Costello Indicted By Jury

VOL. 50-NO. 88

NEW YORK—(AP)—Frank Costello, named by the Senate Crime Committee as the top man in the nation's underworld, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on a charge of contempt of the Senate.

Gambler Joe Adonis (Joseph and confessed bookmaker Frank Erickson were indicted on the same charge.

The indictments stemmed from their refusal to answer questions the at the widely - publicized crime bill. committee hearings in New York last March.

Costello was indicted on nine counts, Adonis 16, and Erick-

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. -(P)-A West Virginia University graduate student says research he conducted proved false a relief that industrial waste such as fly ash might be used successfully as a component of glass.

The study was made by Robert D. Bittle of Ostiland, Md., to meet requirements for a master's degree. He is an employe of the Allegheny Ordnance Works at Frosthurg, Md. "A variation in composition major factor in glass production, makes the industrial use of fly ash discouraging," Bittle says. He recommends, however, a ontinuation of research with particular emphasis on the con-tribution of specific oxides to the properties of glass. Bittle used fly ash from the Morgantown Ordnance Works and a soda lime glass for base material in his

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE-

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 375 at any drugstore.

Generalissimo Chiang's 500,000 men are training for a counter-offensive against the Communist mainland of China.

Peggy Maupin insists she isn't studying Chinese with any idea of settling down to grow up with the country. The study has dual ob-jectives. One is cultural, to enable her to understand better the people and the places of Formosa. The other purpose, more practi-cal, is to be able to ask for such things as hot water without having a room boy fetch the barber. The Chinese language is like that Sometimes Peggy thinks about borrowing from Bob Hope and doing a story "I Should Never Have Left Home." It's a far piece from Texas and the U.S. A., she says, still is the best. But typically tourist, she wouldn't take anything for the trip and the faraway places she has visited. As for taking care of herself in strange and unfamilar places, this is what Peggy says:

"I was stranded in Bangkok and couldn't get any cash. My checks were not 'hot.' They were just the wrong kind. Another time, I got lost in a huge maze of a Chinese military hospital compound where no one spoke English and it took hours and hours to wander out. It has taken me a while to learn to think in terms of many currencies in terms of all the things it takes to go from one place to another. Like having a passport, with visa, to enter Oklahoma or visit Carlsbad Caverns - and then a re-entry visa, police registration (whether you've been guilty of misdemean or or not) and tax clearence, be-fore you can get back into Texas

"I recall arriving in London at a. m. to be told at my hotel by a man who was dressed like royalty — so much gold braid — that I couldn't have a room or bed until noon. I harrangued for three hours, in desperation, he inquired, 'Mad-ame, would you like to have a bawth?' Later I learned he was the 'hall porter,' the general clerk, manager and fixer-upper for that time of day.

"During seven months in Bur-ma, a beautiful country still plagued with internal strife six years after World War II, I made numerous cargo hops to northern Burma, sharing the cabin with every-thing from hot chile peppers to loads of jade.

"I moved with my brother and his family to Indonesia via C-47 household goods, baby and dog, loaded in with a jug of coffee and a box of fried chicken. We found the sandwiches two days after arrival. They were in the baby's bed. "Despite trouble, as we call it, everywhere I've been, I find most of the people like folks at home. They just want a place to live

In today's hand South's spades were good enough for a jump bid, even though support for monds was lacking. When North promptly raised Spades, South was sure he wanted to be in a small slam and had a brief vision of a possible grand slam.
To find out, South bid four no-trump — using the Blackwood Convention. North's response five diamonds showed that he held exactly one ace. (As most players know, a response of five shows no ace, five diamonds shows one ace, five hearts shows two aces, and so on.)

The response told South that he had to lose one trick to an ace. Hence he contented himself with a small slam. Even this took careful play.

West opened the jack of clubs, and South won in his own hand with the ace. The only problem was to limit the loss in hearts to one trick. This could be done if one long diamond could be possible to lead a heart from dumry in the hope that East had the ace. Fortunately for South the diamonds were not too badly di-vided. Declarer first drew two rounds of trumps then cashed the top diamonds and ruffed a diamond. He re-entered dummy with a trump to ruff another

This cleared the suit, setting up dummy's last diamond. Now declarer got to dummy with a club to discard a heart on the established jack of diamonds. This accomplished, South could cheerfully give up one heart linck to the enemy.

Among the also-rans to Norma Smallwood in 1928 was Miss Dallas, Rosebud Blondell. She went on to fame as Joan Blondell, and her suit in 1926 is the first to look almost like a present-day model. But there was still the stripe fad to get through before present-day models could emerge triumphant. Here, in 1927, is the very popular striped top, with belt and solid color trunks. Everybody wore it. Bathing belles in last picture show how the world was divided, in 1928, between the solid color suit and the one with a fancy top. It took a few years, but finally the solid one won

Now's The Time To invest In The Future

Yesterday we pointed out that passage of the airport, road and bridge bonds should be regarded as an investment in the future rather than an added expense to Grav county taxpayers.

We also said the bonds are a form of "industrial life insurance" that will be an added attraction for industry that might want to locate in the area.

Certainly no occupational class of voters can truthfully say they will not be unaffected if the bonds fail and the area's industrial hopes are not greeted with a preponder ance of "yes" votes in Saturday's balloting. Industrial growth should be looked upon as a prime objective by everybody, including farmers, ranchers, retired folks and others. Since all will share in comon prosperity or all suffer the ill effects of economic stagnancy all should agree that the county needs industry.

Gray county has a promising industrial future with its abundant natural resources, but it must successfully compete with other areas that are wooing industry as a means of gaining solid prosperity.

The advisability of approving bonds has been questioned by some voters on the grounds that taxes would be increased. Those who take this stand apparently haven't looked at the issue from all angles and consequently are not approaching the question with proper foresight.

There can be little doubt tha the county needs good roads, bridges and a suitable airport be fore it can present a strong case to industrialists seeking new plant locations. And, if these things are properly done, there can be no doubt but that new industry will come to Gray county.

To those who believe passage of the bond issues would mean increased taxes, let's look at it from the Key To Peace" The American Legion is performing a splendid service in sending out to various newspapers a copy of "The Key to Peace" by Clarence Manion, Professor of Law at Notre Dame University.

Everyone is interested in peace but few people realize what will promote peace. This book does a splendid job in explaining what will help promote peace.

I want to comment and quote from it for a few days.

In his prologue of opening comments Dr. Manion refers to the lecture that Reverend Russell Conwell gave thousands of times on "Acres of Diamonds". It is a very timely comparison because diamonds were on the individ-ual's farm. They were close to him. He shows that peace comes from the ideas within the individual.

Under the heading "Confusion in Our Times" he tells how the American population began to have conflicts and disagreements between regions, races, farmers, merchants, debtors, creditors, soldiers and civilians in all parts of the country. He says however that an effective influence was everywhere at work dissolving the solidarity of opposing factions. Then he writes:

"Gradually it became evident that in and by the American Revo-lution the United States had achieved something far more important than mere independence. The Revolution had brought forth and moved into action on this continent, and social cancer of class-consciousness and group an-tagonism.

"The American Revolution had produced a workable common de-nominator for people of many races, many creeds and widely separated economic circumstances Through this magical and mysterlous force the American Union slowly but surely became 'more perfect As the late Everett Dean Martin said, the Declaration of Independence was the first time in all history that an attempt was made to the ideologies of the Golden Rule and the Sermon on the Mount into practical operation on a big scale. The author, Dr. Manand the late Everett Dean Martin seem to agree on this Then the author comments as follows:

"Today, this traditional American confidence has disappeared. America and Americans have suddenly ceased to be different from other countries and other peoples. We have caught the world-wide contagion of doubt and with doubt has come discord. The good earth of American unity now quakes repeatedly. Wide chasms appear to separate the 'classes,' the 'races' and other self-conscious 'groups of people who now make up the present population of the United

That is exactly what has taken "Nevertheless, the historical fact remains that the matchless Amerrecommendations, namely, that it has worked. It has worked because

Under the chapter "Two Revolutions" he points out very clear-ly the difference between the English or European Revolutions and the American Revolution. . The French and the English simply

"Under the new Authoritarian system 'Liberty, Equality and quickly faded into a hypocritical figure of speech, Liberty was discarded the minute the authority of God, the Author of liberty, was denied. Thereafter the State was supreme and its subjects consequently had no rights beyond those which the State chose to

Then the author explains how the American Declaration differed from the European Revolution. I quote:

"It must be observed that the Declaration states that 'all men are created equal.' This is indeed a very special kind of equality. It is deliberately related to the Cre ator and signifies that in their 'divine' endowments and in their divinely ordained purpose, men are all the same. Thus the life of any man is just as sacred as the life of any other, and each man has exactly the same natural rights and duties as every other person. All persons have a common origin and a common Before their common Creator each has equally great importance. Be ing thus equal before God, they must likewise be equal before Constitution and the laws of the ly condition of men. On the contrary each human being is by nadifferent in his earthly person on earth. The confusion of 'inequality' with 'injustice' is fatal mistake, which. frustrates. many well-intentioned attempts to improve human society. Injustice is vicious and must be fought unreconstruction of roads and ceasingly, but inequality is a natural and inescapable characteristic of the human race."

Baxter's Views BY DAVID BAXTER

MORALITY Talk about morality, All of the Dowager's clubs and Pure-i-Drivow leagues demand an end to sex crimes, emasculation of perverts and general pretext or none at all. Photos, news pictures, comics and every other means of propaganda glorify the nude female and suggestion of sex allure. Editors of newspapers are bombarded with suggestive photos. The plunging neckline, displaying much of the anatomy properly reserved for babies but much admired by full-grown men also, is about the only excuse for the "Girls, girls, girls," I remarked, as city editor Harvey of the Santa Ana Register dumped out a motley array of female photos from an envelope. "One would suppose folks have just discovered they were created male and female."

"Now Baxter," Harvey admonished, "just because you're too old and decrepit to enjoy them is no reason to dash cold water upon the young man's pastime."

All right, all right, have it your own way, but I still say it's no wonder we have adults and adultresses whinnying and neighing after each other all over the country when such brain-teasers and ucements are constantly dished out to them.

I know one editor who was mad as hops because a married man who meddled with some teen-age girls got off with a light sentence. Let 'em off easy so they con em off easy so they can get out and do it all over. Yet the editor's own paper does its share to fire the masculine imagination by constantly glorifying the nearlynaked beauty. Just what does he expect? I am actually coming to believe that there is a close affinity between personal morality and political and economic morality and that if a man is immoral in some points he is just as likely to be in others. Not that I'm posing as a purveyor of morality. Far from it. My old nature is as sinful as that of all other humans, but at least it is nothing to be proud of, to glory in or to make into a popular sport. A man can well uphold Godly moral standards and point to those commandments as the very highest goal to be simed at as far as everyday living is concerned. It is far better than to make an idol, an ideal a fashion of spiritintellectual' and 'physical' de-

Farouk And Bride 'Slumming' Over Europe On Honeymoon

King Farouk and his bride, Narriman, are slumming around Europe on a $1,500,000 railroad train, accompanied by more Egyptians than could have been accommodated on Cleopatra's barge.

For breakfast they have ear drum of partridge under bell, for lunch iris of plover's eye in aspic, and for dinner they rough it with bird of paradise with a sauce based on $100 bills mixed with pounds sterling. A little mayonnaise, of course.

They push a bell and 122 flunkeys stand at attention, salute, salami (if that's the word), and say, "Your majesty, what are your

Brand new to Hollywood is an Italian gal who will dance the hula in her first movie role.

If that sounds incohgruous, so does her English. It's good, but it frequently lapses into such Americanisms as "hot stuff" and "that's the keed."

According to the accepted Hollywood fable, she should have gone on to become a star. But she didn't. She went on studying to be a teacher, came to this country on a vacation this summer. Her path led to Hollywood for a visit with some of the folks she met on the Ratoff picture, and she'd been in town only a few days when a talent fided. "After I saw the peecture.
