UN, Reds Remain Blocked

U.N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea —(AP)— Allied and Red negotiators bargained more than three hours in sultry Kaesong today, but made no progress toward ending the shooting in Korea.

Instead, they agreed that the war would continue while they talk. As they reached this understanding allied warplanes smashed at the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang in one of the most determined air assaults of the war.

The negotiators remained deadlocked on the problem of a buffer zone to separate the opposing armies if and when a cease-fire agreement is reached.

A UN spokesman said: "The final solution is hoped for. That doesn't necessarily mean it is in the immediate offing."

They will tackle the same thorny question when their 15th session opens tomorrow at 11 a. m. (7 p. m. Monday, CST).

The United Nations committee said Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist delegate, "stated it was also his definite understanding that hostilities would continue during the current armistice sessions."

Nam was replying to an earlier "clarifying" statement by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior UN delegate.

It was the first official hint of any prior misunderstanding on this point.

In today's session, an eyewitness said, Joy used a slightly different approach "to penetrate what might be a language barrier. It might have some clarifying effects."

Joy gave a detailed analysis of the allied and Communist proposals for a military dividing line across Korea.

The Reds want a zone 12-15 miles wide along the 38th Parallel, a war-political boundary between North and South Korea.

The allies want a 20-mile-wide zone along the present battle lines. Most of these lines are inside Red Korea, on the average about 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Joy asked the Reds for comment on the UN proposals "so that the final solution to this item may reflect our mutual views."

The Red reply took one hour and one minute and left the situation just where it was before.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, UN briefing officer who attends the sessions, said Nam merely repeated what he has said before, the same words, but in different order.

UN Planes Blast Reds

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea —(AP)— U. S. planes blasted the North Korean capital of Pyongyang through rain today in one of the most determined air assaults of the Korean war.

The Fifth Air Force said the attack was pushed home with vigor. Two Marine Corsairs collided in the rain clouds and were lost.

Fires and explosions in the Pyongyang area sent up smoke columns that merged with rain clouds and prevented accurate assessment of damage.

Indifference Seems Keynote To Results Of Pampa Bond Election

Indifference seemed to be the answer in the outcome of Saturday's election, according to a poll of city and rural voters conducted today by The Pampa Daily News.

Those called were asked if they voted, their opinion of the results and any explanation of why the bonds were defeated and the tax designed to pay for them indirectly, was passed.

The number of those forgetting to vote a high. A few regretted they had failed to study the issues in detail.

In one city group of six called, only one had voted. The other five, however, favored all issues.

Those who did not vote were surprised that only the tax assumption passed. Although one woman said she had voted, she did not know the outcome and was too busy to discuss the matter when called.

One man reasoned that in spite of the fact he doesn't own property in Pampa, he might be planning to purchase property.

The outcome of this election is discouraging to future property owners — not just industry, but people who want homes in Pampa," he said.

Indifference was prominent in the answers of most persons — vacations, business, and lack of interest were the excuses.

Disappointment was registered by many of those who answered the poll. Many of these were long-time residents of Pampa.

"We've lived here 24 years and feel the best for Pampa is not always enough. I was disappointed at the outcome," was the opinion of John D. Cooper.

"A terrible situation exists when people vote to raise money to build an airport and then vote against having an airport," commented one voter. "If the rest of the nation is as unstable in thought as Pampa seems to be, it's frightening."

Except for persons who were on vacation or out of town for the bond issue vote, there were no misunderstandings about what the election was for.

Majority of the persons called who lived in town seemed to have been in favor of the airport but those who lived out of town, were against it.

The final totals gave the road and bridges a vote of 850 for to 472 against. This was 298 votes under the two-thirds majority needed to pass it. The airport lost by a vote of 867 for to 740 against, defeated by 73 votes. The tax assumption won by 783 for to 646 against, a margin of 107.

Only Four Election Boxes Favored Bonds For Airport

Of the county's 18 voting precincts, only four of them — all city boxes — gave the $168,700 airport bond issue a favorable vote Saturday.

The same boxes, plus four others, gave the roads and bridges a favorable vote but the final total was not enough for the necessary two-thirds majority.

However, only six of the 18 boxes favored the tax assumption, but it was by majorities strong enough to overcome the other 12.

Following is a precinct by precinct breakdown showing how the boxes voted on the $200,000 road and bridge issue; the $168,700 airport issue; and the 16 cent tax assumption issue in that order:

1 — Leofers, 38 for, 32 against; 11 for, 63 against; 23 for, 42 against.

2 — Baker School, 53 for, 63 against; 43 for, 68 against; 43 for, 63 against.

3 — Grandview School, 8 for, 57 against; 0 for, 63 against; 5 for, 58 against.

Counsel Hints New Hearing For McGee

A move to gain a last minute delay in the execution of Richard W. McGee, former Pampa, who faces death in the next 80 hours in the electric chair for the slaying of a Lubbock groceryman, was hinted by his head defense counsel, Col. E. A. Simpson of Amarillo.

However, no action was apparently contemplated today by the state board of pardons to halt the scheduled Aug. 2 execution.

Simpson said he would be in Lubbock today to confer with other defense counsel members and decide what to do.

Board chairman Lyle C. Harris said yesterday that "no action means negative action and it takes a majority of two board members to make a recommendation."

Questioned on the possibility of an affidavit being filed in court in Lubbock where McGee was convicted, stating that two qualified doctors now considered McGee insane, Simpson admitted that such a procedure was possible but would not confirm he planned such action.

He explained that such a procedure if granted by the court could bring a delay of execution for a sanity trial.

Taft Sets Housecleaning In Washington As Aim For '52

PLYMOUTH, Mass. —(AP)— U.S. Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-Ohio) has set a complete housecleaning in Washington as a 1952 GOP election aim and says his hat will go into the presidential ring if the Republican Party says the word.

Taft told newsmen he'll run for the GOP nomination "if the majority of the Republicans want it." But he said he may not make his decision until next January.

Mentioned by political observers as a prime GOP candidate, the Ohio senator may, in the opinion of some of them, be waiting for a "Draft Taft" move.

These observers pointed out that just before his arrival for an address at Plymouth Rock yesterday Taft wired a Plymouth newspaper that he didn't intend to announce his candidacy in Plymouth "anywhere else."

Asked about that wire, Taft smiled but did not comment.

In his address to a crowd of 8,000 the veteran GOP leader said:

"It is hopeless to expect honesty and integrity in the Washington government... without a complete housecleaning and the election and selection of officials with much the same uncompromising honesty as the Pilgrims brought to Massachusetts."

On foreign affairs, Taft said that the "one danger facing America is that we undertake more than our capacity," and he added:

"I believe that control of the (See TAFT SETS, Page 2)

President Is Disappointed In New Bill

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Final congressional approval of the compromise economic controls bill appeared certain today. And President Truman was expected to sign it even if he doesn't like it.

If it isn't signed into law by tomorrow midnight all existing government controls over such things as wages, prices, and rents will end.

House leaders expected no difficulty in clearing the measure, passed last week by the Senate, in time for the President to give it brief study before the present law expires.

Lack of time, if nothing else, makes a veto practically out of the question, they said.

"This is better than nothing at all," commented Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking Committee. "I don't think the President will like it but he's got to sign it."

However, administration leaders wouldn't be surprised if the President couples with his approval a sharp rebuke to Congress for having refused to give him the broad powers he requested — powers which many Republicans claimed would lead to socialism.

Particularly disappointing to the President, they said privately, was refusal of Congress to permit more effective price rollbacks and to allow the imposition of livestock slaughtering quotas while at the same time allowing rent increases and relaxing curbs on consumer credit.

Defense Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson told a Detroit audience last Saturday that "the biggest headache of all and one for which there is no sure cure — is the danger of runaway inflation."

He said the U. S. must react to economic controls now "because you simply cannot take some $150,000,000 out of our economy for defense purposes without creating terrific inflationary strains."

He urged Americans to use their traditional impatience "to see that war production gets rolling and that inflation is curbed." Then, he added, "we will have a platform of impressive strength" for world peace.

Rep. Keating of New York, Republican, announced he plans to introduce a separate bill to give the administration power to set slaughtering quotas. Both houses specifically refused to do this in the controls bill.

Mr. Truman also may request Congress to amend some of the other power he needs him to see the prospect of Congress granting them this is dim.

"But it may be a disaster next year," Spence newsmen. "The voice of consumers may be repressed, then, for the bill, this bill isn't going to give the consumer any good ones who will benefit from bill are the organized interests."

Some Republicans challenge Spence's contention that the war of the continuing public will descend on Congress as a result of the bill. They concurred generally in the declaration of Rep. Hallock of Indiana, assistant Republican leader.

Housewives And Taxmen Firm In Battle At Marshall

MARSHALL —(AP)— Housewives and tax authorities are standing firm in their battle over a refusal to collect social security taxes from servants.

Notice of U. S. warrants for seizure of personal property was given a number of housewives Saturday. So far none of the housewives has acted to pay the first quarter penalty for failure to collect the taxes.

Just how many housewives are involved Eliza Campbell, Jr., Dallas, collector of internal revenue for North Texas, won't say.

Originally 18 women sent a letter of protest to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. Taxes on the 18 range from $1.95 to $14 with an average of $3 and penalties for non-payment of the first quarter average 12 cents apiece.

The housewives in their letter to Snyder contended the tax law is unconstitutional in attempting "to force either employees or employer to invest in insurance against their will."

John P. Armistead, treasury department employe at Yellowview, Texas, said the warrants were being held to give the women a last-minute chance to make the penalty payment.

Appropriations Work Begins

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Congress began today work on another stop-gap bill to keep the government in business after tomorrow midnight.

The House Appropriations Committee met in special session (10:30 a.m. EST) to draft a measure designed to finance every federal agency for 60 more days starting Aug. 1. The agencies have been operating this month on an emergency basis outlined by Congress when the new fiscal year started July 1 without a single appropriation bill on the President's desk.

The proposed length of the new stop-gap measure, 60 days, was an indication that congressional leaders are not too optimistic over an early break in the congressional deadlock on money bills.

The measure was carded for House passage just as soon as the appropriations committee sends it to the floor. It would then go to the Senate.

The new measure would provide authority for the government to spend during the next two months at a rate based on general appropriations amounts voted by either the Senate or the House in bills passed but still hung up on Capitol Hill.

The earlier stop-gap plan made the same allowance. The amounts spent will be charged against appropriations eventually approved for the present fiscal year.

Marshall Warns Enemy Arms Increasing Danger Of War

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Defense Marshall has warned Congress that "the enemy's buildup" is increasing the danger of all-out war.

Marshall left no doubt he was referring to Russia as the enemy and to reported Communist build-up of troops and supplies in Korea and elsewhere.

The defense secretary testified before a closed meeting of the House Appropriations Committee which released part of the testimony today but deleted other portions for security reasons. The committee is considering the administration's $80,000,000 military budget proposal for the year which started July 1, 1951.

Arsenal Head Is Suspended

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The commanding general of the Detroit Tank Arsenal has been fired from his command and reprimanded for accepting favors from contracting companies.

An Army announcement last night said Secretary of the Army Pace had relieved Brig. Gen. David J. Crawford after an inspector general's report showed Crawford had "violated" army regulations and had not met the high standards required of an Army officer.

The 54-year-old Crawford, a West Point graduate and veteran of 29 years' Army service, admitted before a congressional (See ARSENAL, Page 2)

Bounties Proposed For Dope Peddlers

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A $500 "bounty of prey bounty" for the capture and conviction of dope peddlers was proposed today by Sen. Ives (R-NY) and Rep. Latham (R-NY).

They had identical bills ready for the House and Senate which would pay the bounty or reward to anyone except a law enforcement officer who furnishes information leading to the arrest and conviction of a seller of illegal narcotics.

Latham said bounties have worked well throughout American history in ridding communities of wolves, coyotes, snakes and other beasts of prey. He placed dope peddlers in the same category.

That a special table for rodeo ticket sales has been set up in the local chamber of commerce office, and there are still lots of good reserved seats left for the rodeo to be held here Aug. 7-11.

Foreign Aid Talks To Be Held Before Joint Committee

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senators contending the proposed $5,500,000,000 foreign aid program is primarily a military, rather than a foreign relations matter, won a point today.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee bowed to demands from the armed services committee and agreed to let the latter group act jointly with it on the measure.

The decision was taken over the opposition of Chairman Connally of the foreign relations group who reportedly voiced protests in salty language at a closed meeting.

More than a tiff over senatorial prerogatives is involved. A move is under way to deny Secretary of State Acheson the policy direction over how the $5,500,000,000 is distributed.

Some senators contend military officials, rather than Acheson, should have the top authority over distribution of arms aid.

Joining in the drive, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said today he believes military men ought to have the final word in the dispatch of weapons to North Atlantic defense partners.

Byrd said he was considering offering an amendment to set up a special agency to handle the program.

Izzy Has Home Week At Park — Boys Devise Formula For Geysers

SALT LAKE CITY — Old home week at Yellowstone or that a week seemed like anyway. Yesterday, Thursday, we saw some Pampa people, saw a Pampa car, saw some folks from Amarillo, and tried to talk to a ranger who knew a doctor in Pampa.

Herman, Isabe and I were going from Mammoth Hot Springs at the northern end of Yellowstone down to the south entrance of the park, when we passed a couple of cars that had Pampa license plates on them. We blew our horn and stopped. The other two cars also stopped and came back to where Izzy was parked.

In one car were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lockhart of Laketon and in the other car was the Lockhart's son, Charles, and Carol Burns. The parent Lockharts were on their vacation to Mountain Home, Idaho, where Charles is stationed with the Air Force. There an expedition was formed with the elder Lockharts, Charles and Miss Burns, who resided in Mountain Home, and the whole bunch were out seeing some of the country.

While talking with the Lockharts, we found they had been reading our articles in the paper before they left. Golly, and to think we've got readers! Herman and I are going to have to buy some new hats; bigger ones to fit our heads.

Little Hope Seen For Relief From High Temperatures

Little hope of cooler temperatures is promised by the Weather Bureau, according to the Associated Press.

High temperature here yesterday was 94 with little breeze and the low last night was 71, unusually warm for Panhandle nights.

No rain is expected in the next few days, the bureau said, except for the upper Gulf coast today.

Highest temperature yesterday was at Del Rio — 107. Galveston was low with 82.

Houston had 37 of an inch of rain yesterday and Galveston, 2.81.

'Pappy' Promises Help To God

DALLAS —(AP)— W. Lee O'Daniel, the one-time flour salesman who became governor and senator, told radio listeners last night he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States.

O'Daniel spoke on a paid program. He also offered to sell listeners insurance policies in his new life insurance company and to rent them space in two apartment houses he owns here.

"Only God can save this nation," O'Daniel said. "I'm willing to help Him."

O'Daniel said if he were elected President his first move would be to send a postcard to the King of England telling his "majesty that the United States is just out of the money lending business."

O'Daniel said his second move would be to call in all cabinet officers and order them to slash their payrolls 50 percent.

HOME WEEK

those people don't appreciate Izzy so much, because Izzy just flat don't like bears! In fact, she rather despises them. As you might know, Tuesday night a big black bear tore the grub box off of Izzy and in the process kind of banged Izzy around. Wednesday night was little better but not much. The bears didn't bother Izzy but they sure played heck with Herman's and my night of blissful slumber.

All Wednesday night a black bear and a brown bear kept taking turns sniffing of our cot. And that don't make for steady nerves either. You have to lay stiff as a board with a blanket over your head while Her Bruin goes over you head and foot with his nose making a racket like a vacuum cleaner. And you are under the cover so you can only guess what he is doing while hoping that he doesn't get hungry and take a hunk out of your leg. Mighty nice feeling!

So now anytime we see a bear on the highway, Izzy heads for him, Herman honks the horn and I beat on the side of the car and yell. The bear usually heads for safer ground where no bright red car will lead at him and no two dumb idiots will honk a horn or beat on the side of a car or yell at him. And Izzy, Herman and I go on with a satisfied smile on our lips.

Herman bought himself a fish-rod and reel in Denver and had only used it once until yesterday morning. That once was in Glacier National Park where he managed to hook and land an enormous one-five ounce rainbow trout. He tried his luck again yesterday but I don't think he was any too pleased with himself, me or the fish.

We came to a swell little river that looked like it had a million trout in it, so we stopped. Herman got his tackle out and started fishing. I let him fish for about a half hour and then I put on my bathing suit, got a bar of soap, and went in to the stream. For some reason or another, Herman got mad. He went up stream a little ways from where I was taking a bath in that 50 degrees below water. But he still didn't catch anything, by this time he was kinda peeved so he threw down his rod and reel and jumped to the water with all his clothes on. It took him two seconds to jump in but only one-hundredth of a second jump out again. I TRIED to tell him it was cold. He cooled off anyway.

Herman and I devised a magnificent formula for enjoying (?) geysers without leaving home. Our recipe calls for one sack, a dozen rotten eggs, one water pistol and one bucket of water. The rest is very simple and the desired effect is created by your imagination along with the help of our formula.

On with the formula, take a dozen rotten eggs and break them into the sack. It is better if the eggs are one year old and then, take the water pistol and fill it up from the bucket of water. And the last simple easy step is to take the sack and hold it over your nose. While taking a deep breath, point the water pistol up and pull the trigger causing a stream of water to shoot up into the air.

At this point the imagination must go to work. Pretend there are trees all around you and that the stream of water is two hundred feet high and that the smell of the eggs is the smell of the steam that rises from a geyser. This is the Watkins-Williams formula for enjoying geysers without leaving home.

No fooling though, the color of the pools and the formation of the cones of the geysers make up for the smell a hundred times over. That water is the clearest and the most beautifully colored of any I have ever seen. It appears as if highly polished glass has been placed into the ground and colored rocks placed under it.

Herman and I spent last night driving. And did we drive! We left out of Mammoth Springs at noon Thursday, and got into Salt Lake City at 8 Friday morning, which is this morning. And we stopped and slept for three hours and killed a lot of time going through Yellowstone. We don't recommend this type of travel though. It is kind of hard on you.

Coming through Moose, Wyoming, we stopped at a chuck wagon dinner place there. It is a place where you pay your money then take a plate and go down along a fire pit and help yourself to all the potatoes, gravy, beans, beef, salad and coffee you can hold. Yesir, you can have all you want to eat with only one catch to it. That is the price. And what a price! TWO DOLLARS! That's a lot of money to a couple of broke fellows from Texas. But we fooled 'em. We came prepared. We had eaten breakfast at about 6 in the morning and had had a couple of bowls of cereal apiece. And that was all we had had. We stopped at the chuck wagon place at six in the afternoon; 10 hours since our last meal. The guy in charge looked sort of mad when we went back for our fourth plate-ful of food.

Isabel has gone back to her old standby again. Oil! We are starting on our third case of oil. It is getting so that every time we stop we can look back and see a solid stream of oil that has leaked out of the motor. Hope the sieve lasts until we get home.

And we are on our way there now. We have $22.30 between us and its just about 1285 miles home. Therefore we have about two cents a mile to spend on the way home. Anything happens to Izzy, we are goners. Because if it took too much to fix Izzy! Herman and I would have to miss a few meals. And we have a strange habit of eating. Brrr, that's a horrible thought! Nothing is gonna happen to Izzy though (we keep telling ourselves).

(Editors note: Bears, leaking oil and lack of money didn't stop the travelers from making it home. They arrived in Pampa early Sunday morning.)

Brother Of Pampan Succumbs In Dallas

Message was received Saturday by Mrs. F. E. Leech, 412 E. Kingsmill, of the death of her brother, H. W. Kelly of Dallas. Mr. Kelly underwent surgery this month and was sent home, but was returned to the hospital Saturday and died suddenly. He was retired several years ago after 40 years employment by the city of Dallas. He has visited his sister here several times with his wife and daughter.

Two Men Arrested For Drunken Driving

Two local men, picked up Saturday night by Highway Patrolmen from the Pampa sub-station, were to appear in county court today on charges of driving while intoxicated. A Pampa man involved in an accident early today was to appear in court this morning on the same charge. He was arrested by local police following the accident.

man Richards (D-S.C.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee last Saturday, noting that his estimates had been questioned and saying that the 400,000 is correct — 340,000 ground forces and 80,000 air force personnel. Marshall explained in his letter the figure includes supply and supporting troops as well as combat units. The Senate has approved the dispatch of six U. S. divisions to Europe to be used in the defense of western Europe. The understanding at the time was that additional separate units, such as anti-aircraft groups, also would be sent. The six divisions at full strength would number about 108,000 men. Marshall recalled that "when publican leader, that the bill will be "adequate if properly administered." Senator Moody (D-Mitch) last night quoted Wilson as saying the new bill is "unenforceable." Moody said Wilson expressed this view particularly on a section of the bill which permits cost increases up to July 28 to be added to prices.

Senator Bennett (R - Utah) countered that it would be "impossible" to operate a business without such a provision. The two senators debated controls on a television program (NBC's American Forum of the Air).

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) joined in the discussion with an assertion at Plymouth, Mass., that American liberty is threatened by "the advocates of totalitarian control and socialism at home."

At the same Republican rally, Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House minority leader, said, "we think it is about time somebody slapped a few controls on government and took a few off the American people."

And Senator Martin (R - Pa) said in a radio speech that if Congress had given Mr. Truman all the powers he has asked since he entered the White House "the United States would be bankrupt, under a form of government patterned after European socialism."

Rep. Spence, on the other hand, complained that the compromise bill, far short of what the President asked to cope with Congress discussed the six divisions, there were already in Europe some 100,000 military personnel.

Appearing before the House Appropriations Committee, Marshall was asked by Rep. Mahon (D-Texas) whether the likelihood of all-out war must still be considered.

Two Arrested In Accident

An accident at 12:30 a. m. today resulted in two arrests and considerable damage to the cars involved, according to police who investigated the mishap on E. Francis.

Involved were Alva Clinton Cox, 903 E. Francis, and Clarence Faren McGinnis, 1437 E. Francis. Cox was given a ticket for falling to grant right of way, and McGinnis was to appear in county court today on charges of driving while intoxicated.

The two cars collided, police said, as Cox backed from his driveway and McGinnis drove east on Francis. About $200 in damages was reported on the McGinnis car, and $125 on Cox's car. McGinnis was reportedly driving without lights. There were no injuries.

Perimeter Heating Method Aids Basementless Houses

An outstanding advance in central heating during the past few years is the "perimeter" warm air heating for basementless houses. Fully tested in thousands of installations over the past two or three years, heating experts claim that houses built on concrete slabs are heated more comfortably and economically by this method, and potential heat troubles are practically eliminated.

Like all warm air systems, the basic principle is to bring cold air from living quarters into contact with hot surfaces of the furnace, where it is heated and then distributed to the rooms through ducts and registers.

The warm air perimeter heating system consists of a warm air furnace equipped with a blower in the center of the house which feeds the heated air into ducts leading to a main duct embedded in the concrete 4 inches from the edge of the slab and extending all around the house. It is this duct around the edge of the slab that is the secret of the system's success, engineers maintain.

Most efficient operation is obtained when the register stacks lead from the perimeter duct and are placed in the exterior walls rather than in interior partitions.

Building Falls Off For Week

Residential building fell off last week when only two of the nine permits granted in the city engineering office were for new homes, and one of these was a duplex.

Of the $34,300 worth of work, residential remodeling held the majority with five permits while two permits for moving buildings into town were granted.

Building permits were issued to:

W. E. Jarvis, 1900 Christine, new residence, $14,350; M. C. Stapleton, 201 Gillespie and 221 E. Kingmill, duplex, $11,000; J. W. Alexander, 1029 E. Twiford, remodeling, $3,500; Mrs. George E. Houston, remodeling, $1,000; Paul E. Chambers, 1000 W. Wilks, remodeling, $900; J. M. Virdin, 713 N. Wells, $700; Parthina Ross, 513 Harlem, remodeling, $150; Alpha Smith, 738 E. Campbell, moving in residence, $250, and moving in garage, $200.

Paint Skill Delays Penitentiary Sentence

ROCKFORD, Ill. — (AP) — A convict won another delay from Circuit Judge William E. Dushoff in a habeas corpus petition to serve his sentence in the Winnebago County jail instead of the Joliet penitentiary, all because he's handy with a paint brush.

His attorney told the court the man was "doing a good job of rehabilitation" in the county jail. "He does good work with a paint brush," the attorney said.

"It's a strange request," Judge Dushoff commented. "I'll take it under advisement at least until the painting is done."

Refuses Suit For Cattle Killed By Train

MOBILE, Ala. — (AP) — W. T. Fulton, Jr., admitted that it was his livestock's own fault for becoming dead and he wouldn't claim otherwise.

Fulton wrote "a Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad: 'It seems that two of my cows got out of their confines and tried to force one of your freight trains off its beaten track. My cows were definitely out of order and therefore you may consider the matter unconditionally closed.'"

General Claims Agent Fred L. Johnson found Fulton's letter quite "refreshing" and with good reason. He okayed $50,000 in livestock claims last year.

Housing Boom Called Path To Socialism

The start of 42,300 socialized public housing units in June is evidence of a dangerous trend in this country, warned Frank W. Cortright, Executive Vice President of the National Association of Home Builders.

Cortright said that 42,300 homes built by the government totaled approximately one-half the volume of defense and defense related housing started during the same month by private enterprise.

Commenting on the Bureau of Labor Statistics announcement that 130,000 housing units were started in June, of which 42,300 were public housing and only 87,700 were privately built for rent and sale, the NAHB spokesman suggested that the Congress should eliminate all further construction of public housing during the emergency period.

"The private home building industry has been cut 40 percent by federal regulations and has patriotically accepted this reduction. However, it is unwilling to see public housing move up to more than ten times its monthly volume in the next, when critical shortages in steel, copper and aluminum are seriously limiting private building necessary to the war effort."

"It is tragic that the number of new homes and apartments under construction has fallen less than the volume started in May. Housing starts are usually high in June because of good building weather. However, this year, due to Regulation X, mortgage market problems and various federal restrictions, the building of homes for sale by the private builder is on the down-grade."

"At a time when taxpayers are staggering under the heaviest tax burden in history," Cortright added, "it is highly improper that funds should be added to this fund for socialized public housing which does not serve the defense worker's need."

Cortright said the vast increase in public housing starts come at a time when public housing has been discredited in many high places. At a recent meeting in Washington of the National Association of Housing Officials, a spokesman for the American Institute of Architects charged that architects commissioned to design public housing projects had been asked to kick back part of their fees to political organizations in their respective communities.

"Throughout the nation, generally persons earning $10,000 annually cannot get into public housing projects because they don't make enough money. Yet the public thinks this is the person for whom public housing has been erected," Cortright said.

"Since public housing is such a controversial issue in every city in which these tax-subsidized units are erected, the only democratic process is to supply the electorate with the facts concerning the project and put the issue to the vote at a local referendum."

"In any case, the private home builder, if given access to materials, manpower and financing, can erect housing much more efficiently and at less cost than can the Government and can at the same time yield wealth and taxes to support our defense effort."

"It is hoped that Congress will recognize the seriousness of the housing problem and will take measures to postpone construction of further socialized public housing projects until the threat of inflation is over."

Good Guess Needed To Win This Hand

was all South needed to make four hearts.

West opened the king of clubs and shifted to the deuce of diamonds. South won and returned only one round of trumps to dummy's ace. Then he must lead the queen of clubs.

He can be sure that West has at least one more club, for West would have opened the ace of clubs from the doubleton according. If East follows suit, South is safe. He discards a spade, cashes the third diamond to discard another spade and then leads the jack of clubs to get rid of his last spade. By this means only two clubs and one trump can be lost.

If East ruffs the queen of clubs, South over-ruffs, draws the last trump, and then gets to dummy via the jack of trumps. Then he has two discards on a club and a diamond, giving up two clubs and one spade.

Of Fire To Be Avoided Officials List Dangers

No Sparking!

Smoldering bonfires often are stimulated and scattered by sudden gusts of wind to cause destructive fires, so safety officials advise dousing all bonfires with water before leaving them.

The type of fire isn't important. A pile of burning rubbish, a small blaze for roasting marshmallows and wieners or a large camp fire are all hazards to life and property if not properly extinguished, the officials warn.

They recommend keeping a galvanized steel pail filled with water near all bonfires so that immediately after fires have served their purposes, they may be drenched with water.

If no water is available to put out fires, sand or dirt may be used. But do not try to tramp out fires with the feet. Too often the experts point out, people doing this catch fire themselves.

In building fires, special attention is advised for selecting safe sites. The best places are recognized as those which are free of flammable debris and located well away from buildings and foliage.

For maximum safety, keep fires confined by using brick or stone pits; galvanized steel rubbish burners or by circling fires with fireproof materials, such as mounds of sand or rocks.

Air Force Calls Game Due To Dark Runway

RAVENNA, Neb. — (AP) — When an Air Force pilot faced with a forced landing circled Ravenna, he found a brightly lit base-ball field but an unlighted air-port.

The unidentified pilot quickly found a solution. Flying low over the ball park, he dropped his map case with a note attached. It sent spectators speeding from the ball park to the airport where they parked their cars with headlights lighting the runway. Down came the Air Force plane to a perfect landing.

HERE'S HOW to apply sailmaker's technique to repairing awnings.

Sailmakers' Sewing Tricks Mend Torn Canvas, Awnings

By MR. FXK
Distributed by NEA Service

Awnings are fine things for keeping out the summer sun these dog days, but every once in a while the canvas gives way in the middle of the season, and your awnings begin to look like a sailboat caught in a storm.

You can salvage torn awnings for the rest of the season — and maybe longer — if you do the same thing a sailor does in a similar predicament. And just because sewing is normally a woman's job, there's no reason the handy man about the house can't learn to use a needle as nimbly as an old tar.

Don't start rummaging in your wife's sewing basket when the job comes up. Buy yourself a sailmaker's needle, a "palm thimble," a ball of twine (the sailor's name for thread) and a lump of wax. The palm, by the way, is made of soft leather and fits around your right thumb. There's a metal plate sewn into the palm with which you force the heavy needle through canvas. The wax is used to waterproof the twine and make sewing easier.

Snags, small rips, and tears around the grommets or eyes where the awning is lashed down are repaired with a herringbone stitch, which is self-locking. You start by forcing the needle through the cloth, then back up and down through to the underside again. Come up again about opposite the end of the tear and about three-eighths of an inch to one side, cross over on top, go through with the needle again and come up through the tear, bringing the twine over the top of the tear, then down through the tear again, as shown on the diagram.

On grommets or rings, one loop of the stitch goes around the ring.

Long rips and tears call for a patch. First you sew the patch to the canvas using an ordinary flat stitch and keeping the edges of the patch tucked under. Then you sew the awning to the patch, tucking under the edges of the tear to prevent fraying.

In sewing heavy material like canvas, keep an even tension on the twine to avoid wrinkles and bulges. Don't tug at the twine, and don't knot it, either at the beginning or finish ends. Just cut it off about half an inch above the cloth, or pass the twine back through several loops.

The first time you try, you may not wind up with a job as neat as a sailmaker could produce, but you'll have a good sturdy patch that will hold. And Prison Preferable To Communism: Thousands of editorials and newspaper columns have been written of the evils of Communism and its theories of life.

... We hear and read about Communism at every turn. Well, I wonder how people would like to live under the Politburo and "Uncle Joe" Myself.

... like wearing "free world" socks, shoes and belts — and his little things mean so much; how would we act under "Uncle Joe"? Do we want the entire nation to have everything the next guy does?

The American Way

TOO DUMB TO UNDERSTAND BY DEWITT EMERY: In a series of statements and speeches since the outbreak of the "police action" in Korea, President Truman has told us what we should do.

He told consumers to buy what they need. He told business men to cut down and hold down inventories, to increase the efficiency of their operations as much as possible and to conserve manpower.

The President said his proposals call for "patriotism and self-restraint" and advised that if everyone does his part, we can beat inflation, we can secure the defenses of this nation and keep down the cost of living for the average family.

No one can overstate the importance of the President's suggestions, but it seems to me that he, as the head of the executive branch of our government, should see to it that every department, bureau and agency of the government puts his suggestions into effect.

Does this indicate that the President is following the advice he gave the American people on combating inflation, a conserving manpower, on fast, efficient working hours or is it a case of "You do as I say, not as I do"? Or is it a continuing application of the Hopkins formula.

Better Jobs

By R. C. HOILES: The Communist Idea Of Justice

I want to comment further on the article in the Communist paper The People's Daily World. It protests against the conviction of 11 Communist leaders of attempting to overthrow the government.

They think they have the defenders of the American way of life or of free enterprise in an embarrassing position by asking some questions. The man who believes in the spirit of the Declaration of Independence, which is about the sacred thing as the Golden Rule, the Commandments, cannot be embarrassed by any question.

They make this statement: "The government and Supreme Court protest they are saving America from the Communists! Is it the Communists who raise the price of milk and meat—or is it the profiteers?"

The answer to that is that the Communist or the man who do not respect the equal rights of every individual to pursue happiness are the ones who raise the price of milk and meat. They are not profiteers. It would be very difficult for any Communist to define a "profiteer".

Then they ask: "Is it the Communists who yell for war and the drafting of our boys to die overseas—or is it the men who get the juicy war contracts?"

Every Communist Likes to Pose: That is an old question. Is it the Communists who yell for war, because that is what Communism is a form of civil war. They champion the right to use the state to take the fruits of men's labor.

Then they ask: "Is it the Communist who raise rents? Who rob the Negro people of their rights? Who incite anti-Semitism and violence?" They answer this by saying: "No, it is the capitalist who are going to 'save the U. S. from Communism' who do these things."

It will! It will because the Communists and Socialists not only prevent the peace and socialism that are parasitic on society and thus leave less for the workers who produce the wealth.

The Communist newspaper goes on to brag about the "rights" of our Constitution and "trying to shove us into war". But that is exactly what the Communists are trying to do. The men who believe in free enterprise and the Declaration of Independence and the Golden Rule and the Commandments are not trying to shove us into war. They are trying to keep us from being enslaved. The Declaration of Independence and these great moral guides do not prohibit a man from using force to stop Communists or Socialists, or any other group of individuals, from invading our territory and getting the fruits of other men's labor.

Then the paper makes this false statement: "Neither prison nor prosecution can abolish the noble ideas of the Communist men and women." They would have a very difficult time to define noble idea. They use themselves as a standard of noble idea and wrong.

One wonders who finances the People's Daily World. It has no advertising and it is thrown promiscuously at anyone who will read it. No Communist would dare of course to agree to answer questions as he would before a court and set down a standard to determine whether he is wrong and what a noble idea really is.

The Department of Defense doesn't seem to have taken the President's advice very seriously. Here are a few examples which will show why I make that statement.

Since the start of the Korean campaign, with less than two million men under arms, the Army has purchased 68,000,000 can openers. During the nine months ended March 31, 1951, the quartermaster corps bought 1,917,000 pounds of black pepper. That is a new weapon which is used by sneaking up on the Reds and throwing it in their eyes.

Baxter's Views

By DAVID BAXTER: UNION NOW

In introducing his resolution to "explore" the possibilities of turning the U.N. into a super government, Kefauver has simply polished up and magnified Clarence Streit's and where they are told.

As I have shown in another article, Kefauver is impatient with the present rather loose Atlantic military and economic houses. He wants this authority narrowed down to a centralized over-all control like Russia has. I have no doubt the Pentagon generals would like the idea, as would our economic planners. I can almost hear Bernard Baruch giving three loud cheers for the Kefauver plan and total mobilization of every man, woman and child to work when they are told, at what they are told and where they are told.

"Should the union be actually started," the senator says, "the west will feel for the first time that it is a unit; there will no longer be doubts of one man or a whose support in times of peril. The whole community will be rejuvenated supremely confident of its power to maintain its own way of life. The Soviet would be far less likely to risk war for she would know that she would have to take on the whole Union if she did."

Undoubtedly the Soviet would not go to war with Kefauver's union. She would need to since the union itself would be sufficiently sovietized and regimented that all the Russian soviet would need Red idea, collectivism versus individual liberty. The more central and bigger government you have—the more control over the lives of the people—the less personal independence you have. You can't be truly free and under a dictatorship, whether it be Communist or otherwise, at one and the same time.

Listen to this statement by Kefauver: "The delegates to the federal convention will have to work out many problems by compromise but I believe that the union would be largely patterned after our own. (HE BELIEVES.) What a shaky foundation to throw away our sovereignty and join a world government on. The union should have limited powers. I think, dealing only with those affairs which concern the welfare of the uniting peoples as a whole."

Get that. He wants his super government to have "limited powers" and then says those powers should concern the welfare of all the people. Since almost everything government does is done in the name of the "general welfare" and is so in substance as to cover every citizen's life from the cradle to the grave.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER: WASHINGTON — President Truman has suddenly lost whatever enthusiasm he may have entertained for the nomination of General "Ike" Eisenhower as a Democratic candidate for President.

The definite emergence of the military hero as a Republican entry under the sponsorship of Harry Darby of Kansas, Senator Duff of Pennsylvania and Governor Dewey of New York has had an influence on White House thinking.

Eisenhower promoters, as well as even more personal go-between in the negotiations, have also emphasized that the absent head of Columbia University disapproves of many Fair Deal reforms on the domestic side.

In other words, they have talked "Ike" out of the Missouriian's last political testament, assuming that he might have been mentioned there.

Mr. Truman has even more practical reasons for abandoning any sudden and last-minute Eisenhower-for-President strategy insofar as it would affect the Democratic ticket. And nobody ever accused the politician, no matter what else they might say of him.

The President figures that further publicity about his pro-Eisenhower attitude will only build up the man who may be his Republican rival next year. Should Mr. Truman decide to run again in the absence of a substitute, it will be to his advantage that the American people look upon "Ike" as a soldier—the more soldierly, the better—rather than an administrator and executive, indeed, this would be a prominent feature of Democratic publicity and propaganda. If the 1952 lineup should be Truman versus Eisenhower.

Personally, Mr. Truman and the Boyle faction hope that Senator Taft will be the GOP nominee. The President figures that he can defeat the Ohio Senator. And so violently does he dis-then that Pearson had employed David Karr as an "operative" although Karr had worked on the Daily Worker in New York, but it was not known then, nor was it known until a short time ago, that Pearson also employed for about three years an outright Communist named Andrew Older, who died in 1947 without being exposed. Pearson formerly denied that he used Communists for errands in the government maze where secrets lie close to the surface, but when Older's guilt recently exploded in his face he scrambled to explain that Older was an "unfortunate boy" and that, anyway, he used him only part time. Actually Older was openly named as a Pearson agent when he died, and Pearson's own paper, the Washington Post, said he had worked for Pearson from 1944 until 1947.

The Post, which brazenly plugs the Pearson line, was able to find excuses for the extreme treachery of Alger Hiss, the protégé of Felix Frankfurter who is, in turn, a household god of the Post. But it found no extension for the crime of Parnell Thomas which was, in its fiscal effect on the government, common practice in both houses of Congress for many years.

Little Time To Prepare For Rodeo Says Stewart

As the Top o' Texas Rodeo and Kid Pony Show fever begins to send loyal Pampans into high gear, it compels the populace to take heed. Now is the time to take stock of all the fancy gear required of the faithful citizens during the Rodeo Season.

To the newcomers, to whom the Rodeo is a new experience, it is wise to pass along a bit of free advice. You had better begin outfitting yourself and the family to fit in with the festivities during this most famous event. You will feel more like belonging when you mingle with other "western geared" veterans who appear on the street during Rodeo Week.

If you are interested in following advice offered, you will take a quick trip to Mack's Shoe Shop on South Cuyler. There D. T. Stewart, owner, will gladly outfit you in complete western regalia so that you, too, may be a part of the nineteen-fifty-one Rodeo.

It has been said that Mack's Shoe Shop is in a position to supply you with every item of your rodeo ensemble except the horse. It certainly wouldn't hurt you to try this typical western store and see what they have to offer. A quick run down of the line may suggest something you need. Boots, belts, watch-bands, ladies bags. Check on Mack's.

for silver jewelry to go with bells and bands, decorations in silver for other purposes and all the other little items that will go well for the completion of that finery so necessary to all good Rodeo fans.

Remember, Mack's Shoe Shop is located at 308 South Cuyler, just south of the underpass.

Scientists Battle To Control Animal Diseases, Plagues

The average person who gets no closer to a packing plant or feeding lot farm or ranch has no conception of the problems faced by the packer, grower and processor in the furnishing of meat and meat products for the consumption of Mr. and Mrs. America and their hungry brood. The struggle for perfection in this line of endeavor is one of the greatest unwritten stories in the annals of American food production.

Since no one seems to be specifically frightened by the enumeration of the various plagues that invade the ranks of man, it will be no invading of the rules of good taste to give a few of the names of those influences. The farmer, rancher and food processor fights so successfully in bringing first class products to your table.

Each of the more common problems faced by the aforementioned parties occupied in stock raising have created a story of research — failures and successes — fully as dramatic and important to our lives as the fight against polio, heart disease, or cancer. Unfortunately, we pay little attention to such heroic efforts since attention is drawn completely to the juicy and delicious foods that grace the table of the old homestead.

Just read over a partial list such as Shipping Fever, Hog Cholera, Anthrax, Pink Eye, Blackleg and Malignant Edema. The fights to exterminate Hog Cholera and Anthrax in and of themselves carved a brilliant niche in the annals of veterinary medicine.

America's leading pharmaceutical research projects for the extermination of these threats to the market livestock of the nation. As is always the case the fight was long, difficult and without glory. Scientists in gowns and singly carried on the battle. Now, all of these pestilential attacks and diseases are under control and you are assured of the finest and purest of table products without fear of contamination from any source.

Among the names of the great producers of livestock remedies is the famous Cutter Laboratory of Berkeley, California. Cutter has developed some of the finest of drug products for use of farmer and rancher. Recently, in line with a policy to have the finest in medicines available at all times, Cretney Drug Company began stocking a complete line of Cutter Products. Now the farmer and rancher can obtain Blackleg "S," Trisulfanol, Charbon, BTV, Pelmenal and Hemseptol, to name a few of the remedies, at Cretney's Drug Store. L. G. Close and his employees are well versed in the Cutter line and are able to aid

Need Not Share Homes With Insects With Advent Of Johnson's No-Roach

Our homes are so small compared with the great out-doors that it's a shame to share them with crawling insects. Downright unpleasant, too, and now, with Johnson's NO-ROACH, quite unnecessary. NO-ROACH kills ants, roaches and crawling insects so easily and quickly you will be delighted. It is new, odorless, colorless and stainless, and one application will last for months.

Simply brush this colorless coating across window sills and door sills to kill insects that come into the home from outdoors. Brush around cabinets, sink, and icebox to kill roaches and ants in the kitchen. Insects that walk across this invisible coating slowly become paralyzed and die. Then the coating stays effective for months to kill any other strays that may want to wander in.

No more messy powder sprinkling or all-over spraying when you start controlling crawling insects this modern NO-ROACH way.

Prices are 8 ounces for 89c, pint for 1.69, and a quart for 2.98. On sale at Cretney's Drug Company.

Regular Trips To Cleaners Will Lengthen Life Of Clothing

Any responsible manufacturer of clothing and clothing materials will be quick to subscribe to the statement that regular trips to the dry cleaners with wearing apparel will substantially lengthen the life of the clothing so treated. Too often, the owner of a fine suit or dress will disregard such statements and attribute them to the desire of the manufacturer to aid in the deterioration of the product and the resultant increase in his own sales.

Don't be misled. Such statements are only the mouthings of the uninformed populace with nothing to do but find fault. It is a scientific fact that regular cleaning of good - to - high-grade garments preserves them.

life of the fabric and materially contributes to its wearing qualities.

If an on-the-spot opinion is required, it won't take long to make a journey to 312 South Cuyler and have a little talk with the owner and operator of the Service Cleaners firm. Oliver Jones is the proud possessor of a record of over a stretch of a decade and a half in the business of catering to the cleaning needs of the general public. The man stands as highly qualified to pass on the value of cleaning as you, furthermore, his long period of experience in the dry cleaning trade have made him almost pre-eminent in his chosen field.

Ten years of Oliver Jones' time have been spent in cleaning the clothing of Mr. and Mrs. Pampa. As he isn't acquainted with the needs and desires of cleaning patrons, it is about time the patrons, care in and let him give his expert treatment to their Sunday clothes.

Oliver Jones is one of those rare housewives who indulges in his trade because he sincerely enjoys his type of work. If it weren't for the fact that he must feed a son of around thirteen, who requires a pretty large amount of feeding, and his wife, he'd be inclined to consider the privilege of cleaning your clothes as a large favor to him. Mrs. Jones will verify this every time she has to lure him away from his work long enough to travel home for a quick meal.

Seriously, though, it is difficult to single out any one thing about the Service Cleaners' set-up that is particularly outstanding. The establishment is operated in a highly efficient manner. All of the equipment employed by the firm is of the most modern and up-to-date type. Every effort is expended to guarantee the ultimate in cleaning on each garment submitted for treatment and handling by the Jones firm.

No special dispensation nor order need be obtained to assure the highest quality treatment for every garment. Each article of clothing is given the individual attention of a specialist in the required operation.

Proper Cleaning Aids Problem Skin

This young woman battles her complexion problem with the aid of beauty products created especially for troubled skins. Since thorough cleansing is the keynote of her routine, she opens clogged pores with herbal tea steaming (upper left) and cleanses her face several times daily with a special lotion that combats oiliness (lower left). For important occasions, when extra make-up is in order, she uses a liquid foundation (right) compounded especially for her type skin.

seem to feel they are fighting a lonely battle. Most cosmetics, they decide, were created for those with near-perfect complexions rather than for those harassed by blemishes, enlarged pores or excessive oiliness.

These women can take heart. They have an active ally in one beauty firm which has dedicated itself exclusively to problem skin.

The source of a large number of major skin problems, they maintain, is improper cleansing. Many women fail to understand the workings of their particular skin, and, despite extensive beauty care, may unknowingly fail to fill its needs.

By following cleaning programs actually designed for normal skins, they sometimes inadvertently make matters worse rather than better.

Among glaringly incorrect beauty practices are over-zealous use of creams or make-up foundations. The use of a penetrating cream that further lubricates a skin that is already too oily, and the coating, with heavy make-up foundation, of pores already over-clogged — both these mistakes are common ones.

Although this firm uses a light cream for cosmetic removal, it was compounded for just that and not for the deeper functions of thorough cleansing. For cleansing, they prescribe one of several lotion formulas, their choice depending upon the individual needs of your skin.

It's suggested that this lotion be used four or five times a day — upon arising and before retiring, as a prelude to all make-up freshenings, and any time in between when your skin begins to feel oily or soiled.

Directions are to apply the lotion, with fluffs of cotton, until your face is clean. This may necessitate the use of several fluffs, but the application should be continued until the final pad picks up no soil at all. That is, the firm claims, the test of a truly clean skin.

For opening pores and loosening accumulations of soil and oil, an herbal tea steaming is advised. This, like the lotion, is a simple part of your home treatment. No special equipment is needed.

Simply bring the tea to a boil in an ordinary sauce pan; remove it from the stove and hold your face over the pan as the steam arises. A towel, draped

Teen-Agers Run Gamut Of Vacation Jobs Including Puppy Sitting

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The teen-ager who hasn't yet earned money this summer can have a weekly pay check whose size is limited only by her ingenuity and initiative, judging by the activities of teen-agers across the country.

In a recent survey conducted by the Tide Washing Clinic, more than 145 different ways to earn a summer salary were described by school-going teen-agers in 715 communities. And four out of every five girls who responded to the questions said that, in addition to the extra work, they took part in chores at home.

Baby-sitting, though it counts, isn't the only way for a teen-ager to earn pin money. Most teen-age girls find work in one of two ways: by canvassing established markets or by making an inventory of their own abilities with view to creating a job.

The results of these girls' search through their own talents at every store on Main Street. They sell flowers for the florist, tend corners in the book and record shop, check clothes for the dry cleaner. They pump gas and make sales at the service station, handle calls at the telephone exchange, address envelopes for the printer, take messages for doctors and dentists. Some work in hospitals or libraries, others type, keep books and make out bills for lawyers, banks and commercial offices.

They find opportunities everywhere. They put on pretty uniforms and take over as waitresses in tearooms and luncheonettes. They're cashiers, ushers, candy concessionaires and popcorn-machine operators for the local movie.

On the farm, they're busy, too. Farmers hire part-time hands for garden and harvest work. They're pickers, washers, corn, picking beets and onions, washing, candling and packing eggs for market. Some of the sturdier girls even drive tractors, care for livestock and take produce to town. And all summer long, teen-agers pick berries, gather tomatoes and detassel corn.

There are always truly "odd" jobs for teen-agers with curiosity. One Minnesota miss mended a Mississippi River every day for the United States Department of Interior; an Idaho girl is a church janitor; a third teen-ager collects her pin money by being a part-time interpreter.

And that's not all. A California girl, who likes to take pictures, gets photographic assignments from her neighbors. She makes shots of their gardens, their homes and their children. Other girls put money in their pockets by making use of their own childhood music lessons to give lessons to neighborhood children. And still others play for dances, weddings, concerts and Sundays at church.

Even sports pay off. Girls act as life guards at local swimming pools; they caddy at golf clubs; they even do part-time work at riding stables.

Baby-sitting remains, of course, the Big Business of the teen-agers. As an important offshoot of this business, there's money in dog and cat-sitting. It's profitable in many communities, teen-agers find, where householders prefer not to leave a

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLET

WHAT EVERY YOUNG MAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT WOMEN

Any woman with a son should make sure that he knows this much about women before he marries one:

That a woman's happiness is based on the so-called "little things" such as having her husband treat her with at least as much gallantry as he treats other women, having the things she does for her husband's and children's happiness noticed and commented upon, being told she is pretty — and so on.

That a woman needs to be able to "talk things over" with the man she loves. When a woman complains that she can't "talk" to her husband, she is an unhappy woman.

That a woman needs to feel a part of her husband's career. She will if he talks to her about his work.

That a woman hates having to ask for every cent she spends or to account for everything she buys. Now will that make a woman an economical? It is much more likely to make her dishonest about money matters.

DON'T LET HER DOUBT YOUR LOVE

That a woman is easy to live with only when she is sure that she is loved. If her husband gives her any reason to doubt it, he'll pay in one way or another.

That a woman's loyalty is well worth earning, but that it must be earned.

That a woman will work hard for praise, but won't take criticism from the man she loves.

That a woman — like an elephant — never forgets. Hatred her deeply and the hurt will be with her forever. She may forgive — but she won't forget.

City Manager Says Citizens Make Mistake On Water Rates

City water users are spending a lot of money they could otherwise save if they would check their monthly water consumption during the summer months," City Manager Dick Pepin observed Saturday morning.

He pointed to one private water bill for the current month that already stands at $30 plus, saying it could have been $15 less had the property owner asked to be placed on the lawn rate.

"All people have to do to get on the lawn rate is to file a written request with the water department," Pepin said, adding, "when fall comes they may file another request to be taken off the lawn rate."

However, discount benefits on a lawn rate are not felt until the property owner uses more than 6,500 gallons per month. During the past few weeks of hot, dry weather many property owners, especially those with lawns and air conditioners, have been using 10,000 gallons or more, and have not taken advantage of the lawn rate, Pepin reported.

Pointing to the savings in money paid out, the city manager said those who use 6,500 to 8,000 gallons per month on the lawn rate can save six percent of what they are paying now. If they use between 8,000 and 9,500 gallons they can save 23 percent and 10,000 to 100,000 gallons could save 50 percent of the present bill.

These discounts, however, are for private residences or duplexes only. Apartment houses, of three or more dwelling units, are considered commercial and are not eligible for the lawn rate.

However, the minimum bill on the lawn rate is now $3.30 per month as against the minimum residential bill of $1.65.

"During summer months it pays to be on the lawn rates," Pepin added, "but pays off in winter if they use a lot of water then."

Bottlers Here Hold Prices Despite OPS

Soft drink bottlers have been authorized to increase prices by the Office of Price Stabilization but local bottlers have made no plans to take advantage of the new ceiling.

"The authorization goes into effect Monday, but no definite plans have been made here. The action probably will mean that soft drinks will go up to six cents per bottle.

Prices on wholesale cases can go up to 96 cents.

In permitting the increases, OPS pointed out the Senate Select Committee on Small Business, after a 1950 survey of the soft drink industry, estimated two-thirds of the nation's 6500 soft drink bottlers were losing money or merely breaking even.

Bottlers also may increase their deposit charge for bottles, regardless of size, up to their replacement cost.

The regulation does not apply to soft drinks mixed at soda fountains, or except as to deposit charges, in soft drinks in bottles of more than 12-ounce size.

Damage Suit Filed Against Tennessean

LAREDO — (AP) — A Tennessee man has filed a $38,000 damage suit here in the murder of his father in a Laredo hotel two years ago.

George Ochoa, Laredo broker, was charged in the fatal shooting of James J. Lindsay, July 31, 1949, in the Plaza Hotel here. Ochoa was arrested later in Mexico. Attempts to have him extradited to Texas for trial have been unsuccessful.

The suit was filed by James L. Lindsay, Jr., who claimed in his petition that National Hotels, owner of the Plaza, was negligent in failing to have a house detective on duty.

McLemore's Learning Is Not Complete; Wishes For More

By HENRY McLEMORE

It's too late now, because the deadline for enrollment was last Wednesday, but I do wish I had taken advantage of the GI bill. There are so many things I want to know, and need to know. Not facts that I learned long ago, such as Lincoln's height in his stocking feet, Cleopatra's usual breakfast (Roman general on toast, well buttered), the names of Columbus' ships, and how to square a pyramid.

Learning of that sort is in itself, and very useful in passing a college examination. It is vital stuff to a man who has a crew haircut, prides himself on dirty buckskin shoes, and considers the samba every bit as important in the scheme of things as, say, the Yalta Pact. Not knocking youth, mind you. Had it myself, once, and didn't find it bad. Right good, in fact. But when a man grows up, and starts to get down to down-to-earth living, there are more important fragments of knowledge.

If I had used Uncle Sam when I had the right to — had let him pay for my tuition, books, and lodging — these are some of the things I would know today.

Why book reviewers give praise to books which they must know won't last as long as a sucking pig in a cave of alligators.

1. Why Pullman conductors always come around for your ticket long after you have gone to bed.
2. Why a movie star, who doesn't pay his bill, gets a better table in a night club than an unknown man who does.
3. Why a husband has to pay for monogrammed towels. They don't dry any better.
4. Why, after all the money it has spent, America doesn't have the best Army, Navy, and Air Force in the world.
5. Why a new puppy loves you so much, yet barks all night as if he were being beaten with a chunk of redwood.
6. Why sunburned people are generally considered more healthy than those with a color like that of a white salt. After all, Methuselah was no aseptic and resort man, and he did pretty well. In years, that is.
7. Why spilling something on the tablecloth at home is considered a much more dastardly deed than spilling the same thing on a tablecloth at a restaurant.
8. Why eight-day clocks have to be wound every two days.
9. Why so many pretty women fall in love with ski instructors.
10. Why anyone in his right mind would bet against the Brooklyn Dodgers.
11. Why taxi drivers enjoy such a tough reputation when, as far as I know, they are the most helpful of people. In New York, anyway.
12. Why Americans don't eat continental fashion instead of switching the knife and fork back and forth like a shuttlecock in a fast badminton game.
13. Why Jersey Joe Walcott insists on staying 37 years of age. He was 37 when Ben Franklin was flying his first kite.
14. Why Bugs Baer isn't recognized as the greatest humorist this country has ever produced. And that goes for all of them.
15. These are the questions that I would have asked, and gotten answers for, had I taken advantage of the GI Bill. These, and a lot more besides. Such as why does a politician have to have his picture taken every time he says nothing of importance?

Wilson Holds Hope Reds Accept Peace

DETROIT — (AP) — Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson held out the hope Saturday Russia will decide, in the face of America's growing might, that the wise course is peace instead of war.

Wilson said in a speech: "Let us speak to Soviet Russia from the strength of our production lines, from the strength of our armed forces and from the strength of our undying principles of liberty and justice."

"We have always held the door open to a real and permanent settlement of the world's problems. Perhaps a demonstration of America's might, such as we are building now, will cause Russia to enter that door willingly and with real meaning."

Invasion Of Island Feared By Chinese

TAIPEH, Formosa — (AP) — A reported communist buildup near Quemoy, off the China coast, has Chinese Nationalists worried about a possible invasion of the 50-square-mile island.

The Quemoy garrison reported 60,000 Chinese Reds assembled on nearby Amoy. Quemoy is within easy gun range of both Amoy and the Red China mainland.

Court Settles Claim, Suit

A personal injuries claim and title suit were settled Friday in 31st District Court before Judge Lewis M. Goodrich.

A cash settlement of $25 plus medical expenses was awarded Charles Lane for injuries he received in an accident with a Meade's Baking Co. truck near Lefors last year.

At the same time the court awarded E. C. Schaffer, clear title to a tract of land situated in Section 14, Block C2 of 1st CGSD and E. GNG RR Co. surveys of Gray County from Margaret A. Wheatley.

Earlier Friday morning Judge Goodrich approved placing the four minor children of Ruth Dulaney in the Buckner Orphans Home. Mrs. Dulaney is under indictment on a burglary charge here. Her four children were declared dependent and neglected last week by Judge Goodrich.

Kwanis Baseball Tickets Are Going Good, Says Prexy

"Tickets for the Kiwanis-sponsored baseball game between the Pampa Oilers and Lamesa Lobos Aug. 3 are going good," Les Hart, president of the Pampa Kiwanis Club, announced Saturday.

"We are getting wonderful response from the merchants and townspeople who appreciate our Kiwanis-church sponsored softball program."

The softball program, which provides entertainment for about 350 boys and girls four nights a week, was begun in 1946. It also offers umpire work for about 40 Kiwanians, who each put in about 4 hours per week as arbitrators.

The softball program this year is being held at the Hobart Street Park when it became necessary to move the lighted diamonds from their original location near the high school. The cost of moving the fields was nearly $1,500, making the fields now carry a valuation of nearly $6,000.

The boys and girls who participate in the program must attend church at least 50 percent of the time and the money the Kiwanis Club makes from the baseball game goes toward the program.

Cooney pleaded guilty to aggravated assault charges filed several weeks ago.

Cotton Failure Could Create A Catastrophe

COLLEGE STATION — (AP) — The steel research congress was told a substantial crop failure in any of the important cotton producing nations would create a catastrophe.

E. D. White, deputy director of the Economic Co-operation Administration, said the $1 million bale cotton quota set for the U. S. by the Agriculture Dept. would create no surplus.

He said the world supply and demand for cotton would be about in balance with a U. S. crop of around 18,500,000 bales and an enlarged foreign crop of about 19,000,000.

British Steel Plant Commended For Beer

LONDON — (AP) — A party of British steel men walked into a British pressed steel plant, stopped dead still, wrinkled their noses appreciatively.

There was no doubt about it — that was the smell of beer.

"I nearly fell over," F. C. Greenhill, leader of the party, told a London news conference.

"It's unheard of to sell beer at U. S. factory outlets — maybe you've got something there."

I'll have you know I built this company up from just a small profit to one of the biggest deficits in the country!

Can't Speak Language Without The Tune, Says U. T. Professor

AUSTIN — You can't speak the language without knowing the "tune."

It's the old business of the tone of voice you use when you address someone. If you use one tone, you may get a raise in salary. The same words, in another tone, may put you on the list of unemployed.

Dr. Ernest Haden, professor of Romance Languages and Germanic Languages at the University of Texas, has spent more than a year looking at the pitch of Spanish, French, German, Portuguese, Russian and other languages.

He sees the intonations peculiar to each of these languages by means of an instrument called the sound spectrograph.

"Pictures" of foreign languages, which look somewhat like Indian designs on curios you buy, can be made by speaking into a microphone or playing disc, wire or tape recordings.

Dr. Haden is teaching a course called "Technique of Foreign Language Instruction" for teachers of Spanish, French and German. He shows them how to teach the "tone" of languages, in methods of teaching foreign language, but he also stresses the importance of foreign language in the life of the world.

"We cannot continue to assume, as we have in the past, that if we have to have contacts with foreigners they can learn English," Dr. Haden declared. "Since we have a position of responsibility in world affairs, we must measure up to that responsibility."

"We must develop a class of Quick, Henry, The Benzel Benzoate!

COLUMBUS, O. — (AP) — Pity the poor chigger, already punched drunk from scientific left hooks. An Ohio state entomologist has struck two more blows at the pest.

Prof. Dwight M. Delong, who already has staggered the chigger with his lawn sprays announced repellent treatments for the body and clothing.

The Ohio state expert says the body can be treated with a few drops of dimethyl phthalate to prevent chigger bites.

He recommends benzal benzoate for treating clothing.
