RESTING PLACE—Massive boiler of locomotive 1806 which exploded yesterday afternoon, killing one workman, is shown where it came to rest more than 125 feet from where it was standing in the Santa Fe roundhouse at Canadian. The blast resulted in instant death to 37-year-old W. A. McPherson, Jr., of Canadian, and caused a fire which gutted the roundhouse. Boiler cleared wires (top of photo) in its flight through the air and dug a pit some four feet deep when it landed. Santa Fe officials could offer no probable cause for the tragedy. (News Photo)

Workman Is Killed As Locomotive Boiler Explodes At Canadian Sunday

SILHOUETTE OF TRAGEDY—Outlined against the flame and boiling clouds of smoke stands the forepart of locomotive No. 1806 after yesterday's explosion sent its boiler hurtling through the Santa Fe roundhouse roof at Canadian. Shattering blast sheared off inch-thick rivets and literally blew the locomotive apart. Photo was taken from outside roundhouse through an opening in one of the brick walls was left standing. Marshall Plan Three Years Old:

President To Ask ECA Be Continued

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said today he will recommend to Congress that the Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) be maintained on a continuing basis to help carry out the programs essential to the security of the free world. In a statement marking the third anniversary of the Marshall plan, the President said economic recovery in western Europe has been "substantially achieved." "However," he added, "with the present threat to world peace, new tasks have been imposed upon us. The free nations are now combining to convert their resources into military strength to preserve the peace and defend our freedoms." A new ECA policy, announced Saturday by Administrator William C. Foster, calls for supplying Europe not only money and materials for rebuilding its economy but also for expanding its capacity for producing arms and military supplies. Under existing laws the big Marshall plan agency is scheduled to close out next April. Its operations have cost the United States $11,000,000,000.

An exploding locomotive boiler yesterday killed one workman and the resulting fire demolished the Santa Fe roundhouse in Canadian. The blast occurred shortly before 2 p.m.

Victim was W. A. McPherson, Jr., 37, who met instant death when the boiler exploded hurling his body some 50 feet. Mr. McPherson was alone in the roundhouse when the accident happened. Force of the explosion sent the big boiler end over end through the roundhouse roof. It landed more than 125 feet away, clearing power line wires some 30 feet off the ground in its passage through the air.

A second locomotive blew up about 40 minutes after the initial blast, but railroad workers were of the opinion it would be salvageable. It had been pulled into the roundhouse shortly before the first locomotive blew up. Both were switch engines and were kept fired up at all times.

First man on the scene after the explosion was W. A. Walford, roundhouse foreman, who brought Mr. McPherson's body out before the fire spread. Canadian firemen rushed to the roundhouse with two 500 gallon pumps and poured water on the blaze for about two hours in an attempt to quell it. However, the fire spread with such rapidity after the explosion that it was out of control when firemen arrived, according to Fire Chief Carl Zyzanski.

Fire crews stood by until late last night when they dug through the ruins in a search for other possible victims. J. D. Raymond, yardmaster at Canadian, checked a personnel roster shortly after the tragedy and said all workmen were accounted for.

The blaze and explosion left only part of the roundhouse brick walls standing. The Santa Fe Sash and Door Co. of Canadian laid a small quantity of lumber in the fire. The firm has no connection with the railroad, but leased a portion of the roundhouse for storage purposes.

Patrols Stab Over 38 'Several Times'

TOKYO — (AP) — Allied tank-infantry patrols stabbed across the 38th Parallel into Red Korea "several" times yesterday and today. Presumably all pulled back to allied lines after short periods.

AP Correspondent John Randolph reported from the western front that the border crossings "had no special significance." They were part of the routine patrolling. North of 38 on the central front the Communists are massing troops and equipment for a probable offensive. Randolph said the Communist detachments north of 38 were a network of trenches, log pillboxes, rifle pits and dugouts. New Chinese tactics have developed allied infantry assaults on Red hill positions. In the past the Reds usually waited on their hilltop crests for the allies to hit them. They suffered heavily from artillery and air attacks. Now they wait on the reverse side of the slopes and man their trenches only at the last moment. By then the allied infantry is too near the lines to receive close artillery support. One allied tank-infantry patrol which stabbed across 38 Monday on the west central front hit stiff Communist resistance one and a half miles north of the border and withdrew. Knockdown Battle Over Draft Is Seen

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House returns today from a 10-day Easter recess to start what may develop into a knockdown battle over lowering the draft age and providing for universal military training. The entire week has been set aside for debate on a bill to lower the draft age from 19 to 18½, increase the period of compulsory military service, and set up the machinery for UMT. Formal debate starts tomorrow. Not until next week, however, will the crucial voting stage be reached.

The present draft law expires on July 9. The Senate has passed a bill to extend it indefinitely, to lower the induction age from 19 to 18, to increase the period of service from 21 to 24 months and to provide for a universal military training program when the need for a service draft ends. The bill before the House, besides lowering the induction age to 18½, would extend the service period to 26 months and lay the groundwork for UMT when inductions end. "The House will pass it just about the way our committee reported it," Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee predicted to newsmen. Vinson said he expects hot arguments over provisions of both the Senate and the House bills linking the draft with UMT. He also foresaw fights over Republican-backed amendments to prohibit the use of American troops in the Atlantic pact army in Europe without prior congressional approval, and to put a ceiling of 3,500,000 or 4,000,000 on military personnel. "These will be the big issues," he said. "I feel certain that we will keep the UMT provisions and that we shall be able to beat the troops - for - Europe amendment."

Republicans have made a party issue out of the troops - for - Europe proposal, which the Senate is considering separately, with voting today. The House GOP leadership wants the ban on individual income tax increases and the excise tax boost. These called for a $3,600,000,000 increase in individual income taxes, a $3,000,000,000 hike in corporate income tax, and a $3,035,000,000 boost in excise (sales) levies. With those Snyder had completed a requested $40,000,000 increase in taxes on capital gains, meaning profit derived from sale of property. The four raise together made up the $10,135,000,000 tax increase sought at what was first called a "first round" tax measure. The individual income tax increase recommended was four percentage points, equivalent to a boost of $4 on each $100 of taxable income — the amount left after taking off deductions and exemptions. The corporate tax boost requested was eight percentage points, or $8 for each $100 taxable income. It would lift the top corporate income tax rate to 50 percent from the present 40. Among the excise rate boosts, automobiles, at the manufacturer's price level; and a jump to 25 percent, from 10, on television sets and most major household appliances; also boosts on liquor, tobacco and gasoline taxes. Snyder stressed today that the increase recommended was not a fiscal year — second biggest surplus in history and third surplus in the last 21 years — does not eliminate need for a tax boom, and exemptions. When Snyder first made his plea for a first-round boost he said he would be back soon with his plans for more money. In the intervening eight weeks, however, the government's fiscal position has improved in actual income and outgo he brightened remarkably. Tax revenue (See TAX INCOME, Page 2)

Some Texas Students To Take Exemption Exams At TCH, SMU

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Draftable college students from at least a part of Texas will take their educational deferment tests at Texas Christian University and Southern Methodist University. Both schools announced last night they had been notified of their part in the new procedure announced by the selective service. Draft regulations were modified Saturday to permit deferment of college students who show, through the educational tests, they are best fitted to continue their studies. TCU and SMU will be two of the 1,000 testing centers to be set up over the nation. TCU officials said yesterday they did not know how large an area the school would serve.

First Ballot Battle For '51 Due To Open 8 A.M. Tuesday

At 8 a. m. Tuesday the first ballot battle this year for Pampa will start when the four polls over the city open for voting. It will be the climax of a short and semi-intensive campaign waged by both administration and anti-administration forces. Anti-administration forces are winding up their campaign today with newspaper and radio advertising. The latter composed of numerous spot announcements throughout the day and night and a half-hour program over KPND at 7:15 p. m. Administration forces by 11 a. m. today had refrained from taking to the airwaves and confined their activities to newspaper advertising and handbills in behalf of Mayor C. A. Huff, Commissioner W. E. "Bill" Ballard and F. H. Paronto. Numerous spot announcements in behalf of B. E. Ferrell for mayor; and William B. "A" Neel

Parents Of Bleeding Boy Given New Hope As Drug Takes Hold

HOUSTON — (AP) — The happy and weary parents of Wayne Gideon faced today with new hope. Thrilled, almost to the point of being speechless, Mrs. Elmer Gideon said her son didn't bleed at all Sunday night, and appeared best night since returning to the hospital a week ago. "We think the new drug he worked," Mrs. Gideon said. "Wayne slept some of the night and when he was awake he really smiled. My husband and I stayed at his bedside all night. They gave Wayne the fourth and final injection of the new drug Sunday afternoon, and we anxiously looked forward to the results. Wayne did not bleed at all. We're so happy."

Two Amarillo Men Held In Robbery

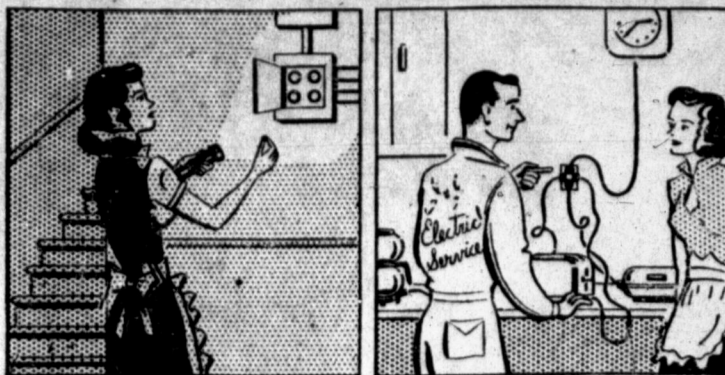

AMARILLO — (AP) — Two Amarillo men are being held here in the robbery last Wednesday of an armored car from which $2,592 in cash and checks were taken. Charges of theft were filed yesterday against James Virgil Counts, 20, and Dennis Murray Dorsey, 26. Bond of $5,000 each was set. The men were arrested Saturday. The arrests were made after attempts to burn some of the checks taken in the theft caused a small grass fire near here. None of the cash was recovered.

If You Are Bothered by Frequent Blowing of Fuses...

DON'T court danger by using pennies or over-size fuses to prevent interruption of the current. When a fuse blows, it's your warning that something definitely is wrong.

DO check to determine the cause. The trouble may be a faulty cord, more likely it's an overloaded circuit. If so, you'll need another circuit to make your wiring as efficient as your appliances.

Faulty House Plan Can Cause Annoyance To Unwary Buyer

A house is intended to be lived in for many years. Unless it is well-planned for convenience, it will be the source of untold dissatisfaction to the unwary buyer.

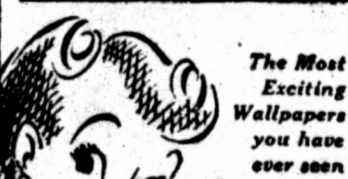

A combination of little things determines whether a house is well-planned. These factors do not always become evident until the house has been lived in for weeks or months.

One of the chief faults is impeded traffic circulation. Floor plans should be studied carefully before building or buying to make sure every room is provided easy access without the necessity of passing through another. Outside entrances should be arranged conveniently in relation with walks to avoid round-about routes of travel.

Faulty arrangement of storage space rarely shows up until the home buyer moves in. A house can have plenty of closets, but unless they are properly placed, much of their value is lost. Every room intended for use as, or that could be used as, a bedroom should have its own closet. A television room or study needs no closet, but when additions to the family require another bedroom, it can be converted easily if it has a closet.

A guest or coat closet should

Local Dealer Warns Of Home Standards

Wasteful Federal spending for unessential non-defense purposes will lower American housing standards unnecessarily during the emergency, according to Lynn Boyd, local lumber and building materials dealer and member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Lumber Dealers Association.

"In the first place, the increased taxes collected to finance the excessive spending mean that the public has that much less to spend on repairing and improving its homes," Mr. Boyd said.

"In addition, because the wasteful spending by the government adds to the inflationary pressure which has been forcing prices up, the government attempts to counteract that pressure by imposing unnecessarily harsh credit restrictions on new home purchases, thus preventing many families from acquiring a new home.

"It is true that shortages of some critical materials will require some reduction in housing construction during the emergency. But there obviously is no urgent need for a 40 percent cutback in new homes, such

Lower Interest Reduces Cost Of Home Financing

While home building costs have risen steadily since World War II due to an inflated economy, the cost of financing homes has been substantially reduced, it is noted by the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Interest rates have declined as much as 3 percent in some sections and it is now possible to finance home mortgages anywhere in the nation through FHA-insured loans at rates of 4 3/4 percent, including the FHA insurance premium.

In some areas, especially the East, competition among lenders who have enormous amounts of money earmarked for home loans has become so keen that conventional loans without government guarantees are being widely made at interest rates of 4 1/2 percent.

No matter where they live in the U. S., veterans of World War II can obtain mortgage money at 4 percent interest if they apply through the Veterans' Administration.

Spring Is Time To Condition Heating Plants

Thorough cleaning of any heating plant should head the list of spring chores. Motors and other working parts should be oiled; scale and rust removed from the furnace interior. The smoke pipe should be examined for cracks and eroded spots. If any are found, the pipe should be replaced, not patched up.

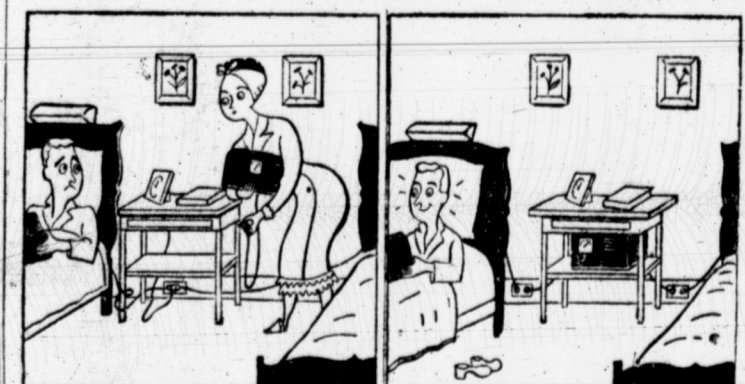

Joints where the pipe enters the chimney should be made air-tight with cement and all cracks and loose mortar in the chimney repaired.

THE CLAY has three bedrooms in the rear of the house, while the living room, dining room and kitchen are in the front. The dining room and kitchen, as shown, are separated by a partition, but this can be replaced by a snack bar which would form a combination kitchen-dinette.

In addition to the wardrobe closets in the bedrooms, there is a general closet and a linen cabinet in the hall and a coat closet for each entrance.

These plans call for a frame construction with siding and asphalt shingles. Also included is provision for a full basement. Some of the other features that are considered are a wood burning fireplace, a corner kitchen sink and a recessed bath tub.

The dimensions of the clay are 46 feet by 28 feet with a front projection of 4 feet. The floor area is 1,196 square feet and the cubage is 23,322 cubic feet.

Rearmament Seen As Spur To Lower Building Costs

The nation's rearmament program may eventually bring lower home building costs, it is predicted today by the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Reductions of 20 to 40 percent are possible, it was said, provided building codes are modernized to permit use of new materials and methods and to eliminate excessively heavy structural requirements.

For 4 years, the building industry, municipal officials and other interested groups have been developing a model building code designed to reduce costs. Copies of this code are now in the hands of most building officials.

With war production currently diverting enormous quantities of materials from the home building industry, efforts to secure quick adoption of the code by municipalities are intensified.

The nation's leading building construction engineers, federal officials, architects and materials producers, conferring recently, agreed that by eliminating home building waste caused by obsolete laws and other regulations, savings could amount to 20 to 40 percent. The consensus was that these great savings can be effected without any real sacrifice in the quality and livability of the finished house.

Among the recommendations: Studs be 2x3s instead of 2x4s. Smaller vents be permitted in plumbing systems and all plumbing be fully standardized. Eliminate fully standardized materials sizes can be standardized in multiples of 4 inches. Modify excessive load requirements for roofs, floors and foundations and permit lighter construction which engineering research has proved safe and feasible. Modify all local codes which require more costly and elaborate electric wiring than required by the national electrical code.

Cost savings resulting from the foregoing cannot be effected overnight, the Construction Research Bureau pointed out, since time will be required to change building codes.

"The fact that it is vitally necessary to eliminate waste in the present emergency will have a tendency, however, to considerably speed up code adoption," the Bureau said.

Marlene Dietrich Is Tired Being Called 'Grandmother'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (A) — Marlene Dietrich was looking unlike a grandmother. Very much indeed. She was dolled up like a dancing girl in one of those dance halls that are always convenient to the prairie in western movies. The famed Dietrich gam was readily viewable as she engaged in a game of frontier foolery — riding piggy-back in a race against the other dance hall girls. The actress came out of the strenuous scene with her glamor unruined. I asked if she ever got tired of being called "the world's most glamorous grandmother." "I certainly do," she replied emphatically. "I am getting sick and tired of it. I am sure there are other grandmothers in other professions who are not constantly referred to as such."

scene and clambered across the barroom floor astride a cowhand. She stopped midway in the race to swallow a slug of prop whiskey, then pushed an opponent out of the way. In the encounter she suffered a cut on one of her celebrated legs. She sent for some makeup to cover the bruised spot. She shrugged off mention of first aid and pointed to little scars acquired while entertaining troops in the war. "I got those in the army, she said, "and they were covered by the muck of Germany. If my legs got through that all right, they can take anything." And she returned for another riotous scene in the barroom. Wow, what a grandmother!

The Forgotten Industry:

Baby Sitting Now A Real Business In Pampa, Nation

Once upon a time grandparents, parents and children lived together and knew that now-forgotten tradition of "taking care of their own."

In those days, there was most always a great-aunt, grandmother or even great-grandmother willing to keep the children while the youngest mom and pop in the family group got away for an evening's buggy ride around the town square.

Then came the modern day when young marrieds started going out on their own. Now the home with four generations is practically extinct.

But in establishing a home alone, the young-marrieds lost a valuable asset. They lost a reliable place to leave Junior!

So it was in this modern age that the term "baby-sitting" was born, and it stands today — one of the forgotten industries — one that gives employment to hundreds of school students young and middle-aged women right here in Pampa.

In talking with a cross-section of local baby-sitters, it was learned the girls of junior high age receive as little as 30 cents an hour and as much as 75 cents. More experienced high school girls earn from 50 cents up, and many have regular customers who know the nights they are available and who have regular jobs.

Most of the older sitters in Pampa prefer keeping children in their own homes, but there are those who work out.

The popular notion that baby-sitters raid the ice-box is not true, according to one local mother, who said, "I have never once had that trouble with the young baby tenders in my home. As a rule they are courteous, dependable girls who are more diligent in giving their English assignments than in emptying the cookie jar!"

Baby-sitting is quite a profession. And the way most young girls look at it, they are just getting good experience for later life, and earning a good bit of spending money at the same time.

In some cities regular training programs for baby-sitters have been established. In Pampa girls who have reached the intermediate work in scouting are reliable "sitters" because they have spent considerable time obtaining their child care and first aid badges. The 4-H girls have a similar training.

Teen-age baby-sitters don't carry union cards in their algebra books, and their wages are controlled pretty much by what so-and-so is getting. But that doesn't mean they don't stick together on working arrangements.

An employer is expected to furnish transportation to and from jobs, explain working conditions (where the diapers are kept, etc.) and give specific working hours (after midnight is considered overtime and "sitters" get time and a half). A good sitter will always request a list of telephone numbers — the family doctor, fire department and the number where parents will be. They might have to call during an emergency.

As said before, professional baby-sitting was born of the young moderns' desire for being "on their own." But many times young parents went just down the street or across town to be independent — they didn't go so far that they couldn't call up Grandma and say, "Can you come over and baby-sit at our house tonight?" (It didn't take long for the young parents to learn that baby-sitters are not always available, and they learned, too, about the "high cost of sitting.")

Really, with so many Grandmas in existence, it's a wonder the baby-sitting industry has got this far in our way of life!

Red Treatment Of Farmers In Korea Is Found To Be Harsh

WASHINGTON — (A) — Out of Korea has come the first official report of how Communists treat farmers. It is written by Robert A. Kinney, an officer for the Economic Cooperation Administration who followed United Nations troops into North Korea last summer.

He talked to North Korean farmers who had lived under both the Japanese occupation and the Communist government which started in 1945.

He also talked to South Korean farmers who lived under the American occupation and then under the government of the Republic of South Korea.

Washington has had reports on how the Soviets treat their own farmers and farmers in the middle European satellite nations. But those reports were always sneaked out by refugees. Never before has a U. S. government official had the chance to walk into former Communist territory and actually talk to the men who had tried to till the land under the Red flag.

Kinney found that the Reds made a hurried gesture in 1945 to curry political favor with the North Koreans. They redistributed the land — took it from absentee landlords and gave it to tenants — in 25 days.

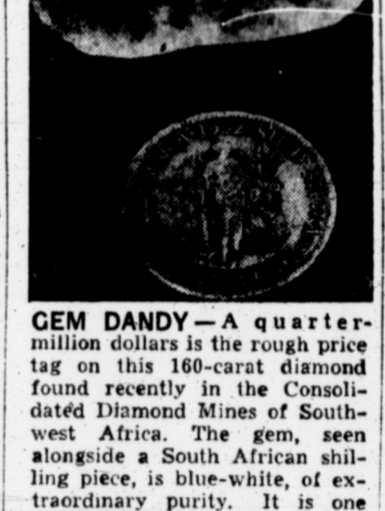

That lasted until 1948, when the Reds suddenly redistributed the land again, giving all the best to Communist Party favorites. It seems the Communists had only given farmers "use rights" rather than title to the land. When they wanted to throw a farmer off his land they simply took away his "use rights."

Kinney says the farmers realized that the system made them "merely tenants of the state and reduced them to the status of slaves."

In 1947 the Communists decreed a "production tax in kind." Farmers were forced to turn in 27 percent of their rice and 23 percent of their other crops. The farmers thought this was high enough, but they found in some cases they actually had to pay the new Red government as much as 50 percent of what they produced.

The percentage tax was not levied on what they actually produced but on what their Red masters thought they ought to produce.

The North Korean farmers were astounded to learn of the land reform program which had been put into effect in South Korea

Blood Pressure Causes Found

DURHAM, N.C. — (A) — New findings about high blood pressure were reported today at Duke University.

One is that diet can lower high pressure in animals. Three different diets do this — namely less protein, or less salt, or less calories.

This work is on certain animals especially sensitive to anything that may affect blood pressure. These are rats whose pressures are raised by surgical operations that leave them with half a kidney in place of two.

These experiments were undertaken because doctors have been trying diets for human high blood pressure, with some good effects, but without discovering the reason for the benefits.

There is a theory that emotional tension in childhood may cause kidney damage that resembles the tight cover and become the foundation of high pressure later in life. Experiments to test this are under way with baby rats. Duke psychologists are supplying ways of causing emotional tension in the young animals. If this causes kidney changes, it will be possible to see exactly what happens.

DIVERSIFIED INDUSTRY

DURING TEXAS INDUSTRIAL WEEK

Small industry is one of the most vital parts of any community, for without a variety of small industries the community lacks one of its most important features. Pampa is indeed fortunate to have such a group of independent industrialists. In comparison to the larger corporations these firms may seem insignificant, but be not misled for they are a very important cog that keeps the wheels of larger industry turning smoothly.

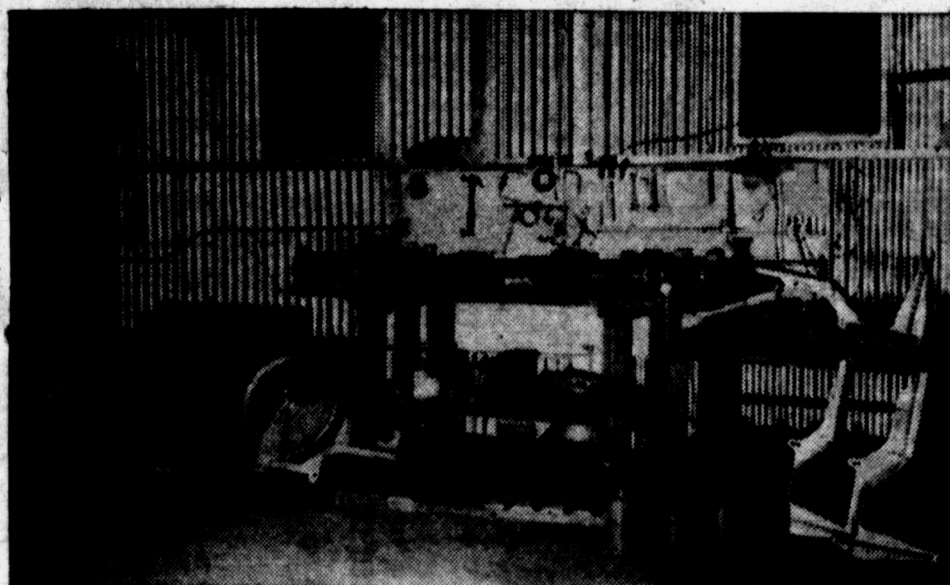

To this small diversified industry of Pampa we extend a hearty "Well Done" for your necessary and appreciated products.

O. K. Rubber Welders Offer Superior Process

Elmer Brings Solitaire Foods To Pampa Area

T. E. Francis, genial proprietor of Elmer's Super Market, just this week announced his exclusive dealership of Solitaire Food Products for the Pampa area. Recently Elmer made a trip to Denver, Colorado, to visit the Moray Mercantile Company, manufacturers of Solitaire Food Products. While there, Elmer watched the full line being processed.

The Solitaire Brand building is a three-story and covers one full block. They manufacture, pack and ship all the products from this one building.

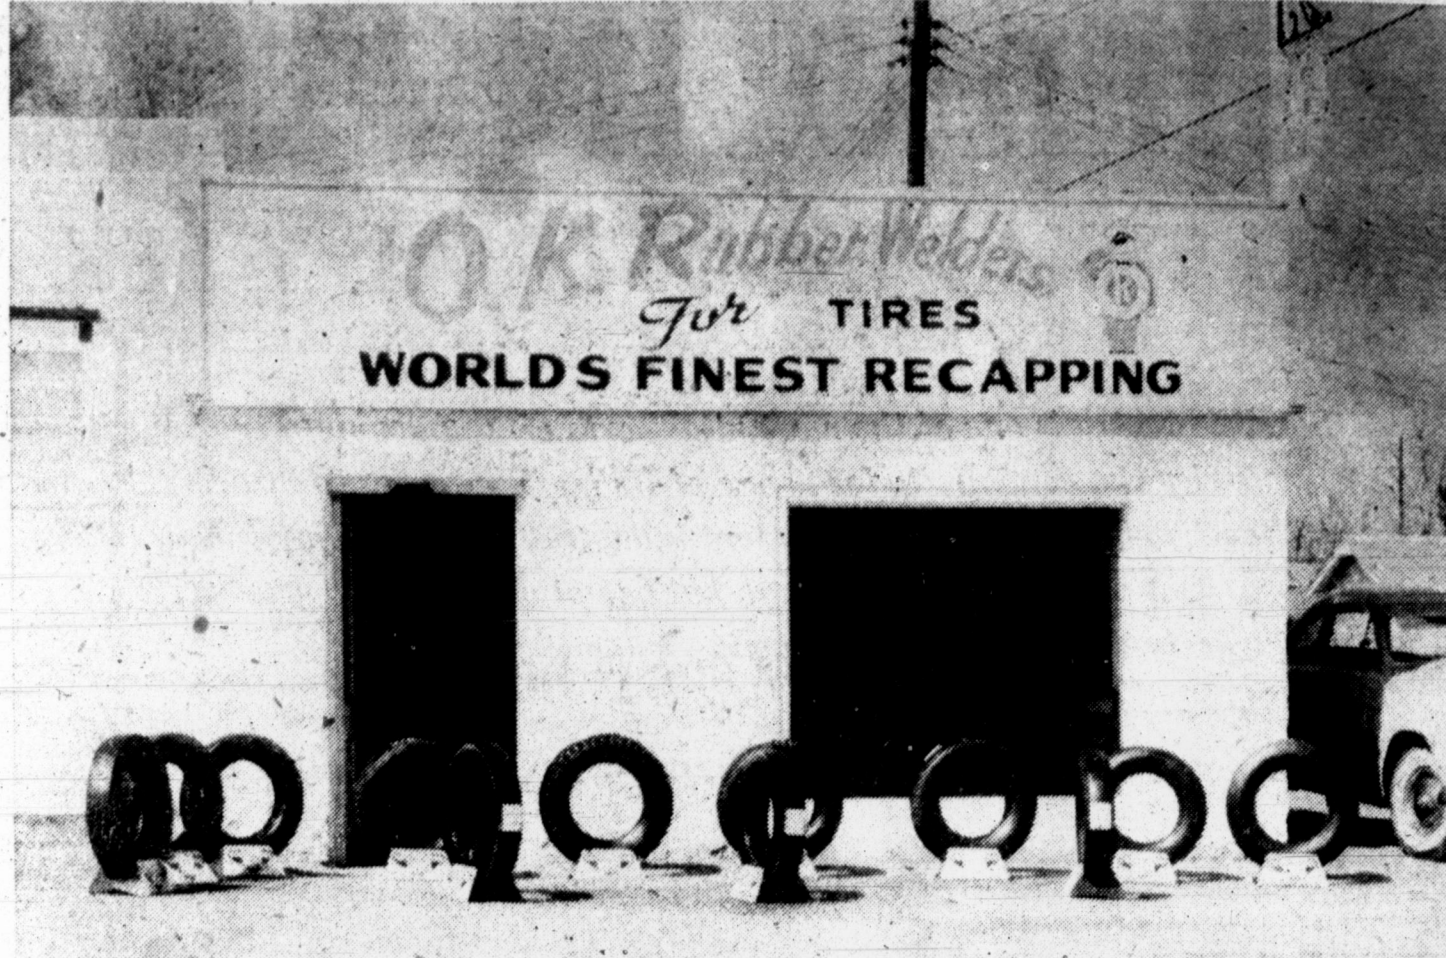

Solitaire has a special demonstration kitchen where visitors may sit down and sample as many of the products and as much as they want.

After going through the factory and tasting their products, Elmer said that he was thoroughly convinced that Solitaire is one of the purest and most reasonably priced food lines that he has come across.

Upon his return, he immediately went to work to get the exclusive distributorship of Solitaire Foods for the people of the Pampa area.

Among the Solitaire Foods that Elmer now has in stock are jellies, jams, all kinds of sauces, peanut butter, Russian and French Dressing which is guaranteed not to separate, and other items. In the near future Elmer will have the full line of Solitaire products including coffee and tea. All of the Solitaire Food line is guaranteed.

Elmer, who is always looking for something different and better to bring to the people of Pampa, said, "If you ever try the Solitaire Brand, You'll really be sold on it."

Shown above is a view of O. K. Rubber Welder's, 918 Alcock (Borger Highway), one of Pampa's newest business establishments. Bill Sugg, owner, makes available to Pampans a new Infra-Ray weld for tire repairs that is revolutionary, scientific and an O. K. exclusive.

New Infra-Ray Weld Is Revolutionary, Scientific

O. K. Rubber Welders offers new Infra-Ray weld for tire repairs. By their new process, O. K. can get the temperature exactly where they want it while the rest of the tire is completely protected. The heat reaches 300 degrees which doesn't bake the tire but cures it. The new Infra-Ray weld is revolutionary, scientific, and an O. K. exclusive. Bill Sugg, owner, welcomes you to come in at 918 Alcock any time for a demonstration and explanation.

O. K. Rubber Welders Infra-Ray weld is an O. K. exclusive because... by no other tire repairing method does your tire casing receive this permanent, protected curing process. It is a faster, positive repair.

It's scientific because... Infra-Ray Heat produces heat by penetration and absorption; it welds from the inside out. This means tire repairing with Infra-Ray is faster and more efficient. Overall curing time of a repaired section is shortened 20 percent. This saving of time is passed on to you as another O. K. Rubber Welder's service.

It's revolutionary because... for the first time Infra-Ray Heat is used in the tire repair service. Infra-Ray welds the repair while keeping the repaired section flexible and lively. This gives you a permanent repair that can safely be driven at new tire speeds. This puts O. K. Rubber Welder's first again!

O. K. Rubber Welder's will guarantee every job that they do. Some guarantees are for five, ten, fifteen or twenty thousand miles and some unconditionally. They are guaranteed against all road hazards and some guaranteed the same as new tires.

Here's the way their guarantee works. You have a tire guaranteed for twenty thousand miles and if after seven thousand miles the tire blows out or breaks, O. K. Rubber Welder's will let you have another tire and only charge you for the seven thousand miles that you had used the first tire.

O. K. Rubber Welder's features four, exclusive:

- The first is better cure—more safety. Normally five minutes per thirty-second of rubber at 290 degrees is required to use rubber tires. In the manufacture of new tires a perfect cure of both sidewall and tread rubber is remote because of the varied thickness of the tire. Only fifteen to twenty minutes are required for a sidewall cure whereas the heavy tread section requires fifty minutes or more.
- These varied temperature requirements result in a compromise between the overcure of the sidewall and an undercure of the tread.
- O. K. Rubber Welder's equipment is designed to give a perfect cure on the tread rubber through electrically controlled heat, while the sidewall is left free of damaging temperature.
- The second exclusive is greater pressure and longer wear. Controlled heat and pressure are necessary for a proper cure of rubber. The less pressure the more porous and spongy the rubber. The more dense the rubber the tougher it becomes.
- Midget race drivers who use O. K. caps, where a completely smooth tread is required, claim that O. K. caps outwear new tires consistently. The tougher, denser rubber in O. K. caps provides more puncture proof tires than soft spongy materials.
- The third O. K. exclusive feature is the steel perfect circle mechanical pressure system giving better balance and smoother riding. It is a scientific fact that a balanced even running tire will give many more thousands of miles of wear than an unbalanced, uneven running tire.
- A major problem in the manufacture of tires is "proper balance." Because rubber is hand-laid in the manufacture of new tires, the human factor presents a problem and results in thousands of unbalanced tires. This condition cannot be corrected in the air bag curing process. The circle mechanical pressure used in the O. K. method, however, corrects this fault and gives a perfect balance to your recapped tires.
- Better non-skid tread, more non-skid mileage is the fourth O. K. exclusive. O. K.'s scientific tread design insures greater non-skid mileage. In recent road tests the Radi-Grip design outperforms all other treads. In these tests the same tread depth and quality rubber were used under identical conditions. In these tests the Radi-Grip outperformed all others.

Crystal Palace, Popular Spot, Newly Decorated

The Crystal Palace, popular rendezvous for many mid-morning and mid-afternoon coffee drinkers, has been newly redecorated. Jo Austin has had plush cushioned booths installed along both sides and the back and a new floor covering has been added. She still plans to have two or three matching tables and chairs added in the center.

Now customers may enjoy the superb coffee served in this ideal meeting place in the added comfort of bright new surroundings — red and yellow trimmed booths and green floor.

Centrally located, the Crystal Palace is an ideal "snack shop." There you can get a variety of sandwiches, soups, cakes, delicious homemade candies, and a long line of fountain delicacies such as ice cream, malts and sodas. You'll also find that Jo has a full line of magazines, newspapers and comic books. On any subject you would be interested in reading about.

If you haven't been in the Crystal Palace for the last few days, be sure that you stop in the very next time that you are downtown. You'll agree that the Crystal Palace is one of the most popular after shopping places in Pampa.

See Des Moore For Repair Jobs

Now is the time that most of you are thinking of spring cleaning. And while you are at it, don't forget about air conditioning, roofing, and minor repairs to gutters, etc., for both your home and garage.

Remember, it isn't quite so easy as it once was to get all the materials that your sheet metal man needs. It might take him a little time to get ready for the job. The earlier you start, the better your chances of getting a good, thorough job of repair in time.

Des Moore is an expert at gutting, roofing, skylights, air conditioning and furnace repair. Whether it's new construction or repair and remodeling of old structures, Des Moore is the man to call for sheet metal work.

Top Grade Gas—Low Prices At Quality Service Station

R. E. Jones, owner of the Quality Service Station on E. Brown, says that they will continue to sell top grade gasoline at the lowest possible prices. During the last few weeks, when their Bell Gas sold for eighteen cents on regular and nineteen cents on Ethyl, they literally gave away thousands of gallons of gasoline. They decided to raise the price of gas back to where it was when they first opened so that they could get some of the money back that they lost.

Jones said that when their gas was selling at eighteen and nineteen cents it was one and one-half cents below their wholesale price. In addition to this they had to pay for transporting the gas.

"We never were in a gas war and never intended to be in one," said Jones. "The reason for our price cut was to try to level off the price of gas. There never was any intent on our part to do any throat-cutting and there never will."

Bell gas is top grade gasoline... as good as any sold in Pampa... as good as any on the market. It contains no gyp and is refined straight from crude oil.

According to Jones, their gas will sell as low as any in town. They do not intend to be undersold, at any time.

The reason that they can sell gasoline at such a low figure is that the Bell Gasoline Company cuts down on the operator's margin. They in turn are expected to make up the difference in volume. It is not that Bell gasoline is of inferior quality.

If you haven't been to the Quality Service Station it's well worth the trip to try a tank of this fine motor fuel. You'll save money in the long run and it's guaranteed top grade gasoline.

Charley Ford, Man To See For Spring Checkup

At Shamrock Service Station, Charley Ford's crew are continually looking for new services that they may offer Pampa motorists. This is the time of year to check your tires and have them switched. If they show signs of wear, Charley will recommend a check of alignment of your steering gear in order to prevent the wearing out of those expensive and not too abundant tires. The best of tires can be ruined by a little out-of-line driving.

There is no better insurance for safe summer driving than to let the men who know give your car the seasonal checkup. Charley Ford's crew don't check for oil level, alone. If your oil is showing signs of dirt and wear, they will warn you.

Summer presents problems of its own. The finish on your car must be added protection from the mere penetrating rays of sun and hot winds. Let Charley Ford clean your car and put a new coat of wax and polish on it. Your paint job will last much longer if you do. Take a run out to 400 West Foster and let Charley Ford fix your car for summer driving.

Borrowing Is U.S. Pastime

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Baseball is no longer the national pastime. Borrowing is.
The average business office, for example, aren't there at least twice as many eager borrowers as there are eager baseball fans?
Some people still frown on borrowing as if it were something immoral or showed a lack of forethought and character. However, that is an old-fashioned view and is dying out.
The reason is simple. Roughly half the people in the nation now borrow from the other half one week — and the next week the second half borrows from the first half. So that doesn't leave anyone who can point the finger of scorn.
Over the years I have made quite a study of office borrowers because I love to hear all their odd adventures.
The borrowers seem to fall into certain pigeonholes:

1. The wet-eyed or emergency borrower. This is the type that is in deep trouble. "Our family cat just has to have an operation," he says, "and the veterinarian refuses to let a scalpel unless I plunk down $25. Please, please, help me save our dear old tabby."
2. The lucky - to - have - the - chance - to - do - me - a - favor borrower. If you lend this gent enough to buy his children a television set, he also thinks you ought to buy them glasses so they won't hurt their eyes. When it comes to paying you back, he has a memory like a herd of elephants — all stricken with amnesia.
3. The Robin Hood borrower. This type has a heart too big for one chest, and he goes around borrowing for other people. "Old Joe Deakes hit me up for $200 to buy some store teeth but I'm strapped myself," he says. "Lend me the $200 and I'll give it to good old Joe." But when you try to collect it back you find Robin Hood is somewhere deep in Sherwood Forest.
4. The "it-all-adds-up" borrower. This is usually a weathered little character who goes around borrowing nickels, dimes, quarters, and dollar bills each week from as many people as he can. He has no intention of repaying, but everyone knows his secret.

AZALEAS AND MOSS—Greenfield Lake, in Wilmington, N. C., is one of the major attractions of the annual azalea festival March 29-April 1, which features a lot more than azaleas.

More Than Azaleas Needed To Make Up Flower Festival

By NEA Service
WILMINGTON, N. C. (NEA)—It takes more than azaleas to make an Azalea Festival, at least the way Wilmington stages one. Besides flowers, this year's Festival will feature golfers, checker players, pretty girls, hill-billy orchestras and assorted military men.
The annual celebration, which this year hopes to attract more than 100,000 visitors, marks the climax of southeastern North Carolina's azalea season.
For the genuine azalea lover the festival is the big event of the year. All types and colors will be out in profuse bloom in shades ranging from white through magenta, purple, pink, lavender and red to crimson.
Besides Wilmington's own Greenfield Park, two private gardens will be open to the public. These are the Orton Plantation and Airlee Estate, both famous for their acres of well-tended gardens. The azaleas themselves have competition from late-blooming camellias, white dog-wood roses and wisteria.
But there's much more to the Dutch Harrison, defending his title. And there's the Southeastern U. S. Checker Tournament, run during the festival.

All sorts of radio personalities will do broadcasts from Wilmington during the big doings. And there'll be a Community Sing and a Teen-Age Azalea Ball — you've missed something if you haven't seen an azalea dance.
Another big event is the annual parade, this one lasting an hour and a half. There'll be more than 50 floats, decorated with you-know-whats, and featuring pretty girls, too. And 20 bands will tootle down Wilmington's main street.
Next on the program is a folk music program, featuring North Carolina's "King of the Hill Billies," Arthur Smith. Later on, there's a band concert scheduled right smack in the middle of an azalea bed in the park.
The climax of all the hilarity will be the Queen's Coronation Ball. Nobody knows who the Queen will be. They do know she'll be a Hollywood actress — at least the past queens have been. And she'll be pretty. And she'll carry a bouquet of a certain kind of flower.
The odds are it won't be a dandelion.

'Just Send Along Hedy' Is The Favorite With Judges

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—Contests always look so easy. You just write a few words, clip off the top of a box, mail in your entry and wait for the armored car with your money. The only trouble is that usually hundreds of thousands of other people have the same idea.
Which means that the odds against winning the top prize in most contests range from 500,000 to 1,000,000-to-1. But, despite the odds, few people can resist the lure of the box-top bonanza.
Behind the contest scene is a smoothly-efficient concern, The Reuben H. Donnelley Corp., which engineers about 90 percent of the nation-wide contests. They inherit all the headaches, from the initial planning stage until the last indignity letter from a sore loser is answered.
The first problem of contest planners is what kind of a contest to plan. The Donnelley people say the choice is limited, in actual practice, to four basic types.
1. The old stand-by, "25 words or less" essay type. You're supposed to tell why you like Old Aunt Martha's Cheerful Chutney with a stated number of words, almost invariably 25.
2. The naming contest. If a sponsor wants to launch a new product or a new advertising symbol, you suggest the name. Usually, you have to add a 25-word thesis on why you like the name, as a tie-breaker.
3. The jingle contest. The sponsor gives you a few lines of a jingle, and you add on a last line to rhyme. Sometimes, you write a whole verse.
Although it didn't win a thing, Donnelley officials like to quote one jingle as the best they ever read. It was in a contest to write a four-liner about somebody's favorite brumette, and read:

My favorite brumette
Is Hedy Lamar.
Just send her along
And keep your old car.
4. The slogan contest. In this one, you simply write a catchy slogan for the product.
It really doesn't matter which contest is used, as far as response is concerned.
The same thing applies to prizes. The Donnelley people say that cash prizes pull better than merchandise prizes, but they all do well. The only kind of merchandise that consistently lures more entries than plain folding money is fancy fur coats.
But almost always the fur coat winner, if he (or she) has a choice, will take cash instead of the coat. Which leaves contest planners a little confused about human nature.
The Donnelley experts write the rules with great care. They point out that a contest entry legally constitutes a contract. They take no chances on embarrassing loopholes in the rules.
Many people forget to sign their names. Others sign their names, but forget to enclose an entry. If the contest says "25 words," some people write more. Twenty-six words and you're out. "When there's the 'proof of purchase' which is the technical term for the label or box-top. Many entrants forget this completely or send one from a competitor's product. Sometimes, when asked for the box front, they'll send the back or the side or the bottom.
The old "reasonably accurate facsimile" is a thing of the past. The Post Office no longer requires that provision. The "facsimile" idea was always good for a laugh, like the time a woman sent in the picture of a man with a big grin. She explained, "Here is the face smile you wanted."
All Donnelley judges are college-trained and specially instructed. But not everybody can be a judge. One man resigned after three days, on the verge of a nervous collapse. He couldn't stand the strain. Donnelley had to fire another, a Ph. D., when they found his standards were too high. He didn't think anybody deserved to win.
Judging thousands of entries is, done by process of elimination, gradually weeding out the poorer ones. First to go are the jingles that don't rhyme, the 25-word essays that don't make sense and the slogans that are echoes of previous winners.
Then the entries are read again and again, with the judges getting tougher and tougher. The ranks are thinned with each reading.
The final judging, when only the best entries remain, is the work of Donnelley executives. This is done on a "blind" basis, with the entry itself visible but not the name or address of the entrant. Each of 18 executives rates the finalists and their individual ratings are tabulated to determine the ultimate winner.

Once the winner is picked, he is investigated. The winner must sign an affidavit, swearing that the prize-winning entry was his own work.
One woman winner refused, saying she had religious scruples against swearing and couldn't sign the affidavit. Donnelley substituted the word "affirm" for "swear" and she got her money.
Donnelley men are kept busy answering irate letters. Indignant contestants insist they've been gyped out of their rightful prize. Frequent letters are received from people who generously offer to split the booty with the judges, a bribe that is quickly and firmly rejected. But every letter that comes in is answered, promptly and politely.

Rice Exports Increase Thailand Officials Say
BANGKOK — (AP) — Thailand's rice exports this year are running well above the officially predicted mark of 1,200,000 tons. Thailand exported 933,000 tons in the first 10 months of 1949, and 648,000 tons in the corresponding period of 1948.

Indonesia Fishermen Seeking New Waters
SINGAPORE — (AP) — Fishermen in this British crown colony are dickering for permission to re-enter now prohibited areas in Indonesian territorial waters. T. W. Burdon, deputy director of fisheries, said his department is arranging a conference with Indonesian authorities to iron out fishing problems.
Scarcity of fish in this colony, coupled with short supply from Indonesia and Sarawak, has caused a big boost in fish prices.

WASHINGTON — The utter lack of breakdown of an effective American intelligence organization in the military, diplomatic and economic fields abroad in a new year for the United States is rapidly losing the "cold war," in the opinion of such qualified experts as William J. Donovan, World War II head of OSS, and Admiral Zacharias, our top secret agent and propagandist.

INADEQUACY — This is not a new story, as ransacking of German and Japanese secret documents after their surrender showed.

STUMBLING — But Washington has no definite information on any of these questions so pertinent to American victory, either in a "cold" or "hot" war.

TRANSFORMATION — Even members of existing intelligence organizations concede the need for the formation of a sort of general staff corresponding to the Pentagon setup in the military, naval and air fields.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK — (AP) — Back in 1935, Fort Robertson was one of the Oklahoma U. wrestlers whom Coach Paul Keen loaded into a rattly Model-T to go to Bethlehem, Pa., for the NCAA tournament. . . . It took them nine days for the round trip and they did very well to finish second after such strenuous travel. . . . This spring, Robertson, now 30-year coach, loaded his own team into two university-owned airplanes, moaning because two boys had to use commercial planes and flew to Bethlehem in seven hours. His team won the NCAA title. . . . Naturally, Fort is enthusiastic, though it seems odd in a sport where falls are so important. . . . Another Oklahoma coach, Joe Glander, recently heard of a South African swimmer who wanted to go to school at O.U. . . . Joe was eager too, until he learned that the kid's passage would cost $600. . . . Then track coach John Jacobs suggested, "Why don't you greet him and have him swim over?"

Ridge Riley, Penn State College Alumni secretary, turns out a weekly football letter to the alumni during the season which calls for verbal punches. . . . After Army clubber Penn State last fall, Ridge was more than a little critical of the Cadets' rugged play and Army Coach Red Hagg was irate over the criticism. . . . Just the other day, Blak Rippled, Penn State Coach, Rippled to suggest a spring practice game, but Engle declined because his squad wasn't ready for rough work. . . . "You're right, Rip," Blak conceded, "but I had sort of looked forward to a scrimmage. I wanted you to play Ripley on the line."

In addition to nine members of the Walker Cup team, about a dozen American golfers are planning to play in the British tournaments this summer, among them Dynamite Goodie and Dale Morey. . . . Cuppers Charley Coe, Jimmy McFale and Billy Campbell also are eyeing the French Amateur and Grace Lennox and Dot Kieley are thinking about entering the British Hillwood Wilson, who went south from New Jersey to college organized the first football team at Sewanee in 1889, the boys used an oval block of wood in place of a football until they could get a real one. . . . To assure Manager Chuck Dressen's convenience after his recent illness, Vice President Buzzie Bayard locked up Chuck's uniform so he couldn't return to the coaching lines without the doctor's okay.

The Universities of Arizona and Colorado played a baseball game the other day. . . . Going into the last half of the eighth, Colorado had a big lead, then things began to happen. . . . Arizona batted around twice to score 15 runs in four hits, three stolen bases and a wild pitch. They finally had to call the game on account of darkness with only two men out. Final score 15-3. . . . But that didn't surprise the Arizona fans a bit much. The day before the Arizona freshmen played Arizona State of Tempe and stole 31 bases in two seven-inning games.

Mangrum Captures Disputed Azalea Golf Tournament

WILMINGTON, N. C. — (AP) — The 18th green of the Cape Fear Country Club was crowded with thousands of spectators waiting for the presentation of the $2,000 first prize in the Azalea Open Golf Tournament to Lloyd Mangrum yesterday.

They had seen the veteran Chicagoan score a closing par 72 for 281 to lead the field and were waiting for the presentation ceremony.

It never took place. Mangrum's last putt hardly settled in the cup before word spread that there was a question of a possible infraction of the 14-club rule by the former National Open champion.

The rules committee, three local club members and PGA representative Howard Capps, were rounded up. After hearing the story they held that Mangrum violated no rule and he was given the $2,000 top money.

Mangrum had decided to change putters after the front nine. He went into the locker room for a new putter to play the 10th. However, his attention was called to the fact that he couldn't change clubs unless the original club was no longer fit for play and he discarded the new putter for the one with which he started.

The committee reasoned that since he had not actually used a two-game exhibition series, he was not guilty of using 15 clubs.

Mangrum's third tournament win of the year brought his winnings to $10,611.33.

Jim Turnesa, Briar Cliff, N. J., Ed Furgo, Royal Oak, Mich., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, each won $1,066.66 in sharing second place with a 72-hole total of 282.

Three men tied for fifth place at 283 for $606.66. They were Greiner, Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., and Earl Stewart, Dallas, who was the 5-hole leader at 208, one stroke ahead of Mangrum.

Galloping Ghost Is On All-Time All American

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (AP) — Harold (Red) Grange, the "Galloping Ghost" of Illinois and perhaps the greatest college runner in history, was an unanimous choice today for one of the all-time All America football team.

This unprecedented team is being chosen by the Associated Press in a nationwide poll of newspaper and radio sports editors and in conjunction with the National Football Hall of Fame.

Men on the first three teams are nominated for consideration by the honors court of the Hall of Fame, a $5,000,000 shrine planned at Rutgers University. This is where the first college football game was played between Rutgers and Princeton in 1869.

No selection has been made yet to the Hall of Fame but it is probable players chosen on these Associated Press teams will be among the early honorees.

Grange, the gaitle-footed red-head with the phantom hips, rolled up the largest point total of all the greats.

The Illinois star received 704 points, high in the poll, outdoing such standouts as Jim Thorpe, the old Carlisle Indian; Notre Dame's George Gipp and Johnny Lujack; Michigan's Tom Harmon and Willie Heston and Chicago's Jay Berwanger.

More than 100 sports editors participated in the poll, but the final returns represent thousands of opinions. Many newspapers conducted polls among their subscribers before submitting their final ballot. Points are awarded on the basis of ten for a first place team vote, five for second and two for third.

The "Galloping Ghost" was the epitome of gridiron greatness in the era of the golden twenties when Jack Dempsey ruled fistic ranks and Bobby Jones was the king of golf.

Grange entered Illinois in 1922 with a scrap-book stuffed with rave notices from Wheaton, Ill., where, as a high school halfback, he averaged five touchdowns a game.

Two Big 'Its' Bar Way For Tulsa Oilers In Texas Loop

By JACK CHARVAT (Written For The AP)
ALEXANDRIA, La. — (AP) — Two big "its" are included in any glance at the chances of the Tulsa Oilers reaching the Texas League playoffs. Ever since the reactivation of the circuit after the war, the Oilers have been in the select group of four. They should be up there again, no worse than second or third if the two "its" come around.

The first "it" concerns the ability of Russell Burns, power-belted right fielder, to hit back anywhere near his 1949 figure when his big bat sparked Tulsa to a second place finish and an eventual pennant. Russ clouted in 113 runs that year, went up to Cincinnati last spring, hurt his back and was shuttled to Syracuse where he never reached good physical condition.

Traded to Tulsa for Fletcher Robbe, Burns reported heavy and was a failure with the bat. This spring the big Kansan started to tattoo the boards in exhibition games. He was down to 210 and got three homers in the first three games of Grapefruit League competition.

"I'm happy to be back playing for Al Vincent," Burns said. The second "it" involves the ability of the parent Reds to provide at least three front-line pitchers. The Oilers have been happy under the Cincinnati ownership as Cincy always has provided the extra help needed to win.

Cincinnati Farm Chief Fred Fleig, who was with the club for its early days of exhibition play, has indicated the Reds will send along "at least two pitchers, an outfielder and a first baseman."

The rest of the club is in fair shape. Three Texas League veterans, including Burns, are on hand to man the outfield. Robbe is back from Syracuse and Ed Knoblauch, one of the finest fly-shaggers in the loop, will play in center.

The Tulsans have the best catching staff in the league in carry-overs Dewey Williams and Walter Wrona. Both handle pitchers well and both can come up with a base hit in the clutch.

Elbie Flint, an Oiler in 1948, is at third, having been obtained from Syracuse. At shortstop is a carry-over, Harry Donabedian. John Temple, a stout hitter from Columbia of the Sally League, can play second base, but there you stop.

The crying need is at first base where Don Eggert, a .306 hitter last season at Charleston in the Class A Central League, holds forth. Don can swing a

Layoffs Start In Production

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — (AP) — Industrial production is at a peak but the layoffs have started. Civilian goods have poured from the auto, appliance and other durable goods factories in record volume — but now the honeymoon is over. Federal curbs on use of steel, rubber, copper, aluminum are going into effect — and next week several thousand men will be furloughed.
The auto industry is among the first to cut back. Here are the layoffs just announced by General Motors and Studebaker — to be added to former layoffs reported last week:
General Motors is laying off today about 1,800 men in Kansas City, about 500 in Southgate, Calif., about 950 in two Baltimore divisions, 480 at Linden, N.J., and perhaps 100 more at Dravosburg, Pa. Studebaker is cutting factory jobs by 20 percent Monday, giving furloughs to 4,000 workers.
Nash - Kelvinator expects to keep auto production going as usual for the present at least but is laying off 200 at its Grand Rapids, Mich., kitchen range plant.
What is back of all this? Federal curbs on materials usage go into effect now and these and other companies have used up most of their metal stockpiles in their rush to make as much civilian goods as possible before defense production gets its steam.
Here are the curbs: manufacturers must use 20 percent less steel in civilian products than their average use in the first half of 1950. Copper use must be cut 25 percent below average use in the first half of last year.
Manufacturers' inventories are up, too. The Commerce Department reports today they now have book values of $35.8 billion. The rise during February was only $500 million, however, compared with a billion dollar a month clip in other months since Korea.
Manufacturers' unfilled orders jumped $3.7 billion during February to a $48.7 billion total, almost double the $23.4 billion at the time the Korean War started.
The Nile and Amazon rivers are each about 4,000 miles long.

Keep Your Eye On KPDN

By PHIL SOLBERG
The week sure rolls around in a hurry doesn't it? And during the last week I have gathered plenty of information for your radio listening notebook. As you probably know by now the Chamber of Commerce is planning to observe Texas Industrial Week again this year, April 2 through 7.
The purpose of this program is to express appreciation to local industry for their contribution to the community, and to give citizens an opportunity to visit the various designated industries each afternoon from 1 to 3 during the week. Now the part KPDN will be playing is this: each day open house will be held at a different plant, and KPDN's special events team Kay Fancher and Garth Osburn will be on hand to record the goings on. The actual time of rebroadcast will be at 3 to 3:30 p. m. every day.

Today you will hear a rebroadcast direct from the Cabot Shops, Tuesday, from the Pampa Foundry where they will actually be pouring metal during the broadcast. Then on Wednesday the team from KPDN will journey to the Cities Service Gasoline Plant, Thursday the Baash-Ross T o o l Company, and Friday the General Atlas Carbon Co. and they will wind up Texas Industrial Week at the Petroleum Specialty Co.
If you are not able to attend any of these open house days, just keep tuned to 1340 on your radio dial and KPDN, as a public service will be bringing them right into your home. Time again daily 3 to 3:30 p. m.
I might add a little note here, and that is that you will be hearing guests throughout the week on "Staff Breakfast Broadcast" 9:30 a. m. daily in connection with the Texas Industrial Week celebration. And just between you and me that program is the most power packed educational half hour you could possibly find anywhere. Try that listening habit and see just what I mean, every morning at 9:30. Kay and Marge do a great job of rounding up some of Pampa's most interesting guests and keep sending in your cards with your name and telephone number so you might get a chance at the jackpot.

And say, I might slip in a little hint here as to our growing start up here at KPDN. It's supposed to be a secret but I enjoy being the first to spill the beans. And that is, starting this coming week you will hear a new voice and personality over KPDN. A male this time, and a credit to you out there. More about him next week, but meantime keep listening for his voice.
I wonder honestly if any youngster in Pampa does not have a rubber ball and paddle after what Uncle Coy pulled last week? It sorta went this way. Over his program one night Uncle Coy mentioned that if the kiddies went to a certain local shoe store on Cuyler and gave the special pass-word they could get a rubber ball and paddle. Well, if you have ever underestimated the power of radio all your doubts were erased that day if you were any place downtown. Hats off Uncle Coy, you sure have the listeners. And if you have ever missed this big bundle of sunshine just tune to KPDN at 7:45 a. m. or p. m. and also at 6:45 p. m. You will go through the day singing some of the old favorites he brings back, plus some of the new popular numbers. It's Pampa's own local program originating in the studios of KPDN. And every member of the family finds enjoyment in one of the three programs Uncle Coy airs. Remember the times, both 7:45 a. m. and p. m. plus the funnies at 6:45 in the evening.

First in the new series of "Wild Bill Hickok" programs on Mutual network's Sunday schedule 6 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. which will be broadcast April 1, will depict the Western hero in the role of a peace-maker between ranchers and railroading pioneers. The new series of programs will star Guy Madison as U. S. Marshal Wild Bill Hickok and gravel-voiced Andy Devine as Jingles, his deputy and constant companion. The new radio series is based on the adventures of James Butler Hickok, the fastest six-gun shooter in a land where the difference between living and sudden death. Hickok's activities as a U. S. marshal prompted legends which still are told in the plains states.
So long for now people, I'll be talking to you on the 10 p. m. news every night and just as I say before I go off the air nightly: Please drive carefully, we want you around all the time.

Hope For Legit Stage Still Glows, Says Thomas Mitchell

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Thomas Mitchell, back in Hollywood after an extensive stage tour with "Death of a Salesman," says there's hope for the stage after all.
"The living theater, long the 'fabulous invalid' of the show world, has been counted out on many occasions. First, movies came along to threaten the legit. Then radio, and now television. But somehow the theater has managed to survive, and Mitchell predicts it will continue to do so."
"Oh, it won't be anything like it was in the past," he remarked on the set of "Skid Row." I can remember when there were 45 theaters in New York. Those days won't return. But there will always be an audience for what are called hit shows.
"This economic pinch in the theater has been a good thing. It has weeded out the run-of-the-mill shows that have no reason to exist anyway. After all, there are only about two shows every season that amount to anything — four, if you count the musicals."
"These shows will continue to do business on the road. The others? Well, they're just junk. I should know. I've appeared in enough of them myself. I even wrote a couple."
Mitchell said he found full houses and knowing audiences wherever he toured with "Salesman."

"There are no 'sticks' anymore," he declared. "In this age of rapid communication, audiences are just as hip in Iowa as they are in Manhattan. Oh, perhaps a topical revenue might not go over as well elsewhere as in New York. But any other kind of show gets just as good a response."
I asked if the adage — that Los Angeles is a bad show town — is true.
"We played to capacity here," he replied. "I can't complain."
Another outfit tried to disprove the local jinx on show enterprises this week. Earl Carroll's Theater restaurant opened after being shut for a year.
For a night, it looked like the lush days (particularly in wartime) when Carroll himself offered a lavish supply of whatever the spenders wanted to buy. The place was filled for the reopening with a noisy, fun-seeking crowd.
The show itself was several cuts below the corny but spectacular productions the late showman once presented. It was a road company revue imported from New York's Latin Quarter cafe. The greatest assets to the show (as with Carroll's) were the girls.
"The famed Carroll motto — 'through these portals pass the most beautiful girls in the world' — still bears some logic. It remains to be seen whether enough cash customers will pass through the portals to keep the place from closing the second time."

JUST A FIT—Worse than being over a barrel, thinks five-year-old Tommy Bremner, is to have a barrel over you and not be able to wriggle out. That was Tommy's predicament until Chicago firemen with a hacksaw sprung him. Here, Tommy shows how it was done.

New Book Features Jim Williams' Cowboy Cartoons

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A panorama of the color and humor of the American West, as portrayed by one of the world's best-known and best-loved cartoonists — J. R. Williams — is on display in the just-published book, "Cowboys Out Our Way" (Charles Scribner's Sons, $2).

Readers who have enjoyed Williams' "Out Our Way" cartoons on the comic page of The Pampa News will find many of their favorites reproduced in this new collection.

The book includes 192 of the cowboy drawings which have entertained millions of newspaper readers during the last 29 years. Jim Williams started drawing "Out Our Way" in 1922. His work now appears in more than 1000 daily and Sunday newspapers.

All of the famous Williams cowpuncher characters appear in this collection: Curly and Sluffy; Wes, the reformed tenderfoot; Big Ike; Sugar, the unpredictable cook; Soda, the pipe-smoking cowboy, and others. Nearly every page features the amazingly lifelike horses and cattle, drawn as only Jim Williams can draw them.

Says J. Frank Dobie, celebrated western author and writer, and university professor, in the book's foreword: "The characters come out of two deeply seated realities in their creator: his own experience on the range and his dreams of a free life in the open. Over years of time Jim Williams has been living with these characters on their own spaces of mesa, mountain and canyon, with here and there a hole of alkalish water."
Dobie tells of the artist's background as a cowboy in the New Mexico and Arizona country. "He has cooked for cow outfits and put up with camp cooks in his own day. He has owned and operated a 45,000-acre ranch, doing his own part of the work. He was a cavalryman for three years in the days when cavalry meant horses."

Yet, says Dobie, "Jim Williams is a very diffident and humble man. He deprecates his own work with a modesty painful both to himself and his friends."
"Also, in his own words, he 'would rather have been a fairly successful cowman out in the bright sunlight of the days than the most successful cartoonist that ever lived.' If giving his own shirt to any cowpuncher who came along would make a cowman successful, I imagine Jim Williams might have become the king of cattle kings."

Williams has a library well stocked with western books, but he also reads the best of literature, including poetry, Dobie reveals. "He likes to remember people and things that have appealed to him. That is, one of the marks of a generous nature. I imagine that his continuing cartoons on 'The Worry War' and 'Why Mothers Get Gray' often trail back to the long, long thoughts, as well as to the devilments of his own boyhood."
"The cartoons on the machine shop, dominated by 'The Bull of the Woods' go back to his work as a machinist. 'Born Thirty Years Too Soon' has carried millions of people back to times before the horseless carriage machined the world. He may spend a day searching for an idea that he can put in black and white in a fraction of an hour. To vast numbers of people he is a part of their daily bread."

"Cowboys Out Our Way" is the sixth book of "Out Our Way" cartoons to be published by Scribner's.

Accident Opens Hunt For Army Explosives

BROWNWOOD — (AP) — A section of Brownwood nearest Camp Bowie was searched for explosives Saturday after William Gary Whitmore, 10, had two fingers blown off.

The boy's sister, Julia Anne Whitmore, 12, was uninjured when a World War II type practice handmine exploded as the children played with it.

The girl, police said, found the landmine and gave it to her brother. Besides losing two fingers, he received face lacerations in the resulting blast.
