said he had abrasions of the right thigh and left hip. No internal injuries were evident. He probably will be released today.

Opening lead—4 2

South ruffs a club, gets to dummy with the ace of hearts, and ruffs another club. West saw all this very clearly without looking at the entire hand. The only chance to set the hand was to attack the hearts.

So West led a small heart, which rode around to South's queen. Now South could afford to lay down the queen of diamonds and lead his remaining club. Nothing could stop him from getting to dummy with the ace of hearts to discard a heart on the queen of clubs. East could ruff with his good jack of diamonds, if he liked, but the contract was safe.

West should have led the king of hearts. Dummy would have to win and dummy would have to return a heart to South's queen for a club continuation. That would enable West to step up with the ace of clubs and cash the ten of hearts. East would eventually get a diamond trick to set the contract.

While you're chucking at the champion's error, tell the truth. Would you have found this defense?

Garden Dedicated To 'Lovely Lady'

NORFOLK, Va. — (AP) — A small enclosed garden has been dedicated in perpetual memory of "a lovely lady" — the mother of General Douglas MacArthur.

"She taught me a devotion to God and a love of country which have ever sustained me in many lonely and bitter moments of decision in distant and hostile lands," the general declared at dedication ceremonies here Sunday.

Referring to the marriage of his mother, the former Mary Pinckney Hardy, and his father as a union of the North and South — his mother was a Southerner, his father a Northerner — the general added:

"I am truly a mixture of the Blue and the Gray; and living symbol of that united America which largely resulted from the nobility and deep spirituality which mothers of both South and North brought to the welding of a new union between the states."

Public subscription last year raised $23,000 to tear down the old Hardy home where Mrs. MacArthur was born on the eastern branch of the Elizabeth river and to create the memorial garden on the homestead. The city of Norfolk has guaranteed perpetual maintenance of the plot, dedicated by General MacArthur in the presence of his wife, his son and several thousand other persons.

On a stone tablet in one wall is inscribed the birthday of Mary Pinckney Hardy and the date of her marriage to Lt. Arthur MacArthur, who later became a lieutenant-general.

It is noted on the same tablet that the congressional medal of honor, highest decoration awarded an American soldier, has been conferred on both her husband and her son.

Mr. One Million, Family In Midland

MIDLAND — (AP) — The millionth displaced person and his family were settling down to their new life in America Sunday.

Alexander Ranezay, his wife and their daughters, Lydia, 21, and Erika, 10, will live in a guest cottage on the William Y. Penn home. Ranezay will be gardener for Penn.

He is the millionth person resettled by the International Refugee organization. Sunday, the Czech family was met at the airport by about 200 persons, attended a buffet luncheon and toured Midland.

Can't Charge New Wife To Old One

CHICAGO — (AP) — The superior court has ruled that a divorced man can't charge up the cost of a new wife to his old one.

Dr. Willard R. Johnson, 46, a Peoria, Ill., dentist, applied to the court for a cut in alimony he is paying Mrs. Julia Johnson, 46, of Chicago, from whom he was divorced April 18.

Johnson told Judge George M. Fisher that he has $54 a week to live on after paying $100 a week alimony and $49 support money for his son, a student at Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis. Johnson has remarried since the divorce.

Argentine Army Given Shake-Up

BUENOS AIRES — (AP) — The government shook up the Argentine Army high command removing the commander in chief, Gen. Angel Solari.

The announcement came as the higher court of the armed forces disclosed jail sentences and discharges for the army for a group of officers implicated in the unsuccessful rebellion Sept. 28. Gen. Solari was decorated by President Peron shortly after suppression of that uprising.

The decree announcing the shakeup said Solari and eight other generals had requested retirement earlier this year.

Gen. Alfredo Avalos was named commander in chief, and Gen. Claudio Tessier, chief of staff.

'The Bravest Soldier I Ever Met' Pals Describe Pvt. Luther Story

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

"Private First Class Story was the bravest soldier I ever met." That was the simple claim of Corp. Charles O. Courtney of Monroe, N. C., after Pvt. Luther H. Story had helped save his life and the lives of other members of his squad during the earliest and fiercest fighting of the Korean campaign.

Story became the 13th man to win a Congressional Medal of Honor in the Korean fighting. And according to experts on bravery awards, Story's gallant action places him among the top ranking of all-time great U. S. heroes.

At 17, Story enlisted in the Army from his home town of Americus, Ga., in 1948. After service in Guam and Saipan he joined the occupation forces in Japan. When Korea was invaded by the Reds he was as green and as unprepared for combat as the rest of his outfit, which had been rushed from Japan to help stem the advance of the Communist aggressors.

But by Sept. 1, 1950, after having been pushed back to the Nakdong River with the rest of the UN troops, Story was a lean, hardened, combatwise infantryman who knew well the ways of the foe.

He also had a reputation as "a guy with plenty of guts," although before the fighting began he was considered a pretty ordinary kind of soldier. On this day, however, he proved his courage as few men in military history have been able to prove it.

He had led his weapons squad to a rocky ridge overlooking the Nakdong River. The enemy began charging the position, trying desperately to keep Story's men from digging in, and in the first rush, his machine gunner was wounded.

Grabbing the gun from the bleeding man Story stood up and poured devastating fire into the charging North Koreans. In a few moments more than 100 of the enemy lay scattered on the hillside. The charge was broken. Later that day, moving to a new position he had been ordered to take, Story spotted an enemy truck loaded with troops and having an ammunition trailer coming down the road. He told his men to find cover, but Story crouched in a ditch until the truck came abreast of him.

Then he stepped boldly onto the road and calmly began lobbing grenades into the vehicle. It slowed and a furious volley of shots aimed at him rang out. When he had pitched all his grenades, the ammunition trailer was still intact. A few shots were still coming from the truck. Story quickly ducked into the brush, found his men, got another armful of grenades, and proceeded to finish the job.

The noise drew other Red units to the scene. Story was forced to lead his men back to another unit from his outfit and together they tried to advance through a rice field. Corp. Courtney describes the ensuing action: "While moving through a rice paddy they began a Banzai attack on us, but it didn't last long because we shot hell out of it. But there was a machine gun in front of us which began taking a real toll of the men."

"I found Story and asked him about pulling out. He told me that if we wanted to leave we could, but that he was staying. He said he would cover for us." Pvt. Story was wounded himself, but ignoring it he kept up a steady firing from all weapons he carried. As Courtney was a moving back, aiding some wounded, the enemy made a fourth charge. Alone, Story fought off the attack. It gave the rest time to get to safety.

Boy Bitten By Fox Begins Treatments

GIDDINGS, Tex. — (AP) Eleven-year-old Tommy Stevenson, who grabbed and held a rabid fox while his mother and grandmother killed it with an ice pick, has begun treatment to prevent rabies.

The Giddings youth saw the fox in the front yard of his grandmother's home at Lovelady, Houston county, where the Stevenson family was visiting.

Fearful that the fox might attack his brother, who was playing in the yard, Tommy ran outside. The fox turned on him.

Tommy grabbed and held on until the two women, Mrs. Wade Stevenson and Mrs. Lilly Sanders, killed the fox.

The boy was scratched but not bitten.

Mundt Urges Party Lines Be Disregarded In Balloting

Democrats and Republicans may not be voting for either one of those parties in the next few years if the people "get behind a principle and push it," Sen. Karl Mundt (R-SD) told a Pampa Daily News reporter Tuesday night in an interview following his talk to the Pampa Knife and Fork club.

"This situation would come about by his proposed coalition of political forces of Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans."

He said committee chairmanships would not be sacrificed by those conservatives who supported the winning candidate for president on a coalition backing.

Party lines would be cut clean across the board, forcing the Trumanites to gather in one group and those favoring States Rights in the other. This would eventually result in two parties.

"Right now we have four parties, none of them getting anywhere," he said, "they are the Southern Democrats, the Truman Democrats, conservative Republicans and radical Republicans."

Sen. Mundt would put the Republican and Democratic conservatives in one camp and the pro-Socialists in another.

"Sen. Byrd has a two-point program to put over next year," he added — "one, restoration of the two-thirds rule at the Democratic National convention, and adoption of a conservative presidential platform."

Mundt said a strong possibility exists that a Texan could be elected President by throwing the presidential election to the House of Representatives. "If each of crowded conditions in the American zone forced American authorities to seek out those displaced families who would like to be transported to other countries, Iwan put in his bid for America.

ACCEPTED
He was accepted. Once more the family packed. They arrived in New York last summer and were brought to the Panhandle by the Wheeler Methodists. The group is to see that the family gets a start in a new life.

They were given clothing, household goods and Iwan was given work in Wheeler. He did odd jobs around town, worked in the cotton field and in the peach orchard.

Then he had a chance to go to work for Celanese so he was moved to Pampa by a Wheeler firm and worked in the construction of the new plant until a shortage of building materials forced a layoff which included Iwan.

He has started paying on his own home on S. Sumner near the Amarillo highway, and though it may seem meager, it will be his own. Rent from the small house on the back of the lot will help make payments.

Helen, 12-year-old daughter, is doing exceptionally well in her classes at Horace Mann, according to classmates. She is at least one to two grades ahead of the class in some subjects. She has a good command of English and is going with her friends to Girl Scout meetings.

FIRST HOME
This is the first home she can remember. She was driven with her family from Poland when she was three and since then has moved before armies marching across Europe.

Iwan is a good shoemaker. He has two pairs of shoes he has made by hand and the only difference between his and a pair one would buy in local stores is the small wooden pegs used in place of nails found in American shoes. They look as if they had been made by machines in a factory. He is also a tailor.

Efrosyna, Iwan's wife, is quiet and retiring. She knows no English — she is leaving that to Iwan and Helen.

There is one other daughter still in Germany. They want to bring her and her family to America to join them. They have little hope this can be done in the near future — but they have time.

There is nothing in their life that corresponds to Thanksgiving day. The custom is purely American. They have never eaten turkey and they have only a faint idea of the story behind Thanksgiving.

Songs, Dancing Featured At Rotary Meeting

A vocal trio and dancing program were presented yesterday during the weekly meeting of the Pampa Rotary club in the Palm Room, city hall.

Misses Jan Dyer and Mona Finkelstein, 12-year-old students of Mrs. Jeanne Willingham, put on an acrobatic dance and tap dance followed by a soft shoe dance by both.

Mmes. Topsy Reynolds, Kenneth Langford, and Frank Turpin, accompanied by Miss Ann Jordan at the piano, sang three songs before the little girls took the stage.

The program was introduced by Floyd Yeager.

Prior to the program W. J. McNeill, manager of Montgomery Ward, was inducted into membership by President George Scott and Past President Fred Neslage.

Some Meat Prices Slated To Soar Soon

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government said Wednesday some types of hot dogs, bologna and other sausages might go up as much as 3 1/2 to four cents a pound after next Monday.

The Office of Price Stabilization issued an order authorizing makers of sausages containing beef to raise prices to reflect higher wholesale beef costs. It also authorized manufacturers packing sausages in sheep casings to boost their prices to offset higher costs of the casings.

OPS announced at first that the increase would run about two cents a pound for the various types of sausage, including pork sausage packed in sheep casings.

Later, in response to questions, an OPS official said the increase for sausages containing a large amount of beef might be closer to four cents for some types, instead of two cents as first announced, he said this was so.

The Fighting Harvesters Close Season Today At San Angelo

Lakeview-Spearman Play Here Today

Pampa football fans can get a look at some thrilling bi-district football this afternoon at Harvesters Park when the Lakeview Eagles and the Spearman Lynx tangle for the bi-district crown. Both are unbeaten in district play. Spearman in district 1-B and Lakeview in 2-B.

Game time is 2:30.

The game was brought to Pampa early this week after the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce succeeded in interesting both clubs in the Pampa site. Spearman selected Pampa as its home field and won the flip of a coin to bring the game here.

The members of both teams and their coaches will be feted at a banquet following the game. Spearman is coached by Mickey Clabough and John Lyter while the Eagles' coach is E. J. McNight. The Eagles operate from a split T-formation, which means that the fans will be treated to some fine razzle-dazzle ball.

The probable starting lineups for the Lynx will be, at the ends, Lester Munday, 129, and Andy Burleson, 158; John Patterson, 158, and Jimmie Rogers, 163, tackles; Frank Buzzard, 150, and Larry Reed, 172, guards; and Dan Dacus, 190, center; Roy Noller, 160, quarterback; Don Floyd, 164, and Ted Dacus, 136, halfbacks; and Buck Tucker, 180, fullback.

For the Eagles it will be Joe Marler, 145, and Gaylen Wiley, 138, ends; Terry Kirk, 170, and Larry Lewis, 203, tackles; Thallie

Guerillas Outscore Bulldogs 51-26 In 1951 Season Finale

The Pampa Guerillas came out on top of a whopping 51-26 score this afternoon in their final game of the 1951 football season when they outplayed the Plainview Bulldog "B" squad this afternoon here at Harvesters Park.

The Guerillas were helped by the addition of three men from the Reaper squad, including Harold "Greaser" Lewis, James Hawkins and Bill Culppepper. Lewis made three of the Guerillas' eight touchdowns.

Darrell Bozarth made the first touchdown on a pass, then Lewis came through with the next two, making the score 19-0 at the end of the first quarter, when one conversion was added.

During the second quarter, the Guerillas bounced back with four more touchdowns. First one was made by Jimmy Keel, the second by Richard Radcliff and the next two by J. T. Lamberson. A conversion by Cartwright

Lindley, 148, and G. D. Hall 169, guards; Joe Booth, 158, center; Ronnie Gowdy, 140, William Verdon, 160, J. W. Lindley, 151, and Gerald Payne, 155, in the backfield.

NOBLITT-COFFEY'S FOOTBALL FORECASTS

By Pitts Smith

TENNESSEE AT KENTUCKY — There'll be thunder over Lexington as these bitter rivals clash in the top game of the day. It should be a thriller down to the wire between Kentucky's passing wizard Babe Parilli and the Volunteers' equally brilliant triple-gear Hank Lauricella. The Wildcats will still be looking for a victory over a Neyland coached team come Saturday night.

RICE AT TEXAS CHRISTIAN — All the chips are riding on this clutch battle. It'll be taps for the loser insofar as the conference crown is concerned. They are now deadlocked for the lead with three and one records. Since comparative scores mean nothing out Texas way, the home team and more experienced Frogs rate a weak nod over the high-flying Rice Owls.

By WARREN HASSE

Pampa News Sports Editor SAN ANGELO — The day that looked a long way off in August — the end of the 1951 football season for the Harvesters — has arrived faster than anticipated, and this afternoon the Fighting Harvesters will conclude their successful campaign here at Bobcat Stadium.

The San Angelo Bobcats, the Harvesters' foe in this curtain-closer, will also be striving to end the year on a successful note. It has been a dismal season for the Cats, one in which they have been victorious but only one time, that in their second game of the season against Big Spring.

This afternoon's game will see the end of schoolboy careers for 21 seniors, leaving a huge building job in store for the Pampa coaches next year. The starting lineup Coach Tom Tipka will go along with is unknown. He may want to start his many seniors and give them a chance to run in their final game. Or he may want to start his youngsters.

REVISSED LINEUP — One thing is for certain — the lineup is going to be revised at least in an effort to give some of the seniors who haven't scored a point this year a chance to do just that. Charles Ely, husky 171-pound guard, will see some action at fullback. He played the post very successfully throughout junior high school and on the line. He shifted to the line at starting at 2:15.

Ed Dudley, sophomore quarterback, has been running the club during workouts, and has looked brilliant. He will undoubtedly get a lot of calls for that post today, and his running hard and shifty. And when he has looked best, has been on option plays, similar to split-T.

Coach Pete Sikes of the Bobcats has utmost respect for the Harvesters after seeing them against Amarillo and Borger. Especially high was his praise for quarterback DeWey Cudney, whom he called "as good a high school quarterback as I have seen."

Two-Mile Mark Should Be Reached Today By Green-Gold

The Harvesters need to rack up an additional 281 yards, through passing, rushing and opponent's penalties today to reach the two-mile mark in total offense. To date, they have made a total of 272 yards through these three methods.

Leading the offensive individually is halfback Billy Davis, who is trailing Cleyburne Bybee, the district leader, by only 252 yards and Lubbock's great James Sides by 203. Both are finished for the season in the district. Sides' Westerners have completed their district schedule and Bybee is reportedly done for the year after suffering a shoulder separation in the Pampa game. Davis also needs but 55 yards to reach the 1000 yard total rushing for the season. He is carrying a 7.1 average going into the game today.

Another great halfback, shifty Darrell Wilson, has blasted 656 yards on the ground for an average of 6.8 per try.

Davis has one other goal he can reach today. He needs four touchdowns, or three touchdowns and three extra points to pass Sides in individual scoring in the district. The complete team statistics are as follows:

Pampa	Opponents
167 First Downs	110
2372 Net Yds. Rushing	1156
575 Net Yds. Passing	752
94 Passes Attempted	157

Wildcats Tackle Dimmitt In Bi-District At Canyon Today

Canadian's brilliant Wildcats, unbeaten in two straight years of district play and loser only one time in the two full years, will try and make the first move to the elusive bi-district crown today.

Their only loss in two years came last season in bi-district play when they played Happy to a 6-6 tie only to lose on penalties.

In their 1950 campaign they scored nine wins, totalling 236 points to their opponents' 50. This year they have racked up 281 to 97 for their ten foes.

Their foe this afternoon at Canyon, where the game will start at 2:30, will be Dimmitt, also undefeated this season. The clash is rated as one of the top games of the schoolboy weekend.

Canadian will be sparked by its husky backfield ace, 220-pound Tommy Schaefer, closing out a brilliant high school career.

Other seniors on the squad who will be trying to prolong their high school careers by turning out into your saucer and fan it with your hat.

Coaches of the Wildcats are Dee Henry, Mose Damron, and George Austie.

The Cats this season beat the Amarillo Yarnigans, 7-6; Spearman, 13-7; Memphis, 25-12; Parryville, 43-6; McLean, 56-7; Panhandle, 19-12; White Deer, 32-13; Clarendon, 31-7; Letors, 19-7 and Wheeler, 31-21.

Dimmitt's record shows wins over Silverton, 19-0; Hale Center, 54-0; Lockney, 20-19; Sundown, 67-6; Spring Lake, 46-6; Amherst, 21-11; Thalia, 31-13; Price College, 55-0; and Olton, 23-6.

The winner of this game will play the winner of the Denver City-Abernathy game being played at Lubbock for the 3-A, 4-A bi-district championship.

If your coffee is too hot, we should remind you it is not polite table manners to blow into the cup. Instead, pour the coffee out into your saucer and fan it with your hat.

Kentucky Finds New Riches In Football

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor
LEXINGTON, Ky. — (NEA) — Kentucky is a land of fast horses and beautiful women. Add football to the speed department.

Dr. Frank L. McVey, strictly academic, retired in 1941 after having been president of the University of Kentucky for 20-odd years. Curiously old-fashioned, McVey believed that the Autumn assault and battery should be treated like any other extra-curricular activity, say the Glee Club.

The result was that while the University of Kentucky was a member in good standing of the Swift Southeastern Conference, it really played an entirely different and much slower league.

Meanwhile, Baron Adolph Rupp had come from Kansas bringing with him the finest college basketball in the country. The shooting Wildcats won the National Collegiate Athletic Association and National Invitation Tournaments and something like 12 straight conference titles.

This gave Kentucky alumni and friends the football urge. Dr. Herman L. Donovan, the new president, came from Eastern State Teachers of Richmond, Ky. He had been a classmate of Guy Huguélet, president of Kentucky's Board of Trustees.

BASKETBALL
Basketball taught Kentucky that it pays to advertise, something Huguélet knew in the first place. A basketball coliseum, across the street from Stoll Field, accommodating 12,000 and costing more than $4,000,000, was completed in May, 1950.

Losing football was not regarded by Huguélet as morale building. He had a warm ally in Donovan. Both believed that Kentucky was richly entitled to a football team measuring up to its size and position in the scholastic scheme.

With Huguélet kicking in $10,000, a fund-raising campaign in the winter of 1945 grossed more than $100,000. Paul Bryant, who was the other end with the fabled Don Hutson at Alabama in 1950-51, was named head coach. Kentucky was in high-pressure football with both feet.

Irish End Is Valuable Man

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Van Pennington, Irish end, completed the regular season with a total of 25 points, scored when he took two TD passes against McLeson, one against Dumas and one against Wellington.

Van's most vital score came at Perryton, when, with only 54 seconds left and the count knotted at 6-6, he slipped behind the Perryton secondary to take an end-zone pass from Jack York, reserve quarterback, to win the game and keep Shamrock in the district chase.

Van scored 38 points on six TDs and two extra points in 1950, as ace passer Harral Durnam, Irish quarterback, flipped fancy aerials to him.

Van is expected to be a dangerous man in the bi-district playoff here with Tulia. Thanks, giving afternoon. In last year's bi-district against Hereford at Pampa, Nov. 24, he snagged a pass from Durnam to gallop for a TD that covered 75 yards.

Van ran 35 after the catch. He duplicated the feat against Levelland the following week at Amarillo in the regional playoff, another 75 yards, racing 40 after the catch and bewildering the Lobo secondary.

Van broke the back of the Dumas defense in the crucial final conference battle Nov. 9 by scoring one TD and taking two others to set up the winning counter.

COACH PAUL BRYANT: He showed how the other half lives.

A booster organization called the Stac ("Cats" spelled backward) Club came into being in Lexington. It remains very much alive, and gets game movies first. Its more active members are permitted to attend practice and receive blocks of choice seats at home games.

INTEREST BUSINESSMEN
With the upsurge, more horse, cattle, and sheep breeders and farmers, Lexington business men, hotel proprietors, restaurateurs, and whatnot became interested. They finally had something to stand and cheer about besides horses and basketball. Gov. Lawrence Weatherby writes to particularly bright out-of-state prospects, extolling the virtues of the university situated in America's horse-breeding center and the largest loose-leaf tobacco market in the world.

The Dartmouth amendment to the NCAA code prohibits an institution or its coaches from bringing prospects to the campus and there working them out, but there is nothing to prevent an alumnus — synthetic or real — from extending a warm invitation.

Giving you a rough idea of how diligently the Stac Club and affiliated groups and individuals operate, Kentucky beat 62 other colleges to Steve Meilinger, remarkable sophomore end from Bethlehem, Pa., High and Fork Union Military Academy of Virginia, and that's going some.

Bear Bryant visited Meilinger at Fork Union in January, 1950, the large and light-footed pass-smatcher had his transportation and expenses paid to Lexington. There he was duly impressed by Bull Lee, the top stallion, and other fabled horses at Calumet Farm.

He signed a grant and aid form, tantamount to a football scholarship at Kentucky, which bars any other Southeastern Conference school from doing business with a player.

Returning to Bethlehem, Meilinger took the University of Pennsylvania entrance examination, which is when a Kentucky assistant coach poked his head through the door. His instructions were not to return without Meilinger.

"That suit looks a bit frayed, Stevie boy," said the assistant coach.

Meilinger quickly had a brand new one and a watch to boot. And Kentucky got itself a bright and shining new star.

LIVE GOOD
Life is pleasant for Kentucky's varsity. They reside in two old duplex apartment houses across the campus from the stadium, although a university rule confines the freshmen to dormitories. A training table for 100 is maintained in a reserved section of the cafeteria. Mrs. Edward S. Moore, proprietress of Circle M Farm, formerly the Idle Hour acres of Col. Edward Riley Bradley on the outskirts of Lexington, puts up the kids on the week-ends of home games.

Prior to World War II, a turnout of 10,000 at Stoll Field, located only four blocks from Lexington's Main Street, was a rarity, attracted only by the perennial losing duel with Tennessee.

In 12 games, at home and on the road last season, including the rousing New Orleans Sugar Bowl victory over the nation's number one ranking team, Oklahoma, Kentucky played to 407,000 paid admissions at an average of $3, or $1,221,000. Stoll Field seats 38,000.

SCHOOLBOYS
When Bryant reported in 1946, only 51 Kentucky high schools played football. He had to go out of the state for material. A total of 108 Kentucky high schools play football now.

Only two Kentucky boys were on the squad that edged Oklahoma in the New Year's Day engagement. Seven will participate this Fall.

Officially, a Kentucky football player gets no more than any other Southeastern Conference man — a free ride plus $15 a month — but it easily can be seen that there are additional advantages down here in a sports country.

Bear Bryant, who had coached at Alabama, Vanderbilt and Maryland, showed Kentuckians how the other half lives in football, and they like it.

Irish Battle Tulia At Shamrock To day

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Coach Scott McCall's Irishmen will throw all they have into the Tulia bi-district playoff here Thanksgiving afternoon in an effort to get into the regional playoffs, probably with Childress, which meets Quannah at Childress Thursday.

McCall and his assistants — Clarence Morris, end coach, and H. W. Callan, line coach — will start the crew that has won them eight of ten games and tied two very tough opponents — Wellington and Phillips.

Van Pennington, left end, is a 170-pounder tough both on offense and defense. His pass snagging accounted for the first TD against Wellington and the second against Dumas, both vital games, and at Dumas, his snagging also set up a third and winning TD. He is a senior.

GREAT LINE
Billy Harris, 235-pounder, is the left tackle. Harris is the team's largest man and can be very persistent in urging opposing backs to halt, physically. He is sometimes replaced by Billy Frank Pavlovsky, who at 165, is a tough blocker and also a mean defense man.

Eugene Collinsworth, an all-regional man in 1950, is an excellent blocker and tackler. At 175, he is one of the top linemen.

Billy York, center, has played virtually the entire 1950 and 1951 seasons, with not more than 15 minutes out altogether. He is an all-regional center, good both on offense and defense.

Mack Terry is a punt-blocking ace, good also on blocking and tackling. He blocked a punt against Phillips on the Hawk 10 to set up the first Irish TD. Against Clarendon last week he blocked a punt and recovered in the end zone for his first TD in numerous blocked punts. Terry weighs 180 at right guard.

Bobby Campbell, 158-pound right end, was the hero of the Memphis game, blocking a punt on the Memphis 31 that set up the lone Irish TD in the final three minutes, to give the Irish a 7-0 victory. Campbell, a defensive ace, is also a good pass receiver. He was a Golden Gloves boxing champion at 147 last year.

BACKFIELD
Charley Francis, quarterback, is a 135-pounder who methodically calls his plays and hands-off to his backs with calm and care. He is also an ace punter, but has hit with several TD passes.

to Van Pennington, and other passes which set up TDs. Jimmy Pennington, ace Irish left half, carried the burden of the backfield the first five weeks when Don Carlton was recovering from a wrist injury just before the Childress opener, Sept. 7. Pennington has made 559 yards in 10 games, mostly through the line. He is a pile-driving plunger, but also good as a pass receiver and end run man. He has 73 points.

Don Carlton, right half, is the sensation of the backfield, whose absence during the first five weeks slowed up the Irish. He has scored 51 points in the last five games, three TD's against Clarendon and three against Dalhart, while his 69-yard end sweep against Phillips gave the Irish a 13-6 lead that held good for the conference title.

Paul Hartwick, fullback, can be depended on to slash through the line on ducks, but his defensive work is extra good. Paul snaps opposing carriers' heads back with tough tackles.

Others likely to see action against the Hornets include Johnny Hartwick, left half, and Ronald Settle, right half; Paul Cooper, tackle.

And if they win? A chance to prove that their 6-0 victory over Childress in the opener was no fluke. For the Bobcats will probably be the regional opponent.

Classen Picks Rice, Baylor; Likes California Over Indians

By HAROLD CLASSEN
LEXINGTON, Ky. — (P) — Trying to pick football winners with one eye on the past performance charts of the various teams while the other wanders from cigar factories to colts to turkeys.

So, under a handicap, here are Saturday's victors:
Tennessee over Kentucky: a total of 13 points was scored in the last two meetings of these Dixie giants, all by Tennessee.

The Vols may not be able to shout the Wildcats for a third straight year but Tennessee has the horses to outscore Kentucky.

California over Stanford: this week's ring-tailed special. Stanford to taste defeat for the first time this year.

Michigan State over Colorado: the No. 2 team in the country smacks down the No. 2 team in the Big Seven conference.

Princeton over Dartmouth: Dick Kazmaler, Princeton's candidate for all-everything honors, says farewell to the home folks.

Maryland over West Virginia: it is as simple as this — Maryland defeated Washington & Lee, 54 to 14; Washington & Lee, in turn, trounced West Virginia, 34 to 0. By comparative scores it should be 38 to 14.

ROSE BOWL
Yale over Harvard: they enter the Yale Bowl with tattered records but it still is the Yale-Harvard game.

Illinois over Northwestern: the Illini conquer their jinx team and get plane tickets for the Rose Bowl game all in one rugged afternoon.

Wisconsin over Minnesota and Purdue over Indiana: Wisconsin and Purdue finish their Big Ten schedules with victories but will windup in that order behind Illinois in the conference standings.

Rice over Texas Christian and Baylor over Southern Methodist: Rice and Baylor will win to set the stage for their own climatic clash at Fort Worth with the conference title at stake on Dec. 1.

Georgia Tech over Davidson: Tech tests Darrel Crawford's arm to see if it is in shape for the game with Georgia a week later.

Skipping over the rest in a hurry:
THURSDAY
Denver over Colorado A&M, Utah over Idaho, Virginia Military over Virginia Tech, Washington & Lee over Richmond, Wichita over Detroit, Xavier over Toledo.

SATURDAY
East: Boston University over Syracuse, Columbia over Brown, Cornell over Penn, Fordham over New York University, Holy Cross over Temple, Pittsburgh over Penn State, Rutgers over Colgate. South: Alabama over Florida, Clemson over Auburn, Duke over North Carolina, Florida State over Bradley, The Citadel over East Carolina, Villanova over Louisiana State, Virginia over William & Mary, Wake Forest over South Carolina.

Middle West: Cincinnati over Miami, Notre Dame over Iowa, Ohio State over Michigan, Oklahoma over Nebraska.

Southwest: Tiarina Simmons over Arizona, Houston over Okla-ing, Texas Tech over New Mexico, Washington State over Washington, Tempe State over Wyoming.

WORLD TRADE CENTER—This is the architect's conception of the proposed $75,000,000 World Trade Center to be erected along the San Francisco waterfront opposite Market Street. Six massive structures dominated by a 30-story center tower would be on the site of the famous ferry building. The plan provides centers for the Pacific area, Pan-America, Europe, auditoriums and exposition halls as well as docks for ocean liners. There would be offices and exhibition space for importers and exporters, trade associations, foreign consulates, banks, custom brokers, transportation agencies and showrooms for domestic and foreign products.

McLemore Tells How America Should Enjoy Thanksgiving

By HENRY McLEMORE

Turkey or tummy? Hallowed tradition or pants that fit?

That's what I'm thinking about with Thanksgiving coming up tomorrow.

I am on the plump side, and doctors, insurance companies and authors of reducing books have told me that I mustn't even pass a bakery and sniff, lest I take 10 years off my life.

Tomorrow there will be turkey and dressing, soup and nuts, vegetables that run the gamut from cabbage to zucchini, and pies so rich that they are able to pay their insurance premiums for a whole year in one lump sum.

Thanksgiving Day was established by the Pilgrims, our founding fathers. It is America's own holiday — the one that belongs to us and no other nation. Thanksgiving is much older than our flag, much older than our national anthem.

I would be a much prettier and a much healthier fellow if I didn't observe it, but I believe I would be a traitor if I didn't order my double share of white meat, my drumstick, my M. T. Everest helping of mashed potatoes with giblet gravy all over it, my cranberries, my sweet potatoes with marshmallows on top, and my second and third helpings of mince and pumpkin pies.

No, I shall not flaunt tradition, even if it kills me. For me to sit over in the corner and eat a green salad for the sake of my waistline would be a crime against my country. Suppose I do leave the table looking like a blimp, at least I'll look like a patriotic blimp. For me to be on a diet on Thanksgiving Day would be reason enough for my country to pick up my passport and say that I am not a true American citizen.

I am spending today, eve of Thanksgiving Day, practicing carving a turkey. About a week ago I went downtown and bought a wooden turkey to practice on, and I'm glad I was so far-sighted. I am 41 years old, and not until this very minute have I known how to carve a turkey. I'm a master of the art now, and if any of you who are worried about carving tomorrow want to read on, I'll tell you what to do.

Step 1. Place turkey on floor of kitchen, and tell it you will stand no foolishness.

- Step 2. Cut off the pieces you like best and put them on a hot plate in the oven so that you'll be sure to get them.
- Step 3. Make large incision under left wing.
- Step 4. Make large incision under right wing.
- Step 5. Cut turkey right in half.
- Step 6. Ask everyone to come and get his favorite part.
- Step 7. Hand out new napkins and shoo the cats away from under the table.
- Step 8. Propose a toast to the United States of America, and let the toast be along these lines: "To the greatest country in the world. To the country that has the nicest people in the world. To the country that has done more for the world since the first Thanksgiving Day than any country hundreds of centuries old has done."
- Step 9. Eat everything in sight, then take a nap, and wake up rejoicing that you are an American.
- Step 10. Take bicarbonate of soda, sing the "Star-Spangled Banner," and go to bed.

Daniel Says Both Parties Should Uphold Annexation

GALVESTON — (P) — Attorney General Price Daniel says both political parties in Texas should seek candidates who would uphold the annexation treaty between Texas and the United States.

He told the Texas Editorial Assn. today in a speech given at a luncheon in Galveston. Daniel said that the annexation treaty, which was signed in 1845, is one of the "pivotal points" in the history of Texas. He said that the treaty is a "source of pride" to the people of Texas and that it is the duty of both political parties to uphold it.

Daniel said that he had received many letters from citizens who were concerned about the possibility of the treaty being repealed. He said that he had written to the President and the Congress to express his views on the matter.

He said that he believed that the treaty should be upheld by both parties, and that it should be a condition of any political campaign in Texas.

Murder in Quotes

by Julius Long

THE STORY: After my (Jimmy Malloy's) acquittal of the Charlie Berman murder, have visitors at my home. The first is Charlie's girl friend, Cleo Canales, who says she knows I didn't kill him. Then Charlie's brother Earnie, who has threatened reprisals, and a thug named Babe Tussig appear.

VII

BERNIE BERMAN did not stop until he had reached Cleo Canales. He yanked her from the chair, slapped her so hard she flew out of his grasp. He had held her by her blouse, and nearly the whole front of it tore off in his hand as she fell. She whimpered, looked appealingly up at me, then self-consciously drew her skirt down to her knees.

Berman turned to me, grinning in anticipation. I thought of telling him what Cleo had told me, that she knew I hadn't killed his brother. I didn't think it would make any difference. Earnie probably knew I hadn't. He was here with a muscle man to beat me up and mark me up so that everybody would know he had avenged his brother's murder.

Air Force Builds Toward Fleet With Electronic Eyes

WASHINGTON — (P) — The Air Force is beginning to build toward a new interceptor fleet, one in which all fighter planes instead of only a few will have electronic eyes for hunting down enemy bombers in any kind of weather, day or night.

Discussing the trend toward the "all weather" fighter force, one official commented Monday that it didn't seem to make sense to have interceptor planes which can work only in daylight and in good visual conditions.

Back of his comment was the fact that the best conditions for with radar bombs, equipped with the blanketing protection of darkness and clouds.

The move toward a complete all-weather force started some time ago, but now is being accelerated in the USAF's new aircraft procurement program. Quantities of all-weather fighters are on order to add to planes already delivered.

Revision of estimates during the last two years of Russia's strategic bombing capabilities have given urgency to an effort to provide the air defense command with a complete force of interceptors capable of operating at any time under any conditions. Russia has added large numbers of long range bombers, based on the American B-29. It has demonstrated she now has the atomic bomb.

Strategists assume that if Russian navigation and radar equipment has progressed at the pace of the Soviet bomber and jet fighter progress, Red air men would be able to make a surprise strike timed to bring the bombers in over the United States under cover of darkness and, if possible, in cloud cover.

An alert from the radar warning net, construction of which is nearing completion, therefore might be flashed at night. Whatever the flying conditions, the interceptor force would have to go into action instantly.

Arms Statement Called Misleading

WASHINGTON (P) — Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) Monday awaited an explanation from the top defense officer Johnson said put out "misleading" reports on arms shipments to Europe.

Maj. Gen. George H. Olmsted, director of the office of military assistance, told reporters last week arms deliveries to the North Atlantic Treaty organization are ahead of schedule.

Johnson said Saturday that actually shipments are lagging far behind the original program and Gen. Olmsted's statement "surprised and even shocked" him.

Johnson said the truth is that when the original schedules broke down, military assistance officials set up new schedules they knew could be met "and then blithely announced that everything was ahead of schedule."

The senator said this "type of thing" is an example of what is causing widespread suspicion among the public. He said the people are entitled to the truth "whether pleasant or unpleasant."

Johnson, chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which has been checking the whole defense program, said Olmsted's report contradicted secret data previously given his group.

He sent investigators to ask an explanation from the general.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

White Deer-Skellytown Faculty Has Dinner

WHITE DEER — (Special) Faculty members of the White Deer-Skellytown schools and their husbands and wives were entertained with a western party, Saturday in the Skellytown cafeteria.

By MRS BOB ANDIS, Public Relations Chairman. At this Thanksgiving time let us take you to a basement club room where 18 Brownies have been called to order by their president. We won't say "little" Brownies as we did when we first began to know them, because they are now in their last year of Brownie work (this year they will "fly-up" to Intermediate Scouting and three stars will shine on sleeves of Girl Scouts.)

You see, in a short period of time these girls have learned to conduct their own meeting, discuss freely their opinions on everything from refreshments to what their project will be. This particular day an election of officers was held and four girls were nominated and elected by a silent vote, each taking seriously her own duties to be responsible for the coming six weeks. Sharing their work together, these girls are growing together.

"New business" for the meeting included writing a letter to one of the girls' cousins in Korea. She had brought his picture to show the girls and it had been decided to send him pictures of their group along with a letter. In the letter, girls wished him a Happy Christmas, hoped he was warm and comfortable, told him they were having a good time writing to him (no coaching, mind you — on their own) and said they would like for him to write to them. Sometimes we forget that our children can have thoughts of war, of horrible things we wish kept from them, but they seem to feel much more of these "world affairs" than is sometimes realized.

To adjourn this meeting everyone told for what she was particularly thankful after a minute of thinking. Homes, parents, food, clothing, churches, our country and "our forefathers who came over here and fought so that we could have freedom" were given as reasons for thankfulness.

One of the leaders took her turn to tell that she was thankful to work with this group of girls who worked together so well to make such a fine troop. Another leader told them she felt it was a privilege and an honor to meet with these girls, to enjoy their friendship and as a token of her thanksgiving presented members their second pendant for their Brownie pins. At her suggestion the girls sang a singing grace "Hark to the Chimes. Come bow thy head, We thank thee Lord for this good bread," as they formed the

The room was decorated with tales of hay, saddles, candles in wax-covered bottles. After a supper of chili, brown beans, doughnuts, and coffee, Ed Erix, John Martin, and Miss Peg Pemberton directed a series of games; and Mrs. Luke Guerin led the group in singing western songs, with Mrs. Hope Rusk as accompanist.

Other members of the arrangements committee were Mr. and Mrs. John Hanks, Mr. and Mrs. John Driskill, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Huey Laycock, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Crowder, Mr. Guerin, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Kittie Allison, and Mrs. Erix.

Next in a series of three social affairs planned for the faculty during the school year will be a Valentine party early in February, with Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. Corder as chairman.

Mrs. Mildred Hill had arranged a worship center consisting of a "horn of plenty" an open Bible, and two lighted candles before a map. She gave a devotional stressing the need of sharing with the less fortunate. Mr. Lee Harrah directed the study of Home Missions.

Hot punch and gum drop cookies were served to the following: Misses Lillian Mullins, Pool, Minnie Allen and Mmes. Roy Kilgore, Diamia Wood, W. B. Fountain, Aubrey Jones, Ray Wells, Harrah, Hil, J. M. Turner and the hostess.

History Of Jewelry, Hope Diamond Heard By Parent Education Club

Jewelry, which had its beginning in the days of the cavewoman, was the program at a meeting this week of the Parent Education club which met in the home of Mrs. John Hines.

Mrs. George Hofsess presented "The History of Jewelry," and Mrs. Bob Gordon discussed the Hope Diamond, said to be the most famous jewel ever acquired by an American.

Mrs. Hofsess introduced her subject by explaining jewelry as a collective term for jewels and the art of making them. There are two types of jewelry: one arises from a decorative elaboration of a practical object such as clasps, hairpins, brooches or combs, and the other is derived from the primitive practice of wearing teeth of wild animals for a magical purpose.

Nothing is known of the exact origin of wearing jewels, Mrs. Hofsess explained, but we do know that gold was used to make jewelry before bronze was known. "The custom in Egypt of burying jewelry with owners has helped us learn of handicraft of that age," she said.

"Excavations have revealed use of vivid blues, violets, yellows, and apple greens in simple, well-proportioned and delicate jewelry. Few branches of craftsmanship express the characteristics of a race more clearly than jewelry. "Few examples are left of the ornaments loved by the Indians. They wore bangles on wrists and ankles, and upper arms using pearls, coral, and sapphires. The Persians contributed some interesting pieces, and Chinese craftsmen have carried the art of filigree in precious metals to an unsurpassed degree of delicacy.

"The Roman Empire left behind it the form technique and decoration of jewelry which influenced all Europe. Renaissance jewelry and costumes were closely woven — sometimes a whole dress was decorated with jewels. Some 16th Century portraits show ropes of pearls worn as we wear them today.

"In the early 1900's there was a reaction against monotony in jewelry, and new designs and materials were introduced, and even up to today changes are taking place. Magazines this year tell us colored stones will replace last year's clear brilliance," Mrs. Hofsess said.

Mrs. Gordon, in presenting the story of the Hope diamond, explained it is also known as the Blue diamond because it is the largest diamond of its color ever to be found.

"It is true," she said, "that tragedy befell many of its owners, but its sinister reputation has been fostered by the owners themselves, partly from a love of melodrama and partly to discourage thieves."

Evalyn McLean was the last woman to wear the Hope diamond, and she was reportedly especially fond of continuing the legend, although she herself did not encounter much bad luck in her entire life.

Mrs. Gordon traced the Hope diamond and explained a diamond trader, Jean Tavernier, smuggled it into his native France in 1642 after buying it from an East Indian who is believed to have stolen it from an idol. "The Frenchman sold it to Louis XIV," Mrs. Gordon said, "and in the ensuing years, legends say, the diamond was worn by Marie Antoinette and the Princess de Lamballe who both met death at the guillotine. "The diamond was stolen and later turned up in England. It was identified by its distinctive color. In 1830 it was purchased by Mr. Hope and after his grandson inherited it, he gave it to an American vaudeville star. The Hope family recovered the diamond and later Abdul Hamid, Sultan of Turkey, became the diamond's owner. He was to sell it in Paris, but his agent reportedly pulled an elaborate swindle, going so far as to shoot himself to support his alibi of being robbed of the diamond. "A few years later, Mrs. McLean's husband bought the diamond. After Mrs. McLean's death two years ago, her collection of 72 gems, including the fabulous 100-carat Star of the East diamond, was offered for sale. The Hope diamond is now owned by Harry Winston," Mrs. Gordon said.

Members attending the meeting were Mmes. F. W. Clark, Charles Cook, Robert Curry, Clinton Evas, Gene Fatheree, Gordon Hines, Hofsess, Homer Johnson, Joe Key, Julian Key, Myron Marx, Jr., Albert Reynolds, Rex Rose, Tom Rose and J. B. Veale.

Calvary Baptist WMU Has Study Of 'Pilgrimage To Spanish America'

The Calvary Baptist WMU met at the church Tuesday for study of the mission book, "Pilgrimage to Spanish America," and luncheon which carried out a Mexican theme.

The menu included enchiladas, chili, Spanish rice and other Mexican foods.

Mrs. L. P. Fort opened the meeting with a devotion from Psalms in connection with study of the mission book, which was written by Everett Gill, Jr.

Following the luncheon, a number of Mexican songs were introduced with Mrs. Truett Stovall, dressed as a Mexican girl, accompanying.

Mrs. Fort led the study of the mission book. Those attending were Mrs. Stovall, Fort, Henry Stephens, S. A. Payne, Wes Langham, Annie Ruddick, C. W. McGahan, C. H. Spencer, L. A. Lavery, H. W. ## Twentieth Century Allegro Discusses Brazil, Hawaii

Twentieth Century Allegro, "The city of Sao Paulo with its towering skyline, swollen budget, and teeming masses proclaim it metropolitan and even cosmopolitan," Mrs. Thomas said. So does its productive mechanisms, its enterprises and its executives. Agriculture is the foundation of Sao Paulo's economy."

After the discussion of Brazil, Mrs. Brock gave the paper on the Hawaiian Islands prepared by Mrs. Reid. The Territory of Hawaii is comprised of a chain of nine inhabited islands extending for about 400 miles in the Pacific Ocean. All the islands are of volcanic origin. Hawaii is noted for its rich and varied scenery — wide valleys, green with the tree ferns; deep gorges, cut by torrents; densely wooded mountain sides and level coast lands covered with coconut palms and breadfruit trees. A fertile soil, tropical climate and a rainfall averaging 50 inches annually have produced luxuriant vegetation.

A brief business meeting followed the program. Mrs. Charles Hickman, Jr., then introduced Mrs. Raymond Harrah who gave a report on the 54th Annual State convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Members present were Mmes. Clifford Braly, Betty Brock, George Cree, Jr., Bill Davis, H. Price Dosier, Jr., J. W. Garman III, John Garman, H. C. Grady, Jr., J. W. Graham, Jr., Charles Hickman, Jr., Robert Karr, James Leverich, Jerry Thomas, G. M. Wallis, Bill Waters and M. H. Wyatt.

Mrs. Jerry Thomas discussed the state and city of Sao Paulo, Brazil. Bustling, booming, boastful Sao Paulo, the most progressive and prosperous of the states of Brazil, is also Brazil's primary coffee area. It is currently maximizing a long history of booms, based successively on Indian slaves, gold, diamonds, livestock, coffee and cotton.

Massacres Demand Action By America

All Americans must have had the same feeling of revulsion and horror that swept over the nation with the report that some 2500 United States prisoners of war were murdered in cold blood by the Communists in Korea.

Probably the greatest atrocity committed against our nation since its founding, it negates the principles upon which our republic was built—the value of the individual and his human rights.

In less than a year and a half of "police action" in Korea, the enemy has massacred more than 5500 captured and defenseless troops—more Americans than died in the American revolutions that enabled us to win our freedom from tyranny. And these murdered men represent only a small portion of the total casualties suffered by American forces in Korea—a figure that is now past 100,000.

With little hope that the fighting will end or that American troops will be allowed to win the fight.

To the individual fighting for something, he knows not what, in Korea, it probably makes little difference whether he is killed in action or murdered in a massacre. In any event another human life has been snuffed out—a life that could have added to the betterment of all the world had he been permitted to go his own way, producing for the world and living a useful and satisfactory life.

Some things are more precious than life itself, has been demonstrated ever and over again by Americans who have willingly given their lives in the cause of freedom. But these martyred dead in Korea have no such satisfaction. What they have died for is a "police action" ordered not by the representatives of the people in the Congress but by order of the President of the United States—an order that to this very moment has been given no explanation to the men who have been ordered to fight nor to the nation that they represent.

There have been repeated calls from the people to bring back our soldiers from this third World War that is being fought for no purpose other than political gain. Time and again our people have demanded that our fighting men be permitted to go out and die and not even be permitted to accomplish their missions.

The massacre of the casualties and losses—heartbreak that have resulted from President Truman's order to our armed forces to fight in Korea all cry out to responsible people to do whatever is necessary to put an end to the bloody and futile struggle.

The Doctor Says

By EDWARD F. JODRAN, M. D.

Among the most distressing and harrowing letters which are sent to me are those from the relatives of people addicted to alcohol.

Mr. C writes, for example, "Can you please tell me if there is any way to stop my brother from drinking. We have tried everything we know to do. He himself says he knows it is killing him, but he just won't quit."

An article published in one of the medical journals on this subject not long ago began as follows:

"A lawyer and his wife were watching the sun set across the Gulf of Mexico. He had had a busy practice that had gradually degenerated as his alcoholism had become more severe.

"During this interlude when he was abstaining from alcohol, his wife was feeling a sense of relief. She watched the rich warm colors of the sunset, she said 'I don't give you peaceful nights?' Almost angrily he turned to her: 'I haven't had a peaceful night since I started drinking.'"

BAXTER'S VIEWS

DAVID BAXTER

STUDY IN CONTRASTS

One of our friends wants this column to comment on Pearl Buck and her statement, "This I Believe," on an Ed. ward R. Murrow broadcast.

The author of the "Good Earth" is introduced as "Miss" Buck, although I thought she had been married. For another thing, a correspondent tells me her name is Seidenstricker. I always have a queer feeling that I'm addressing a phony when calling someone by a "professional" name when that name is simply an assumed one. Anyway, "Miss Buck's" statement of faith is nothing to brag about.

"I feel no need for any other faith than my faith in human beings. Like Confucius of old, I am so absorbed in the wonder of earth and the life upon it that I cannot think of heaven and the angels. I have enough for this life. If there is no other life, then this one has been enough to make it worth being born, myself a human being."

It is this kind of intellectual dishonesty that is corrupting the nation. If the Buck woman were a sincere Presbyterian and true to the Westminster confession, which Presbyterians are supposed to believe.

If she wants to be an agnostic or atheist, that is her business, too. But she certainly cannot be consistent and honest in passing agnosticism off as the faith of a Presbyterian missionary. In short, to be honest and consistent with Presbyterian teachings, the woman, instead of saying that her faith is in humans and that she has no need of any other faith, should rather declare herself as an agnostic or atheist.

There are no absolutes, no rules that have any exceptions, no government reasoning, then there is no sequence, no cause, no effect and nothing is logical. Then man cannot anticipate what the results will be from a certain act. Then there is no such thing as a science, pragmatology or the science of means to bring about a desired result.

And here we have a big industrialist, talking to the alumni association of a college, celebrating its 250th anniversary. No wonder we are confused when intellectuals like Dr. Ruth Alexander and the head of the United States Steel Corporation express such beliefs.

If there be no natural laws, no moral principles, then of course we have to have the government step in and manage the affairs of man on an arbitrary whimsical basis; then "might makes right"; then the end justifies the means; then we are going back to Machiavelli who contended that there are no principles or eternal laws that are absolute.

It is no wonder that Mr. Olds contends, as he did in this address, that:

"We have many fine tax supported public colleges which are controlled by State and local governmental agencies."

How can there be such a thing as "fine tax supported colleges" when they are based on covetousness and have no other basis than "might makes right." No such college can educate an individual to believe in moral principles. It can only train.

The Mr. Olds goes on to advocate another form of statism and socialism. He contends that the corporations should have the legal and moral right to support private colleges. Then he complains that some states prevent corporations from so doing. Then he says:

"That is why they have not felt free generally to finance studies in the liberal arts and humanities, even though the most difficult problems which American enterprise faces today are neither scientific nor technical, but lie chiefly in the realm of what is commonly called the liberal arts education."

Of course, if there are no absolutes, as the Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation contends, then we have to have statism to determine what to behave. But we have plenty of absolutes set forth in the Ten Commandments that are a perfect guide for human relations.

One wonders whether the Chairman of the Board of this corporation would like more power to spend the stockholders' money to select those who would do the studying and write the laws that are not absolute nor in agreement with eternal principles.

Yes, what we need is education in moral principles among those very people who pose as understanding the American way of life.

Better Jobs

"They Do Not Need To Read About Free Enterprise" It Is Claimed

One often hears the statement that good presentations of the capitalist system of the American way of life need not be read by so-called intellectuals or business men—that they already believe in free enterprise. It claimed that explanation of free enterprise or laissez-faire need not be read by someone else than the intellectuals or business men.

When I read the articles of the so-called intellectuals or college men and business men, I see that they have great need for reading and understanding a definite limited government and the American way of life.

Just the other day I read Ruth Alexander's article under the heading of "Our America." In this article trying to explain what the welfare state meant, Dr. Alexander said: "Government alone can do this, because government alone has the right to use force."

One wonders where the government obtained the right to use force, if the individual doesn't have the right to use force. Certainly, each individual has a right to use force in self-defense. We readily recognize this in our courts. A man has a right to kill another man in self-defense. And since he has the right to use force in self-defense, he can authorize the government to do something that he himself has a moral right to do. Certainly the government alone does not have the right to use force. Neither the government nor an individual has a right to initiate force, but both have the right to use force to stop somebody from initiating force.

Business Man's View: The thing that especially astonished me in this address was the statement:

"Among all our precious Constitutional Liberties, I know of none that is absolute and unlimited."

Then he goes on to say: "Freedom of speech is subject to the over-riding laws of libel and slander. Freedom of assembly, subject to the laws of trespass. Freedom of petition is limited by the laws governing lobbying."

But because a man can be sued for libel and slander does not take away from him his liberty, his natural right, to express his opinion and suffer the consequences.

I wonder if Mr. Olds doesn't believe in the liberties set forth in the Declaration of Independence, which is the spirit of the Constitution. Does the Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation contend that the statement that "All men are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights, among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness..." is not absolute and unlimited? Does he deny that the statement is absolute?

"Governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed."

If there are no absolutes, no rules that have any exceptions, no government reasoning, then there is no sequence, no cause, no effect and nothing is logical. Then man cannot anticipate what the results will be from a certain act. Then there is no such thing as a science, pragmatology or the science of means to bring about a desired result.

And here we have a big industrialist, talking to the alumni association of a college, celebrating its 250th anniversary. No wonder we are confused when intellectuals like Dr. Ruth Alexander and the head of the United States Steel Corporation express such beliefs.

It is no wonder that Mr. Olds contends, as he did in this address, that:

"We have many fine tax supported public colleges which are controlled by State and local governmental agencies."

How can there be such a thing as "fine tax supported colleges" when they are based on covetousness and have no other basis than "might makes right." No such college can educate an individual to believe in moral principles. It can only train.

THE QUESTION: Do you think there has been a noticeable change in the climate during the past 50 years?

THE ANSWERS: Mrs. Juanita Winborne, clerk, 712 N. Dwight: "I'm sure the seasons aren't the same as they used to be. I know they have changed even in the past five years. It's colder. I have lived in several years ago. This year, I think we will have more snow than in previous years, and it certainly snowed here as early as it usually does."

Harold Jones, clerk, 603 E. Gordon: "Yes, there has been a definite change in the climate in recent years. I can remember when we had more snow. The winters were a lot more severe than. Most of the old timers around here say winters are milder with less snow than in the early days. However, I don't recall seeing snow here as early as it came this season."

M. D. Farrell, insurance company branch manager: "Yes, there is a great deal of difference in the climate now as compared to some years ago. I can remember when it used to be so hard to get through the roads to go to school. Then, the snow was deep and temperatures were low. I believe the climate is gradually getting warmer here as it is in several states and I believe that is true everywhere."

Mrs. Juanita Whitson, housewife, 1140 S. Faulkner: "Yes, I think the climate is changing. I'm sure it gets colder earlier than it used to. There isn't as much snow, however, as we had in earlier years. I've lived in Pampa nearly all of my life and I can never remember it snowing here so late as it did in November. I can recall when we had some around Thanksgiving, but none sooner than that."

Bid For A Smile

In reading an unusual little volume, we came across this story. Face to face with Vicksburg the Eleventh Indiana was tremendously cut up. They sent home for reserves. They came, but they did not know anything about fighting. They had saved a hard one at the first. Among them was a long, gaunt Hoosier who rejoiced in the supernatural name of Peter Apple. Peter had never been in a battle. All that he knew about soldiering was that a soldier was supposed to do what he was told. So when his commander said, "Forward march, double quick," why, Peter doubled-quickly. He was long and lank and lean, and away he went. The rest kept pace with him for a while, but the first one to stop was Peter. He was so tired that he soon fell back. But Peter was going so fast that he could not stop. He kept on and finally came up to the neck, turned him around a few times, and then started with him toward the camp. When he turned away the enemy did not dare to shoot for fear they would kill their own man. So Peter kept on running. When he came into the camp the soldiers ran and hid around him and asked: "Peter, where did you get him?" "Why, I got him," said Peter. "Why, I

Parliament Is Legislative Body With Built-In Lobby

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LONDON — A member of the British House of Commons gets a salary of one thousand pounds a year, approximately $2,500 at the present rate of exchange, plus as many free rides as he needs on the nationalized railroads to and from London. But he has neither an office nor a secretary, no telephone, nor even a desk and he pays for his own postage and telegrams.

The congressional record of the British Parliament is a document known as Hansard, after a man, who, long ago, obtained the concession of reporting the debates and recording bills introduced for consideration, but the press has absolutely no standing or privilege and may be heaved out, when a secret session is ordered. To signal the beginning of a session the Prime Minister calls "I spy strangers" and the premises are then cleared of non-members and the record is suspended until the secrecy is terminated.

This superiority of Commons, this independence of the press is naively regarded as a very important thing, signifying that the House of Commons, representing the people of Great Britain, is not to be intimidated by the press or by any other force, including the King. But that is a strictly technical and meaningless assertion of flabby integrity because actually the members do not represent "the people" of their constituencies at all, but their respective political parties or other patrons such as companies or breweries.

The unions are allowed to subsidize M.P.'s by continuing the pay of those members who hold union office, or even by outright grants of wages for services to be rendered in the form of pro-union votes. Among a number of enlightened Englishmen with whom I have earnestly discussed this phenomenon I not only found no objection but a puzzled and rather sensitive feeling that any outside objection to this obvious venality was just another twist of the lion's tail. I tried over and over to spell out with match sticks the plain fact that a member of Parliament or of our lower House is supposed to represent all the people of his district, or constituency, as they call it here, but the best I got was an impatient admission that this was all right in abstract theory but...

However, as we argued, they put me to wondering whether the same wasn't true in our legislatures including sticks in the Casino on Capitol Hill and I am forced to admit that it undoubtedly is, with the technical, "hypocrite" over there—lots of them up here—where if you fellows might have had one if you had only gone after him."

Clerk — I've wanted to see you for a week, sir. When may I have an appointment?
Member — Make a date with my secretary.
Clerk — Oh, I already have, sir. We had a marvelous time—but as I say, sir, when may I see you?

Daughter — Father, can my new boy friend replace your business partner that died this morning?
Father — It's all right with me—if you can arrange it with the undertaker.

He — Why aren't you working?
She — The boss and I had a fight and he won't take back what he said.
He — What?
She — You're fired.

But the British Parliament is even worse. Under the reign of the Socialists, calling themselves the Labor party, Parliament became a tyrant, not was this the start of that because Parliament had shown our Congress the National Whirligig....

Secrety Surrounded Parley

Between Ike And President

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Milton Eisenhower has told friends at Washington and elsewhere that where his more famous "other, General "Ike," did not discuss political questions or personalities at his luncheon with President Truman. The two wanted secrecy so completely that they mentioned no military problems until Blair House waiters had left the dining room.

Milton, who is president of Penn State, saw his elder brother for more than two hours at La Guardia airport just before "Ike" took off for Europe after his brief visit in this country. Naturally, as two unusually close brothers, "Ike" presumably had no reason for concealing the facts from his younger kinsman.

It may also be significant that they held their conversation before there was any intimation in the newspapers that the President had asked "Ike" if he would accept the Democratic presidential nomination, with the implied promise that Mr. Truman could obtain it for him from an administration-controlled convention.

"PLANTED" — Even more important, politically, than the subject of the Truman-Eisenhower exchange, is the fact that the gossip who "leaked" on the President's offer was apparently a Democrat in the confidence of the White House. Chief Justice Vinson, White House Justice George E. Allen and Bernard M. Baruch — have denied that they were the tale-bearers.

Eisenhower supporters who believe that reports of the Truman offer have weakened their favorite's candidacy, think the disreputable newspaper article was a "planted" with the deliberate design of hurting the general and helping Mr. Truman.

The later has frequently expressed his preference for Senator Robert A. Taft as the G.O.P. nominee. The Democrats are saying that they won't have to face the popular and poll-winning "Ike" in the 1952 campaign.

LOGICAL — The argument of the Eisenhower promoters who entertain this suspicion impresses them as utterly logical. After all, the reaction for almost two weeks, they believe that the political beneficiaries of the high-level "leak" were Senator Taft and President Truman, assuming that the latter means to run again. Here is how they figure it:

The attempt to picture General Eisenhower as a possible Democratic candidate, as well as the reasons given for his reported refusal to accept the honor, was designed to weaken him with the Republicans, the Democrats and organized labor.

In the controversial newspaper story, he was said to have declined because he disagreed with the Truman viewpoint on Taft-way long ago in the shape of law in the permittee bureaucrats to oppress the people and denied them access to the courts. Under Socialism, the occasions for the exercise of arbitrary power by inspectors and licensing authorities have multiplied. The law in the permittee system always was there but the guilt has been the greater in a legislative body whose majority frankly regarded itself as the servant of the unions, and to help with the rest and to help with the liberties of one and all for which Englishmen had fought, bled and died. Parliament is a legislative body with a built-in lobby.

Secrety Surrounded Parley

Between Ike And President

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Milton Eisenhower has told friends at Washington and elsewhere that where his more famous "other, General "Ike," did not discuss political questions or personalities at his luncheon with President Truman. The two wanted secrecy so completely that they mentioned no military problems until Blair House waiters had left the dining room.

Milton, who is president of Penn State, saw his elder brother for more than two hours at La Guardia airport just before "Ike" took off for Europe after his brief visit in this country. Naturally, as two unusually close brothers, "Ike" presumably had no reason for concealing the facts from his younger kinsman.

It may also be significant that they held their conversation before there was any intimation in the newspapers that the President had asked "Ike" if he would accept the Democratic presidential nomination, with the implied promise that Mr. Truman could obtain it for him from an administration-controlled convention.

"PLANTED" — Even more important, politically, than the subject of the Truman-Eisenhower exchange, is the fact that the gossip who "leaked" on the President's offer was apparently a Democrat in the confidence of the White House. Chief Justice Vinson, White House Justice George E. Allen and Bernard M. Baruch — have denied that they were the tale-bearers.

Eisenhower supporters who believe that reports of the Truman offer have weakened their favorite's candidacy, think the disreputable newspaper article was a "planted" with the deliberate design of hurting the general and helping Mr. Truman.

The later has frequently expressed his preference for Senator Robert A. Taft as the G.O.P. nominee. The Democrats are saying that they won't have to face the popular and poll-winning "Ike" in the 1952 campaign.

LOGICAL — The argument of the Eisenhower promoters who entertain this suspicion impresses them as utterly logical. After all, the reaction for almost two weeks, they believe that the political beneficiaries of the high-level "leak" were Senator Taft and President Truman, assuming that the latter means to run again. Here is how they figure it:

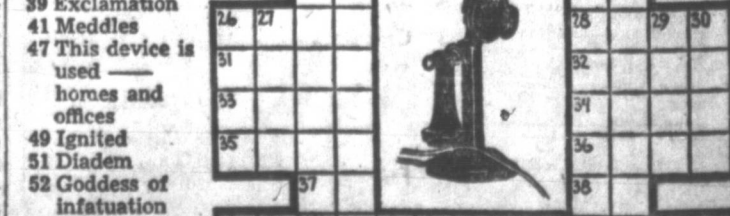

The attempt to picture General Eisenhower as a possible Democratic candidate, as well as the reasons given for his reported refusal to accept the honor, was designed to weaken him with the Republicans, the Democrats and organized labor.

In the controversial newspaper story, he was said to have declined because he disagreed with the Truman viewpoint on Taft-way long ago in the shape of law in the permittee bureaucrats to oppress the people and denied them access to the courts. Under Socialism, the occasions for the exercise of arbitrary power by inspectors and licensing authorities have multiplied. The law in the permittee system always was there but the guilt has been the greater in a legislative body whose majority frankly regarded itself as the servant of the unions, and to help with the rest and to help with the liberties of one and all for which Englishmen had fought, bled and died. Parliament is a legislative body with a built-in lobby.

Arctic Drive Of Reindeer Epic Memory

AP Newsfeatures
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — The great Alaskan reindeer drive — a dramatic five-year trek of 11 men and 3,000 animals across 1,000 miles of frozen polar wilderness — is today an almost forgotten chapter in Arctic history.

But its perils and hardships are still fresh in the mind of Dan Crowley, the man who led it.

It was just 16 years ago that Crowley herded his flock into a small Eskimo village on the Arctic sea and turned it over to the Canadian government, mission completed.

After a lifetime in the far north, Crowley has retired to a pleasant redwood cottage here. He likes to talk about his epic adventure, but "I'd never do it over again. I've had enough of gales and ice."

The drive across the lid of the world was supposed to last 18 months but actually took five years.

In 1929 Crowley was field manager for the Lomen Reindeer Corp., which had contracted with King George V of England to deliver 3,000 reindeer to starving Eskimos in Canada.

The herd was rounded up north of Nome, its destination Kittigazuit, a village east of the delta of the Mackenzie river in Canada. On a map the distance is about 1,000 miles. Crowley estimates he traveled over 2,000. He had to zigzag, following trails where food was available and avoiding high mountain passes.

Crowley charted a course after scouting the terrain by plane. Their path led through a bleak land almost unknown to white men and peopled only by roving bands of Eskimos. It was entirely within the Arctic circle.

They started on Christmas day, 1929. Ahead of them were famine, blizzards, temperatures of 70 degrees below zero, stampedes and continual stock losses to arctic wolves.

A few months out, fawning season overtook the herd. When it was over the herd had increased from 3,000 to 4,000. Crowley ordered 1,000 driven back to the starting point — 5,000 "were enough trouble," he said.

The herders found themselves short of deer trained to haul food sledges.

They had to halt to "break" a deer from the herd, no mean feat. An untrained animal, hitched to a sled, will bolt and head for the hills, trying to shake loose the contraction which it thinks is chasing it. When 100 deer were trained, the trek resumed.

Next obstacle was the Baird Mountains. There was no way to skirt them. They had to be climbed. Crowley settled on a route through the Redstone River canyon, but because the ground was boggy they had to wait for the fall freeze to firm it up.

Before they left 1,000 deer escaped, driven to flight by mosquitoes.

The area on the other side was not timbered. The party ran out of fuel for tents and stoves. They pushed on through temperatures of 80 degrees below zero.

The deer were hard to drive because they were blinded by clouds of steam that hovered over the herd. Vapor from animals' fuses and ice spread over their eyes.

Driving over mountains and tundra, halting during fawning seasons, they trekked for three years before reaching the delta of the Mackenzie.

The first crossing of an 80-mile stretch of Arctic ocean ice that blocked their way was attempted in January 1934. The great danger was from storms. In addition, the stretch offered the reindeer nothing to eat. The deer stampeded, racing for the mainland. The herd had to be

AUSTIN — (AP) — The Railroad Commission will hold hearing Dec. 7 on the Bridwell Oil Co.'s application for special allowances and exemption from shut-down days for its May No. 1 and McCurdy No. 1 wells in Blanco and Victoria counties.

Artist's Wife Finds North Warm Hearted

MONTREAL — (AP) — Mrs. James Houston, wife of Canadian artist Jim Houston, doesn't think of the Arctic as a vast, cold wasteland of ice and snow.

After eight months in the northland, Mrs. Houston is more impressed by the warm-hearted, hospitable people who live in snow huts and look mainly to hunting and fishing for their living. "They're such an honest, cheerful people."

With the backing of the Canadian government, the Canadian Handicraft guild and the co-operation of the Hudson's Bay Co., Mr. and Mrs. Houston bring back products of Eskimo culture — carvings, leatherwork and woodwork.

reconditioned for another attempt.

It was not until March 1935, more than a year later, that a successful crossing was made. The following month, five years and four months after it started, the herd was delivered to the Canadian government.

Teen Agers Tell Experiences With Dope And Give Reasons

By MARTHA COLE
AP Staff Writer

The superintendent of the Texas State School for Girls thinks it's time the hush-hush part of teen-agers' use of dope was gone.

"These youngsters ought to know what it is, what it will do to them," said Mrs. Maxine L. Burlingham, the superintendent of the State school at Gainesville.

"Every high school should make it a part of its curriculum to have a lecture at least once a month. Get an enforcement of fear to talk to them; get a rehabilitated dope addict; get somebody from a U. S. public health hospital that gives the narcotics cure."

"I don't know anything about high school gangs and dope—all I know is the case history of the girls who are here."

The school now has 180 girls, all under 18 years of age. Of these, 33 have indicated some contact with dope—about one out of every five.

But only 11 of these 33 cases have been verified. And only one is known to have been an addict. The others have tried marijuana and the barbiturate pills such as goof balls at various times.

Various state organizations have taken up the problem within the last few weeks.

CONFERENCE IN AUSTIN

On Nov. 9 the State Legislative Crime Investigating committee heard police chiefs testify at a conference in Austin that they didn't think teen-agers were going to the dogs.

On Nov. 19, the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce issued a statement that Texas has suffered an influx of drug peddlers from Louisiana because of heavy penalties that state is imposing for narcotics violations.

On Nov. 19, Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., head of the State Dept. of Public Safety, declared that "the narcotics problem is constantly growing all over the state." He called for reinstatement of the narcotics division which was eliminated from his department in 1939.

But what about the teen-agers, themselves?

Two of the girls in the state school at Gainesville said they had smoked marijuana.

Why?

"I was curious, that's all," said a 15-year-old. "A bunch of us were out riding in a car, and the boys had some."

"I couldn't get a job. It makes you feel light and happy," said a quiet little 17-year-old.

OTHER OFFENSES

All of the girls who admitted contact with dope were in the school for some other offense—mostly sex promiscuity.

"You'll find that most every young girl who starts that will turn to the barbiturates to keep herself going," said Mrs. Burlingham.

And that brought up the question of whether use of dope was a cause or result of delinquency. Look at the records:

Every single one of these girls started their troubles with:

1. Insecurity at home—a feeling of being unwanted, unloved.
2. Poverty was mostly the cause of insecurity. But there was one girl from a respectable, middle-class home with a good income. Her father was a Sunday school teacher. He had an affair with another woman. Her mother fell ill and was a semi-invalid. The child was of an affectionate, emotional nature. She hated her father and worried about her mother. She turned to the only friends where she felt accepted—the teen-age dope crowd.
3. Truancy from school.
4. Wrong choice of companions.

In every one of those 11 cases, the steps were the same—1, 2, 3, in that order.

She started skipping school. And then she ran into the others who were skipping school, or she ran into some older men.

MET BOYS

"Flo and I didn't go to school that day," said one 15-year-old about one time when she was 12. "We met Bill and Jack at this tavern. We drove over to this next town and we got a hotel room. Bill had some yellow jackets. And that's the first time I ever took one." Bill was 23.

In every one of these cases, it was after she quit school and got in with a certain crowd that the girl started trying out marijuana or the pills and then got into trouble so that she was picked up by the juvenile department of the local police.

"And in every one of these cases it's the same lack there—the parents' supervision. They didn't know she wasn't at school that day; they didn't know she was running around with this crowd; they didn't know this boy was known to police as a dope addict; they couldn't do a thing with her; they couldn't make her come home before 3 a.m.," said Mrs. Burlingham.

In one girl's case it was more direct than that. The parents knew. She was 12 years old when she was first an apparent delinquent. She went with older men to honky-tonks and admitted relations with a 60-year-old man. She left school in the fifth grade and was married at 13 with her parents' consent.

Her mother and father had been divorced when she was a baby. Her mother married again, got another divorce, lived as a common-law wife with a third man and then married him. This was the stepfather the girl remembered, one who was a heavy drinker, deserted his step family three times.

"She has had bad examples of adultery, theft, drunkenness, illegitimacy, and dope addiction in her own home," her case history reads.

Mrs. Burlingham tossed the folder on the desk, leaned back and said—"parents."

"If we only could do something about parents."

"The schools can't do it all, but they can help."

Search For Thief Spreads Westward

DALLAS — (AP) — The search for a man who took $40,000 from a Dallas woman after a struggle in her home spread to Big Spring.

The money was taken from the bathroom of the home of Mrs. N. K. Leeper. Sunday she had hidden the money and about $30,000 in jewels in the room.

Mrs. Leeper, head of the Dixie Cotton Chopper Co., identified the man as a former employe. The firm makes machinery.

She told police Capt. Will Fritz that the man came to her and asked for $37.50 to redeem two suits.

U. S. Solons Ask Picture Of Churchill's Policy On Unity

STRASBOURG, France — (AP) — American congressmen have challenged British Conservatives to give them a clear concise statement of Winston Churchill's official policy toward European unity.

In the first working session of the joint European-American conference, Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) and Rep. Kenneth Keating (R-N.Y.) asked European assemblymen to explain what steps would be backed by their peoples.

"What are the official views of your governments, the views backed by your peoples?" Smith inquired. Keating noted that Britain has been blamed in the past for the failure of European nations to unite. Looking to Robert Boothby, British Conservative, he said:

"I would like a statement from the United Kingdom on what its attitude has been, and what, if any, changes we can not expect."

Other developments in a crowded morning session were:

1. Lord Layton, British Liberal, declared Britain should join both the Schuman plan for pooling Western Europe's steel and coal projected European army.
2. Rep. Harris Ellsworth (R-Ore.) accused European nations of falling to carry out all their pledges of integration under the agreement establishing the organization for European economic cooperation.
3. Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium urged the United States to grant "unity bonuses" to countries willing to melt some of their sovereignty in a European union.
4. Carlo Schmid, German Socialist, called for continued American military protection against Germany's becoming "the scorched earth of tomorrow."

Leading off for the Americans, Smith told Europeans that the United States desires "complete unification" and the formation of a "European federation."

"That is the ideal," said Smith, "but if that is not immediately attainable, we want you to do what is practicable."

He said Europeans should not

Deer Gets A Break From Helpful Hunters

GENTRALIA, Ill. — (AP) — Hunters along the Kaskaskia River happened onto a big five-point buck deer, trapped by grape vines twined rope-like in his antlers.

While others held the buck, one man cut it from. Then fearful the scared beast might attack, they used trees for protection. But the 300-pounder perhaps grateful — bounded away.

Warfield Bath Called Accidental

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — (AP) — Investigating officers have described as accidental the death of Mrs. Dorothy M. Satterfield, Navy wife who succumbed to gas fumes in her car.

Mrs. Satterfield, 31, of Annapolis, Tex., was found in the car in a closed garage last Saturday morning by her husband, Lt. Comdr. Loy M. Satterfield of Waxahachie, Tex. A staff officer at the post-graduate school here.

Vice-Adm. Harry W. Hill, commandant of the Severn River Naval command, made public this report of a four-man investigating board:

"That the death... occurred at about 2 a. m.; was accidental and was caused by the inhalation of carbon monoxide gas generated by the automobile engine in the closed garage."

A Navy announcement said the board "found no evidence of either foul play or suicidal intent."

Mrs. Satterfield is survived by a six-year-old daughter and her mother, Mrs. Laughlin McNeill of Annapolis.
