"One of the things most strongly impressed upon the minds of the Egyptians was patriotism. No one was permitted to be useless in the state. The law assigned to each one his work which was handed down from father to son. No one was permitted to have two professions, nor could a person change from one job to another."

"HE'S BIG ENOUGH now to take the law into his own hands." Here's the first hint in the Pampa News "Can You Guess This Baby Contest" which is being held in connection with National Baby Week. A picture of one or more prominent Pampa men as a baby will appear in The News each day this week. This is No. 1.

A New Guessing Game For Baby Week:

Pampa Men Were Pretty Babies Once

Today is the opening of National Baby Week — a period of time set aside to honor the crop of lovable bits of humanity that gurgle and laugh their way into millions of hearts all over the world. In such a week as this, it is customary to place most of the emphasis on babies of today. But with the cooperation of local business firms, The Daily News wants to be a little different by giving recognition to the babies of yesterday, and at the same time give our readers a little fun as well as some cash prizes.

JACKIE EUGENE HAYS

Local Marine Is Wounded

Word was received Saturday by Mrs. Maude Mae Hays, 228 W. Craven, that her son, Jackie Eugene, 21, was wounded in action in Korea April 24. The nature of the youth's wounds is not known. He has recovered from an injury two months ago when he was hit with shrapnel in the eyes. Young Hays served in the Marine Corps in 1946 and 1947, and was recalled to active duty in September, 1950. He attended Pampa High School, and was living in Detroit at the time of his recall.

Committee Frames Recommendation For No Check In Power Company Finances, Reserves

City tax money should not be spent to investigate the Texas Gas and Power Corp.'s gas reserves or its books, a group of citizens decided during a town hall meeting Friday night. The recommendations came in two separate motions following discussions on potential gas reserve, and cost, profit and value of the power company's business. The meeting, headed by Tom Rose, was a follow-up of the public hearing Tuesday before the city commission on the proposed 10 percent rate increase for the power company. At that time discussion was mostly hostile toward the increase and developed into arguments rather than direct questions. This led Mayor C. A. Huff to call a town-hall type meeting.

U.S. Proposes To Chavez Lashes

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States has formally proposed arbitration of the deadlock with Russia over a settlement of the $10,800,000,000 lend-lease aid granted the Soviets in World War II. "Four years of direct negotiation between our two governments have yielded little progress toward a settlement of this issue," Secretary of State Acheson said in a note to Russia's Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin.

Allies Set Up New Defenses Close To Seoul

TOKYO — (AP) — Allied troops withdrew to a new defensive line four miles north of apparently doomed Seoul today. Vanguards of 300,000 Chinese Communists poured through Uijongbu, gateway to the South Korean capital. United Nations forces — still intact and full of fight after six days of intense combat — abandoned Uijongbu Saturday night without a fight. That road and rail junction is 11 miles by air north of Seoul. Rearguard Allied elements stemmed the Communist advance until the main body of UN troops could move into their new lines north of the Han River.

Along the central and eastern fronts, the allies also retired, leaving a no-man's-land between them and the slow-moving Reds. The allied withdrawal was orderly. Nothing was left behind. The U. S. Eighth Army vehicles poured southward under leaden skies by day and night.

Billy Graham Seeks Answers On Korea

SHREVEPORT — (AP) — Billy Graham, nationally known evangelist, will head for the nation's capital this week. Graham is going to ask officials why the UN doesn't withdraw its troops from Korea or send enough to end the conflict. The evangelist closes a three-week revival here tonight.

Pampa Man Killed In Crash Of Plane

Ernest O. Cox, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Knapp, 209 Sunset Drive, was one of 14 men killed Friday when an F-51 fighter plane collided with a B-36 during a mock air raid on Oklahoma City. The crash occurred at Carney, Okla. Cox, along with Capt. Harold Leslie Barry, pilot from Fort Worth, had just landed another B-36 crash over British Columbia in 1950. Cox, whose wife is the former Billie Knapp of Pampa, was stationed at Carswell Air Base in Fort Worth, and served at Pampa Army Air Base from April, 1943, to October, 1943.

It is believed the fighter plane struck the bomber between the wing and tail section, breaking the B-36 into huge hunks. Four members of the crew parachuted to safety.

Pampan's Relative Dies In California

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hammond, 423 N. Wynn, left Saturday afternoon for Fontana, Calif., where they were called because of the death of Mr. Hammond's father. Hammond is the operator of the magazine stand at the post office. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond were to drive to California with Mr. Hammond's sister, Mrs. G. W. Mashburn of Borger.

Government Slaps On New Beef Price Control Program

Ten Cents A Pound Rollback Due Oct. 1

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government Saturday announced a new beef price control program calling for almost a dime-a-pound rollback at the butcher shop by Oct. 1. The program provides for progressively reduced ceilings for live cattle starting next month. Retail prices will remain about the same for the time being. They will be placed under specific dollars-and-cents ceilings. But the announcement said they will be reduced from four to five cents a pound on Aug. 1, and again by the same amount on Oct. 1.

ERNEST O. COX

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) said that annual savings to American public will be about $700,000,000. The new ceilings, OPS said, will put beef prices by fall back to about where they were when the Korean war began. Retail prices then are to average 10 percent lower than now. Farmers' prices for cattle will be about 18 percent less.

OPS Director Michel V. Disalle said it was impossible to order immediate retail price reductions because livestock prices are uncontrolled until now, have squeezed wholesalers and retailers whose price levels have been frozen since January.

That is the reason for lowering livestock prices first, before the August and October retail price cuts go into effect. It will also give producers a chance to unload their high cost animals.

"Meat," said Disalle, in a speech at Bridgeport, Conn., "has soared in price because it occupies as the average American household plans and prepares a balanced diet she feels is necessary for the health of her family."

OPS officials contended the new program is fair to the industry and should allow continued full beef production. OPS said the new regulations affect practically every family in America as well as some 300,000 meat retailers and 25,000 packers, slaughterers and other meat wholesalers. Beef accounts for 44 percent of the nation's meat diet.

The new regulations do not apply to veal and certain beef products which still remain in the January price freeze. Nor do they apply to pork, sausage, lamb, or mutton. OPS officials said they are working on pork regulations. These are the steps Disalle ordered on beef prices.

1. A 10 percent cut in prices which slaughterers may pay the farmer for cattle. This goes into effect for accounting periods beginning on or after May 20.

2. Dollar and cents ceilings are fixed for wholesalers and retailers for the first time. The wholesaler ceilings go into effect May 14. Butcher shops must post retail ceiling price charts, by grade and cut, by June 4.

Prices slaughterers may pay for cattle are to be reduced an additional four and one-half percent Aug. 1 and by the same amount Oct. 1.

Warren Hasse, former managing editor and earlier sports editor for The Daily News, has joined the staff again — this time as temporary sports editor. He replaces Speck Reynolds who has moved to Clinton, Okla. Hasse is business manager for the Pampa Oilers and sports announcer for KFDM.

More Entrants Needed: Pampa's annual Soap Box Derby has been set for July 22, according to Dick Stowers, general chairman of this year's event. Approximately 20 boys have signed up for the derby so far, and others contemplating entering the race are urged to register as soon as possible at Culbertson Chevrolet. Stowers said the chairman said some boys have been reluctant to enter a place to work and tools with which to build their cars. "We will do everything possible," Stowers said, "to see that tools and a place to work are made available. Lack of these things should not prevent any boy from building a car and getting his chance to enter the national derby."

Guardsmen Moving Headquarters Here

Pampa's new headquarters for the 474 FA Observation Battalion of the Texas National Guard. Announcement of the headquarters battery of 474 FA Observation Battalion will be moved here from the Secretary of the Army Chief of the National Guard Bureau. Capt. William J. Hagsdale of Pampa is the battalion executive officer, and the commander is Lt. Col. James T. Clarke of Borger.

Lt. Charles Robinson, Lt. Robert A. Smith, Lt. Milton Grappe and Warrant Officer William Leonard will be absorbed into the organization here. The headquarters, when fully staffed, will have 14 officers and five warrant officers.

The central location of Pampa makes it a logical headquarters for this area. Lt. Col. Clarke explained. The population of the area is adequate to support such a unit, and technical employees of local industry constitute a potential officer pool from which officers can be drawn. "Pampa has demonstrated its ability to support a headquarters by its previous support of Battery A here," Lt. Col. Clarke said.

Battery A personnel here will become the personnel for the headquarters, and Dumas will become Battery A. Battery B is in Dalhart, and Battery C is in Shamrock, spokesman said. New personnel here will include Lt. Col. Clarke, Capt. J. W. Lummus, radar officer, and Capt. Clarence P. Hart, communications officer. There will be no flash, sound or radar section here, but there will be an outstanding meteorological section, which will furnish periodic weather reports for use by artillery of the corps.

There will also be administrative, survey and communications sections in the headquarters battery, Lt. Col. Clarke said.

Bidding Will Open Monday For Signs On Area Highways

Bids for construction of four huge "Scotch-lite" highway signs advertising Pampa, Borger, and Dumas will be opened at 5 p. m. Monday at a joint meeting of the Pampa-Borger Sign Committee in the chamber of commerce offices. Construction companies interested are to have their bids in the chamber offices by 5 p. m. Monday, deadline for bids to be accepted.

Ray Evans, chairman of the joint committee, said two of the signs will be erected in the Dumas area, the other two at still undetermined points south of Pampa. The signs will give directions to Pampa, Borger or Dumas by reflected light at night when automobile light rays hit the "Scotch-lite" compound.

Evans said final location of the signs south of Pampa will be determined after a contract is awarded so committee and contractor can work together in selecting the sites.

Twelfth Airman Dies From Azores Crash

ROSWELL, N. M. — (AP) — A twelfth airman died early Saturday from a B-29 crash in the Azores. He was identified by Walker Air Force Base as Sgt. Earl Jackson, 23 of Oakland, Calif. "Have you air-conditioner serviced by experienced service men, Copple, replacing pads, pumps, etc. for replacement," Bert A. Howell & Co., 119 N. Ward, Ph. 152.

Hughes Spokesmen Mum On Panhandle, Pampa Plans

Spokesmen for the R. G. "Dick" Hughes interests here were next to silent Saturday following published reports Friday the builder was contemplating a large-scale project at Panhandle. The spokesman did admit purchasing 92 lots in two additions in other cities and has for some time, but building on most of them has not even started.

They explained that credit regulations and allotment of critical materials makes it impossible to say when or where the next projects will be started. Hughes' attorneys completed examination of abstracts on 92 lots in Panhandle, a number described as "low" in comparison with other land purchases by the company in that area.

"We have purchased land and a housing project in Panhandle is being considered, but when, and if, it will get underway is still indefinite," one spokesman declared, emphatically. Hughes has built several housing projects in numerous cities over the Panhandle and in Wichita Falls. On any large-scale housing projects in Pampa to meet pending housing shortage due to the expected influx of employes for Cabot, Celanese, and a natural growth, the Hughes spokesman indicated they were as much in the dark as the public. In the meantime, local people were still looking for two-bedroom houses for Brown and Root construction men scheduled to arrive this week. Lonnie Estes, construction superintendent, was finally housed. E. O. Wedgeworth, chamber of commerce manager, said Saturday.

Cooking School For Pampa Due May 8

The first cooking school for the public in Pampa since 1938 will be held May 8 and 9 at 1:30 p. m. each day. The all-electric cooking school will be conducted by the Pampa Daily News with Miss Fern Braunen, home service advisor for the Southwestern Public Service Co., as instructor.

Door prizes will be given away at the classes. For further details on this, watch The News. Classes will be held at Pampa Junior High School auditorium. Miss Brannen's service has been made available through the cooperation of Joe F. Key, district manager of the light company and the electric appliance dealers have made the school possible.

Miss Brannen has had several years' experience in the home economics field with electric light and power companies. She has been associated with the electric company as home service advisor for more than a year. She is a graduate of Texas Tech with a degree in vocational home economics.

Civic Clubs Pledge Clean-Up Drive Aid

Local civic clubs pledged support to the annual clean-up campaign this week as preliminary plans were presented to the local organizations. As in previous years, civic club members will accept the responsibility of publicizing the clean-up drive in the four wards of the city.

Providing wet weather does not set in, the fire prevention committee of the chamber of commerce, hopes to complete campaign within two weeks. The annual drive, which begins May 7 and ends May 19, is a city-wide project to promote not only cleaning up, but painting and fixing up as well.

Engineered by the fire prevention committee, the clean-up campaign is designed to lessen fire hazards, beautify the city and maintain high sanitation standards.

The committee, headed by Ray Salmon, met last week, and representatives of local civic clubs drew numbers of the wards they would supervise. Three days will be spent in furnishing trucks and men to pick up waste material. The first three days of the campaign will be spent in Ward Four, the southwest part of town, with the Kiwanis club publicizing in that area.

Ward three will be worked on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. That southeastern part of the city will be sponsored by the Jaycees. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. (See CIVIC, Page 2)

Air Petitions Due Tuesday

Petitions calling for a special $248,500 airport improvement bond election will be handed the County Commissioners Court Tuesday afternoon by members of the joint aviation committee. Committee members circulating the petitions were requested to turn in their papers Monday afternoon so they could be examined for discrepancies before being presented to the county commissioners Tuesday.

At 1:30 p. m. Tuesday representatives of the Pampa Pilots Assn. and chamber of commerce aviation committees will meet in the chamber office. From there the group will go to the commissioners meeting in the County Court room.

The petitions call for an election to improve Pampa Municipal Airport at a cost of $263,500 and improvements to the airstrip at McLean at a cost of $25,000. This amount is to be boosted by federal aid at the rate of 50 percent participation in all except hangar construction.

Workers and directors of the Pampa Community Concerts have scheduled the concerts for Pampa next season. At the meeting held Saturday at the city hall, the board and several members chose the program and accepted the resignation of Mrs. Carl J. Wright, who has been secretary of the organization since its beginning eight years ago. Concerts will begin in November with Vivian Della Chiesa, soprano. She has appeared twice as a soloist under Toscanini. She was once voted one of "the most glamorous women in the world" and has placed twice on the "ten best-dressed women."

Only Thing More Boring Than A Diet Is Listening To One

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — The only thing in America today more boring than going on a diet is to have to listen to someone else who is on a diet.

The only difference between having a friend to go on an excursion or a diet is that you don't have to watch him show colored home movies of his diet.

It gallops down his esophagus, churns around his stomach, and then — zing! — it races over and puts a three-inch deep pad of radioactive blubber around his waistline.

"See!" chortles your triumphant host. "Now will you start drinking your coffee black like I do?"

For 25,000 years it took all the courage, skill and energy of mankind to get most people all the food they wanted to eat. But in the United States for the last 25 years more and more people have found it takes all their courage to keep from eating all they want. They should move to China or India — and get back to the first problem.

The worst assumption of professional dieters is that you naturally ought to do what they do — and that what is wrong with them is also wrong with you. If they are overweight and you are pleasantly plump — well, if they decide to start counting their calories they'll hardly rest until you do, too.

But I don't mind being pleasantly plump — pleasing to me.

that is, I have been rib-tin. I've been overweight. I feel better and I like more people better when I have the extra weight. Lots of normal men who don't beat their wives or bite their children are like that.

All people don't get barrel-shaped for the same reason. Many who go on diets today show overcast because they're hungry. They stuff themselves because they are worried, insecure, mentally or physically lazy, someone doesn't love them or they don't love anyone themselves. They need to change themselves inside — not just what they put inside them.

Motto for dieters:
"If you shrink life, you can't improve it just by shirking the table."

Two Booked For Forgery

A local grocer's suspicion of a $25 check Saturday morning landed a man and a woman in the county jail, charged with "forgery."

According to Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard, a man, tentatively identified as Clyde W. Ables, specific address undetermined, gave A. J. Mitchell, 916 W. Wilks, a check for $25 signed "J. D. Wright, Jr." as payment for groceries. Mitchell took the check to bank where it was termed a forgery.

Haggard, with Mitchell, picked up Ables in front of the Broadview Hotel a few minutes later. Searched at the sheriff's office, another $25 check signed, "J. D. Wright, Jr." was found on him, Haggard said.

A woman companion of the accused man, Christine Glenn, address also undetermined, was picked up later by Haggard near the same hotel. Both were jailed shortly before noon and held for further investigation.

Who Wouldn't Be An "Eager Beaver"?

He Needs No Aching Corns: Pampans Is Using Water Well As Weather Change Guide

By WANDA CAMPBELL

Pampa has a weather bureau! Even though most people scoff at the unpredictability of our weather station and take the reports with a grain of salt, weather is still, like Mark Twain said, something everybody talks about!

The local weather station pulled up stakes here in 1947 and since that time Pampans listen to the radio for weather reports, watch for a ring about the moon or wait for aching corns to tell them bad weather is approaching.

But now it's being said that changes of weather by a water well on his property.

MRS. ERNEST MCKNGHT, south of Pampa, bends a quizzical ear to a water well pipe which, her husband says, has been giving weather forecasts for the last 15 years. The pipe, Mrs. McKnight admits, does whistle or blow and though she's only been on the farm three years, she has known the weather to change after the well has "whistled a warning."

ter of hours, a blizzard, rain storm or some other drastic weather change has occurred.

When the Pampa man first became aware of the well's hissing, he thought at once it was gas that had migrated into the well due to faulty gas lines somewhere. But it won't burn.

Roger McConnell, west of the city, is said to have a well from which gas escapes, but it has been definitely established that there is no gas connected with the McKnight well. It just "hisses" when there's a weather change to report!

Foster Whaley, Gray County agent, knows of two occasions in January and February when the well started "blowing" and in a matter of 10 or 12 hours Pampa was digging out from under snow.

When the duster hit Pampa a week ago the McKnight well had been blowing out a warning that something was in the air.

All through the years, there have been those who vow to the reliability of the well.

McKnight's father lived on the farm before him, but he never "made much" about the well — it just forecasted the weather and that was that!

The well forecasts rain (as during the frequent thunderstorms last summer) high winds, snow, in short, any change from the usual all clear day.

The well, 380 feet deep, is about 200 feet from the house, and can be heard hissing from about 75 feet distance.

One man who has not seen the well believed it could be operated by parametric pressure, and believed here was a scientific explanation for the noise coming from the well.

As he explained, atmospheric pressures, as measured by the barometer, are used in predicting on coming weather. High pressure areas are prevalent under good weather conditions. A sudden drop in barometric pressure denotes bad weather.

All cavities and vessels open to atmosphere at a given time are under atmospheric pressure. And he said there was a possibility that high pressures could literally press air into these open cavities in the ground.

A sudden drop in atmospheric pressure (which denotes oncoming bad weather) would cause a sudden release of air trapped in these cavities.

The air could go into the ground at a hole some distance from the well, and travel underground (similar to gas) and "take the path of least resistance" up the water well pipe. The release of that pressure could cause the blowing or hissing noise coming from the pipe.

"But don't quote me," he said. "I'm no geologist!"

One local geologist has heard of many number of water wells making such noises, but it was always attributed to gas that had migrated into the well. And he had never heard of a well that "hisses" out weather reports like the McKnight well!

"That's something though that I'm going to go out and see," he said.

One person has suggested McKnight put up telephone lines and send out weather reports, or better yet, lease the well to the government for a weather station.

Many people have seen the well topped with a wooden windmill — that was providing water as long as 60 years ago. The well is not unlike hundreds of others dotted over the High Plains.

But still it's different, and there will be those interested enough to travel to the McKnight farm to see the well that forecasts weather. One geologist has offered to turn his books over to anyone who wants to try solving the question.

Is it a coincidence that the well whistles out weather warnings, or is there scientific logic behind it?

What do you think?

Colorful Attempt To Raise Dead Fails

RANGOON — (AP) — An Indian fakir (holy man) plunged a dagger repeatedly into his body without ill-effects to prove he was no fake after failing to raise a man from the dead. The attempt to bring the dead to life was made at Pegu, 50 miles from here, when snake charmer Maung Tin was bitten fatally by one of his performing cobras. It took place in a weird after-dusk ceremony at the Pegu cemetery after local officials permitted exhumation of the body. Flames of kerosene torches lit the graveyard as the dead snake charmer was lifted from his coffin. The fakir produced herbs from his voluminous robes and brewed a foul-smelling concoction.

Then he slowly circled the body muttering incantations. Suddenly he threw himself flat upon the dead man and blew into his nostrils. Mumbling guttural prayers, he forced open the snake charmer's mouth and poured the mixture down his throat. More than 200 people tensed as the fakir commanded the dead to rise. Nothing happened.

THE QUESTION IS

Is Happy Going To Quit Or Not?

NEW YORK — (AP) — When will baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler resign? Or will he? That was the question foremost in the minds of baseball executives today when Walter Mulbry was named secretary-treasurer. Chandler, who has insisted he would not quit unless Mulbry was relieved of his post, gained his point Friday when baseball's executive council accepted Mulbry's resignation.

A member of the executive council, who would not permit use of his name, said on Thursday that Chandler had agreed to resign if Mulbry went. However, there were hints Friday that the commissioner, whose seven year term does not expire until April 30, 1952, may decide to stay in office.

Chandler made no comment but a close friend said he did not expect the commissioner to resign soon.

"Mulbry's resignation is one thing," said this friend. "It has nothing to do with what Chandler will do."

The member of the executive council said "It is an impossible situation when you've got a man you don't want running your business for you."

The post of secretary-treasurer pays $30,000 and that of the commissioner $85,000 annually.

ATLANTA — (AP) — National American Legion Commander Eric Coker, Jr., said that rumors he was being considered for the post of baseball commissioner are true.

"I have been approached, and I am definitely interested," he declared. He added with a wide grin "Who wouldn't be interested in a $85,000-a-year job?"

A screening committee is scheduled to select the baseball commissioner at a later date.

Dale Imel Prepares Defense Of Mile Run Championship

AUSTIN — (AP) — The state's 1,300 brained and brawnied high schoolers march on Austin next weekend.

They're coming to town seeking academic and track championships in the 51st annual Interscholastic League state meet. Competition starts Thursday and simmers steadily through Saturday.

"Competition is going to be hot all the way down the line," predicted Ipha Williams, league athletic director.

An important sideline of the meet will be breakfast for representatives of member schools. There, the results of statewide balloting on controversial athletic issues will be announced.

Policies to be decided affect gifts to coaches, post-season all-star football games, value of awards to contestants, spring football training, and football championship playoffs.

Already the biggest thing of its kind in the nation, this year's meet will be larger than ever. League officials predict the army of visitors will exceed 6,000.

More than 650 boys will match speed and brawn for track and field honors. Seventy-five others will tee off for golf titles.

In mixed competition, scores of star football games, tennis championships, while hundreds more orate, debate, type, calculate, and write essays, editorials and headlines.

Twenty-three one-act plays will be read off in three days.

An important sideline to the tennis and golf will be "the return of the city slickers." The meet is the league's first statewide event in which members of the now-defunct Big City Conference will re-enter competition in Class AA.

The big city boys have their work cut out for them. Defending champion Odessa will be backed by Joe Childers, the speedster who won last year's 100 and 200-yard dashes and anchored the victorious 440-relay team.

Brady will try to guard its 1950 Class A crown, but Rising Star, the Class B titlist, qualified to swim the mile at Austin and knocked him out. However, he was conscious when brought to High land, hospital attendants said.

Aggies Topple Froggies, 8-1

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Pat Hubert scattered seven hits as Texas A&M trimmed Texas Christian University, 8-1, here Saturday afternoon to win the final game between the two schools this season.

The Aggies jumped on the Froggies' No. 1 pitcher, Knobby Graves, for two runs in the first inning, added four more in the third and tacked on two more for good measure in the eighth. TCU's lone tally came in the fifth inning.

The victory gave the Aggies a record of 10-1 for the season. It was TCU's seventh defeat against four triumphs.

COMPACT—As the distance to the green decreases, Claude Harmon's stance for an iron shot is spread slightly, but never wider than the shoulders. (NEA)

Hospital attendants described the golfer as doing "very nicely" and "up and about" although he was admitted as a patient. Three sutures were used to close the wound.

According to attendants at the Country Club pro shop, Austin was shooting a ball from the rough on No. 8 hole while another golfer was preparing to shoot out of the No. 6 hole rough. The man on No. 8 called "fore" but Austin didn't hear him. Just as he was preparing to swing the ball struck Austin and knocked him out. However, he was conscious when brought to High land, hospital attendants said.

Odessa's 440-relay team and Childrens (in the 100-yard dash) represent the only defending individual champions back again this year in Class AA.

Jimmy Samuelson of Brady is last year's only champion in Class A who will return to defend his laurels. Samuelson won both the shot put and discus throw.

In Class B the only returning champion is White Deer's Dale Imel, who last year won the mile run.

Conferences A and B have two tennis champs returning. They are Charles Lee Gordon of Pharr-San Juan-Alamo, a member of the championship boys doubles team, and Ima Grace Keller of Smithville, member of the winning girls doubles duo.

King Horses Ready

KINGSVILLE — (AP) — King Ranch has shipped ten colts and ten fillies, all two-year-olds, to Belmont Park, N. Y. Some are expected to start racing this summer.

Greens Gossip

By HOGAN O' SNEAD — Well, here it is Springtime again. Or is it? I have already taken my racoon coat and long-handled out of the moth balls twice since March 21, calendar day for spring, and I'm figuring I may have to scrape it over my windproof body at least one more time before warm weather actually hits the beautiful Panhandle.

I played my usual game of golf the other day. I had 63 holes and finally gave it up as a bad deal and walked into the clubhouse from No. 3 green. I'm four strokes worse than I was at this time last year. I'm trying to gather enough courage to complete the front nine holes one of these days if I can locate an adding machine that counts up into the big numbers.

I saw some people playing golf last Friday and they weren't holding on to a thing. Don't worry — the wind will get in a few good licks today or tomorrow.

Saw Kay Layne, Don Prigmore, Buster Carter and several more of the kids getting ready for the 4th annual Junior Tournament which gets underway the 16th of next month. Pampa has some mighty fine young golf players and I hope a lot of you readers will be able to come out and watch them play the ancient game.

Several of the ladies are making plans to attend the state championship May 21-26. The best players in the state will see golf at its best.

The ladies and men's city championship will begin the latter part of June this year, and from here it looks as if these two tournaments will be the best yet. Jean Duenkel and Grover Austin, Jr., will be in there trying to defend the titles they won last year.

Seems as if Bill Smith, the mayor of Kingsmill, is giving Shorty Heiskel a lot of trouble these days. Shorty says he doesn't get the credit for a good shot that a golfer should receive from his opponent. Well, anyhow, these two guys are the best of enemies. See you next week on the links.

Flying Ball Drops Champ

A golf ball Saturday afternoon, hurtling out of the rough on No. 8 hole at the Pampa Country Club, sent city golf champion Grover Austin, Jr., to Highland General Hospital suffering from a severe head laceration.

Harsh Report Due On Crime In U.S.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee Saturday labored on what was termed a hard-hitting report and Chairman Kefauver (D - Tenn) deplored publication of advance reports of what will be in it.

Kefauver declared the report of the underworld and its relation to politics was still being revised.

Kefauver had intended to make the formal report Monday on the sensational year-long inquiry that probed into the nation's crime and corruption. He said printing difficulties would delay it until Tuesday.

Oilers Try Today For First Road Win of 1951 Season; Pioneers Win Opener in Wild Affair

Pitching Wildness, Too Much Meyer, Brings 13-3 Defeat

A case of too many walks and wild pitches mixed with some very effective four-hit hurling by lefty Dick Meyer, brought the Oilers their third straight defeat at the hands of the New Mexico competition in the West Texas - New Mexico League last night. The final score was Clovis 13, Pampa 3.

And the pitching record showed two Oiler hurlers giving up 14 bases on balls and 6 wild pitches.

But poor as the Oiler pitching was, the Clovis hurling was equally magnificent. Lefty Richard Meyer, who absorbed a defeat at the hands of the Oilers in Pampa a week ago today, came back to hurl a four-hitter in the face of the Pampa crew. And he would have shut the door if he hadn't suffered a little wild streak himself.

Meyer mixed the four hits so well that the Oilers were never able to bunch two in the same frame. They got one in the second, sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

On the other hand, the wildness of George Payne, ace Oiler right-hander, caused his early demise. He walked four men in the first inning, uncoiled two wild pitches, good for two runs without the aid of a hit for the Pioneers.

In the third inning the Pioneers strung together a walk, a wild pitch, and a pair of singles for two more runs.

Continuing their odd-inning scoring, the Pioneers added two more in the fifth on three walks, a wild pitch and three stolen bases. Up to this point the Oilers had managed to scratch one hit off of Meyer.

But the big blow came in the bottom of the sixth after the Oilers had managed to shove over their first run thanks to three walks and a blooper single.

In the bottom of the inning Payne walked Bushong to start things off, then he hit Pennington with a pitched ball, and followed that up with a double to Bauer. Then he walked Novotny, bringing on the appearance of righthander Paul Molina. Molina had a little better success with his control. He gave up singles to Calo and Wisniewski, walked Ehrhardt and Bushong, up for the second time, before getting the fire out, after five runs had scored.

The Oilers added two in their half of the seventh on one hit, two walks, an error and a passed ball.

This afternoon the two clubs close out their first meeting of the season in Bell Park with a contest due to start at 3:30 Pampa time. The expected starter for the Oilers is Mack Hyde, although Victor Mel Kramer, the Pioneers are expected to counter with Pat Randall, a fireballer.

The Oilers will return home following this afternoon's game, to open a two game series with the Lubbock Hubbers of Paul Dean at Oiler Park Monday night at 8 p.m.

Elsewhere around the league Saturday night the Lamesa Lobos edged the Borger Gassers, 7-6. Lubbock downed Albuquerque, 16-9; and Abilene thumped Amarillo 15-8.

Dukes Sweep Series From Oilers, 6-4

ALBUQUERQUE — (AP) — Rookie Jesse Priest hurled two-hit ball over the last five innings for his second mound win in a relief role as Albuquerque drove to a 6-4 win over the Pampa Oilers in a West-Texas - New Mexico League baseball game Friday night. The win moved Albuquerque into first place in the league standings.

About 1800 fans saw the contest, played under protest by Pampa Manager Grover Seltz on a decision in the seventh. The rhubarb came on a wild pitch by Red Dial which allowed Dom Chiola to move to third and then to score. Seltz claimed that the Dukes bat boy picked up the ball and thus put it out of play. After five minutes of argument, Chiola was ordered to return to third. Seltz claimed the runner should have remained on second.

Priest had his sidearm assortment going in full glory after relieving Righander Paul Molina in the fourth. The righthander scattered two Oiler safeties and was in serious trouble but once.

The winners opened with three in the first as Chiola walked and went to third on Al Maul's towering double to right. Cullitt drove in the run with a triple. Martin drove him home with a safety to right.

The Oilers garnered a single run in the third and moved ahead 4-3 in the next frame to bring about Spence's retirement. Consecutive singles by Richardson, Hank Chastellier and Bill Whitehorn plus Dial's two-base blow to left and Castillo's bingle tallied three quick markers and Priest assumed command. Folkman got Priest out of the jam with an unassisted double.

Odessa, Brady And Iraan Favorites In State Track Meet

(By The Associated Press)

Odessa, Brady and Iraan will be solid favorites to win divisional track and field championships this week when the state interscholastic league meet is held at Austin.

More than 400 athletes will participate in the big meet which holds preliminaries Friday morning, a scattering of finals in field events Friday afternoon and all other finals Saturday afternoon.

Lamar and Reagan of Houston are chief rivals of Odessa in the Class AA division. But for a ruling that allows only one relay team from each region, Lamar might-beat out Odessa.

In the regional meet Lamar finished second in the 440-yard relay because of a bad handoff after having the best qualifying time in the prelims — four-tenths of a second under what Baytown won the final in Lamar did 43.5 in the Texas relays — the fastest in the state this season.

But Lamar can not compete in the spring relay because only one team qualifies for the state meet from the region.

Odessa is strong in both the 440 and mile runs and because of that fact and the presence of Joe Childers, its great dash man, should win the meet by about 15 points.

Brady's strongest competition is due from Pecos and Andrews.

In Class B it looks as if Iraan appears to have the best hurler in the state in Bill Huddleston, a top sprint man in Roy Robicheaux and a good 440-yard relay team. Liberty is strong in the 440-yard relay and has several other potential point-getters.

Harvesters Put Bite On Dogs For First League Win, 9-6

The Pampa Harvesters finally broke into the win column in district 1-AAAA competition yesterday afternoon at Oiler Park with a well-played 9-6 victory over the Borger Bulldogs. The win followed defeats at the hands of Amarillo's Sandstrom and the Borger outfit in earlier games.

Coach Dwayne Lyon's hustlers ran into trouble in the first frame when the Dogs scored twice. But starter Jimmy Cook tightened up from there on out and held the Pack at bay until the seventh when he was relieved by fireballer Ed Dudley. Dudley got through the final frame without damage and the Harvesters walked off with a win.

Batting punch was supplied by Dudley, Elmer Wilson and Bobby Seitz, which each picked up a pair of safeties, Wilson's being twin doubles.

Tuesday afternoon the Harvesters will battle the Golden Sandies at Oiler Park in a game that was scheduled for last Friday afternoon but postponed because of wet grounds. On Wednesday afternoon the Mobeetie High School baseballers come to Pampa and next Friday the Bulldogs will be back for another try at the Green and Gold, a team that has been mostly green up until the last two games.

Borger moved in front in the top of the first yesterday on two hits mixed with a pair of passes but the Harvesters came right back in their half of the inning, jumping on starter Jim Scott for three runs. Cox walked. After Ward and Smith had fanned, Dudley doubled Cox to third and Wilson's double drove both home. Wilson scored moments later on a line single by Seitz.

The Harvesters added two more in the third on two walks and a double by Welts down the rightfield line.

Borger came back with a pair in the fifth when two walks once again caused trouble. But the Pampanos bounced right back with their final four tallies on six solid bingles off of reliever Bobby Hillman.

The Bulldogs counted twice in the sixth on two hits and an error, but that was all the effort they could produce as freshman Ed Dudley set them down in the seventh.

Cook, after a bad first frame, settled down to fan 11 would-be Bulldog hitters.

The Harvesters turned in one twin killing when shortstop Jim Bob Cox leaped high to haul down a liner and then flipped to second baseman Wilson for the double play.

Stassen Suggests A Reconciliation

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Harold E. Stassen has proposed that President Truman invite General MacArthur to the White House for a "reconciliation" conference, but got no immediate reply.

Stassen, University of Pennsylvania president who ran for the Republican nomination for president in 1948, gave reporters copies of a letter to Mr. Truman saying:

"For the good of America please permit me to respectfully suggest that a reconciliation be brought about between you and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. If the distinction is your bitter course to the end, whatever the outcome may be, it can do no good for our country."

Braves Take Over Lead; Yanks Cool Senators

Surkont Wins Third Straight

BOSTON (AP) — Pitcher Max Surkont won his third straight game as the Braves shut out the Philadelphia Phillies 3-0 Saturday. Surkont allowed eight hits and two walks but some sparking defensive play by Bob Elliott kept him out of trouble.

The first Boston run was manufactured by a Buddy Kerr single, a sacrifice by Surkont and third baseman Willie Jones' wild pop after fielding a Hartshorn bunt.

Gassers Skunk Abilene, 12-0

BORGER (AP) — Big Jim Cain fashioned an impressive 12-0 shutout over the league leading Abilene Blue Sox as the Borger Gassers swept the second game of a two-game series from the Blue Sox Friday night in Huber Park.

Adventurer Will Speak Here Monday

Jack Schultz, young adventurer, will speak at the Knife and Fork Club dinner at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the high school cafeteria. Schultz traveled, at the age of 17, about 4,000 miles in an Indian dugout canoe, starting from Quito, Ecuador, for Chicago with $21 in his pocket. He walked over the Andes and paddled down the Amazon and across the Caribbean. The title of his adventure tale is "Sea Fever," derived from his primitive craft, which he named for John Massfield's famous poem. After 14 months of perilous travel, the boy reached Miami, Fla. Schultz is now 22 years old. He is the son of the late Edward G. Schultz, who was killed while piloting a bomber in China. The dining hall will open at 7:10 p. m. Monday and dinner will be served at 7:30. Dinner tickets are available at Clyde's Pharmacy, 100 S. Cuyler. Deadline for purchase is Sunday.

Ship Captain Wants MacArthur To Sail

HOUSTON — (AP) — The man who captained the ship that took General Douglas MacArthur ashore at Leyte on his return to the Philippines wants him to take another boat ride. This time Brig. Gen. W. F. Heavey retired, wants the general to sail the ship channel here. Heavey is now director of Port Houston. He commanded the LCVF 121 that took MacArthur ashore in 1944.

White Deer Grade Pupils Hold Banquet

WHITE DEER — (Special) — A Western theme was carried out at a recent banquet honoring the eighth grade class of the White Deer Elementary school in the high school cafeteria. R. Y. Corder gave the invocation. The "cowboys" and "cow-girls" of the eighth grade, with their teachers and other guests, were entertained by Toastmaster Rudy Marti of KPDN with "Yarns About All the Old Cowhands." Coy Palmer, KPDN manager, a former student of Dennis Smith, sponsor of the class, sang and played a group of cowboy songs. After the banquet, the class and the sponsors journeyed to Pampa for a theater party. The "western chuck," prepared by Mrs. Ollie Bray and Mrs. Otho Hendricks, was served by the seventh grade girls. Decorations were arranged by the mothers of the eighth graders.

Indians Running Their Own Revolving Loans

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. — (AP) — The Navajo Indians are handling the tribal money with a loan committee just like Uncle Sam. The money comes from oil and other resources. This year the tribal council appropriated $724,000 to the revolving loan fund. The loans go to stock men and farmers among the 60,000 Indians and to co-op projects like tribal trading posts, sawmills and small industries.

Swiss-Born Rene Declares U.S. Overlook Advantages

By GEORGIA SMITH

"Your people here—they do not realize all that is theirs to appreciate." With a soft accent and carefully chosen words, Rene Klingler told of his impressions of Pampa and Texas.

Klingler is in Pampa to study carbon black plants so that it will be easier for him to sell the products in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

A native of Zurich, Switzerland, Klingler has been in Brazil a year. "I find that the homesickness that I allow myself to have is for Brazil now because I have become adapted to that country in that year. Otherwise, I could not be happy there."

Klingler, who was in a German-speaking sector of Switzerland is tall with blonde hair and blue eyes of Germans. He feels that he is an adaptable sort of person because he has found the secret of being part of the place that he is living.

He put it this way: "If one lived in a small country, he is one who wants to go abroad because his country becomes too small for him. Some go with the plan to return someday. You in America do not find it necessary to go abroad to find other worlds because your country is so vast."

"When the offer was made to me by my uncle to go to Brazil and sell for him, I told myself 'Well, why not?' For a short period are many years behind this one." "Sao Paulo is hurriedly becoming like your American cities, with its skyscrapers and modern architecture. Still even across the street from one of the fabulous buildings may be found an ancient residence or old fashioned business house." That ancient city is the chief industrial city of South America. Klingler is unmarried and it is with great pride that he calls himself a Brazilian.

Skit Is Given For Kiwanis

"Office Technique," a four-part comedy skit, was presented to Kiwanis members Friday by members of the National Secretaries' Assn.

Mrs. Mildred Hill introduced the skit, which depicted a normal business office with a secretary, Nancy Sullivan; a bookkeeper, Gordabelle Miller; an office manager, Mildred Lafetty; the boss, Laura Belle Cornelius, and the model secretary, Noel Thompson. Myron Marx, chairman of the house and reception committee, was in charge of the program.

A girls' trio from McPherson College in Kansas, sang three selections. They were guests of Rev. Russell G. West, pastor of the Church of the Brethren. The group was here to present a program at the church.

Bob Gettemy, managing editor of The News, was introduced into the club as a new member by Fred Thompson. It was announced that work has started in adopting a displaced boy by the Underprivileged Children's Committee for the club to care for.

A gas turbine-electric locomotive tested by the Union Pacific Railroad, operated 70,000 miles in 1950, produced nearly 270,000,000 gross ton miles, and used approximately 1,134,000 gallons of fuel.

HOME OF SOCIETY. "D" CLOTHES

MR. PEG

Time: Last Sunday morning.

Scene: The kitchen of Peg's home. It is cluttered with breakfast dishes, various sections of the Pampa News and one in need of a shave husband. Right center stage is the kitchen sink with a stuffed hen prepared nearby ready for the oven, and an equally stuffed wife peeling potatoes.

Mr. Peg: Lookit this! Just look! (waving Peg's Palaver in air)

Peg: Hurrmmmm?

Mr. Peg: Another error in this column. Calling Greeley Warner Eben Warner. What a mess. How do you keep making these errors?

Peg: (Defensively) But I...

Mr. Peg: No buts about it! Either you stop these errors or you better get back to yo' pots and pans. Being anonymous is no excuse for being careless. There must be some way to check your information. In some jobs mistakes can slip by unnoticed, but when it's in black and white newspaper, nobody forgives or forgets.

Peg: (Bargaining) Surely...

Mr. Peg: Really! Sometimes think you should stick to facts like "we had a dust storm the other day" or "this is May Day" and that way there would be no names and places to confuse. Occasionally you could mention nice people like Mrs. Quentin Williams or Mrs. Cliff Braly, but just be awful careful about those names. No matter how nice a thing you say about someone if you twist up their names, it's no good, Peg! But sometimes...

Mr. Peg: You could check on all the people building new homes... and there are a lot of those it seems. Incidentally, have you noticed the way the Jimmie Massas are building on the lack of their house? Really looks nice, and the J. R. Holloways are getting their house ready for spring.

Peg: But...

Mr. Peg: Another thing. When you do get the names straight, mention people you don't write about all time. Say what a nice, pleasant person Mrs. Tina McCallister is, or Margaret Jones. Mrs. E. E. Finley is another nice one to know. Keep different names coming up all time. Some of the young fellows in town deserve a friendly word, too; fellows like Paul Keim in First National and James Enloe who's starting his business.

Peg: But I...

Mr. Peg: Now stop interrupting! I was just thinking of a way you could welcome new people to town. Like Dr. Veale and his wife. They seem like a fine couple, and are making a good impression on everyone. And you never did mention how nice it is to have Dorothy Peacock here from California?

Peg: But when...

Mr. Peg: And you forget to say "goodbye and we miss you" to folks! Didn't you hate to see the Ralph Kisers leave after being here so long?

Peg: Yes, but...

Mr. Peg: Let me finish, Peg! You also forget to check your notes and make sure you mention everything you plan to. Thought you meant to say something complimentary about those drapes up at the Jim Nations' but you haven't, have you?

Peg: (Getting mad) Time slips...

Mr. Peg: And when you mentioned the M. F. Roches last? Likely not since they built on to their house months and months ago. Granted, it would be nice if you could go around and visit different folks, but since you can't you'll just have to wait for them to write you or wait until you pick up some bit of news about them. Encourage them to give you news items. (Throws paper in strawberry jelly on table)

Peg: Oooh, look what you...

Mr. Peg: And on top of the new homes everyone's building, mention some of the ones that have proved to be more lovely with the passing years... places like Mrs. Mima Smalling's on Mary Ellen or

Peg: But I...

Mr. Peg: (Cleaning off table) But I...

Peg: One thing. That birthday idea was good... if you can get everyone writing in that "so-and-so" had a birthday or will have one. Be a good thing. And you can always plug the Community Concert that Mrs. Carl Wright and her workers are busy with right now, the Knife and Fork meeting Monday and such as that. Most times there's too few who support these particular projects.

Peg: But that's what...

Mr. Peg: And you carry always mention the family night like at the country club Friday night. And you might plug the wonderful smorgasbord there last week. Don't know whether the Schneider still features this specialty, but it's popular here.

Peg: But...

Mr. Peg: What is it, Peg? I've hardly got a word in edgewise during this whole conversation, you've "battered in" so much. What is it?

Peg: (Knocked off her feet when she finally got the floor) Well, I forgot what I was going to say... but no more errors, I promise!

By MARY ANNE DUKE
REFINISHING FURNITURE

Home Improvement demonstrators attended a special training school on refinishing furniture Wednesday. The training meeting, which was held at Recreation Park, lasted from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The agent told the leaders that it is a waste of time to paint or varnish over old paint or varnish that is cracked, peeling or blistered, because the new coats will soon flake off and would be very uneven at best.

Any piece of furniture that is worth redoing is worth doing by the best methods of finishing wood. These methods are not short and snappy ones. They are slow and exacting, but the results are gratifying.

A new commercial paint and varnish remover was demonstrated. This varnish remover does not contain paraffin, and this simplifies the process of removing old paint and varnish. It was advised that holes, cracks and deep dents may be filled with commercial plastic wood or water putty, but that neither will match the wood. A better match results by mixing some of the wood's own sawdust with glue or varnish. A good furniture putty is made by mixing white lead, dry white color, Japan drier, and varnish in small amounts.

A wood finish not only enhances the beauty of the wood itself but is a protective coat to prevent soiling, fading or warping. The opaque finishes that conceal grain and defects are paint, enamel and pigmented lacquer. The traditional clear finishes that reveal the grain are oil, wax, shellac, varnish, clear lacquer, and a newer one, penetrating finish or seal, which is less on the surface, more in the wood, therefore less susceptible to staining.

During the training school, the varnish finish was demonstrated on walnut, and the penetrating finish was demonstrated on fir wood.

The following leaders attended the school: Mmes. Reed Grogan, J. H. Kritzer and E. J. Windom, Jr., from McLean; A. A. McElrath, R. E. Engle and Roy Tunaley from Worthwhile; D. W. Swain and Roland Dauer from Bell; A. Swafford and A. M. Nash from Merton.

CLOTHING REVUE

THIDA

The district I meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association met in Dalhart Thursday with 292 home demonstration club women and home demonstration agents attending.

The main speaker for the day was Dr. Mims W. Lamb, associate professor of foods and nutrition, Texas Technological College. The title of her talk was "Developing Unity in Rural Family Living."

Official voting delegates from Gray County attending the meeting were Mmes. J. S. Fuqua, county chairman, D. A. Rife and T. D. Anderwald. Others attending included Mmes. Gracye (See What's Cooking, Page 10)

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Housdon, 513 N. Hazel, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elsie, to Mack Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Stewart, 603 W. Foster. Miss Housdon is a junior at Pampa High School and Mr. Stewart is employed by the Refinery Maintenance Company at the Portland Gasoline Plant. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mary Ellen Hawkins And Wesley Kieth Are Married In Ceremony At Clovis

Miss Mary Ellen Hawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Hawkins, 918 Reid, became the bride of Wesley Kieth in a ceremony read in Clovis, N.M. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Elmer Prock of Laketon.

The Rev. Curtis Dickinson officiated at the vows which were repeated in the First Christian parsonage in Clovis.

Attendants for the couple were JoAnn Bennett and Mitchell Rowe.

They were accompanied to Clovis by the bride's parents, her sister, Mrs. George Gambelin and Mrs. Elmer Prock. Mrs. Nancy Patterson and LaMar Lively.

The bride was married in a pink dress topped with a pink lace jacket, on which she wore a corsage of dark pink carnations.

Miss Bennett was dressed in navy blue.

The bride is a high school senior. She is a member of the a cappella choir and the sextette. She is a past president of the Sub Deb club and was selected as one of the Lions Club sweethearts.

Mr. Kieth was graduated from the Pampa High School in 1948 and was a member of the Harvesters football team. He also attended West Texas State College, Canyon, for a while. He is now in the Navy, stationed at San Diego, Calif.

For the wedding trip the couple went to Lubbock and to Erick, Okla.

Mary Lou Gantz And Donald Moen Exchange Vows

Miss Mary Lou Gantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gantz, 345 Sunset Drive, and Donald G. Moen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moen, were married in Clovis, N.M., Saturday, April 14. Curtis Dickinson, pastor of the First Christian Church, read the marriage ceremony in the parsonage. All arrangements had previously been made by the Rev. Henry H. Tyler, pastor of the First Christian Church of Pampa.

The bride wore a suit of sea shell pink with teal blue accessories, and her hat was of pink Catelina straw with a long pink veil.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Carlsbad, N. M., Lubbock and Brownfield.

Mr. Moen is in the Navy, stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Base. He returned here April 23.

4-H Girls Hold Dress Revue; Winner Gets Trip

Yesterday was an important date for all 4-H club girls in Gray County to remember, for it was the day of registration for their clothing project to enter in the county contest for the dress revue, and to model it before the judges. The girls were very busy yesterday marching across the stage and being scored on their garments for appearance. Tomorrow their garments will be judged by another set of judges for construction. On their scorecard, 65 points are considered for appearance and 35 for construction of the garment. The girls with the highest scores on their scorecards in each division will win the first, second, and third places in each division. Gifts will be donated by the Pampa, Lefors, and McLean merchants to the Dress Revue. The girl who is fourteen years of age and having the highest score of the entire group will win a trip to the 4-H Roundup at A and M College June 24-29. This is a wonderful trip for any 4-H girl to make.

After the judging is over the girls will present the revue in the form of a style show at the Lefors High School auditorium on Friday, May 4, at 8 p.m. It is to be centered around an old-fashioned theme showing what was worn 20 years ago and what is being worn today. Each 4-H Club girl will model the blouse, apron, skirt, or dress that she made for this revue. Each girl can enter only one garment in the revue. After the prizes are awarded and the announcement will be made as to who won the trip to A and M. All the parents and friends of the 4-Hers and the public may attend. There will be a reception following the dress revue. This is the highlight of the year for the Gray County 4-H Club girls, and they have worked hard planning the costumes, decorations, and refreshments for the revue as well as making their own individual garments.

Judges for the clothing revue Saturday on the appearance of the garment on the girl were Mrs. Leslie Hart, Mrs. Quentin Williams and Mrs. Virgie Wheeler, home demonstration agent from Dumas. They judged in Pampa from 9 until 11 a.m. and in McLean from 2 until 4 p.m. The judges for Monday will be Mrs. L. Chase, Mrs. C. L. Holbert and Miss Sybil Gidden, home demonstration agent from Canadian. Judging will be in the county court room.

Adult leaders who are working on committees for the dress revue are Mrs. Joe Keel and Mrs. Ernest Edwards, gift committee; Mrs. D. W. Swain and Mrs. T. D. Anderwald, registration and equipment committee; Mrs. Clifford Rutledge and Mrs. George Smith are working with the Lefors High 4-H Club on the reception and stage committee, and Mrs. Orpha Tate and Mrs. B. L. Stokes are in charge of judging and gifts in McLean.

All of the girls' clubs will be represented in the dress revue by the 10th anniversary. Girlstown is being financed by a number of clubs. The B & PW Club of Lubbock regularly contributes $50 a month to this fund. Other clubs taking an ac-

Alice Marriott's Works Discussed At Meeting Of 20th Century Culture

"Women in Literature" was the topic of a program given at the Tuesday meeting of the Twentieth Century Culture Club, held in the home of Mrs. M. X. Beard.

Mrs. Eben Warner discussed the program topic and Mrs. Biggs Horn read a paper prepared by Mrs. Ray Evans on the writer, Alice Marriott.

Mrs. Warner said "The title, 'Women in Literature,' can be read in two ways. It may refer to women and the literature they write, or to women and the literature that is written about them.

"Women's record is more impressive by far—in the literary arts than in other creative fields—the term creative being used in a very limited sense. There has never been a great woman composer nor a great woman architect.

"Women did very little writing before the nineteenth century due to the fact that they had so little leisure time and education."

Mrs. Warner continued "Of the four great women novelists, Jane Austen, Emily Bronte, Charlotte Bronte and George Eliot (Mary Ann Evans), not one had a child and two were unmarried.

"In prophesying, Virginia Wolfe has said 'Women in time to come will write fewer novels, but better novels. But one is looking ahead to that golden, perhaps fabulous age, when woman will have what has so long been denied her — leisure.

Mrs. Horn said that Alice Marriott, famous ethnologist and writer, has visited and spoken in Pampa.

Mrs. Horn said "Miss Marriott was born in Chicago, but went to Oklahoma City when she was four. She attended Oklahoma City University and was graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1935. Her first job was at the public library of Muskogee, where she started a local history collection. The collection included Indian history which led Miss Marriott to further study of the Indians.

"After graduate work in anthropology she served as a specialist in the division of Indian arts and crafts for the Department of the Interior. While there she also assisted in preparing Indian exhibits for San Francisco and the Museum of Modern Art in New York. During that time she traveled constantly, collecting arts and crafts information from Indian tribes all over the United States. During World War II she was a general field representative for the American Red Cross.

Refreshments were served.

Piano Symphony Concert On May 7 Will Benefit Girlstown At White Face

The Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring the annual spring concert of the piano symphony, which is to be presented at 8 p.m. Monday, May 7, in the Junior High School auditorium. Proceeds will go to benefit Girlstown, U.S.A.

The concert will be presented by 52 pianists who compose two groups, an adult and a junior ensemble. Thirty-two pianists will play simultaneously on 16 pianos.

Three outstanding artists will assist in the ensemble. They will be John Branson, head of the piano department at Sul Ross; Mrs. Margaret Heiney, artist and teacher in Amarillo, and Mrs. Ernestine Holmes Scott of Pampa. Harley Bulls, tenor and director of music at the First Methodist Church, will be this year's soloist.

The symphony is composed of artists, teachers, talented pupils and outstanding musicians of Pampa, Borger, White Deer, Canadian, Miami and Amarillo.

The program will range from Beethoven, Saint-Saens and Debussy to more modern compositions, such as "Camp Town Races" and "The Wedding of the Painted Doll."

Mrs. May Foreman Carr is organizer and director of the symphony.

Girlstown, U. S. A., is located near White Face, Texas. It is the first project of its kind in the United States for girls. For many years its organization was the dream of Miss Amelia Anthony. It is rapidly gaining recognition, although it is only opened on March 13, 1949. It is located on 1,425 acres which were given by Tom Duggan of Lubbock. Remodeling of the present ranch house is now taking place and when it is completed, 64 girls will be accommodated. The goal has been set at 800 girls by the 10th anniversary.

Girlstown is being financed by a number of clubs. The B & PW Club of Lubbock regularly contributes $50 a month to this fund. Other clubs taking an ac-

Rites Read In Heidelberg, Germany, Unite In Marriage Miss Alice N. Norlund And Captain Glenn C. Chitwood

HEIDELBERG, GERMANY — Miss Alice N. Norlund, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Norlund, Duluth, Minn., and Capt. Glenn C. Chitwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Chitwood, Pampa, Texas, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, April 14, in a 10 o'clock ceremony at Providence Church, Heidelberg.

Miss Norlund, who chose a white satin gown with fingertip veil, carried white carnations and the white lilacs traditional with German weddings. Her gown featured a sweetheart neckline and diamond-cut sleeves which came to a point at the wrist. The veil fell from a circlet of white blossoms.

Her attendant, Miss Marie Hamblin of Phoenix, Ariz., wore a short-sleeved blue satin dress with a tulle skirt, and a stole of the same. Her small hat of matching blue had a narrow brim, and she carried pink carnations.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Morris C. McEldowney, read the vows, and Lt. Edwin A. Rudd of Seattle, Wash., served as best man.

Following a reception for several hundred wedding guests at the Bachelor Officers' quarters on the bank of the Neckar River near the historic Alte Bridge, the couple left for a trip to Garmisch in the Bavarian Alps, and Switzerland.

A graduate of Duluth High School, Miss Norlund attended business school there before coming to the European Command two years ago to work in the Intelligence Division at U. S. Armed Forces European Command Headquarters.

Captain Chitwood, who enlisted in the Army in May, 1936, attended Pampa and White Deer

B & PW Club Has Hilarious Party With 20's Theme

Business and Professional Women went back to the "roaring twenties" for their monthly social Tuesday night in the City Club Room. The scene was a "speakeasy" with a raid for the grand finale.

Approximately 50 B & PW members and guests arrived for the party, most of them in "flapper" dresses or some other form of costume. Many of the dresses had been worn either by the wearer or someone else during the 20's.

A floor show featured entertainment of that era and included a hula dance by Noel Thompson, a fan dance by Georgia Smith as Sully Rand, a blues song by Dorothy Peacock as Marlene Dietrich, a marathon dance by Barbara Barnes and Mary Lou Forrester and a song by Vera Lard as Sophie Tucker.

Several B and PW members music was furnished by Mrs. Roy Hall and Mrs. Avis Sanchez.

Special piano and accordion arrived at the party dressed as movie personages. They included Jessye Stroup as Marie Dressler, Elsie Gee as Charlie Chaplin, Gladys Howard as Jackie Coogan, Hazel Jay as Mae West and Agnes Link as Theda Bara.

The program was augmented by impromptu skits by the women who really "let their hair down."

A "free lunch" was served from a long table and taken to small tables covered with gay cloths and centered with bottles holding candles.

Jessye Stroup and Mary Forrester were in charge of the party, and were assisted by Agnes Link, Hazel Jay, Gladys Robinson and Elsie Gee.

The social was climaxed with a raid by two policemen, and each member and guest paid a "fine" to be given to the cancer fund.

Mrs. Ledrick Hosts El Progresso Club

Mrs. P. C. Ledrick was hostess to El Progresso Club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. G. L. Dauner, president, called the meeting to order. During the business session, the club voted to buy two student tickets for the Pampa Community Concert series. All members were urged to contribute to the Cancer Fund and a silver offering was taken.

Several members mentioned interesting bits of information gathered at the recent district Federated Club convention in Amarillo. Congratulations were accorded Mrs. D. V. Burton, whose original playlet, "As The Stars Came Down," won a prize for El Progresso Club at the convention. This playlet was presented before El Progresso at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Edgar Henshaw, acting as program leader, presented Mrs. Dave Pope, who gave a paper on "Human Rights," followed by Mrs. Knox Kinar, who discussed the problems of "Displaced Persons."

After the program a social hour was held and Mrs. Ledrick served a refreshment plate to Mmes. Knox Kinar, Orion Carter, Dave Pope, W. R. Ewing, G. L. Dauner, George Walstad, Harold Wright, Sam Cook, Edgar Henshaw, D. V. Burton, Carlton Nance, Grundy Morrison and one guest. Mrs. Jessie Winnett, sister of Mrs. Ledrick, and Mrs. Pope.

Tea And Book Review
For Members, Guests
Of 20th Century Culture

Members of the Twentieth-Century Culture Club and their guests were entertained at a tea and book review in the City Club Room Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Paul Bowers gave a review of the book "Miss Willie." She was introduced by Mrs. E. L. Henderson.

Hostesses were Mrs. Rufe Jordan, Mrs. J. D. Merchant, Mrs. Cameron Marsh and Mrs. M. P. Downs.

The tea table was centered with a May pole with long streamers of variegated ribbon running from the pole to the edges of the table. At the ends of the ribbons were May baskets filled with daisies in pastel shades.

Signing the register were Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Doyle Osborne, Marvin Cooper, Ewing Leech, H. H. Hahn, Clayton Husted, Earle Scheig, Henry Ellis, A. E. Berry, C. B. Haney, M. K. Griffith, Curtis Billings, Elizabeth Merchant, Myles Morgan and Kenneth Chalmers.

Mrs. Bailey Salmon, Jr., C. M. Wallis, C. W. Bowers, H. R. Van Sickle, O. L. Brummett, Kenneth Chambers, Dane Cambern, Warren Hasse, George Vineyard, W. A. Breining, Ralph McKinney, Jeff D. Bearden, Harold McMurray and Bill Waters.

Mrs. Bruce Parker, J. L. Myers, E. E. Shelhamer, C. M. Hofmann, C. G. Loring, Tom Perkins, V. L. Hobbs, L. J. Zachary, H. C. Grady, Jr., W. J. Morris, J. L. Chase, Jr., Myron Marx, Jr., D. P. Bonner, J. R. Donaldson, P. A. Gates and K. W. Baumgardner.

Tea Will Highlight
Events Of HD Week,
April 29 To May 5

A Home Demonstration Council tea will highlight the social activities of Home Demonstration Week, April 29 to May 5. The tea will be given in the City Club Room from 2 until 4 p. m. May 3, and Mrs. Ernest McKnight, chairman of the arrangements committee, has expressed a wish that all home demonstration women and all prospective members attend the tea.

Mrs. F. E. Leech will review Grace Erdman's book "Edge of Time."

Also, as a part of Home Demonstration Week, special exhibits on various phases of home demonstration club work will be placed in downtown store windows. Special radio programs will be heard and special news features will be printed.

Today's story concerns the Wayside HD Club.

The Wayside Club, oldest club in Gray County, was organized on April 20, 1920, when seven rural women met to form a club. The roll remained at seven for two and one-half years, when it grew to 12. One of the charter members, Mrs. Homer Taylor, is still a member.

After 10 years the club became federated.

The Wayside Club has studied almost every phase of home management and now has a roll of 23 active members. It covers all of the Wayside community and has a club house for parties and socials. Eighteen of the 23 members have deep freeze boxes and have studied every method of preparing foods, including meats, fruits, vegetables and all kinds of pastry.

Mrs. J. S. Fugus is current president of the Wayside Club.

Entre Nous Holds Regular Meeting

The Entre Nous Club met in the home of Mrs. O. H. Ingram for a 1 o'clock luncheon, with Mrs. Holly Gray assisting. The table was laid with white linen and centered with African violets.

The program was on "San Jacinto Day" and was conducted by Mrs. Boyd Brown.

Guests included Mrs. George Ingram, Gary Ingram and Wyeth Osborne.

Members present were Mrs. Doyle Osborne, Mrs. C. A. Tignor, Mrs. Boyd Brown, Mrs. C. W. Bowers, Mrs. E. A. Shackleton, Mrs. A. B. McAfee, Mrs. Holly Gray, Mrs. Norman Walbert, Mrs. O. H. Ingram and Mrs. Ruth Spearman.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Joe Lewis on May 4.

Women's Groups Of First Methodist
Hold Sessions For Business, Study

"The Light of the World."

Circle four met in the home of Mrs. W. E. Jarvis for a covered dish luncheon. Twelve members were present and four guests, Mrs. Louis Robinson, Mrs. E. C. Hart, Mrs. E. V. Smith and Mrs. W. B. Fountain. Mrs. G. F. Branson served as chairman in the absence of Mrs. Sherman White, and conducted a short business session. The worship center was prepared by Mrs. C. D. Anderson and Mrs. Jarvis. The globe and four lighted candles represented Jesus as "The Light of the World." Mrs. Joe Shelton brought the devotional.

Mrs. C. D. Anderson, program chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Joe Williams, Mrs. Fred Carey, Mrs. E. L. Campbell, Mrs. Joe Cargile and Mrs. Luther Pierson. For the afternoon session "Bridges Into the Future" was given by Mrs. Anderson. The group voted to send glasses to aid a world-wide literacy campaign as a culmination of the study on the "Near East." Mrs. J. E. Ward gave the closing prayer.

Circle five met in the church parlor with Mrs. Charles Shelton and Mrs. Joe Wilkinson as hostesses. Coffee and doughnuts were served to eight members and three guests, Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, Harley Bulls and Johnny Brown. Mrs. Wilkinson conducted a short business session. The devotional was "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Mrs. Wilkinson, who was accompanied by Mr. Bulls.

Mrs. W. L. Boosa, study leader, gave a book review of "So Goes Life." Mrs. Shotwell dismissed the group with prayer. The next circle meeting will be held on June 20.

Circle six was entertained in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Hicks. Coffee and sweet rolls were served to 14 members and one guest, Mrs. M. E. Cooper. Mrs. Cooper gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Harrah, chairman, presided over the business meeting and made the announcements. Mrs. Hicks introduced Mrs. H. D. Redus who reviewed the book "So Sure Of Life." This book is the life story of Dr. Robert Thomas, a medical missionary in the Tennessee hill country.

The next circle meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. E. S. Williams.

Circle seven met in the home of Mrs. Coy Palmer, 833 Lowry. Coffee and cake were served to 15 members and one guest.

Mrs. H. H. Boynton conducted the business session, announcing the general meeting on May 2, to be held at the church.

Mrs. Boynton gave the devotional, taken from the 12th chapter of Luke.

Mrs. O. L. Brummett reviewed the book "So Sure of Life" by Violet Wood. She said the book is the autobiography of Dr. Robert Thomas, Methodist doctor and minister, who established the F. I. T. Center in the Great Smoky Mountains of Tennessee.

The next circle meeting will be in the home of Mrs. M. K. Griffith.

Circle eight met in the home of Mrs. Charles Hickman. Mrs. Henry Ellis, chairman, was in charge of the business. A report on the supply box sent to a Negro girls' college was made.

Mrs. Herman Van Sickle reviewed the book "So Sure of Life."

There were nine members and two guests present.

'Early American Homes' Discussed For Civic Culture

Mrs. E. A. Shackleton gave a discussion of early American homes at a meeting of the Civic Culture Club held in her home in Miami. Members answered roll call by naming old houses of interest and showing pictures of them.

The president, Mrs. Irvin Cole, presided at the meeting, and reported on the district meeting of club women held in Amarillo. Mrs. M. M. Moyer gave a report from the Council of Clubs.

Mrs. Shackleton told of the first log cabins built by American forefathers, and described the dugouts of the early settlers. She also discussed the various types of homes built with more comfort for easier living. Included in her talk were the show houses of the South and the "gingerbread" houses.

Mrs. Shackleton mentioned the Western type of house, and said architecture is not always an art, but is often the result of the builder's particular need.

She closed her program with a quiz and "television show." Pictures of all types of houses from 1607 to the modern 1951 houses were shown, and the speaker quoted from a poem by Edgar A. Guest "It takes a heap 'o' livin' in a house to make it home."

Refreshments were served to Mrs. D. W. Coffman, Mrs. John Brantley, Mrs. Emmet Gee, Mrs. Irvin Cole, Mrs. A. C. Houchin, Mrs. M. M. Moyer, Mrs. J. S. Townsend, Mrs. H. R. Van Sickle, Mrs. Willis White, Mrs. Leo Paris and two guests, Mrs. M. Arrington and Mrs. Bill Lard of Miami.

Choral Students Over Pampa To Participate In Music Meet

Choral students from all Pampa schools, approximately 500 students, will participate in the annual spring choral festival Tuesday and Thursday nights.

On Tuesday night, the elementary school choruses from B. M. Baker, Horace Mann, Sam Houston and Woodrow Wilson will open the two-night festival.

The theme of the program will be "a journey around the world in song" and will be carried out by individual school chorus selections and by combined elementary choruses.

Countries represented will be America, England, Ireland, Scotland, Sweden, Italy, Mexico, Czechoslovakia and Russia.

Conductors from the various schools are Mrs. Flaudie Gallman, Mrs. John Branham, Mrs. Roy Sullivan and Miss Evelyn Clayton. Accompanists are Mrs. Scott Hatcher, Mrs. Joe Decker and Thera Lee Warner.

Junior high school choruses will be presented on Thursday along with the high school organizations. These groups include choruses from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, the A Cappella Choir, a combined mixed chorus and girl's glee club.

Their choral numbers will include patriotic, religious spiritual, folk song and popular selections. The A Cappella Choir will present seven choruses highlighted by Peter Wilhousky's arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The combined mixed chorus and the girls' glee club will each perform three numbers. Mass numbers to be sung by the junior and senior high school choruses will be "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" and "America the Beautiful" arranged by Dr. Harry Wilson.

Conductors for these various choral groups are Miss Eloise Lane, Mrs. J. Edward Line, Mrs. Walter C. Bowen, Miss Grace Crump and Kenneth W. Baumgardner.

Accompanists are Cynthia Duncan, Marilyn Wells, Carol Paxson, Mary Ann Becker, Phoebe Carter, Patsy Stovall, June Gull, Ann Jordan, Joan Lunsford, Phoebe Osborne and Charlotte Allston.

Policy Reversal Puts Formosa In Limelight Again

A 100-man U. S. military mission leaves soon for Formosa to help bolster it against possible Communist attack. Island is not new considered secure, even with U. S. 7th Fleet to protect it from threatened Red invasion.

The Defense Department announcement that Maj.-Gen. William C. Chase would lead a 100-man military mission (eventually to number 600) to Formosa is a reversal of U. S. policy toward Chiang Kai-shek. Two years ago, the U. S. removed its military mission to the Chinese Nationalists and denounced Chiang's government as corrupt. But the change of attitude falls far short of General MacArthur's demand that Nationalist forces be allowed to attack the Chinese mainland. Government spokesmen emphasized that the Chase mission would help Chiang's forces prepare Formosa's defenses against possible Red attack rather than help the Nationalists mount an attack on the mainland.

Canadian Teachers Retained

CANADIAN — (Special) — With three exceptions, all members of the Canadian school faculty have been offered new contracts for the 1951-52 school year, Supt. A. H. Breazeale announced this week.

Of the three not offered new contracts, two, Miss Lucille Wilbanks, grade school music teacher and Calvin Applewhite, high school shop teacher, had already advised the board that they had other plans for the next year. They were released with letters of commendation, Breazeale said.

The third, Cole E. Smith, high school math teacher, had resigned two weeks ago to accept a position with a Fort Worth aircraft plant.

Contracts of Principals Harvey Truitt and Jack Sutton, and of coaches John Hansard, Dee Henry, and Mosé Damron, had been renewed several weeks earlier.

Offered new contracts were Mrs. Eunice Breazeale, 6th grade; Mrs. Lillian M. Carr, 3rd grade; Miss Daisy Childers, first grade; Miss Minnie Beth Joiner, first grade; Miss Betty Hale, second grade; Miss Ruby Keller, fourth grade; Mrs. Willa McDaniels, fourth - fifth grades; Mrs. Virginia Montgomery, second grade; Joe Page, fifth - sixth grades; Mrs. Doris Price, third grade; Mrs. Beulah Pylett, second grade; Mrs. Susie J. Richards, 1st grade; Mrs. Maggie Sutton, fifth grade; and Mrs. Floy Williams, third grade; all in elementary school.

High school teachers re-employed are Miss Reita Austin, art and English; Curtis Brock, commercial; Miss Marilyn Witt,

Mrs. McNutt Speaks At Dinner In Borger

Mrs. E. E. McNutt was guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's Health and Safety dinner in Borger Thursday evening. Her topic was "Compulsory Health Insurance."

Mrs. McNutt presented facts on both sides of the question and asked her listeners to form their own opinions. She told of the results in England and spoke of the effect such a program would have on the medical profession, hospitals, pharmacists, nursing and allied professions.

A covered dish dinner of chicken and spaghetti was served. B and PW Club members who went from Pampa, other than Mrs. McNutt, were B. York, Mildred Hill, Noel Thompson, Hazel Jay, Marguerite Nash, Maxine Ehrhidge, Minnie Barnes, Mary Manatt and Elsie Gee.

New Locations, Completions Take Slight Drop For Week

Panhandle oil operators slowed their pace somewhat last week as new locations dropped to 10 and completions to 13. This compares to 14 new locations and 14 completions reported the previous week.

Total increased oil potential rose however, to 424 barrels from the low reported the week ended April 21. Gas completions dropped to 9,935 MCF from the previous week's 18,714 MCF.

Of the completions, seven were oilers, one a gasser and five were dry holes.

READY FOR FLIGHT—Metropolitan Opera soprano Astrid Varnay looks Wagnerian enough as she boards a plane in New York for Bayreuth, Germany, to appear as the first American "Brunnhilde" in the 75-year history of the Wagner music festival there.

Besides the helmet and spear, the plane's symbolic wings, against which Miss Varnay stands, accidentally add to the "Die Walkure" costume.

Children's Books Received By Library

New children's books came in this week's shipment to the Pampa Public Library including a Hardy Boys series and two selections from the Junior Literary Guild.

The two guild books are "Franchise" by Emily Hahn and "Avant-lance Patrol" by Montgomery M. Atwater.

A collection of vocational guidance manuals has also been received by the library, which carry valuable information for aspirants of various vocations.

"Opportunities in Atomic Energy" by Dr. Karl Hartzell contains personnel information never before correlated. All scientific, semi-skilled and non-skilled job categories in the Atomic Energy Commission and its contractors are described. It is useful to science students interested in adapting their training in some phase of atomic energy work.

"Opportunities in Music" by Sigmond Spaeth, presents experiences of hundreds of music performers.

"Opportunities in Photography" by Jacob Deschin includes a breakdown of institutions offering photographic training never before compiled and a discussion of helpful photographic assistants.

"Opportunities in Motor Transportation" by Charles E. Rawson includes various employment classifications of the industry with emphasis on small town operations.

"Opportunities in Television" by Jo Tomson and Richard Pack is written for aspirants of the new field in entertainment, engineering, service and business phases.

"Opportunities in Printing Trades" by Patrick F. Baughal is told partly in story form and is an analysis of job categories, wages, union regulations, advantages and disadvantages.

These have been published by the Vocational Guidance Manual, Inc.

"Parties on a Shoestring" is another newly received book in the library. It is written by Marni Wood and published by the George W. Stewart Co. in New York. It includes new and different ideas for every kind of party from wedding receptions to Spook parties. There is a difference.

"Rain on the Wind" by Walter Machen and published by the Macmillan Co. in New York is a novel story of the sea in Ireland. Strictly fiction and romance.

Just around the corner is May, then June and summertime and most of you people start to think of vacation time. Well, we up at KPDN have summer on our minds too. And if you haven't noticed it by now, we have some time changes to tell you about.

It used to be a pet peeve of mine, come summer and baseball season, to try to locate my favorite program which seemed to have been lost in the shuffle. Well, maybe I might be of some help. First of all, you mystery fans will note that "I Love A Mystery" usually heard at 9:15 p. m. is now heard nightly over KPDN at 8:30. And during the week except baseball nights you will hear a half-hour mystery show at 9:30 and once again at 10.

As far as Sundays go, baseball in the form of Mutual's famous "Game of the Day" will be holding the spotlight for the better part of Sunday afternoons. Immediately following these games you can load up your guns for another big night of mystery shows, Nick Carter and Wild Bill Hickok running together from 5:30 to 6:25. Then once again at 8:30 you may catch up on your former afternoon mystery favorites by tuning in Martin Kane, The Shadow, True Detective Mysteries, and at 10 p. m. the Roy Rogers show.

That takes care of the mystery shows. KPDN still covers the board with 17 newscasts daily to keep you abreast of the latest happenings. By the way, yours truly and the crew of airplanes are used to getting at 10 p. m. on the "Airline News" will now be coming to you at a new time too, 8:45 p. m. each day, Monday through Saturday. I'll do my best to bring you a good complete newscast with lots of Texas news just before Warren Hasse brings you the Oiler games.

By the way they started last Thursday night and will continue through the season. All Oiler out-of-town games will come to you over KPDN starting at 9 p. m. KPDN's special-events team, Kay Fancher and Garth Osborne, with Rudy Marti in charge of microphones and crows, chalked up another one this last week. Amid the crowd in front of the La. ora Theatre they caught all the excitement of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce Goodwill gang as they put on their fine performance featuring the famous Sooner Kiltie Band.

Scotch bagpipes rang out along with pounding of the popular Scotch drummers and instruments in the band—except the drum section were of the very difficult, and hard-to-play, authentic Scotch type.

It was a gay event and the all-girl band was smartly dressed in gay plaid that stood out among the large crowd. If you listened to the rebroadcast that night, you received the same thrill I did watching it in person. That's the magic of radio and you may depend on KPDN to cover all these events in the future. You will get your "cue" to listen, by just keeping tuned to 1340 on your radio dial KPDN.

Victor Borge, the Danish clown prince who is starred in his own "Victor Borge Time" thrice-weekly MBS series Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, 5:35 to 6 p. m., local time, discussing one of his next door neighbors during a recent program. "This man," said Victor, "had some fantastic ideas about scientific farming. For example, he crossed an Idaho potato with a bath sponge. Of course, the result doesn't taste very good. But it sure holds a lot of gravy.

Rise Seen In Rig Activity

DALLAS — A total of 2467 rig activity were active in oil fields of the United States and Canada for the week of April 23, according to a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Co. This total compares with 2403 reported operating a week ago, 2351 a month ago and with 2121 in the comparable month of 1950.

A comparison by principal areas for the past two weeks, shows: Pacific Coast, 150, down 7; Oklahoma, 317, up 25; Kansas, 164, up 9; Rocky Mountain, 122, up 7; Canada, 94, down 6; Ark-La-Tex, 141, up 7; West Texas & New Mexico, 855, up 9; Gulf Coast, 539, down 2; Illinois, 85, up 22.

The American Petroleum Institute has placed domestic output for last week at a record 6,143,750 barrels daily. A 1951 daily average of 6,100,000 would approximate 2,200,000,000 barrels for the year, compared to the current record of 2,020,185,000 set in 1948. The United States completed 1948 with a daily average of 5,519,609 barrels.

Sharp worldwide demand for petroleum is reflected in the Oil and Gas Journal's survey on February production. The daily world average was placed at an all-time high of 11,381,800 barrels, compared to a month earlier 9,808,800 and a year earlier 7,860,000.

Should the February average be maintained, world output this year would exceed 4,100,000,000 barrels, an estimated record 3,786,000,000 was produced last year, with an estimated 1,973,000,000 coming from the United States.

State oil and gas regulatory officials are watching weekly industrial and governmental statistical reports closely these days. The nation emerged from the winter heating oil season with crude output at record levels. Refinery operations have dropped slightly from their January-February record rates.

Texas and Louisiana have authorized record output allowances for May, although only minor hikes over April are involved. The regulatory officials have indicated cutbacks in production will come quickly at first indication of slumps in demand or rapid increases in crude storage.

The Journal's world production survey gives the United States a February output averaging 5,922,000 barrels daily, compared to a year earlier 4,968,900.

Countries in the western hemisphere were credited with 3,145,600 barrels a day, as against 6,794,200 for February, 1950.

Big increases were shown in Iran and Saudi Arabia in the Middle East. Iran jumped to 704,600 barrels a day, after 647,800 January average and 625,800 a year earlier. Saudi Arabia averaged 633,700, compared to 561,200 in January and 486,400 in February last year.

Middle East oil production figures prominently in current information politics and its February area-wide flow was estimated at 1,946,600 barrels a day. A year earlier it was 1,568,600.

Estimates on output in Russia and eastern European Iron Curtain countries remained unchanged from January's 923,100 barrels daily. The February 1950 average was 853,000.

The government of Pakistan plans to introduce Arabic script into adult education throughout the country. Rehman said Moslems were familiar with the script from reading from the Koran. Bengali is a Hindu-derived language.

Wildcat Band Wins Second

CANADIAN — (Special) — The Canadian High School Wildcat Band, under direction of James H. Galt, entered the Interscholastic League, Region I, band meet at Canyon Thursday, April 26, competing with eighteen other bands in class B.

The band ranked in second divisions in both concert playing and marching. They received third in sight-reading.

A brass sextette composed of Norma Bernson and Gene McAdoo on cornets, Louise Zybach, french horn, Larry Breazeale, trombone, Jeannette Raymond, harifone, and Kenneth Ballard, bass horn, won a first division and were each awarded medals.

Soloists Alice Detweiler and Jeannette Raymond won firsts with their baritone solos and were also awarded medals. Stan Douglass on bass clarinet, Dorothy Ebers, flute, placed in second division and were given certificates.

In student conducting, Norma Bernson and Stan Douglass each placed second and received certificates.

United States Sees Possible Two Billion-Barrel Oil Output

HOUSTON — (AP) — The current rate of crude oil production would give the United States its second two-billion barrel year in history.

Continuation of worldwide rates also would boost world output above the four billion mark the first time.

The American Petroleum Institute has placed domestic output for last week at a record 6,143,750 barrels daily. A 1951 daily average of 6,100,000 would approximate 2,200,000,000 barrels for the year, compared to the current record of 2,020,185,000 set in 1948. ## Need For Recreation Room Can Be Filled

Modern demands for more recreation space, or a comfortable place to relax and watch television, are making home-owners more conscious of the need for providing a recreation room.

With a little ingenuity, the householder can inexpensively convert an area of the house into a playroom for both grown-ups and children, where guests can also be entertained in a friendly, intimate atmosphere.

This modernization job includes making the room more attractive, more livable and more sound-proof than before. A thorough conversion will include walls, woodwork, ceiling and floor; furniture arrangement; addition of built-ins, new furnishings and accessories.

If the woodwork is not attractive, painting it in the wall color will minimize it. If a new wall is desired, it may be finished in knotty pine, paint or paper on plaster, clay or glass tile, asbestos tile, wallboard, or cork tile. Cork tile is easily applied by spreading adhesive on the back of each tile and pressing it firmly into place on the wall. Kencork walls can also serve for pinning up pictures, prints, programs, score cards, memos and the like.

Walls of rough plaster must be prepared for painting or papering. First smooth them down with sandpaper, then apply a coat of plastic and finally a layer of muslin to give final surface. Before painting or papering, other structural defects must be corrected. Remove any moldings which divide walls into panels, as paneling tends to give the room a cut-up appearance. There is picture molding in dicade dropped ceiling, it should be moved to the ceiling line. Remove wall light brackets that give little light and break up wall spaces, and install more electric outlets on baseboards and walls for both floor and table lamps. These convenience outlets should be 12 feet apart in all unbroken wall spaces; and there should be one in every short, broken wall space three feet or more in length.

For a quiet atmosphere, the ceiling should be of acoustical tile which absorbs sound; otherwise, the normal plaster ceiling is satisfactory.

When decorating, light colors are desirable on floors, walls and furniture, to make the room bright and cheerful. If there are no windows, they may be simulated with concealed lighting or with mural views behind plain-painted sash.

For the floor-covering, an extremely appropriate, useful and attractive material is cork tile. Because of its cellular cork structure, Kencork deadens noise transmissions and helps to create a desirable quiet atmosphere. This cork tile comes in random shades ranging from oak to walnut, which blend with any color of fabrics and furnishings.

This material can be installed directly over any smooth, firm floor of cement, steel, well-seasoned wood, terrazzo, clay tile or other hard surface. Maintenance is simple, requiring only an occasional mopping with soap and lukewarm water.

A recreation room should be supplied with built-in cabinets to provide storage space for books, records, games, card tables and folding chairs; built-in radio and phonograph. The room should have a nook or table for television set and home movie projector. For easy entertaining, a sink, refrigerator, and dish and glass storage will be convenient.

If there is sufficient room, a piano will do a great deal to make the room more enjoyable. A hospitable feature is an ample fireplace to give a cozy atmosphere. Appropriate wall decorations can include hunting or war trophies, mounted fish or game captures, guns and fishing rods or other treasures collected by members of the family.

Newest Look In Homes Is Black, White

NEW YORK — In Paris — even in the dress salons of the great couturiers — the combination of black-and-white is fast becoming THE rage. Not just black-and-white, of course, but black-and-white plus color.

Dorothy Draper combines black and white with blue, using blue as the ceiling color and as the lining for white draperies.

Melanie Kathane uses black and white with nasturtium, employing black for its tranquilizing effect on the ceiling of a bedroom furnished in the French Provincial style. Nasturtium for the bedspread and chair upholstery.

Designer Rohsjohn — who uses black-and-white and gray — the sum of the two for a masculine room in monotonous.

But the combination of black and white, of course, can be used with any color. It can be introduced successfully in almost any room to create the sense of up-to-the-minute.

The current issue of House and Garden features black-plus-white-plus-cherry for the room of the teenage daughter who has outgrown pastel. It shows an attractive black-plus-white-plus-yellow scheme for a French Provincial living room or television den that has rich brown painted walls, a yellow rug, white chairs to give the room "sparkle" and black leather table tops to lend "solidity." There is a black-plus-white-plus-pink feminine bedroom with organdy and chintz. Pink — painted ceiling and pink walls to match, a Georgian tester bed lacquered in white are skillfully combined with polished white chintz bedspread and dressing table skirt.

House and Garden lists several ways to achieve the high style black-and-white look on a budget. "Use your imagination. You can work wonders and make every penny count," it advises. "Buy black opaque, lacquered lampshades or paint the ones you have black. Start a collection of black japanned boxes — you can find them in second hand shops. Paint a bulletin board black. The black on your thumbtack on it will stand out. Your old gilt picture frames will be wonderful white, with moldings in black. Don't be afraid to paint old furniture white. It smartens up undistinguished pieces."

Syrie Maugham, the internationally known decorator, likes to paint furniture white, too. She paints traditional chairs white and upholsters white slipper chairs in velvet.

The black-and-white trend can be introduced in countless ways . . . and with all sorts of wood and periods of furniture. This spring, in the show rooms of the fine furniture houses, you'll find it with Regency, Directoire, and French Provincial pieces that reflect the elegance of the past. You'll also see it with Swedish pieces that are as new as tomorrow. You'll find it with rosewood, fruitwood, mahogany and walnut. You'll see black chairs upholstered in white, wood tables with black leather tops, black lacquer pieces with natural caning, crisp white iron chaise longues for the garden, white lacquer dining tables combined with black lacquer chairs.

High style is playing into the homemakers' hands this season. Even the tightest budget will permit the newest look for your household when you put your ingenuity in charge.

Spray Gun Painting Is Popular

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Becoming increasingly popular with the home and business property owner is the application of paint with a spray gun. The practice really dates back to 1893, when the buildings at the Chicago World's Columbian Exposition constituted the first major projects finished by spray painting equipment.

Since that time, the spray gun has become so useful in the finishing of commercial products that between 85 to 95 percent of industrial finishing is now being done by this process.

The products coated by spray gun range in size from the smallest bobby pins and clock hands to the largest locomotives and ships. An example of its efficiency is the story of its use in the automobile industry. Prior to the introduction of the spray painting process, one man could prepare and finish 4 to 7 cars per day, using a brush. Today, a team of four men can finish cars prepared for the production line at the rate of 57 per hour or 456 per day.

Spray painting also plays an important part in the protection, beautification and maintenance of all types of commercial, rural and urban structures. It is, of course, a method of applying a coating with the aid of compressed air. The force of the air breaks up the material to be applied into fine particles and carries them to the surface where they unite to form a film. Almost all types of coatings can be applied with spray guns. And almost all types of surfaces can be so coated.

To prepare the material you plan to use in a spray gun, it is important to follow the manufacturer's instructions. To remove all lumps and particles of skin, the material should be strained through cheese cloth or wire screen of such mesh or gauge to do the job efficiently.

When actually doing the spraying, hold the gun six to eight inches from the object to be sprayed and move it across the surface with steady, even strokes. The stroke is made with a free arm motion, keeping the gun perpendicular to — and at equal distance from — the surface at all points of the stroke. It's important to practice on a cardboard or other surface until you get the proper technique.

The fluid flow is regulated by the fluid-adjusting screw on the gun. You start with the adjusting screw nearly closed and obtain the desired spray by gradually opening this screw. An unbalanced or distorted spray indicates a dirty air cap, incidentally. To remedy the situation, removed the air cap and wash it thoroughly in clean solvent. If reaming of the air cap holes is necessary, use a match stick or broom bristle — never a hard or sharp instrument.

Needless to say, it's tremendously important to keep a spray gun clean. This can be done by spraying clean solvent through the gun and washing off the outside with more of the clean solvent. Proper lubrication is also essential to insure perfect operation at all times.

Codfish often kill and eat lobsters.

Nearly every important bedroom line includes both a bookcase headboard bed as well as the regular headboard bed. Reading in bed has become a popular American custom. Women like the additional storage space — for books, telephone, radio, reading lamps and decorative accessories. The grouping shown above comes in two finishes: lined oak and brown walnut. Grooved drawers allow easy grip and added beauty of design unbroken by the distraction of metal pulls. It is called the Villa Moderna Suite. (The Menzel Co.)

Glassware Lustre Brought Out By Simple, Careful Handling

The permanent lustre of fine American handmade glassware can be brought out by simple care in washing and will add pleasure and beauty to your table each time you use it.

Glass expands with heat and contracts with cold and should not be subjected to the shock of sudden sharp temperature changes. Allow tumblers which have been used for iced drinks to warm up before being dipped in hot water. Set a silver spoon in the glass before you put in a hot liquid. Avoid dropping ice cubes into a glass from above.

A rubber mat or pad at the bottom of the sink or dishpan, or a turkish toweling cover over the drainboard will protect glassware from chipping. Use plenty of soap suds in warm, not hot, water, and while the glassware is still damp, dry it with a lint-free towel. When you wash stemware, hold it by cradling the bowl in the palm of your hand to avoid strain. A few drops of ammonia or oiling added to the rinse water will bring out the inherent lustre. In case of hard water, add a water-softener to avoid leaving a film on glass surfaces.

If goblets or tumblers stick together, one within the other, don't pull them apart. Instead, fill the inner glass with cold water and place the outer one in warm water and they will loosen easily.

Rinse milk glasses with cold water before washing them. If they are sticky, wash in lukewarm water, not hot. If a glass pitcher gathers a mineral deposit at the bottom, shake vinegar and tea-leaves in it. If a residue of vinegar mars your glass vinegar bottle, let a weak solution of ammonia and water stand in it for 15 minutes before washing.

Hand-cut glass should be given the pampering it deserves. Wash only one piece at a time, using warm, mild soap suds. Clean the

New Walls, Floors Improve Old Homes

Perhaps a greater improvement can be accomplished in the interior appearance of a house by modernizing the walls and floor than by any other means, it is suggested by the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information. Cracked, uneven plaster and scarred, unsightly floors are the biggest offenders in the average old house.

When part of a wall or ceiling is seen to be bulged, pressure of the hand will reveal whether it has pulled loose with the lath. If this has happened, the loose plaster should be removed and replaced with new plaster, properly bonded to the lath.

An increasing number of home-owners are using wallboard with vapor barrier characteristics to modernize the interiors of their homes. Furring strips can be nailed right over the plaster to the studs and joists and the new wallboard fastened to these strips.

After this is applied, the house can be insulated with mineral wool by blowing it pneumatically into the hollow wall spaces. This procedure is well worth while because of the fuel savings and increased summer and winter comfort provided by the insulation.

Floors can be modernized by laying new flooring over the old, worn boards. Longer than normal nails should be used in such cases so that they will fasten the new flooring firmly to the joists.

Recipes Take Guesswork Out Of Lighting Problems

Whether you want to light your whole house or just one room at a time, you can now do it with new confidence if you follow the new Light Conditioning Recipes recently developed.

Twenty-two easy-to-follow recipes at last take the guesswork out of what kind of lighting equipment to choose and where to place it for best lighting results.

Many families are content with "horse and buggy era" lighting in their homes today simply because they have never experienced the benefits of modern lighting. A modern Light Conditioning home in which all of the lighting is created accurately through tested recipes, gives new charm and visual comfort to everyday living as well as eyesight protection for the whole family.

These recipes which are all based on scientific research are designed to be followed as carefully as those in your favorite cookbook. As you may quickly see in the illustrations above, accurate measurements are required for successful results, so keep your tape measure handy.

Typical of these new Light Conditioning Recipes is the one developed for reading when seated in an upholstered chair. Notice in the photographs above how measurements vary for floor and table lamps used with reading chairs.

When using a table lamp beside your reading chair, choose an end table 25 inches high. Table lamps which measure from 25 to 30 inches to the top of the diffusing bowl and shade are recommended. Shades should have a bottom diameter of at least 16 inches and the lower edge of the shade should measure 15 inches above the table for smaller lamps and 17 inches for taller ones. Make sure that a table lamp used for reading has the right bulb for the lamp can give the right light without the proper size bulb. Use 50-100-150-watt or the 50-150-watt indirect white light which has its own built-in diffusing surface can be used without a bowl.

One of the most important points in each recipe is proper placement, so measure 20 inches to the right or left of the center of your book or newspaper. Then, measure 16 inches at a right-angle to the rear of your chair and locate the lamp as shown in the upper left-hand photograph above.

If you want your reading to be less tiring and more fun, place floor lamps according to the measurements given on the lower right-hand photograph above.

First of all, floor lamps for reading chairs should be tall enough to locate the lower edge of the shade 49 inches from the floor. For tested results, place them 15 inches to the right or left of your book center and 26 inches back toward the rear of the chair. Notice how near the rear corner of the chair leg the lamp is. Choose a large floor lamp which uses a 100-200-300-watt bulb, or the bridge and junior-type lamps which use the three-lit 150-watt or a single 150-watt inside frosted bulb.

You'll agree that lighting recipes are as important as cooking recipes once you've tried a generous size light over your range. Whether you choose a shielded unit with a 25-watt or 40-watt fluorescent tube; a shielded unit with two 60-watt luminescent tubes (mounted end to end) or a pair of lamps with 60-watt bulbs (spaced 18 inches apart), mount the lighting unit on the wall above the range with the bottom edge of the shield no more than 58 inches from the floor as shown in the upper right-hand photograph above.

One of the easiest lighting recipes to follow is the one for wall lamps which is pictured at the lower left above. To correctly place the lamp, simply mount it so that the lower edge of the shade is 30 inches above the top of your mattress.

Choose wall lamps which use the 50-100-150-watt three-lit frosted bulb or a 150-watt white indirect light. Make sure that the bottom of the shade is at least 15 inches in diameter.

Trend To Modern Offices Continues

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The trend toward more modern, colorful and comfortable offices continues with the erection of each new office building. An investment broker's office here in the nation's capital has chateau-style painted walls, colorful draperies and furniture, air conditioning and a translucent screen with latest sales and quotations flashing across an enlarged tape.

Longer Life

Much-used, fabric-covered books can be protected with a coat of shellac.

Dual Purpose Features Seen In Furniture

Chaotic world affairs increase the strain and pace of everyday life and the job of the homemaker becomes more difficult as she supplies the vital need for greater comfort and relaxation at home.

The new furniture designs indicate that manufacturers recognize this requirement and are meeting it with their expert knowledge and talent.

Chairs with arms which raise to become tables, built-in magazine racks always within easy reach, headboards adjustable to suit readers-in-bed — these are just a few of the new items that contribute to the enjoyment of living at home.

Better storage planning makes the job of hostess much easier. Several new buffets artfully conceal trays for napkins, a place for glasses, china, silver, serving trays and tall bottles, as well as wide shallow drawers for flat linen!

One manufacturer offers additional utility cabinets, on rollers which house three drop-leaf tables and an electric hot plate for keeping food warm, or for preparing on-the-spot specialties. The cabinets may be used separately or for flanking the central buffet unit.

The abundance of comfortable lounge chairs with ottomans, suggests more concern for relaxation than posture.

Luxurious depth and good tailoring in durable texture fabrics earmark the new chairs and sofas.

Whenever you look you will find more value for your money. Thought and planning coupled with fine materials and manufacturing know-how produce the vital machinery of a well run home where the product is peace and new energy for the day's work.

Mildew Must Be Prevented

The approach of warmer days means here comes the mildew season.

Since mildew can raise a hob with wood, fabrics, leather, paper, paintwork — almost everything in your home — it's a good idea to fight it and keep it down.

The prevention of mildew is a lot easier than its cure. The first step is to eliminate all causes of dampness and to keep your house well aired.

Don't let damp or wet clothing lie around. It's prudent to dry all soiled clothing before putting it in a laundry hamper. Keep dishcloths, washcloths, towels and wet shower curtains spread out to dry.

The housewife who sprinkles her laundry and then puts off the ironing soon learns about mildew. She'll touch job to remove the stains — if the fabric hasn't actually rotted.

Soiled fabrics mildew more rapidly than clean articles. So it's unwise to store clothing that has not been laundered or dry cleaned. Also mold is fed on starch and sizing. Starched shirts often mildew in damp unventilated drawers. It's safer to sun and air stored clothing periodically to be sure it remains dry.

Mildew seems to spread like blazes. Although all mold spots should be removed as soon as they are discovered, if you brush them off indoors the spores will scatter in the air and replant themselves elsewhere. Do the brushing outdoors or use a vacuum cleaner.

Mildew on paint will often take the appearance of a sooty or rusty deposit. You'll notice it more often on dark paint than on white. This is because the surface film is softer on dark paints, such as black, brown or red. White paint with its zinc and lead and less oil dries harder and becomes more resistant to mildew.

Ordinary ready mixed dark paint can be given increased resistance to mildew in the following way: Open the can without stirring. Pour off part of the excess liquid (oil) to the proportion of 1 pint to a gallon. Replace this with a pint of spar varnish. Douglas C. Arnold, president of the Keystone Paint and Varnish Corp., agrees that a harder film will be produced in this way, or by adding about a quart per pint of dryer instead of the varnish.

Garage Should Be Located Conveniently

There are three main choices for location of the garage: Attached to one side of the house, beneath the house, or standing alone at the rear of the yard. The latter location is generally discarded today because of the large amount of space sacrificed for driveway.

Most widely-used is the garage attached to the front of the house because it is more accessible and convenient in all weather. Care should be taken, however, that the entrance is in harmony with the rest of the house and that a fire-barrier such as fireproof mineral wool insulation is placed between garage and house wall.

A new idea is to provide a back door as well as a front entrance so the car can be driven into the backyard for washing or other work. Efficient automatic doors are now available at a cost which is not excessive.

Before placing a garage beneath the house, consideration should be given, especially in cold climates, to the fact that the driveway will fill with snow, and unless adequate drains are provided within the garage, it will become flooded by heavy rains.

It must also be remembered that the driveway ramp sunk into the ground creates a hazard for children at play because of the danger of tumbling over the retaining walls. Best use of the garage beneath the house is when the home is built on a hillside so the car can be driven straight into the garage without need for a ramp.

The ceiling should be insulated with water-lakes of mineral wool to minimize fire danger and to prevent rooms above the garage from becoming cold.

Pink Kitchens Become Vogue

A decade ago, white kitchen cabinets were the rule, rather than the exception. Today, however, an increasing number of colored cabinets and appliances are appearing on the market. Pink is becoming an especial favorite.

One of the greatest aids to entertaining is a neat table. A perennial favorite, it comes in a wide variety of designs, woods and finishes. The Traditional model shown above has long been a popular item. (Imperial Furniture Co.)

However, he points out that use of high quality paint obviates the necessity of such adulteration.

In places especially subject to mildew, a fungicide can be added to the paint by mixing one-half to 1 ounce of bichloride of mercury per gallon of paint in the varnish before it is added to the paint.

Whenever a mildewed surface is to be repainted all mildew should be carefully removed. Scrape it off and wash well. Rub strong laundry soap on the stains, cover with powdered starch and salt, and expose to the sun wherever possible. Otherwise soak several hours in sour milk — that's an old recipe — and then expose to the sun without rinsing. Our mothers used Javelle water successfully.

Removal of mildew stains has been studied extensively by the General Electric Consumers Institute at Bridgeport, Conn. It was found that fresh mildew stains on washable fabrics could be eliminated by washing promptly with soap and water, rinsing and drying in the sun. Any remaining stain was eliminated by sponging with a solution of 1 tablespoon of sodium perborate to a pint of lukewarm water. This was left to stand for a minute or two and then rinsed. However, since this is a bleach it is well to test it first on an unimportant part of the cloth.

The GE experimenters also found it effective to boil musty dishcloths and washcloths with 2 teaspoons of baking soda, added to each quart of water.

A chlorine bleach worked on old mildew stains on undyed cotton, linen and rayon, followed by a dip in a weak vinegar solution to stop the chlorine action. But this can never be done to silk or wool.

A vacuum cleaner is very effective in removing mold from upholstery because it does not spread the spores in the air. Stains are washed, rinsed and dried in the sun. Wiping upholstered furniture with a cloth wrung out of diluted alcohol, and then thoroughly dried, is another recourse.

Fumigate mildewed leather goods, remove stains by washing with saddle soap, dry in an airy

COMBINE AND DINE — IN BEAUTY

Living room-dining room areas can be artistically combined when a beautiful color scheme gives the room unity and well-ordered, well-arranged furniture sets the stage. In this room, walls and woodwork are painted an eye-pleasing, rich olive green which is accented by coral notes in the draperies, upholstery fabrics and accessories. place and then wax thoroughly.

Mildewed floors and woodwork can be wiped with a cloth dipped in water to which a little kerosene has been added and then dried thoroughly.

An electric fan and radiant heating device prove handy in such drying processes.

Presto Change-o! . . . It's Attic Magic

BEFORE—Here is an attic such as can be found in millions of American homes. This space is much too valuable to waste when it can be made into extra living space, as shown in the photograph below.

AFTER—And here is the same attic, transformed by clever decorating ideas and modern building materials into a smart bedroom-study for a teen-age girl. Walls and ceiling are finished with insulating board planks in two harmonizing colors. Insulating board is easily applied and comes factory decorated. Because it is an insulating material, too, it helps keep the room comfortable both summer and winter.

Their Own Room Is An Ideal Gift

Wondering what to give your teenage daughter for her birthday, graduation or similar occasion? Well here's a practical idea and one that is bound to go over big. Make it a room of her own, one that is designed to her personality and needs and that will serve as a study, living room and bedroom.

The same suggestion, of course, is equally appropriate for a teenage boy. Just be sure to give it the right masculine touch.

If your home has an unused attic, the addition of an attractive room or two can be made with little fuss. The time was when such a project would be a major undertaking. Modern building materials, however, have changed all that. Interior walls and ceilings now can be put up quickly and at modest cost.

Considering that an attic can be converted into cheerful and comfortable living quarters, the space is far too valuable to be left as a catch-all for odds and ends. More and more American families are arriving at that conclusion as a result of their acquaintance with economical materials for finishing interiors.

Prominent among those materials are the various insulating board decorative products. They come in the form of large sheets, planks and tiles can be applied quickly over attic rafters and supplementary framing. Their visual appeal is enhanced by the patterns they form. Scores of attractive designs can be worked out.

As the name implies, insulating board has thermal value, a feature especially important for summer and winter comfort in an attic room. It comes predecorated in a number of pleasing colors. The same material builds, insulates, decorates and quiets sound.

A little ingenuity will add interest and utility to an attic room. One recently built for a high school girl uses the sloping space in one corner for a novel concealed bed arrangement. The bed, a boxspring on legs, can be pushed part way into a wall recess, thus reducing the bed to sofa size. In the wall just above bed height is a recessed book shelf.

Open shelving for plants and knickknacks extend to the ceiling on either side of the bed. On one side the shelving is flush against the end wall. On the other, it over for you. Usually it's cheaper to paint than to procrastinate.

make a drop-leg typewriter table. Thanks to this arrangement, there is no daytime evidence of the dual function of the room. When it is time to retire, the bed merely is pulled out to its full width.

The room itself is tastefully decorated by the insulating board planks which finish the walls and ceiling. End walls, lower side walls and partitions are made of planks in a pleasing sand shade, laid horizontally. The upper sloping walls are of insulating board plank in a light reflecting off-white, applied vertically. White planks also make the ceiling.

Whether it is a teen-ager's room, a nursery, a playroom or a den that the family needs, the extra space needed usually can be found in an unused attic. Modern building materials will do the remodeling job at a budget price.

Play Porch Proves Boon To Home Care

Are you planning to build a home and wondering just what to do about the problem of providing the children with adequate play space? For many families that's a real poser.

A San Jose, Calif., couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh, solved it by including a generously proportioned lanai (a Hawaiian type enclosed porch) off the children's bedroom.

Exposed to the healthful sunlight, the lanai opens onto the patio and thus makes it easily accessible to the outdoors. The children can come and go without disturbing others or tracking dirt into the home.

Mrs. Walsh reports that the play porch, floored with hardwood, takes much of the stress and strain off the living room and other parts of the house. To simplify maintenance, the floor is left uncovered. It is not only easy to keep clean, but also has proved to be resistant to scratches, says Mrs. Walsh.

Paint When Need Arises Is Advised

If your house looks to you as if it needs painting, you'll be wise to have a painting contractor check it over for you. Usually it's cheaper to paint than to procrastinate.

FURNITURE MANUFACTURERS KEEP PACE WITH THE CHANGING TIMES and have recently introduced a wide variety of chairs especially designed for slouching. These attractive upholstered chairs are mounted on large casters specially concealed by the expertly tailored skirt of the cover and may thus be moved from one end of the room to the other—or rotated in a complete 360 degree circle—by the mere flick of a dainty wrist. ## Nation's Handmade Glassware Is Best

If you figuratively put a microscope on the home furnishings accessories you buy, in a search for perfection, you're looking for a degree of perfection that does not exist. Instead you can enjoy the inherent beauty and usefulness of made-in-America accessories, secure in the knowledge that they are the world's finest.

An excellent example is handmade glassware. As fine as it is, scientific perfection is no more possible than with any other article of commerce or art. While American glassmakers are the first to point out that there is no such thing as absolutely "flawless" perfection, they do defy anyone to find greater artistry, symmetry, clarity and strength than is evident in their product.

American handmade glass is created by the skilled hands and eyes of many men and women working as teams. It is amazing that such a high degree of perfection can be attained; that piece after piece coming from any individual or group of glassblowers or glass pressers so nearly and accurately duplicates every other piece.

There are many variations in diameter, height and other dimensions among any group of tumblers, goblets, plates or other glassware articles. These variations are so slight they can usually be detected only with a micrometer, rarely by the naked eye. This is a hall-mark of fine craftsmanship.

A tiny "seed" or bubble the size of a pinpoint may sometimes be observed in a piece of glassware examined against a strong light. A "seed" is a tiny bubble formed by gases when chemicals are united in the fusing or melting of the raw ingredients. This is comparatively rare in handmade American glassware whose sand, chemicals and other ingredients are purer than those used anywhere else in the world, and are blended more carefully.

A "cord" is an almost invisible difference in density in the glass, caused during the fusing of the molten glass. It is only visible to the naked eye because, owing to the variation in density, it reflects light. When a goblet which has a "cord" is filled with water, no light is reflected and the so-called "flaw" disappears.

While a mould-mark is not a sign of imperfection, a too-prominent mould-mark in a piece of pressed glass is an indication of careless workmanship. In fine quality hand-pressed glass, mould-marks are so imperceptible as not to constitute a flaw.

A shear-mark is a slight puckering of the glass made when the artisan snips off excess molten glass when the working piece, as for example the end of the handle of a pitcher.

No matter how deft the touch of the sensitive hands of glassware craftsmen, it is impossible to entirely eliminate these variations, which are not properly to be classed as flaws. Glass is one of the trickiest substances. It is a source of pride to the artisans of American handmade glasshouses that their creations are finer and more free of so-called "flaws" than any glass in the world.

When buying glassware, be sure it bears the label of a reputable American firm. This not only insures quality, but also means it is possible to add to and replace it.

Look for clarity and luster by holding the piece against a white background. High quality glassware is sparkling clean; inferior grades have a cloudy bluish or greenish tinge. Good quality glass has a permanent polish or luster which results from repeated fire polishings.

Rap the bowl of a piece of stemware with the fingers. If fine hand-blown glass, it rings with a clear musical tone. The best blown glassware contains lead, for clarity and purity. Another name of lead glass is flint glass. Good quality pressed glass — such large pieces as plates, candelabra, bowls — contain lime, to give it toughness and strength. When tapped, its tone is muffled, not resonant. However, this by no means lessens its desirability.

Look for the smooth edges. Glassware edges should be even, never rough and scratchy. In hand-cut crystal, the design should be distinct and clearly defined.

Colored glassware should show an even tint when held up to the light. Darker colored glass, such as ruby, emerald or amethyst, should show a deep glow and sparkle when held up to the light.

When choosing stemware, look for a firm joining of base and stem, and of bowl and stem. It should have well-balanced, symmetrical shapes with graceful bowls, stems and feet that harmonize together.

Floors Should Go With Furnishings

The wise homemaker who has a choice in the matter will insist that her new house be equipped with floors that are versatile.

Versatile floors are those which prove adaptable to style changes in furniture and decorative treatment.

That is an especially important quality for floors, since they are permanent parts of a house and ordinarily should last the life of the building.

One reason for the widespread popularity of oak floors, particularly those in the conventional strip style, is their capacity for harmonizing with any type of surroundings.

Whether the furnishings be traditional or modern, the colors bright or subdued, floors of gleaming oak blend well. They thus permit the homemaker much flexibility in planning her interiors and making desired changes.

Leatherwood in Recreation Room

This attractive recreation room in the basement is paneled with Masonite Leatherwood which has been finished in yellow and brown. The ingenious owner hid his utility meters behind simply-made doors of the same material, making the hickory space doubly useful by including bookshelves. The room is wonderful for parties, movies, dances, and just plain reading or youngsters' playing.

KITCHEN BUILT BY UNITS — The kitchen shown above is just one example of the many layouts available by using cabinet units. Any size or shape kitchen can be planned for the greatest efficiency. It's fun to work in a well-planned kitchen. Whether you are building or remodeling, don't overlook your kitchen needs.

Basic Requirements Given For Kitchens

The next time you step into your kitchen to prepare the family meal, try asking yourself the following questions as you go about your tasks:

1. Am I standing in my own shadow at the sink?
2. Do I have to strain to read my cooking recipes or sometimes misjudge measurements?
3. Can I see into the bottoms of pots and pans while working at the range?
4. Is my kitchen a bright and cheerful room in which to work or do I dread the time I must spend in it?

Lucky is the homemaker indeed who finds that her kitchen lives up to these basic requirements. Many women who would not dream of going back to the old fashioned wood stove are still alight with lighting of that era. Good lighting can create a cheerful atmosphere in the older home's kitchen as well as in a newly built one. Simply follow the four tested recipes for kitchen lighting recently developed.

These tested lighting recipes, which are as scientifically balanced as your favorite cooking recipes, outline practical, easy-to-follow lighting arrangements that will give you prescribed amounts of light for easier, faster and more accurate seeing.

Here are the four basic recipes to follow in light-conditioning kitchens in both new and older homes.

Start with a good ceiling fixture for smooth, over-all lighting that will create a bright, cheerful atmosphere throughout the room. Use a fixture with minimum of three 20-watt or two 25-watt fluorescent tubes or a 150-watt incandescent bulb in a 12-inch enclosing globe.

To help speed vegetable preparations and dishwashing, you'll need light directly above your sink, too.

Recessed lights (two 25-watt fluorescent tubes) as pictured in the photograph at the left above should be installed not more than 81 inches above the floor. Other easy ways to light the sink are with a 75-watt floodlight or a 150-watt bulb in a 12-inch enclosing globe and concealed behind a decorative valance board.

To keep yourself from straining to read recipes and to insure accurate measurements, have at least one work counter lighted, as shown in the lower right-hand photograph.

Use a 20-watt fluorescent tube for each 25 to 30 inches of counter surface. Use shielded units placed on the wall over the counter, unshielded units when placed under cabinets.

The last of the four basic lighting recipes is designed to assure plenty of light on the top of your range. Because so many "range lights" fail to give enough light to allow you to see into the bottoms of pots and pans, you'll want another fixture over the stove.

Choose a 25-watt or 40-watt shielded fluorescent unit, two 60-watt luminaire tubes (end-to-end and shielded); or a shielded unit for two 60-watt bulbs (18 inches apart) mounted parallel to the wall.

Place fixtures above range with the bottom edge of the shielding unit not more than 58 inches above the floor.

Dry Surface Is Best For Painting

Excess moisture in wood may cause paint to blister. Always be sure that a surface to be painted is thoroughly dry before work is begun.

Early Furniture Was Painted Red

Practically all early American furniture in use during the Colonial period in New England was painted. Dark red was a favorite color for tables, desks and chests. It is the old paint film, in many cases, which establishes the authenticity of antiques.

Keeps Painters Busy

At one of the large automobile companies, twenty seven painting operations are carried out on two miles of conveyor lines. In the paint storage rooms are twenty-eight tanks, each of which can hold one hundred twenty gallons of material. In addition to the primer surfacer and sealer paints, there are twelve enamel colors. Paint is supplied to the body spray booths through nearly thirty six hundred feet of pipe.

Prepare For General With Paint Brushes

WASHINGTON, D. C. — To make sure the penthouse suite prepared for General and Mrs. MacArthur had an impeccable look upon their arrival, the Statler detailed a crew of painters to touch up any wall blemishes with artists' brushes and to refinish baseboards along the hall corridor just outside the suite.

Brown, Beige Popular For Backgrounds

Color is the keynote of good decoration. When combined with skill and understanding it becomes your greatest ally in creating the atmosphere you want in your home.

You have probably noticed that color preferences now move in a much more rapidly changing cycle than ever before. It was only a few years ago that dark-toned walls and neutral rugs were considered new and daring. Now we know how effective a forest green room can be.

This year the now familiar gray, green and rosy red favorites are giving way to the new brown, beige and russet, etc. Brown values have already supplanted a great extent the popularity of gray as a background color. Green continues a marked trend toward yellow-green and away from blue-green. The new reds are most exciting in yellow values — red orange moving on down the scale into rust and copper tones. Yellow stays high on the list of favorites, particularly as a background color in light pure value. For accents, flashes of brilliant orange, sharp yellow greens, and bright metallic gold are noticed.

In the main, however, the new color story is composed of earth-toned neutrals with flower bright accents as background for much needed relaxation and casual living.

Texture is an important factor in color planning. In monochromatic schemes, it plays the part of another color in achieving subtle contrasts in tone. Manufacturers are constantly making surveys to find out what you, as consumers, want so that their retail outlets may supply your requirements. A vast network of color research and analysis has been created to study this elusive taste cycle and to help the industry to serve its customers well.

Paint Insures Against Losses

The only difference between fire and decay is in the rapidity of destruction. Loss through fire or other cause is accidental and occasional — and is not prevented by insurance. Rot and rust, on the other hand, are inevitable, constant, but are absolutely prevented when all surfaces exposed to the weather are protected with paint or varnish.

New Materials Make Repairs Easy, Cheap

Development of new materials and building construction techniques is making home modernization and repairs easier and less expensive. Progressive research has made it possible for the home-owner to obtain attractive effects with a minimum expenditure.

There is a new technique for building walls that is a cost-saver. It makes use of a plaster pump machine. This makes plastering of walls and ceilings less expensive by pumping the mixture through a 35-foot hose from a hopper and applying it to the wall in rough coat through a spray nozzle. It has made possible a new curtain wall backup 6 inches thick composed of perlite plaster and perlite concrete with finish plaster inside.

A warm air perimeter system has been perfected which provides warm floors with air-conditioning benefits. It is especially designed for basementless homes built on concrete slab floors. Construction consists of embedding a heating duct in the concrete around the outside edge of the slab just inside the walls. This perimeter duct is connected with a centrally located furnace by means of radial ducts.

FHA heating experts advise home-builders to include proper insulation in slab-floored homes built on the ground without crawl space. They recommend at least 2 inches of insulation between the edge of the slab and the point where it joins the foundation walls, with the insulation turned under the slab and extended about 2 feet from each foundation wall.

Engineers have found that when walls are insulated full-thick with mineral wool, they are within 2 or 3 degrees of the air temperature and drafts are virtually eliminated. National Bureau of Standards reports that full-thick mineral wool in walls reduces fuel consumption at least 17-12 percent.

Biggest heat loss from a concrete slab floor is through the edges, and unless the slab is insulated as recommended by the FHA and the walls and roof area also insulated, a much larger heating system will be needed, fuel consumption will be abnormally high, and even with the larger heating plant, discomfort will be experienced.

Lighting presents a wide scope of advanced techniques. Today's fluorescent lighting and modern lamps provide a much wider light output on the same consumption of current than was

THE CORINTH has two of the three bedrooms shown divided by a folding partition. This may be opened into a daytime playroom. Each room has a closet and a space for single bed, chest of drawers and desk. Other closets include two coat closets, linen cabinet in bedroom hall and wardrobes in large bedroom.

Note the minimum amount of hall required and the compact arrangement of kitchen cabinets. Range and refrigerator are placed on the inside wall and sink stronger and lighter in weight than the average door. Of the recessed type, they have two lock catches on either side of the door for tight closure. Hollow metal doors which may be used for the interior or exterior are durable and provide an extra margin of fire safety and security for home use.

New types of interior finish wallboard can be used to cover corner pipes and other unsightly construction elements. These save the expense of painting and insulation, add to interior decorative effects.

Walls are given further attention by a novel and useful wood wall finishing which enables picture frames to be clipped to any part of the wall. It is made by screwing to plywood backing a series of horizontal wood strips grooved to receive stiff metal clips. When a panel of strips is assembled it makes up a unit which is affixed to the wall. The grooves are strong enough to with flanking work counters under the front window. The plans of this small house call for a picture window and a planting area as well, with a wide eave overhang, vertical siding in front, concrete steps and asphalt shingles.

The dimensions of the Corinth are 36 feet by 28 feet, with a floor area totalling 916 square feet and a cubage amounting to 17,775 cubic feet.

For further information about THE CORINTH, write the Small House Planning Bureau, 31 St. Cloud, Minn.

Plastic fabrics are coming into wider use as decorative and upholstery fabrics and window screening. A new vinyl plastic wall covering is also obtainable. Besides being light, flexible and inexpensive, this material makes possible a wide variety of appealing color treatments.

Walls, Floors More Than Background

CHICAGO, Ill. — "In planning a decorating scheme for a modern room, do not think of the walls and floors as backgrounds, separate and apart from the furnishings," advises Effa Brown in her new book, "Color in Home Decoration," just published by Wilcox and Follett.

"Rather, plan the distribution of colors, patterns and textures, so that they appear and reappear throughout the room." "There should, however," she continues, "be sufficiently large masses of color to avoid any possible appearance of spottiness."

An excellent example of this decorating technique is a pictured modern room where the wood color of the furniture repeats and emphasizes the color of one of the room's walls, the floor and the ceiling. The tawny tone of the blond mahogany furniture finds deeper repetition in the other three surfaces.

The three remaining walls of the room are painted in a creamy beige which tends to make the room seem larger than it really is. Contrasting green and red are set against this distinctive background with striking effect.

Incidental touches of rose-red are effective accents where they appear in floral arrangements. The deep green, which serves as a foil for the warm tones that have predominance in the room, appears in the upholstery of the chairs, in the dishes and in the mats of attractive pictures that are hung on the beige walls.

The part that color can play in improving rooms that have architectural shortcomings — decorator's tricks, in other words — is frequently illustrated in the book, both in the text and in sketches by the author who is nationally known as a consultant.

In the matter of too-high ceilings in decorating and homemaking, for instance, Miss Brown advises against running a contrasting wall color all the way up to the ceiling line. She recommends the installation of deep cove moulding. When this is painted the same color as the ceiling, it seems to take several hold table tops, display shelves and cases, permitting flexibility of furniture arrangement.

Expert Finishing Needs Knowledge

Manufacturing for the armed services — whether it's bombs or tarpaulins, tanks or communications equipment — demands specialized knowledge in the finishing of every vital component.

In the case of bombs, for instance, the inside must be protected with acid-proof finishes to prevent spontaneous combustion between high explosives and uncoated metal. Outside, the bomb must be protected against every conceivable kind of weather conditions.

Experts in industrial finishing know the latest government specifications and the proper finishes to do the job.

of colors and patterns for your furnishings and decorations. Wallpaper and paint, fabrics and floor coverings, you can create almost any sort of home you may desire — provided, of course, that you are well aware of the exciting possibilities the various colors offer."

LUNCH HOUR—High over a busy Tokyo intersection, two Japanese construction workers take a noon-time break. One sits his lunch with chopsticks, while the other sprawls on the platform and dangles his feet over the side. They're in a business where you have to watch your turnover.

inches from the wall, she discloses.

If you're using very dark walls in a room with a high ceiling, it is also inadvisable to create too large a dark area by carrying the color from the floor to the ceiling. This problem which is worth considering, Miss Brown suggests, is the possibility of using an off-white dado around the room to cut its height. When this is done, she advocates painting the woodwork the same as the dado.

"If you want to make a low ceiling seem higher," Miss Brown advises, "don't use a warm tint or a medium tone on the ceiling. Paint the ceiling white or pale blue. Also use a light colored carpet and paint the walls in a medium tone."

"In your decorating schemes," she points out, "you can use colors to flatter, to disguise or to emphasize. The furniture you choose and the way you arrange it is important. But of much greater importance is the choice

Durable Synthetic Table Tops Make Bow In Luxury Furniture

Durable synthetic materials are now being used for the first time in luxury furniture. While manufacturers of utility furniture have made wide use of such materials for table surfaces and coverings for upholstered pieces, it has taken time for them to win acceptance in high-style circles.

Coffee tables, already revolutionized with adjustable heights and extending surfaces, now have tops of such durable materials as micarta, stainless steel and cork. There is a beautifully simple, walnut drop leaf table, with a lazy susan of micarta.

Traditional tea wagons, now called hostess carts, are hewn with virtually indestructible surfaces, some with the added advantage of built-in electric connections for the toaster or coffee warmer.

While cork has long been a popular material, its application in furniture design has been largely confined to game room pieces. Recently, however, several manufacturers have made excellent use of its unique textural qualities and broadened its application through the use of special processing.

One designer uses bleached cork with great success as a surfacing material for table tops and other pieces. In this group, it is bonded to the frame and becomes the primary material in combination with mahogany.

New Infrared System Gives Good Service

Latest techniques in infrared brooding for chickens now enable poultry raisers to easily apply the infrared methods to flocks of 50 to 20,000 at one time regardless of temperature or season.

The new multi-lamp technique can be practical for any size brood depending upon the number of units. Each unit is equipped with six 250-watt infrared reflector type bulbs. These six-lamp units can be raised easily as chickens grow. Infrared brooding makes it unnecessary to heat the entire room to the usual brooding temperatures of 85 to 90 degrees.

Whether you rig up your own infra-red heating unit or use one of the commercial types, don't overlook the added advantages of this multi-lamp method. For commercial growers there is also a completely automatically controlled unit. Notice how the lamps shown in the photograph above are positioned at approximately 45-degree angle and mounted in pairs with two and one-half feet between each pair.

Lamps may be controlled most simply by switch or pull chain arrangements for economical operation. Farm lighting specialists recommend infrared brooding methods for large commercial or family-size flocks. Infrared heat lamps may be used to supplement other types of brooders.

This handsome walnut buffet, which takes up so little space, is virtually a combination kitchen and dining room! The buffet is flanked by utility cabinets which feature a scratch and heat proof Micarta shell and a two burner electric stove. Ample storage space is provided for three small drop leaf tables. The buffet provides engineered storage space with special drawers for tablecloths, napkins, silver and trays in addition to shelves for glasses, dishes and bottles. Better storage planning is a feature of all lines. (Dunbar Furniture Mfg. Co.)

Material Shortage, Federal Restrictions Slow Building

By CLAYTON HICKERSON

Associated Press Staff

Twin bugaboos of material shortages and federal restrictions slowed some actual construction in Texas as spring began, but a boom continued in contract awards.

Ernest L. Tutt, director of the Dallas Regional office of the National Production Authority, said his office was turning down about half the building applications it processed.

Simultaneously, certificates of necessity were awarded to firms wanting to build millions of dollars worth of plants, geared to the defense industry, in the state. The certificates went to manufacture and petroleum products and developments or exports ranging from a $78,365,278 aluminum plant at Corpus Christi to a $25,000 scrap iron plant at Houston.

Tutt said his regional NPA office at Dallas processed building applications only for construction costing less than $1,000,000 or involving 50 tons or less of steel. Applications for larger projects are forwarded to Washington.

Meanwhile, Texas building contract awards kept pace with 1950, the state's first billion-dollar construction year. Defense construction zoomed the cumulative total in the third week in April to the $451,991,425 mark.

Contractors thought, however, that the pace of building would be much faster if shortages and federal restrictions did not interfere. Amusement projects, for instance, were banned.

Most of the Texas plants in the DPA list were for chemical plants to manufacture and petroleum products, both highly rated defense items.

Dallas contractors blamed restrictions and shortages when permits there fell below $2,000,000 for the third consecutive week. They said seven of ten Dallas school projects would be delayed beyond the fall opening of school due to shortages of steel and tile.

Delays could come in school construction at Orange. Supt. C. O. Chandler said, by "unexpected" shortages. But Chandler added that most materials in short supply had been ordered far enough in advance to avoid delays. Building permits in Orange were about 30 percent under 1950 figures on April 1.

Building permits were about 50 percent off in Denton, but most building was on schedule with no delays foreseen. The city of Denton, however, was having trouble getting steel plate for a 2,000,000-gallon water storage tank.

North Texas State College has two dormitories and two classroom buildings going up. Texas State College for Women was putting finishing touches on two big buildings, classroom and dormitory.

Plumbing fixtures undelivered slowed work on a $940,000 remodeling job at Mercy Hospital in Brownsville. Steel doors, aluminum window sashes, screens, colored tile, and steel lockers slowed work on a junior high school building. A federal low-cost housing project was on schedule, and contractors said it would be completed in February.

At Austin, the materials shortage had little, if any, effect. Permit totals were barely under year-ago figures at $8,836,342 through March. The University of Texas completed a new experimental science building, had journalism and classroom buildings on the way. A city power plant was near completion and Supt. of Schools Irby Carruth said he saw no difficulties ahead.

Austin also had a 13-story building going up, a new insurance building, and spacious layouts for the Texas State Teachers Assn. and the Texas State Medical Assn. were under construction, reportedly on schedule.

Contractor J. L. Hair at Vernon said, "I guess we've been lucky." Hair said he had no trouble getting materials for three school jobs. "But we've got our fingers crossed," he added. He was erecting a 12-room classroom building, a gym-cafeteria, and a combination gym-cafeteria-auditorium.

Lubbock contractors reported no shortages in the South Plains sufficient to cause construction delays or shutdowns. Government restrictions, however, cut commercial construction considerably, the builders said.

With commercial building slowing, building permits in Lubbock were about $1,000,000 ahead of 1950 when the year's total climbed to an all-time record of $25,700,000.

A $500,000 student union building at Texas Tech and a $600,000 private housing development featured the Lubbock building picture.

Big Spring building permits lagged by about 40 percent with brick, tile and steel causing the greatest slowdowns in construction already started. Most major building projects were due for completion "fairly close to schedule," Joe Pickle of the Big Spring Herald said they were started before "the material situation became so short."

At Midland, two school projects, several office building projects — including one of 14 stories, and a new Humble Oil & Refining Co. building were under construction with no slowdowns in sight. Midland permits more than doubled last year's on April 1 and builders said all material was on hand to complete the jobs.

San Angelo construction was reported in the same shape. Two new schools under construction have materials stock-piled. There was a decrease in the number of San Angelo permits, but an increase of about one-third in valuations. The San Angelo Standard Times said higher-priced residences were reflected in the increase.

nasiums in Abilene's school system was delayed six months by a lack of structural steel. But material had been delivered and construction was going ahead on April 1. A shopping center project was delayed for about a month for lack of steel. Abilene permits sagged $1,000,000 under 1950 figures.

Paris, Tex., reported no shortages, said most construction was residential repairs, and reported a two-thirds dip in building permits.

Army Needs Girl To Sing Lead Role

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — "Wanted: Attractive young girl to sing lead in road show company of 'Oklahoma,' now in rehearsal. Salary $4,600 plus allowances." That help wanted ad was put out in effect, by the U.S. Army. The $4,600 salary is annual. The rehearsal is going on now in Japan. The show has a guaranteed run of two years in military bases throughout the Far East. Army representatives said today they will interview applicants at the California State Department of Employment Office in Los Angeles.

Highland General Hospital Still Young But It Is Already Walking Financially

HOSPITAL DAYS seesawed during Highland General Hospital's 13½-month history with each curve upward exceeding the previous high. The above chart pictures the number of hospital days from Feb. 13, 1950, to March 30, 1951. (News Photo)

At the tender age of 13½ months, Gray County's Highland General Hospital financially walks on its own feet and has close to $25,000 in the bank.

The infant institution, whose walls have heard the first squalls of 645 newcomers to the Panhandle, has received only one grant from the county—a $23,000 pump priming transfer from the general fund to start Highland off.

Since then Hospital Superintendent Chet Lander has kept Highland padding its own dollars and cents canoe; its total earnings to the end of March, 1951, hitting $345,718.46 against total disbursements of $298,956.15.

Of the earnings, $53,344.94 has yet to be paid, the majority of it to come from insurance companies. However, $21,205.18 are bills over 90 days old, representing about seven percent of the total earnings. Approximately $20,000 of the accounts receivable are current earnings, or payments due the hospital during March, 1951. The remainder are bills less than 90 days old.

During its lifetime, to date, Highland hit one low month—July, 1950—when most of the doctors were afflicted with a disease known as "fishermanitis." "That month like to near bust me," Lander said, smilingly, as he reflected the annual vacation month when Highland hit a low of 890 patient days to earn only $18,047.18. It was the only month the hospital's earnings dropped under $20,000 except the last half of Feb., 1950, when its earnings were only $7,193.64.

Tallying up at the end of the year, Highland had a balance of $11,364.27 in bank and increased it to $20,756.22 by the end of March, 1951. County Auditor Ray Wilson expects the amount to be around $26,000 by the end of April.

All but about 15 patients have been paying or insured patients. Charity cases cost the county taxpayers $1,335.53 in 1950 and $388.28 for the first 1951 quarter, a total of $1,873.81. This figure, of course, is included in the hospital's earnings.

Reviewing the figures for the hospital's first annual report, Wilson said: "The hospital is doing much better than anticipated." Highland's overall peak monthly earnings came in Mar., 1951, when earnings hit $37,449.25 against $24,108.36 expenses. Previous to that Jan., 1951, was the high month with earnings up to $33,120.66 against $22,884.63 in expenses.

During 1950 the top earnings month was $23,218.65 against $12,506.87 expenses. This low expense month came as a result of staff salaries for October being paid in September; September being a double payroll month to save employees some income tax money.

In round figures—dropping February because it was not a full month of operations—Highland earned $25,000 in March; $20,000 in April; $24,000 in May; $21,000 in June; $18,000 in July; $27,000 in August; $24,000 in September; $28,000 in October; $27,000 in November; $21,000 in December; and in January, 1951, started with $33,000; dropped in February to $28,000; and bounced back in March to an all time high of $37,000.

As the hospital moved further and further into full operation its number of operations began to mount. By the end of 1950 major operations soared to 509; minor operations topped them for a total of 877—on May 25, 1950 surgeons performed a total of 15 operations, the peak day of the year. During the same period 191 blood transfusions were made and 65 casts applied to fractures.

The first three months of 1951 saw 177 major operations performed; 211 minor operations; 64 blood transfusions; and 17 cast applications. Highland has also taken other steps besides being remaining in the black. It has added beauty parlor facilities for bedridden as well as ambulatory patients. Installed a small chapel or prayer room, complete with altar and kneeling rail. Is getting its landscaping underway; and completed dressing up its convalescent lounges.

Indications point now to an even better year, county officials estimated. As this was written Highland's census stood at an even 50 patients.

N.K.V.D. Outpaced By U.S. Automobilies

MUNICH — (AP) — Many a Soviet face has been left blinking red in the blue wisp of an American auto exhaust. Soviet agents are always charged with knowing a foreigner's whereabouts at all times of day. When an American car enters the East German zone, Soviet plain clothesmen squeeze into a little, European-make car and begin the job of shadowing. A driver in an American car on a German superhighway usually gets away from the little car chugging behind, so the shadowing has to be done in relay. Russian agents and East German cops sit all along the route, and a final group sits in the city at the end of the road. This group spots the hotel the foreigners enter and when the original police car puffs into town—sometimes as much as two hours later—they are told where to pick up the watch again.

Color Has Effect On Our Morale
Today we all recognize the fact that cheerful colors in our surroundings and clean, smoothly painted surfaces have a definite effect on our morale and outlook on life. Among the ancients, only the ecclesiasts and temple physicians concerned themselves with the effects of color. The high priests dictated the choice of color used in the temples for the spiritual aspiration and devotion it aroused in the worshippers. The physicians applied colored salves and compresses and ordered their patients to wear clothes of certain hues.

Salesman Starts New Career Selling Ten Commandments

W. R. PRICE—"It hit me like a bolt of thunder . . ."

By NELL ADAMS
NEA Special Correspondent
MEMPHIS — (NEA) — W. R. (Bob) Price has been a salesman for a quarter of a century — selling appliances, air conditioners and a host of other things. And his sales records show that he has been a good one, too.

Bob, like many laymen, has been teaching a Sunday School class — a large class of men who come from all walks of life — for that same 25 years.

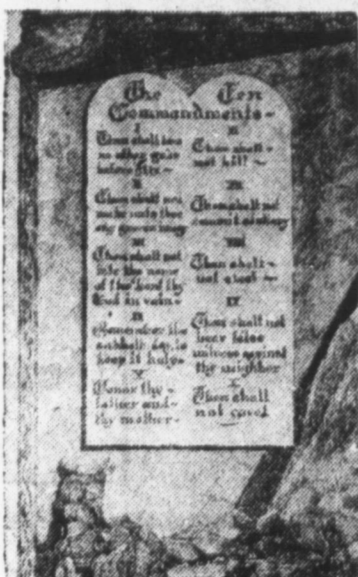

As a salesman Bob has seen much of the world's ugliness and the need for spiritual uplift, and as a Sunday School teacher he has endeavored to remedy this as far as possible.

But in the back of his head he has had a feeling for a long time that there must be some concrete plan to bring men closer to God.

Then he read a book pointing out that the pillars of civilization rest on the Ten Commandments and began to appear in many places.

Later he read another booklet — this time an FBI publication in which J. Edgar Hoover pointed to the need of a return to these fundamental laws of God to make America a nation such as our pioneer forefathers established.

Then it came. Bob was driving home from a busy day of selling. He passed a sign on the highway — a sign that he had seen hundreds of times. It was with God's laws inscribed in stone or bronze so that people could read them.

PRICE'S PRODUCT — "With God's help . . . in every home."

"It hit me like a bolt of thunder," Bob explains. "It was a sign which advised you to 'fresh yourself up with a soft drink.'"

That was it.

He went to work. Last September he engaged G. Edwin Shofner, commercial artist, who worked for six weeks to produce exactly what Bob had in mind.

It was a pen etching of the Ten Commandments, with Moses and the Children of Israel gathered around Mount Sinai as God gave his law to man.

This Bob had made into an 18 by 24 inch imitation parchment suitable for framing.

"That," said Bob, the salesman, "with God's help, should be hanging in every schoolroom, every college room, every library, every church, every business and every home in America — only a few men working in it."

Then he went to work in earnest. He quit his selling of other things and these parchments began to appear in many places.

But that's only the first step of Bob's goal. From the profits from the sale of these parchments, he wants to see the Ten Commandments in stone or bronze in all of the parks, town squares and playgrounds of America.

And that's not all. He wants to erect in America from all over the world monuments to the laws that America honored God's law.

Rains May Force Crop Switch In Iowa

DES MOINES — (AP) — It's a Iowa by this time of the year, poor spring that isn't good for something and this cold, wet one may prove beneficial at least in one way. It may help the Department of Agriculture's program to boost corn acreage.

Spring work in most of the state today is from one to three weeks behind schedule. Normally a good part of the oats crop would be seeded in southern Iowa by this time of the year. Instead, very little planting has been done. A few fields of high ground and good drainage may have been seeded. Some farmers haven't been able to get into the fields for even routine activities like fence repairing and manure spreading.

Some operators say that it may be necessary to shift from oats to corn or another row crop.

Girl Scout Notes

MRS. FRED THOMPSON
Public Relations Chairman
CALENDAR

Sunday — Mrs. Bonnie Wrinkle returns from Day Camp Directors Course.
Wednesday — May 2... Non-Utensil Outdoor Training — 9:30 a. m. Girl Scout House.
Thursday — May 3... Ceramics Class — 9:30 a. m. Girl Scout Troop 26 Overnight — Camp Sullivan.

DAY CAMP
Day camping is "camping by the day." Girls from all troops meet in small groups with leaders to spend the day out-of-doors. Day Camp Objectives: Outdoor fun; a new opportunity for group participation; learning camping ways; development of resourcefulness; growth in appreciation of the out-of-doors.

Day Camp will be held at Camp Sullivan four miles east of Leips. The stone camp house is equipped with a large kitchen, recreation room with fire place and bedroom.
Campers will leave the Girl Scout House at 9:30 a. m. returning at 5 p. m.

Fee for one week Monday through Friday, will be $2 per girl. This covers all craft expenses, milk, bus and food for cook-outs.
The Brownie and Fly-Up Scouts Day Camp will be May 28 through June 1. Intermediate Scouts will have Day Camp June 4 through June 8. Day Camp workers are needed. If you plan to help, will you come to the Girl Scout office immediately on the second floor of the City Hall, and fill out an application so that further plans can be completed.

TROOP CAMPING
Girl Scout Troop 14 under Mrs. E. B. Palmer will spend the weekend at Camp Sullivan this week. These Scouts have been planning for several meetings and are eagerly awaiting Friday afternoon to arrive so they can go to camp.

TROOP 27
Troop 27 met at Girl Scout Little House Tuesday with 16 members present. Patrol No. 2 presented the activity for the day, which is one of the requirements for Second Class Badges.

Plans were made for presentation of Second Class Badges to all members before school is out. The girls will invite mothers and prepare all refreshments.
Handwork was done on the Mother's Day gift. After the work period refreshments were served.

Charlotte Mongel and Bonnie Winborne brought a cake which they had baked, and Phyllis Winborne and Carol Bates had baked cookies, which were served with punch prepared by Lee Ann Jackson. After clean-up, the meeting adjourned.

Leaders are Mrs. Viola Bulard, Mrs. Audrey Stewart, and Mrs. Mary L. Jones.

TROOP 28
Girl Scout Troop 28 along with their leaders, Mrs. J. C. Stewart and Mrs. O. G. Smith, are planning a trip to Palo Duro Canyon.

OUTDOOR TRAINING
Non-utensil meal will be Wednesday. If you plan to attend, please call the office by Tuesday so that equipment may be brought for all who wish to participate. Sessions begin at 9:30 a. m. at the Girl Scout Little House.

BROWNIE TROOP 29
Girls in this troop celebrated their monthly birthday party honoring Lu Ellen Spain. Geraldine Marlar and Arnetta Potter.

The girls took their dolls to the meeting and were dressed as ladies in long dresses, high-heeled shoes and makeup. The room was arranged as a play-house.
A regular business session was held. Pictures were made of the group.
Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bill Potter. Leader of the troop is Mrs. Johnny Spinks.

White Deer Play Winner At Lubbock

WHITE DEER — (Special) — White Deer's entry, a cutting from Macbeth, won first place in the regional meet at Lubbock last Saturday and will enter the state one-act play contest at Austin on May 5.

James Huffines, in the role of Macbeth, and Patsy Willis, as Lady Macbeth, were named best actor and actress. Barbara Lewis, one of the three witches, was chosen on the all-start cast.

Other members of the cast are Madeline Dowd, Betty Jean Williams, Dick Foose, Jerry Foose, Philip Rapstine, and Harold Dean Williams, with John Martin, director.

Beth Smith won first place in the Class B journalism contest and will also go to Austin for the state contest.
Billy Joyce Adams placed third in the shorthand contest at the regional meet.

In the athletic events, the White Deer team was second. Dale Imel, who won the mile race in Austin last year, broke his own regional record at Lubbock, and Billy Cofer broke the record set at Lubbock two years ago by Tom Horn. White Deer's state winner in the 800-yard run last year, Max Jordan, was second in the mile race; he, too, beat the previous record. These three boys will enter the state meet.

White Deer's mile relay team, Billy Cofer, Jackie Freeman, and Carl McCabe, came in second; as did the 440-yard relay team composed of Noble, Cofer, Ronnie Buchanan, and Harold Travis. Carl McCabe was fourth in the 440-yard dash; and James McCoy, fourth in the 850-yard run.

Elsie Boyd Is Lions Club Sweetheart

ELSIE BOYD

Howells showed a sound film of five artists which will be available for the 1951-1952 season. He was introduced by Dr. Douglas E. Nelson, president of the local organization.

Fire Chief Ernest Winborne announced that the Lions Club will cover Ward Two of the city during Paint Up-Clean Up week.

Lions Club Sweetheart for the month of May is Miss Elsie Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Boyd, 604 E. Craven.

Zula Margaret Brown, April Sweetheart, met with the Lions Club Thursday for her last official visit and was presented a corsage by Ham Luna, Boss Lion.

Lions also heard Jack Howells, field representative of Community Concert Service, point out the big days for the unit. Another period of field training will be held at Lake McClellan starting noon Saturday to 3 p. m. today. An advance detachment from the

Wheeler Has Style Shows

WHEELER — (Special) — H club eliminating style shows are being held over Wheeler County.

Briscoe 4-H club held its show April 28 with Mrs. Gordon Whitener, Mrs. C. J. Van Zandt of Mobeetie and Mrs. Done Kiker of Briscoe acting as judges.

Winners in the best dress class for girls under fourteen were Mona Finsterwald - first, Margie Peterman, third and Patsy Ramsey, second. The best dress class for girls over fourteen was won by Joyce Helton with Anna Filington, second and Erlene Herley, third.

Jane Ann Zybach played her accordion as background during the modeling and played two special numbers following the show. Other special numbers were duets by Mrs. Lowell Pendleton and Mrs. Gey Ison of Jowett and Mrs. Ben Helton and Mrs. Tom Russell of Briscoe.

4-H Club in Wheeler whose membership is made up of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades, held their show April 27. Winners were Meida Goad and Fay Latimer.

in the advanced blouse division, Sandra Pierce was first and Gail Holderman second. School dresses were shown in two divisions and the winners under thirteen were Kay Hubbard and Peggy Pride.

Joyce Sims, Patricia Darnelle and Wanda Waters won the ribbons in the advanced group. Paula Green took first on her tailored suit and JaNelle Wegner made the nicest "dressy" dress in the first-year group.

Donna Speck will model her organically "dressy" dress in the big contest on May 5. Sylvia Smith won second in this division.

These girls' dresses were judged according to age groups but the final elimination on May 5 will see each garment matched against all others in the show.

If a living body were taken above 55, it would boil. water vapor

COMPLETES TRAINING — Aviation Cadet Groves C. Crocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Crocker, 609 N. Hobart, has completed six months of basic pilot training at Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo. He has been assigned to Craig Air Force Base, Selma, Ala., where he will fly the F-51 Mustang as part of his advanced training. Crocker is a Pampa High School graduate. He served three years in the U. S. Navy during World War II.

THE OUTPOST

Let's start this week's column with a definition of our heading "OUTPOST." In the Dictionary of United States Army terms the meaning is given as, a security detachment distributed at some distance from the main body of troops to protect it from observation and surprise by the enemy.

The National Guard is the security force of the United States. "The National Guard Defends America" and Battery A 474th FA Observation Battalion is part of that security force, in reserve, to take to the defense of America if necessary.

Now back to the current events of Battery A. Saturday and Sunday April 28 and 29 are the big days for the unit. Another period of field training will be held at Lake McClellan starting noon Saturday to 3 p. m. today. An advance detachment from the

Boys Present Club Program

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Seven boys from Boys' Ranch presented a program of music and readings at the meeting of the Lions Club recently and later entertained in the grade school auditorium.

Mrs. Biggs Horn introduced Steve Harriman, sponsor of the boys, and presented a plan for organization of a Round-Up Club in White Deer, whereby members contribute a definite sum each month to Boys' Ranch. A number of members have already signed up.

There are several specialist openings in the battery, some of them with high rating. Any man can receive information by visiting the armory at Recreation Park or calling 443.

Do You Really Want To Take Off That Ugly Fat?

Don't say it's your thyroid when reaching for the box of chocolates. Possibly one bulky person in 100 has some glandular disturbance and that is truly a case for the physician. Never take any treatment for a gland condition without your doctor's advice. But for the other 99 per cent who are trying to fight the "battle of the bulge," common sense is the watchword. Don't overeat, but don't go hungry, either. Furthermore, it just doesn't make sense to go on a strenuous diet—take off weight and then quickly put it back on again when the diet period is over. For it is obvious that one cannot continue a starvation diet over a protracted period. Within the last year or so several diet and vitamin "plans" have appeared on the market, which means cut down drastically on the food intake and fortify with vitamins. But as mentioned above, you can't keep this up very long and when you quit—back comes the fat.

An exhaustive survey recently made among Texas druggists showed one outstanding reducing aid is not based on the diet and vitamin "plans." It allows you to eat plenty. You eat all you want, but you eat LESS. Sounds like double talk, but it isn't. It definitely stops you from eating more than necessary for the energy you spend. At the same time it dehydrates and eliminates.

Nearly four million bottles of this preparation, called Barretrite, have been sold in Texas in the past eight years.

You can get a four-ounce bottle of Barretrite from any Texas druggist. Mix with 12 ounces of canned grapefruit juice and take just two tablespoonsful twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose that ugly fat, return the empty bottle for your money back.
