President Indicates Fight To Regain Control Powers

Readies Plan To Get More Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman indicated today he is about to open a new fight to get from Congress the price and other control powers he says are needed to combat inflation.

At a White House meeting, the President asked his national advisory board on mobilization policy for advice on a message to Congress asking stronger control authority.

When Mr. Truman signed the present law on July 31, he denounced it as inadequate and served notice he would ask Congress later for changes. He said in a statement at that time: "We will not be able to hold down rising prices under this act, and I am going to ask this Congress to amend it to give us adequate controls."

The advisory board on mobilization policy is headed by Charles E. Wilson, the defense mobilization director. There are 16 other members.

President's secretary Joseph Short disclosed that Mr. Truman talked for 30 minutes with the board.

"In the discussions," Short said, "the President took up the difficulties of administering the price control features of the defense production act as amended. He asked the board to give him advice in connection with a probable message to Congress asking for further amendments."

He told them that naturally the administration is trying to do the best it can with the law as it now stands, but he's thinking in terms of another message to Congress."

Under questioning, Short said that what Mr. Truman sought from the board was advice on whether to send a message to Congress and, if so, what it should cover.

And Short spoke of a message as "probable" in the near future. A request from Mr. Truman to plug what he has called "loopholes in the present law would upset plans of Democratic congressional leaders to try for adjournment of Congress by Oct. 1.

Short said the President would consult with congressional leaders on the probable message. At the time Congress passed the present law, he reported to Mr. Truman that it was about the best law he could get.

Mr. Truman had a conference yesterday with Michael D. Salla, the price stabilizer, and Eric Johnston, economic stabilizer. Presumably, it also was concerned with the question of amendments to the present controls law.

$400,000,000 Asked For Flood Relief

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman has asked Congress for $400,000,000 to help the flood-battered Middle West and to finance a new national flood disaster insurance program.

He told Congress a message last night the situation was a "grave emergency" and asked that the money be provided as quickly as possible.

Vice President Barkley promptly referred the request jointly to the Senate Public Works and Appropriations committees to speed action. Ordinarily each would study the matter separately.

The relief money would be used to pay flood victims of Kansas, Missouri and nearby states for part of what they lost in the July floods; to guarantee liberal loans for rebuilding homes, farms and factories; and to help "small and cities participate in the rehabilitation activities.

Plainview Singers Challenge Pampans

Plainview's "4 Sharrps and a Natural" barbershop quartet today challenged Pampa barbershop quartet in a contest to be held Sept. 14 in connection with the Hale County fair.

"We would like as many entries as possible and need to hear by Sept. 1 from those quartets who will compete," Ernest J. Brock, chairman of the contest, announced.

The event will be held in the arena of the Hale County fair grounds and is to become an annual feature of the fair there.

Red Protests Stepped Up As Deadlock Remains Unbroken

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) - Communist protests and anti-American propaganda were stepped up today as a joint allied-Communist subcommittee held its fifth session trying to break the deadlock in Korean truce talks.

Red China's Peiping radio said tonight that the killing of a Chinese soldier in the Kaesong neutral zone "will rouse still greater hatred of American imperialism among Korean and Chinese peoples."

The Reds formally charged the Chinese was killed in an ambush by United Nations troops. The UN command denied this; said it was probably the work of guerrillas.

Tuesday's Peiping broadcast, quoting the official Hsinhua New China news agency, said "he was murdered in American ambush."

The broadcast quoted Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, a Chinese armistice delegate and member of the joint subcommittee, as saying the death of the soldier "will surely harden Chinese volunteers' determination to defend peace."

Hours before the broadcast the subcommittee - two allies and two Communists - met in Kaesong for two hours and four minutes. More than half that time they spent poring over a map trying to agree on a military dividing line for a ceasefire.

They scheduled another session for 11 a.m. Wednesday (7 p.m. Tuesday, CST). They made no report on progress.

But the UN spokesman, Air Force Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, gave some indication little progress was being made.

Nuckols said the Communists at the discussions were "immune" to military logic, "obdurate" in their politically colored demands, "inscrutable" in presenting them, and "adamant" to adjustments.

Nuckols drew no distinction between the attitude Red generals displayed in full negotiation sessions and in subcommittee meetings.

The UN spokesman made his comments after Peiping Radio said Monday that: "If the American side still stubbornly adheres to its unreasonable demand of plunder, and rejects the just and reasonable proposal of our side, an agreement will be impossible."

The broadcast was a detailed analysis, in typical sharply-worded Communist fashion, of UN (See DEADLOCK, Page 2)

Police Seek Second Bullet In Thomas W. Doswell Death

DALLAS (AP) - Thomas W. Doswell, 55, a millionaire oil operator with successful holdings in West Texas and New Mexico, was shot to death yesterday.

One shot from a .38 caliber snub-nose revolver entered his right chest as he sat in his car with his wife.

Mrs. Doswell told police she had taken the gun from the glove compartment of the car and was about to hand it to her husband when it fired. The gun had been wrapped in a towel.

Shortly after the shooting, at a side entrance of the fashionable apartment hotel where the couple lived, Mrs. Doswell became hysterical and could not give complete details.

Justice of the Peace W. E. Richburg withheld an inquest verdict until she could be questioned again.

Richburg said he and police wanted one detail of the shooting cleared up. There were two empty cartridges in the revolver but officers could only find one bullet.

The couple had just returned from a trip to Colorado and New Mexico.

Mrs. Doswell told officers that she bought the gun Saturday, at Doswell's insistence, and took it with her when she went alone to Pueblo, Colo. Doswell later joined her in Pueblo and together they went to Clayton, N.M.

Doswell had been an oil operator and promoter in West Texas for about 10 years. Much of that time he operated in Seury county. He had an interest with Henry Ford, Jr., and under Doswell's name had drilled a successful three-quarter-mile extension to the Sharon Ridge field.

He recently opened a new pay party with a good strike in the San Juan basin of northwest New Mexico. The well was drilled by a Pampa contractor, G. B. Cree.

He also had production in Borden and Parker counties.

Doswell first became known as a Texas oilman in the Berger boom in the 1920's. He reportedly had Rockefeller family financing as well as Ford financing in some of his ventures.

JCS Testifies Advance In Arms Amazing

WASHINGTON (AP) - The joint chiefs of staff have testified that an "amazing advance in the science of weapons" has been made within the last year.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today: "But on the other side of the Capitol Rep. Price (D-Ill) said Russia has more, bigger and better atom bombs than previously believed."

Price, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee, was urging that part of a deep slash made by the House Appropriations committee in civilian defense funds be restored.

Price said "there is no question that Russia has more and bigger bombs than the U.S. expected, and an atomic attack which is entirely possible" would cause 1,000,000 casualties in a dozen cities.

O'Mahoney, chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee, painted a brighter picture; he said reports the U.S. is making the fullest possible use of scientific weapons - including the atomic bomb.

The present armed forces bill, he added, includes $1,472,000,000 for further research and development in the three armed services branches.

The top military command, he said earlier, has assured Congress "the Russians would find it a very, very sad affair if they attack us now."

"I say to you without equivocation," O'Mahoney said, "we have the air power now that can deliver a most serious blow to any potential enemy - and they know it."

He would not say what this secret information that should remain secret, he said.

The subcommittee is nearing the end of hearings on a House-approved bill providing $56,000,000 for the armed services. Of that, nearly $20,000,000 is for the Air Force and its 95-wing present goal. The Air Force now has slightly under 90 wings, or groups. A wing consists of 18 to 25 planes, depending on the type of craft.

In a statement, O'Mahoney said the armed forces' budget was presented to Congress "on the theory that the Soviet government does not desire to precipitate a general world war now, but desires rather to promote economic collapse throughout the free world, but particularly here in the United States."

Henry McCracken's Weird Dream Tales Ruled Fabrications

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) - Weird dream studies told by Henry McCracken in his first murder trial are labeled fabrications by a court-appointed psychiatrist.

McCracken, now about to be tried for a second time on charges of murdering 10-year-old Patricia Jean Hull, was reexamined by Dr. D. M. W. Conway last week and Dr. Conway reported to the court yesterday.

The examiner believes his dream stories to be pure fabrications with a defensive design rather than true dissociative reactions of a psychoneurosis.

McCracken had testified of talking to a tobacco-chewing dog in his hotel cabin after he said the girl had hurt herself fatally in falling from a table.

Selection of a jury will resume today. The court overruled objections of defense counsel George Chula that the latest panel of 25 veniremen was "not a fair cross section of Orange County."

Oregon Prisoners Return To Work

SALEM, Ore. (AP) - The second crack in the Oregon prison sit-down strike came today with 138 convicts joining 40 others who went back to work yesterday.

The strike entered its second week today. The food was shut off by Warden George Alexander on the second day of the strike in an effort to force the men back to work. The men said they would strike until guard Lt. Morris Race was shifted outside the walls. They said he started the whole thing by brutality in halting a fight between convicts. The warden denied it, said Race would stay, and issued a work-or-don't-eat ultimatum.

Hurricane Expected To Strike Mexico

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A violent and deadly hurricane with a 130-mile-an-hour wallop is expected to strike the lower Mexican mainland late this afternoon or early tonight.

The New Orleans weather bureau said that if the big blow continues in its present indicated course, its main punch will hit between Nautla and Tuxpan probably between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. (CST).

In an advisory issued at 4 a. m. (CST), the weather bureau said the center of the raging storm was about 240 miles eastward of Tuxpan and was swirling westward at about 14 miles an hour. The hurricane already has cost 185 lives and caused damage of $56,000,000, its toll as it belabored the British island of Jamaica before it left the Caribbean.

Nautla is a small town of less than 2000 population. Hurricane winds are expected to be felt as far north as Tampico, a modern city of almost 100,000 population.

Squalls and heavy seas may extend to the lower Texas coast, the weather bureau said in cautioning small craft to take cover until the fury of the storm has passed.

The weather bureau has advised ships in the southwest Gulf of Mexico to remain in port until all dangers have passed.

The storm developed hurricane force six days ago on moving into the Caribbean from the Atlantic and since has traveled almost 2,300 miles along a westerly path.

The storm took its heaviest toll when it blasted Jamaica with 130-mile-an-hour winds Friday and Saturday night, killing 155 persons and causing damage estimated at $56,000,000. It was the worst storm Jamaica has felt in its 300 years.

Thirteen Die; Twenty One Injured: Flaming Jet Plane Rains Fiery Death On Soldiers

FORT DIX, N.J. (AP) - A flame-fueled jet plane-rain-fueled fiery death as it fought a losing battle for altitude-plowed into a group of soldiers yesterday.

The plane, a T-33 Air Force trainer plane crashed moments after taking off from nearby McGuire Air base. The plane's two-man crew perished in the wreckage.

Among the dead soldiers were Pvt. George W. and Robert W. Poole, 22-year-old twins from Camden, N.J., who were inducted into the Army about four months ago. George was killed instantly.

Their widowed mother, Mrs. Hazel Poole, was preparing to leave for the post hospital late yesterday when word was received that the critically injured Robert also had died.

The rest of the dead were part of a 54-man Army detail that had just finished learning how to lay communications lines in a belt of scrub pines at the edge of the base.

Survivors said the plane bore down on them "like a ball of fire" through the trees, skimmed over a truck partly-loaded with soldiers and crashed about 50 feet away.

Lt. Bertram Brinley, Fort Dix public information officer, said a blazing wing-tip fuel tank, apparently jarred loose by trees, dropped onto the truck, turning it and its passengers into flaming torches.

Eight GIs were killed almost instantly. Two others died in the base hospital hours later. All but one of the dead was identified.

Hughes U.S.O. Fund Drive Chairman For Six-County Area

R. G. Hughes, Pampa builder, today was named district chairman for the forthcoming U. S. O. fund campaign in Texas.

Hughes' district includes Armstrong, Donley, Collingsworth, Carson, Gray and Wheeler counties.

"Only through U. S. O. can our individual counties maintain the homes ties with our young men and women in military service," Hughes said. "Each of us here in our area will want to do everything possible to make this appeal for U. S. O. funds a success."

He pointed out that regardless of what happens in Korea, as long as Russia continues the cold war and millions of our youths are engaged in the defense of our freedom there will be a need for the familiar home-away-from-home services of the U. S. O.

Selection of Hughes was announced by Ben H. Wooten, Dallas, campaign chairman of the Texas United Defense Fund Committee, and Lawrence Hagy, Amarillo, chairman of Region 1 for the U. S. O. fund appeal.

City Considers Peddler Ban

The possibility of Pampa adopting the Alexandria, La., ordinance prohibiting door-to-door peddling never invited to come in by the property owner, loomed this morning as the city commission opened consideration of it.

Adoption of it, or passing it on first reading, was deferred until a full commission could be present.

The commission also tabled awarding a contract for police radio equipment, deferred adoption of another ordinance that would raise take box licenses, exempt all merchandise vending machines, but keep amusement machines at the same $1.25 license until next week.

The same situation existed on further study of the budget except that the commissioners present set the budget public hearing date for Sept. 25.

The anti-peddler ordinance - recently upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court - is aimed primarily at transient peddlers who have been reportedly annoying local housewives.

City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones reported since the present ordinance's adoption, requiring posting of bond and payment of a temporary license, five different companies have come to town and four of them "have been run out" on complaints of housewives.

"The present ordinance, passed July 27, 1948 after several groups of housewives had appeared before the commission demanding some relief, is illegal," City Attorney Bob Gordon said, adding: "At the present we have nothing, because a lot of these peddling companies come in and flatly refuse to post any bond or make any payment."

The Alexandria ordinance exempts vendors of milk, butter, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables, bread and meat wagons. However, it permits peddlers to come on to private property only if given permission by the property owner. If the property owner objects and the peddler refuses to leave, then the property owner can call the police and have the peddler arrested. The property owner must sign a complaint against the peddler before prosecution may be started.

It means, in effect, a door-to-door peddler can come to town and peddle so long as no one complains to police about him. The ordinance, Gordon added, would also apply to local people engaged in the door-to-door sell.

Nationalists Fire Representatives

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) - The Chinese nationalist government fired two of its representatives in the United States today and ordered them home immediately.

First, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek suspended Lt. Gen. Mao Fang-chu as deputy commander of the Chinese Nationalist Air Force and delegate to the United Nations military staff committee.

Chiang in a mandate accused Mao of "dereliction of duties and disobedience of orders. A government spokesman said Mao had failed to account for $19,440,000 of funds to buy equipment for the Air Force and to train its personnel.

Next, Air Force headquarters announced dismissal of Col. Hsiang Weib, executive assistant to Mao, and ordered him home to face charges of dereliction of duty and suspicion of being a Communist agent.

Birth Is Given To Quadruplets

BROMLEY, Eng. (AP) - Mrs. Muriel Brown gave birth to quadruplets - two boys and two girls - last night, but one of the boys died.

The three surviving babies - Emma, Georgina and Tony, were in oxygen tents. The boy who died was named Derek.

The 37-year-old mother is the wife of George Brown, 34, a 319.50-a-week mechanic. The Browns, who already have a four-year-old son, live in a six-room flat.

Britain Offers New Proposal

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Britain's delegate today offered Iran a new proposal to settle the grave British-Iranian oil dispute and gave the Iranians until noon tomorrow to take it or leave it.

The new British move followed the abrupt withdrawal by British delegate Richard R. Stokes of the previous British proposal revolving about a 50-50 split of Iranian oil profits.

(In London, the foreign office, confirming the new offer, announced that Prime Minister Attlee has summoned his cabinet to discuss the oil negotiations.)

Stokes announced he had offered compromise possibilities which concern the restriction of British management at the Abadan refinery and the oil fields. These had been rejected by Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Stokes then withdrew British proposals and substituted a new overall one. It included the problem of employment of British personnel. If the Tehran government rejects this, Stokes probably will return at once to London.

Stokes told reporters: "All my efforts have been concentrated on obtaining a fair, workmanlike solution. That I believe to have failed, I regret to say, and I can only hope that government (or Iran) will be for a moment tomorrow will reconsider and accept the abundance of help and good will which, in the interest of Iran, even at this late hour, is still available. If not, there is nothing left for me but to go home."

But the West German government banned the FDJ and confiscated tens of Red propaganda, and the allies suspended most of the Communist newspapers.

Then the Red propagandists tried to use persons and groups not formally connected with communism, McCloy reported.

Even these voices, however, soon became lost as the West German population rallied to the anti-Communist call," he said.

The Communists even infiltrated groups of German war veterans and tried to get them to oppose German participation in western military defense, McCloy's report said.

"However, several veterans' organizations have already indicated their refusal of the Communist line by expressing their willingness to support a West German defense contribution on the basis of equal partnership," he added.

In spite of all the Communist propaganda, McCloy concluded, West German sentiment for defense has grown until the question is not primarily whether or not West Germany should actively participate in its own defense. Rather, much of the debate centers on the manner and conditions for such participation.

While the Communist party has lost ground steadily in every succeeding election, McCloy conceded that the recent election successes of the Nazi-like Socialist Empire party disclose a "certain potential danger from the extreme right." But he discounted the likelihood of "any general advance of the ultra-nationalist cause in the foreseeable future."

"All the 'military logic' of the American side cannot in the least excuse the American aggressive policy nor can it in the least cover up the arrogant, unreasonable and utterly fantastic American demand to set up the military demarcation line north of the 38th Parallel deep into our positions."

"One newlyweds will see lunacy of this logic."

The north Korean Pyongyang broadcast repeated a charge it hasn't used for a week: that UN negotiators were attempting to delay talks until the U.S. Congress approves armed service appropriations and allied troops advance farther into North Korea.

Anti-Reds Reported Attacking Russians

BERLIN (AP)—A young Polish refugee said here yesterday Russian forces trying to keep Poland in line are being harried by a growing band of armed anti-Red partisans.

Josef Kowalski, 19-year-old refugee from Polish secret police, told a news conference the partisans have been making open attacks against Russian army installations and Soviet supply trains crossing Poland to East Germany.

Despite Russian efforts to stamp out the rebel movement, he said it has managed to double its strength over the past six years.

Returns From Camp

SHAMROCK (Special)—Harrah Dunnam has returned to Shamrock from a 10-day stay at Mt. Sequoia, near Fayetteville, Ark., where he studied with the Methodist young people at the annual encampment.

Dunnam, son of the Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Dunnam, Methodist pastor, was a star quarterback on the 1950 Irish football team.

Following his decision recently to become a minister, Harrah decided to attend a Methodist junction college in East Texas. He had originally planned to attend McMurry at Abilene. He will not play football next season.

Local Firemen Take Five-Week Training

Pampa firemen will begin a five-week training course this week in "Firemanship" and "Special problems in the Fire Fighting Service."

The three-hour classes are being offered by the Fireman's training school of Texas, and will be conducted by L. O. Bynum, field instructor of the state fire school.

The state fire school is sponsored by the State Fireman's and Fire Marshal's Assn. and Texas A&M college.

Fire Chief Ernest Winborne, in announcing the training course, considered the local department fortunate in getting Bynum here for classes.

"He is one of the outstanding instructors in the state school," Winborne said.

Special attention will be given to the newer methods of fire fighting, Winborne explained, and to the chemistry of fire. There will also be instruction in fighting fires of the newer materials used in modern buildings.

Bynum will conduct classes in Pampa during the day. He will offer similar classes evenings in Panhandle, White Deer and McLean.

Bids on police radio equipment were received from Motorola Radio Co., Link Radio Corp., and General Electric, with Link low bidder. General Electric was high at a total of $3,214.89 with no trade-in allowance on the old equipment; Motorola was second high with a total of $2,744.71 after the trade-in allowance of $280 was deducted. Link was low at $2,503.88 after their trade-in allowance of $150 was deducted.

The other ordinance, regulating city licenses on amusement and vending machines, was authorized by the state legislature permitting cities to reclassify juke boxes into one group instead of two or three groups and boosting that license from $1.25 to $2.50; marble machines and other amusement machine licenses would remain the same, and license merchandise machines would be removed.

Due to the absence of Mayor Huff and the early leaving of Commissioner W. D. Varson, action on the ordinances and radio bids was tabled until next week.

The commission adjourned shortly before 11:45 a.m.

Tokyo Is Struck By Heavy Storm

TOKYO (AP)—One of the heaviest rainstorms in recent years hit Tokyo today.

It disrupted transportation and communications and ended a month-long heat wave.

Many sections of the teeming city were under several inches of water by nightfall. Automobiles, trolley cars and buses barely moved. Many were stranded at their offices.

Lightning struck a power plant and temporarily cut off a radio transmission of news between Japan and San Francisco and within Tokyo itself.

It appeared to some witnesses that the plane caught fire on take-off. Personnel in the base control tower said they were trying to contact two men government (or Iran) before a nightfall. Stokes then withdrew British proposals and substituted a new overall one. It included the problem of employment of British personnel. If the Tehran government rejects this, Stokes probably will return at once to London.

Stokes told reporters: "All my efforts have been concentrated on obtaining a fair, workmanlike solution. That I believe to have failed, I regret to say, and I can only hope that government (or Iran) will be for a moment tomorrow will reconsider and accept the abundance of help and good will which, in the interest of Iran, even at this late hour, is still available. If not, there is nothing left for me but to go home."

Reds May Start General Draft

BONN, Germany — (AP) — West German socialists claim general military service will be introduced in the Soviet zone of Germany soon.

A review of East German rearmament, published by the headquarters of the Socialist Party here, says the "Volksarmee" military cadre of approximately 55,000 officers and men, is ready to handle a flood of recruits.

Paper work for the large call-up has already been done, the review states, under the pretext of collecting workers for uranium mines. Mass medical examinations were given to determine fitness for underground work. This information, the review says, can now be used as the basis for the future draft.

Payroll Reductions Cut City Complaints

MT. VERNON, Ill. — (AP) — Economy cuts in Mt. Vernon city payrolls resulted recently in: (1) elimination of the can and rubbish collections, and (2) an offer to citizens to use the city dump free.

Moreover, chances of complaining were cut. Citizens were advised that there would be no one to answer the street and alley telephone, except for two hours a day.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Mis-Bid Hand Often Has A Purpose

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

In a rubber bridge game, today's hand would be played at five clubs. North would make that contract easily enough, and the hand would be forgotten a moment later.

The hand was actually dealt, however, in a tournament. North knew that five clubs would not provide as good a tournament score as four spades. Therefore he never even mentioned the clubs but raised the spades at once. Perhaps this was a poor idea, but it certainly turned out well and I hate to quarrel with success.

East's double would be unthinkable in a rubber bridge game. In tournament play, however, cream-puff doubles are often made. At any rate, that's the way the bidding went, and all four players were very well-known tournament stars, so it couldn't have been too outlandish.

Fairs Have Lost Their Magic Since Writer Has Grown Up

MOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION, No. 37 PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION 48-b, Article III, Constitution of Texas, so that the total amount of bonds or obligations that may be issued by the Veterans' Land Board is increased to One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000); providing for the issuance of said bonds and certain conditions relating thereto and the use of the Veterans' Land Fund; providing for an election and the issuance of the proclamation therefor.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

SECTION 1. That Section 48-b, Article III, Constitution of Texas, be amended so that the same will hereafter read as follows:

"Section 48-b. There is hereby created a Board to be known as the Veterans' Land Board, which shall be composed of the Governor, the Attorney General, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The Veterans' Land Board may issue not to exceed One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000) in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas for the purpose of creating a fund to be known as the Veterans' Land Fund. Such bonds shall be executed by said Board as trustees of the State of Texas, in such form, denominations, and upon the terms as are now provided by Senate Bill No. 29, Chapter 318 of the Acts of the Fifty-first Legislature, or any other law in that behalf amended, or by other laws that the Legislature may hereafter enact; provided, however, that said bonds shall bear a rate of interest not to exceed three percent per annum, and that the same shall be sold for not less than par value and accrued interest.

"In the sale of any such bonds, a preferential right of purchase shall be given to the holders of the bonds of each retirement fund, the Permanent University Funds, and the Permanent School Fund, in the order in which such bonds were issued as needed, in the opinion of the Veterans' Land Board.

"The Veterans' Land Fund shall be used by the Board for the sole purpose of purchasing lands hereinafter stated, and for interest thereon, and for the purpose hereinafter stated, situated in this state, (a) owned by the United States, or (b) owned by the Texas Prison System, or any other governmental agency of the State of Texas; or (c) owned by any person, firm, or corporation.

"All lands thus purchased shall be acquired at the lowest price obtainable, to be paid for by the sale of a part of the Veterans' Land Fund.

"The lands of the Veterans' Land Fund shall be sold by the State of Texas Veterans of the present war, or their heirs, and to Texas Veterans of service in the armed forces of the United States of America subsequent to 1918, as may be included within his program by legislative act, in such quantities, and on such terms and at such prices and rates of interest, and under such rules and regulations as are now provided by law, or as may hereafter be provided by law.

"ALL MONIES received and which have been received and which have not been received, and which have been and as provided herein by the Veterans' Land Board from the sale of such bonds and for interest thereon, shall be credited to the Veterans' Land Fund for use in purchasing additional lands to be sold to Texas Veterans of World War II, and to Texas Veterans of service in the armed forces of the United States of America subsequent to 1918, as may be included within his program by legislative act, in like manner as provided herein for the purchase of lands with the proceeds from the sale of the bonds, provided for herein, for a period ending December 31, 1959; provided, however, that no such monies may be expended during the period ending December 31, 1959, to pay principal and interest on bonds hereafter issued by the Veterans' Land Board which were sold for that purpose prior to December 1, 1959, all monies received by the Veterans' Land Board from the sale of the lands and interest on deferred payments, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be set aside for the retirement of said bonds, to pay interest thereon, and any such monies not so needed shall not later than the maturity date of the last maturing bond be deposited to the credit of the General Revenue Fund to be appropriated to such purposes as may be prescribed by law. All bonds issued hereunder shall, after approval by the Attorney General of Texas, registration by the Comptroller of the State of Texas, and delivery to and shall constitute obligations of the State under the Constitution of Texas, of the total One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000) of bonds hereinafter authorized, the sum of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000) has heretofore been issued; said bonds are hereby in all respects validated and declared to be obligations of the State of Texas. This amendment shall become effective upon its adoption."

SEC. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held throughout the State of Texas on the second Tuesday in November, 1951, at which election all ballots shall have printed on their ballots the following words:

THOSE OPPOSING said proposed amendment shall write or have written on their ballots the following words:

AGAINST THE AMENDMENT TO SECTION 48-b, Constitution of Texas, or increasing Veterans' Land Fund for purchase of lands in Texas to be sold to Texas Veterans of World War II, and to Texas Veterans of service in the armed forces of the United States of America subsequent to 1918.

IT APPEARS from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast were in favor of said amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution and effective from the date of the determination of such result and the Governor's proclamation thereof.

West opened the king of hearts and continued the suit on being encouraged by his partner's jack. South ruffed, led a trump to dummy's ace, and returned a low diamond from dummy.

East put up the jack of diamonds, but West overtook with the king in order to lead the right of club. This was a good idea, since East might have the queen of clubs, but as the cards lay it made no difference. South won with the queen of clubs and drew one more round of trumps with the king.

Declarer then abandoned the trumps. Outside of the trumps, East could have nothing better than two red queens and two red jacks. This would not be enough even for a cream-puff double unless East also had four trumps to the queen-ten.

South therefore played for a trump coup. He led to the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond, setting up the rest of dummy's long suit. This left declarer with jack-eight of spades behind East's queen-ten.

South then led a club to dummy's king and proceeded to lead diamonds from dummy. If East ruffed low, South could over-ruff and lead clubs until East was ready to take the queen of trumps. If East ruffed high, South could discard, win any return, and draw the last trump.

East actually chose to discard, South thereupon discarded clubs and was able to lead from the dummy at the 12th trick. East could make only his queen of trumps, and South was bound to make his contract.

The FORM DIVINE

By HIL DEGARDE DOLSON

THE STORY: Lucilla Webb, 27 and skippy, enrolls in the Beauty-You School to improve her figure. She is just getting acquainted with her classmates.

VII
THE girl in the sun suit walked across to the lockers, where Lucilla and Mrs. Coips were standing, nobody said a word. Lucilla gave the girl a shy smile, and said the locker numbers ran sideways. She and Mrs. Coips helped locate the right box; the bracelet and a large red plastic handbag were shoved inside. "You live in Manhattan too?" Mrs. Coips said.

The girl said, "Sure. I was in the 'Fruivolites' two years ago. You see it?" Lucilla and Mrs. Coips shook their heads regretfully. "My name's Paris Green," Her listeners looked startled. "Paris is a stage name the press agent gave me. It's got more oomph for show business than Alice." She put both hands on her bare middle, massaging it into a roll, and looked down at it impersonally. "Gotta get rid of this spare tire."

Mrs. Coips responded cordially to this statement of intent; she said she herself had to get rid of 30 pounds. "I was just telling this lady, Mrs. Webb, that I'll give her half of it." Paris Green looked Lucilla up and down. "You got good legs," she said simply. Lucilla was abashed, but she couldn't help feeling flattered.

A woman in a black dress wound like a mummy's with four strands of gold beads around her throat, came into the room and stood beside the Glamour Guide seated at the monitor's desk.

"New Girls of the Spring Term," she began in a voice as sweet as imitation maple syrup. "I am your floor mother, Mrs. Coxthwaite. Welcome to Beautiful-You." She paused then. "From time to time, I will have little personal chats with each of you, but please don't hesitate to come to me whenever you need advice." She pursed her mouth, cocked her head, and shook her finger at the class. "Or if you have been naughty and must go on the Day of Atonement Diet." There were a few nervous titters. "Now up to the third floor for your doctor's physical."

LUCILLA, being a W, was the last to be examined. The nurse who ushered her into the tiny examining room had the same refined starchiness as the waitress at the Woman's Exchange. She was surprised, somehow, that the doctor wasn't wearing an equally starched white coat. He was a tall, youngish man with cowlick hair, an ordinary blue-serve suit, and a politely weary voice. After glancing at the woman's Exchange, she had filled out about her internal organs and teeth, he gave her chest a few token taps, dropped her wrist on the third pulse-beat, and said, "Mark this one O.K. for all posture exercise. She won't get spanky any." Noticing Lucilla's twitch of surprise, he grinned. "Spanky-wanky is an experience reserved for your larger classmates." The nurse said Mrs. Webb had better get back to the fourth floor. "We make the others run up and down stairs, but you're so skippy you can use the elevator." Lucilla rode up in lone state.

THE Hall of Mirrors wasn't quite Versailles. In fact, it bore a closer resemblance to those amusement park Laff Chambers in which the mirrors throw back foolish reflections, and contraptions lie in wait to trick the joyfully apprehensive visitor. It was a room perhaps 30 feet square, lined with mirrors on all four walls, to a height of six feet. Even the ceiling was mirror, reflecting at this moment the frenzied and varied activities being carried on simultaneously in all four corners requirements. Two have since disappeared and are believed to have been stolen from the Arboretum, but the third has taken hold in a manner indicating that West Virginia is the proper habitat for the tree. Seeds were gathered in 1947 in a program directed by Dr. E. D. Merrill of the Arnold Arboretum, Jamaica Plain, Mass., and seedlings now have been distributed to numerous institutions here and in the Far East for testing purposes.

Construction of a large battleship is the use of 37 tons of blueprints.

of the room. It didn't matter which corner, or which activity a New Girl landed in first, so long as she covered all four, and this made for a wonderful, wandering confusion. In the corner nearest the door, a large hooded camera sat on a tripod, with powerful reflector lights trained on a section of mirror hung with gray cloth. Two Glamour Guides were in charge here. One of them would sense a New Girl with the query, "Have you had your BEFORE taken?" She would then thrust the victim against the gray cloth, say, "Full-length profile, please," and the other Glamour Guide would pop under the camera hood and shoot the picture willy-nilly.

In the second corner, Mrs. Coxthwaite, the floor mother, stood beside a weighing machine, flicking a tape measure like a whip. In the third corner Lucilla saw Mrs. Coips hopping frantically on one pajama'd foot, with her outstretched arms flapping, and her eyes tight shut.

In Lucilla's own corner, the large, hockey-muscled girl who had just been measured said intensely, "But I can't wait the full eight weeks. I have to look finished for the reception in five weeks. It's terribly important." She was talking to the floor mother, who seemed to be murmuring reassurances, perhaps guaranteeing delivery of the New You by the specified date. The girl went off, and Mrs. Coxthwaite beckoned Lucilla to get on the scales. When she called out, "Five feet five, 97 pounds," the assistant's head jerked up. "Well, a Bony!"

Lucilla stiffened; the floor mother said hurriedly, "No offense, Mrs. Webb. That's what we call our underweights—Bonies. The others are Bulgies. Of course we do get more Bulgies, but you'll be happy to hear we've had glorious success with the Bonies too." Her smile was skittish. "Confidentially, I'm inclined to be a Bony myself." Mrs. Coxthwaite flicked the tape, measuring the new Bony with precise, darting motions. "A nice little basic skeleton to build on, but it does need work. Now if you'll go over for Candid Body

Says U.S. Losing Money In Officer Training Program

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — W. R. Co's Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage candidly admits he can qualify as a military expert. In World War I he was in the Navy, and didn't even get seasick before the Armistice was signed.

Nevertheless, he says, it's evident that something drastic needs to be done to overhaul our officer training program.

He has in mind West Point and Annapolis. He hastens to add that the West Point cheating episode has nothing to do with his views.

The 51-year-old legislator is concerned about the amount of money being poured into the defense program. He agrees it's necessary.

"But," he adds, "that doesn't blind you to the fact that nearly one-third of our national income is going into the development and maintenance of our armed services. "War and preparation to prevent war involve our factories, our fields, and our national economy just as truly as it involves maneuvers on the battlefields." As Poage sees it, keen business leadership is part of a successful defense program as well as battlefield leadership. He says a man qualifying for the top in one field might not be a capable leader in the other.

Poage doesn't want to abolish West Point and Annapolis. But, he does think they might very properly become graduate schools for advanced training of men who already are officers in the military forces. He would have the officers come originally from such schools as Texas A&M College or up from the ranks. "If a boy gets an appointment to West Point or Annapolis under the present system," he adds, "he goes in at 17 or 18 and immediately looks to the government for his food, clothing, shelter and spending money. "On the other hand, the boy at Baylor or A&M or some other school may be working his way, waiting on tables, cutting lawns or doing any number of odd jobs. "The boy who is going to make a professional officer is experiencing no problem of personal finance — all he has to do is follow regulations and he has financial security for life. This is not conducive of making sharp businessmen." He argues the courses at Annapolis and West Point are designed to train leaders of men on the field of battle, then adds:

"We find West Point graduates ill-qualified as combat officers, when war comes the combat situations are largely filled with men who got their training either in the ranks or in institutions like Texas A&M. The West Point men, having been in long-term, are, by and large, pushed up to the desk jobs.

"Thus, the country loses much of the combat training it has given these men. They find themselves taking over gigantic administrative tasks for which they are not prepared."

Another Texas congressman has become recognized as a leading authority on military expenditures.

As chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee handling all money measures for the armed forces, Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City and Lubbock was in charge of House debate on the multi-billion dollar defense bill last week.

He can quote prices on everything from Army medical kits and Navy diving helmets to tanks, ships and planes. Yet, somewhat symbolical of the American form of government, the fact is that the West Texas congressman is thoroughly civilian in background and thought.

Tall and on the slender side, young looking for his 50 years, he is a quiet-mannered, quiet-speaking man who has lots of friends. He and his wife attend a local Methodist church, where he teaches a Sunday School class. They have a married daughter.

THE VALUE OF TRAINING — A trainer at Florida's Marine Corps spent two years teaching a young porpoise to do such tricks as towing a surf raft with a passenger and her pup (above). The trainer says it proves the intelligence of species.

Point Proved In Foot Race

STRUGA, Yugoslavia — (AP) — Here in the Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, the people — like an aging rooster — grow tougher as they grow older. Josif Belevski turned 100 recently, still proud of his vigor. Nikola Kratovski, an old crowscotter that Joe was getting old. Naturally, Joe was annoyed, so he challenged Nikola to a foot-race at 800 meters. Nikola won. But only by the length of Joe's whiskers, carefully cultivated over the past century. It probably proves the old saying that a good young man is faster than an old one. For Nikola is just a youth—only 70 years old.

Barkley 'Not Old' For Political Race

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Vice President Barkley brushed aside the idea today that he may be too old for a political race in the 1952 national election. "I have ahead of me 15 or 16 years," Barkley asserted, "whether they will be years of service may depend on the American people. A man who is 70 now is supposed to be about what the man 60 years old was 50 years ago."

The vice president is 75. Barkley said: He thinks a Democratic ticket headed by President Truman could win in 1952.

Extinct Tree Grows In West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — (AP) — A specimen of a tree once thought to be extinct is flourishing in West Virginia University's Arboretum. The tree is the Metasequoia Glyptostroboides, a relative of California's giant Sequoia. Dr. Earl L. New School Year Offers Chance To Begin Again

AP Newsfeatures
 A new school year offers a wonderful opportunity to wipe slate clean. All the little bits we formed during last school year showed perhaps that we just weak Annes under skin.
 The best way to strengthen character is by self-denial, hard work and taking a cheerful attitude toward chores. Think about easy groove you slipped into last year, and then make a firm resolution to be a tougher character this year. For instance:
 Did you show up in a flour sack, you resist a date, even if it is for the night before your examination? And, that you'd rather take the risk of failing in losing the man of the moment?
 If that was your weakness, make a firm resolution that school comes first. After all, there always is another man around the corner, but you can't retrace your steps if you've lost the opportunity to a good education.
 Did you get in the habit of doing your underwear and stockings every night did you let your wash accumulate until you had nothing clean to wear? It is much easier to wash a few things every night, even if you must keep your eyes open with toothpicks. Once wash accumulates, it might be a long unpleasant chore to do the laundry.

 3. Did you keep the family in debt trying to keep up with the Jones girls? Every time Mary or Sally Jones got a new dress or unique accessory, did you write home to complain to Mom that you were being cheated.
 Clothes do not make the girl. Even if you show up in a flour sack, you will be popular providing you are a nice person, anyway. It is pretty silly to worry Mom and Pop who have plenty of other bills.
 4. Did you get your own dates and did not wait until another girl showed up with a boy, and then try to take him away?
 Some girls never can manage to get dates for themselves, and even if a good natured girl rounds up a blind date for one of these, usually, she is not satisfied. Usually, she likes the other girl's boyfriend better than the one she is dating.
 If you get a reputation for that sort of piracy, you'll have trouble getting dates at all. Remember, the most school girls depend on brothers or class mates for dates, and if you get a reputation for being a date thief, you'll be a pretty lonely lassie.
 5. Did you depend on your roommates to do your chores? Sometimes the other tenants will do your share, just because they can't bear untidiness. Don't think they do your job because they like you, especially.
 Make a habit of doing your little room chores as soon as you crawl out of bed in the morning. It is easy to pick up, make the bed and dust while you are still almost asleep.
 6. Did you develop a bias attitude toward life, because you became acquainted with a cynical clique?
 Actually you should stick to your own guns when it comes to making decisions which affect your manners or morals. If you've been accustomed to going to church, don't let others persuade you not to go. Young people are likely to think part of being grown up is avoiding pre-school good habits whether it is church or sending birthday cards.
 7. Did you indulge in gossip more often than good wholesome chit-chat?
 People get hurt by gossip, especially within the confines of a campus. If you've made a habit of carrying every story you hear,

Housekeeping Made Easier With New Plastic Material

New developments for the house have resulted not only in a happier homemaker but also a happier household. Dad relaxes in his favorite chair (above) with no worries about soiling the upholstery, scarring the coffee table, or making rings on the wood finishes. Daughter (upper right) feels free to behave with teenage nonchalance in her fluffily-feminine, but completely practical, bedroom. Mother (lower right), moisture-proofing her sideboard with a new silicone polish, need not worry about the baby's flinging food on draperies, tablecloth or high chair—they can all be quickly cleaned with a damp cloth.

By ANNE LARSEN
 NEA Staff Writer
 NEW YORK —(NEA)—It's a streamlined age we're living in, yet the fundamentals of housekeeping have been, until quite recently, strictly a horse-and-bugle affair. A homemaker, whether she was wearing the hoop skirts of yesteryear or today's brief shirt and shorts, had to wrestle with the same routines of drapery laundering, furniture polishing and floor waxing.
 Now, things are changing. Industrial chemists, home designers, and textile experts have all put their heads together in an effort to make homemaking easier.
 With new improvements, it's easy for Mom to smile and murmur "forget it" when Junior puts his feet on the bedspread, when the baby joyfully flings spinach into the dining room curtains, when father sets his wet glass on the living room table and when sister leaves an apple core on the boudoir chair.
 In a living room setting that was derived from the progressive and perhaps embellishing it, make a resolution to imagine yourself in the spot of the person you are maligning, and perhaps you will change your tune.
 Papa's chair is somewhat on the ingenious side, too. Instead of the traditional leather armchair, father can now have for his own a sturdy design in blond sycamore which is contoured for comfort.
 Lumite is the material used in the bold plaid upholstery. Papa can loit in peace against this fabric, with little worry for the effects of hair oil on the back, or for a few dead pipe ashes spilled onto the seat. (Glowing coals, of course, are another matter.) Surface smudges and soil can be wiped away with a damp sponge.
 If he feels like a fresh-up with iced coffee, he can set his glass down without stretching — and without fear of leaving white rings — upon the combination arm-and-end table that is part of the chair. On the other side is a magazine rack.

 What with new developments in plastics, this versatile material has suddenly become a mother's helper in every room of the house. New reversible table cloths are sufficiently good-looking to grace even the handsomest dining room table.
 Plastic drapery textiles gained new interest with the development of techniques for making them three-dimensional, thus giving them texture and eliminating the slick, cold look that characterized some early plastic fabrics. Simulated monk's cloth is handsome for hanging at dining room windows; dust can be wiped away with a damp cloth. In case of spilled milk or other accidents of the kind that are inevitable when children are involved with food, the same clean-up method suffices.
 A shopping spree for latest improvements in furniture and fabrics is not the only means of reducing housekeeping chores around the home. Mother can make her old furniture perform new tricks with a recently-developed silicone polish which provides a water-repellent, glass-

BEAUTY AFTER FORTY.

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

Today I have a Man's Eye View of woman, one woman at least, and a fortunate woman she is to have had such a loving tribute!
 You remember how we all thrilled to the romance of a King and an American woman—and both past Forty. This is the modern love story of our present day, and it continues to delight the world. In his fascinating book, "A King's Story," published by E. P. Putnam, the Duke of Windsor pays full tribute to "The Woman I Love." It is a sincere and moving story of one of the greatest romances of modern times.

 He does not outline in detail just what her great attraction was for him but in every line where he tells the story of his determination to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson you feel the honesty of his love and you sense his great need to marry the woman he had chosen.
 She is a woman of great personal magnetism, sophistication and charm. In fact, her personality has always been her greatest asset. In his book the Duke speaks of "the grace of her carriage and the natural dignity of her movements." Also he makes a point of how delightful he found her expert knowledge of cooking! Even a King found that a definite asset!
 Wallis Warfield, as a debutante, was gay, vivacious and full of personality. I went to school in Baltimore and met her at dances and parties and always she was popular and much sought after. I remember how simply, but smartly, she dressed. That has always been one of her outstanding qualities. Now, in her maturity, she still wears simple clothes of great elegance of fabric. Her dramatic jewels highlight every costume.
 The Duke of Windsor is charming and graceful. Well, after reading "A King's Story," that he never, at any time in his life, had any desire to be a king. He was Britain's "best salesman"—and I think that he still is!
 But, read the book. You will thrill to his story, especially if you are—After Forty!

If you don't like what I do, go complain to the President and Congress. If they are going to kick me out, that's all right with me. I don't like the job. Here is one bureaucrat who would like to get fired.
 —Eric A. Johnston, economic stabilizer.

Officials Should Guard Free Press

The Panhandle has recently been swept with a non-epidemic of cases where public officials have attempted to control the news...

Recently in Amarillo, police refused to let a reporter look at the police blotter which is a public record and thus available to news men...

Latest attempt to restrict the free press was Friday in Borger when Hutchinson county sheriffs deputy seized the camera and film of a news photographer who was taking pictures of a Navy plane that had crashed on a public highway...

When happenings like these occur, newspapers are quick to correct the situation because they realize that newspapers themselves are the first bulwark in the defense of the individual citizen...

While the nation as a whole must guard against any attempt to control the press, it is the newspapers that must deal with minor assaults which, if allowed to continue, would set precedents that will weaken a Constitutional freedom...

Law officials are elected or appointed to protect the life and property of citizens. Their authority does not extend to the point of keeping news from the public by claiming a dictatorial censorship on newspapers...

A basic American freedom was violated when the news photographer's camera and film were seized. As a consequence of the seizure and the refusal to return the film to the paper until Saturday, the Borger News-Herald ran a blank space where the picture should have been...

If things like that were to continue, soon the word "news" would be a meaningless term. There would be little news on blank white paper...

When officials take an oath of office they are sworn to uphold the Constitution. It would be well for them to remember that it means ALL of the Constitution, not just in the parts they deem important...

Friendly relations between the press and public officials is a desirable thing. But friendly relations cannot be maintained if freedom of the press is subject to constant attack, even on a small scale...

The Doctor Says

By EDWARD P. JORDAN, M. D.

Several months ago after writing a column of diet which was often important in lessening the possibility of the formation of new stones, several people wrote asking for the details of such a diet...

It is not possible to describe a diet which would be suitable for all persons who have had trouble with kidney stones. The most important reason is that there are several kinds and the chemicals entering into their chemical composition are different and consequently they need different kinds of diet...

But it is also true that people differ from one another in other respects besides the chemical composition of kidney stones: some are fat, some thin, some are young and others are old, some have diabetes or another condition which would affect the kind of diet they should have...

Kidney stones, of course, are not really "stones" at all. They have crystallized from the urine because the latter no longer carries them in solution. They form in some part of the kidney, usually a sort of open space known as the pelvis...

Also they grow little by little and do not appear suddenly as fully formed masses. This slow growth generally means that symptoms are not produced for weeks and indeed it is not unusual to find them unexpectedly in an X-ray film taken for some entirely different reason...

It is usually when the stone starts to move (which it may never do) that real trouble starts. Most of them have sharp, jagged edges, and as they begin to move down the urinary passageways they cut into the delicate tissues producing bleeding and pain that is likely to be very severe...

In fact this pain is often really unbearable and may take several injections of morphine or similar drug before the victim can do anything but writhing in agony.

TREATMENT In a way there are two stages of treatment. The first is the problem of the particular stone which is passing. Often the stone is eliminated by itself but sometimes its passage has to be aided by one or more of the methods which are now available to speed its course...

The next step is to find out if there are any more stones still in the kidneys, to analyze chemically the one passed, and to advise the patient with regard to diet and other measures which may lessen the danger of similar trouble later.

SOLUTION? THE CHIROPRACTIC CHALLENGER, a leading professional journal, devoted not only to Chiropractic news but to general news...

Decrying discrimination against Chiropractors rendering their services in many tax-supported hospitals the editorial points out that even though many cities have passed ordinances requiring these hospitals to open up to Chiropractors, such orders have been to no avail...

Even court orders, says the CHALLENGER editor, have proven futile. He points out that the non-epidemic medical forces belonging to the United States are typical of closed shop tactics and if their discrimination is enjoined by court order they will simply walk out of a hospital the moment a Chiropractor in his professional capacity walks in...

Under the sub-headings of "The Worry about Money," "The Fear of a Depression," and "The Fear of Atomic Warfare" he calls these things diseases. Then he says: "rich and poor, employed and unemployed, successful and unsuccessful, are worried about an insecure and uncertain future. This fear is a psychological, not a physical, disease. It destroys happiness more than health. It is a mental malady. It kills characters rather than bodies."

In explaining the difference between social security and personal security he makes this observation: "Social security is what his family or society does for the individual. Personal security is the result of what the individual does for himself. The former comes from outside the individual, the latter comes from within. Social security consists largely of benefits and money given to the individual. Personal security comes from habits and beliefs which the individual develops for himself and which make him self-reliant under almost any circumstances."

Then the author relates how important it is to get people to be self-reliant. He says that the Alcoholics Anonymous discovered that it was not practical even to have the Alcoholics Anonymous society too prosperous or to do anything for the alcoholic. A wealthy woman left $100,000 to the A.A. in her will. The A.A. reported that its leaders rejected the legacy because "they have found that the acquisition of money or other things tend to divert them from their primary purpose."

The A.A. also discovered that it was not practical to help them to even pay his expenses or wages while they were taking the training, because the individual had to make some sacrifices himself if results were to be really accomplished. Our politicians and those who are really interested in the welfare of the unfortunate should take a lesson from the A.A.

(Reprinted from Look Magazine)

WASHINGTON—No doubt you'll be pleased to learn that the Emergency Defense agencies are getting along fine and that some of them now have enough davenport and easy chairs so they can do business.

They also have plenty of executive desks. An executive desk costs $250 and is not to be confused with a simple desk. It is a flat top desk that peddles for $75. An executive desk has about the same acreage as a tennis court; if you can reach the ash tray without climbing up on your desk and taking a short circuit, it is not an executive desk and you should be ashamed.

The agencies naturally have several thousand of the $75 jobs that are the high-grade thinking man's desk. The high-grade thinking man can have the deluxe variety and the heck with the expense because nothing is too good for our boys in the bureau.

The Economic Stabilization Agency, for instance, has been lucky enough to get 118 new executive desks. ESA also has 26 nice, soft $288 davenports and 95 easy chairs. The $150 model. This is a good sign, because if you don't buy a few carloads of davenports and over-size desks when you start an agency like that people will think you don't know how to control prices and fight inflation.

The National Production Authority seems to be lagging a little, though. NPA only has six executive desks and 22 davenports and not a single easy chair! There's a lot of room for improvement and better furniture around NPA, but the really sad case is the Federal Civil Defense Administration. Only one executive desk in the place, and a puny $195 one at that. No davenports, no easy chairs. Whatsoever. You'd almost think Civil Defense didn't give a damn.

Under the sub-headings of "The Worry about Money," "The Fear of a Depression," and "The Fear of Atomic Warfare" he calls these things diseases. Then he says: "rich and poor, employed and unemployed, successful and unsuccessful, are worried about an insecure and uncertain future. This fear is a psychological, not a physical, disease. It destroys happiness more than health. It is a mental malady. It kills characters rather than bodies."

In explaining the difference between social security and personal security he makes this observation: "Social security is what his family or society does for the individual. Personal security is the result of what the individual does for himself. The former comes from outside the individual, the latter comes from within. Social security consists largely of benefits and money given to the individual. Personal security comes from habits and beliefs which the individual develops for himself and which make him self-reliant under almost any circumstances."

Then the author relates how important it is to get people to be self-reliant. He says that the Alcoholics Anonymous discovered that it was not practical even to have the Alcoholics Anonymous society too prosperous or to do anything for the alcoholic. A wealthy woman left $100,000 to the A.A. in her will. The A.A. reported that its leaders rejected the legacy because "they have found that the acquisition of money or other things tend to divert them from their primary purpose."

The A.A. also discovered that it was not practical to help them to even pay his expenses or wages while they were taking the training, because the individual had to make some sacrifices himself if results were to be really accomplished. Our politicians and those who are really interested in the welfare of the unfortunate should take a lesson from the A.A.

WASHINGTON—No doubt you'll be pleased to learn that the Emergency Defense agencies are getting along fine and that some of them now have enough davenport and easy chairs so they can do business.

They also have plenty of executive desks. An executive desk costs $250 and is not to be confused with a simple desk. It is a flat top desk that peddles for $75. An executive desk has about the same acreage as a tennis court; if you can reach the ash tray without climbing up on your desk and taking a short circuit, it is not an executive desk and you should be ashamed.

The agencies naturally have several thousand of the $75 jobs that are the high-grade thinking man's desk. The high-grade thinking man can have the deluxe variety and the heck with the expense because nothing is too good for our boys in the bureau.

The Economic Stabilization Agency, for instance, has been lucky enough to get 118 new executive desks. ESA also has 26 nice, soft $288 davenports and 95 easy chairs. The $150 model. This is a good sign, because if you don't buy a few carloads of davenports and over-size desks when you start an agency like that people will think you don't know how to control prices and fight inflation.

The National Production Authority seems to be lagging a little, though. NPA only has six executive desks and 22 davenports and not a single easy chair! There's a lot of room for improvement and better furniture around NPA, but the really sad case is the Federal Civil Defense Administration. Only one executive desk in the place, and a puny $195 one at that. No davenports, no easy chairs. Whatsoever. You'd almost think Civil Defense didn't give a damn.

Speaking Of Investigations

By DAVID BAXTER

SOLUTION? THE CHIROPRACTIC CHALLENGER, a leading professional journal, devoted not only to Chiropractic news but to general news...

Decrying discrimination against Chiropractors rendering their services in many tax-supported hospitals the editorial points out that even though many cities have passed ordinances requiring these hospitals to open up to Chiropractors, such orders have been to no avail...

Even court orders, says the CHALLENGER editor, have proven futile. He points out that the non-epidemic medical forces belonging to the United States are typical of closed shop tactics and if their discrimination is enjoined by court order they will simply walk out of a hospital the moment a Chiropractor in his professional capacity walks in...

National Whirligig

By ROGER WARREN (Ray Tucker is on vacation)

WASHINGTON—The new question jolting the Democratic national committee is: "Which Republican party are we going to fight in 1952?"

Originally, the hard-headed seers in the Ring building sanctum had assumed that Senator Taft and his dated stalwarts would lead the GOP. But now with General Eisenhower and the powerful and politically clever international wing of the Republican party really in the convention contest, the may emerge as the candidate.

In that case Chairman Bill Boyle, George Leary, his side-kick, and other Democratic brain trusters in committee headquarters must think up an entirely different strategy. They can't hit like with the same over-ripe mush melon they had ready with Robert Alphonse.

So behind the scenes they are figuring out how to act if from their partisan point of view the worst happens next summer and Ike comes riding in on the elephant.

PLAN—Their battle plan for the Taft outfit is "Operation De-bunk." They hope they can still use it. It is a campaign of tooth and claw. They are collecting a stack of contradictory statements to be used later.

And in Washington this week other Democratic field marshals boasted that America is now a Democratic country. Our opponents, they brag, have suffered five consecutive defeats in the Presidential race and have lost all but one off-year election in two decades.

PROGRAM—"We've had a constructive program since 1932 and have stuck to it," contends Leary. "Housing, Social Security, aid to farmers, labor justice, civil rights and so on. There it is."

"We say to Republicans 'What's wrong with it? Will you take away the Social Security? What do you offer that's better? If a new crowd wins control at the Republican convention and comes up with a new candidate and a new program, they have only four months to sell it to the voters—sell the last' enough."

Another part of "Operation De-bunk" is to charge that the unimaginative G. O. P. can only copy Roosevelt-Truman ideas. "They're like the cowbird," explains Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. "At mating time it moves into some other bird's nest and uses it. That's identical with today's Republican leadership."

isn't half of it. They busted up all the machinery. This is going to be the pattern from now on."

Luther Youngdahl, the mock-Republican governor of Minnesota, flinched and pattered in the presence of violence and, for his reward, recently has been appointed to carry a gun and to kill anyone who threatens his or her life.

The woman who recently was killed by a mob which upset an automobile as she tried to go to her job at a textile plant in Berryton, Okla., might have saved her life if she had blown the belly out of the nearest goon with a 12-gauge gun. There can be no doubt that a jury would have set her loose.

For the past 14 months the "E" bond holders have been disinclined to renew, and purchases have dropped off. In May the excess of cash-in-over purchases was $92,500,000. In June it jumped to $97 million. And for the first half of the year redemptions over sales amounted to considerably over a half billion. The 50-cent dollar is having a telling effect on this paper that is not as good as gold. This forces Snyder to use short-term notes (with banks) to pay off the maturing "E" bonds and the premature cash-ins of these bonds.

But it is the maturing bonds that are worrisome, for they will increase in volume, steadily from now on. The pressure can get severe. To meet payments the administration may be forced to cut its non-defense spending, to reduce waste and desist from political-enterprising.

NO NEED FOR WORRY For the most part, the administration has no need to worry about this situation. The bonds are not falling due fast enough to upset our defense program if strict economy is exercised at the federal level. Now will be cashing-in of these bonds be inflationary, as we may be told in the near future. The money has already been spent and, unfortunately, it cannot be spent again. The payment will come out of current taxes. Some of the money will, no doubt, be saved and this will be deflationary.

As these bonds are cashed in, if our administrators are sincere in their talk about holding the inflation line, they will not stuff the banks with more paper to meet the obligation falling due. In the near months ahead this sincerity will get its real test. The administration will have to show its hand as these chickens of fiscal folly come home to roost.

Should we need more money for defense it can be raised through taxes. Personal income will be up (through increased employment and higher wages) by $30 billion to $35 billion by the end of the year. The final step to whip inflation and restore dwindling faith in the bonds would be to balance the budget and make our shrinking currency fully redeemable in gold. Nothing short of this will get the job done.

Little girls are constantly waiting for flies to take them on a trip into your home. Start swatting!

FAIR ENOUGH--PEGLER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—President Truman's Committee on Civil Liberties and Constitutional Rights has been accused of being a Communist program were not aware of its very distinction. They are all educated persons and it would be a reflection on their intelligence to say that they were too stupid to realize that their proposal shows more solicitude for a person lynched under accusation of a crime than for a person whose innocence was not questioned at all. They knew what they were signing.

The most violent union lynchings have been confined to the Northern, Eastern and Western states until recently. Nowadays, however, professional goons are invading the Southern states and there is no possible doubt that this development in mind when it wrote into its report accounts of selected lynchings in Southern states but did not mention a single killing or beating of a law-abiding citizen by any union mob in other sections. There is not a shred of evidence in the book comparable to this excerpt from a report by Congressman Clare Hoffman, of Michigan, to the House of Representatives describing the typical events in a wild insurrection against the authority of lawful government in 1948: "One Granville North, a union attorney, seemed to be a prime moving force in the organization of picket line rowdiness" in Omaha. "When the packers were in a private meeting with the city council to discuss means of improving law enforcement to prevent violence, Mr. North arrived with approximately 400 union members and walked into this private meeting. According to one witness, the group created a mob scene and said that this union was taking over and would run the show. On another occasion, in the court-room of Judge Chase, Mr. North made the following statement: 'You have seen what they did to them in Minnesota yesterday; 200 of them went in there and took 20 scabs out of that Cudahy plant and beat hell out of them. They haven't even found 10 of them yet and that

Roll-over controls are finally a part of the business setup. The control boys didn't get all they wanted, but the bill Congress just passed does let them get their own little grip on the inter-urban enterprise floor. It gives them a psychological advantage at a very opportune time. What is the danger, you say? It gives them the way for putting greater pressure upon congress at a later date for more controls and more socialism.

We still have a consumer's market, and many people will be fooled by official propaganda that controls are doing a job which actually is being accomplished by the natural laws of supply and demand. When this nation changes and the real inflation—planned inflation—takes hold once more, there will be another hue and cry for more controls.

But in this business of protecting both profits and wages in the interest of taxes there is more than meets the eye. The Treasury is in trouble and Secretary Snyder knows it. He wants more taxes than the inter-urban enterprise floor. It gives them a psychological advantage at a very opportune time. What is the danger, you say? It gives them the way for putting greater pressure upon congress at a later date for more controls and more socialism.

"CHURCH" FOR THE AUTO AGE—The Rev. Dr. Ernest Lyman Mills, pastor of Dorchester Methodist Church, conducts services at Boston's first "drive-in-church." The congregation, many of them in bathing suits and play clothes, heard the sermon through individual speakers hooked into autos in the same manner as for open-air movies. The drive-in-church is an idea taking hold in more and more cities as ministers seek to compete with the Sunday driving urge.

Scandal Stirs A Memory

Walking Area Plagued Many West Point Men

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of six articles about West Point by Westbrook Pegler. These columns were originally written in January, 1929, and deal with football affairs as related to military academy life).
"Reprinted by special permission of the Chicago Tribune."

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
King Features Syndicate

On the topic of honor and punishment, mention was made of a young man of the present plebe class, a football player with a reputation of having beaten the Stanford team when he was in college, who is now serving a second sentence of six months in the walking area. He first entered the academy in the summer of 1927 and quickly accumulated a sentence of six months for some lawlessness and was on the point of flunking out in his studies when he fell sick and went on leave with permission to start over in the plebe class which entered in the summer of 1928. But when he returned he still had a butt of the old sentence to serve. He was still pestered by it, 50 minutes a day on Wednesdays and Saturdays while the worthy young men were having their innocent pleasures, when the date for the Stanford-Army game of 1928 came around. Just before this date he qualified for a bed in the hospital and on the day of the game some California friends drove up in a car and lured him off. Well, he drove down to New York, saw Stanford lick Army, and drove back well ahead of the returning corps, but, of course, was caught and got another slug for six months of the area.

West Point likes to win football games and it would be nice to have this cadet available for the team during his remaining three years at the academy, assuming that he can tag along somehow for three years more. But his record suggests a serious doubt that he ever will be certified to the head coach as fit and eligible for the team, even for practice. A man must rise superior to a complex of don'ts and have to be a scholastic and military, to get on the field at all.

Found deficient in any item of study or charged with a certain quota of demerits for slack or willy had conduct in the weekly posting of the marks, a cadet leaves the squad and he doesn't return until the audit of the grades shows him to be out of the red in all matters. There is a distant chance that an over-mischievous plebe, having survived the shake-down year, will take a strong grasp of himself and keep eligible. Unpromising plebes have been known to do such.

Mr. Sprague, football captain, mind you, got a batch of demerits a while ago for wearing no suspenders at mess. He was fixing, as he said, to go on one of the six week-end leaves allowed to first classmen and had buttoned his suspenders to the trousers of his civilian dinner suit. So he just put on a belt, and when he went to the mess hall his trousers sagged.

Out in the area mess call sounded and there came a rumble and thunder on the stairs as the plebes doubled from their rooms to their platoons for the march to the mess hall. The upper classmen were more leisurely, with a leeway of two minutes. Soon the columns were moving away.

Mr. Sprague did not fall in, being excused on two counts: sick report and an official visit. We walked across the area together after the drumming feet of the columns and past a cadet sentry.

"All right," said Mr. Sprague. It was the last night of the football training table. At breakfast the next morning the varsity squad and the B squad would all be back at their company tables. Chris Cagle, a small fellow with a mirthless set to his features, had recently been elected captain of the 1929 team and hadn't yet been dragged. I gathered that this was a serious omission, to be corrected tonight or never. Dragging is a hubbing business practice inflicted on those who have lately been elevated to high position in the corps.

On July 4, when the corps is in camp under canvas near the regular reservation, the new corporals, sergeants, lieutenants and captains are waylaid, stripped of their prestige and clothing to the last thread, then smeared with shoe blacking, pomade, stove polish, glue tooth paste and engine grease and finally rolled in gravel. Mr. Sprague, captain-elect of the 1928 football team, a 200-pounder of rising six feet, was appointed cadet sergeant last July 4. He and Lou Hammack, a regular guard on the team and heavy-weight wrestler on the last Olympic squad, were promoted together, and they planned to stand or succeed together in the melee. As the rush closed in they went back to back and fought off the charge until both were rolled under, stripped, lathered, rubbed with flinty rubble.

"We will probably drag Cagle tonight," Mr. Sprague said. The meal went forward in a distressing din of shouts and clatter of chairs. At the company tables the pink-faced plebes sat stiff as corpses, elbows chaffing their ribs, eyes front and half-closed in a pious droop, chins resting on their high-tape collars, one hand above the level of the board, except when they were cutting their food or serving the milk, water and coffee.

"The hot beverage for this meal is coffee, sir," the plebe coffee corporals yelled in shrill strained voices. They were like ventriloquist dummies, blushing their words above the racket to make themselves heard to the upper classmen at the head of the tables, the table commandants.

"Let's have the coffee, mister," the table commandants yelled back. "Coffee for Mr. Smith, sir," cried the plebes, passing the cups forward, and "coffee for Mr. Jones, sir," until all had been served in order of their rank, before serving themselves.

A table commandant nearby shouted, "Mr. Dohm-John, sound off. How many days?" And a plebe set down his fork and broke into a swift jabber of "so many days to Christmas, so many days to Hundereth night, so many days to this-and-that and so many days to furlough and graduation, sir." Only his lips moved as the count of the days crackled from them, a good-looking kid, with a well-shaped head and a face that would have caused unrest at a high school prom, piping the weird rigmarole in a disembodied monotone.

Iceland came under Norwegian rule in 1262, then came under Danish rule in 1380, and finally became independent in 1918.
