U. S., Japan Agree On Security Treaty

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— The United States and Japan signed a security treaty giving this country the right to maintain its armed forces "in and about Japan" indefinitely.

The 14-minute signing ceremony, following by a few hours the 49-nation conclusion of a Japanese peace treaty, took place in San Francisco's famed Presidio by the Golden Gate and before the paired flags of the two nations.

Secretary of State Acheson, principal signer for the United States, hailed the treaty as a means "to bulwark freedom with military strength."

Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida declared "this pact insures the security of the unarmed and defenseless Japan."

The pact is a supplement to the peace treaty, its practical effect is to make possible the retention of American forces in Japan after the peace treaty ends the present military occupation.

The preamble to the treaty specifies that Japan will "increasingly assume responsibility for its own defense" but will avoid all weapons "which could be an offensive threat."

Unlike various mutual defense pacts entered into by the United States in the Atlantic and Pacific areas in recent years, the agreement imposes no formal commitment upon the United States for the defense of Japan.

The pact states that "Japan renounces the United States 'accepts the right' to keep its forces 'in and about Japan.' No bases are specified.

The preamble in making clear the purposes of the arrangement stated that Japan is in danger of "irresponsible militarism" in the world and declared the United States "presently willing" to keep some of its troops in the Japanese area.

The pact makes it possible for U.S. forces to step in at any time to take Communist uprising in Japan.

The session opened at 5:05 p.m. Pacific daylight time (6:05 p.m. CST) and concluded at 5:19 p.m. Secretary Acheson opened the signing at 5:13. He was followed by 48 former enemy nations.

The signing was followed by a dinner at the Presidio Hotel. The treaty is expected to be ratified by the Senate in the next few weeks.

Johnson Says Borger Fire Costly To U.S.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The recent fire and explosion at the Phillips Chemical Co.'s butadiene plant at Borger will cost this country between 20,000 and 30,000 tons of synthetic rubber, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas) said Saturday night.

Johnson, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee, set forth the estimate in a letter to Mark Fleischmann, chief of the National Production Authority.

Johnson wrote Fleischmann the expected loss in rubber production is "an additional reason why our stockpile objective for defense purposes should be attained as soon as possible." He added:

"Private interests should not be permitted to persuade the government, at the expense of the nation's defense, to slow down the stockpiling program and permit an increase in rubber consumption for civilian uses."

In a report last Tuesday, Johnson's subcommittee charged that the national interest had suffered by a government decision in April to reduce stockpiling rates.

As for the Borger plant, Johnson told Fleischmann:

"I have been informed that, on an optimistic basis, before the plant is restored to full operation, approximately 20,000 to 30,000 tons of rubber will be lost. Further, if certain scarce and essential equipment has been severely damaged, the plant may be out of operation for a number of months.

"The loss of rubber accordingly might run as high as 50,000 tons before the plant is back in full operation."

State Of War With Japanese Is Ended

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— Japan and 48 former enemy nations Saturday signed a peace treaty to formally end World War II.

But Russia rejected it. A few hours later, Japan and the United States affixed signatures to a security pact. It gives the U. S. the right to retain armed forces in Japan after the occupation.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Japan's Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, among those signing the peace treaty, were principal signers of the security pact.

The peace treaty signing ceremony was in the San Francisco war memorial opera house. Last to sign was Yoshida, a tiny man in a black cutaway coat. He wrote his name on the document at 11:34 a.m. (12:34 p.m. CST). The ceremony took slightly more than an hour.

It was nine years, nine months and one day after Pearl Harbor; and six years and seven days after the Japanese surrendered aboard the battleship Missouri.

Andrei Gromyko, Russian delegate to the four-day session here, said the conference while the other delegates were assembling for the concluding ceremony.

Gromyko held a press conference and branded the treaty as a "draft for a new war," adding "the Soviet Union would fail in its duties if it was signed. He and the rest of his delegation got into automobiles and drove from the conference site.

Delegates from Poland and Czechoslovakia, whose verbal attacks on the American "drafted" treaty had culminated through the conference, also refused to join in the ceremony.

Lack of Russia's signature to the peace treaty leaves a state of war existing between Russia and Japan. It also leaves Soviet relations with Japan followed by a big question mark.

When asked at a "farewell" press conference this morning what he intended to do about the Russian embassy in Tokyo, Gromyko replied:

"There is no mission there under appropriate international agreements." The big question was what would happen to that mission when the treaty is ratified by the necessary number of powers and signed by the treaty change their missions to embassies.

If the letter of the treaty is carried out, a state of war will still exist between Russia and Japan and her mission will have to be withdrawn.

Ambassador Joseph Foster Dulles, author of the treaty, described the Communist bloc effort to sidetrack the conference as only a "rear-guard action," implying the Russians knew they were beaten before they came.

It was Dulles who spent 11 months, spending from one country to another, working out details to secure a draft that would (See JAP. TREATY, Page 2)

Frank Ikard Sweeps Field; Republican Candidate Third

WICHITA FALLS —(AP)— Frank Ikard, 37-year-old district judge, Saturday was elected congressman from Texas' 13th congressional district.

With returns in from 227 precincts of the 322 precincts in the 15-county district, Ikard's two nearest opponents conceded. Ikard was leading his nearest opponent by almost two to one.

The first to concede was Walter Jenkins of Wichita Falls, and the second was the lone Republican in the eight-way race, Joe Jackson, Wichita Falls oilman.

At that time, Ikard had 7678 votes to 3212 for Jenkins and 4216 for Jackson.

The other candidates, except for Wayne Waggoner of Stoneburg, who had 3144 votes, trailed badly.

Jackson said simply "all the best luck to the man who won." Jenkins, who quit his administrative assistant to U.S. Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas) to make the race, promised "my full support" to Ikard.

Latest figures reported for the other candidates were: Doug Crouch of Denton, 2101; W. D. McFarlane of Graham, 2165; Mrs. Edith Wilms of Vineyard 48, and James A. Stephens of Benjamin, 42.

Ikard, who worked his way from cowboy to judge of the 20th District court, was making his first race against competition. After appointment to the court by the late Gov. Beauford Jester, he was elected without opposition in 1950.

Like most of the Democratic candidates in the race, he drew many administrative policies, including tidelands and civil rights program. He called for reduction in the number of government bureaus, decentralization and governmental economy.

It was a long man-wins race among seven Democrats and one Republican seeking to succeed Rep. Ed Gossett. Gossett quit to take a $25,000 job as counsel for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. at Dallas.

Charges of loose government spending and corruption were not made only by the lone Republican. (See FRANK IKARD, Page 2)

Group Okays Tax Increase

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Senate Finance committee approved Saturday a $2,394,000,000 increase in personal income taxes. That would be $460,000,000 less than those voted by the House.

The committee also approved a boost of $1,283,000,000 in sales (excise) taxes on liquor, tobacco, gasoline, automobiles, appliances and scores of other items.

And it voted to fix corporation tax in 1952 at $1,100,000,000, a reduction of $150,000,000 from the House figure.

Tentative decisions on each of these taxes had been announced previously. Saturday, the committee worked on final touches in its bill expected to raise about $6,000,000,000 in new revenue. The House approved a $7,200,000,000 increase.

Most of the changes from earlier decisions were minor adjustments. Chairman George (D-Ga.) said the committee planned to complete its draft by Monday, working into a night session if necessary.

As the war's tempo quickened, the United Nations command learned that major elements of a Chinese division with tanks were in Kaesong, western Korean city where truce talks were broken off Aug. 2. A reliable source said the troops had been there since before July 15, when the Reds agreed to make Kaesong a neutral city.

In the battle for the hills, Chinese forces laid down an artillery barrage and then charged up an allied-held hilltop position northeast of Korangpo, which is 15 miles east of Kaesong.

The Chinese counterattack came after the Red troops had twice been driven back under heavy allied artillery fire.

Allied patrols feeling their way into no-man's-land ran into Red outposts units and exchanged rifle and machinegun fire at long range during the day.

Burroughs Says Killing Accidental

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— William Seward Burroughs said Saturday he had opened his pistol to see if it was loaded, the carriage slipped and the shot was fired killing his wife.

His 27-year-old wife Joan, was hit in the forehead and died in Red Cross hospital here Thursday night.

Burroughs, 46, member of a prominent St. Louis family, was questioned for 90 minutes before Criminal Judge Eduardo Urzaiz Jimenez today.

After the hearing was over he was held without bail for further hearing Monday. He is (See BURROUGHS, Page 2)

Communists Grab Hilltop As Tempo Of War Is Stepped Up

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea —(AP)— Chinese Communist troops smashed their way to the top of a western Korean hill Saturday and allied patrols probed no-man's-land for signs of a new Red offensive.

As the war's tempo quickened, the United Nations command learned that major elements of a Chinese division with tanks were in Kaesong, western Korean city where truce talks were broken off Aug. 2.

A reliable source said the troops had been there since before July 15, when the Reds agreed to make Kaesong a neutral city.

New Violations Charged As Commies Hint New Talk Site

TOKYO —(AP)— The Allies reported a major Chinese Communist violation of the Kaesong neutral zone Saturday as Red radios hinted that a change in site for the Korean truce talks must be acceptable.

A source, considered highly reliable informed the United Nations command that major elements of a Chinese division remained in Kaesong after the Red agreed to do this and promised that only a small force of "military police" would be kept (See VIOLATION, Page 2)

Some allied troops from that area still were straggling back to their lines last night.

Communist assault troops pushed an Eighth Army unit (300) a full position southwest of Kimsong, farther to the east.

There were no reports of fighting on the eastern front.

'The Story Of Pampa' To Be Presented By The Daily News

Work on "The Story of Pampa" to be presented in this newspaper beginning Sept. 17, will be completed the latter part of this week. Leo H. Oppenheim, experienced industrial and civic surveyor, is handling the survey.

Oppenheim has spent more than six weeks on the survey, and has studied all facets of Pampa's life. The survey includes the city's retail and wholesale concerns, financial institutions, churches, hospital and health facilities, homes, diversification of manufacturers, hotel and tourist facilities and ranching and agricultural pursuits, oil development and other parts of Pampa.

Presentation of "The Pampa Story" will show how Pampa rates as a good place to live, rear a family, operate a business or work in business.

The survey is sponsored by The Pampa Daily News.

Knows It's Korea -- But Where?

Pvt. Don Morrison knows where he is—but he doesn't. At least he has asked for a map to help him and his buddies in the First Cavalry division find out just where they are.

Pvt. Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Morrison, 1221 Mary Ellen, knows he is in Korea—he has been there since Aug. 16. But he wants a map of the country so he will know where he is in relation to other parts of the country. He knows he is on the western front near Yonchon but doesn't know where some of the other towns are located.

Mrs. Morrison is sending a small map printed in The Pampa Daily News to help him.

He is satisfactory as possible to the treaty.

Hipolito Jesus Paz, that country's ambassador to the United States, strode quickly to the platform and affixed his name.

Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines secretary of foreign affairs, led his delegation to the table. It was Romulo who coined one of the best remembered phrases of the conference.

"It's not that we will let bygones be bygones, the little general told Yoshida in a hotel conference, 'but to make sure that bygones will not happen again.'"

Acheson was the first to sign for the United States. He was followed by Dulles, Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) and Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.).

Acheson came down from the presiding officer's chair to take the pen in hand and affix his name to the historic document.

Each signer was given the pen he used as a keepsake. The ceremony took an hour and 2 minutes.

in the five mile neutral zone.

The talks were suspended by the Reds on Aug. 23 after charging that an allied plane bombed Kaesong. Since then, a stream of charges of alleged allied violations of the zone has come from the Communists.

The allies are now awaiting a Red reply to Ridgway's newest proposal that the talks resume in a location where there will be no interruptions.

At least part of the Red soldiers in Kaesong were reported to be dressed in civilian clothes. They watched United Nations delegates and correspondents move in and out of the city daily while the negotiations were on.

Correspondents recalled that the road to Kaesong as the truck passed. The onlookers stood at parade attention.

It was common also to see the faces of men peering out of the windows of latched huts along the way.

Some reports have credited the Reds with 80 to 100 tanks in the area, mostly the old Russian T-34 model, but including newer "Stalin" types.

There were a few hints in Communist broadcasts that the Reds might be considering Ridgway's proposal for starting the truce talks again somewhere else.

Owen Drennen, 711 Montagu, was one of the five persons injured last week in a five-car collision near Plainview.

He was treated at the Plainview hospital for minor cuts and bruises, and released.

Highway Patrolman Dan Sanders said John I. Moore, Idalou, was driving south in a 1951 car when a tire blew. He pulled the car off onto the shoulder and he and his passenger, Harold Taylor, Petersburg, started to fix the flat.

Then a 1948 sedan driven by Malcolm Lancaster of Amarillo pulled up behind the Moore car on the shoulder. A short while later, Pvt. Sam Miller of Reese Air Force base, Lubbock, pulled alongside the parked cars to inquire the trouble.

Miller's car was hit in the rear by a car driven south by Robert Sides, Idalou, who was returning to Idalou, and the Miller car was forced into the path of Drennen's oncoming car, patrolmen said.

Traffic Mishaps Cause $700 Damage To Six Vehicles

Three accidents Thursday and Friday resulted in $700 damage to the cars involved, but caused no injuries.

Reports were complete Saturday on an accident that occurred at 3:30 p.m. Thursday on Alcock and Sumner.

The mishap occurred at Lillian Steen Brunson, 1400 W. Browning, stopped her car in a traffic lane, and a car driven by John R. Wilde, 944 S. Sumner, allegedly struck her car.

Damages of $150 were reported on the Brunson car, and $200 on the Wilde car.

No charges were filed. About $70 total damage was caused when cars driven by Katie Pickle Baumgardner, Mobeetie, and E. J. Kilpatrick, 819 Octavus, were in collision.

Police charged Kilpatrick with driving without a license and driving with defective brakes. The accident happened on S. Cuyler, near Foster.

An accident just after noon Friday resulted in a $10 traffic fine for Howard Ray Jamieson, 817 E. Francis, who was charged by police with reckless driving.

Jamieson was going north on Graham, when his car is said to have hit a pickup owned by Glendon J. Deering, 429 Graham. The car driven by Jamieson had about $200 in damages and the Deering car had damages estimated at $100.

One 15-year-old youth paid a $10 fine for speeding in a 30 miles per hour zone. He was given a ticket Friday in the 1200 block of Charles by city police.

Earl Maurice Parks, 18, was picked up on a warrant this week after he failed to appear in court. He was charged with speeding on July 20 and two days later was given a ticket for driving with a defective muffler.

He said it had been three months since he had handled it and that he had bought it about six months ago.

He testified that he and his wife had filed for divorce by mutual consent in Mexico about a year ago but later became reconciled.

"I am sure she loved me as I loved her," he said. Mrs. Burroughs said she had come to Mexico three days before the shooting and that his wife already was there.

Wheeler Cotton Outlook Is Lowered By Lack Of Rain

"SHOCKER" — Halsey W. Kline, an engineer at the General Electric plant in Schenectady, N. Y., looks over the "electric snake" that keeps marauding robins out of his garden. Built of a 12-foot bamboo fishpole, with a head of aluminum, the "snake" has a clock motor which moves it continuously to keep the birds at bay.

WHEELER. (Special) — Lack of rain in Wheeler county has caused estimates on the cotton crop in that county to drop from the original 23,000 bales to between 12,000 and 15,000 bales.

Even after planting as many as four times, farmers a short time ago had prospects of making the best crop in several years.

While most of the county suffered from lack of moisture, in Kelton, east of Wheeler, the cotton has been damaged in the rain, hail and wind of the past few days.

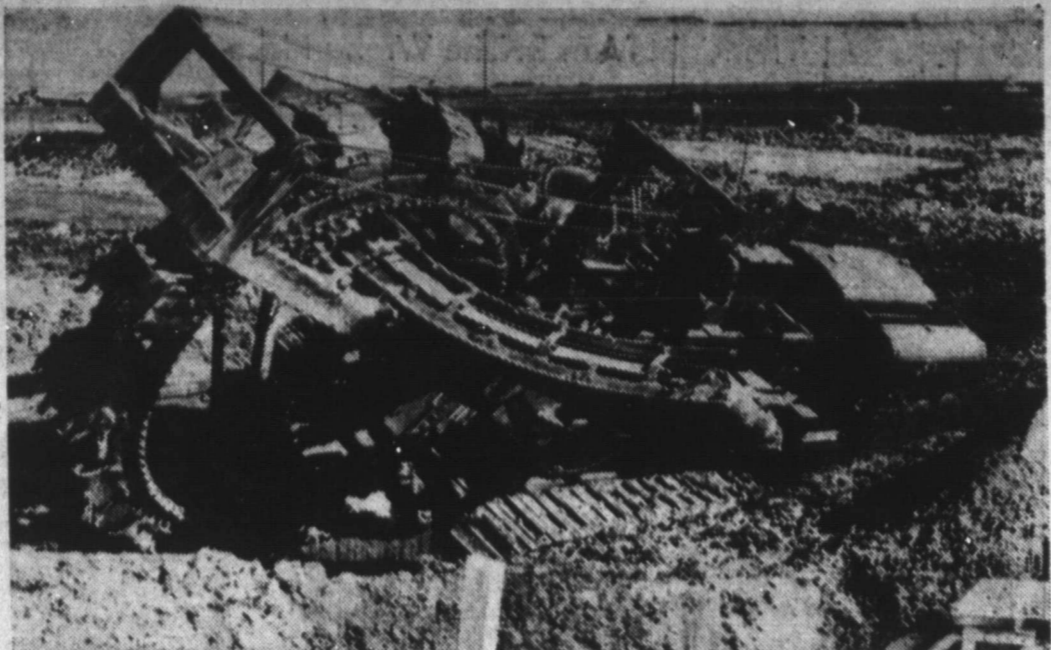

Grain sorghums were planted in some parts of the county where it was feared cotton would be too late.

With Wheeler building up dairy herds, extensive grass planting has also been made.

OLDEST

The oldest continuously occupied city in the United States is Acama, New Mexico's "Sky City." Located atop a 350-foot rock mass, this ancient natural fortress is inhabited today by 1500 Indian descendants of tribesmen who were there when Coronado passed by in 1540.

The hot water bottle was in use 2000 years ago. Early Greek physicians applied a bladder filled with hot water for the relief of pain. Rufus, one of these, who died about 117 A. D., mentions the hot water bottle in his

Celanese Plant Site Bustles With Construction Activity

With completion of two buildings and the third well underway, construction of Pampa's new Celanese plant has been taking on real signs of life during the past few weeks.

Latest additions to the project cropped up during the last two weeks — completion of the Brown and Root, general contractors, dispensary and a small concession stand operated by Mrs. Florence Harvey.

In addition, more and more tons of concrete are being poured into foundation forms that will support structures for various steps of the company's operations — cooling towers, spherical towers, bubble towers, laboratory and others.

The first buildings to be completed — the warehouse and machine shop are currently being used by Brown and Root. The machine shop was completed first and the warehouse about two weeks later.

Last week frame superstructure began to sprout over the concrete foundation for the general office building. The office will be finished in Colorado stone and brick.

Spread over the 30-acre site are piles of pipe, steel reinforcing bars, and other industrial building materials.

On Aug. 27 Mrs. Gloria Vogt, R.N., arrived to put the construction company's dispensary into operation. The fully equipped dispensary is located in the construction company's temporary building.

A few yards north of the construction building a lunch stand for workmen has opened. Eventually the little building will be handling everything from candy bars to workmen's gloves.

In the meantime Cabot Shops began taking on a new look. For the past few days pump manufacturing operations have been in full swing in the new building while machinery and equipment was being set up in the gun factory.

Linings of fire brick have been completed in the seven

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy to make at all and costs little. Just go to your drugist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Baracetrin. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 39 Pounds

"I was really happy and surprised with the results obtained taking Baracetrin," says Mrs. Lillian Flowers, 214 Burnett St., San Antonio, Texas. "I have lost 39 pounds and feel so much better and look 10 years younger."

Lost 15 Pounds

Mrs. D. C. Baker, Box 31, Bryson, Texas, writes as follows: "I weighed 215 pounds when I commenced to take Baracetrin. After one month I have lost 15 pounds and am going to continue taking it until I am down to 150 pounds. I have several of my friends taking Baracetrin and they are losing weight also."

Stabilizers' Yelps Just Big Noise

No dog with a tin can tied to his tail ever yelped more lustily than Economic Stabilizer Johnathan DeLoach. He has yelped but not to mention Price Stabilizer Disalle, after Congress angrily poked a umbrage finger into the price-control pie. Listening to their yelps would have thought the prices of food and other household items would be brought off like a scared jackass heading for the barn.

All that Congress did was to let the hog-tied law of supply and demand wriggle a little, but even this feeble wriggle is making itself known in the marketplace by a light steadying of consumer prices.

The other day these fellows dutifully did their yelping and notified the nation that the cost of living had hit an all-time high on July 15. Their index showed prices had advanced two-tenths of 1 percent over June 15.

Whereupon the government authorized a price raise for CIO United Auto workers, and there was more yelping among the government "stabilizers" about price settings.

The Wall Street Journal doesn't see the current commodity market the way the government "experts" do.

"Supply and demand threaten to make poor prophets of federal officials now trumpeting of a big rise in living costs ahead."

But Wall Street Journal talks with businessmen who deal in the things of living cost—clothes, house furnishings—and finds them speaking quite a different language. They are fretting about the job of selling their wares even at present prices.

All of which inspires us to repeat in remodeled wordage what we've said before, to wit: Congress should have wrapped up all the administration's government-control glad-rags in one dirty bundle and heaved it thru Mr. Truman's front door.

Anthony Thinks We Are Pikers

The defense plans of what Britain's Anthony Eden calls the "western democracies"—meaning the United States—were blasted by the old boy in a Chicago speech the other day. Sir Anthony described all that's been done (by us) in Western Europe as "inadequate" and "patchwork."

Why, bless his conservative old heart! He's piked because we haven't—as yet—set up a One World government for Europe and the U. S. with him or Churchill as President.

"We need not only an Atlantic pact but an overall strategic concept which takes account of the demands of every front," says Sir Anthony.

We've just about busted ourselves, setting up this "patchwork." It's a patchwork, all right, and we don't think it's worth ainker's or anybody else's term as a bulwark against Communism. But neither would the thing he's bellowing for be anything resembling a dependable bulwark, for the people behind those thousand and one fronts are friendly only so long as we're pumping money into their pockets and food into their stomachs.

By the time we built all the fences Sir Anthony wants we'd be so completely broke that we couldn't even prime the pumps, let alone get anything more out of it. The minute that happened we'd find those bought friends of ours—the British among them—throwing dead skunks and pamphlets on Communism over those same fences into our front yard.

Sir Anthony's squawks about our 257-billion-dollar patchwork job in Europe should surprise anyone. Everybody we've been giving free rides to over there may be expected to demand that we turn the car over to them the minute we show signs of parking it.

McCall's Defends Book That Should Be Banned From Every American School

I want to comment further on a smear article under the false heading in the September issue of McCall's magazine. The article is entitled "Who's Trying to Ruin our Schools?", and written by Arthur D. Morse.

I know of no one who is trying to ruin our schools. The article attempts to smear persons who are pointing out the kind of textbooks that are being used in the public schools.

I am under obligation to one of these persons, Lucille Cardin Crain, editor of the "Educational Review" for pointing out to me the un-American propaganda in the book called "American Government" by Frank Abbott Magruder, which is in 65% of the high schools in the United States and approved by the Boards of Education in the 43 states.

"The article also smears the National Council for American Education. Chief among the groups that are exploiting the widespread misunderstanding of modern education is that of the National Council for American Education."

"The only widespread misunderstanding of modern education is that it is teaching a form of socialism rather than Americanism. But people are now beginning to understand what kind of teachers and textbooks we have in public schools. We have teachers and authors of textbooks who are intellectual cowards. They are people who will not submit to an interview where they would have to answer questions about what they teach in their classrooms."

"The author of this smear article says: 'Educators are usually cooperative in arranging interviews with reporters.' The readers of this column know that I have repeatedly offered my superintendent of public schools in the towns in which this paper and sister newspaper are published $500 if they would submit an interview with me. I have never been able to find any public school teacher who would attempt to harmonize tax supported schools with the Communism of 'Thou shalt not steal' and 'Thou shalt not covet.'"

I would be glad to give the author of this smear article, Arthur D. Morse, $100 if he will get Frank Abbott Magruder, author of the so-called "American Government," to submit to an interview for $1,000. The only requirement is that he answer questions as to how he advocates in his book without reservation and I am to have the privilege of interrupting and asking another question if I think he is evading. I will go anywhere in the United States where a public stenographer is available to make a complete stenographic report available to any one who wants to print it in whole or in part.

It is nonsense to claim that public schools "Educators are cooperative in arranging interviews." Real educators are, but they are not cooperative with being synonymous with public school "educators."

Mr. Morse tries to smear Allen Dulles, executive secretary of the National Council for American Education. He does it largely by "citation." He complains about his own Elizabeth Dilling report, and says that Elizabeth Dilling was indicted for sedition three times during the war, but fails to say that she was acquitted. That is a nice way to smear people.

The whole tenor of the article seems to imply that no one knows anything about education but those professional men who have played politics and received a soft job in the teaching racket. An example of this is when the author says that Verne Kaub is a "phony" because he is an educator. Two of the best educated people I know, Isabel Paterson and Rose Wilder Lane, never went to school but two years in their lives. And by education I mean having the ability to recognize the absurdity of the "distilled water" smear that agents of the medical union and drug trust have circulated. In fact, Dr. Hale called Koch "the modern Pasteur" and I have innumerable other medical men and scientists of high standing who have praised Dr. Koch and deplored the nasty attacks made upon him, not to mention the persecution brought to bear upon many doctors who have dared to defy the American Medical Association by using Koch's treatments, not only for cancer but many other diseases as well. Some doctors who use Koch's Glyoxylide, for example, do not mention it by name or the fact that they are using it for fear of reprisals and being put on a "black list."

It is time that people looked into the kind of textbooks that are being used to poison the minds of the youth who attend the public schools, using these subversive textbooks.

Baxter's Views

By DAVID BAXTER

STANDARD-TIMES STORY

I believe that the San Angelo, Texas, Standard-Times has been imposed upon or misled by political forces undoubtedly inspired by the organized medical union or by professional "cancer fund" groups—or both.

The Standard-Times published one story about an alleged "quack" doctor (unnamed) who was using a supposed "quack" cure for cancer and other diseases. In his Aug. 9 issue it again ran a story which read:

An investigator for the Texas state board of medical examiners Wednesday, was in San Angelo gathering facts about a West Texas doctor who claims he can cure cancer.

"Lloyd Rhode, the investigator, conferred with Dist. Atty. Earl Smith, the local prosecutor who first called the incidents to the attention of state medical authorities. Complaints about the doctor's San Angelo practice, have poured into the district attorney's office since first reports were published about his widespread activities."

"Rhode told a reporter that another doctor in Texas who offered a similar cure had been investigated by the board and had promised to leave the state. The cure was found to consist only of sterile water. The board, of examiners has the power to cancel medical licenses."

"Rhode told Smith that the originator of the treatment, a Michigan scientist, had fled the country and is now living in South America. Rhode said he would present his findings to the board of examiners when it meets in November."

Here we see the power of organized medical trade-unionism in action through state politicians. We see how these politicians have the force to crush any practitioner not on the medical union's "approved" list just as they were considering crushing chiropractors and freedom of the press not long ago in a way of getting a state law passed forbidding chiropractors to advertise. We see how wily medical politicians can by their political power, prevent people from exercising services of their own choice by the simple expedient of disfranchising doctors who have such services to render, thus forcing the people to receive only those services of the medical union and its political allies devoid upon.

It is a little surprising that the San Angelo paper should permit itself to be used by the Magruder gang since I understand that San Angelo was one of the cities with enough good sense and independence to prevent the fluorinated water scheme from being inflicted upon it by a scheme which also has high pressure drug trust backing.

There isn't the slightest doubt but what the alleged "cancer cure" the paper mentioned in the Koch treatment, just as the name "Michigan scientist" is supposed that an automobile business was started in 1900 with an investment of $100,000, and that, with no income tax, its net value increased at the compound rate of 40 percent a year. This would give it a value at the end of 40 years of $700,500,000. Then, by contrast, he supposed that there was a 100 percent tax, and that despite this the business continued to produce income before taxes of 40 percent a year, or $400. This is admittedly an impossible case, since no one would operate without a high rate of interest as 5 percent, the $18,000 with compound interest at this rate would have amounted to but $48,320 at the end of 40 years. Compare this with the revenue which might have been obtained from a 10 percent or inheritance tax, of, say, 10 percent or 20 percent on $700,500,000, the net worth of the business at the end of 40 years with no income tax.

With an 80 percent income tax, instead of a 100 percent tax, the net worth at the end of 40 years would have been $21,700 and the government $82,600 in taxes. With a 60 percent tax the net worth at the end of 40 years would have been $1,470,000. With a 20 percent tax the net worth at the end of 40 years would have been $66,500,000, and the taxes collected $18,600,000. In other words, as the tax rate decreases, both the revenue and the net worth of the business increases.

In all of these cases, in addition to the revenue from the income tax, there would, of course, be the revenue from the estate or inheritance tax upon the death of the owner.

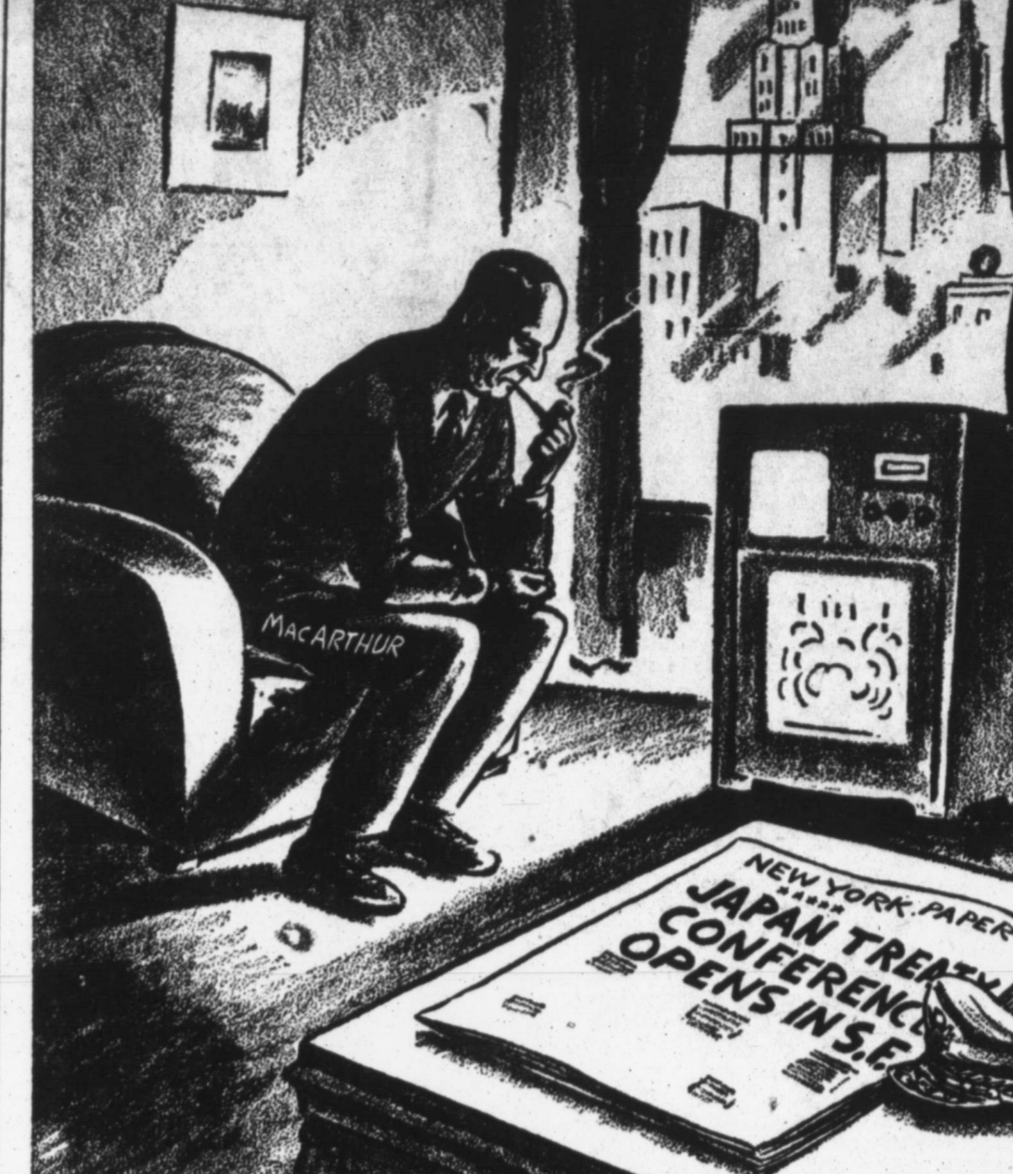

In his book, "Taxation: The People's Business," published in 1924, Andrew W. Mellon, then secretary of the Treasury of the United States, in discussing this question said (p. 18):

"It seems difficult for some to understand that high rates of taxation do not necessarily mean large revenue to the government, such persecutions as having political pals of the medical monopoly take their licenses away from them.

It would be interesting to learn just who inspired the "complaints" about a Texas doctor using the Koch treatment which were told have "poured into the district attorney's office." If you ask me, I'd surmise it's a "pull-up" job somewhere along the line. The district attorney, if he's honest, might well investigate those who "complained" and find out their connections or who put them up to it.

I've spent over a year accumulating facts, figures and authorities on Dr. Koch's treatments (which are never called "cures"). My files are available.

The Harmful Effects Of Excessive Taxes

By HERBERT E. DRESSER

The harmful effects of the excessive taxation of income is well pointed out by Dr. Irving Fisher and Herbert W. Fisher, in Chapter nine of their book on "Constructive Income Taxation."

The authors of this book point out that in 1900 the fortune of Henry Ford increased from $100,000 to $1,000,000,000, which is at the average annual rate of 41.42 percent compounded.

In the hypothetical case, using round figures for simplicity, it is supposed that an automobile business was started in 1900 with an investment of $100,000, and that, with no income tax, its net value increased at the compound rate of 40 percent a year. This would give it a value at the end of 40 years of $700,500,000. Then, by contrast, he supposed that there was a 100 percent tax, and that despite this the business continued to produce income before taxes of 40 percent a year, or $400. This is admittedly an impossible case, since no one would operate without a high rate of interest as 5 percent, the $18,000 with compound interest at this rate would have amounted to but $48,320 at the end of 40 years. With a 60 percent tax the net worth at the end of 40 years would have been $1,470,000. and that more revenue may often be obtained by lower rates. There was an old saying that a railroad freight rate should be "what the traffic will bear"; that is, the highest rate at which the largest quantity of freight would move. The same rule applies to all private business. If a price is fixed too high, sales drop off and with them profits; if a price is fixed too low, sales may increase, but again profits decline.

The most outstanding recent example of this principle is the sales policy of the Ford Motor Car Co. Does any one question that Mr. Ford has made more money by reducing the price of his car and increasing his sales than he would have made by maintaining a high price and a greater profit per car, but selling less cars? The government is just a business, and can and should be run on business principles.

The time has come for the question to be squarely faced and answered, "Do the American people want free enterprise and constitutional government, or do they want socialism?" Let there be an end to the mistaken idea of trying to escape in order to enterprise and at the same time confiscatory taxes. We can not have both. If the people, or a majority of them, want socialism, let the government take over without further ado, and let us give the experiment a try.

If, on the other hand, the people want free enterprise and our present constitutional form of government, let us stop doing the things that make it impossible for that system permanently to survive, and that means, among other things, to stop the confiscation of capital and the sources of capital by the government.

Let more attention be given to the cutting of unnecessary expenditures and less to the raising of revenue to pay for the billions that are being wasted. It is of great importance, of course, that the budget be balanced, but the first step is to reduce expenditures by eliminating every unnecessary item.

The experience of England should be a warning to us. For many years England has had a heavy graduated income tax upon individuals. These taxes have no reducing the supply of capital, that there has not been enough to provide her industries with the capital needed for modern machinery and equipment. And now England has definitely accepted Socialism and a part of her industries have already been nationalized. The effect has been to decrease production and efficiency, so that today there is not enough even of such necessities of life as food and coal.

To those who would have us try to escape the footstep of England, I call attention to the following statement by Alfred Edwards, former Laborite Member of Parliament:

"The Labor Party cabinet appoints our industrial leadership. Hence the man in charge of a large department... is a former tax driver who became leader of a tax union. He undoubtedly has some technical qualifications, but certainly no qualifications to run the coal industry... success in politics means a chance at some big industrial job with a big salary. That's the way it works in England now... Certain groups are given a few days warning. As a result, such advertisements as these have been printed in Hungarian papers: 'Household unexpectedly broken up, everything to be sold cheap. Apartment fully furnished, furnishings for sale cheap. Due to urgent departure...'

But most victims get only a few hours' notice and are rounded up by the police at dawn and shipped off in sealed cattle cars with only what belongings they can carry. DEATH TRAINS Communist youth groups are assigned to railroad stations as "jeering squads" to hoot at the unfortunate. In Debrecen they not only spit at the victims but destroyed their pitifully small luggage.

Some crippled and incurable patients have been carried from hospitals and dumped into death trains. Among the aged deportees was the mother of former Mayor Sipocz of Budapest, 102 years old. Some children under six years from Christian homes have been kept away, as their parents were sent away, and placed in the "Rakosi Othon," Red state orphanages, where they are to be reared as Communists. Others have been torn from their mothers' arms and transported to distant Russia, where they, too, will be raised as godless Communists.

All parentage records are destroyed so that there never will be family recognition or reunion. Thus Communist genocide tries to damn innocent little children.

Some children under six years from Christian homes have been kept away, as their parents were sent away, and placed in the "Rakosi Othon," Red state orphanages, where they are to be reared as Communists. INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By JOHN FISHER

Stalin's greatest shock is that after years of economic aid, propaganda and purges, his Eastern European satellites today are less reliable as military allies than ever before. Right now Moscow, by lashing its toady governments, is trying hard to correct this condition.

Recently the United States Supreme Court (339 U. S. at p. 429) in commenting on a case before it, declared, "The international police state has crept over Eastern Europe by deception, coercion, coup d'etat, terrorism and assassination. Those cruel pressures again are being applied with increased ferocity in the Communist bloc."

The latest crescendo of horror is the kidnapping of children in Hungary as part of the mass deportations which started in May. The twin objectives of this fresh inhumanity is to mold boys and girls of religious parents into atheistic Reds and also to serve warning of what hap-pens to those who neglect to submit to the state.

From the viewpoint of puppet regimes, a tighter grip on their captives is necessary because the overwhelming mass of people still refuse to accept Communism. Even among native-trained Marxists recent moves of Russian imperialism have aroused nationalistic sentiment. Many top Red officials from Poland to Bulgaria are secret Russophobes, working clandestinely against their foreign bosses.

In Czechoslovakia the Soviet MVD established a school to train cadre-training courses for the anti-Communist underground. A Russian-hating Red in that class disclosed the names and photos of this counter-espionage group to the resistance so that patriots can watch out for the traitorous snooters.

Knowledge like this is Russia are in their own hierarchy prompted Hungarian rulers to expand indoctrination schools on all party levels. In 1950 a third of the membership was forced to take refresher courses. Nearly 45 percent has been ordered to study Stalin's biography, the history of the Russian Bolshevik Party and the "classical works of Marxism-Leninism."

Istvan Kovacs, Central committee secretary, in explaining the new cadre-training courses for bright, young Reds, admitted that the "enemy, disguised as workmen, are penetrating lower organizations and, due to lack of vigilance on the part of under-secretaries, are worming their way even into state administration."

But education is a slow process. To frighten people into quicker submission, terror again is used as an instrument of persuasion. In the early class war, when Stalinists were seizing control of governments, open active opponents were struck down. But today even the passive and helpless are victims of Red sadism.

He undoubtedly has some technical qualifications, but certainly no qualifications to run the coal industry... success in politics means a chance at some big industrial job with a big salary. That's the way it works in England now... Certain groups are given a few days warning. As a result, such advertisements as these have been printed in Hungarian papers: 'Household unexpectedly broken up, everything to be sold cheap. Apartment fully furnished, furnishings for sale cheap. Due to urgent departure...'

But most victims get only a few hours' notice and are rounded up by the police at dawn and shipped off in sealed cattle cars with only what belongings they can carry. DEATH TRAINS Communist youth groups are assigned to railroad stations as "jeering squads" to hoot at the unfortunate. In Debrecen they not only spit at the victims but destroyed their pitifully small luggage.

Some crippled and incurable patients have been carried from hospitals and dumped into death trains. Among the aged deportees was the mother of former Mayor Sipocz of Budapest, 102 years old.

Dolores Gray Knew All Along She'd Be A Big Star

By NEA Service
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The girl who is being hailed as the new queen of Broadway musical comedies isn't surprised at all. Dolores Gray is her name, and she knew she was going to hit the top all along.

"I hope I don't sound conceited," says the tall, blonde Miss Gray, "when I say I've always known I am a good singer. I've never had any doubts."

The morning after she opened with Bert Lahr in "Two On the Aisle" everybody else knew it, too. She had bounced through the surprise hit with big, blonde vitality and a big, blonde voice. She sings loud and clear, and everything she says is perfectly audible in the last row, balcony.

From any place in the theatre Dolores Gray looks the picture of health. But she says she isn't the least bit healthy. In fact, she has to take exceptionally good care of herself to go on at all.

Right after every performance, she goes straight home. She may talk for a while with her mother, Mrs. Barbara Gray, and her younger brother, Richard. Then she goes to bed.

"I simply have to," she says, "so I'll be able to put everything I've got into my performance. Every living, breathing ounce of energy has to be conserved."

"I'll drive myself and force myself to the utmost to give the best performance possible, but I won't fritter away my energy on the frivolous and the foolish. I'm not strong enough or healthy enough to do both."

She had a nervous breakdown in England, where she played the leading role in "Annie Get Your Gun" for three years. She suffers from pernicious anemia. She doesn't smoke or drink, and worries constantly about standing up under the strain of her work. She admits she hasn't the energy for fun or romance.

But she does enjoy her life, because she gets "great satisfaction and joy from a job well done."

She sounds like a dedicated woman, and she is. The musical comedy stage is her big thrill.

Ever since I was a tiny girl I've wanted to be a big star, and I've always known I would be. My whole life has been planned to that end. Everything I've done has had a purpose. Everything has been one more step forward.

Step one was singing lessons for the Chicago-born girl. Step two was discovery by Rudy Vallee, who heard her at her vocal studio and put her on his radio program. Then came more engagements on radio and West Coast clubs and hotels.

After 34 Years Of Painting, Local Woman Taking Lessons

By WANDA CAMPBELL
Mrs. C. P. Pursley, whose home abounds with results of her 34 years of painting, began taking art lessons this summer.

The long-time Pampa resident was, in 1917, a woman occupied with two young children and the complicated tasks of early ranch living, but filled with the determination to paint.

In those years, when a "dime was a dollar," few people had money for anything as frivolous as art lessons, but after much encouragement from her family and more than a little sacrifice on her part, Mrs. Pursley started taking occasional lessons from Miss Jessie Bob Severson, who now lives in San Antonio.

Mrs. Pursley drove from the ranch into Miami in a wagon to pick up her art supplies that had arrived from a mail order house. She had only one or two brushes and began with a dozen colors — actually all she needed. But now, 34 years later, she has hundreds of chalks, water colors and oils, and brushes.

Her next instruction was under Mrs. Mary Locke, now living in Big Spring and a sister-in-law of Mrs. Lorene O. Locke of Miami.

These first teachers taught her the fundamentals and though Mrs. Pursley didn't always take part in regular classes, she sometimes sat in and watched the progress of the rest of the class.

In those early years of her painting, and even now, Mr. Pursley has been one of her most enthusiastic and loyal critics who shares her love for painting though he is not an artist. When their new home was built last year, he built Mrs. Pursley a well-lighted studio complete with work table for china painting and a walk-in closet with shelves to hold all her paints, blank china and other equipment.

Her early training, though limited, was good, but not professional. From the beginning lessons she went on through the years, working alone and learning as she painted. There is only one painting in the Pursley home that she didn't do. Elsewhere are her oils, water colors and chalk paintings — florals, birds, still-life, landscape and religious paintings.

An early painting completed in 1927 is a reproduction of the old-time religious work, "Rock of Ages," and hangs in the hall. Other paintings from a study include forest scenes and the "Gay Philosopher" series that hang in the den. Another outstanding grouping of bird prints hangs in the breakfast room.

China painting was another art she took up many years ago. Along this line, she has countless figurines, three dinner sets, a breakfast set, chocolate set and dozens of party plates in sets and individual designs.

China that was painted in the early 1920's and fired in a "pot-bellied-stove" is today as lovely as the latest china paintings baked in the modern 11 by 11 electric kiln.

An now after 34 years and all her achievements, she is taking professional art lessons.

PAMPA ARTIST—Mrs. C. P. Pursley, 1701 Mary Ellen, is pictured with her reproduction of the religious painting, "Rock of Ages." She has been painting 34 years, took a limited number of lessons in 1917 and 1918, and this summer began studying under an Austrian painter now living in Amarillo. Her paintings are used throughout the Pursley home. They include oils, chalk, and water colors. (News Photo)

Her instructor is Louis R. Neugebauer, Amarillo, who was official director of art and photography in Austria before coming to this country. He is exhibiting his work in Palo Duro State park this month.

Under Neugebauer, Mrs. Pursley feels she has created her best work. She has completed one water scene below a cliff with a background of plant life and cattle in the distance. She is working on a desert scene which will be completed next week.

She is doing these without a study, and says they prove that when the urge becomes strong enough, a person finds a way of doing what he wants to do. She is grateful for the opportunities she has had to develop her hobby.

Fire Loss Record Cancels Wheeler's Premium Penalty

WHEELER (Special) Wheeler's excellent fire loss record has cancelled out the 15 percent penalty imposed on insurance premiums in 1945-'46, and '47. Until this year Wheeler had a 25 percent credit on its record. The records from 1929 kept by the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Assn. was released to Jack Garrison, chief of the local Volunteer Fire Dept., and Mayor R. H. Forrester.

The record shows a total of $158,784.81 in premiums were paid in by residents in the past 21 years while only $45,963.32 has been paid out by the fire insurance companies. The heaviest claims, $21,209 in 1944, were paid and only $466.69 was collected in premiums. After this heavy toll the penalties were enforced.

The 15 percent was dropped to 10 percent in 1948 and is not completely cancelled out. In addition, to the 25 percent credit, the town has 3 percent credit for sending members of the fire department to training schools and a 1 percent credit for teaching fire prevention in the schools.

The premiums in 1950 dropped off to $11,353.79 and the companies paid off $2250.00 in claims.

Ban Placed On Dancing

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Ballroom dancing is out for members of the Malayan Methodist Youth Fellowship council.

It declared such entertainment will have no place in the social programs of any of its 50 chapters in Singapore and the Federation of Malaya.

The Council ruled the time is "not ripe yet" to sponsor ballroom dancing because of its association with cabarets. It said, however, there could be folk dancing.

Pampa Farmer Expects Better Yield With New Type Maize

The days of the "goose-necked" maize are gone. Louis Behrens, north of Pampa, remembers when maize grew as high as his head, but now he's growing maize only a little over knee-high and likely will get better yields than any time during his 40 years of farming. Dryland tests of sorghums were conducted on the Amarillo Conservation Experiment station as early as 1939, but this year for the first time Behrens planted one of the newer varieties, Milo 7078.

"I just got some seed and planted it," he said. "All the land was in wheat last year and after none of it made, I planted the 7078 along with some Martin Milo."

The comparison of the 7078 and the Martin Milo growing alongside it, was one of the highlights of the soil conservation tour Wednesday. The Martin, also a consistent producer, has a darker and stiffer head than the full, reddish-brown head of the Milo 7078.

Premiums Given For First Cotton

SHAMROCK — The first bale of cotton to be brought in Wheeler County also brought its grower, R. M. Bradley, $162.50 in cash and merchandise as a premium from local merchants.

The bale weighed 483 pounds and was ginned on Aug. 30 free of charge. It was graded strict middling. It was purchased by Al Ryan, manager of the Shamrock Co-op gin at 35 cents a pound.

Area Schools Open For 1951-52 Term

Schools of the area have settled into their various grooves for the 1951-52 terms with a minimum of confusion; some with overloaded classrooms, other with new and shining buildings and redecorated old ones.

Generally, there has been no marked increase in the number of students attending school in this territory. However, Pampa's total enrollment of 4072 showed an unexpected rise of about 223 over last year.

Four additional teachers were employed by the Pampa schools last week because of a slight overflow of students in the upper elementary grades, but the situation is "well in hand," according to Knox Kinard, superintendent.

About 165 instructors are employed by the Pampa schools. Kinard also said the new cafeteria in Sam Houston Elementary school will be in operation Monday. New classrooms in all the elementary schools, he said, are operating to capacity and proving satisfactory.

Carver school students will not be able to move into their new building for about one more week, Kinard said. The auditorium-gymnasium additions to the elementary schools are completed in most of the schools.

South Ward school, put into use last year for three of the elementary grades, is being used for four grades now and the other three Shamrock school buildings are comfortably occupied.

A staff of 40 teachers will instruct the 544 students in the schools. Bethel community near Shamrock was added to the district last spring and two more teachers added to the staff.

No new equipment has been added to the schools except in the speech department of the high school. Repair work was done on the buildings during the summer.

Enrollments in McLean schools have reached a total of 466; with 151 students in high school and 285 in elementary school.

A decrease in the elementary grades was noted, but only a small one.

Buildings of the McLean schools are old and some of the classes lack space, according to officials. A bond for a new building has been passed and construction will begin sometime this year.

Painting and repair work was done during the summer on the old building.

One teacher in the elementary grades is needed. Only one of the McLean teachers lacks a degree, but has had several years experience and a teacher's certificate.

Enrollment in the Wheeler schools shows a slight decrease in the lower elementary grades than the average total.

Final enrollment figures show 345 students in the Wheeler schools, with 72 in high school, 82 in junior high, and 221 in elementary school.

Nineteen teachers have been employed for the year. One extra teacher is needed to take over half the sixth grade since only one class is being held with 45 students in it.

New equipment in the schools includes an inter-communication system, a new demonstration desk in the science department and two new school buses. The buses transport 190 students to and from the school.

Mobettie school will begin classes Monday. It was unable to start with other schools of the area because of repair work not yet finished.

Expected enrollment is between 220 and 230, which is a slightly lower than last year. Twelve teachers have been employed.

The school will also have two new buses.

The Briscoe community has eight teachers. Enrollment has not been completed.

Miami public schools opened the new session with an enrollment of 181, an increase of four pupils over last year.

High school registered 55 students, same as last year; grade school, 129, and the first grade had 23 of these, the largest enrollment in a number of years for that class.

Improvements in building and equipment, totaling almost $10,000 have been made during the summer. The grade school building received new hardwood floors and modern desks were installed. Painting has been done throughout both buildings and improvements added in the office, the home economics department, athletic dressing rooms, rest rooms and some of the classrooms in the high school building.

A home economics teacher is needed in the Miami school.

A total of 412 students have registered in Lefors schools with 289 in elementary grades and 123 in high school. The average, according to R. C. Wilson, superintendent.

The teaching staff is complete unless officials decide to divide the second grade, which is a little overcrowded. Wilson said they have someone in mind for the position if it becomes necessary.

Faculty consists of 26 members, nine of which are new teachers. G. N. Moulter is the newly appointed high school principal.

Improvements of the school's physical properties during the summer included interior decoration of 11 classrooms and the auditorium, new school furniture, a water-cooler fountain, ventilation blinds, science equipment, shop machines and a new home-making kitchen.

Both school buildings in White Deer are in good condition.

According to Huelyn Laycock, superintendent, classes are meeting right on schedule in their improved classrooms located in various churches and other buildings of the town.

An exact total enrollment of the schools has not been figured, Laycock said, because of the hurried arrangements at the beginning of school. He estimated the total enrollment for the two schools to reach 600, which is average.

Progress on the repair work, he said, is good. The high school shop building is almost completed, the grade school building contract has been let and work has started. It will be in the same location, with a few additions.

Preliminary plans are in the making for the new building for high school.

The teaching staff includes 23 teachers, with three principals and the superintendent.

With a new building just completed last year and the other school constructions comparatively new, the Canadian schools are in no need for extra space.

Enrollment has reached 733, with 40% in elementary school, 126 in junior high and 204 in high school. These totals show an increase of students in high school and a slight decrease in elementary.

The teaching staff includes 32 teachers, two principals and the superintendent. Seven of the teachers are new to Canadian.

You can't work a first-class ace against a second-class player. He won't notice what you're trying to do to him. That's why today's hand is such a gem. It took a great player to cook up the hoax plot that eventually set the contract, but de-clarer had to be an expert to fall for it.

West opened the four of spades dummy won with the queen, and East signalled loudly with the ten. South discarded a king of spades to discard his other low diamond. West followed suit with the five of spades, since to drop the deuce would tell declarer that he had started with five cards in the suit.

Declarer now led the jack of clubs from dummy, allowing it to ride to West's king. West returned the six of spades (still concealing the deuce), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer next took the ace of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, and led back a low trump. The jack of hearts forced out West's ace.

West could now lead the jack of spades, and South ruffed with the three of hearts. Declarer next laid down the ace of diamonds, and East chose this moment to throw a monkey wrench into the works. East happened to be Samuel M. Stayman, author of the most brilliant plays in the world. He nonchalantly dropped the king of diamonds without a second's thought or hesitation.

South thought about this for a while. East apparently had no more diamonds, he certainly had no more clubs, and there was only one spade out. It seemed that Stayman's remaining cards were K-8-6 of hearts and the missing deuce of spades. If this were so, it would be fatal to lead another trump. East would take the king and lead the last spade, whereupon East would be bound to make another trump trick.

Declarer therefore led his last club and ruffed in dummy. On this trick, however, West discarded his remaining diamond and East over-ruffed with the king of hearts. Now Stayman turned a diamond and declarer could not shut out West's eight of hearts.

Needless to say, the average declarer would have drawn trumps without worrying about the deuce of spades or king of diamonds. And, of course, drawing the trumps would have made the ace spring.

Model Car Building Provides Fascinating Hobby For Youth

By GEORGIA BEHRMAN
"Old Timers," they're called, these model cars that David Gantz builds.

But the real cars have gone down in the annals of automobile history as things of the past while persons with courageous hearts like David's will always live — in all time.

In his 14 years, David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gantz, 345 Sunset Dr., has seen dark times and seemingly hopeless times. When he was six years old he was stricken with infantile paralysis which might have left his legs completely useless if he had not had the courage to be patient.

Now, he's in the eighth grade, missing only one year because of his illness and is envied by many for his talent to work with his hands.

Three years ago, a friend of David's gave him a Christmas present that was to lead to a fascinating and profitable hobby. It was a small box of parts for a model automobile of about 1930 vintage.

Since that time, David has sold about 20 of the cars, but has lost count on the ones he's given away.

"This is real stuff," he said, showing one of his models under construction, "because when I finish one of these, I can set it up someplace and look at it. When I read a book I have nothing to see. Just remember."

Putting together all the parts, much like model airplane parts, using tiny pieces of fragile wood, David paints his own cars the colors that were used on the real cars. Most of them are black and red or yellow and green.

The authentic models are complete with knee action, crank cases, exhaust pipes, brake and clutch pedals — and some even have upholstery made from scraps of velvet and satin. Only one of David's cars is a motor car. It is a model one and does not run, but may be seen when the hood is lifted.

David does not care for drawing lessons in school and is anxious to begin work with ceramics that are taught in the eighth grade. He likes to do things with his hands and his teachers say that David has talent and is quick to grasp new things that he is taught.

Heavy braces on both legs and the use of crutches helped David down only a little. He plays ball with the other boys on the junior high playground and has self-confidence like an experienced soldier.

Special Session Is Tied To Welfare Vote In November

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texans apparently will be voting on both an old age pension boost and a special session of the legislature Nov. 13.

Gov. Shivers has indicated he would summon a special session early next year if the voters adopt an amendment that would permit spending of $42,000,000 a year of state money on welfare.

The ceiling is now $35,000,000 a year. The legislature ordered the amendment raising it submitted to a vote in November, along with some other amendments.

Shivers said a vote favoring such an amendment would be a very good sign that the people wanted immediate action by the lawmakers to put up the cash.

The governor said a special session could at least begin a study of some plan to relieve future water shortages such as many Texas cities are struggling with now, and that it could see if something else might be done to cut down on the highway traffic toll.

Shivers thought a special session might authorize counties to join in creation of water districts to build dams along larger creeks and rivers. These could store flood-time waters against future droughts.

If such a plan would require an amendment, a special session could not handle it. Amendments must spring from regular sessions.

Local Dairies Keep Grade A Ratings

Pampa milk firms and producers retained their Grade A ratings after a recent inspection tour by A. N. Thorne, chief milk sanitarian in the Pampa Health Dept.

Ratings are based on weekly inspections and formal reports made every six months, Thorne said. Inspections of the plants, dairy herds, milking barns and trucks are made, and an inspection of the temperature of the milk on trucks. Milk must be below 50 degrees, while being delivered, he explained.

Tennessee Is No. 1 Choice

NEW YORK — (AP) — Tennessee is the country's No. 1 college football team for 1951, a poll of 115 sports writers and broadcasters determined today.

The voters of Gen. Robert Neyland grabbed 60 of the first place votes and were mentioned on all but eight of the ballots as they swept through the field — just as they are supposed to do during the block and tackle parties scheduled for the next three months.

A year ago, in the Associated Press' first pre-season poll, Notre Dame was awarded the top spot but was nowhere at the finish after a season of four wins, four losses and a tie.

Reapers Open Next Friday

The Junior High School Reapers will open their 1951 football schedule next Friday afternoon in Amarillo against the Horace Mann team at 3:30. The Reapers are co-champions of the Panhandle Junior High School Athletic League, finishing in a first place tie with Sam Houston of Amarillo last fall.

(By The Associated Press) Port Arthur is on the spot again. It required just one week of play to put the Yellow Jackets in their accustomed place — one of the state schoolboy football favorites.

New Braunfels ranked high. Adamson of Dallas was beaten 53-20 by Little Rock. Marshall took a 25-13 licking from Fair Park of Shreveport.

Wildcats Nip Yans, 7-6

CANADIAN — (Special) — The powerful Canadian Wildcats opened up their 1951 football season here Friday night with a narrow 7-6 victory over the Amarillo Yannigans. The game was played on a wet, slow field and during rain that fell through the third period.

BROOKLYN — (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers edged a step closer towards clinching the National League pennant Saturday as hubby Don Newcombe turned back the runner-up New York Giants, 9-0 on two hits in the opener of a two-game series. The loss dumped the Giants 6 1/2 games behind the Dodgers and virtually killed New York's hopes of ever taking the high flying Brooks.

The Dodgers have 20 games left to play and the Giants 17. Any combination of 13 Dodger victories or Giant defeats will give the Dodgers the pennant.

Hacker Hurls No-Hit Effort

SEATTLE — (AP) — A young Los Angeles pitcher with an uninspiring 7-15 record knocked off the Pacific Coast League champs—the Seattle Rainiers—Friday night by hurling a no-hit, no-run game.

"Man, it's a wonderful feeling," laughed Warren Hacker, 26, after defeating the newly crowned Rainiers, 4-0.

WHITE DEER — The speedy White Deer Bucks, led by crafty quarterback Jacky Freeman, rolled to a 28-6 victory over the Perryton Rangers here Friday night in their season's opener.

WARREN'S ARMUP

By Warren Haase—News Sports Editor

NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT out at Harvest Park the cheerleaders will be screaming their beautiful songs out in a yell that goes something like, "Have you got that spirit?" They will be asking of the Harvesters, "How do you like the look of the green and gold roll to their first win of the season." The usual answer received is "Yeah, man!"

But should that question be asked of the Pampa Harvesters right now, personal observation would make me believe the answer would have to be "No, no."

For some reason the returning veterans from last year haven't seemed to have found the fighting, hustling, want-to-win drive that carried the 1949 and 1950 teams to such brilliant records throughout the state. The upcoming boys from the Guerrillas are still apparently too awe-struck to know that being a Harvesters demands more than just putting in a football shift.

The '49 and '50 squads have built up good reputations for fighting football throughout the area, especially around Lubbock and Wichita Falls. The load rests squarely on the shoulders of a gang of 38 Pampa high boys to carry that reputation alive. And unless they get into the swing of things and begin to realize that they are going to play their first game of the season next Friday night, they might be rudely awakened next Saturday morning by the thought that they have just lost their first regularly scheduled season game in 14 starts, extending back to '49.

The Mustangs of Sweetwater are annually one of the most powerful grid machines in the state. And talking about his prospects for this season, veteran coach Pat Gerald has been quoted as saying "If I don't win state this year, I'll win it next season." That's a lot of popping off for a coach to do unless he thinks he can back it up. And Gerald apparently feels he has the material to back up his paper statements with work on the field.

The Mustangs will again be running the split T, with strong backfield, their main forte. Only two regulars return, one is back Charles Wilson, who tips the scales at 175, and the other center Lloyd Ware, a 180 pounder of rough schoolboy. The rest of the squad is heavy, from 220-pound tackle J. V. Patton to 155-pound scabbard James Butler. I hope that the Harvesters will wake up this week BEFORE the game so that they don't have to wake up after it, ashamed, knowing that they could have done better.

AFTER WATCHING COACH George Watson's White Deer Bucks roll on a muddy field Friday night against the Perryton Rangers, I'm convinced its going to take a lot to stop them. If speed means anything, the Bucks have it to spare. Backs like Ronnie Mills, Jacky Freeman, Cordell Pugh and Ethan Noble will outrun most anything on either a dry or wet field. The fact that all are almost equally fast makes them that much more potent because they can stay with each other for blocking purposes downfield. And riding the bench under these boys are some others who have shown remarkable speed while playing junior high ball at Skellytown.

Over at Canadian, Coach Dee Henry is coming up with another club that should be a powerhouse, led by big Tommy Schaaf, who spends his time in the backfield on offense and the line on defense.

And not to be outdone, the Shamrock Irishmen, tutored by veteran Scott McCall, have signalled their intentions of being a pushover for no one, as usual by upsetting the Childress Bobcats in their Friday night opener. The usual rough line is again present at Shamrock.

It looks like a good year again for the Panhandle of Texas with such worthy representatives as these showing such good, early season form.

I hope this afternoon to get over to Borger to play in the third meeting of the Panhandle Men's Golf Association. The Pampa club now holds a 41-stroke lead, and while I could probably cut that lead down with my presence, I've got to get ready. Ready for the Civic Club tournament next Sunday, cause the Kiwanis Club, of which I am a member, now holds the city crown. And that despite the golfing ability (?) of such swingers as Baylor McKinney, Red Weathered, Fred Thompson, Jeff Bearden and Doc Laycock.

The Kiwanians took in a new member last Friday at their meeting. He was Clara Freeman, present city golf champion and holder of the course record at the country club. It had nothing to do, however, with the fact that the tournament was coming up soon.

And while I'm on the subject of golf, I want to throw my bouquet right along side of that of Hogan O'Snead for the fine Top o' Texas tournament we had last weekend. Johnny Austin and all of the officials of the tournament worked hard, long and steady to make it one of the finest tournaments in the state. It is gaining in recognition and continues to draw bigger and bigger name amateur golfers each year.

Congratulations, and thanks fellows, for a fine job.

PMGA At Huber Today

The third, and next to last, meeting this year of the Panhandle Men's Golf Association will be held this afternoon at the Huber Golf course in Borger. Tee time will be 1 p.m. The Pampa Country Club golfers currently are 41 strokes in front of defending champion Phillips Country Club. Third place is held by Ross Rogers of Amarillo with today's host club, Huber, trailing the field.

The Pampa club has had the largest group of representative golfers at both of the first two meets, and club pro Johnny Austin is asking that all Pampa golfers who can possibly attend be present again today. If you can attend, try and notify Austin at the pro shop, 4410, before 10 a.m. today, although this is not necessary to compete.

Tigers Lose To Hereford, 18-0

HEREFORD — The Hereford Whitefaces scored three touchdowns here Friday night, missed all three extra points, and walked off a muddy, rain soaked field with an 18-0 victory over the McLean Tigers in the opening game of the season for both clubs.

All the scoring was confined to the first half. The first touchdown came on a seven yard pass from Graham to right end Boyd in the first quarter. In the second period Morton went off tackle for four yards for the second TD, and a Graham to Thomas pass for 22 yards late in the first half accounted for the final scoring.

Fumbles marred the game, with each team losing the ball seven times as the rain made the pigskin slick. The Whitefaces racked up 13 first downs to 5 for McLean and the Tigers didn't cross the mid-field stripe the entire first half.

Longhorns' Pre-Season Rating Slumps For Five Big Reasons

AUSTIN — (AP) — Green grow the quarterbacks at Texas. For the fourth time in five years the Longhorns are swinging into a football campaign without a seasoned field general, the major reason for their drop in pre-season appraisals. There are other reasons — such as: A new coach and a new formation.

Ed Price must rebuild the offensive line. Lack of experienced depth at tackle.

The Longhorns' toughest schedule of all time. There is a brighter side. Texas' brilliant defensive platoon of the 1950 championship season returned intact.

Price has a lot of speed as he installs the split-T attack. The Longhorns have proved themselves a perennial power during the past decade, a factor the experts are not prone to overlook. Texas has finished as champion (4) or runner-up (5) nine times in the past 10 campaigns. During that same period the Longhorns scored more football victories than any major college in the country (56) and compiled the nation's fourth best win-and-loss record.

Prospects are only fair for maintaining that high standard. T. Jones of Childress, who ran from quarterback in only one series of downs last year, and Dan Page, who gained enough lettering time by holding the ball for extra-point placements, are leading candidates for quarterback. Sophomore Donnie Smith is their only major competition.

Jones, who lettered as a defensive halfback in 1950, and Page impressed in spring drills and they still are expected to be about even. Page's edge at passing is matched by Jones' superior as a ball-carrier. Neither can match Ben Tompkins, last year's regular, as a passer, but chunking will not carry such a high priority in the split-T attack. On the ground, the Steers pack a bit more punch than their illustrious predecessors, despite the graduation of that great offensive line.

With six of the seven starters up front missing, including such classy blockers as Bud McFadin, Ken Jackson and Dick Rowan, Texas is not expected to generate as much straightaway power. This may be offset by greater speed and deception.

Gib Dawson, who arrived late in his sophomore season, and Don Barton appear to be naturals at the halfback positions, while Byron Townsend is due another great year at fullback. Barton did not carry the ball a time last year, lettering as a defensive halfback. Townsend set an all-time NCAA mark of 228 carries in 1950, but he is not due to carry such a heavy load in this campaign.

The best short-yard back in the southwest last year, the new offense is expected to make a threat along with Dawson, Barton and Jones. Carl Mayes and Richard Ochos and newcomers Buddy Calhoun, Phil Branch, Jimmy Pace, Dean Smith and Donnie Smith will lend ball-carrying support. Dean Smith and Mayes are proven sprint stars.

While two defensive backs of last season are due to move into the offensive backfield, six are moving into the attack line from the 1950 defensive platoon. They are end Paul Williams, tackles Bill Wilson and Jim Lansford, guards Harley Sewell and Bill Mulburn and center Jack Barton.

The lone man from last year's offensive line is end Tom Stohandke, whose duties as a line-backer this year should make him one of the loop's outstanding linemen. Williams, Wilson and Sewell are others ticketed for double duty.

Letterman Bill Georges and tackle Charles Genthner will round out the defensive line, while the secondary will be controlled by line-backers Don Menasco, all-America last year; June Davis and Bill McDonald, half-backs Bob Stealy and Don Cunningham and safety Bobby Dillon.

Lefors Tickets Now On Sale

LEFORS — (Special) — W. E. James, business manager of the Lefors public schools announced Friday that season reserved tickets for all Lefors High school home football games were placed on sale at 9 a.m. and that the sale would continue on a first come, first served basis until 9 a.m. Friday, Sept. 14, at which time the tickets would be moved to the school business office.

The ticket entitles the holder to the same reserved seat for each game. The west side of Pirate Stadium, which has 2,000 permanent steel and wooden seats, has been designated as the "Lefors side" with the east stands set aside for visiting fans. Home games scheduled by the Pirates include: Sept. 14, Shamrock; Sept. 25, Boys' Ranch; Oct. 12, Panhandle; Oct. 26, Clarendon; Nov. 16, McLean. James stated that blocks of tickets for these games have also been mailed to the visiting schools involved and that tickets for Pirate out-of-town games may be obtained at his office as soon as they are received, which it is believed will be some day this week.

Places in Lefors where the season tickets are on sale are Trout's Corner Drug, Wall Variety Store, Jeffries Texas Station, Fowarth-Galbreath Lumber Co., Cut Rate Grocery, Graves Grocery, Griffith Grocery, Hammond Grocery, Lefors Drug and John Carpenter's Cafe.

Steel has largely replaced wood in trailer construction.

POINTS OF PRIDE—The University of Texas will match its sweetheart, its star defensive halfback, and its football schedule with any rivals in the country. The sweetheart of Texas is Mary Ether Haskell, a senior from Austin while the halfback is Bobby Dillon of Temple, a senior who has gained pre-season All-America rating.

Oilers Scatter As Rain Ends Season

The Pampa Oiler baseball team, Richardson, was named star of scattered to all parts of the United States and Cuba last night when rain forced cancellation of their scheduled season finale with the Borger Gasers at Borger. Thus, the Oilers finished the year in sixth place with a record of 64 wins and 77 losses, with fine fielding gems. He had three full games behind the fifth place Gold Sox.

The unimpressive season, which saw many changes in Oiler personnel and management, closed on one bright note, however, Jake Phillips, who led the Oilers in batting this season and almost wrestled the run-batted-in crown from Mahager Virgil

"Beginning To Look Like A Football Team" - Sonntag

LEFORS — (Special) — "We're beginning to look like a football team," head coach Frank Sonntag of the Lefors High school Pirates stated after Friday's workout. "This club may not be championship timber but every team that plays us will know that it has been in a football game."

The Pirates mentors are installing the T-formation at Lefors for the first time and as a result experimenting since none of the candidates for the squad has ever had experience with the "T", all having been trained in the Notre Dame and Michigan box formations since their junior-high school days.

Co-captain Bob Clemmons, 165-pound senior who was chosen as all-district last season, was tried briefly at the fullback post but has been moved back to the pivot position. Clemmons also is linebacker in defense. Lefors will make a strong bid to repeat as all-district in the new, tough District 1-A which is composed of White Deer, Canadian, McLean, Panhandle, Wheeler, Clarendon and Lefors.

Also looking good in the Pirates camp is another senior and co-captain, Ray Dickerson, who made all-district in 1950 at the blocking back position. Bob Newsum, senior letterman end, who has been moved to fullback; Fred Brister, sophomore center; and

In fact, last year and several years before that, Lefors has not had enough boys out for the team to conduct a full scale scrimmage," they said. The Pirates will get a added strength, too, when Russell Herring, junior letterman end, rounds into shape. Herring's legs were badly injured recently in an accident while he was working near Pampa. Also reporting for the squad this week was Phillip Earhart, who is working out in shorts but is expected to don pads soon. He has been ill for some time with a feverish malady as well as having a sprained ankle. Other casualties expected to be able to workout soon include Dickie Davis, stellar defensive lineman or back, who received back injuries in practice; Jack Pittig, reserve quarterback out with a bad ankle; Bill Watson, back who has an impacted tooth; and Bob Newsum, promising senior fullback, who has been little work the past week because of leg and groin injuries.

"We do not play beyond our season," Price declared, "and the season ended Friday night. If two teams tie for first or fourth, they play one game to decide which team will finish first or fourth. If two teams tie for second, a coin is flipped to see which shall be the second place team."

"We have to have every boy on our roster in shape and available for play," Coach Sonntag pointed out, "because of our limited manpower and the fact that we are installing a new system this year, with some of the freshmen and sophomores, it is difficult to adjust themselves to their assignments in the T-formation. Even so, most of our starting lineup will have to play 48-minute ball, because our reserves, for the most part, are so high and inexperienced. Just one serious injury would practically wreck our chances of winning."

Playoffs Begin Monday In Westex-Newmex League

(By The Associated Press)

The Albuquerque Dukes wrapped up second place in the West Texas - New Mexico Baseball League Friday night, taking an 11-inning 4-4 victory from Lamesa in the only game played. The win broke a tie between the clubs and left Lamesa in possession of third place — with an assist from the weatherman. Rain washed out the other three games — Lubbock at Amarillo, Pampa at Borger and Abilene at Clovis.

Abilene had previously sewed up the league championship but Lubbock would have had a chance to grab third place by winning Friday night. However, by failing to play, they were left in fourth. A ruling by league President Milton Price in Dallas confirmed the outcome.

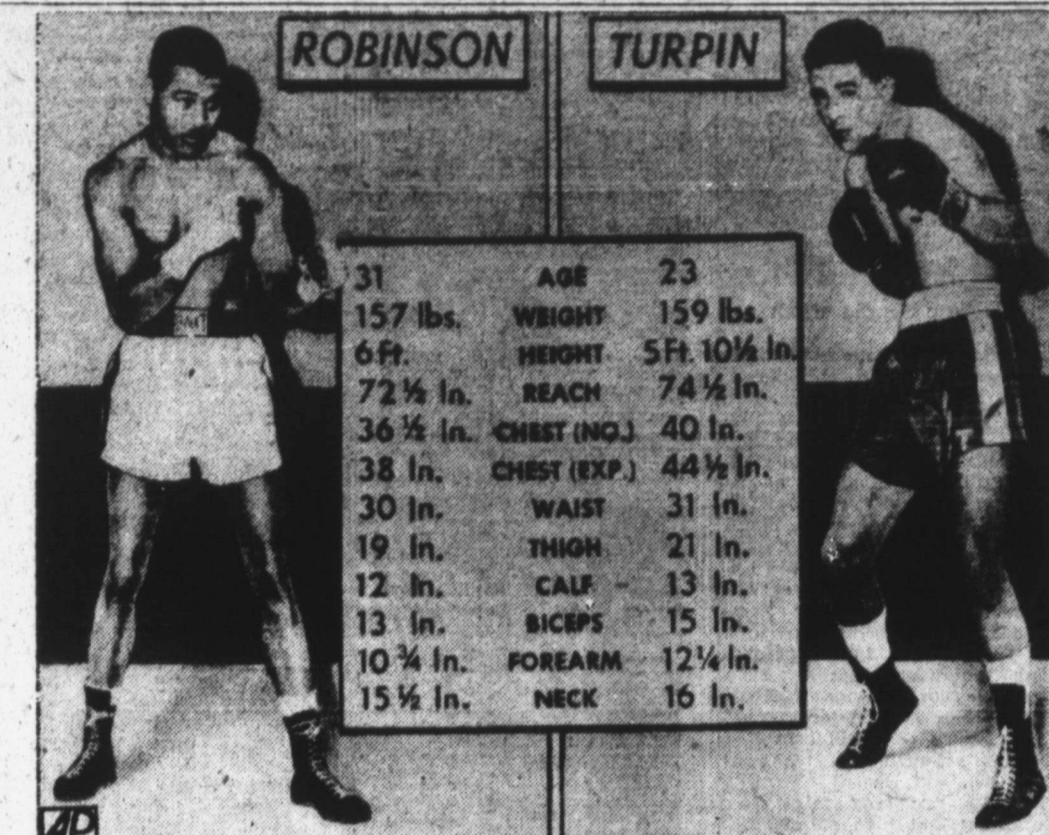

The league playoffs begin Monday night with Lamesa and Albuquerque resuming their battling at Albuquerque and Lubbock tangling with Abilene.

They play best four-of-seven series with the winners meeting for the Shaughnessy title.

Earl Harriman slashed a single through shortstop in the bottom of the 11th to drive Fred Haller home from third and give the Dukes second place.

Haller had opened the inning with a double and went to third on a sacrifice. Harriman's safety came after Haller grounded out to put two men away.

The win was credited to Eddie Carnett, the third Duke hurler.

CHAMP AND EX-CHAMP, INCH BY INCH—If statistics count, new middleweight boxing king Randy Turpin will have quite an edge over ex-champ and challenger Sugar Ray Robinson in the September 12 return bout at New York's Polo grounds. The British brawler outmeasures his opponent in almost every physical department except height, and his eight-year advantage may prove helpful over the 15-round championship route. (AP Wirephoto)

Sports Round-Up

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR. CROSSING, N.Y. — "If Randolph were an amateur fighting just for the glory and the title, with no money involved, I believe he would work just as hard preparing for this fight as he does now."

It was George Middleton, manager of middleweight champion Randy Turpin, speaking. Randy, perched on the corner of a table and cooling his head in an earnest effort to follow the conversation, grinned appreciatively when some one remarked: "Well, there will be a few boys involved in this fight."

Turpin had just uttered a mild complaint that his task of calling the numbers for a training camp bingo game didn't give him a chance to win any money. Randy's return to Lubbock with Sugar Ray Robinson this week is expected to draw a $400,000 gate. His share of that, plus a cut from the films, theater television, etc., probably will bring him more money than he ever saw before. And there are times when Randy leaves you wondering whether it means any more to him than the half-crowns which were at stake in the bingo game or the shillings he used to collect by taking on all comers in the carnival boxing stalls.

RANDY IS HANDY The quiet, soft-spoken Turpin is an unassuming sort of guy to be a world champion. There aren't any fuchsia-pink convertibles in his camp, but Randy likes to ride over the winding country roads in a tiny English car. He has been learning to drive it while he has been here. He's a bit hard of hearing, the result of a swimming accident, and seems to have more trouble understanding American inflections than the familiar British accents of his campmates. As a result, questions often have to be repeated two or three times and then he's likely to come back with a joking reply. His humor is gently barbed, not like the American wisecrack and takes a while to sink in. Some one was asking if he came tense and grouchy like many fighters do just before a big bout. Middleton explained of course he did but his only way of showing it was to become a little quieter than usual, but if he hears a good joke, he'll laugh. "Was he able to sleep on the day of a fight?" "I can drop off any time," Randy replied. "I can sleep if they'll let me." And he looked intently at his manager to drive home the point.

JUST AMONG FRIENDS Three Turpins — Randy, Jackie and Dick, the former British Empire middleweight champion — and their "adopted brother" Eddie Phillips, form a tight little group in the training camp. Although Randy will do almost anything to oblige visitors and Dick frequently visits the plush resort hotel to take in the evening entertainment, they give as good as they get. They are much interested in any one else who is unemphatically a-year baseball player had a few meals with them at the camp and reports they all made a determined effort to avoid talk about fights and boxing. "The story has been going around that Randy, just after winning the title from Robinson, went back to the boxing stalls for a few days. Middleton seemed surprised that any one should ask the reason. "Why, they're our friends. Randolph was brought up with the carnival people and likes to be with them," he exclaimed. "I wouldn't want it to be any other way."

The winner is scheduled to travel to Chicago in the last round of the playoff beginning Sunday, Sept. 16. Briscoe won both games of the playoff with Moschetti. Last Sunday they came from behind to win 10-9.

Fredies live in America in an generally east of the Rockies centered on the 40th parallel.

Rain Washes Hubs' Chance For Third

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Lubbock finished the West Texas - New Mexico League in fourth place, Milton E. Price, league president, said Friday.

There had been some question as to whether Lubbock and Amarillo, rained out Friday night, play Saturday because the Hubbers still had a chance to tie for third. But Price ended this thought.

"We do not play beyond our season," Price declared, "and the season ended Friday night. If two teams tie for first or fourth, they play one game to decide which team will finish first or fourth. If two teams tie for second, a coin is flipped to see which shall be the second place team."

Price confirmed that the playoffs will start Monday, with Lubbock at Abilene and Albuquerque playing at home against Lamesa.

Price said that when the schedule had been drawn up, the playoffs were to start on Sunday, but due to the extreme heat, of late, most owners indicated that they would rather begin on Monday night.

Stay In There And Pitch!!

TOKYO, (P)—When you hear the expression "stay in there and pitch," think of Eiji Amada and Masamitsu Hashimoto.

They stayed in there and pitched for 37 innings. Sept. 5 as night fell, the score after nine innings was 4-4 between Marubeni Trading Company and Kalljima Coal Mining at Tokyo Stadium.

The two teams started a new game Friday. In the 24th inning, Marubeni won the run which broke a 1-1 deadlock.

Amada, 29, was the winning pitcher. In two days, he and Hashimoto, 18, had pitched for eight hours.

Quarterbacks Meet Tomorrow Night

The first meeting of the Pampa Quarterback Club, now going into its third year of operation, will be held tomorrow night in the Cabot Auditorium on the sixth floor of the Hughes building.

The first meeting will feature the introduction of the Pampa coaching staff and a brief sketch by head coach, Tom Tops, of this season's squad and its possibilities in the new I-AAAA district.

Also on the program will be the film of the 1951 Sun Bowl game played at El Paso last New Year's Day between the West Texas State Buffaloes and the University of Cincinnati. The club this year will present two films per meeting, one of the Harvesters' game of the week and another of some college game, most likely the Texas A&M game the two weeks previous. Arrangements have been worked out with the College Station school to obtain the film of the game as soon as possible following the game this year. All films except the Nevada game have been promised. Meeting time tomorrow night is 8 p. m.

Final Playoff At Wheeler Today

WHEELER — (Special) — The final playoff between McLean and Wheeler baseball nines will be held on the Wheeler diamond today at 3 o'clock. McLean took the first of the three at McLean by a big margin and Wheeler came back to wipe out their lead with a 30 to 5 victory last Sunday.

David Bruf, first baseman for Wheeler, had his biggest day at the plate when he hit three home runs, two walks, and was safe on an error in six times at bat. Chester Bowles, pitcher, had a home run in addition to a pair of two base hits.

Miami Holds Open House For Remodeled First State Bank

MIAMI (Special) — Miami citizens had the opportunity to inspect the newly remodeled First State bank Saturday when open house was held from 3:30 to 9:00 p.m. Large crowds came and lingered to look and visit.

Among visitors were officials from other banks in the area and representatives from practically every Panhandle town surrounding Miami.

Visible improvements from the outside of the building are the new glass block style windows, on the front and side, and the massive solid-glass front door. The interior, however, has been completely changed, with the exception of the vaults.

The bookkeeping department is of highly polished wood, covered on the outside with marble. A window has been added, now giving three places to which to transit business.

A new ceiling, with a triple string of fluorescent lights, throwing a soft glow upon the completely repainted pale cream interior, and the new asphalt tile flooring. For comfort, a modern air-conditioning system has been added. The improved floor plan was largely designed by R. J. Bean, president, who had previous banking experience in the National Bank of Fort Worth, and The First National Bank of Berger. He became vice-president of the bank in 1945, and president in 1948. He is still a director in the Berger bank.

Bean is also mayor of Miami, and prominent in civic and religious, as well as business circles.

C. C. Shield, cashier, has been with the bank longer than any of the personnel, having come to Miami from Pampa in 1920, first as bookkeeper. He was made assistant cashier in 1925 and cashier in 1938.

Other personnel includes Bena Quinn, assistant cashier; Louise Kivlehen, teller; and Raymond Bryant, janitor. Directors are R. B. Mathers, Clark Mathers, Ellis Locke, Dan Graham, Bean and Shield.

H. E. Baird, who left his job as one of the first Santa Fe station agents in Miami to become the first cashier when the bank was organized in 1907, still lives here. He retired in 1944, concluding 37 years of service with the institution.

Through the years, the bank has had only five presidents, Woods Coffee now of Amarillo, B. F. Talley, H. E. Baird, Clark Mathers, and Bean, all of whom are living, except Talley.

When organized, the bank had quarters in a new building built for it by Clarence Harris, where the MIAAMI CHIEF is now housed. In 1933, the bank built the present building which has since been its home.

During its 44 years of service to Miami and surrounding country the First State Bank has had a steady growth. Organized with a capital of $25,000, it now operates with a capital of $50,000 and an undivided surplus of $50,000.

FEW DOCTORS TRAINED MONTREAL — (AP) — Medical faculty officials at McGill university report a continued demand for medical training but lack of facilities for expansion. The officials say only 116 of 2,000 applicants can be admitted to the university.

Women will outnumber men in the United States by about 70,000 by 1960, according to a survey's estimate.

Wheat Acreage In County To Drop

Gray County wheat acreage will be down next year, but in the country as a whole, recent reports indicate farmers may plant 80,000,000 acres to wheat.

The normal seedage of 130,000 acres here will be down to 105,000. The estimated 60,000 acres of grain sorghums planted after the 1951 wheat crop failure won't get off in time for wheat, farmers say.

This 80,000,000 acres would be about 1.5 percent more than the goal of 78,500,000 acres set by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and would compare with 78,507,000 acres seeded to wheat for the 1951 crop.

With prices to be supported at a minimum of $2.17 per bushel, the department said, "farmers are likely to produce enough wheat in 1952 to meet domestic and export requirements in 1952-53, and provide for an increase in the carryover at the end of the marketing year. This assumes, of course, average growing conditions."

This year, 1951-52, it was noted, less wheat is being produced than is likely to be used domestically and exported.

The department foresees a carryover next July 1, the start of the marketing year, of about 320,000,000 bushels, down 75,000,000 from the mid-1951 figure.

But in projecting the wheat situation almost two years into the future, it said: "If yields for next year's wheat crop are average, the 78,900,000 goal acreage would result in a crop of 1,165,000,000 bushels, 187,000,000 above this year's estimated production."

"However, it is likely that the goal acreage will be exceeded, shifted, ever so slightly, from the door and bent toward Lucilla. 'I know his work, of course.' His voice trailed off, then returned in a warm, friendly tone. 'What I started to say a minute ago,' Mr. Marlowe said, 'was that I couldn't agree with you more, about television.'"

She stared at him, searching for signs of condescension. He went on, with a charming crinkle-winkle that dissolved her suspicions. "Miss Meadows wouldn't like me tearing down their idols. Promise you won't give me away."

"I promise," Lucilla said. "So you know Rodney Mool?" "He's an old beau of mine," Lucilla said, conscious of moving her shorts-clad legs gracefully. "It's amusing to think of Rodney as a big movie producer. He aims to read me his proletarian novels in manuscript and rant on about capitalism."

"You mean"—Derek peered furtively over his right shoulder as if even the vegetable slogans had ears—"you mean Rodney Mool is a Communist?" Lucilla was flattered to have produced this effect, even while she wondered what to say next.

PARIS settled the problem, at least momentarily. She advanced on them, moving at an accelerated rate, and took Lucilla by the arm. Ignoring Derek, she said, "C'mon down and eat your crackers while I take my 4 o'clock mineral oil." Lucilla shrank from this so-called intrusion of mineral oil into fine-spun an intellectual atmosphere. If Derek's aesthetic sensibilities were assaulted, he bravely hid the pain. "I'll see you girls next week." To Lucilla he added, "And I'm dying to hear more about—that Hollywood matter."

As he left them, Paris muttered, "He's only dying to hear himself go yakety yakety." She wanted to know if he'd bawled Lucilla out for her speech on television. "I'll bet you just did it to make him sore," she said approvingly. "Him and his rouge-smoos, he'll talk your pants off."

Lucilla smiled gently. She was thinking that Paris, like television, was rather crude and infantile.

Three 'Big Names' Slated To Appear Here This Fall

Auto Price Hikes Expected To Boost Sales Resistance

DETROIT — (AP) — Unless there is an actual car shortage, automobile price hikes usually increase sales resistance. Production is lagging behind demand, but there is no actual shortage of new cars. Auto retailers are worried about what upward revision of list prices will do to demand.

Several companies, including General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, announced price increases early last December, but these were cancelled by the Economic Stabilization agency's rollback order, holding prices to the Dec. 1 level.

ginning of the marketing year next July 1, the support will be increased to 90 percent of parity at that time. The department said world trade in bread grains in 1951-52 is expected to be "little different from the 90,000,000 bushels in the past year. Slightly larger world production of bread grains is indicated."

Three big-name politicians are scheduled to speak in Pampa during the fall season at various civic activities. First of these will be Price Daniel, Texas attorney general. He will speak during this month to a joint meeting of the Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

Next on the schedule is Martin Dies of Lufkin, former chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee while a member of Congress. He will speak Oct. 11 for a banquet in his honor sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Sometimes in November, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) may be guest speaker for the Pampa Knife and Fork club in the first meeting of the year. This program is tentative, depending on whether or not Congress recesses during that period. His subject would be "What the North and South Must Do to Save Freedom in America."

TRAIL BLAZER - with plenty on the ball. A large advertisement for the Buick Trail Blazer, featuring a side view of the car and a small inset image of a person driving. The text emphasizes the car's performance and features.

How long since you lifted the hood of a car, and took a good look at what's beneath? We like to have folks do that with a Buick. You'll find that broad bonnet isn't put there for show. It's packed with horsepower—high, wide and handsome—more horsepower than normal drivers will ever use in full. And—if you're up to date on modern features—you'll find that this bonnet is packed with these too. Do you know, for example, that every new engine introduced or previewed in recent years is built on the valve-in-head principle? Score one for Buick. No Buick engine has ever been built in any other way. Do you know what it takes to make full use of high compression? A valve-in-head engine! Score two: Buick has been stepping up compression ratios for years. But Buick has blazed one trail which other engines still haven't followed—don't ask us why. Every Buick has a Fireball Engine which, as we've said before, is like having a string of comets by the tail. Fact is, in every flame-packed cylinder there is a comet—rolled into a swirling ball by a special turbo-top piston—touched off by a flashing spark every 5 inches you travel in a Buick. That's why we're proud to show folks that Buicks have a Fireball Engine—and prouder still to have them take one of these thrilling performers out on the road. Want to try it? Come in and see us soon. Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

The FORM DIVINE by HILDEGARDE DOLSON. THE STORY: Lucilla Webb enrolls in the Beautiful-Von School to gain weight, but neglects to tell her husband about it. The idea doesn't tell him how fascinating it is. Derek Marlowe, instructor in Brain Connections. MRS. COIPS, turning a page of her notebook, accidentally joggled the sleeping Paris, who jerked sideways. Paris opened her eyes and muttered, "I musta dozed off." She yawned. Mr. Marlowe, who had started a fresh sentence, broke off, frowning. His lean cheeks loosened into petulant creases, as he observed her. "How do you feel about Art, Miss Green?" "Who, me?" Paris said. She ran her tongue around her ripe red lips, indicating thought. "Art's okay," she admitted handsomely. "Mrs. Coips, with unexpected bravery, raised her hand. 'What's some of the movies you recommend for the brain?' "Mr. Marlowe smiled. "Naturally, I prefer the French and Italian pictures, for their realism, but it so happens that I myself have recently returned from a stint in Hollywood." This announcement met with a buzz of excitement. There were bold cries of, "What movie were you in?" Mr. Marlowe's raised pipe playfully requested silence. "Please, ladies, I was involved in one of those historical fancy-dress films I'd rather not talk about." His deprecating manner implied he'd checked and starred, under protest. "Besides, we aren't here to learn about me." Mr. Marlowe went on to speak slowly of a three-dimensional camera technique. "By the way, how many of you enjoy television?" Lucilla stiffened. Paris and Mrs. Coips' hands went up, along with 12 others. Mr. Marlowe might have noticed the one dissent. "Mrs. Coips hadn't

Field Day Closes Range School In Wheeler County

WHEELER — (Special) — A field day closed Range school in Wheeler Friday afternoon. Ranchers and stock farmers asked that the range school be made an annual school.

The field day trip left the court house shortly after 1 p. m. for the first stop at J. R. Clark's place west of Wheeler. A planting of native grass mixture was used for identifying the nine key grasses found in this area.

The rest of the day's tests were run on the Porter ranch. Range condition classification was made by each man on the trip and they graded their own papers from the analysis made in group discussion. Four plots eight feet square were staked off and graded first, second, third and fourth as to condition for grazing.

The school is the first of its kind to be held in the Panhandle. Assistant County Agent Robert Ledbetter took an extension course in range management this summer from Texas A&M.

Ranchers and stock farmers discovered there is no definite rule as to how many cattle can be grazed on a section without hurting the graze. The overall condition of Wheeler county grazing land was found to be poor. The percentages find 75 percent in the fair class, 24 percent good, and from 1-2 to 1 percent excellent. So long as 15 percent of the native range grasses are present the range can come back to peak condition by curtailing the grazing.

Theme for the school was to "produce beef by the pounds rather than by the head. In other areas cattle men have found that cuts, some as drastic as 50 percent, in stock have resulted in a larger calf crop and more pounds to the calf. In many cases this increase matched the financial return of the larger herd and in some it gave larger returns. The range condition in these cases improved greatly without taking cattle completely off them.

Brush control and other methods for improving condition of the range were studied during the four-day course.

Hughes To Attend Builders Meeting

R. G. Hughes, local builder, will attend a three-day meeting Sept. 16 in Washington, D. C. of home building executives.

The meeting is for the executive committee and president's advisory council of National Assn. of Home Builders.

Problems facing the industry will be discussed and the group of 25 home builders will meet with government housing officials.

McMurry Fresh Take Entrance Exams

ABILENE — McMurry college's regular session will be officially launched Sept. 10 as freshmen students take pre-term examinations, reports W. B. McDaniel, dean.

English, psychology and vocational interest exams are on tab for the freshmen Monday, plus a tour of the library. They will meet with various department heads and their major professors, Sept. 11.

Registration for freshmen is scheduled Sept. 12, while juniors and seniors are scheduled to enroll from 8-12, Sept. 13 and sophomore registration is set for 1-5, the same day.

Formal opening of the college will be held Sept. 14, the day that regular class sessions get underway.

Wheeler Has First Bale Of Cotton

WHEELER — (Special) — The first bale of cotton was brought to Wheeler Tuesday by J. R. Clemons. Clemons lives southeast of Wheeler and the snapped cotton weighed approximately 2000 lbs. This bale is 18 days earlier than the first bale in '50. The '50 bale was ginned by Jim Ogle of Center community on Sept. 22.

This year's first bale hasn't been ginned as yet because the Paymaster Gin is short of a r line for its new equipment. Billy J. Darnell of the gin, said the gin will be completely finished soon.

Manufacturers Set Up Library

The Texas Manufacturers Assn. has established an industrial film library for high schools, colleges and other non-profit institutions. Growth and operations of various types of industries with particular emphasis on those in Texas are featured in the films. Copra and teakwood are among the products of the Indian State of Travancore.

PEG JOINED THE RANKS of mothers this week at the notebook and crayola counters and stocked up on supplies for the school year. The kiddoes were as long and deliberate about making their notebook selections as the Mamas are over choosing their fall suit. Pencils, rulers, paper with so many holes and so-wide lines and crayons ("Shouldn't I get the largest size, Mama?" they'd ask). Then they stacked their supplies neat as a pin (but not for long). And taking the children to school the first day still makes most of us Mamas a little sad—the smell of chalk and erasers, slam of locker doors and the shrill, excited voices of the young ones—make us relive our own school days through them, sharing every triumph and every disappointment.

WITH SCHOOL STARTING, thanks be for the man who discovered blue jeans. They were first made in Genoa, a heavy twilled cotton called jean (or jene). For a long time they were made of undyed jean then they later were dyed dark blue—that's the school boy's uniform of today.

PAMPA PANORAMA: We get new-car fever every time we see some of the shiny new ones running around... doesn't everyone? The Loyse Caldwell and M. F. Waggoners are among those sporting new autos. Forgot to wish Mrs. Jeff Bearden a happy birthday a few weeks back... belated best wishes... Heard about a pleasant Labor day party at the Jim Tripplehorn's... adore their home... also like the Joe Gayder's brick home... And Mrs. Ethel Noel has a bright idea for her fowers... they're dotted about the yard in circular beds and give a different look to the front lawn... Mrs. Jim Hopkins' pretty lil' brunette daughter will be packing her school clothes and he college bound soon now... youngest daughter will be in Pampa schools... Peg's told that Mrs. R. E. McKernan was one of the most handsome women at the League of Women Voters meeting Monday... A long session and very worthwhile from a woman's viewpoint... W. F. Taylor, north of Pampa, seems a friendly, likeable fellow... And a newcomer, sure to be popular, is the county agent's wife, Mrs. Foster Whaley... a former school teacher, she should fit right into young peoples' activities here... The Hueyln Laycock's daughter made a lovely bride Sunday in a pink and green setting... The young Max Hukill's little son is a cute little fellow... the pride of his grandparents... Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hukill... Always, enjoy chatting with Mrs. Glenn Fitzhugh... Was surprised to learn Artie Shaw is living here... not of the famous band, mind you... his address is 521 Hazel... A cute little girl is the daughter of the E. L. Hendersons... Mary Beth Worrell at Western Union is a sweet person... a bowling enthusiast... And bowling teams will miss Mary Crocker, daughter of the Cecil Myatts, who has gone to join her husband who's in the Air Corps.

READ THE OTHER DAY that there's not a man in a carload who enjoys trying to live up to the hoax of being a combination super-headyman, superfinancier, superlover, superhiss and superboast. Really, they don't have to live up to ALL those expectations—wives make "super bosses!" It's just like someone has said, "This is a modern age when a man can do anything his wife wants him to!"

WINTER'S STRETCHING ahead and the long, lazy evenings before the fire are going to be so welcome after the summer heat. Mr. Peg says the first one to turn on the furnace is a sissy, but just 'ween us, he's always one of the first in the family to start getting cold feet and screaming for more cover at night. I wanted an electric blanket this winter—in the worst way—but the man of the house prefers the quilts that have been in the family for years 'n' years. The Dutch girl, wedding ring, butterfly and patch designs are his favorites. Especially those patch quilts. And it is fun to scan the patches and pick out scraps from some of the children's clothes of another day, or maybe a house dress of grandma's. And it brings to mind a time not so many years ago when quilting parties were common and when every grandmother had hooks for a quilting frame on her sun porch.

CHANGE OF SEASON merits a change of figure. Seeing new clothes everywhere makes one want to shed the extra pounds, but s-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g, rolling and bedding are so hard when nitty little hard on the figure. Here's a dandy of a quickie: Use the "brown 'n serve" clover-leaf rolls. Only don't brown them, pop them into deep fat and keep them turning. Drain, dip in mixed sugar and cinnamon—and eat.

THERE'S A LITTLE TRICK that has been played on busy streets. One person stops and looks up at "something" long enough and a whole group will eventually gather, peering up to see what the attraction is. We people are like that. And every time Peg has passed the Malcolm Browns' home this week, she's wondered why the sign on the front tree with arrows pointing up the driveway? Likely a soft drink stand back there (the children usually have a thriving summer business) but wherever the arrows point, it's a clever advertising scheme. The curiosity in us will lead us to look down the drive if nothing else!

SOME NIGHTS after looking at the results of the pre-bedtime romp in the living room, picking up the assortment of scuffed shoes and the scraps from paper dolls, Peg wonders if she couldn't have taken up an easier career than rearing children—there's so little time to do so much, it seems. But taking someone else's quote "the less one has to do, the less time one finds to do it in." Philosophically. PEG O' PAMPA.

Camouflage Fools Marine Old-Timer was a bit lax in placing bits of foliage on his own helmet. The company's Master Sergeant Paul A. Martin, 822 Broadway, Springfield, O., told McCurdy he needed more foliage on his steel chapeau. "Don't get panicky," Sgt. McCurdy said, "it's practically gone." He hauled out his knife and began cutting some likely branch-

Casual Note In French Designers' New Modes

NEA Staff Correspondent PARIS — (NEA) — Christian Dior has gone casual. Jacques Fath has gone back to the 1830's; Jacques Griffe has gone back to the bustle. At Lanvin's, they're keeping the "goblet" silhouette, and Schiaparelli seems to be occupied with the old harem line.

Those are the highlights of the Winter collections of the top Paris fashion designers, in which everybody seems to be going in different directions. One thing is consistent, however. It is evident that the fashion czars are sublimely oblivious to the eventual cost of their creations and also have forgotten that the modern woman rides subways and buses.

For instance: Mink coats, split up the sides like sport shirts, in Dior's collection. Veils with large embroidered eyelashes in the Lanvin showing. Ankle-length, detachable hoop-skirts with "magic tails" in contrasting fabrics, shown by Jean Dessas. Enormous funnel collars, sloping from cartops to sleeve, by Griffe. Gloves with dramatic fur cuffs, by Fath, and a black wool coat with enormous puffed cuffs employing more than two yards of fabric, by Schiaparelli.

Those are the whimsies, but most eyes were on the Dior showing, attended by such a legion that the air conditioning gave up. His modern casual line for daytime features "sentry-box" coats, which look a good deal like raincoats—loose hanging, with buttons from collar to hem. Suits are functional, with box jackets or simple collarless jackets and moderate skirts. The Fath 1830 theme employs

The bustle brought back by coats. Skirts have "magpie tail" panels, side panels shooting backward in a windblown effect, or else remind viewers of riding habits. Schiaparelli's collection, featuring the tucked-under hems of skirts and coats, are more like the old harem line, although it's supposed to feature the world's evening gowns evoke thoughts of swirling derisives. Daytime wear is practical and functional, with slender skirts topped by smooth jackets.

Chemist Is Speaker For Kiwanis Club

Kiwanians heard Mike Green, of Phillips, a chemical engineer working for the Philpeck Experimental station, speak Friday on chemists and their roles in industry.

He pointed out that there are two types of chemists in the industry; those with scholastic ability and interest in technicalities, or geniuses, and those with the interest and ability to handle people.

"Research is the place for the genius," he said "in the chemical fundamentals of science and application. Research engineers develop the highly technical machines."

"The place for the less scholastic-minded and more gregarious chemist is in the designing field, or as patent lawyers, and analytic chemists," Green said.

Technical advice from high school teachers so that youths can decide their various occupations is important, according to the chemist.

Two new members were admitted to the club at the luncheon meeting. They were Clare Freeman and Robert Lawson.

Herman Whately announced that a delegation of about 15 members will travel to the Kiwanis meeting Monday in Wheeler to hear the Kiwanis district governor, Luman Holman.

Psychiatrist Deplores Idea Most People Hold On Marriage

DETROIT — (AP) — Many marriages are unhappy today, says a school psychiatrist, because young people have never been told what they're getting into.

Dr. Aloysius S. Church, administrative psychiatrist for the Detroit Board of Education, explained it this way:

"Women have been taught all their lives to think they'll marry a handsome man who will have a steady job and will be able to purchase a home for cash and buy a beautiful car and take an annual vacation with three healthy children.

"Actually, the man that many of them marry will be unable to hold a steady job. He'll be bald, have false teeth and may be an alcoholic. Their children may well be unattractive and have all sorts of illnesses.

"On the other hand, men anticipate a passionate woman and a meek wife. Actually, half the women who marry are frigid and most of them certainly are not meek.

"A husband learns to expect a good housekeeper, a woman who will attend to his every need and have his pipe and slippers in place each evening. But his wife — nine times out of ten — just won't be like that."

Dr. Church blamed parents and teachers, as well as movies and popular novels and magazines, for what he called the "false patterns of thinking."

"All of us," he said, "should feel ourselves being victimized by certain styles of thinking in the same way that we are victimized by styles of dress."

The psychiatrist, consultant to numerous youth agencies and who has worked extensively with the mental and emotional problems of young persons, said the solution is a realization by parents and teachers that they must face sex and marriage realistically.

For instance, he said, a mother should tell her daughter: "your father and I are having some trouble; he can't hold a job."

"A father should let his son

Right now the unit is in the know about some of the problems he will face." Dr. Church added, "And parents and teachers alike should make it clear to youth that Hollywood and the magazines don't paint a true picture of marriage."

Cars May Run On Bottled Gas

NEW YORK — (AP) — Bottle gas can increase America's motor fuel supply by 14 percent without building a single new refinery or drilling a single new oil well.

This prospect of insurance against war and gasoline shortages was reported to the American Chemical Society by B. R. Carney of the Warren Petroleum Co. of Tulsa.

Bottle gas is propane, a by-product of making gasoline. The extra bottle gas, Carney said, can be made from the natural gas of oil fields. Propane gas is so good in quality, he said, it may become one of the premium motor fuels.

Several thousand buses and more than 100,000 tractors already have changed from gas-

Pastor Delivers Farewell Sermon

CANADIAN — (Special) — Rev. Harvey Parker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here for the past four years, delivered his farewell sermon Sunday morning to the local congregation.

Rev. and Mrs. Parker and family left this week for Athens, Texas, where he will become pastor of the First Presbyterian church of that city.

The Parkers were honored guests Tuesday evening at a congregational dinner in the Fellowship Hall of the local church when they were presented with a silver tray by members of the church. The Presbyterian Men's club, which Rev. Parker founded, presented him with a new suit.

JCS Not A Debating Society Navy's New Chief Declares

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Navy's new boss has been at his job only three weeks but he's ready to take issue with the critics who say the joint chiefs of staff have developed into a "debating society."

Adm. Augustus Fichteler — pronounced FEK-tel-er — says the day may come when "there'll be blood on the floor" from some bitter dispute over policy with the chiefs of the Army and Air Force.

But he hasn't run into such a situation yet as chief of naval operations — a post to which he was appointed by President Truman after the death of Adm. Forrest Sherman.

"In the few joint sessions I've been in," Fichteler said in an interview, "I have been amazed at the speed we can dispose of things."

Says Woman Can Dress For $1000 A Year

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — A fashionable clothes adviser says any American woman can be well-dressed "for a minimum of $1000 a year, not including furs."

The author of this deflationary estimate adds the comforting note that there are a lot of nice, good-looking cloth coats on the market this year.

She is Anne Hannauer, a popular "exterior decorator." The exteriors she decorates are the outsidings of other women who want to look well, have the money to, but don't know how.

Gee, my wife might read this. Why, I could decorate a hippopotamus for $500 a year.

I said the same thing to my wife, and she said, "Well, it's something for an American husband if he can make a strange hippopotamus happy."

To get back to Madame Hannauer, she has plowed a fresh and profitable field as a career style adviser for well-to-do women — and those who are willing to scrimp to look well-to-do.

How does she differ from other women in the field? She says: "I charge a flat ten percent of what I buy. I won't look for bargains, and I don't take a commission from any store I buy from."

She says this business formula is "rewarding and lucrative," and is based on the fact that many women with money to spend on clothes lack self-confidence in choosing them.

"Only about 20 percent of modern women know how to dress well," she said. "But the other 80 percent naturally hate to admit it."

Anne says the biggest mistake the average woman makes is to try to follow changing styles instead of dressing to fit her own type.

"There is no such thing as a bad type woman," she said. "Her clothes should always suit her personality."

"Women should avoid masculine clothing and wear femininity as a habit. The secret of an attractive woman is to be soft, gracious and feminine."

"If a woman feels well-dressed, she gets self-confidence. That makes her gracious. And if she's gracious, she's soft. And if she's soft, she's feminine."

"Other tips — these are for free, girls."

"Most wives try to dress as offensively as possible. Encourage a wife to peacock it a bit. She'll look and feel better and you'll like her better."

"Get rid of grey hair. It always looks good on the other woman — but it never does on you."

"Identical suits for man and wife" — here she shuddered — "are out — out — out!"

Her own mild cross has been a teen-age daughter who won't follow her suggestions.

"I'm a snob about the women I am seen in public with," she said frankly. "So, when we appear together, she dresses according to my advice — after a brief battle."

POSE FOR POSTERITY? — "Miss Arkansas of 1951" in the person of Charlotte Simmen above, looks so lovely to a Little Rock sculptor that he proposes to carve a 68-foot likeness of her in the Arkansas hills for future generations to admire. The shapely miss will compete in the forthcoming "Miss America" pageant at Atlantic City, N. J.

himself, but he has some strong ideas on the role of Navy air in the future. And whether this will bring him into conflict with the Air Force remains to be seen.

Fichteler believes that in event of another war, the Navy air arm will be more flexible and in a better position to support land operations than in the last war, despite Russia's fleet of submarines.

One major reason for this is that another war would be with the Russians — and Russia has no formidable surface fleet such as the Japanese had in World War II.

"Our fast carrier task forces in another war would have more freedom to support the land war," he said. "That's because we will have more mobility and flexibility."

This doesn't mean, he says, that the functions of the carrier task forces would be changed. driving home the war to the enemy wherever he might be on land or sea.

There were times during World War II, Fichteler recalls, when the fleet had no opposition from the enemy fleet in initial stages of a battle. At one time he commanded amphibious operations in assaults against New Guinea and the Philippines.

"At Leyte," he said, "the carriers had no surface opposition initially. They swept the entire Philippine islands and Formosa against enemy air and it wasn't until after the main body of troops went ashore that any surface opposition developed."

That required the full exercise of Navy air in support of the land operations — helping to give local superiority at the point of contact with the enemy."

Fichteler believes the Navy, generally, must push modernization of its Essex class carriers so they can handle modern planes. And the Navy will ask for "additional copies" of the super-carrier which is now under construction, he said.

Fichteler is confident the Atlantic and Pacific fleets are "ready for the test of war if it is thrust upon us."

"I don't mean to imply we are perfect," he said. "No service can be during a time of expansion which means a dilution of talent and shortages of trained officers. We still have much to do."

Fichteler had command of the Atlantic fleet before taking over the office of chief of naval operations. He said when he left the Atlantic fleet it was in a state of readiness for war if necessary — and he is sure the Pacific fleet is in the same condition.

The admiral isn't inclined to overstate a case. When Mr. Truman called him to the White House and asked him to take over the job left vacant by Adm. Sherman's death, Fichteler replied: "I'll try, sir."

And in talking about his boy-hood, Fichteler says: "I always knew I was going to be a Navy man — that is if I could make the grade."

There is a little doubt at this point that the admiral has "made the grade."

Wilson Says Pinch Is Here For Civilians

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson reports the arms buildup is reaching the quantity-production stage and "the pinch is here now" for the civilian economy. Wilson said the military program will "add force to the inflationary pressures" but the rising weapons output is a favorable development. "It is what we expected, what we hoped for," he said. One of his chief lieutenants, Eric Johnston, confirmed reports that he plans to quit as economic stabilization administrator "reasonably" soon after his agreed nine-month tour of duty ends Oct. 24.

Wilson's reference to a civilian "pinch" followed Wednesday's order cutting use of steel for civilian goods to 53 percent of pre-Korean war levels, effective Oct. 1. The mobilization chief pointed out further problems — the "very serious" matter of the copper strike which, he said, "couldn't have happened at a worse time"; the necessity to produce machine tools costing $3,000,000,000 by the end of 1953 for defense plants; and a serious shortage of structural steel which will postpone much planned industrial expansion.

Questioned whether the government would consider breaking the wage control policy to quiet labor unrest in the copper mines and smelters, Wilson said he will leave the decision up to the Wage Stabilization board. He declined to commit himself on synthetic wool, although ODM is known to have been considering tax benefits and other federal aid to encourage the erection of plants for wool substitutes.

The question will not be considered until the present "moratorium" on rapid write-off of new plant costs expires on Oct. 15, Wilson said.

He expressed belief some of the companies will go ahead with their programs whether or not tax relief is given. Two plants of the Chemstrand Corp. have been under way for some months. Johnston took a hand in this discussion too. He said he would not recommend tax benefits for the synthetic industry now because wool prices have skidded from $3.85 a pound to less than $1.95. But if wool went up sharply again, or if all-out war appeared imminent, Johnston said he would "have no hesitancy" in urging government aid for the synthetic wool program.

Bud Vital To Tyler's Roses

TYLER — (AP) — Tyler's famous rose industry depends upon a tiny bud the size of a pea.

Were it not for this bud, the roses would be ugly, dwarfed blooms.

Also to be credited is the rose budder, a highly skilled specialist. It is he who inserts the buds of fine roses in the hardy "peasant" root stock — plants which otherwise would bear only ugly flowers.

The highly intricate operation, making it possible to grow fine roses on hardy but unlovely root stock, brings good money for the budders.

The budders usually work in teams of from three to five men. They are paid from $7.50 to $12 per thousand plants budded. Many have developed their art to such perfection they can bud between 3000 and 5000 plants a day.

The first man in the team is the "doodler" who goes in advance of the budder clearing the sandy loam away from the main stem. The budder has a knife with a fine edge at one end and a kind of quill at the other. He cuts a vertical slit about an inch long just above the roots of the peasant stock. At the top of this slit he makes a smaller cross slit, forming a T. He then pushes the loosened bark away with his quill and inserts a single bud from a fine rose plant. Another man then ties the bud in place with a piece of special rubber which rots quickly and falls off.

The new bud stays dormant for several months. But the following spring the top of each bush is cut to within an inch of the inserted bud. The result is a strong, well-rooted plant with only one bud to develop into branches and bear gorgeous roses. The result, over the years, has been a $100,000,000 Texas industry which supplies two-thirds of the more than 30,000,000 rose bushes sold annually in the United States.

Irish Name Two New Cheer Leaders

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Bernice Close, Patricia Reeves and Barbara Golson are the new cheer leaders for the 1951 Irish grid season.

They replace the Howard twins, Joan and Louan, and Joan Bell, all of whom graduated last spring.

Miss Close and Miss Reeves are seniors and Miss Golson is a junior.

They will head the pep club, which is expected to attend most of the Irish games at home and away. All three led the pep rally on the first day of school.

The sturgeon was plentiful in North American waters before 1900.

Barkley Sets Speed Record

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Vice President Alben W. (Whizzer) Barkley's new track record for convening and recessing the United States Senate was officially charted Thursday at five seconds flat.

That's the timing the Congressional Record gave Thursday in its five-star combination summary of the proceedings of the Senate's Tuesday and Wednesday sessions. Published separately, Tuesday's record would have fitted cozily on a postage stamp.

Barkley did all the talking between the opening and closing raps of a yellowed ivory gavel, and this is what he said: "Under the order of Friday last, the Senate will stand in recess until 12 o'clock noon tomorrow."

Rattling off 17 words in five seconds may sound pretty impressive to any citizen who has not been exposed to the roar of oratory and the cracking of syntax of his elected lawmakers. A nice try, but nothing sensational, conceded the Senate's official reporters of debate. Any of these shorthand masters would step forward confidently to record a three-way discussion between Tallulah Bankhead, a riveting machine and a fire siren.

Two hundred words a minute seems hardly more than a southern drawl to James W. Murphy, who will round out 55 years of Senate stenography next Dec. 7. Read The News Classified Ads.

Activity Hits Slump In Panhandle

Activity hit a slump in the Panhandle field last week as area operators staked but five new locations and completed nine, three of which were plugged wells. The other six completions were new oil wells with an initial potential of 271 barrels.

These totals compare to 17 new locations and 28 completions with initial potentials of 180 barrels of oil and 35,318 MCF gas the week ended Sept. 1.

Two of the plugged wells reported last week were wildcats. Amerada Pet. Corp. plugged its No. 1 Lafayette in Hughes at 8121 feet in Hall county and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. plugged its No. 146 Blake in Sherman county.

The director found the safe had been broken open and $200 in cash, along with some non-negotiable bonds, missing. Beside the safe was a full complement of burglar tools.

World's Most Active Drilling Is Carried Out In Spraberry

By THOMAS H. SMITH

The most active oil field development program in the world is being pushed in the Spraberry trend — a 130-mile stretch of West Texas plains.

More than 200 rotary drilling rigs are probing 6500 to 8000 feet into the mesquite-covered range country to tap oil in the Spraberry sandstone.

The development is rich in the area of proved production and in the ultimate potential oil recovery. But wells as individual producers are generally a far cry from the gusher and 1000-barrelers that characterized other trends in West Texas.

Oil men use the word "boom" advisedly. It's a boom and a big one by many standards. But the drilling and construction is scattered over a wide area and operating and service facilities are supplied from established bases in Odessa and other oil towns.

In the case of the Spraberry boom of 1949 and 1950, Odessa supply and service men are swarming through the Spraberry trend with their drilling bits, wire rods, mud and chemicals, fishing tools and precision instruments, and other equipment and services.

Other towns sharing Spraberry activity are Stanton and Garden City to the east, Lamesa to the north and Rankin to the south.

Spraberry wells, which are completed with an average potential of 150 to 300 barrels of crude oil in 24 hours, are drilled far apart by standards in most U. S. fields. They are 660 feet from section lines and 1320 feet from well to well, a 40-acre spacing pattern.

Field operators are currently fighting a railroad commission proposal to cut the maximum efficient rate of production for Tex-Harvey and Germania wells from 121 to 83 barrels per day.

More than 20 fields in eight counties now have approximately 600 producing wells and development is expected to continue for years. First commercial production was logged by Seaboard Oil Co. of Delaware No. 2-B Lee, completed Jan. 22, 1949, for initial potential flow of 319 barrels per day in east central Dawson county.

The Tex-Harvey, which has spread from southeast Midland into southwest Glascock, came into shortly later. Six more Spraberry fields were discovered in 1950, and 1951 has seen a much greater discovery rate with a number of fields merging as ex-

Utah's Potential Oil Output May Be Boosted By Discovery

By EARLE L. JESTER

SALT LAKE CITY — (AP) — Disclosure of the results of an oil well test indicated today that Utah's potential oil production may be increased considerably.

The disclosure was made by the Carter Oil Co. The firm, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, said a well being drilled near Duchesne, in eastern Utah, yielded oil at 3000 feet. The well is a short distance from the first producing hole in the field, drilled to 7600 feet.

If the second well becomes a producer at the shallower depth, oil men say that would indicate at least two separate producing strata exist in the Duchesne field.

Carter said that in a two-hour test, the well gave up 985 feet of heavy black oil and 15 feet of gas and gas-cut mud. The pouring point was about 50 degrees.

That was in marked contrast with the first well in the field. It is producing paraffin base oil that will not flow at temperatures of less than 100 degrees.

Carter has done considerable experimenting in producing from the first well and at present is using heated oil as a circulating agent to cause the heavier petroleum to flow to the surface.

Carter has given no production, carefully controlled, now is between 280 and 350 barrels per day.

Utah has five oil and gas producing areas. The Clay basin, a extreme northern Utah, has a yielded natural gas for about 20 years. The four remaining areas have been developed since Sept. 18, 1948, when the first oil was produced. In Ashley valley — was completed.

Other producing areas are the Roosevelt field, the Red Wash field and the Duchesne field, all stretches across Utah from the eastern slope of the Wasatch mountains to the Colorado border.

The state's oil production has ranged upward from virtually nothing before 1948 to 4000 barrels per day late this summer.

Exploration is underway. In addition to the four oil producing areas and the Clay basin gas field drilling is underway in 27 areas.

Drilling for natural gas has been stimulated with the award of a permit to Utah Natural Gas Co. to construct a transmission line from southeastern Utah to the Salt Lake valley.

Byrd-Frost Co. of Dallas has completed one well about eight miles northwest of Monticello, in extreme southeastern Utah. The company capped the well, estimating its production at 1,500,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The company began drilling another well about four miles away. Recently it said the well indicated a flow of gas so strong that drilling tools were jammed in the hole. The well is reported not yet cleared.

Byrd-Frost also is drilling on the Last Chance structure, about 35 miles northwest of Emery, and on the Clear Creek structure, 25 miles west of Price. Drilling in all three locations is aimed at producing fuel for the Utah Natural Gas Co.'s protected line.

Conoco Plans 2 Pipelines

PONCA CITY, Okla. — Continental Pipe Line Co. has received approval from the Petroleum Administration for Defense for two pipe line projects in the Southwest, aggregating an expenditure of $7,900,000, and construction will get underway soon, according to W. L. Kysar, president.

One of the projects, scheduled to cost $5,900,000, is a 12-inch line that will extend approximately 225 miles from Wichita Falls, Texas, to Ponca City, Okla. The line will have an initial daily capacity of 40,000 barrels. The other project is an 8-inch, 100-mile line extending from the Rincon field in Starr county, in the southern tip of Texas, by way of McAllen to Port Isabel, near the mouth of the Rio Grande River. This line, costing $2,000,000, will have a capacity of 17,000 barrels daily and will move crude oil from the Rincon area to Port Isabel.

Rice Institute is a 50 percent partner with Continental in the construction of the Rincon line.

Bear, Stay 'Way From My House

LIBERTY, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Fred Whittle, of Cochecon Center, a nearby Sullivan County hamlet, was picking blueberries on her property which she has posted against trespassers when she was disturbed by another picker beside her. Mrs. White exclaimed: "Can't you read? Get away from those bushes and off my property!"

To make her order more effective, she moved around to face the violator. She found a good-sized bear standing on its hind legs eating berries. Mrs. White hastily retreated, leaving even her own pal of berries for the illiterate trespasser.

Growth Possible In Crop Income

RALEIGH (AP) — A $41,000,000 increase in the annual farm crop income of North Carolina can be achieved simply by changing to recommended varieties of corn, small grain and tobacco, believes W. E. Colwell, head of the Department of Agronomy at North Carolina State college.

"It is shocking to realize," says Colwell, "that of the State's huge tobacco crop, four acres out of every 10 are planted to varieties which are not recommended and which have even been shown inferior. If only the best varieties were grown, the tobacco farmers of North Carolina would produce an additional 44,000,000 pounds of tobacco per year which would mean an increased income of more than $23,000,000."

Similarly, he points out, only about one-third of the State's corn crop is planted to high-yielding hybrids. The loss from failure to follow recommendations in choosing the type of corn to plant amounts to nearly $16,000,000 each year. The story is the same, Colwell adds, for small grains, although the acreage of these crops is smaller.

Old Superstition, Said Dying But A-Bomb Spawning More

CHICAGO (AP) — A lot of children are born with in-born superstitions and misbeliefs, a psychologist says. But new ones keep cropping up and the A-bomb probably will spawn a lot more.

Many superstitions or misconceptions current in 1925 apparently are becoming extinct, Dr. Eugene Levitt of Columbia university told the American Psychological Assn. Such as:

You can get any mental or physical disease just by thinking of it.

The person who doesn't look you in the eye is probably dishonest.

Dr. Levitt gave a list of these and other superstitions and misbeliefs to 110 college students. He compared their answers with the same questionnaire given to 219 college students in 1925.

Far smaller percentages still thought the statements were true, he said. The students in 1925 believed more than 10 pieces of a long list of false beliefs, while today's students believed in less than two apiece.

But, he said, Prof. Richard Youtz of Barnard college, tried a somewhat different list on other students. This showed that many false beliefs still are pretty current today.

Like: All criminals are feeble-minded; the American Indian sees better than the white man; the complexity of life is causing more insanity; the color red excites a bull (it's wavying anything, of any color, he explained); men judge by reason and women by feelings and intuition.

Dr. Levitt said he didn't believe that people "are any less superstitious today than 25 years ago."

In fact, he said, world tension and the A-bomb probably are causing a brand new crop of misbeliefs.

"People know the A-bomb is important to them, but their knowledge of it is limited, and they are apt to grasp hold of only straw facts. People become anxious, and want to have something definite to believe in. They don't have the actual information, but they have a need to know something. People who grasp at such beliefs are also the kind who believe and spread rumors."

BRITISH CASUALTY REPORT KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — British army units fighting Communist terrorists in Malaya have lost 218 men, killed since the state of emergency was proclaimed on June 1, 1949. Another 468 have been wounded. One British soldier is missing.

The War of 1912 ended Christmas Eve, 1914.
