Ice Cream Is Sold, Friendship Is Given

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
RIVER EDGE, N. J. — (NEA) — Around these parts, the boys and girls believe in Santa Claus, but they believe in Bob Shelly even more.

He's the ice cream man, who cruises through the streets in this little white truck. To the children, he's their very best friend. To the mothers, he's sort of an auxiliary parent. And, to impartial observers, he's about the slickest salesman alive.

He's "Shelly" to almost everyone in town. As soon as the first, carillon-like strains of his recorded chime music precede his appearance down the quiet streets, the children become almost hysterical with joy.

There's a soprano chorus of children's voices, screaming on the word — "Shelly!" They scream it as they run home and get a dime from their mothers. They scream it as they run back out and surround his truck.

He calls each of them by name, after the second time he meets them. Even the tiniest ones.

"SHELLY!" That's the cry that sent this little girl in River Edge, N. J., rushing to the window, and sure enough, there's Shelly outside. For what happened next, see the picture below.

CHARMER — Lured by the chimes of the "Fied Piper of Pop," Anita Norton gets a warm greeting (and cold ice cream) from Shelly. He says he knows 900 little customers by their names.

And he always has a present for them, too. He says he knows the names of 900 children in town, including three sets of identical twins that the mothers have trouble telling apart.

"I have to remember their names," he says, simply. "That's my job."

During the course of the week, he gives away $35 worth of what he calls knick-knacks. It may be jumping beans or little puzzles or rings which he gives little girls and thereby becomes "engaged" to them. He comes around twice a day, and on his second trip he always gives little charms. The kids get bean caps and pin the charms to them.

They trade the charms among each other, and "Shelly's" charms are an accepted medium of exchange. Three charms bought a bumble bee in a jar the other day.

Besides the daily presents, Shelly conducts contests. Prizes are such things as big dolls, kites, beach balls, baseball bats and bike horns.

The last of the four annual contests is always the biggest. The drawing is held at the Veterans Memorial Park, and the police chief names the person who picks the winners. This year he was going to give away a Shetland pony, but the mothers objected. So two bicycles will be the top prizes.

Even adults save Shelly's tickets, given with each purchase, so they can enter. Last year, 200 grown-ups showed up for the drawing.

One Fall he promised some bigger youngsters that the next Spring he'd give them fox tails for their bikes. During the Winter, the price of fox tails went up, but he kept his promise. He had to buy 100 fox tails at 60 cents apiece.

When a steady customer has a birthday, Shelly puts a chime record of "Happy Birthday" on his player, drives up to the child's house and presents a free ice cream cone. Every Christmas, he patiently addresses more than 400 cards to his young friends.

"It's all done to gain their friendship," Shelly says. "They have to accept me as a friend. Children are funny. They're careful buyers and you can't rush them. You must approach a child slowly — if you once show you're impatient or antagonistic, you've had it. They won't buy from you any more."

The technique pays off. Shelly estimates that he and his two brothers and two nephews, who sell other towns, gross $100,000 with their five trucks in the 30-week season.

"It's miraculous," he grins. "I feel like the Pied Piper."

But it is a terrific grind. For seven months, Shelly follows a routine that would stop most men. He's up at six and goes to five ice cream plants to load up the 60 varieties he carries, ranging from pops up to half-gallons. Then he ices his truck, washes his truck and changes his uniform before he can begin.

He works until 9:30 at night, then has another hour's ride back home. He has a few hours of paper work every night. He says he rarely gets to bed before 1:30. And that's seven days a week for seven months.

In November, he goes to Florida and just relaxes until the next February, when he comes back north to get ready for the Summer.

Bob Shelly has only one secret from his customers. The children see him as a smiling, peppy young fellow in a clean white T-shirt and white pants and a battered chauffeur's cap. They don't know that under the chauffeur's cap is a bald head, and that their best pal is really a grandfather. The illusion of youth is carefully preserved; he says they'd leave him for another salesman if they ever saw his absence of hair.

Split Personality For Secret Device

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The security conscious Atomic Energy Commission has given one of its secret devices a split personality. It's a research reactor — or atomic "furnace" — run by the AEC at its Brookhaven, N. Y., national laboratory.

The commission told Congress in a report this week that it has partitioned off one "face" of the reactor so that scientists who are not in on AEC secrets can do non-secret atomic experiments without knowing what's going on in the rest of the device

Savitt Not One To Turn Pro

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. — (AP) — Strange but one of the top tennis players in the United States is not interested in turning pro.

Dick Savitt, said he has no intentions of falling to the lure of the dollar sign — yet.

One promoter reportedly offered Dick, the Australian and Wimbledon champion, $75,000 last week.

Louisiana State has beaten Georgia Tech in football only once in eight tries.

Kind Words Are Expected From Mac

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur may have a kind word to say during the 1952 campaign about some of the Republican senators who have supported his views on Korea.

Senator Cain (R-Wash), who has been in the forefront of MacArthur's congressional supporters, told a reporter he has heard indirectly the five-star general may visit Washington state next year while Cain is running for re-election.

He would not be surprised, Cain said, if the deposed Pacific commander finds time to praise Cain's record and his views, particularly on Far Eastern questions.

Cain said he saw the general recently but did not discuss politics in any way. He said he received what he regards as cheering news of the general's intentions from another source.

MacArthur said recently he intends to raise his voice "as loud and often as I believe it to be in the interest of the American people." His spokesman, retired Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, said MacArthur is going to accept some invitations but hasn't decided exactly where he will go.

Seven Republican senators now are working on a proposed report on the MacArthur ouster inquiry which would denounce the general's dismissal by President Truman as unwarranted. Some of these might receive MacArthur's praise later.

There have been some reports that the general might speak out in favor of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) if the latter makes his expected leap into the race for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

However, some of Taft's friends apparently have been cautioning him against linking himself too closely with the MacArthur Far Eastern policies, which the Ohioan has endorsed in general.

These Taft followers evidently believe a settlement of the Korean war would go a long way toward minimizing Korea and the Far East as a political issue next year.

To this group, what happens in Europe in the next nine months is expected to become of more political importance unless the Communists pick a definite spot elsewhere to renew their aggression.

In dealing with the European issues, Taft is reported to be somewhat restrained by the fact that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has been mentioned so widely as a possible GOP presidential candidate.

Friends say Taft may go slow in advocating cuts in military foreign aid program because he

Officials Expect Economic Law To Drop Price On Cattle

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Agriculture Department officials expect the economic laws of supply and demand to accomplish this fall what Congress refused—a further rollback in price of beef cattle.

This expectation is based largely upon history and the knowledge that there are more cattle than a year ago. Marketing has always increased in the late summer and fall, reflecting the end of the pasture grazing season.

In extending price control authority, Congress prohibited the government from carrying out two more rollbacks in cattle prices which the Office of Price Stabilization has scheduled for Aug. 1 and Oct. 1. Each was to have cut prices 4.12 percent.

Department experts doubt prices will drop as much as the planned nine percent rollback.

Culling prices of beef cattle remain under the law at levels the OPS established June 20. Those first live cattle ceilings cut live cattle prices about ten percent from levels bid in an uncontrolled market.

Prior to June 20, ceilings exceeded what does not want to be put in the light of attempting to undermine Eisenhower in his job as North Atlantic pact commander.

Significantly, perhaps Taft has urged deep cuts—or even abolition—of the $2,200,000,000 proposed economic aid program. But he says he hasn't made up his mind about any reduction in the military assistance total.

Similar ceilings have been set for all other slaughter points.

They are adjusted to the Chicago ceilings to reflect normal price differences.

For cattle dressing out above these specified percentages, correspondingly higher prices can be paid. For example, the OPS says the slaughterer can pay up to 57 cents a hundred pounds more for each one percent prime cattle dress out above 62 percent.

In buying cattle under ceilings, packers cannot know exactly whether they are complying with ceilings. They must do their own grading of the live animals.

The government grades the carcasses only—after the animal has been bought and killed. A packer never knows whether the government grader will agree with him or not.

Suppose packer at Chicago bought 100 head of cattle weighing a total of 100,000 pounds which he graded choice and for which he paid the ceiling price of $34.20 a hundred, but that the government grader classes 25 of them as good grade, rather than choice. The packer would have paid above ceiling for the 100 cattle, because in the government's judgment, he paid too much for the 25 head the government graded as good. The ceiling for good cattle is $31.50.

But suppose this packer had also bought 25 head of cattle weighing as much as the 25 "good" grade, which the packer had graded as commercial and for which he paid the commercial ceiling price of $27.30. He would be judged as having complied with the price control program—taking the two deals together—because he actually got the second lot of 25 cattle at $4.20 a hundred less than their ceilings.

This $4.20 "savings" would more than offset the $3.20 ceiling price paid for the first 25 which he overgraded. The average of all his purchases would still be within ceiling level.

Ceiling prices on live animals do not apply to cattle feeders. Feeders often compete with packers in livestock markets for cattle. The feeder takes light and medium weight cattle from the heavy ration of feed and fattens them to heavier weights and higher grades.

The OPS says the differences in ceilings by grades is sufficient to encourage the feeder to buy lower animal grades cattle and feed them to high grades.

Grove Declares U. S. Will Win If War Comes

DENVER — (AP) — If war comes between the United States and Russia this country is going to win, the man who engineered the Manhattan project—the atomic bomb—predicts.

Lieut. Gen. Leslie R. Groves voiced the opinion in an interview.

"The whole world is engaged in a gigantic poker game," he said. "We know that the Russians are bluffing. But how much are they bluffing? It is a serious situation. One man has the power to throw the whole world into war, and that one man controls the Kremlin lock, stock and barrel."

"If we have to go to war, we are going to win. I don't believe in the doctrine of fear and I don't believe the American people are afraid."

"Even if some of our cities were destroyed, the American people would not lose the will to fight. The courage which built this nation will remain with us always."

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board says a worker does not have to pay union assessments to keep his job in a union shop.

An assessment is a special payment requested by a union, outside of initiation fees and regular dues. The unanimous decision involved a contract of the Ohio United Auto Workers at Louisville, Ky.

A New Commuter Lectures On Brand New Way Of Life

By FRANK ECK
NEW YORK — (AP) — My entire life has been changed. It took me five years of contemplation and people said I was crazy. They told me not to do it, but I built a home.

Or rather, I got a builder to build it on my own little half-acre 40 - odd miles out on Long Island on the former Otto Khan estate—now known as Cold Spring Hills.

This, however, is not a complaint, even though people still continuously warn me about the Long Island Railroad, the biggest little railroad in the world. Thus far, I don't have too many complaints about the LIRR, but I've been riding it only a few weeks.

A country boy who moved into the city, I decided maybe the country wasn't so bad after all, and six years ago my wife Vi and I picked out our own plot of ground.

We paid our taxes every year, except one time when the bill got shoved back in a seldom-used drawer. Every so often we would drive out and admire our hunk of woods, occupied by some 40 oak trees, a couple of birches and poison ivy.

About 14 months ago, we decided it was time. We became more friendly with a University of Michigan graduate who came close to winning a national contest in architecture last winter. Maybe if we hadn't bothered him so much about the plans for our six - room ranch house he would have won it. Anyway, he promised the plans would be ready by Christmas tree, Christmas day, we looked. No plans.

Two weeks later, after several long conferences with Vi and I some changes here and there, he gave us the blueprints and said: "Here's your headache. I hate to do this because I think I've just lost two friends. You'll be calling me all kinds of names."

He was wrong, though. I find that I'm just able to climb the 40 - foot driveway on a 25 percent incline after an hour's ride on the Long Island, that there are two ways to get into the house through the cellar and three or four other ways without breaking any windows.

It took Vi a year to get her ideas on paper, cut out paper models of the furniture to scale and find contractors and sub-contractors to swear she'd get

Commie Says U. S. Doesn't Want Peace

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The commander of Red China's armies said recently "our common hope" is for an armistice in Korea, but asserted "imperialist countries do not yet want peace."

The Peiping radio said Gen. Chu Teh made the statement in a speech marking the 24th anniversary of the founding of the Chinese Communist army. The broadcast was monitored here by the Associated Press.

The speech was strongly anti-American. Chu repeated the old Communist charge that the United States has "taken barbarous and outrageous control" of Formosa, the Nationalist island 100 miles off the southeast China coast.

Chu declared "the American invaders are actively rearming Japan and plotting the permanent occupation of Japan and the southern part of Korea." He accused U.S. warplanes of making repeated attacks on Manchuria.

High Taxes, Rising Costs Taking Toll

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — (AP) — High taxes, rising costs and price freezes are taking their toll of profits in many industries. But others go booming along, record sales pulling this year's earnings far above what they made in the first half of last year.

The mixed trend in the economy is strikingly shown in a sampling of a study of the profits of 122 leading companies in their field. They are among the first to report so far on earnings in the first six months, as mid-year statements pour forth from company offices.

As a whole, the 122 made $1,335,099,041 this year. This is an increase of $35,769,916 over last year's total of $1,709,329,125, or less than two percent. In the first quarter of this year corporate profits were 26 percent greater than they were in the first quarter in 1950.

But the totals do not tell the whole story. And, of course, the sampling is far from complete and may show only a trend, not a conclusion. Industry by industry, the results were seldom before so mixed.

Striking is the fact that out of 122 companies only 36 show profits this year smaller than last, while 86 forged ahead in earnings this year. And not one of the 122 operated in the red in the first half of this year.

But the companies that slid were whoppers and some of their drops were very large, when compared with fat and less heavily taxed earnings in the pre-Korea six months period. Some of the big boys in their fields who made less take-home pay this year — often in spite of increased earnings before taxes — were Du Pont, General Motors, International Business Machines, General Electric, Bethlehem Steel, United Fruit, National Biscuit and Liggett-Myers.

They affected the totals in their own industries considerably. For example, only three of the ten steel companies thus far reporting earnings fell behind last year's profit — take. But Bethlehem Steel, the second largest in the industry, knocked steel into the decline column.

Of nine food companies, five did better this year, but the other four outweighed them. Two coal companies did better and two did poorer. Three electric and home appliance firms didn't equal last year's profits but the two that bettered their last year's figures outweighed them.

Capture Of 'Fool Mountain' One Of Most Savage Actions

By JOHN RANDOLPH

EASTERN KOREAN FRONT—(Delayed)—(P)—'Fool Mountain' was stormed by allied infantrymen who knew they could be sacrificing their lives in the last days of the Korean war.

Some died, but the high ridges, from which the Reds had been able to watch every allied move, were taken.

In any event, the capture of this towering hill mass in East Korea Monday can be reported as one of the war's most savage actions—a five-day assault while truce talks droned on at Kaesong.

It was by far the largest action since the armistice conference began — in fact, the only bit of "real war" since the delegates first met July 10.

Why, then, did the allies take it?

"Fool Mountain" — nobody knows how it got its name — is higher than three Empire State buildings, taller than six Washington Monuments.

Actually it is a steep ridge. From its heights, the reorganised and retrained North Korean army watched every move in the allied lines and on the main supply route to them.

It was a bad situation. The hill had to be taken or life in allied lines would be unbearable — and lives can be frittered away in bad positions as easily as in assault.

From their observation posts in the rocky crags, the Korean Reds continually called in mortar and artillery fire against the allies, forcing all road traffic to run the gauntlet on its way to the front, again and again.

Worse, "Fool Mountain" had three guardian hills — placed as strategically as the bastion of a scientifically-planned fortress.

From west to east, these shielded "Fool Mountain" — two of them nearly as high as the great crest itself, with "No Number" Hill on the west slightly lower than the others.

Each hill was covered with pillboxes, either of rock or logs with a massive earth covering. For five nights in a row before the jump off date of July 26 the Air Force bombed and blasted the hill positions.

A total of 12 tons of bombs was dropped in the face of some of the heaviest machinegun fire the Air Force has met in the Korean war. The hills were full of 51 caliber machineguns, and they often opened fire when the planes were still 500 feet high. It was perhaps the first time in the war the Reds so boldly faced allied air might.

At dawn on the 26th the infantry started up the guardian hills. They made 2,000 yards and then were stopped cold. Then began a seesaw fight that went on for five days and parts of five nights. The main assault was directed against "No Number" Hill for if it could be taken the winners could pour in flanking fire on the main positions.

Three times in three days the allies attacked the hill and each time they were thrown off by bitter North Korean counterattacks. On the fourth day they took it.

Then the fourth day, preceded by a withering artillery barrage, they advanced against "Fool Mountain" under cover of fire from "No Number" Hill.

Slowly the tough infantrymen made their way up the rocky slopes. They had close support from tanks that fired almost point blank into the enemy bunkers. Some of the bunkers, carved from rock, had only one entrance — their firing slit — and were defended to the death by North Koreans who had no way out. Unless, of course, they had chosen to surrender.

The infantry used grenades and flame throwers against some defenders. Finally the last assault position was reached late Monday afternoon.

Once again artillery blasted the craggy slopes and — as it suddenly stopped — the infantry stormed upwards.

Allied guns from "No Number" laced the top of the crest. That did it. The attack by the crack troops swept up, broke the last of the resistance in 45 minutes and finally secured the crest at 8:45 p.m.

All that was left of the enemy, probably not more than two platoons, was seen fleeing down

Foundation Hires Henry To Check Ages Of Old Athletes

By HENRY McLEMORE

The same foundation which has long devoted its time to determining the age of California's redwood trees asked me recently if I would undertake a task for it.

The foundation, mostly made up of men and women who have little else to do but determine the age of trees, requested that I become Eastern field representative in the quest of the true ages of Jersey Joe Walcott, new heavyweight boxing champion of the world, and Satchel Paige, now a pitcher for the St. Louis Browns.

The foundation is particularly interested in Satchel Paige. It believes, and I think justly so, that the gangling slinger is older than any redwood tree they have and would like to uproot him and transplant him in the grove at Sequoia.

In the few days that I have had to investigate Satchel's age I have come to the conclusion — wrong though it may be, I do not being infallible — that Satchel was tenth off the Ark, and that while the waters were receding he practiced his curve ball.

The zebra beat him off the Ark for sure. As did the elephant, the common rooster, the ibex, and five others as yet unidentified. If Satchel is 44, or whatever he says he is, then I have just grown up enough to play in a sandbox. If he is only 44, then I'm not going to get in the bathtub again without my Celluloid ducks, and I'm not going to sleep at night without being tucked in and without a light in the room.

As I said before, my research is just beginning, but already I have learned enough to be convinced that when I was working on Pabulum, Satchel was working on pork chops. My guess is that if Satchel would permit one of his legs to be cut off, and the rings counted, knowing woodsmen would willingly swear that he is 102 going on 103.

To decorate his birthday cake with the proper number of candles might very easily result in a conflagration that would make the Chicago fire resemble a flame that wouldn't roast enough wieners to feed a group of people of the sort who like to go out and roast wieners.

If you will study Frederick the Great's memoirs you will find several references to a certain Satchel who, when the gunpowder had been exhausted, picked up cannonballs and threw sliders, knuckle balls, and sharp-breaking curves at the enemy. Frankly, I discount some baseball historians' theory that this was Satchel duced to two — one red one and one white one. I have to draw upon my resources to answer the telephone, much less pitch a ball game or fight 15 rounds. Indeed, my insurance company called me the other day and said in all the years of its existence it had never had such a bad risk, and it was sending over a fifth of chicken broth. "Make it with soda," I said. Can't you see what a happy choice the redwood foundation made in me?

Eager, industrious and only slightly weary, I'm charging the foundation nothing either, except what the traffic will bear.

World Population Increasing 60,000 Per Day UN Reports

GENEVA — The world's population is now increasing at the rate of 60,000 per day, according to a report issued here by the World Health Organization (WHO), one of the United Nations Specialized Agencies.

The WHO study shows the population of the world has nearly quadrupled in the last three centuries and that two-thirds of this increase has taken place within the last century. It gives the world's population in 1949 as 2,378,000,000 as compared with 1,522,000,000 in 1900 — an increase of 826,000,000.

Dr. S. Swarup, chief of WHO statistical studies section, states that "in the last 50 years, the world has added more persons than actually were living in 1900 in the whole world excluding Asia, and the rate for the 'twentieth century shows world population to be increasing as never before."

Of the 52 countries listed, only one — the Republic of Ireland — has actually shown a decrease (7 percent) during the period 1900-1949. There, the population went down from 3,200,000 to 3,000,000. The largest percentage increase among all the countries listed was registered in Argentina, where the population rose from 4,800,000 in 1900 to 16,800,000 in 1949. This represents an increase of 251 percent. Argentina is followed by Cuba (231 percent), Colombia (217 percent) and Brazil (191 percent).

On the whole, the American continents have recorded the greatest relative increase during the past 50 years. The study shows this rise amounted to about 112 percent, the 1949 population being estimated at 320,800,000 as at present has a population of 200,000,000.

The greatest increase in Europe, outside the USSR, was recorded in Italy.

In Oceania the population rose 100 percent and was up to 12,400,000 in 1949, while in Africa the percentage increase was 41.

The African population in 1949 was estimated at 197,000,000 as against 140,700,000 in 1900.

Half of the world's total increase has been contributed by Asian countries alone. Although some of the smaller countries, such as Indonesia, the Philippines and Thailand, recorded increases of well over 100 percent, the two large countries — China and pre-partition India — increased relatively slowly at rates of approximately 30 percent and 49 percent, respectively. Yet their contribution to the total world increase is almost one-third, although in the some of the population estimates past 50 years around 74,000,000 have been added and the USSR are not always reliable. The study also shows the world population has nearly quadrupled in the past three centuries, rising from an estimated 548,000,000 in 1650 to approximately 2,378,000,000 in 1949. The most rapid growth has been principally in the past, among Europeans and their descendants.

The factors contributing to the increase were presumably the settlement of new lands, scientific and industrial progress, and developments in medical science and technology. But, the study adds, "the latter factors are no doubt now at work among the non-European populations. For instance, the period of accelerated rates of increase in countries such as Egypt, India, Pakistan and Indonesia has occurred much later than in the West."

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newfeatures

Vacation advice for photo fans, repeatedly given each summer and so easily ignored, will pay off in the long run if heeded. I'll vouch for that statement from personal experience in the past week, having both heeded and ignored some of my own advice.

Annually I've advised fans to check their cameras and equipment before a vacation trip and especially after a long lay-off. You don't have to be a camera expert to see if it's operating normally, if the lens is clean and the body free from dust and sand and paper scraps. Open the back and look through it as you click the shutter at various speeds and at "Time" and "Bulb" exposures. Open and close the diaphragm. This will reacquaint you with the camera's operations and show you what's happening when there's film in back instead of your eye.

Ahh... how I wish I'd done all that last week BEFORE instead of AFTER shooting five rolls of 35mm color films! For it was then, as an afterthought, that I started a routine check and discovered, to my horror, that my shutter was stuck open all the time. At what point in my picture taking this happened I don't know but I will find out when the five rolls are returned after processing. As one friend understated the case, the pictures are bound to be "over-exposed" with the lens open all the time.

That is putting it mildly. Today that camera goes back to the manufacturer's service department, because further normal manipulation, such as shifting the speeds and setting it on "Time" and "Bulb," had no effect. That's as far as a non-expert should go with the delicate innards of a lens shutter, I decided. Especially when I couldn't even find a screw driver small enough to expose the works, much less discover what was wrong.

I've also often advocated separate cameras for black-and-white and for color. When the 35mm camera went out of commission for the time being, I was still able to picture the rest of my vacation in black-and-white, using 35 roll film. As a matter of fact both Eastman Kodak, a real Anso have color film in 120 rolls, so I could have continued shooting in color. Therefore, having separate cameras is not only a handy way to shoot either color or black-and-white, but also a way to weather the lighting conditions of the subject matter warrants, but permits you to keep light on snapping if one of the cameras goes berserk suddenly.

Here's another bit of oft-repeated advice you've heard before. "Keep your camera loaded with film, handy for instant shooting." Let me tell you how this solved a problem for a worried friend when he was kind enough to drive me back to the city after a week's vacation in the country.

In his new 1951 car, we headed for the city early Monday morning in time to put in an early appearance in our offices. We were still on the country road when the car got temperamental and quit. There, as in the car with my 35mm camera, normal tinkering and the usual tests produced no results. Fortunately, friend Al Rose was a member of the AAA and off he went to the nearest farm house where he showed for aid.

This eventually arrived and the trouble was finally located as a faulty condenser in the distributor. This was replaced and when again the new car purred and off we went... two hours behind schedule.

"What bothers me," Al sadly said, "is the corny excuse I have or my boss... 'car trouble.' He knows I have a brand new car and he even kidded me in advance that I couldn't use 'car trouble' as a reason for not being on time. How can I convince him it's on the level?"

"If that's all that's bothering you," I replied, "your worries are over. I have your conviction right there in black and white. The camera was handy, the incident seemed part of the vacation story so while the mechanic was tinkering and you were worrying... I snapped a few pictures. The boss may kid you today about the excuse."

Only nine mares have won the four and a half mile American Hand National out of 115 runners.

SEEN THIS MAN?—Added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" is Ollie Gene Fry, 22, above, one-time juvenile delinquent now wanted for bank robbery. Embury is sought in connection with the $8943 robbery of a Columbus, Ill., bank on Feb. 8, 1946.

So You Think You Have Money Worries? Man In Mint Has, Too

By BILLEE WHELOCK PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — So you think you've got money worries? Well, when the going gets rough, remember the man in the mint. He has his troubles, too. Right now, people are using up money so fast he can't make enough to go around. Pennies are the biggest culprit. So, maybe you ought to be careful about how many you put in your piggy bank. The strain on the mint is terrific.

But it's not only piggy banks Superintendent Edwin H. Dressel of the Philadelphia mint, says. Other greedy users of pennies are parking meters, vending machines and sales and excise taxes. The most recently reported shortage of pennies is in Charlotte, N. C., where the federal reserve bank had to appeal to the treasurer of the United States for more coins. A sales tax which went into effect in South Carolina July 1 was part of the reason. But Dressel said the summer season always brings greater demands for all types of coins.

The cotton crop in the South, the tomato harvest in New Jersey, the wheat harvest in the West—all these events increase the need for coins," he explained. In broad, general terms, the Philadelphia mint supplies coins to the East and South, Denver produces for the Middle West and San Francisco coins for the West Coast, he said. The daily production at the Philadelphia mint, now operating on a 60-hour week, is: $60,000 in half dollars; $50,000 in quarters; $72,000 in dimes and $38,000 worth of pennies. They're not making even a nickel's worth of nickels. "We don't have the money," Dressel explained. He went on to say that to turn out the daily quota of the other coins the mint is currently working on "borrowed funds"—since the fiscal appropriation has not yet been approved by Congress. Production quotas are pretty much guess work, Dressel explained. "We try to anticipate demand but it's mostly pulling a figure out of the sky," he said. Asked about the life expectancy of a penny, Dressel sighed: "Only a man who isn't afraid of the end of a limb would be willing to answer that." In major league play the home team is required to supply the umpires with five dozen baseballs before each game. More must be kept in readiness. First Fiddle is the only horse to win the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap twice.

The fatal moment had come. The discard pile was frozen and contained nearly 50 cards, including about 10 wild cards. The opponents needed only 50 points, so there was every reason to believe that the wrong discard would lose the pile. And now the poor suffering Canasta player had to make a discard from a hand that was full of dynamite.

This player had four kings, four queens, two tens, and two sevens. Nobody had thrown a king or a queen. One ten had been discarded, very early in the hand, by the left-hand opponent, but nobody had ever thrown another ten. Only two sevens had been discarded, both by the player at the left — at his two previous turns.

What would you do in a spot like that?

The kings and the queens were unsafe, all right. The next player had a pair of each. All right, maybe you never thought for a moment of throwing a picture card. What's your choice as between a ten and a seven?

When I watched this hand, the player reasoned as follows: "That early discard of a ten was probably just bait, thrown in the hope that I would soon discard a ten. It's a cinch that the opponent still has a pair of tens. However, maybe he had only three sevens."

"He has already discarded two of them and now doesn't have a pair. After all, that still accounts for five of the eight sevens in the deck. Why should my opponent and I have six sevens between us?"

So the seven was discarded — and, as I announced to begin with, the fatal moment had come. The opponent swooped down on the pile, and there was a certain amount of quiet satisfaction on one side and not so quiet misery on the other side.

It wasn't an easy decision to make, but I think the discard was against the evidence. If the seven was safe and the ten was unsafe, the opponent had discovered early in the hand that it was safe to discard a ten but had never tried it again.

He had thrown wild cards, and he had undoubtedly taken his share of risks in making other discards — after all, you don't go practically through the deck without having to take at least a few risks. Still he never threw a ten. Instead, he eventually discarded one of only three sevens. This could all be true, but the odds are certainly against it. It's much more logical to believe that the opponent finally broke from four sevens — his safest

Mental Hospitals Suffer From The War, Defense Program

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Korean conflict and the defense effort may have made personnel shortages in mental hospitals more acute.

Statistics on Korea have not been compiled, but some say it's doubtful any marked improvements have been made over the situation at the end of 1948. In peacetime or wartime, there's always a shortage of trained psychiatric personnel.

At the close of 1949 a survey published by the council of state governments shows this picture: Of 190 mental hospitals, nearly three fourths said they needed physicians.

In 19 the number of patients per physician exceeded 400. More than a third showed ratios greater than 200 patients to one graduate nurse.

American Psychiatric Ass'n. (APA) standards call for no more than 100 resident patients to each psychiatrist and no more than five patients to each nurse or attendant.

APA's standards also call for one occupational therapist for every 50 patients, one recreational therapist for every 90 patients and a minimum of one trained social worker for each 100 new patients admitted annually.

Fourteen of the 190 hospitals said they had not a single social worker, and most of the others said they were deficient.

APA conducted its own survey in 1950, but just on nurses and attendants.

Whereas the council's survey covered only state hospitals — which care for most mental patients — the APA survey embraced more than 400 federal, state, county, local and private hospitals.

The 407 hospitals replying reported 9,314 nurses and 81,382 attendants caring for 404,295 pa-

New Boom Stirs British Columbia

AP Newsfeatures
VANCOUVER, British Columbia — B. C. stands for more than British Columbia. Today, it means boom country.

Along the far - north coast, where the coast range tumbles the rivers steeply into fjord and sea, on Vancouver Island's timber-clothed slopes, in the deep interior where the Rockies tower above the ugly smelters, in the Okanagan where the hot sun is ripening the fruit, along the banks of the swift Fraser, plunging like a sword through the caribou rangeland, in the quiet, green pastures of the lower Fraser Valley, men are dreaming of a new empire.

Since the war, it has struck British Columbians that they have within their borders the stuff for a mighty industrial upheaval.

Provided, as author Bruce Hutchinson told University of British Columbia graduates recently, they "do not desecrate the land."

"We ask you," he said, "to preserve this land — to preserve it from that ravenous prodigality which already has gutted a large part of the American continent, consumed its forests, fouled its waters and swept its precious cargo of life itself, the top soil, down to the sea."

Just 102 years ago, B. C. was made a crown colony. It was less than 50 years since Simon Fraser had made his fantastic and courageous voyage down the river which now bears his name.

In 1881, there were only 40,459 persons in B. C., 25,000 of them Indians. By 1940, there were 805,000. In the last 10 years, the population has increased by nearly 43 percent to its present 1,150,000.

In 1940, the gross value of manufacture was $311,000,000. Today, it is around $1,100,000,000.

Production in the four basic industries — forestry, mining, agriculture and fishing — showed an increase last year of some $40,000,000 over the previous year. Forestry topped $400,000,000, mining $135,000,000, agriculture, or one nurse for every 83.5 patients and one attendant for every 7.2 — a combined ratio of one nurse or attendant for every 6.8 patients.

Shoulder Accessories Are Important For Fall

Stoles and scarves for fall range from the practical to the glamorous. A brilliant red knit (left) is touched with white "chickenwire" embroidery. Lustrous satin (left center) makes a pair of Roman-striped scarves. One is threaded through the neckline; the other wrapped cummerbund-fashion. A sheer pleated chiffon stole (right center) is looped through the neckline and belt to form drifting panels. Bright red jersey stole (right) has jumbo notched pockets studded with matching wool pom-poms. This is a stole that could go to college. Oversized fake pearl earrings and copies of antique heraldic pins are teamed with these stoles.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Stoles and scarves for fall, in brilliant colors to play up the grays, blacks and browns of basic clothes, are foils for jewelry touches, for heraldic emblems, oversized fake pearls or brilliant red, blue, or topaz rhinestones.

The stole has at last come into its own. It's riding high row, going everywhere. By spring, there may be a different story. Now, it's big.

Stoles, as designed by Glentex this autumn, are good companions for everything from a suit to a short evening gown. They're worn indoors and out. They're for all ages. Bright red jersey, a good accent for gray or black, makes a stole that has big pockets, trimmed with puff-ball wool pom-poms.

Satin, seen as one of the shining and significant accessory fabrics for fall, is used by Glentex for a pair of bold Roman-striped scarves cued to a simple black dress. One of the pair can be looped through a neckline; the other wrapped about the waist.

One of the dressiest stoles by this house is in sheer pleated chiffon, hem-length and full so that it forms two floating panels when it's looped through the neckline and belt.

Costume jewelry, designed by Coro and used to accent these stoles and scarves, is dramatic. Giant saucer earrings that are fake pearls can be worn clipped to the ears or clipped, in a pair, at the neckline of a dress. Antique gold heraldic emblems, authentic replicas of royal court orders, make pins and clips.

Choice Of Shoes Is Serious Matter

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The choice of the right shoe is a difficult matter, as many women — ruefully regarding a closetfull of mistakes — can attest.

The number of errors in shoe buying can be cut down if you consider three important factors and refuse to make a purchase until you've located the proper combination. Ask yourself if the shoe is right for your wardrobe, right for the occasions on which you'll be wearing it — and most important, perhaps — if the shoe is right for your particular foot.

Perhaps, it will develop upon inspection that yours is a foot with a high instep. If so, you'd better forego high cut pumps next time you go shoe shopping. High cut shoes of any kind are likely to be uncomfortable for lofty arches.

A better choice for you is low-cut footwear which doesn't touch the delicate instep nerve. Low cut pumps, sandals and strap styles are good bets for you.

On the other hand, if yours is a low - arched foot, you may find low - cut pumps or oxfords less than desirable. They're likely to slip and bulge at the heel.

If you've a low instep, try a high - cut shoe - in with elastic goring for a snug, comfortable fit. High - cut oxfords should also offer you walking ease.

Women with long, narrow feet find good fit as well as good looks in a low instep, style. Pumps, open or closed, with rounded or V-throats, are flattering to this type foot.

If yours is a long foot, it's a good idea to exercise care in selecting open-toed footwear. Make sure it's fitted long. Sandals and even moccasins, with their rounded effect, are becoming for you.

When choosing shoes for a short, plump foot, remember that your chief concern is to provide sufficient room across the toes. Any wall last, with its roomy front part, should be suitable. Extreme, narrow - last shoes should be avoided if comfort's your goal.

Having selected your shoes carefully from a standpoint of fashion and of fit, the next point to consider is quality. Check both uppers and soles to make certain they are of supple quality leather.

Tuna Is Good Source Of Proteins

TUNA TETRAZZINI, a wonderful meatless treat that will help remedy the scarcity or the high price of meat.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Don't let the scarcity or high price of meat get you down. There are lots of other foods, more plentiful and less expensive, that can give your family the protein and sense of satisfaction they need to be strong and happy.

Canned tuna is as good a source of "complete" protein as meat and there is an abundant supply of it in our markets. In this unusually delicious recipe, tuna is combined with the new instant chicken cubes, milk, eggs and flour to produce a dish manfully supplied with top quality protein.

Tuna Tetrazzini (6 servings)

One-half pound thin spaghetti, 1-4 cup butter or margarine, 1-4 cup flour, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon paprika, 5 instant chicken bouillon cubes, 1 cup water, 1 tall can evaporated milk, 1 7-ounce can tuna, flaked; 4 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped; 1-2 cup minced green pepper, 1-4 cup grated Parmesan cheese (optional).

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender; drain. Melt butter or margarine in top of double boiler; blend in flour, pepper and paprika. Add in a 1-1 chicken bouillon cubes; crush and blend in. Add water and evaporated milk; stir over low heat until smooth and thickened. Cover; cook over hot water 10 minutes. Divide sauce in half; to 1-2 add spaghetti; blend well. Add tuna, eggs and green pepper to remaining sauce. Arrange spaghetti in serving dish; top with tuna mixture; sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. For a summer luncheon, deep sea

Picnicking Parents Need Patience

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

Picnics can be great fun for kids. That is, if Mom and Dad are not constantly saying: "Don't go near the water," or "Don't go near the swings," or "Don't let the youngsters get into the 'stolen' variety instead."

So says Helen Stanick, Cornell University's homemaker in one of her weekly broadcasts.

Instead, she thinks we should borrow a few suggestions from the Sunday School teacher who seems to have the knack of managing the daredevils and mischief-makers of many families. Her knack is acquired through practice and patience. And through good planning.

If the youngsters are kept busy, they won't fall into mischief or come to grief, she says. If games are chosen with care so as not to be too strenuous in the heat of the day, no matter how tiny the tots, they'll enjoy playing.

Two-to-four-year-olds could have a snowball fight, only instead of snow, the youngsters pelt each other with cotton balls made to look like snowballs. And since the cotton is light and doesn't carry too far, the younger kids are forced to stay close-by.

Balloons on a string are another good way to keep the small fry amused, yet safe from dangers that may lurk when they stray.

Even on a picnic, and despite all the activity, the youngsters should still continue with their nap in the afternoon says Miss Stanick. A blanket under a tall shade tree would be just the place for this bit of normal routine on the picnic.

Similarly, six - to - twelve - year-olds can join in these games. Ring - A - Round - The - Rosy and Farmer in the Dell are just as much fun on a picnic as they are in the backyard.

Of course, the older children can also help with the mechanics of the picnic such as setting the table, arranging food, etc. In fact, it is the best time for them to help. The paper dishes can't chip or break, the silverware requires less care in handling and there's less fuss and simpler foods so a properly set table isn't so important.

It's a good idea, says Miss Stanick for several families to combine forces on a picnic. Then one set of parents at a time can see about knowing the whereabouts of all the children and all have less cause to worry about them.

It doesn't take too much time to supervise games. Very often, if the parents start a game, the youngsters will just continue on for a while until the next item on the program which might be a walk or a swim. In this way there is proper supervision without suppression.

It is not obvious supervision, but rather supervision in the sense that parents work and plan with the children for an enjoyable day at the park, woods, or even at the neighbor's barbecue pit.

Anonymous Starlet Tells All About Contract With Studios

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — You can't accuse this film personality of seeking publicity. In fact, she wouldn't even allow her name to be used in this story.

The player, whose name every movie goer knows, agreed to tell me about the wonders of studio contracts. But, lest she get into trouble with her bosses, she insisted on speaking anonymously. So we'll call her Miss X. (Mysterious, huh?)

"Everything I do is theirs," Miss X began. "And I mean everything. If I write a book, coin a joke, paint a picture — they belong to the studio. Of course, this right is usually not exercised, but it is their privilege."

"Furthermore, any use of my face or my name is strictly their property. I cannot appear in an ad testimonial without their permission."

The actress added that her contract gives the studio the right to alter her appearance. She said this became almost humorous in her early days as a starlet.

"First, they didn't like my teeth," she recalled. "The teeth as we photographed. If you are, they have six weeks to get a picture ready for you. After that, you go back on salary."

Film players can also be suspended for refusing roles, as often happens. The studio not only can suspend the players, but cancel their contracts as well. If it is a mere suspension, the players are off salary for the duration of the picture — 40 days, on the average. Then the studio has an additional six weeks to prepare another property for the players.

Nearly all players on studio contracts are paid only 40 weeks a year. The remaining 12 weeks are called "lay-off," and that's the bane of every actor's existence. During that time they can accept no outside pay without the studio's permission.

"We have other restrictions," continued Miss X. "For instance, we can't fly during the production of a picture. Some studios prohibit players from hiring press agents. And then there's the morals clause. If we are the subject of public censure or notoriety, we can be fired."

After listening to all these stipulations, I inquired: "Is it worth it?"

Miss X, perhaps contemplating the salary that comes in when she is neither pregnant, on lay-off nor under suspension, smiled and said, "Yes, it is."

Air Power Fights Submarine Menace

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States Navy thinks it has the answer through combined air operations — to any submarine menace.

Testifying before the House Appropriations Committee on the 1952 defense budget, Vice Admiral John H. Cassady, deputy chief of Naval operations, said: "We have been pushing our anti-submarine warfare aircraft program vigorously, both by modification of existing aircraft models and by design of new ones. We believe that by combined operations, of land planes and sea plane patrol squadrons, together with carrier based hunter-killer air groups, we can control the submarine menace."

Admiral Cassady did not elaborate nor did he mention Russia. He had just told the committee there had been no enemy submarine action in the Korean War. The committee made public his testimony today.

HEY, COACH TIPS!

HARVESTERS MADE CO-CHOICE IN 1-AAAA

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Texas schoolboy football campaign, which this year will crown four state champions, is expected to be the best since the war in quality of play.

The 19-year-age rule goes into effect this fall, meaning older boys. Coaches attending the Texas Coaching School were listing many boys who will have another season of football as a result. The new age limit adds a year.

Favorites for champions in Class AAAA, AAA, AA and A — the divisions deciding state titlists — were well defined. Veteran teams were not an area proposition. Some of the districts showed three and four state championship contenders.

By districts the top contenders for championships are tabbed as follows: District 1-Lubbock, Pampa, District 2-Ysleta, El Paso, District 3-Paschal (Fort Worth), Arlington Heights (Fort Worth), District 4-Adams (Dallas), Sunset (Dallas), District 5-Texarkana, Waco, District 6-Austin, Ray (Corpus Christi), District 7-John Regan (Houston), Lamar (Houston), District 8-Baytown, Port Arthur, Marshall, Conroe and Breckenridge were listed highest in state championship talk in Class AAAA.

Matney Bounced As Dusters Lose

The heat and close scores caused tempers to flare in at least one Longhorn League game last night. Homer Matney, new Vernon manager was chased in the ninth inning of the Dusters' game with Odessa. Odessa pitcher Eddie Johnson was given the thumb earlier. Pepper Martin singled to drive in two runs and tie the score in the last of the ninth. Matney contended the blow was foul and was waved off the field. Police had to escort him away. Martin later scored the winning run helping Roswell win, 4-3. Midland and Sweetwater went 12 innings before the Indians won 6-5. San Angelo broke a five game losing streak with a 6-4 victory over Roswell, and the Big Spring Braves whammed the Artesia Dollers, 9-2.

Brown Bomber Blasts Out Decisive Win Over Brion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Old Joe Louis, decisive winner over Cesar Brion of the Argentine in a furious 10-round battle last night, expressed keen disappointment today over circumstances which may keep him from a title fight for possibly a year.

The former champion, informed of the agreement between title holder Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles to postpone their championship rematch until next year, said he had not given up hope of regaining the crown.

"As long as Walcott or Charles has got it, we still have hope," he said. A crowd of about 12,000 paid $66,325 to see Louis batter the game South American.

Brion stood up under punishment that would have flattened many a fighter. He was groggy from the seventh through the tenth. His face was puffed and blood flowed from cuts on the side of each eye. It was Louis' second 10-round win over Brion. This one was far more decisive than their meet in Chicago last November. Louis, slow-footed but packing much of the wallop that enabled him to rule the heavyweight ranks for 11 years, took pot shots at his younger opponent in the early rounds. He landed an occasional shocker and his punches carried more authority than Brion's. In the seventh round, Louis caught up with his man. He battered Brion with lefts and rights to the head and drove in body blows that had the latter groggy.

Hubbers Close Door On G-Sox

LUBBOCK (AP) — Johnny Pine gave Amarillo three runs in the second inning but thereafter was untouchable as he hung up his second victory and the Lubbock Hubbers won a series opener from the Amarillo Gold Sox, 6-3, here last night. Home runs by Paul Dobkowski and Al Kubski sparked Lubbock to five runs in the first inning, the first five men to bat hitting successively. Monk Webb gave up only one run after that, but the portly lefthander's team-mates couldn't do anything for him. Majors Draw Fire For Geography

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Celler, D-N.Y., of a House judiciary subcommittee investigating organized baseball said today that having major leagues only in the eastern states is "intolerable." "There must be changes," he said. "And I'm going to insist on it. We can't have this iron-clad system forever." The committee, trying to determine whether baseball should be exempt from anti-trust laws, looked today to two minor league spokesmen for further information. They are Harry Simmons, public relations man for the International League, and George Trautman, president of the minor leagues' National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs.

Rumor Missions Being Sold Soon

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — The San Antonio Missions of the Texas League may be sold with George Schepps, former president of the Dallas club, to become president of the new organization. This was revealed yesterday in San Antonio. When contacted Schepps said he had been approached by two different groups about "operating" the club for the prospective new owners but that nothing had

Conclude Series With Single Tilt Here Tonight

The Oilers opened a six-day home stand last night at Oiler Park by breaking even in doubleheader with the fourth place Albuquerque Dukes, the club they hope to dislodge from first division before season's end. The final scores were 2-1 and 2-4.

Tonight the two clubs conclude their series with a single game starting at 6:30. Righthander Al Kavanagh is the pitching selection for the Oilers, while Bob Spence is the likely Duke hurler.

Last night's game provided plenty of thrills for the over 1,000 paid customers. The first game sailed along to the bottom of the tenth inning before the Oilers were able to win, 2-1, on the second unearned run and their second hit off righthander Don Cantrell.

Fielding gems by second baseman Jimmie Banks saved the game time and again. The winning hurler was Red Dial, who relieved starter Clyde Baldwin in the top of the final inning. It was Dial's fourth win in eight days.

The second game was decided quickly, with the Dukes putting hits around walks issued by starter Bill Coffey lined a single into rightfield in the bottom of the tenth inning of the first game to score Banks from second with the winning run. Banks, who had scored the Oilers' first run in the opening frame, thanks to an error by Alben Maul, had gotten on in the tenth on an error by Madalena.

The Dukes' lone run off Baldwin was earned in the third when Don Cantrell opened with a triple and scored while Madalena bounced early on Coffey.

Cantrell gave up but one hit until the game winning blow in the tenth. That was a second inning, lead off single to center by rookie catcher Fred Lujan. In the second affair the visitors' early on Coffey.

They scored one in the first when two walks were followed by a single by Maul. Four solid hits in the second accounted for four more runs and brought George Payne to the batter's box in the fourth, after giving up two runs in the third. Dial came on in the fourth with two and one run in. He got Martin to line into a double play to end the trouble.

Francis Rice, centerfielder, pitched last three frames and was hurt to the extent of only one run. Meanwhile, lefty Carnett had the Oilers on his hip. They scored two in the third and a single one in the fifth on Phillips' home run and then tried to start more trouble in the ninth. But after two runs scored, Carnett quelled things.

The Oilers played with a shaken up lineup. Frank Calo being out for several days with a bruised groin. To help Fred Lujan with the catching chores the Oilers have put veteran Newt Secret on five-day look. The Oilers also announced the outright releasing of righthander Len Ruyle, who has been troubled with a sore arm all season.

The Oilers lineup has also been injury riddled, necessitating the playing of a pitcher in the outfield. In addition, second baseman Earl Harriman was called back to Albuquerque early Wednesday due to the illness of his wife.

LANE SAID TOP COLLEGE PROSPECT SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The North was established as a heavy favorite today to win the annual Bryan of Kentucky game of the Texas coaching school. And it wasn't just the critics doing the picking — Forest Anderson of Bradley University, coach of the South, said his team had little chance against the Giants from the northern region of the Texas Intercollegiate League.

The major reason the north is favored is a six-foot-six youngster from Borger — Keith Lane — who has fitted into the style of attack as taught by Cliff Wells, coach of Tulsa. Wells said Lane was one of the greatest prospects he had seen in "some time." All-star football squads that battle tomorrow night tapered off today with both coaches — Ford Bryan of Kentucky for the South and Frank Howard of Clemson for the North — expressing optimism. Bryan said there was a marked improvement all the way around as the youngsters "settled into the routine of this fast-stopping T formation. He liked especially the work of backfielders Duane Nutt of Corsicana, Bobby Page of Leverett's Chapel and Eddie Henning of Tyler.

Howard has forecast a high-scoring game but hasn't indicated he thinks the South will get more touchdowns than his team.

A meeting has been scheduled in San Antonio Friday and another Monday by a group of "influential" San Antonio businessmen interested in buying the club. Schepps said he would attend both meetings.

Veteran baseball man Bill Veck is reported to be willing to sell the franchise, park and players for around $750,000.

Pitchers Taking Beating As Heat, Twin Bills Mounting

PEEK-A-BOO—Upset by Dale Mitchell, Phil Rizzuto ended up in this ungainly position, but forced the Indians' outfielder at second base in the big series at Yankee Stadium. Second Baseman Jerry Coleman fielded Luke Easter's grounder and tossed to the shortstop. (NEA)

Pitchers Taking Beating As Heat, Twin Bills Mounting

(By The Associated Press) Pity the poor pitchers, caught in the steaming heat and doubleheader jam of the steaming fourth American League race. Even the best are crumbling under the strain.

Allie Reynolds, no-hit ace of the Yankees surge, lasted only one inning yesterday against Detroit as New York lost a 9-5 first game. Things were so tough that Casey Stengel brought him back to rescue Tom Morgan and save the Yankees' two-game lead with a 10-6 edge in the second.

Cleveland's Bob Lemon was bombed in the sixth at Washington where overworked Mike Garcia, a 15-game winner, had to help save an 8-6 first game. Early Wynn failed to last in the second game, fading for a pinch hitter in Washington's 4-3 victory.

Only one Boston Red Sox pitcher has gone the route in the last seven games with the club home at Fenway Park where it is supposed to be invincible. Instead of gaining ground, the Sox have dropped 2 1/2 behind the Yankees.

Ellis Kinder made his fifth appearance in a week yesterday after Willard Nixon pulled a tendon in his thigh sliding into a base. Nixon, inconsistent all season with only two complete games, was pitching two-hit ball for seven innings when hurt. Walt Masterson and Kinder nailed down his 5-1 edge over St. Louis.

For a change Chicago got a full nine-inning job as Billy Pierce whipped Philadelphia, 4-3, to remain seven games off the pace. But White Sox pitchers have been showing the strain during the eastern swing. Howie Judson and Joe Dobson, in particular.

Brooklyn's pitching also had a rough time at Pittsburgh where the Pirates knocked out Ralph Branca and roughed up loser Clyde King to win 12-9. Ralph Kiner hit his 27th homer for the Bucs and Gil Hodges, No. 21, been injury riddled, necessitating the playing of a pitcher in the outfield.

The loss cut the Brooks' lead to nine games because New York split a pair with Chicago, losing 3-2 to Cal McLish and winning 2-0 on rookie Al Corvin's seven-hit shutout for his first big league victory.

Despite a 1-0 blanking at the hands of Cincinnati's Kenny Raffensberger, the Phillies held tight to third place because St. Louis lost.

The Cardinals were edged out by Boston, 2-1, dropping into a fourth-place tie with the Braves. Warren Spahn won his 12th on a five-hitter. Sam Jethroe sped home from first on an infield out and wild throw by Stan Musial to win the game in the seventh.

Lobos Halt Gassers' Streak

LAMESA (AP) — Lamesa's Lobos stopped the Borger Gassers' win streak at five in a row and snapped their own two game losing streak here last night before only 554 fans, winning the series opener 4-2.

Herb Dapico outpitched Ray Drake to gain his fifth win against one defeat. Damico fanned five, allowed nine scattered hits, and held the Gassers scoreless except for the sixth frame.

Blue Sox Sneak By Clovis, 8-7

ABLENE (AP) — Blue Sox batters displaced erratic pitching of Eulis Rosson to defeat the Clovis Pioneers, 8-7, in a series opener last night.

The hitting was even nine bingles per team — and Clovis played errorless baseball while the Blue Sox committed three fumbles, all of them costly. But the Blue Sox bats boomed at a pair of liners to overcome a fairly good pitching job by Joe Borrego and four threats by the anxious Pioneers.

There's no need to keep your hunting dogs idle during summer, according to Henry P. Davis, well known dog authority. It is neither pleasing to the dog nor to his advantage.

Inactivity makes him fat and lazy. His muscles become soft. His keen ambition fades and he is prone to forget some of the lessons he has learned. Right now you have some wonderful opportunities for training and conditioning him in preparation for the open season ahead.

Mangrum Plays At Tam As Police Seek Threateners

CHICAGO — (AP) — Guarded by a couple of policemen who have orders to follow him everywhere but onto the putting surface of the greens, Lloyd Mangrum — his composure undisturbed by the police — has been made the favorite to win Tam o'Shanter All-American golf honors.

Dapper Mangrum insists he still has that anonymous telephone threat at St. Paul ringing in his ears. Someone told him last weekend not to win the St. Paul Open or he might be

All-Star Dodgers Are In, Experts Say; Solid Club May Grab Series

By JOE KING
 NEA Special Correspondent
 NEW YORK — (NEA) — Brooklyn is in the experts' eye, and the Red Sox will make it this time no matter what they do wrong.

If that is so, the Dodgers can go back to the beginning of their World Series history, to see if they can set it right. It was against the Red Sox in 1916 that Brooklyn made the first of five unsuccessful essays on the world title.

The 1916 Series was interesting because it apparently set a pattern for future Dodger Series teams which may be busted by the 1951 entry.

This time, if Dodger Dreamland comes true, Flatbush will present a solid, all-star team. It was not that way in 1916, and in other pennant years, when Brooklyn clubs did not have the depth and stability of the American League winners.

In '16, for instance, the Dodgers copped when the defending Phillies faded, and the Giants, who ran off 17 and then 26 straight, reached their peak through trades too late. Meanwhile, the Red Sox with a respectable pitching staff, under Bill Carrigan, bested an oddity in view of '51 — the White Sox under Pants Rowland.

Perhaps the fondest memory of 1916 for Flatbush was the appearance at long last of Nap Rucker in the Series. Rucker, one of the finest southpaws of the era, had, like Walter Johnson, to wait until the autumn of his career to get his chance. It was not much, just two innings in relief, but

It was an historic Series for the Red Sox because it marked the start of Babe Ruth's still-standing Series record of 29 consecutive scoreless innings as a left-hand pitcher. Ruth had pitched 323 innings that year, had an earned-run average of 1.75, and won 23, lost 12. He could hit, too.

For a flash back, here's how the Dodgers started going wrong.

In the first game, in Boston, Ernie Shore defeated Rube Marquard, 6-5, but only after Carl Mays had quelled a four-run Flatbush rally in the ninth. Jake Daubert ended it with three on and two out.

Ruth was the sifcock of the second game, over Sherry Smith. Hy Myers, Brooklyn center fielder, hit a home run in the first, and then Babe pitched 13 scoreless innings to win, 2-1, in the 18th. Incidentally, Babe did not hit in five tries.

Brooklyn won the third game at Ebbets Field when Colby Jack Coombs, the Iron Man of the Athletics, and a standout of former Series, defeated Mays, 4-2. Ivy Olson, no great hitter, tripled for two runs to whip Mays, but Combs needed help from Jeff Pfeffer in the seventh after Larry Gardner, leading Boston batsman, hit a homer.

The Dutch Leonard of an earlier time set Brooklyn back in the fourth game, 8-2. Rube Marquard, the victim of Home Run Baker in the 1911 and 1913 Series, was defeated this time by Gardner's three-run homer inside the park!

carried out of town. Shaken, he went out the next day and won. Then he hurried to Chicago where George S. May, the Tam president demanded a 24-hour bodyguard assigned to Lloyd.

Mangrum, Sam Snead, Bobby Locke, Jim Ferrier and other topflight pros, except Ben Hogan, are in the field of 120 teeing off today on the first lap of the 72-hole $15,000 All-American meet. The winner gets $2,250.

Hogan is committed to several exhibitions, but he has promised to make his first return in four years to May's jamboree in the "world championship" meet Aug. 9-12. The winner of that scramble gets $12,500.

Hogan, who shot a four-under-par 68 in a trial run yesterday, denies he was given a guarantee by May for appearing in a tournament that he has been shunning because of its "carnival atmosphere."

"It's now a golf meet instead of a carnival," said little Ben, the National Open champion.

Decision Expected On Commissioner

Definite indication that the decision is near came yesterday when the four-man screening committee asked each club to send the owner or president to the special meeting.

Two Top Race Drivers Killed

WINCHESTER, Ind. — (AP) — Two speedy drivers were killed within a 15-minute period yesterday and both rode to death from virtually the same spot on a steep banked curve.

At two other speedway tracks — in Illinois and Pennsylvania — accidents killed three persons — a driver and two spectators.

Two well-known drivers — Cecil Green, 31, of Houston, Tex., and Bill Mackey of Indianapolis — were killed when their roaring, ground-eating racers went out of control at the Funk Speedway near Winchester, Ind.

First to die was Green whose Offenhauser Special spun as he hit the steep southwest banked curve. The car crashed through a two-foot guard rail, turning as it plunged down a 25-foot embankment.

Within 15 minutes, Mackey zoomed toward the same curve. His car went into a sudden spin, smashed the guard rail and went down the embankment. Later, a track official said Mackey's racer left skid marks less than six inches from those made by Green's ill-fated car.

A spokesman for the American Automobile Association said there was an oil slick on the steep curve and that both drivers apparently were going too fast along the asphalt track to negotiate it. Green and Mackey were making time trials on the half-mile track.

Gainesville Back On Even Keel

DALLAS — (AP) — Gainesville's feud with club owner Dick Burnett has been settled and all is "peaceful again," the owner of the Big State League club and the Dallas Eagles says.

Fans and club officials met in Gainesville yesterday. The fans agreed to support the club and withdraw an injunction suit against Burnett and others.

Fans had sued to force Burnett to play all home games in Gainesville.

FAIR ENOUGH--PEGLER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
NEW YORK -- When Senator Harry F. Byrd cried out against the pro-Communist civil rights program of the Truman administration, he made a glaring reference to a threat which seemed important enough for stronger and longer emphasis.

President's Committee on Civil Rights, Senator Byrd said: 'It is even recommended that the federal government shall be given the power to supervise the discussion of matters in the states relating to national political issues.'

from a foreign country,' Debnam wrote. 'Of course there are signs of poverty and unhappiness in the South! Mrs. Roosevelt doesn't have to come South to find such things. Almost from the window of her hotel in New York she can look out and see what is possibly the greatest cesspool of heap-up-and-pressed-down - and - running - over poverty and crime and spiritual and moral and economic unhappiness on the face of the earth.'

ONE FRIEND
He is 77 years old and he has five million dollars and a friend. His friend is 11 years old. I can't remember when his name hasn't been in power in the theater and a symbol of the theater's inherent goodness and rightness...

Sanctions, in this sense of the word is a jargon term meaning enforcement or punishment. When we hear that the American League is kicking in producing dirty plays, now and again, a dirty play would pay off, but not often. Whereas this man, having strictly followed the line of decency, scarcely ever had a failure. There is a commentary for all show business there, but I haven't space enough to make it.

He also has a 20-acre estate at Bayshore on Long Island and has two girls across over to his playground for children. He has two rules: don't bring him a play to read that isn't clean - and don't ever lock the gates on the estate. Somewhere back he turned management of the playgrounds over to the PAL - the Police Athletic League. This organization uses trained officers to handle kids, to direct their play and be sympathetic. The kids, mostly, are from underprivileged areas.

LEGAL THEFT

Because he sets forth clearly things that this column has been saying over and over, we want to quote from a report in the current issue of Edison News, monthly publication of the Southern California Edison Co., on an address by W. C. Mullendore, president of the company...

One of the most prolific sources of error and confusion in this dangerous period of crisis and moral disintegration is the idea that government can repeal the fundamental laws which man must observe to realize his potential as a human being. Theft is theft; murder is murder; and the 10 Commandments remain in force regardless either of the decrees of autocrats or of the acts of democratically elected legislatures.

Respect for the basic human right of private property is absolutely essential to human progress and the maintenance of organized society. In other words, the practice of theft, whether legalized or illegal, is a deadly disintegrating force which, when it becomes widespread will destroy the strongest of nations, and when it becomes international, will lead to war and chaos. In recent decades, increasingly our Federal Government and many local governments have legalized and encouraged theft in many forms and under many disguises. Controlling it in the form of theft, and government has authorized, and caused to be introduced into our monetary and fiscal system, billions upon billions of dollars of counterfeit purchasing power.

The savings and income of citizens, who are doing business under the American plan of private ownership, are heavily taxed. Other citizens engaged in the same kind of business activity are granted the very special favor of tax exemption under the empty excuse that their plant is 'owned and operated by government.'

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By J. WARD P. JORDAN, M. D.
In spite of the fact that hundreds of thousands of men, women, and children weigh more than they should, the doctor says that most of them have a more or less active desire to reduce, few seem to realize how much they are putting their health in danger by remaining fat.

Obesity has been shown to have a marked effect on a large number of diseases including high blood pressure, diabetes, toxemias of pregnancy, heart disease, and even cancer. The fat person runs increased risks from surgery, is more likely to develop gallbladder disease and to sustain fractures and a whole host of other ailments.

Tables of 'ideal' weight cannot be presented here, but a few selections may help some readers to place themselves. Figures on this have been prepared by a large insurance company: for women over 25 height 5 feet - from 105 to 129 pounds depending on the size of frame; height 5 feet 3 inches - from 119 to 143 pounds; on frame; height 5 feet 6 inches - from 133 to 162 pounds also depending on frame.

Tables have also been prepared for growing boys and girls of different ages and heights. But there are variations between individuals which may be quite normal - in size of frame, for example - so it is best to arrive at an ideal with the assistance of the doctor.

I DON'T LIKE MY COMMANDING OFFICER. IS THERE A SALUTE THAT WILL SHOW MILITARY RESPECT BUT WILL ALSO TELL HIM WHAT I THINK PERSONALLY?
A man as limited as he is might easily become the innocent dupe of Communists. He may be abnormally ignorant of many things but he is certainly not ignorant of the mechanics of political power. He has made an effective use of the scare tactic to grab executive power as did his predecessor. His buildup of Russia keeps his states going. Truman may be foolish in thinking that he can use the Communists and then discard them, but he is not too foolish to see that he and they have a common purpose - the destruction of American liberty.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON--Secretary Acheson's failure to issue an official pronouncement on the effect of the United Nations charter on federal, state and local laws and ordinances has created an amazing amount of judicial confusion throughout the country. In several instances it has led to grave miscarriages of justice because of the courts' interpretation of the charter's meaning.

CRIME -- The 11 Communists convicted in New York demanded their freedom, despite clear evidence of their guilt, under a justice in Naples tried to sue the United States government under the treaty. It is understood that there are hundreds of pending cases in which ratification of the charter has been invoked to nullify federal, state and local laws. Indeed, it is maintained by sound constitutional lawyers that a vocal insult or physical injury to a member of any racial minority in the United States, and that covers millions of people, could be punished under the Genocide treaty.

IDEALS -- Secretary Acheson's failure to clarify this confusing situation puzzles even U.N. experts in the State Department, especially as he seems to agree with critics of the pact's repercussions on domestic conditions. When the California Appellate court vitiated the alien land act on the ground that it violated terms of the charter, Acheson asked Solicitor General Perlman to intervene on behalf of the state. Despite the United States' agreement in the Constitution, the secretary of state held that the U.N. document did not supersede federal or state or local laws.

CONFUSION

Unfortunately, the Acheson - Perlman edict has never been published. According to the solicitor general he saw no reason for making it public or for federal intervention in the land litigation until the state had exhausted its remedies before the California Supreme court and the Supreme Court of the United States.

RETROSPECT

As a matter of fact, the Senate is giving careful study to all U.N. provisions relating to their present disturbing and controversial effect. So far it has ratified only two formal and innocuous treaties transferring the World Narcotic Control Organization and ILO from jurisdiction of the defunct Nations.

FACT

Although the Genocide officer, a school janitor, an 11-year-old boy, The trouble? The boy, again, had destroyed $30 worth of school windows by chucking rocks through them. 'Can't his father pay for the damage?' No, he couldn't. He was an unemployed truck driver. But he had said the last time it happened that if it ever happened again the police could have the boy, money or no money. 'I just don't want to take the boy in,' said the officer. 'But the $30 has to be paid? You pay it, I never saw a boy say that was worth at least $30.'

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Expert Makes It Look Rather Simple

By OSWALD JACOBY

Every national tournament has its share of weird contracts and the championships now being held in Washington will surely prove no exception to the rule. A real crackpot contract usually comes about when a player makes a bid that he expects to run out of — except that the bidding unexpectedly dies and leaves him high and dry.

This, at any rate, was the reason for the fantastic bid of three no-trump in the hand shown today. South was John Gerber of Houston, Texas, and the hand was played in last year's national tournament. Gerber wanted to play the hand at four hearts and was afraid that the enemy would go to four spades unless he talked them out of it. His jump to three no-trump was an attempt to persuade the enemy that their hands really didn't fit well and that they couldn't make much. Gerber expected to be doubled at three no-trump, after which he might run to four clubs, and then four diamonds, and finally four hearts.

It was a good idea, but as it happened the opponents really didn't have very much. North was well satisfied with no-trump even though he suspected what Gerber was doing. So the Texan star wound up playing the hand no-trump with a singleton in each hand.

Gerber next led the queen of hearts and let it ride for a finesse. This was a fine guess, based on the assumption that East had raised spades because of distributional strength. Declarer then led a diamond to dummy's king, and East won with the ace.

East decided that clubs were the only hope for his side, so he returned a club. With the diamonds breaking favorably Gerber now had the rest of the tricks, putting the ace of spades to sleep. His 12 tricks at no-trump gave him a clear top score.

DEER HEARTS AND GENTLE PUPPIES—Deer and dachshunds can live together in harmony—provided there's plenty of chow to go around. This happy "family group" on a farm near Bergen, Germany, proves it. A German farmer found two young deer, injured and abandoned. He took them home, only to discover that his pet dachshund had given birth to seven little, long ones. Now, all nine pets are growing up together. (NEA-Acme photo by Staff Photographer Gerhard P. Seinig.)

Many Farm Areas Over State Suffer Lack Of Moisture

AUSTIN —(AP)—Drought plagued Texas farmers and ranchers this week, dehydrating crops and pastures in all areas except the high plains. The U.S. Department of Agriculture said extreme temperatures and drought lowered cotton prospects in the southern two-thirds of the state. Cotton was blooming and fruiting rapidly across northern Texas and in the high plains. Irrigated cotton in extreme West Texas made satisfactory progress, though some acreage was affected by a shortage of irrigation water.

The cotton harvest was starting in south central and south-eastern counties. Combining of grain sorghums was on in upper coastal and south central counties.

Late corn in north central counties matured rapidly, but prospective yields were cut by dry weather. Peanuts made satisfactory growth in the northern commercial counties but needed rain in east and south central Texas.

The harvest of a short hay crop continued in eastern and central counties. Rice remained in fair to good condition. The broomcorn harvest neared completion.

Favorable conditions were reported for the harvest of the few remaining commercial vegetables. Watermelon supplies were expected in volume for fairly active movement through most of August. A light movement of cantaloups was started in the Pecos irrigated area. Late melons were still available over a wide area of non-irrigated mid-season and late sections.

Active harvest of the Pan-handle potato crop resumed the latter part of the week. Range and pasture condition deteriorated fast. Pasture feed was curing fast in western, southern and central areas and beginning to suffer in eastern and north central counties.

The movement of livestock to markets increased and was substantially larger than a year ago, USDA said. Marketing of surplus stock was hastened by short range and pasture feeds.

The Best Way For Killing Poison Ivy Is Dig It Out

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service
Written for NEA Service

POISON IVY

The foliage of the stately delphinium and foxglove would necessitate a call for a physician, or that the leaves of rhododendron and mountain laurel can be equally dangerous if taken internally? Of the hundreds of native plants, only poison ivy is poisonous by contact.

Poison ivy, botanically listed as Rhus toxicodendron, is often mistaken for the harmless Virginia creeper, but the latter has five leaves while poison ivy has only three, and they are noticeably shiny. The plants differ also in their fruit, the poison ivy having small white berry-like fruits, while those of the Virginia creeper are black.

Poison ivy is hard to kill and any chemical that will eradicate it will kill nearly everything near it. The surest method is to dig it out, keeping manfully at the job until all the roots — and they run far and wide — are in the fire.

Wear gloves and do not rub your face or bare parts of the body after you have touched the plant. Afterwards wash hands, stems and bags peanuts.

arms and face thoroughly in strong laundry soap, and to be on the safe side, wash the gloves as well.

Some folk, and I am one of them, appear to be immune to the plant and can handle it without danger. Even so, the smart person will, after returning from the woods, use soap and water as a precaution.

Alcohol or straight gasoline will dissolve the poisonous non-volatile oil which is secreted upon the leaves. Ethyl gasoline should not be used because it may result in lead poisoning.

Small patches of poison ivy may be killed by spraying now with 2, 4-D or ammonium sulfamate. Two or three applications at 10-day intervals may be necessary as it is difficult to cover all the foliage. 2, 4-D is sold under various trade names, while ammonium sulfamate is listed as Ammate. For best results mix according to the directions on the container.

An experimental machine has been developed that digs, cleans, plant. Afterwards wash hands, stems and bags peanuts.
