Commiss Indicted For Plotting To Overthrow U.S.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Twenty-one members of the Communist Party's secondary command were indicted today on charges of plotting violent overthrow of the United States government.

Seventeen of those indicted by a federal grand jury in New York were seized in an early morning roundup by FBI agents. The four others were being sought.

Sixteen of the arrests were in New York, the other in Pittsburgh.

The government moved against the lesser lights in the wake of this month's Supreme Court decision upholding the conviction of the party's 11 top leaders.

Attorney General McGrath and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in a statement: "Some of the individuals arrested are members of the alternate national committee, recently formed by the Communist Party to serve as the top policy making body in the absence of the present national committee members, now convicted."

The 11 leaders were convicted in New York in 1949 of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

Although the Supreme Court upheld the conviction two weeks ago, a legal battle for a rehearing is still on.

Each of those seized today was described by Hoover as "a prominent, active functionary of the Communist Party, U.S.A."

A federal grand jury which has been investigating subversive activities was reported ready to return an indictment in New York naming at least 21 persons.

All of those taken into custody were charged under the 1940 Smith Act. The Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of this law, providing punishment for violent plotting, when it affirmed the convictions of the top 11. That group received prison sentences ranging up to five years and each was fined $10,000.

The carefully planned roundup was carried out with precision over a period of just a few hours. In most cases, the federal agents waited near the homes of those slated for arrest and made their pickups on the streets.

Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court will consider a petition tomorrow for stay until October in the cases of the 11 top Communists. Should Jackson grant the stay, the 11 would not have to start their prison terms until the whole court hears a petition for rehearing in October. Other (See COMMIES, Page 2)

Senate Subcommittee Reports:

'Vicious Job-Selling Racket' Is Uncovered In Mississippi

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A senate subcommittee reported today it had found a "vicious job-selling racket" involving federal government positions in Mississippi. It attributed the "deplorable situation" to the action of the Democratic national committee which, the group declared, "saw fit to invoke political reprisals" on Mississippi Democrats who bolted from President Truman in 1948 and supported the States Rights ticket.

The seven-man expenditures subcommittee headed by Senator Hoey (D-NC) spoke of a small group as having "corruptly exploited political contributions" from persons seeking postal jobs, but said the practice has ended. It said there is no evidence the national committee got any of this money.

The subcommittee submitted a 15,000-word report summing up the results of its investigations, which included hearings at Jackson, Miss. It said federal officials are investigating and that prosecution may follow.

The report named leaders of the Mississippi group it asserted had used political power "to extort contributions" from federal job-seekers and criticized the Post Office Department for failing to uncover "these illegal job-selling activities."

It noted that the pro-Truman group had sought the advice and assistance of Donald S. Dawson, presidential aide, and added: "However, in the opinion of the subcommittee the evidence is clear that the Democratic national committee was responsible for turning over federal patronage" to the pro-Truman group.

Ten MIGs Downed, Damaged In First Double-Deck Battle

TOKYO — (AP) — Ten Red planes were shot down or damaged today in the Korean war's first double-deck dog-fight.

Both jet and propeller-driven planes — 98 of them — took part in the fourth consecutive day of air war over northwest Korea.

On the ground North Koreans suddenly abandoned Punchbowl Valley, which they had fought for so viciously. United Nations guns now dominate the former Red build-up area on the eastern front.

Sharp battles flared Wednesday on both sides of the valley — one near Kansong on the east coast and the other in mountains north of Yangju.

The double air battle broke out simultaneously between low-flying propeller planes and jets flying above at 13,000 feet.

When it was over the Reds had lost three planes destroyed, one probably destroyed and six damaged.

Twenty-four UN Mustang fighters overpowered a flight of six Russian-built propeller planes. All the Reds were hit. A Yak fighter and two Stormovik attack-bombers were shot

Drive Opened For Record Tax Increase

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The administration opened a drive today to push a record-breaking $7,200,000,000 tax increase through the House by tomorrow night or Friday.

The bill, carrying a 12.2 percent increase in individual income taxes together with sharp hikes in corporate rates and excise taxes, will be considered under procedure with bars amendments unless they are offered by the ways and means committee.

The two days of general debate must end by 3 p.m. (EST) on the second day.

Before the bill could be called up in the House, however, two-thirds of the members present must sanction waiving of the rule which sets aside today's "Calendar Wednesday."

On such legislation pending on the House docket, Chairman Rankin (D-Miss) of the veterans committee had ten bills he wished to be considered.

Administration leaders said before the start of today's session they believed a two-thirds majority would support immediate consideration of the tax measure. They were equally confident the bill would pass the House, Republicans also conceded this probable.

Although the proposed increase was officially described by the ways and means committee which drafted it as the largest ever sought in a single tax bill, it was less than half the $16,000,000,000 President Truman called for last January. He later lowered his sights — at least temporarily — to $10,000,000,000 increase.

This is the third tax increase to come before Congress since the outbreak of the Korean war a year ago. Total additional revenue (See TAX INCREASE, Page 2)

BRITISH OIL SEIZED — Iran today seized the billion-dollar holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. The move came after the Iranian Cabinet was summoned into a five-hour emergency session early today. Negotiations between Iran and Britain were broken off yesterday after Iran refused a British compromise offer of a financial advance as a substitute for the profits the Iranians had demanded.

British Mission Recalled As Iran Seizes Vast Oil Holdings

LONDON — (AP) — Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison today ordered the British mission to Tehran to return home.

Morrison told a crowded silent House of Commons Britain again would appeal to the International Court of Justice at The Hague for advice on what "provisional methods" it can adopt to protect its rich Iranian oil interests.

Morrison's announcement came after the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.'s negotiators in Tehran had asked that an airplane be sent to return them home. The negotiating team includes one government representative.

The foreign secretary indicated that Britain is not abandoning the sprawling oil fields and the giant oil refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. in southern Iran.

But he warned that Britons in Iran may have a difficult job keeping the installations operating.

"Riots, abuses, misrepresentations and the uncertainty of the future have made conditions difficult for them," he said. He added this warning: "The British government are not prepared to stand by idly if the lives of British nationals are in jeopardy."

Morrison went on: "It is the responsibility of the Persian government to see to it that law and order are maintained."

"If, however, that responsibility were not met it would equally be the right and duty of the British government to extend protection to their own nationals."

Britain's sea, land and air forces in the Middle East already are on the alert, a qualified government source said, in the event they are needed to protect some 7,000 Britons working in the Iranian oil fields.

Marshall Seeks Quick Okay Of Military Spending Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of Defense Marshall asked Congress today to approve as quickly as possible a vast $6,561,262,000 military building program he said is "indicated by the current international tension."

The Defense Department said that "in the near future" it will ask Congress to appropriate $4,500,000,000 to start the program and rush it along toward completion hoped for within two years. The money will be sought for the fiscal year which starts July 1.

Marshall outlined the program in letters to House Speaker Rayburn and to Senator Russell (D-Ga.) and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees. Vinson said his group will start hearings on Monday.

Parents Notified Pampa Marine Is Injured In Action

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beezley, 1132 Terrace, received a telegram this morning from Washington saying that their son, Pfc. Kenneth Ray, 23, was wounded in action in the Korean area.

The telegram said the nature of his wounds was not known, but apparently were not serious because he had not been evacuated and his address remains the same.

Last letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Beezley from their son was June 4. He is a machine gunner with the First Marine Division.

Pfc. Beezley was in the Navy during World War II, and enlisted in the Marine Corps last August. He went to Korea about Feb. 14, arriving Feb. 26 and was sent directly to the front, where he has been most of the time.

Mac Raps President's Order Silencing Probe Witnesses

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared today that President Truman's orders "silencing pertinent witnesses" have denied a Senate inquiry the "full facts" on his dismissal. But MacArthur said he doesn't care to testify again himself.

MacArthur rapped at the President in rejecting by letter an invitation to appear again before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees "investigating his ouster."

He contended, too, that some of the documentary evidence submitted to the senators had been lifted out of context so that it was "misleading," and said there was "lack of accuracy" in paraphrasing.

Many of the documents given to the senators in connection with the inquiry have been "paraphrased" — that is submitted in a rewritten, summary form rather than as the original documents.

The reason is that the original documents were transmitted by radio in code. Release of the actual texts might help a potential enemy to decipher the U. S. codes.

MacArthur testified for three days when the inquiry began last May 3. The committees had invited him to reply, if he wished, to the testimony received from his enemy in the Truman administration officials.

The five-star general wrote Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) that because "my known personal views" already are in the record in great detail, "I do not believe it is in the public interest" to testify again.

However, he added: "Insofar as the investigation (See MAC RAPS, Page 2)

WW II Principles Lost Says Officer

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, former ambassador to China, today accused the State Department of surrendering the principles for which World War II was fought.

Ever since the 1945 Yalta agreement, he declared, U.S. foreign policy has been based on "concessions to communism and fear of Russia."

Hurley also called for an end to what he called a policy of appeasement. He was testifying before Senate committees investigating the ouster of Gen. MacArthur.

When Turley took the witness chair, the committee made public a letter from MacArthur contending that President Truman's orders "silencing pertinent witnesses" had denied the inquiry group the "full facts" about its recall from Pacific commands.

In the letter, MacArthur declined an invitation to return for further testimony before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

MacArthur's reference obviously was to Mr. Truman's stand that Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of State Acheson should not testify about what was said by individuals at White House conferences on dismissing MacArthur.

MacArthur blasted, too, at some of the documentary evidence submitted in the inquiry. He said things had been lifted out of context so they were "misleading" and that there was "lack of accuracy" in some paraphrasing of documents. Paraphrased documents are rewritten versions, prepared that way because release of the actual texts might aid an enemy in breaking down codes.

Hurley, a Republican, was the eleventh witness at the inquiry. He is a former secretary of war who served as ambassador to China from November 30, 1944, to November 27, 1945.

At the outset, Hurley hit out at the State Department and what he called "the injustices" done to him by Secretary of State Acheson in testimony before the senators.

Saying that he was "more than willing to testify" on all subjects with which he was familiar, Hurley read from a statement in which he said: "My primary purpose is to show what were the underlying principles of American foreign policy at the beginning of World War II and then to show where, when and how our state department surrendered them and embarked our nation on an entirely different policy."

"This surrender of the principles and objectives for which we said we were fighting and the support of principles completely opposite to them is responsible for the confusion and for the costly failures in American relations."

Hurley went on to say "we should quit supporting ideologies abroad which if successful will destroy the American system of liberty." He added: "We should quit the policy of appeasement and present again a positive foreign policy based upon the principles of individual liberty, self-government, regulated free enterprise and justice."

Prior to today's session, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said he didn't think MacArthur was kept sufficiently informed of policy decisions before he was relieved of his Pacific command.

U.S. Issues Quick Call Of Scrip Dollars

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — The United States today suddenly called in millions of scrip dollars from American occupation and defense personnel in Europe and Africa in a blow at counterfeiters and black market speculators.

The order "threatened to void scrip outstanding after 1 p. m. (a. m. EST) today. A new issue of scrip was ordered immediately in place of the old, which has been in use more than four years. Possibly $50,000,000 worth of scrip was being called in.

This is the third such move by American forces on this side of the Atlantic since the war. All have been designed to foil counterfeiters and wipe out black market speculation in such money. Military scrip is the only currency honored at overseas post exchanges.

The move is effective wherever U. S. Army, Air Force or Naval stores supply accredited familiar in Germany, Britain, Austria, France, Trieste and North Africa.

More than 200,000 Americans, including students of servicemen and government employees, were notified suddenly this morning by telephone to turn in their scrip to local finance officers within six hours.

Thousands of Europeans who had hoarded scrip as a subterfuge, so that they could buy scarce American products which their own national economies lacked or produced at much higher prices, faced severe losses unless they could quickly persuade American acquaintances to do their exchanging for them.

The biggest confusion this morning was centered in Germany where there are more than 100,000 troops, 2,000 government employees and 65,000 dependents. A rich-quick adventurers immediately started a rife circulation among illegal curbstone money changers, looking for a chance to buy the recalled scrip at a panic rate in national currencies in the hope of converting at a profit.

Some overnight fortunes had been made in the two previous instances by American speculators. The illegal trade previously had been about five marks to the dollar. By this morning, it had dropped to one and half marks to the dollar.

Slaughterers Warned On Over-Bidding

Livestock slaughterers were warned today by Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle against over-bidding for live cattle.

"Unless slaughterers stop over-bidding the price of cattle," DiSalle said, "they may find themselves out of compliance with the regulation and subject to its penalty provisions, including civil and criminal actions as well as reductions in their July slaughter quotas."

DiSalle said that some slaughterers appear to be paying $1 to $1.50 a hundred pounds above ceilings, and will have to buy cattle later in the month at less than ceiling prices to average out in compliance with the ceilings.

A slaughterer is in compliance so long as his average price paid for all cattle is at, or below, the ceiling at the end of each accounting period.

OPS Enforcement Director Edward Morgan has informed slaughterers that his agents keep a close check on cattle sales at various markets, and send daily reports to the national office in Washington.

Agents at the markets send the names of purchasers, disposition made of cattle and whether slaughterers paid more than the maximum price.

That Ole Debbil Rum Done Made A Fortune

NEW YORK — (AP) — Oh, that body almost leaving their money to liquor?

Never mind the juvenile ruins haunting our kindergartens. Never mind the startlingly falling cost of aspirin and the disturbingly steady price of beef.

Let's get down to fundamentals. The subject: Well, a lady named Miss Nancy Alma Livingston left rainy Los Angeles last December for the sunshine sanctuary of Heaven. She was a stubborn 71.

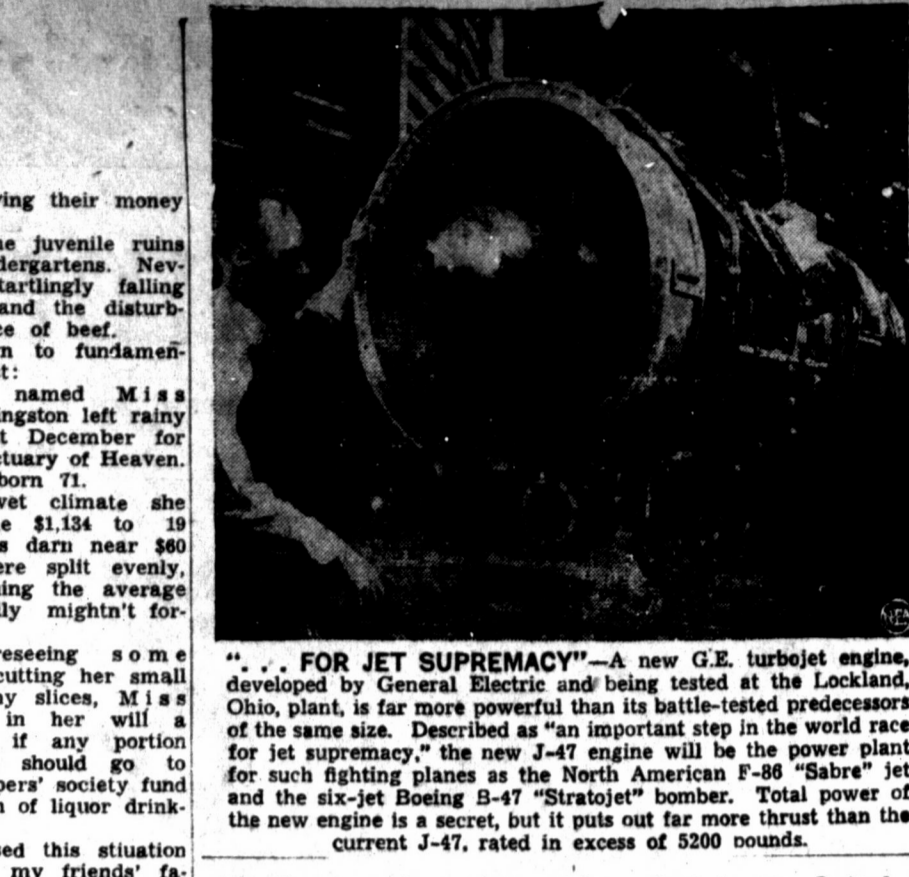

Besides the wet climate she left behind some $1,134 to 19 relatives. That is darn near $60 apiece, if it were split evenly, which is something the average relative ordinarily mightn't forgive.

Apparently foreseeing some difficulty about cutting her small pie into so many slices, Miss Livingston put in her will a stipulation that if any portion were refused it should go to "some saloonkeepers' society fund for the promotion of liquor drinking."

I have discussed this situation with several of my friends' favorite bartenders. They all agree the lady's will is unreal.

"A relative who can get $60 out of $1,134 today isn't likely going to contest the will," said one custodian of the mahogany.

Another said: "If we could get a Rockefeller or a Du Pont heiress to make the same provision, I would be more willing to wrestle her survivors for the cash."

Pretty Girls Bring Auto Trouble For Young Driver Here

Pretty girls have turned the head of more than one young man, but a Pampa youth "looked once too often" yesterday.

The teen-ager was driving west on Francis, turned to look at a group of girls, and crashed into a car parked on the other side of the street.

Police gave him tickets on three counts: driving on the wrong side of the street when not passing, defective brakes, and reckless driving.

About $30 in damages was reported on the youth's car, and $35 to the car he hit, owned by Jean Douglas, 417 S. Barnes.

Police reported no injuries in the accident.

Funeral Thursday For Shamrock Man Killed in Crash

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Funeral for Matthew J. Taylor, 24, killed in a plane crash, near Paris Monday, will be held at 11 a. m. Thursday at the First Methodist Church here with Rev. S. M. Dunnam, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Taylor was a resident of Shamrock said he had not started, but was taking off and in attempting to pull up over obstacles, he stalled the plane and crashed. The light plane burst into flames.

Survivors include his wife, the former Miss Dorothy Jo Clark, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. J. B. Clark; one son, Joe Matt, 4, and a daughter, Karla, 2; parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. ... FOR JET SUPREMACY — A new G.E. turbojet engine, developed by General Electric and being tested at the Lockland, Ohio, plant, is far more powerful than its battle-tested predecessors of the same size. Described as "an important step in the world race for jet supremacy," the new J-47 engine will be the power plant for such fighting planes as the North American F-86 "Sabre" jet and the six-jet Boeing B-47 "Stratojet" bomber. Total power of the new engine is a secret, but it puts out far more thrust than the current J-47, rated in excess of 5200 pounds.

But the general consensus of the bar hoppers was that the very idea was an insult to their trade.

"If the promotion of liquor drinking depended on the rejection of inheritances," said one, "I would become a traveling salesman."

"Well, it is a long bar," said a customer. "What are you but a traveling salesman?"

This accurate but ill-timed remark cost the client a drink on the house. The bartender had never been given a fair trial!

dealt with my relief from the Far East command, I feel that the full facts have not been elucidated due to the orders of the President silencing the pertinent witnesses as to his own part in the action.

That obviously was a reference to refusal by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, to tell the committee what said what at an April 3 White House conference that led to the firing of MacArthur.

The White House later said Mr. Truman did not want Bradley to testify regarding private discussions.

The committee voted 18 to 8 to uphold Bradley's refusal to testify on that point.

Secretary of State Acheson, when he was before the committee, said he had direct orders from Truman not to tell the committee what was said at the White House meetings.

Both Bradley and Acheson did testify as to the conclusions reached at the conferences. They said their refusal applied only to relating the actual conversations.

In his letter to Russell, MacArthur also declared that he took "sharp exception" to the interpretations some witnesses gave to events of which they had "little local knowledge" and which took place "thousands of miles" from them.

More than $1,887,000 worth of the projects have been classified "secret." Of this $1,071,000,000 is for the Air Force.

Of the total Marshall asked Congress to authorize the Air Force would be allotted $3,584,480,000 — more than the Army and Navy combined. Earmarked for the Army is $1,831,028,000; for the Navy, $1,450,783,000.

The largest single item is $74,093,000 which the Air Force proposes to spend on Olmstead Base in Pennsylvania. In addition, the department proposed expenditure of $15,155,000 at the White Sands guided missiles proving ground in New Mexico.

Overseas bases in Alaska, Guam, Okinawa, Japan and the Philippines would be built up.

The Defense Department said the huge building program is based on needs of an armed force of 3,500,000 persons, the present goal.

The program includes projects for all the states except four — Connecticut, Iowa, North Dakota and West Virginia.

California leads with 59 projects totalling $58,740,740. Proposed expansion in Texas totals $373,501,000. Virginia has the third largest amount — $268,298,000.

Dress Buyers In New York Confused

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor
Dress buyers thronging into New York this week for the first of the fall fashion openings wear a haunted, frantic look. They are here, by the thousands, to pick out the suits, coats and dresses that the feminine half of America will wear next fall, but the new vocabulary of some of the big fashion houses plainly has them bewildered.

One famous designer, for instance, opened his fall collection this week with the theme "Fashion in Relation to Architecture." She advised clothes to match our buildings, explaining:

"All through history our facades have matched our backgrounds. Her designs for fall, smart, simple and functional to be sure, feature 'cantilever necklines' and 'central heating.'"

Now can you blame an over-worked buyer from Dubuque for being confused? The straight-line coat or skirt, in the new terminology, is the "Column," and, so help me, fabrics are described as "architectures."

If this trend were carried to its logical conclusion, the lady who has just moved into a modern house might be expected to select a fall costume made of transparent plastic, with radiant heating.

The gal who clings to her Victorian rose-covered cottage might logically appear in bustle and dust-ruffle, while our colonial house fans could very well go back to the costumes of our Pilgrim mothers — and I'm sure nobody would enjoy that.

Then there is the current ranch-house enthusiast, who could upset the retailers no end by reverting to blue jeans and cowboy shirts as a permanent costume.

One sure thing emerges from the advance fashion shows, and that is that everything is going to cost more next fall, especially woolsens.

The sportswear houses, who are the first to open, show increases of five to 10 percent in most lines, but buyers are taking the hike in stride. As one big city buyer put it:

"We figure that the woman who is accustomed to paying $75 for a dress won't mind an extra ten dollar bill. The trouble is going to be in the budget departments, where the customer has only a ten dollar bill to spend."

There is a bright spot, however, in all the cost-of-living gloom. The women who yearn for mink may settle for rabbit this year, and like it.

One of the most elaborate and spectacular fashion shows of the year takes place today in New York, featuring creations by the cream of the big-name designers — and all in rabbit fur.

Advising the price-hedged public to "get the rabbit habit," the designers show everything from bathing suits to greatcoats and negligees to slacks, made of rabbit fur dyed to look like chinchilla, beaver, nutria, seal or simply a cold-fire rainbow.

Bright red rabbit slacks are shown for country wear and a

But the Truman administration, when it stripped him of all his commands, inflicted upon him one of the greatest humiliations ever dealt a general in military history.

And now that MacArthur has attacked the administration in both the foreign and domestic fields, it is clear his feeling against the administration is intense in all directions.

So even if he is never rewarded with the Republican nomination, it undoubtedly will be a satisfaction to him if he can help bring about the administration's defeat in the 1952 elections.

Until now the Democrats have handled MacArthur pretty gingerly for several reasons:

He had wide sympathy in his dismissal, immense prestige as a military expert, and wide experience in Asia. His quarrel with the administration was in the military and foreign fields.

His views on both were entitled to respectful hearing, even though his criticism of the administration on both counts may have hurt it politically among those he persuaded to his way of thinking.

So long as he confined his criticisms to military and foreign affairs, as he did almost exclusively, he could claim he was standing aloof from politics no matter what political effect he had.

But his Fort Worth attack if repeated — there's no reason to believe it won't be — should certainly be of political help to the Republicans in their fight on the administration. And in domestic affairs MacArthur can't claim to be a special authority.

So that puts him neck-deep in the American political brawl where the Democrats may feel a lot freer to start muzzing his hair.

Mac's In Politics Despite His 'Noes'

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — General MacArthur is now up to his neck in politics, although perhaps not on his own behalf.

He jumped in Saturday at Fort Worth when he made a full-scale attack on the Truman administration for the way it operates at home.

He had returned to this country, after an absence of 12 years, as a critic of the Truman administration's foreign policy.

But now he has launched out as a critic of the administration's handling of domestic affairs, too.

MacArthur made a whirlwind speaking trip through six Texas cities last week, defending and urging in five of them his views on how to win in Korea.

But in Fort Worth he never once spoke of Korea or foreign problems. He spoke there only of events at home.

At Fort Worth MacArthur, who has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for President, followed the favorite line taken by many Republican critics of the administration.

He struck at what he called the "internal subversion and corruption and detailed regimentation over our daily life . . . the drift away from our competitive system of free enterprise . . . the drift upward in the cost of bureaucracy . . . the tax burden . . ."

Senator Kerr, Oklahoma Democrat, reacted with this statement on MacArthur: "he's running for President as hard as he knows how. The Mac-Kado rides again."

MacArthur himself, almost at the moment he put foot on American soil in San Francisco last April when returning to talk to Congress, said: "I have no political aspirations whatsoever."

And to a reporter who asked him last week in Texas if he would seek the presidency, MacArthur said "po."

But there is a certain amount of elasticity in both statements for in neither of them did MacArthur say he wouldn't accept the Republican presidential nomination.

Solon Claims Congress Pay High Enough

WASHINGTON — (AP) — As long as there is no scarcity of candidates for Congress, Rep. Burdick (R-ND) says, the pay of members of Congress shouldn't be boosted.

And, he adds, the woods are full of candidates, at least in North Dakota.

Burdick said he has heard some talk about raising the pay of congressmen in connection with pending legislation to give civil service federal employees a pay hike.

"Now is not the time for pay raises for members of Congress," he said in an interview. "We are getting enough now. It would be all right to raise the pay if we were having difficulty attracting candidates at the present salary, but that isn't the case."

Burdick estimated that of North Dakota's population of approximately 620,000, about 200,000 gladly would go to Congress at the present pay rates — $12,500 a year plus a tax-free $2,000 annual expense allotment.

There has been quiet talk recently about raising congressional al Reorganization Act of 1946. Since then, some members claim, almost everyone in the country has received increased compensation to help offset higher living costs.

The figure $25,000 frequently is privately mentioned as a fair one for members' salary, but the present Congress will do anything to raise the existing scale.

Actress Bound To Wheelchair Builds New Career On Faith, Hope

Though she's partially paralyzed and confined to a wheelchair, actress Susan Peters is starred on a serialized television show.

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer
PHILADELPHIA (NEA)—"If I ever walk again, it will be like the best birthday present I ever got." The young woman who says this is an actress. She is young, beautiful and successful. She has her own TV show. And she's paralyzed from the waist down. Her name is Susan Peters.

On January 1, 1945, Susan and her husband, Richard Quine, were on a duck hunting holiday near San Diego, Calif. Susan accidentally discharged a .22 calibre rifle, lodging a bullet in her spine. The next day, a doctor told her: "Susan, as a doctor, I must tell you that you have no chance to walk again. But, as a man, I've seen many miracles. Anything can happen if you have faith."

Susan's faith is placed not so much in miracles as it is in her own strength and her own inner strength. As a star of the five-day-a-week television show, "Miss Susan," originating here, she is a model of patience. She is on the set each day in her wheelchair from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Most of the time she is rehearsing; for 15 minutes she is actually before the cameras in a live show.

She has, since her accident, faced the most bitter kind of reality and somehow, gotten on civil terms with it. The accident, seemingly, ended her movie career. It also ended, at her own insistence, her marriage. Most of all, it ended the normal, active life she had known until then.

"In the weeks after the accident," she says, "I learned not to lie to myself nor to let others lie to me for temporary relief. I learned to make each day a good day. I learned not to put off either pleasure or duty. The people who save up for a two-weeks' vacation are wrong; those two weeks may never come."

Susan returned to the screen in 1947, when she made a picture called "The Sign of the Cross." In it, she played the role of a young woman crippled in an accident. She followed this picture by going on the road in two plays, "The Barretts of Wilton Street" and "The Glass Menagerie."

Then last Christmas, she signed a contract to come East to star in television. In the show, she plays the part of Susan Martin, a woman lawyer. It is coincidence, nothing else, that Susan herself has been enrolled in law school. When she has the time and money for study, she'll work for her degree. That's her aim now.

At home in Philadelphia, Susan spends as much time as possible with her adopted son, Timmy, who's five. She has to have a cook and a nurse, of course, but she's learned to cook because she wants to be as independent as possible. She moves her light metal wheelchair quickly and gracefully about her kitchen.

Every week, Susan gets hundreds of fan letters. She keeps them all and answers some of them herself. She tries to remember birthdays of certain fans with cards and handkerchiefs. So many, she says, have problems like her own. She would like to tell them that everyone has a handicap. But those who are able to face it are adjusted people.

"If we find not repose in ourselves, it is vain to seek it elsewhere.—From the French.

Rest is valuable only so far as it is a contrast. Pursued as an end, it becomes a most pitiable condition.—D. Swing

BEAUTY AFTER FORTY

"A lean horse for a long race," said Donald Cooley at luncheon the other day, and he knows. As author of that popular book, "Eat and Get Slim" (Wilfred Funk, Inc.) he has some interesting things to say about food and fads—figures and facts.

"Eat and Get Slim" is one of the most successful books ever written on the subject of dieting and I believe that it is because the author makes sense. Don Cooley has bits of dry humor sprinkled throughout his discussion of foods and diets, which makes it easier to take! He believes that you should regulate your eating habits and he says emphatically, that no spasmodic dieting will work. He says that his book was written for lazy people who want to get slim, who don't like to exercise but who do like to eat!

Mr. Cooley says that diet has much to do with your zest, your beauty and your glamour and, definitely, your sex appeal! To quote from his book, "Eat and Get Slim," he has this to say, "Nothing makes fat except food. The unending law of reducing is to eat fewer food calories each day than you burn up...A calorie is simply a measurement of the heat energy of foods, hence a yardstick of their fattening qualities. "Getting slim is more than a matter of losing weight. More than cutting down on calories, it's a matter of your calories bringing with them the vital minerals, vitamins, proteins and other essentials that, if you have unwittingly been starved of them, will go far to restore the sparkle to your eyes, banish that tired feel-

Blend Your Drapes And Slipcovers With Rooms

This is fireplace corner of living-room after re-decoration. Grime has been removed from brick and marble; fire-basket has been installed. Two chairs placed together make, with lamp table and more chairs, a conversation corner. At right, Ronnie Halkehauser and Bob Wacker measure long, deep window for drapes in apartment they will occupy after spring wedding.

This is corner of living-room on other side of fireplace, showing window glimpsed at left. Bob replaced old radiator grill with modern screen; drapes are shown open. Studio couch has tailored cover that Ronnie made. Coffee table is modern, free form plywood with special slots for plants. Pin-up lamp provides soft light directly over couch. Rear wall is brown; others are yellow.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Once the general color scheme had been decided upon, Bob Wacker was quite willing to leave the matter of the drapes and the studio couch cover for their apartment to Ronnie. While he was plying a paint brush, she was busy with the fabric for both rooms.

For the living room, she decided on drapes in coral angora satin, a blend of cotton rayon and mohair. She did not want to line the drapes so she picked a fabric heavy enough to hang in line of its own weight. She wanted the material in a multiple width, to cover both the living room windows and wall-space between. Open or closed, the effect would be dramatic.

The studio couch got the same shade of coral but in a coordinated slipcover fabric with a woven design. The cover, she decided, should be tailored rather than frilly.

Because she had once vacationed in Peru and had brought back ornamental Peruvian silver, Ronnie picked a design of Peruvian origin for the study drapes. Colors are brick red, brown and white in a hand screen print that's blended cotton and mohair woven with a line like texture. All of the fabrics she chose are guaranteed for the lifetime of the fabric against moth damage, a real convenience for any homemaker.

Like many girls, Ronnie had no previous sewing experience. But she also had no intention of spoiling beautiful fabric by experimenting. So she went for help to her local sewing center. There she got guidance from the first step to the very last finishing details. The result is a job with a professional look.

When the drapes were completed and in place, Ronnie took a long look at the venetian blinds then in the apartment. They were a dingy tan that robbed the rooms of some of their vibrant color.

Because she had made the drapes herself, Ronnie felt that she could afford to splurge a bit on new blinds. For the living room she picked venetian blinds in exactly the same shade of yellow as the walls and had them done to her order with brown tapes. The study got pale blue blinds, matched exactly to the walls, with brown tapes. Thus, with the drapes open in either room, the feeling of color

GAINESVILLE LADY LOST 48 POUNDS

"I highly recommend Barcontrate to take off fat and not harm you," writes Mrs. Bessie Beasley, Route 1, Box 59, Gainesville, Texas. "Before taking Barcontrate, I weighed 225 pounds. The first bottle made me feel better and I lost 5 pounds the first week. I now weigh 180 pounds and want to get down to 160 pounds. I have now taken 5 bottles. I am 31 years of age and wouldn't be without Barcontrate, for it is a laxative as well as to reduce and no pains or griping after taking as so many laxatives I have taken do. I just say no use to carry that excess fat when Barcontrate will take it off so easy and no ill effects.

"When I get to the weight I want, I intend to still take it as its regularity makes me feel so much better every morning; no tired feeling. I have recommended Barcontrate to my friends."

When you buy Barcontrate, you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not pay for a diet list. Barcontrate is not a vitamin tablet to fortify you against weakness while on a starvation diet. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Barcontrate. It contains no harmful drugs, but does contain ingredients to make you feel better.

Just ask your druggist for four ounces of liquid Barcontrate. Add 15 ounces of canned grapefruit juice. Then take just 2 tablespoonsful twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky, unsightly fat, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Van Heflin Tells Why He Sets Pace Change

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Van Heflin, who was brought to Hollywood after scoring hits in several Broadway comedies, is doing his first film comedy in 10 years. That in itself is testimony to the strange workings of Hollywood. But Van Heflin is also interested in Heflin's reasons for doing the new comedy, "Weekend with Father." He was amazingly frank: "Look — I'm doing a comedy for the same reason I did my first western recently: for a change of pace. You see, I am not a personality star, like Tyrone Power or Clark Gable or Robert Taylor. And so I get the roles when producers find out they can't get people like Power or Gable or Taylor. "So I figure it's better for me to do as many different roles as possible. Then, when they find out they can't get the personality star, the producers will think of me for whatever kind of picture they have. "Also it gives me a wider audience. Kids who may never have seen me in a dramatic picture will see me in a western or a comedy. It pays to get the kids on your side. They're your movie audience of the future." Plans of CBS and NBC for television centers here, have overlooked the fact that ABC beat both the networks to the gun. ABC bought the old Vitaphone movie lot a couple of years ago and has spent $2,500,000 to make it the largest TV center on the coast. Faye Emerson, on her brief visit here, was kidded about the TV queens being guilty of unfair competition against movie stars. The reason: the TV gals can plunge their necklines further. "Wait a minute," Faye replied. "I saw Anne Baxter in 'All About Eve' recently and she wore a gown that plunged as far as anybody on TV. It was well past the point of cleavage. "And speaking of unfair competition, what about the comic strips and the magazines? The gals in those mediums get away with murder." Sign of the times: did you note in the list of top-salaried executives in the U. S. that not a movie name was present? One of the most significant moves in recent months was the word from Republic that many of its old films will be released to TV. Republic is the first of the big studio operators to do so and there may be more in the future. Here we go on an operatic cycle. It is reported that other studios are looking for opera subjects, now that the Caruso biopic is such a big success. Remember the last singing cycle, touched off by the success of Grace Moore in "One Night of Love"? Hedy Lamarr, wed this week to Ted Stauter, listed her age as 35. She has never allowed her birthdate in the record books, but one wonders if the estimate isn't a bit conservative. The first ironclad warship was built in the 18th Century for the Korean Navy.

THE STORY: No one believed me, Mary Tobian, when I told that Carl Metzker, who was a Communist courier and had killed my friend Caroline Leigh, I had to some property Caroline had hidden in Indiana and took her name. But Carl followed me and has, out the phone lines to the house and is coming to kill me.

DIABOLICALLY clever Carl, who must fear me almost as much as I feared him, had not called from New York? Why should he, when that would give me time to run? No, he was out there in the darkness, waiting for me, in my terror, to run into his murderous arms.

Killing me could be so easy. A lonely farm house, a city girl living alone... a fire. Terror can do strange things to you. It can stir the hysteria that is latent in all of us, or it can bring an urgent calm, a surefire knowledge that if you don't think straight—and fast—you're going to die. I didn't want to die.

Unconsciously thanking whatever Fate had led me to draw the tattered old blinds every night, I put the dead receiver back on its hook, tied a bandana around my head, put on my coat. I picked up my purse. All very calmly. I was running, yes. But this time with method rather than madness. Carl Metzker had to be stopped, and there was only me to stop him.

I stood still, listening. But there was only the wind moaning in the eaves and the first patter of rain against the old many-paned windows. If Carl was out there, he was content to wait.

I would leave my things. Aside from the utter impossibility of juggling a suitcase through the night, their presence might delay pursuit. It might take Carl a few minutes to catch on. My mind was alert, calculating, somehow insulated against the cold terror that had touched off my wild flight that day in New York. It was a good thing; in the next moment I needed all the coolness I could master. It was all I could do to keep from running madly for the door—any door but the back one, where I had heard an unmistakable protest from the rusty old lock.

The silence that followed was loud. Eons limped by. Then there was another cautious scratch. HOLDING tight to the natural instinct to put distance between me and that door in a hurry, I slipped into the hall that divided the parlor from the equally barn-like rooms beyond, and then into a bedroom that had not been used for years if its musty smell was any criterion. I had explored the house on my first day there—from curiosity only, because then I had felt safe—and I crept through the stuffy dark now because this was the farthest from Carl.

There was a door at the end of the room, locked by one of those insignificant rimlocks that farm people seem to think protection enough. I flipped the little button-like business, cringed at the tiny noise it made as the lock was released.

Then I was outside, thankful for the rain and the whining wind that might shield my flight. If only I could reach that tangled shrubbery! Clutching my purse, I ran for dear life.

Half-way down the hill I looked back. There was a light in the room I had just left, and as I looked a bulky figure was silhouetted momentarily before someone behind him turned the flashlight off. So there were two of them! Two—and how many more?

I had not fooled them. The pleasant fire, fresh coffee still warm in the percolator, a half-emptied cup on the mantle...

I could see Carl chewing at his lower lip, funneling possibilities swiftly through his mind until he knew just how I had fled. Without looking again at the house, perched dark and silent on its hilltop, I set off across a field, climbed a fence, ran on.

I was past tears, beyond hysteria. The three miles to Hollister stretched endlessly ahead.

Time and time again, I stood still, the rain coursing down my face like freshwater tears, and strained for some sound of pursuit. But there were none; only the wind-driven rain and my own hoarse breathing.

The gravel road lay to my left and once, when headlights bored stubbornly through the downpour, I threw myself flat and prayed. The car went on, and I struggled to my feet.

Cautiously, I changed course. Walking was rougher here; this was the creek bottoms and low brush was beginning to tangle my feet.

Somewhere ahead there was movement, I froze. BREATH whistled in my dry throat as some heavy-footed animal crashed casually through the underbrush, and I had taken a step to move on when a pencil of light stabbed toward the source of the sound. I dropped like a log as the startled cow lumbered off.

Numb with cold and soaked to the skin, I was afraid to move. A briar or something was draped across my neck, and my face was rammed into a bunch of dead swamp grass, but I lay still for what seemed like hours.

Then the car came. It stopped. "Frank?" Carl's voice. Carl—not 100 feet from me! "Didn't see her," Frank growled, shuffling toward the car. "Once, though—" "Skip it!" Carl cut in, his voice nasty. He stepped up the idling motor.

In the second that the door was open for Frank to get in and the faint light showed up the car, I looked. Carl was alone.

He had not been alone at the house. (To Be Continued)

Audie Murphy Says Army Is Better Today

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — "New soldiers are better," observed Audie Murphy. "They don't fade away." Murphy came up with this comment after returning from Army duty for a film role (in "The Cimarron Kid.") I asked him to compare the new Army to the one he knew in World War II.

"I think today's Army is better," he said. "Sure, the average soldier is a heck of a lot younger. But there are enough officers and NCO's (non-commissioned officers) with combat experience to give them the know-how. That's what we didn't have in the last war — enough leaders with experience."

"From an officer's standpoint, I think it's much easier to command young men. And they have the physical stamina that older soldiers wouldn't have."

What about younger men in combat? "Age doesn't matter in the front lines," he replied. "The first 24 hours is the crucial time. If a man gets through his first 24 hours of combat, he's a veteran, no matter what his age is. After that, he can stand up under almost anything."

Murphy, who won more medals than any other American soldier in the last war, added that the new soldiers are better trained. Training methods have improved through the experiences of World War II.

"In the last war," he said, "we got 13 weeks of basic training and then were sent right into the front lines. In most cases the training period is un-der the limited now. The soldiers get basic training and then go into several phases of advanced training. "And the rotation system in combat is better. I understand the soldiers in Korea get re-placed in the front lines after a certain period. I knew guys who were under fire in Italy for a year and a half at a stretch." He added that conditions seemed to be better for enlisted men in the new Army. "They don't have to salute officers off the post, for example," he observed. Murphy will return for another tour of duty with the Army in August.

Improved Electronic Brain Is Revealed

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A $600,000 "electronic brain," able to supply in split seconds mathematical answers to the toughest problems, goes to work today for the census bureau.

Better to understand UNIVAC's operation let's look at its functions for the census. In the census 132,000 persons make a written record of the facts about each of more than 100,000,000 people, accumulating more than 12,000,000 facts about Americans, their homes, businesses and farms.

UNIVAC in one-sixth of a second—no longer than it takes to wink an eye—will compile 20 facts about each person: where he lives, his sex, marital status, age group, employment, income, education, war service, birthplace, and, if foreign born, whether he has been naturalized.

Census officials cite, however, that even at the rate of one-sixth a second per person one UNIVAC could not tabulate all the information about America's 150,000,000 residents. Therefore, UNIVAC will be used to prepare tabulations for only a selected group of states.

UNIVAC is being unveiled publicly today in the Eckert-Mauchly Computer Corp. plant. The operation of UNIVAC is based on the reading of a magnetic recording tape. This tape feeds instructions and facts into the electronic calculating unit which turns out the answers and sorts the resulting information.

The UNIVAC checks its own answers, making sure of the accuracy of not only figures but of names. An operator types on a keyboard, similar to that of a standard typewriter, the letters and figures of the problem. A coded character is recorded on the magnetic tape, in much the same way that a teletype machine punches holes in tape. Then the KINGSVILLE, Tex. — (AP) — Where does a college student's money go? The answer has been the subject of a year-long study by business administration students at Texas A&I College. The investigator was students of Mrs. Katherine Whitelaw, assistant professor of business administration.

Students Find Money's Goals

The study found that A & I residents spend an estimated $218,850 each month—or almost $2 million during a nine-month winter term. The average expenditure of an individual was found to be $160 a month.

By far the largest amount goes for food and shelter—$80,000 a month—with $36,000 going for clothing. More than half the clothing budget is spent outside of Kingsville.

Entertainment is the third largest student expense at $33,600 a month. Next highest were transportation at $26,000 and laundry and cleaning at $19,000.

The estimated figures are based on a representative sampling by questionnaire of resident students. Part-time or commuting students were not considered.

tape goes into the electronic calculating unit and in seconds the answer.

Remington Rand in a statement said "aside from its mathematical and scientific research applications, the UNIVAC has almost endless potential business uses including payroll computations with intricate work rate calculations and numerous tax and other deductions; complicated accounting procedures; various types of customer billing, including public utility rate structures and meter readings; and management controls of inventory, production, sales and personnel."

Drug Habit Comes Easy

This is a good time to reprint some remarks concerning economic controls that were made several months ago by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston in testimony given before a Congressional joint committee.

"I must say right now," said Johnston, "that wage and price controls will not be effective for long. It is essential that we begin to cure the reasons why we have to put wage and price controls into effect. The main objective of economic stabilization is to secure a stable dollar and by that we mean, of course, the stable purchasing power of the dollar."

"It is essential that we preserve freedom in this country, which means that we should get rid of wage and price controls at the earliest practical moment."

Johnston then went on to say that it is absolutely vital that we balance the budget, restore confidence in the dollar, and control the supply of credit.

"There are two basic dangers in price and other controls. One is that the people will gradually drift into the idea that these artificial restrictions on the economy are a permanent necessity — just as the drug addict drifts into abject dependence on dope. Many of the politicians, who always want more and more power for their own sake, encourage that kind of thinking.

The second danger is that we will fall for the fallacy that price controls are actually a cure for the disease that is inflation — where, actually, they treat only certain symptoms and can't even do that very effectively. The current uproar over the meat situation is a good example. The controllers have tried, in effect, to repeal the natural law of supply and demand, and the result is scarcity, growing black markets, and the probability of falling production.

Johnston was right — if we are to remain a free, strong and progressive nation, price and wage controls must be abandoned at the earliest possible time.

Socialism By Indirection

Oscar Ewing, the Federal Security administrator, has long been one of the strongest advocates of the compulsory health insurance plan which is periodically recommended by the administration.

A short time ago, while testifying before the House Appropriations Committee, Ewing was asked the question: "How do you feel about the people's attitude toward compulsory health insurance?" Ewing replied: "I don't think a majority is for it right now."

In all probability Ewing greatly misestimated the situation. Literally thousands of national, regional, and local organizations of every conceivable nature have gone on record against compulsory health insurance. In that list are the largest and best known organizations representing farmers, lawyers, veterans, club women, and other groups. These people are not opposed to better medical care — in the contrary, they are all for improving it as rapidly as possible. But they are convinced that compulsory health insurance, which might very well be simply a prelude to socialized medicine on the British model, would not produce any result other than a general decline of medical standards.

There is small chance of the compulsory health insurance bill passing Congress now. The greatest danger is that a start in that direction may be made by evasion and by indirection. As an example, it is being urged that the national health services be established by executive order. Some expansion may be necessary — but anyone familiar with political strategy will realize that the advocates of socialized medicine will get right on this handwagon and whom it stops.

The point is that we must stop any movement which no matter how innocuous it may seem on the surface, would in any way subject the doctor to the bureaucracy.

Better Jobs

By R. C. HOILES

"Do You Know Your Rights?"

Most of our troubles comes from individuals not knowing their rights or responsibilities. One of the responsibilities of each individual is to know his natural rights and responsibilities as set forth in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Timken Roller Bearing Co. realizes the responsibility of leadership. It is doing a splendid job of work in advertising in most of the cities in which it operates in trying to get individuals to understand what causes better jobs and prosperity and development of character.

In the Bucyrus, Ohio Telegraph-Forum the Timken Roller Bearing Co. published an ad explaining how important to each individual the freedom of the press is. In this ad they also published a list of individuals' rights with an asterisk before those that were embodied in the Bill of Rights. The list was interesting to me, so I am reproducing it below:

- Freedom of worship
 - Right to secret ballot
 - *Right to know how your union spends your dues
 - Freedom of speech
 - Right to criticize officials
 - *Right to know salaries of your union officials
 - Freedom from search without warrant
 - Right to petition government for redress of grievances
 - *Right to know if your union of officers are Communists
 - *Right to know how your union runs
 - Right to speedy and public trial by jury
 - Right to help of a lawyer
 - *Right to hear your employer's side of disagreement
 - Right not to appear as a witness against yourself
 - *Right to refuse to permit the "check-off" of union dues
 - *Right to sue directly to your boss with a grievance
 - Right to be presumed innocent until proved guilty
 - Freedom to own property
 - Judicially defined disputes
 - Freedom to work in any locality
 - *Right to proper supervision of your union welfare funds
 - Freedom to start and manage a business
 - Freedom to make a profit
 - *Right not to be fined by union leaders
- These above-listed rights are all natural rights. They are rights that each individual has when he is born. They are basic rights that the government should defend. Instead of doing this, however, the government has made laws that make it very difficult for individuals to maintain their rights. And these laws were made because individuals did not understand that respecting other people's rights was the best way to protect their own.
- And develop their own character and promote it for themselves and everyone else.

WHY ACHESON SHOULD BE FIRED (Chicago Daily Tribune)

There are many compelling reasons why Mr. Acheson should be fired from office. He is the best of them all — applying equally to his boss, Mr. Truman — was provided by Acheson himself in his testimony before senators investigating the dismissal of Gen. MacArthur. There the secretary demonstrated his contempt for the constitutional restraints upon the Presidency by declaring the right of Mr. Truman to make war without the consent of the Senate. Under the constitution, has the sole power to declare war.

Sen. Smith of New Jersey reminded Acheson that American troops were committed to action in Korea by Truman without congressional approval. The senator asked what would happen if the United Nations decided that another "police action" might be necessary, say, in the Far East? "Would you," he asked Acheson, "under those conditions recommend that the President seek congressional approval before committing the United States to war? He may do it on his own motion, or he may please him to honor congress by submitting the issue to the legislative branch.

Secretary Acheson would be laid out to explain where in the constitution a law there is any warrant for the doctrine that the President possesses the prerogative to declare war. He knows that that power is conferred by the Constitution on congress. He knows that, even when it is contemplated that American troops be used in some action such as that in Korea, which is clothed in the misty sanctity of U.N. law passed by congress requires the President to draw up an agreement with U.N. regarding use of the troops and then to obtain the approval of congress to the agreement, before he commits the troops to action.

The plain fact is that Truman and Acheson both know that he sent our forces into Korea in contravention of both the Constitution and the law. They know that this was, and is, an impeachable offense. So, being unable to justify it, they are attempting to rewrite the Constitution to give Truman the authority that he does not possess.

Acheson's defense of the dictatorial action of Truman in Korea is the confession of a guilty man. It follows the line laid down in a mysterious pamphlet which turned up last Feb. 28 under the title, "Powers of the President to send the Armed Forces Outside the United States." This government has

VIEWS

BY DAVID BAXTER

WORLD GOVERNMENT

Mrs. C. U. Fry of Covina, California recently authored a letter to the Los Angeles TIMES which I'd like to quote. She says:

"I noted a letter in the Times of April 21 which offered the United World Federalists, an organization promoting world government, as the ideal medium for those who wish to work for peace and not communism."

"This brought to mind an article written by Prof. Lewis Haney, New York University in which, enumerating the main points in the Communist line he says, '...They favor world government. One of the main points of communism is its internationalism, and this makes it much more dangerous. One way for the communists to get what they want in the way of world domination is to put across a world federation that would subordinate as a minority. (You see, there would be majority rule and the communists are a majority.)'

"It would be logical to assume that the only way a proposal for world government could be made to appear workable would be its operation on a democratic representative basis. In view of the fact that the non-communist population represents the majority, we would find ourselves in the position of taking orders and accepting decisions from a communist majority. Our country would be a puppet state and we would be abdicating our allegiance to an international flag and subjected to the rules of an international document to be tried by an international court should we actively resist, voluntarily giving up the fruits of our undisputed economic supremacy.

"The increasing demands being made today on our pocketbooks for subsidies, aid to other countries, etc., are mild as compared to the inevitable result of placing ourselves at the mercy of powers which would like nothing better than to strip us of our well-earned higher standards in order to better their own — in other words, take from the 'haves' and give to the 'have-nots, or socialism on a giant scale.

"The reactions we have been getting lately from our world 'neighbors' should be proof enough that we are not being thought of too kindly."

PASTOR'S LETTER

I would like to give some moral encouragement to Dr. R. R. Finkbeiner, pastor of the Evangelical Methodist church of Kennebec, Wash. In a letter to the editor of the Tri-City HERALD, Dr. Finkbeiner affirms this column's position on infidelity among some church leaders and the taking over of entire church organizations by left-wingers. As I suggested recently, political and social immorality almost invariably follow religious trickery and deceit.

"For twenty-five years," writes Mr. Finkbeiner, "I served in the ranks of the United States Army. When I finally became convinced of the unscriptural and anti-Christian policies of my denomination, I withdrew. I left behind a large and beautiful church edifice. I left behind a good annual salary and a growing pension started in 1930. I left behind an excellent Wurlitzer organ and a grand robe of honor. But all those advantages I count as nothing compared to the privilege of beginning life all over again to preach Christ as Savior and the message of the Bible as the revelation of God."

Finkbeiner knows what he's talking about from experience. So do I, for that matter, when it comes to sheep-killing dogs being turned loose on the church flock. Hundreds and hundreds of sincere men have either walked out or been forced out of their churches on this account.

A remarkable thing about this is that a majority of the honest and doctrinally true churchmen have had no interest in political or economic subjects at all except that, most of it, not all of them have believed in the free enterprise system and individual liberty.

This very refusal to become intoxicated with social gospels and political nostrums has been the chief reason they have incurred the enmity of the modernists. The modernists WANT church members to take an interest in political things, particularly socialism-communism and to substitute such "gospels" for the old fashioned one of Jesus Christ.

The honest churchmen, however, are not going to substitute ANY other gospel for that of Christ and that angers the modernists, who are anxious to spread the seeds of socialism far and wide through the churches. They will crush the men who stoutly insist that the church's only commission is to PREACH THE GOSPEL.

chance was described as having been "prepared for the use of the joint committee made up of the committee on foreign relations and the committee on armed services of the senate." Where does it explain who prepared it, except that Sen. Tom Connally, New Deal chairman of the foreign relations committee, states that he asked "the executive departments" to draft it as an "analysis of the President's power from the executive point of view."

This defense of Presidential war making asserted that "congressional power to declare war... has fallen into abeyance because there are no longer declared in advance." Wars may not be declared in advance by a totalitarian enemy; under the Constitution of the United States, war always must be declared — and by congress.

"The constitutional power of the commander in chief has been exercised more often than the need for armed international action has grown more acute," the monograph declares. What "constitutional power"? "More often" than what? When has such alleged power been exercised? In Korea, where Truman defied the Constitution and broke the law? And how does "the need for armed international action" — presumably a euphemism for U.N. military excursions — justify violating the Constitution? "Repelling aggression in Korea

The Bear in Lama's Clothing

FAIR ENOUGH--PEGLER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Always glad to help, I write this to advise you that L. M. Birkhead's gestapo, democracy, seems to be having a time of it and is rattling the cup for money to carry on its work in New York.

It seems to me that the best way to appeal to public notice would be to enlarge my recent piece of free publicity for Friends of Democracy.

In that case, those who agreed with Birkhead might be moved to send him something right away. Those who disapprove his work, of course, would do him the honor of refraining.

Naturally, Birkhead wouldn't be wanting money from those who oppose him, so surely he will thank me for notifying American friends of my denunciation of his basis of Communism "how he stands on religion, morals and so forth.

In this chore I am indebted to John T. Flynn, one of the great, original anti-Communists as distinguished from the recent converts who hollered up "Communist books during the war, even sending them to members of Congress, who joined Communist fronts and who suppressed the crime of Alger Hiss for 10 years but got scared when Stalin turned up, and began calling him dirty names to show how brave they were. Flynn carries many a scar inflicted by these new anti-Communists during the time when to be a Red-hater a man required courage, honor and patriotism.

In his booklet, "The Sins of Terror," Flynn, one of the best reporters we ever had in our lifetime, writes the results of his studies of Birkhead's little book on religion.

Birkhead is an old Kansas City preacher. Finding himself in geographical and intellectual proximity to E. Haldemann - Julius, the publisher of atheistic and particularly anti-Catholic books, it was natural that he should put out his works under the Haldemann-Julius imprimatur.

In one of his appeals for money to carry on his great work, Birkhead wrote: "An attack on any man's religion is un-American." A strange sentiment coming from a man named Birkhead, a man named Brown and a man named Johnson came to call on one of their neighbors — a fellow named Jones. "What do you expect me to do about it anyway," boys."

"Change your name," said Smith.

"Never," said Jones. "I'm a born Jones."

"Have your wife take in washing," pleaded Smith. "Any little gesture like that would help."

"We all have to try to keep up with the Joneses," grumbled Johnson. "What do you Joneses try to keep with?"

"Right now I'm trying to keep up with my bills," confessed Jones. "I'm up to my armpits in debt. If I had some ready cash, I'd sell my place here and move away."

"You would?" said Smith. Brown and Johnson. They put their heads together, then announced: "We'll give you $500 each as a present if you will just move out."

After a little dickering, Jones got them to raise the ante to $1,000 each, arguing it was a good long-term investment. Smith, Brown and Johnson went to their banks, borrowed the money and paid Jones. He moved out.

There ensued a month of peace in the neighborhood. Then Smith got this greeting from Mrs. Smith as he returned from work: "The new people moved into opposition is spiritless by comparison with his attacks on Catholicism and a long roster of ecclesiastical and a regular department of the "lonely hearts" type of which the following is a sample: "Lonesome? cheer up. Find your sweetheart. Confidential instructions by letter. Dependable nationwide service for men and women. Sealed particulars, Free!"

Another little ad in the same paper says: "Counterfeit Christian propaganda. Display freethought plaques." And Haldemann-Julius tossed off this: "One thing I like about animals is that they do not waste their time moping over their souls."

Although Birkhead is not responsible for his publisher's text, it may be noted that some clerics would find unbearable the company of Haldemann - Julius, his abusive atheism, his zest for the topic of perversion, and his laborious amut.

In the current appeal for money, Birkhead frankly boasts of the files which his gestapo has amassed and of requests for information which he has been able to comply with.

And this prompts me to turn to the book called "The Plotters" by a trembling professional sneak calling himself John Roy Carlson, in which Carlson says: "As an employe of Friends of Democracy for six years, I know that the Friends of Democracy is anything but Communist except of course, in the eyes of nationalist demagogues."

Flynn tells us that Carlson formerly published a magazine called "The Christian Defender," which was devoted to ferocious Jew-baiting. Flynn notes that Carlson tried to excuse this with the explanation that he was trying to elicit expressions hostile to Jews to be used against individuals who could be induced to write them.

Judge John P. Barnes of the United States court in Chicago, said said Carlson would write anything for a dollar and was not worthy of belief under oath.

The lashes on the cat are labeled "bigotry," "priestcraft," "superstition" and "fanaticism."

"Haldemann - Julius was working the atheist side of the street," Flynn wrote in "The Terror," "but we find Birkhead working both sides — operating as a preacher in All Souls' Unitarian church in Kansas City while knocking hell out of religion in the Haldemann - Julius little blue books and magazines."

"He used these atheistic publications to defame his fellow ministers. 'Everyone,' he wrote in the Haldemann-Julius quarterly, 'familiar with the status of the clergy in America knows that vulgarity and coarseness are characteristics of a majority of the preachers.' He had several suggestions, one of them to 'destroy the theological seminaries.'

"I do not quarrel with Rev. Birkhead because he is an atheist or an agnostic," Flynn continued. "He is entitled to these views and to print them. I merely call attention to the phenomenon of the Christian preacher who urges in an atheistic magazine abolition of the theological seminaries and mass demoralization of ministers while preaching as pastor of a Christian church: scoffing at religion and religious people, announcing that 'we cannot follow Christ,' while on another platform he calls on Americans to choose between Hitler and Christ."

The Haldemann - Julius literature contains a great bulk of books on sex, most of it in the phases which American morality holds to be loathsome. Perversion and prostitution are the subjects of many titles. Under the heading of "Prostitution" Birkhead is listed as the author of "The Sins of Good People."

Filthy gags abound in the copy which Haldemann-Julius pounds out endlessly. An interesting context for the works of a minister of the gospel.

Though Haldemann-Julius says he is opposed to Communism, his gesture, democracy, seems to be having a time of it and is rattling the cup for money to carry on its work in New York.

It seems to me that the best way to appeal to public notice would be to enlarge my recent piece of free publicity for Friends of Democracy.

In that case, those who agreed with Birkhead might be moved to send him something right away. Those who disapprove his work, of course, would do him the honor of refraining.

Naturally, Birkhead wouldn't be wanting money from those who oppose him, so surely he will thank me for notifying American friends of my denunciation of his basis of Communism "how he stands on religion, morals and so forth.

In this chore I am indebted to John T. Flynn, one of the great, original anti-Communists as distinguished from the recent converts who hollered up "Communist books during the war, even sending them to members of Congress, who joined Communist fronts and who suppressed the crime of Alger Hiss for 10 years but got scared when Stalin turned up, and began calling him dirty names to show how brave they were. Flynn carries many a scar inflicted by these new anti-Communists during the time when to be a Red-hater a man required courage, honor and patriotism.

In his booklet, "The Sins of Terror," Flynn, one of the best reporters we ever had in our lifetime, writes the results of his studies of Birkhead's little book on religion.

Birkhead is an old Kansas City preacher. Finding himself in geographical and intellectual proximity to E. Haldemann - Julius, the publisher of atheistic and particularly anti-Catholic books, it was natural that he should put out his works under the Haldemann-Julius imprimatur.

In one of his appeals for money to carry on his great work, Birkhead wrote: "An attack on any man's religion is un-American." A strange sentiment coming from a man named Birkhead, a man named Brown and a man named Johnson came to call on one of their neighbors — a fellow named Jones. "What do you expect me to do about it anyway," boys."

"Change your name," said Smith.

"Never," said Jones. "I'm a born Jones."

"Have your wife take in washing," pleaded Smith. "Any little gesture like that would help."

"We all have to try to keep up with the Joneses," grumbled Johnson. "What do you Joneses try to keep with?"

"Right now I'm trying to keep up with my bills," confessed Jones. "I'm up to my armpits in debt. If I had some ready cash, I'd sell my place here and move away."

"You would?" said Smith. Brown and Johnson. They put their heads together, then announced: "We'll give you $500 each as a present if you will just move out."

After a little dickering, Jones got them to raise the ante to $1,000 each, arguing it was a good long-term investment. Smith, Brown and Johnson went to their banks, borrowed the money and paid Jones. He moved out.

There ensued a month of peace in the neighborhood. Then Smith got this greeting from Mrs. Smith as he returned from work: "The new people moved into

WASHINGTON — An American program in developing the atom and hydrogen bombs is matched only by Washington's utter failure to frame even a faint blueprint for the most elementary protection of the civilian population against a cosmic cloudburst.

As of today, the ordinary householder does not know whether to run to the cellar, the attic or the backyard under such an attack.

He does not know whether he should stand up or lie down. He is an atomic ignoramus.

The files of almost every member of Senate and House are stuffed with complaints and requests from governors, mayors, manufacturers, farmers and civic organizations which have voluntarily assumed the task of preparing their communities for atomic warfare.

In a bulletin extraordinary for its severity of criticism, the United States Conference of Mayors recently delivered a heavy blast against the official callousness and indifference toward this grave problem.

probably be totally ineffective today. There is need for a continuing flow of advice and atomic aid from Washington to possible targets. But there seems to be no official disposition or medium for forwarding help or material assistance to the communities begging for it in almost every delivery of mail on Capitol Hill.

The very fact that they write to their Congressmen, who are equally ignorant reflects the nationwide bewilderment and confusion.

ESSENTIAL — Russia has been far more secretive about her A - H progress, if any, than the United States. On the military side, however, the Pentagon takes the position that the enemy will catch up with us sooner or later in this field. Otherwise, they would be delinquent in their obligation to national defense.

But comparatively nothing has been done for the civilians, although it is obvious that continued operation of our transportation, industrial and agricultural economy will be as essential to victory as maintenance of an army, navy and air force. Modern war is never won by the military alone.

DEFEENSE — Paul V. Betters, executive secretary of the conference, and frequently described by the nation's "hizoners" as the "Mayor of the United States," has just left for Europe for a two - month study of the preparations which more bomb-conscious cities have made for survival. Naturally, British and French agencies are far ahead of the United States in this field, since they would be the first victims.

Due largely to Betters' liaison work between the cities and the federal government, and to the initiative of local officials and civic-minded groups, many cities have organized and informed their inhabitants on how to act under a barrage of A - H bombs.

But there cannot be any strong and coordinated defense system without direction, data and funds from Washington, which must be the only repository of expert information on a subject new and strange to laymen.

NEGLECT — President Truman throws the blame on Congress for neglect of this question. And it is a fact that the legislators slashed his budget request for money for federal promotion of civilian defense.

Congress reduced the preparedness figure from $408,000,000 to $31,750,000. That sum will finance only an administrative office here and a store of medicines that must be matched by the states, although the basic law says that this is a federal responsibility.

Congress cut out all money for such elementary safeguards as shelters, warning signals, fire-fighting apparatus and rescue equipment. It reduced the stockpiling fund for medical care by two-thirds.

CONFUSION — The need for administration concern and leadership has become even more essential because of our latest Pacific experiments with these weapons. As Atomic Chairman Gordon Dean admits, a proved setup that would have prevented useful against the Hiroshima - Nagasaki type of bomb would CUT — Congress has finally attacked the problem of excess and unnecessary personnel in both civilian and military agencies, as forecast here weeks ago. It can mean a saving of many hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

The Ferguson amendment, a substitute for the Jensen restriction on federal employment, seems sure of final enactment. It requires a 10 percent, overall cut in non - military agencies. The Johnson committee has disclosed, as foretold here, that there are too many able bodied, arm - chair soldiers. It estimates that at least five divisions of fighting men can be obtained through proper use of military personnel.

Their transfer from the luxury to the fighting line will permit the kids in Korea to enjoy a rotation furlough at home.

"You ought to see the wonderful new car parked in front of the old Jones house," Mrs. Brown told Brown. "Are we going to go on driving our old wreck until the wheels fall off?"

Johnson's young son was late to dinner.

"Why can't I have a new chromium-plated bike, dad?" he griped. "The new kid that moved into where the Joneses lived has got one, but he won't let me ride it."

Bid For A Smile

HE STARED dumbly at the fine skin spread out before the fireplace. "Hee-Yes, it was either me or the tiger!"

Wife—Oh, I'm so glad it was the tiger.

He—You are darling?

Wife—Yes, if it had been you, I wouldn't have this lovely rug.

Private—That's great. I've never heard a man talk so fast in my life.

Corporal—Why shouldn't he? His father was a jobless auto worker and his mother was a woman.

We have committed the Golden Rule to memory; let us now commit it to life.

Casey Convinced White Sox Are Team Yanks Must Beat

(By The Associated Press)

Those battling Chicago White Sox are making believers of their opponents — team by team, manager by manager.

New York Yankees manager Casey Stengel singing the praises of the spectacular Sox.

"Maybe we've been worrying about the wrong fellows," muttered Stengel after Chicago had clawed its way back to a 5-4 victory in the second game of a vital doubleheader yesterday with the Yankees. The Bombers won the opener, 11-9, and appeared on the way to a sweep of the twin bill. They led, 3-1, after seven innings of the night-cap.

So instead of slicing two games off the White Sox' first place lead, the Yankees wound up just where they started — trailing by three and a half games. No matter what the result of single games today and tomorrow, the hot Sox will leave New York still pacing the American League.

"It looks like we're going to have to beat Chicago, rather than Boston and Cleveland, for the pennant," declared Casey. The jam-packed throng of 60,441, eager for a good look at pilot Paul Richards' rockets, agreed with Stengel. The fans went away convinced that the Sox were no accidents.

Indeed, not many of the vast crowd gave Chicago much of a chance as the Sox came to bat against ace Vic Raschi in the eighth, trailing 3-1. But those never-see-die visitors had other ideas.

Pinch hitter Floyd Baker slapped a single to center. Nelson Fox lined one to right and Eddie Stewart hammered a home run into the rightfield stands. With an out being made, the Sox had forged in front, 4-3.

But the Yankees hadn't given up either. Singles by Phil Rizzuto, Gene Woodling and pinch hitter Johnny Mize in their half of the eighth tied the count against Randy Gumpert, who had replaced starter Joe Dobson.

Again the Sox went to work. Jim Busby singled in the ninth, and raced to third on a one-bagger by Phil Masi. Alie Reynolds replaced Raschi and yielded a two-bagger to pinch hitter Bob Dillinger. That scored Busby with the winning run. Howie Judson set the Yankees down in order in the ninth but the victory went to Gumpert, who now has won seven without a defeat.

In the first game, seven pitchers took part, four for the winning Yankees. They surrendered a total of 27 hits, 15 by the Yankees including three — runners by Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle.

Boston's third place Red Sox advanced to within five games of the top as Chuck Stobbs limited the Cleveland Indians to four hits and beat them, 9-2. Ted Williams paced a 14-hit attack against loser Bob Lemon and two successors with his 14th homer and two singles. Luke Easter accounted for both Cleveland runs with a homer in the ninth.

Homers by Eddie Joost and Dick Gernert helped the Philadelphia Athletics trip the Detroit Tigers, 9-5.

The St. Louis Browns combined seven safeties and five Washington errors for enough runs to ship the Senators 4-1. The Cincinnati Reds rallied for runs in the ninth but fell one short as the Brooklyn Dodgers walked off with a 5-4 triumph under the lights.

New York's Giants remained five and a half games behind, eking out a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a game limited to eight innings by rain. Hank Thompson drove in both New York runs in both halves.

Willie Jones hit his 12th and 13th homers, one with the bases loaded* to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-2 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Bob Rush hurled a 3-0 victory for Chicago over Boston as the Braves' manager, Billy Southworth, bowed out in favor of Tommy Holmes.

Southworth Quits; Holmes Named New Pilot Of Braves

CHICAGO — (AP) — Tommy Holmes, lacking even a half a season of minor league managerial seasoning, today took the helm of the Boston Braves abandoned by a four-time National League pennant winner nearly twice his age.

The 33-year-old Holmes, former Braves' batting hero, was due to arrive in Chicago today. He was to direct Boston against the Chicago Cubs in the third game of a four game series, only a few hours after Billy Southworth left for home after resigning his reported $80,000 a year job yesterday. Southworth, 58, had a five-year contract which extended through 1952.

"Don't worry about experience," commented general manager John Quinn of the Braves. "Remember Bucky Harris, Lou Boudreau and Mel Ott all stepped into major league managerial spots without experience."

"Tommy has had a fine background in baseball (nine major league playing seasons all with the Braves) and he did a remarkable job the short while he was at Hartford," Holmes left Hartford first in the Eastern loop race.

Quinn said the Braves reluctantly accepted the resignation of Southworth, who last Sunday told owner Lou Perini and Quinn he felt "some one else could do a better job."

Southworth broke down when Boston sports writers said goodbye to him at a press conference yesterday.

Lamesa Falls Down On Third

(By The Associated Press)

Lamesa pulled a neat double take with a doubleheader in the West Texas-New Mexico League last night, taking a half-game edge over Lubbock in their tight race for third.

Sweeping both ends of a twin bill from Clovis' Pioneers, the Lobos won 8-0 and 8-3. Amarillo closed 5-2 win over Pampa combined with the two-way loss of Lamesa to move the Pioneers just 11-2 games ahead of the Gold Sox out of the cellar.

The race for first place just isn't much to watch any more. The Albuquerque Dukes, starting out ahead, last night moved 7 1-2 games out in second place, losing to Lubbock while Abilene won over Berger.

Those scores: Lubbock 10, Albuquerque 3; Abilene 8, Berger 4.

Jim Reynolds, who only two nights ago gave up 11 hits to his former mates from Amarillo, last night hurled a four-hitter for Lamesa in racking up his fifth victory in the nightcap with Clovis. Even so, Ed Arthur did him one better in the tussle with a three-hitter and his fifth win.

The cellar-dwelling Amarillo hurlers got themselves out of trouble three times last night in taking the victory from Pampa's Oilers. Doc Fletcher was winner.

You can't say Steve Lagomas didn't do his part for the Dukes but he didn't get him very far. He gave up nine hits, one less than Ray Machado contributed on the Lubbock mound. But walks, errors by his mates, and a pair of homers by Earl Hochstatter — plus assorted doubles and triples by the Hubbers — discounted the margin.

Five Abilene runs in the eighth pulled the leaders from the doldrums for an 8-4 victory over the Gasers. The game was played under protest.

Carnett Protests On "Strange" Ball

ABILENE — (AP) — Assaulting pitcher-manager Eddie Carnett for five runs in the eighth, the Blue Sox broke up a tight ball game and defeated the Berger Gasers 8-4 in the series opener here last night.

The game was played under protest.

Abilene had driven starting pitcher Rene Vega from the box in the sixth inning with consecutive singles by Charley Schmidt and Art Bowland. Royce Mills got the side out without damage, but wild-pitched in the winning run in the seventh.

Mills recently acquired from the Lubbock Hubbers, retired for a pinch batter in the eighth, and Carnett took over. While Ed Fenelon, Blue Sox first baseman and lead-off batter, was at the plate in the ninth, Carnett called a conference of the umpires, displayed the ball in his hand, and announced the game was being played under protest. Inscribed on the ball were the words "Berger Gasers."

All other markings had been obliterated. The officials said that the "odd" ball came from a new carton which they personally had opened and whose contents they had "rubbed down" before the game started.

Carnett's protest was based on the submission by the home team of an "unofficial" ball. Umpires Steve Sadowski and Len Roberts said the matter was out of their hands.

Only other untoward incident in an otherwise peaceful and mostly tight ball game was an ankle injury suffered by Berger's third baseman, Earl Perry, as he slid into third base after hitting a triple in the fourth inning. It was his second consecutive triple, and he was safe on the bag until he suddenly did a partial somersault and fell motionless three feet on the foul side where Babe Tuckey tagged him out.

Preliminary examination, after Perry had been carried to the Blue Sox dressing room, thence to his hotel room, failed to reveal a fracture, but X-rays were to be made Wednesday morning. Castillo moved to third, Chuck Clime went into shortstop.

Oilers Close Home Stand Tonight Against Gold Sox; Lose Opener, 3-2

Hyde Expected To Start Series Final

For a while last night it looked like the Oilers were going to get some runs behind righthander George Payte, but instead Doc Fletcher and Joe Pate held them in check and the Gold Sox went on to win the first game of a two-game set, 3-2.

It was a well-played and hard fought game with both pitchers turning in fine jobs. And but for a sensational diving stab by second baseman Paul Halter of Nelson Davis' liner to right in the sixth with runners on second and third, the final outcome could have been reversed.

Tonight the two clubs conclude the series the lengthy home stand of the Oilers with a single game starting at 8:15. Mack Hyde is the probable starter for Pampa against righthander Monk Webb, a newcomer to the Sox.

George Payte suffered a pulled muscle in his back sometime during the latter stages of the game, and while a brief thunderstorm passed overhead in the ninth inning, he retired from the contest in favor of Red Dial.

Doc Fletcher was the winning pitcher, although he needed help from righthander Joe Pate in the seventh inning, during which the Oilers scored both their runs. Pate went on to hold the Oilers hitless after he arrived on the scene.

The Gold Sox broke a scoreless pitcher's duel in the fourth with Crawford Howard leading off with a single to shortstop and Johnny Bruga walking. Merv Connors beat out a perfect bunt to lead the bases. Les Mulcahy bounced to Woldt, who forced Connors at second, Howard scoring on the play. Morrie Shipman doubled to reload the bases.

Doc Fletcher was a strikeout victim for the second out. Jimmie Dean then hit to Davis at short who fumbled the ball long enough to miss the play at second on Shipman coming in, Bruga scoring. Halter forced Dean to end the inning.

The home added another in the fifth when, with one out Howard singled through the infield. Bruga singled him to second and a blooper into rightfield by Mulcahy drove Howard home.

The Oilers threatened in the sixth when the first two men up got as far as second and third. But Fletcher settled down to get Richardson, Whitehorn and the beautiful diving stab of a line drive by Halter saved any runs.

In the seventh, Suarez led off with a single to right. Payte bounced to Bruga to force Suarez at second. Rice lined a single to leftfield and Payte was thrown out trying to go to third, Alkins to Bruga, Rice winding up on second.

Woldt lined a hit to rightfield to score Rice, and when Shipman fumbled the ball, Woldt slid into second safely. Phillips lined a hit into left to plate Woldt with the second run. Pate replaced Fletcher and Fortin lofted to deep left to retire the side.

The game was the first for the new Gold Sox manager, Pat McLaughlin, who took over the reins last night just before the club left for Pampa. McLaughlin replaced Les Mulcahy, who earlier replaced Buck Fausett.

All-Star Grid Squads Loaded With Oddities

BEAUMONT — (AP) — The personnel of the 1951 North-South all-star football squads, which will meet at San Antonio Aug. 3 as a feature of the Texas Coaching School, can boast of both stars and oddities.

The North has Ed Berner, Highland Park (Dallas) and who was voted outstanding schoolboy football player in the state by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Rick Spinks, the Kermit star back, was the only Class A player in the state to receive unanimous all-state nomination. His teammate, Don Kay Brown, also was an all-stater and will be snapping the ball to Spinks in the all-star contest.

The unique in the North's squad is Tommy Fields, fullback of state Class AA champion Wichita Falls. During the regular season last fall, Fields played a definite second fiddle to the great Ed Beach, at tailback. But the all-star committee felt that it needed Fields' ability to handle the ball and spin in the single wing offense more than it needed Beach's other abilities. Although Fields made neither first nor second all-state and Beach was on the first team, Fields received the invitation.

The South is proud of its all-America back Frank Eidom of Port Arthur. Its roster also lists Ed Hennig, Jr., son of the high school coach at Tyler, and Bobby Page of Leverett's Chapel. Since Page was on a Class B team and no all-state is named in that classification, he comes to the game without portfolio. That he is the quarterback, punter and passer is not too unusual, but that he plays tackle defensively in addition to his offensive chores puts him in a class by himself.

The individual barber shop shaving mug began to disappear during World War I when many soldiers learned to shave themselves.

Seeking Opinion Of Duck Hunters

AUSTIN — (AP) — Dove hunters were asked today to tell what they think about the dates for open season.

Howard Dodgen, executive secretary, invited sportsmen to tell him when they think the season on mourning doves should open and close.

He asked that these communications be sent to him at the Game Department, Walton Building, Austin. The commission will consider them at its July 6 meeting here, when it will forward its recommendations to the federal Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington.

In the final analysis, the seasons are set by the federal government because the mourning dove is a migratory bird. Recommendations from the affected states are weighed in setting the seasons.

Carter Scores KO

FALL RIVER, Mass. — (AP) — Jimmy Carter of New York, the new heavyweight boxing champion, registered a four-round knockout over Chuck Boucher of Newark, N.J., in his first heavyweight engagement.

Carter gave a convincing punching demonstration to a small 700 outdoor crowd here last night.

Sooners Trail In OC Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — The Oklahoma City Sooners were one match behind Texas in the Oklahoma City Invitational Golf Tournament at Win Hills Golf and Country Club yesterday after the first round.

The scoreboard showed three Oklahoma victories — including one upset — out of seven matches featuring links rivals from opposite sides of the Red River.

Ed Hamilton of the host club upset medalist Dick Martin of Dallas, 3 and 2. Tomorrow he meets Southern Intercollegiate champion Billy Maxwell from North Texas State College and Odessa, the favorite to annex the 1951 invitation title.

Babe And Patty S... All Over

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Long-hitting Babe Didrikson Zaharias and poker faced Patty Berg resume the fair sex's hottest golf rivalry today as a star studded field of 16 vie in the second round of the 22nd annual Women's Western Open golf championship.

While the main gallery will undoubtedly follow the Berg-Zaharias twosome, it won't be the only great golf match rolling over the 6,670 yard WhiteMarsh fairways.

Medalist Louise Suggs, whose 68 seven under par qualifying round still is the best score posted, pushes her bid for a fourth western championship against Carol Diringer of Tulsa, O.

Miss Suggs whipped into the second round by defeating Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., 4 and 3. Miss Diringer had a tough time edging Catherine McKinnon of Lake Worth, Fla., 2 and 1. In another interesting test, Mrs. Mark Forter, Philadelphia's former U.S. Amateur queen, matches strokes with pretty Mariens Bauer.

Mrs. Zaharias was feeling very well.

He and Boucher each weighed 140.

Williams Gets First Invitation

CHICAGO — (AP) — Notre Dame's Bob Williams today was the first collegian to accept a bid to play in the All-Star football game against the champion Cleveland Browns of the National Football League at Soldier Field Aug. 17.

From now until July 28 when all-star coach Herman Hickman of Yale starts practice at Delafield, Wis., a squad of some 30 top 1950 college players will be summoned for the fray.

Quarterback Williams, signed to play with the Chicago Bears next fall, owns six Notre Dame passing records.

high after her smashing 7 and 5 victory yesterday over pretty Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O. The woman athlete of the century had her high powered game firmly in hand. She outdrove Miss Kirk from 10 to 20 yards and then broke the Ohio lass' heart with hole high approaches setting up short punts. It was the babe at her peak.

Miss Berg was almost as hard on former National Amateur champion Grace Lancysk of Newington, Conn., seeking her fourth Western title. Miss Berg went one under par for 13 holes to win 4 and 5.

Smooch Scene Slump Or Rise Question Director Tells Confuses Businessmen Trade Tricks

HOLLYWOOD — (P) — Curtis Bernhardt, a top "woman's director," today divulged some tricks of the trade, including how to get the most out of a love scene.

What's a woman's director? Well, he's a guy who can evoke fine performances from the heavy emoters on the distaff side. Bernhardt doesn't care much for the title. He argues that he had directed many masculine films in Hollywood and was imported because of some tough, manly pictures he made in France.

But in 11 years here, he has made noteworthy films with Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Ida Lupino, Olivia DeHavilland, Barbara Stanwyck, Jane Wyman and Ann Sheridan. So he's stuck with being a woman's director.

He offered a hint as to his success with directing these gals: "It's exactly like being married to them; it is a wedding of talents. When I started to direct Jane Wyman in 'The Blue Veil,' I sent her a note saying: 'For the next few weeks, you are going to be married to me; your evenings will be free, but you belong to me in the daytime.'" "Everybody wants to know how directors produce love scenes, so I explored the topic with Bernhardt.

"Of course, it would be easy to direct the kind of love scene that everybody expects," he observed. "I mean the breathy, half-closed eyes sort of thing that has been imitated ever since the days of Garbo and John Gilbert. With them it was real; but with most other actors, it looks phony.

"The authentic love scene requires something different. I try to plan it out so it will seem like a spontaneous reaction between a man and a woman.

"When I have a love scene to do, I always rehearse it first in a dressing room or somewhere alone. In that way, the actor and actress can feel as though it is the real thing; they can rehearse it without 50 people watching them. When we have to shoot the scene, I try to have as few people around as possible, and no one within the eye range of the stars. The crew always has an amazing sense for difficult scenes; they invariably are quiet and helpful."

Bernhardt says it is easier to direct women than men. "I don't know what it is about men," he said. "Perhaps they think that acting is not a manly profession. They may dislike displaying their emotions. But it is a fact that you can get just so much from an actor and no more. When I direct Humphrey Bogart, I know exactly what he is going to do. Mind you, it is good. But it's still Bogart.

"It is different with actresses. The best of them will follow a director completely and get lost in their roles. You can tell them exactly what you want them to do, and they will do just that. That's why it is a wedding of talents."

I asked what all the name actresses have in common—what quality makes them successful? "They all take their work very seriously," he replied. "They may hide it behind casual air, but that's just a pose. When they work, they work like demons."

While other presidents have died in office, William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor are the only ones whose deaths occurred in the White House.

Great Debate In Business On Inflation

NEW YORK — (P) — There's a great debate in the business world today. Will inflation or recession win out this summer?

It's tied closely to that original great debate: should we be bold or cautious in the battle of capitalism and communism? "War, preparation for war, or 'peace' with a slowdown in rearmament—these possibilities, differing widely in their impact, will rule the business world as they will the political one, most business leaders agree.

But from there on there's little agreement. Those who think a recession more likely are those who think Russia will cool down the war, that our rearmament zeal will lose its edge and that our economy will find itself with more of an expensively expanded industrial plant than it has use for.

They also think that this plant expansion is giving us production capacity enough to take care of rearmament and still fulfill civilian needs. This would take even more steam out of the fear of shortages which sparked most of the inflation since the Korean outbreak.

Those who feel that the inventory slump is an interlude to be followed by another spurt of inflation argue that rearmament is going ahead even if peace comes to Korea. They say that Russia is feigning by businessmen that caused high inventories. As a result, and of government curbs on metal use, production is being cut back in auto and appliance plants, and workmen are being laid off.

War-scare buying is a thing of the past, this feigning by businessmen that caused high inventories. As a result, and of government curbs on metal use, production is being cut back in auto and appliance plants, and workmen are being laid off.

Both sides agree that the rearmament program is what's holding industrial production and business in general at its present high level. The government is pouring billions into production. Much of this money in turn will be passed on to the producer of raw materials and to workmen who make the defense foods.

There are other factors to keep business on the upgrade: the growing population, the great American urge always to improve one's own standard of living, the increased purchasing power spreading through the lower income brackets. All these mean more markets for more goods. But most people agree that these factors alone couldn't sustain the present industrial pace without the defense program.

So the business world watches the great debate over our foreign policy: whether the war in Korea is worthwhile pursuing; whether it should be pushed harder, no matter if that brought Russia in; whether we should build up our military might faster; or whether the whole thing might not be just self-induced hysteria and should be cut down to half its size.

That political debate's outcome will have an immense effect on business. It will decide the economic debate over whether the economy is over-expanded, whether the heights to which prices and wages have climbed are about to be undermined, or whether inflation will really catch its second breath this fall.

that they can't find customers to buy the goods already produced. The nation's warehouses are reported bulging with inventories. Some stores resort to "price wars" to move stagnant merchandise.

Usually industries crying about shortages of materials aren't the same as those cluttered with unsold products. But in some cases, this isn't too clear cut a division.

Take the auto industry. Layoffs have been blamed on scarcity of steel. But it's no secret that auto sales this spring fell below expectations. Dealers have plenty of new and used cars.

Rationing of raw materials in short supply comes nearer all the time. July 1 the government will start parcelling out steel, copper and aluminum among competing industries. August to defense-supporting industries.

But the government indicates that before the end of the year "the free market" in these metals will disappear—that every kind of hairpins may be allocated not only to the defense industries and the defense-supporting industries, but also to every maker of consumer goods using metals.

By that time the glut of inventories of consumer goods may have been worked off, and the makers of household gadgets, of autos, and of hairpins may be seriously seeking metals to fill a rush of new orders.

The scramble for raw materials—particularly for the steel, copper and aluminum about to be allocated—is already tough in some competing industries. The American Railway Car Institute says today that unless the steel allocation system is untangled freight car builders may have to close down by fall.

The Pennsylvania oil fields also worry about steel shortages. George J. Hanks, president of the South Penn Oil Co., says that drilling and development in that state may be cut back by fall due to "the inadequate level" of allocations of steel and pipes to the industry.

Band Is Signed For Topo' Texas Rodeo

Reds Admit Underground Is Active

HONG KONG — (P) — The Chinese Reds, in an amazing published report, concede that underground armed forces have created a critical situation in the vast and vital East China area.

The admission was in the form of a warning to the East China military and administrative commission by its public security chief, Li Shih-ying, at a meeting in Shanghai March 10.

Li said political assassinations were increasing, the situation was "critical and widespread" and "the losses incurred by the people can hardly be estimated."

As a startling admission, Li's statement rivaled the February report of Peng Chen, mayor of Peiping and member of the Central People's Government Council. Peng said South China bandits had killed thousands of Communist workers that report spurred the Reds' purge to even greater intensity.

Li's warning listed trouble in Fukien, Chekiang and Anhwei provinces. Highlights included: 1. "Several thousands of bandits have infiltrated into our interior."

2. They are "organizing so-called 'underground armed forces' and attempting to develop and formulate at opportune moments 'underground gangs' and 'underground administrative power.'"

3. Assisted by such "American imperialist" agencies as the "Far East Joint Intelligence Services," these forces have trained agents in "sabotage, assassination, espionage and intelligence."

Li said "approximately 80,000 bandits" were eliminated in the year ending last February. Nevertheless, he said, there still are "critical" districts and some areas where the number of "bandits" had increased.

In Fukien province alone, in 1950, he said, 1,084 Communist workers and "progressive elements were ambushed and assassinated by special service bandits."

His report cited hundreds of cases of grain pilferage, disturbances and mob uprisings, 206

The Texo Hired Hands signed contracts to appear in the Topo' Texas Rodeo and Horse Show set for August 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, it was announced today by Paul Crouch, president of the rodeo association.

The five-man band and their popular master of ceremonies, "Texo" Ted Gouley, are well-known in Texas and Louisiana for their folk music radio programs heard over stations in San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, and Shreveport.

Paul Parker, ballad singer, is an outstanding member of the band, and Marvin Montgomery, leader and manager of the band, is considered one of the best banjo players in the Southwest.

Carroll Hubbard is a champion fiddler. Judge Kiewit makes the bass fiddle walk and talk, and Lefty Perkins is a master of the electric guitar.

Gouley has been associated in radio work for a number of years. He is a livestock and market reporter for the Fort Worth Star Telegram and WEAR, and lives near Fort Worth.

The Hired Hands radio program originates in the studios especially built for them in the Livestock Exchange building at the Fort Worth stock yards.

The band will also provide music for the Western dances that are to follow rodeo performances.

Wheeler Kiwanis Visitors In Borger

WHEELER — (Special) — A delegation from the Wheeler Kiwanis took the crippled children's fund piggy bank to Borger recently. The Kiwanis International is using these round-robin piggy banks to swell the funds to be used to help crippled children in the U. S.

The method of circulating the banks by having one club visit another in a neighboring town improved interclub relations. The visiting club also provides the program for the evening. Jim and Alvin Jolly and Jim Pond were entertainers.

The club that takes the largest delegation to visit will receive part of the funds for use at home. The distance travelled also will figure in the decision.

cases of poisoning in 1950, incessant sabotage of economic construction, 315 cases of "political sabotage" (assassination attempts). Incomplete reports listed 23 casualties.

He said highway robberies in Fukien province alone caused a loss of more than $225,000 (U. S.) "not including machinery and supplies destroyed." There were 32 casualties from Fukien train derailments.
