Two Schoolboy Football Champions to Be Crowned Next Weekend; Lubbock Favorite

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Two Texas schoolboy football champions will be crowned Saturday while two other divisions decide the teams that will combat for their titles.

Lubbock's undefeated, untied Westerners, back in the finals after 12 years, and Baytown's hammering Ganders, in the finals for the first time, battle at Dallas for the Class AAAA championship.

Temple's awesome Wildcats, pushing along at a 40-point-per-game clip, clash with Breckenridge's wild Buckaroos at Abilene in the pay-off game of Class AAA.

The lower divisions — Classes AA and A — will determine their finalists with this schedule:

Class AA — Anson vs Arlington at Fort Worth, LaVega vs Dorpan at San Antonio, both Saturday.

Class A — Newcastle at Wink Saturday, Giddings vs Industrial (Vanderbilt) at Gonzales Friday night.

WESTERNERS FAVORED

Lubbock will be the favorite in the game with the embattled

Ganders, who lost only once in the sweep to the finals. That was to Lamar of Houston, a team they beat later on penetrations in a 7-7 tie.

Lubbock, which was in the finals in 1938 and won the championship in 1939 — both games in Dallas, incidentally — will bring a gaudy record to its engagement with Baytown at Dal-HI stadium at 2 p. m. Saturday.

In rolling through 12 games, the Westerners whipped out 432 points for 114 for the opposition and they never were seriously threatened. The Westerners last week slashed Arlington Heights of Fort Worth 42-0.

Baytown, a pounding ground team with an ironclad defense — the Ganders have given up only 44 points in 12 games — has been in the state semifinals but never in the finals before. Baytown whipped Ray of Corpus Christi 34-0 last week in driving into the big game with Lubbock.

There is no direct comparison between Lubbock and Baytown but Temple beat Arlington Heights 64-0, lost to Baytown 6-0 and Lubbock slammed Arlington Heights 42-0.

Class AA has two undefeated, untied teams — Anson and LaVega, each with 12 victories. Anson's foe, Arlington, has a 11-1 record. Donna, the team that faces LaVega, has a 11-2 mark.

The Anson-Arlington game looks like a toss-up but LaVega will be a heavy favorite over Donna.

Class A has three unbeaten, untied teams, so there will be at least one eleven with a perfect record in the finals. Wink and Newcastle each has won 13 games and lost none. Giddings has a similar record. Industrial lost one — 19-18 to Cuero in the season opener. Giddings has scored 498 points while Wink is the state's leader with 527. Wink and Giddings will be favored to reach the finals.

There are four more teams left in the state with over 400 points each — Lubbock with 432, Temple with 476, LaVega with 421 and Donna with 424.

In advancing to the semifinals, Anson beat Childress 28-6, Arlington downed Pleasant Grove 32-12, LaVega skunked Huntsville 21-0, Donna beat Lamar of Rosenberg 21-15, Wink slaughtered Abernathy 70-20, Newcastle licked Hawkins 18-8, Giddings ran over Cedar Bayou 23-0 and Industrial whipped Pearsall 39-13.

WARREN'S ARM UP

By Warren Hesse—Texas Sports Editor

QUESTION: During the war year of 1944 all six games of the World Series were played in just one park. What one was it?

OUR HOPES for a peaceful Sunday yesterday were completely darkened by a telephone call from Deep Mills, present of the Oilers, informing us of the death of Bill Coffey. Bill was with the Oilers but a short while last summer, but he quickly built himself a spot in the hearts of the Pampa baseball fans through his overflowing personality.

Bill was, in our estimation, a righthanded Gooty Gomez. Oddly enough, it is the third straight year that a pitcher from the West Texas-New Mexico League has been killed in an off-season auto accident. In 1949 it was Frank Stone of the Albuquerque Dukes; in 1950 Jack Guiterrez of Lamesa was killed when his car hit a tree in Cuba; and now Bill.

Roy Parker, the versatile little lefthander with the Oilers in '48, '49 and '50, narrowly missed the same fate several weeks ago.

Also killed this winter were Bill Johnson, country catcher of the Dukes, who died from injuries suffered in a fall from a horse, and umpire Jim Welch, killed in a car wreck three weeks ago.

Coffey was with the Oilers two winters past summer. The first time he came on option from Monroe, farm club of the Shreveport Sports. Bill was the property of the Sports, and wasn't happy with their organization. After being returned by Pampa, he was sent to a service team, where he was a semipro of the Sooner State League.

There he was with another second division ball club that wasn't going anywhere. During his visit there he was out of action, with the flu much of the time, but still managed to hurl a one-hitter — and lose, 4-1.

He was finally turned loose by Shreveport and phoned the Oilers, where he was available, and wanted to pitch for Pampa. So back he came to finish out the season as the workhorse as the schedule closed out with numerous doubleheaders.

Bad Bill, as he liked to be called, said he never had suffered with a sore arm. His only weakness was an inability to find home plate when throwing hard. According to the umpires, who perhaps have the best chance to know, Bill was the fastest pitcher in the league. After watching him throw a game they only comment would be: "Whew! If he only had control."

The Brooklyn Dodgers were convinced enough that Bill could master his control as they were checking for his purchase at the time of his death. Scout Frank Bridges watched Bill work several games at the end of the season and stated that Bill's wildness stemmed from the way he came off the rubber, and that it could be remedied.

Bill's record wasn't impressive, one win against seven losses, but still the fans liked to see him hurl. Every time he toed the hill he gave it all he had, and while though he may have been, he finished with an average of 5.603, which oddly enough, was topped by only one Pampa hurler, Mack Hyde. And then by only .004 of a percentage point.

Bill was a good fielder, committing no errors while having eight assists and two putouts.

Bill was a colorful performer, on and off the field.

One day he wandered into the office and inquired how to spell the name of one of the officials of the Monroe club, which had assigned him to the Oilers. He was going to write him a letter and didn't know how to spell his name. After trying about five different ways and finding none that looked correct, said: "Aw nuts! What's the difference how I spell his name. I don't like him anyway."

One night Bill was sitting in the dugout when one of the fellows said: "I'll bet you a buck you're afraid to go over and scare that guy," pointing to a regular Oiler fan who always gets his money's worth by "riding" the umpires and players of both teams.

Bill took the bet and headed for his coaching stint at third base. At the end of the half inning, Bill walked just toward the first base dugout, walking close to the screen, joshing with the fans. He suddenly wheeled, threw both hands to his hips like a boy playing cowboy, and shouted "bang! bang!" To say the customer was startled is putting it mildly.

The death of "Bad Bill" robs baseball of a great and colorful future, and takes away from the Oilers a player with the brightest future since the days of Warren Hacker.

May we extend our deepest sympathies to his family, whom we had occasion to meet last fall.

Bill Coffey, Oiler Pitcher Killed In Auto Wreck

Harvester Cagers Hit Road For Game Tomorrow Night

The Pampa Harvesters stand a good chance of having their unbeaten 1951-52 basketball record shattered with defeat tomorrow night when they journey to Stratford for a return game against the sharpshooting Elks of District 1-B. In an earlier meeting at the junior high gym here a week ago, the Green and Gold fought from behind to capture a thrilling 69-67 victory. Tomorrow night's game will be broadcast by radio station KPON, starting at 8 o'clock.

The Elks this weekend were entered in the Sunray tournament, won by Texline.

SHARPshootERS

In all but one of the games they have played so far, the Elks have hit over fifty percent of their shots from the field, a remarkable record. The Green and Gold had to mesh a like percentage to escape with their opening victory. Last Friday night the Pampans gained Coach Cliff McNeely's 100th Harvesters victory in easy fashion against the Dumas Demons, 67-34.

Gold Sox Purchase Four New Players

AMARILLO — The Amarillo Gold Sox Sunday announced the purchase of two pitchers for the 1952 season. They are Jack Venable, who had a sensational rookie year with Borger in 1949, and Joe Valenzuela, who was with Dallas in 1950 for a brief period, before being sent to Gainesville, where he finished with a 14-14 mark. With Borger he won 11 and lost 9. Last year Venable laid out of baseball.

Valenzuela also failed to play pro ball last season, hurling for a semi-pro team last season. Friday the Hose purchased another righthanded hurler, Fred Smith, from Austin, where he had a 14-14 record in the 1952 season.

Also bought from Temple of the Big State league was a shortstop, Glen Schaeffer, who hit .275 last year.

The Failure Of American Education
An attorney who we employ to guide us in our labor matters sent me a copy of an article appearing in the "Freeman" magazine under the heading of "The Failure of American Education" by Mortimer Smith. This attorney is a trustee of one of the larger eastern colleges, and thus should be very much interested in education, which I believe I can truthfully say very few trustees are. In his letter to me he said: "It seems to me that the writer neglected to stress one fundamental fact which I know you wholeheartedly embrace; namely that education should not be a matter for government at all."

I am glad to know that this attorney realizes that the government is not qualified to educate. It can only train and propagandize for more and more government.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Socialism - Whole Hog Or None

The Brooklyn Eagle recently carried a long column by Ray Tucker dealing with the battle between the advocates of socialized electric power on the one hand and the advocates of private power development on the other. In the course of it, he wrote, "As several eminent jurists, Congressional committees and lawyers for the Federal Power Commission point out, if Uncle Sam can take over this vast industry . . . there is no reason why the invasion of other industries might not be accomplished under the general welfare or interstate clauses of the Constitution. He can make steel, shoes, shirts, automobiles, dig coal and oil, run the railroads or manufacture and sell any other durable or consumer commodity under the Truman - Chapman theory."

There, in words anyone can understand, is the real significance of the power controversy. It isn't a question of whether we like or don't like the utility companies. It isn't primarily a question of justice to the people who have put their savings into building up the industry, or to people who work for it. It is, above all, a question of a precedent which, once firmly established, could make total socialization of the nation possible.

If it is proper for government to produce and sell electricity, then it is proper for government to produce and sell food, manufacture goods, entertainment, newspapers and magazines, and everything else. We can't have socialism on, so to speak, a "part time" basis. It's a question of whole hog or none. And, as the tragic trend of world events has proved, socialism, despite all the fine theories, is blood brother to communism in actual practice.

When The People Know

Even the top political backers of the administration's compulsory health insurance bill admit that it has no chance of gaining congressional approval - or even serious consideration - in the near future. And the reason is that once the public was given the facts, sentiment among the rank-and-file of Americans solidified against government - controlled medicine, socialized medicine, or any variant scheme.

The medical fraternity naturally led in the campaign to sell the nation the "truth" about the needs of other groups voluntarily cooperated. The failure of socialized medicine plans in England and other countries was described by recognized authorities on the subject. The truth about standards of health care in this country was widely publicized. The tremendous achievements of free American medicine, existing and potential, were explained. All concerned frankly said that more progress is needed, and pointed out how free medicine is going about the job of achieving it.

Of necessity, work of this kind must continue - the proponents of compulsory health insurance and kindred ideas never give up. If and when it looks as if they might slip their schemes over on the country, they'll be right in there pitching. But the big point is that when the American people recognized the seeds of socialism, they turn thumbs down. They know that a country was built on freedom - for the individual, for the professions, for labor, and for enterprise.

SOMETHING BREWING
Gerald L. K. Smith is going to get into a lot of trouble if he doesn't stop hurling the accusation of "Jew" at people he disagrees with. Smith could have been a top statesman were it not for his everlasting Jew-baiting. For instance, in his magazine, "The Cross and the Flag," of October 1951, he said:

"Below we print an obvious concoction, a lie from the whole cloth, released by a Jew named Albert Levitt and appearing in the Los Angeles Mirror: "A prominent Republican today accused Sen. Joe McCarthy of belonging to organizations that want to overthrow the United States by force."

Well, there you are. That is Smith's statement. I asked Judge Levitt about Smith's statement and, while I can't tell you the nature of Levitt's charges against Joe McCarthy, I do have a signed statement from Levitt in which he says the news note in Smith's magazine is libelous and that he will in due time sue Smith for libel.

Judge Levitt tells me that he did request the Un-American Activities committee to permit him to testify that McCarthy belonged to organizations purporting to overthrow the government. He says that the chairman of the Committee refused to permit him to testify because the matter concerned a Senator and that he therefore made the same request of Senator McCarran but that McCarran refused to permit him to appear before the Internal Security sub-committee unless Levitt should first tell McCarran secretly what he knew about McCarthy. "I declined to testify," Levitt says, "unless it was in open hearing and under oath so that I could be punished for any of my statements were false."

When in Washington several weeks ago, Judge Levitt tells me, he informed Senator McCarran of Levitt's offer to testify and was ready to testify but that he both ignored his communications. "I declined to testify," Levitt says, "unless it was in open hearing and under oath so that I could be punished for any of my statements were false."

As for Gerald L. K. Smith, who called Judge Levitt a Jew, even though Levitt had never even as yet told what he claimed to have on McCarthy, the Judge says: "Some day Mr. Smith will realize that calling a man a Jew is giving him a high compliment. I was a Jew I should be most proud of that fact and I should not conceal it. I happen to be a Protestant, but I also remember that Jesus and His twelve Apostles; so were the twelve Apostles. If God was not ashamed to incarnate Himself in a Jew and become a Jew, why should anyone else be afraid of bearing that distinguished title?"

Apparently Mr. Smith has called another man a Jew who doesn't happen to be one, in which case I should think he would at least apologize. But as for calling Judge Levitt a Jew - before Levitt has even had a chance to say it, seems to me mean and inexcusable.

I think Levitt SHOULD be given a chance to say what's on his mind - under oath at a public hearing, as he requested. No one has been more vocal in this country. They have some amazing things to say in their "Twenty-Fifty Yearbook" (1947). The unavoidable choice is between the primacy of the individual and the society of which he is a part. The primacy of the individual is not something they find desirable; it seems that the community is a primary and an ultimate functional entity - an end in itself, therefore the education of the individual must be a preparation for the realization of his best self in the higher loyalty serving the basic ideals and aims of our society.

The schoolmen realize that such a conception of education calls for a vast stepping up of the functions of government on all levels. Do they also realize what a fine Hegelian definition of the State they are advocating? "On a less official level there has long been in this country an influential group of educators who advocate using the schools for indoctrination on behalf of the 'planned democratic society.' The leaders in this movement, men like George S. Counts, Harold Rugg and William H. Kilpatrick, may be a little vague in their prescription for the new Utopia but they all face up to the fact that it involves the coercive power of government. One would hesitate to quote the following statement of Kilpatrick, made as long ago as 1934, if there were any indication that his subsequent position had changed: 'A fundamental re-making of our economic system seems necessary so that men shall no longer be compelled to work against each other but rather be permitted and encouraged - and if a recalcitrant minority requires it, be compelled - to cooperate for the common good.'"

No wonder people are believing in more and more government when the youth of the land is taught in every school district that there are no principles that should be used to limit government and as a guide of what is morally right and what is immoral. I want to continue to quote from this article in the next issue.

Do you believe you have a better sense of general well-being in summer or winter?
THE ANSWERS:
W. L. Hill, White Deer: "I believe I like summer much better than winter. For one thing there aren't as many colds and diseases like influenza in summer. Another thing, you don't have to wear so much clothing, therefore you have more freedom for your body."
J. O. Palmer, Spanish - American War Veteran: "I like summers much better than the winters. I have arthritis and it bothers me so all winter. My right leg was injured during the war and it hurts when bad weather is coming or when a storm is on the way."
Juanita Heuston, Groer - Henry checker, Miami: "I feel much better in winter than in summer. I just can't stand the summer heat at all. I believe that in winter people are much easier to get along with. This is true in my case and I'm sure it is with most people."
Elza L. Hargus, barber, 918 W. 24th St., Fort Worth: "I believe I feel better in the winter than I do in the summer. I am more active in the winter. It's easier to stay warm than it is to get cool. I always have so much more pep in the winter. In the summer you are just sluggish and you want to lay around and take life easy. In the winter you're always up and going because you feel better."

Do you believe you have a better sense of general well-being in summer or winter?

THE QUESTION:

WASHINGTON - Although President Truman's inauguration of a mild sort of fair employment standards for minority groups of employees has produced a great deal of gratification among labor leaders, and also Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, He insists on strong - arm enforcement of equality - of - labor laws after their enactment by Congress.

But this dilution of the President's original Civil Rights charter is expected to be only the beginning. It is believed that he will now agree to waive his demands for anti-lynch and anti-lynch-for legislation, or else ask Congress to make only a pious and meaningless declaration on these problems. The same sort of watered-down plank in the Democratic 1952 platform might soften up the Byrd - Byrnes rebellion.

This more moderate approach to the South is attributed to the influence of the new Democratic national chairman, Frank E. Mc Kinney of Indianapolis. He does not share the brusque and belittling philosophy of his predecessor, William M. Boyle Jr., that "We can win in 1952 without the electoral vote of a single southern state."

McKinney has had time and opportunity to take a few person sleeps with a draft blowing on the neck or small of the back. Truman Strategy May Appease The Rank-And-File Of Voters

WASHINGTON - Although President Truman's inauguration of a mild sort of fair employment standards for minority groups of employees has produced a great deal of gratification among labor leaders, and also Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, He insists on strong - arm enforcement of equality - of - labor laws after their enactment by Congress.

But this dilution of the President's original Civil Rights charter is expected to be only the beginning. It is believed that he will now agree to waive his demands for anti-lynch and anti-lynch-for legislation, or else ask Congress to make only a pious and meaningless declaration on these problems. The same sort of watered-down plank in the Democratic 1952 platform might soften up the Byrd - Byrnes rebellion.

This more moderate approach to the South is attributed to the influence of the new Democratic national chairman, Frank E. Mc Kinney of Indianapolis. He does not share the brusque and belittling philosophy of his predecessor, William M. Boyle Jr., that "We can win in 1952 without the electoral vote of a single southern state."

Socialists Made Dirty Fight In Recent British Election

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
LONDON - The recent British political campaign was a dirty fight. The Socialists, with the characteristic abandon of those who make no pretense of decency, to say nothing of dignity, accused the Conservatives of planning to throw Great Britain across institutions and the pensions of old persons and disabled veterans of the wars would be reduced.

The British have some laws against the sort of lies that Mr. Truman has been resorting to in his preliminary campaign against Senator Taft. These laws cannot be completely effective, but they would put at a disadvantage any British candidate who uttered similar lies. The British election law holds that the candidate or anyone who seeks to aid him must not write or report in writing any libelous matter," according to the text of an official document published under government auspices. Big game and libel are already forbidden and are punished a little more promptly and severely than similar abuses in the United States. So this special forbiddance in connection with political contests seems to have little meaning.

But the British public has a more alert contempt for the sort of lie that Truman utters when he predicts that "special interests" will pour money into the next presidential fight and says, in effect, that they did so in Taft's 1950 campaign for re-election to the Senate. Now, it is not a lie to say that money was spent to elect Taft, but it is an intentional lie even to suggest, as Truman plainly did, that some evil forces nullified the true will of the people by swamping Ohio with the "slush fund." In such a case it is a lie not to discuss the fact that the CIO and the AF of L and many subordinate union organizations, all belonging to Truman's own political machine, spent money without limit to beat Taft in violation of the Democratic party's own rules. It is not so much the waste, indefinite and hardly enforceable provisions of the existing law, a law which earnestly tries to muzzle the instincts of the gutter-snipe, that keeps British campaigns considerably cleaner than ours. It is the temperance of the British voters. They have fallen for many mountebanks as we have seen in the success of Lloyd George, Ramsay MacDonald and a number of minor riff-raff in the last 10 years. But they would offend their intelligence and anger them to be asked to believe that any force so vague as "special interests" could produce enough money to swing a national election. They have a reliable way of asking in such cases "what interests?" and demanding proof.

When Woodrow Wilson was president of Princeton University he developed the promising giving of honor degrees.

"Our universities have learned late," he said, "to distribute honorary degrees liberally. But in the past, in the past I had an acquaintance that he had three degrees. I asked why it was." "Well, said my friend, 'the third was given because he had two, the second because he had one, and the first because he had none.'"

John L. Lewis boasts that he made $600,000 available to F. D. Roosevelt for his 1936 campaign. And he adds, with a malicious glint, (for he hated the flouncing Fauntleroy from Hyde Park, with a rumbering mace and a loathing), that he made Roosevelt send a signed personal request for each draft on this fund. The money did not belong to Lewis. It belonged to his subscribers.

Pampa Ice Company Has Cake, Crushed Ice To Make Your Entertaining More Festive

Christmas really begins in the kitchen as every woman surely knows. This is the season when heavenly fragrances of Christmas cooking float through the air. Most women enjoy baking and fixing special holiday foods for the family and to have for friends who drop in to offer season's greetings.

Of course you want to offer Christmas callers hospitality but you should keep refreshments light because your guests probably have other house calls behind or before them. This doesn't mean it shouldn't be festive though. And remember, that there is nothing more festive than ice. Does that sound foolish to you? Well it isn't; just stop and visualize ice shimmering in your punch bowl or crushed ice tinkling in your loveliest glasses. Ice is so inexpensive that you can use it lavishly to add sparkle and charm to your entertaining.

The gracious hostess is one who is relaxed and at ease, thereby placing her guests at ease also. In order for the hostess to be relaxed she must make careful preparations ahead of time. She will make lots of cookies, cakes and candies at her leisure and she can even make the base for a special holiday punch ahead of time and place it in her refrigerator. When shopping she will get a good supply of assorted nuts to offer her guests to nibble on and she won't forget plenty of beverages. Then if she is as smart as we think she is, our hostess will keep the Pampa Ice Company's telephone number (which is 184) handy. For she can get all the ice she needs from them. Chances are that she will be especially pleased with the crystal clear Reddy-Kracked Ice that comes in waterproof paper bags.

When it is time to shop for the food for the big Christmas dinner we hope our homemaker will be wise enough to select fruits and vegetables which have been properly iced. Celery, carrots, leafy vegetables and many other perishable items will not only look and taste better, but by actual test will be better for you if they have been properly iced. The use of ice in protecting these foods prevents the loss of valuable vitamins.

Bread Highly Important To Our Daily Lives, Health

Like so many other things that have a profound effect on our daily lives, we are inclined to lose sight of the importance of the all-important loaf of bread. Even though it is to be seen daily in many forms on our festive tables, we are inclined to think of it as just another item for the grocery list, or 'cous' the grocery if he happens to be out of our favorite brand.

Allotted space is too meager to recount the complete story of bread from early times to our present day modern bakery of assembly-line proportions. It's a far cry from the day when mother spent a full day at baking a full week's supply of the staff of life to our modern-day, streamlined bakery turning out thousands of loaves of bread, rolls, sweet-pastries and pies in a matter of hours. Where the bakery of the eighties fed a family, today's magnificent establishments feed entire cities and counties.

Sometimes, when you have the time, give a little thought to the tremendous impact on our economy of a loaf of bread. It would be presumptuous for us to attempt to tell you of the number of jobs one loaf of bread provides from the time a grain of wheat goes into the drilling machine until its arrival on your table as a refined loaf of light-bread.

Next time you go for the family grocery supply, spend a moment pondering the total value of a loaf of bread, resolve to eat an extra slice at each meal. Each loaf you buy is another large contribution to Pampa's prosperity. But, don't forget, get the loaf with the heart's on the wrapper. It's Mead's "Fresher."

Most people who marry for money find out they could have borrowed it cheaper.

ICE PROTECTS VITAMINS

Nutrition authorities agree that fresh fruits and vegetables are better sources of vitamins and minerals than any compound of vitamin pills yet devised, and that they must be protected. Experiments proved that crushed ice protects most of the Vitamin C present in fruits and vegetables, and guards against weight shrinkage losses.

McGrath Confident In Legal Talent

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Attorney General McGrath has expressed complete confidence in the integrity of the government's legal talent. He defied those interested in special influence to try to tempt them from their duty.

McGrath made it clear that he has no intentions of resigning his post, as has been reported in some quarters.

He referred cuttingly to persons or groups who attempt to forego the future plans of government officials, expressed his love for his job as attorney general, and said:

"I want to stay at the department of justice as long as it is feasible and practical for me to stay there."

"Do not let anyone deceive you on that point."

Corner Drug Offers Curb Service, Drugs, Sundries; Gives K-K Stamps

Who was it that first thought of curb service? We don't know the answer but we think it was a fine idea. It certainly has come a long way, too, because some localities even have facilities which make it possible to do your banking by the curb service method. That phase of it doesn't especially interest us, however, because after taxes there is very little money left to cause banking worries.

But for having refreshments, the curb service way is very enjoyable — especially at the Corner Drug, located at 908 Alcock. You will like their fountain drinks. Try one of those thick malts or a cup of hot chocolate might suit you better this time of the year, and their hot chocolates really are getting better all the time. They are both delicious.

If you aren't a lazy bones you may prefer to go inside. You will find Mr. and Mrs. Close, the new owners, friendly folk who are anxious to serve their customers. While inside you may want to look through the group of records which they are closing out at twenty, twenty-five, thirty and thirty-five cents. Included are records by many different recording artists so you are almost certain to find several of your favorites. And at these prices you can afford them.

Look over the selection of magazines too, and pick out one for some entertaining reading. Corner Drug has drugs (of course), sundries, candy, and tobacco and, remember that they give K-K stamps. Drop in soon; you will like the friendly atmosphere.

The Song Of Christmas

Seizing a piece of music paper, Lewis Redner jotted down the treble notes of the melody that was ringing in his head and which had awakened him from sleep.

The next morning, Sunday, he filled in the harmony. The Sunday school children sang the carol that morning, but it was almost 20 years before "O Little Town of Bethlehem" found its way into a hymnal.

Phillips Brooks, who wrote the words, was an outstanding clergyman, famed as an orator and author, but none of his speeches, sermons or writings is as well remembered as his Christmas carol. "A song," wrote Henry Giles, "will outlive all sermons in the memory."

Jet Team To Celebrate Good Year

TOKYO — (AP) — America's high-flying, hard-shooting Sabre jet team celebrates a year of victories Dec. 17.

On that day, last year, the Fourth Fighter-Interceptor wing first mixed in combat with Russian-bull MIGs over North Korea.

That first meeting was an inconclusive sparring match, but five days later the Sabres shot down six MIGs, probably destroyed a seventh, and sent an eighth home crippled.

With that, the Sabres were off on their winning ways.

The score to date is 114 MIGs destroyed, 16 probably destroyed and 141 damaged.

Twelve F-86 Sabre jets have been lost to enemy action.

Pilots of the "Fighting Fourth" nearly always are heavily outnumbered and freely acknowledge that the MIG is the superior craft at high altitudes.

"But our boys have superior training and they react more intelligently in emergencies," explains Maj. George A. Davis, Jr., of Lubbock, who has downed more Red planes than any other pilot. He has destroyed five MIGs and three Communist TU-2 bombers.

"They call 'em jitterbugs, but they're not. They're just human beings acting like insects."

Blowing Dust A Forerunner Of What's Due This Winter

FORT WORTH — (AP) — The U. S. Soil Conservation service warns that blowing dust over parts of Texas and Oklahoma last week was only a forerunner of what may be expected in the coming winter months.

Almost four million acres in the West Texas and Oklahoma wind erosion areas, mostly Texas cotton lands, are without enough plant cover or residue to prevent wind erosion, the service said.

Regional Director Louis F. Merrill said the principal trouble area covers all or parts of 20 counties in the southern high plains around Lubbock, Big Spring and Pecos in West Texas.

Oklahoma areas in the wind erosion belt are in better condition, Merrill reported. Winter wheat in most Oklahoma areas is up to a good stand with sufficient moisture to assure growth for several weeks.

District Conservationist John P. Bailey at Guymon, Okla., however, said 600,000 acres in the Oklahoma Panhandle are without adequate soil protection and could blow if moisture conditions fall. Bailey added that other areas subject to wind damage have good sorghum stubble for protection.

Merrill gave this summary: Large acreages of cotton, a crop which affords little protection against wind damage, accounts in part for present hazardous conditions. The widespread practice of "stripping" or "stripping" cotton, which leaves no chaff on the stalks, adds to the hazard.

In the more critical West Texas wind erosion areas, from one to seven dust and sand storms already have occurred.

ICS District Conservationist W.S. Jodiet, Jr., at Big Spring reported seven sand storms since Nov. 1 with 7000 acres severely damaged (blown out from two inches to plow depth or with at least six inches of accumulations) and 90,000 acres of moderate damage. There is no soil moisture, and the small grain which came up is no longer growing.

District Conservationist Homer A. Taff at Lubbock reported 10,000 acres of moderate land damage with 700,000 acres to the west and south of Lubbock without soil protection. This acreage jumped from 90,000 acres two weeks ago. Taff blamed the slogging of cotton for the increase.

District Conservationist Jesse D. Jenkins at Lamesa reported small grains drying with the soil very dry. Cotton and peanut lands already have been blowing and 7500 acres have been moderately damaged. Four hundred thousand acres are without enough plant cover. About 175,000 acres of sorghum stubble in the Gaines and Dawson soil conservation districts are furnishing good protection.

At Amherst, in the Lamb county soil conservation district, John A. Ferrin, SCS district conservationist, reported 55,000 acres of wheat have been damaged in two dust storms already this season, but 800,000 acres to the west and south in this area are without protective cover. Most of the damaged land is unsited to wheat production, he said.

Wind erosion conditions in the northern part of the Texas Panhandle are generally better than in recent years although an irregular strip from the Wellington area southward to Paducah and Spur is drier than usual with some acreage without cover and in condition to blow. At Childress, District Conservationist George W. Taylor reported 200,000 acres in his six-county area without good plant cover or residue although more than two-thirds of the cotton land has good grass and weed cover. Leaving off final cultivation of cotton to permit grass and weed growth for protection is a practice strongly recommended by soil conservation district supervisors throughout the wind erosion area.

Judgment Awarded In Damage Suit

An agreed judgment awarding Frank and Vivian Reeves $7000 from Creney's Drug in Pampa, was approved Friday afternoon by Judge Lewis M. Goodrich in 51st District court.

The award was made for back injuries suffered by Mrs. Reeves on March 31, 1950, when she fell from a booth seat in the drug store.

According to the plaintiff's original petition she was sitting in the booth when the seat gave way, throwing her under the table and wrenching her back and causing other injuries.

The suit was originally filed in May, 1951, and asked for $27,500 from the drug company. However, attorneys for plaintiffs and defendants agreed to an out-of-court settlement and the award was approved by the court.

High Schools Show Great Increase In Marriages

(By the Associated Press) — An increasing number of high school students — particularly girls — apparently are getting married these days.

And they're keeping up their work, in many cases.

A survey made by the Corsicana Daily Sun of the larger Texas schools disclosed that policies of expelling married students no longer exist. This may be due to an attorney general's opinion which says such policies are "unreasonable" and invalid, the Sun said.

Some of the smaller schools, however, still have the "no-marriage" rule.

"Most of the districts in Texas evidently accept such students," says Associate Commissioner of Education L. P. Sturgeon.

Fort Worth's schools already have admitted 112 married youngsters this session, reports W. A. Meacham, assistant superintendent in charge of Fort Worth high schools. The rate exceeds that for last year.

Their policy, says Meacham, calls for "a delineation of the importance of matrimony" in a discussion with married pupils. But students, when they marry, are advised that marriage does not modify school duties and obligations.

Amarillo Supt. Chas. M. Rogers reports a much larger percentage of marriages this year. Fifty-three girls have married this session, and 38 are still in school, he said. The Amarillo board has no fixed policy affecting attendance of married students or divorcees, Rogers said.

Last year, only 17 married girls were in Amarillo schools at the end of the year.

Waco's schools reported an enrollment slightly under that of Amarillo, reported 52 marriages during the 15-month period ending Nov. 20.

"The Waco board of education has no policy which would prevent a married person from continuing his or her education," said Assistant Supt. A. R. Downing.

Dallas schools provide special classes in the evening and in summer for adults and evening students, Supt. W. White said. They are excluded from day school attendance, White said.

Superintendents at El Paso and San Antonio were unable to supply figures, but neither district expels such pupils.

"We do not feel that marriage warrants expulsion from school," said Supt. Thomas B. Portwood of San Antonio.

Most of the school administrators felt that pupils should graduate before getting married.

Some schools reported that they "discouraged" student marriages. The Corsicana Board of Education recently abolished its long-standing rule which prohibited enrollment of married students.

Like Dallas, schools in Houston have an adult and evening education program. Most of the students who are married register for these classes, reported Houston Supt. William E. Moreland. But the Houston board has no rule affecting married youngsters.

Among the smaller schools still denying educational facilities to married youths is Grand Prairie. The superintendent there, H. H. Chambers, said the board felt its policy was supported by "a vast majority" of the people.

An attorney general's opinion on the matter was given in 1942.

Pampans To Appear At CAB Hearing

A Pampa delegation will appear before the Civil Aeronautics board in Oklahoma City tomorrow to present a case in favor of retaining Central Airlines here.

E. O. Wedgworth, manager of the local chamber of commerce, announced this morning.

In a long distance telephone conversation with Keith Kahle, president of Central Airlines, Wedgworth was told the board will hear the local delegation's argument at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The group will leave Pampa tomorrow morning and return Wednesday, Wedgworth said.

WHITE HOUSE SILENT

The White House has maintained resolute silence on published reports Mr. Truman is considering some "dramatic move" instituting in the tax scandals.

These reports have speculated he might assign FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to a government-wide inquiry, that he might name Republican and Democratic lawyers to prosecute miscreants and that he might set up a bipartisan commission to make an inquiry independent of current hearings by a House ways and means subcommittee.

The sudden announcement from Key West late Saturday that Mr. Truman was flying back to Washington Sunday for his White House conference Monday sparked wide spread speculation as to the purpose of the meeting, especially since Irving Perimeter, assistant presidential press secretary, refused to answer questions concerning it.

However, Mr. Truman told reporters upon boarding the presidential plane, the "Independence," at Key West:

"This Communist blackmail, for policing the truce, which is a thousand times more repulsive than the ordinary act of kidnaping by the lowest form of gangster, should not come as a complete surprise to the free world," the broadcast continued.

Writer Finds A 'Heaven On Earth' Down In Old Mexico

HACIENDA VISTA HERMOSA, Mexico — Senior Manuel Gonzales, a dashing Mexican gentleman, doesn't look at all like Saint Peter, but he welcomes you to what must be heaven on earth.

In all my born days I have never seen anything to equal the hotel that has been reconstructed from the ruins of a sugar mill built in 1529 by Hernando Cortez. If I don't reach heaven, and there are times when I doubt that I will, I'll always have the satisfaction of knowing I have seen the second best place.

A good two-thirds of the Hacienda Vista Hermosa is just as Cortez built it. The massive walls, the cobblestone walks, the giant arches, and the centuries-old aqueduct which spans the swimming pool fed by the snow-capped mountains that look down on the lush tropical foliage. The work the modern engineers have done blends so perfectly with the old that it's hard to tell where Cortez' Aztec laborers left off and the 1910 blueprint boys went to work.

There isn't a single chamber of commerce man in my ancestral line, and I hate the over-worked word "charm," but Hacienda Vista Hermosa is enough to move the most insensitive soul. The weather is enough to make a man throw a rapturous fit. The thermometer has never seen 80 and never seen 65. The benign days hover near 80, and the nights drop to where a light cover feels just right. Orchids grow here the same way dandelions do in Georgia. The mellow walls blaze with a glory of bougainvillea and copa de oro which means cup of gold and looks like it.

I'm not a romantic man at all. Rather than bill and coo, I much prefer to saddle a jeep, fill my pockets with harotack, and tear off into a wasteland by myself.

But for men and women who go in for such nonsense as hugging and kissing and holding hands beneath the moon, Hacienda Vista Hermosa is incomparable. I am convinced that even Dr. Crippin or Bluebeard would have fallen under the spell of this place and become lovers instead of murderers.

As ashamed as I am to admit it, the place nearly got me. Sitting on the balcony of my room with the stars winking from a black velvet sky, and colorfully dressed musicians strumming guitars below, I felt a quicken-

Work Starts Today On McLean School

McLEAN — Contractors were expected to move in today to begin work on McLean's new $141,000 grade school building.

B. F. Horn, Abilene building contractor, was to have started laying out the site located at Sixth and Main, begin leveling the area and start building forms. By 10 a. m., equipment had not been moved in. Horn will bring men and equipment from another school building job in Paducah for the McLean project.

According to the contract, Horn is to complete the 14 - classroom building in 220 days, in time for the 1952-53 school year. Horn was low bidder among 12 contractors.

Resignation Rumors Buzz

WASHINGTON — (AP) — There is talk among some diplomatic circles that James E. Webb may resign as undersecretary of state early next year and be succeeded by David K. E. Bruce, now ambassador to France.

Webb, who recently suffered an attack of virus pneumonia, was reported to have asked President Truman to at least permit him to take a complete rest for a time.

Further, he has told friends he never intended to make government service a permanent career.

There also may have been a new flurry of speculations that Secretary of State Acheson may resign soon. However, associates say that so far as they know now, Acheson is determined to remain at least until the end of Mr. Truman's present term, which will expire in January 1953.

Store Window Is Broken By Vandals

City police were notified Saturday night that a window of a local liquor store had been broken, allegedly by two young men.

Harold Humphrey, 708 E. Frederic, reported the action at 10:47 p.m. On arriving at the scene police were told that two youths, described to be about 20, had thrown a steel rod through a window of the Texas Liquor store, 714 E. Frederic.

Humphrey said he previously had noticed the two youths slowly driving past the liquor store several times.

Police Chief John Wilkinson this morning said the license number of the car had been obtained.

Missouri Man Nabbed On Extortion Charge

DALLAS — (AP) — A Missouri man was arrested yesterday on an extortion charge. Officers accused him of threatening to kill himself and his two small children unless his former wife joined him here.

The children, a boy 4 and a girl 3, were found unharmed in the man's motel room.

The man charged is Gene Ridens, Richmond, Mo.

FBI agents and sheriff's deputies arrested Ridens as he met the bus on which his former wife told him she would arrive.

Ridens had picked up his two children from his former wife's home in Richmond the day after Thanksgiving, FBI special agent J. K. Mumford said.

TV Surgery Patient Is 'Doing Fine'

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — The youth who starred in history's first coast-to-coast color television program—an operation on his heart—"doing fine" in County General hospital.

His mother, Mrs. J. C. Russell, is doubly thankful today. Not only is Dick progressing well, but her son-in-law, Oliver J. Merrill, is home after spending several months in an iron lung.

Driver Is Given Jail Sentence; $150 Fine

A 22-year-old girl about to marry a young man who wants to spend a couple of years in specialized study says she can get along all right if she works, which she is perfectly willing to do.

However, several older persons have advised her against it and she wants to know if it would be a mistake for her to marry with the idea that she will work for several years.

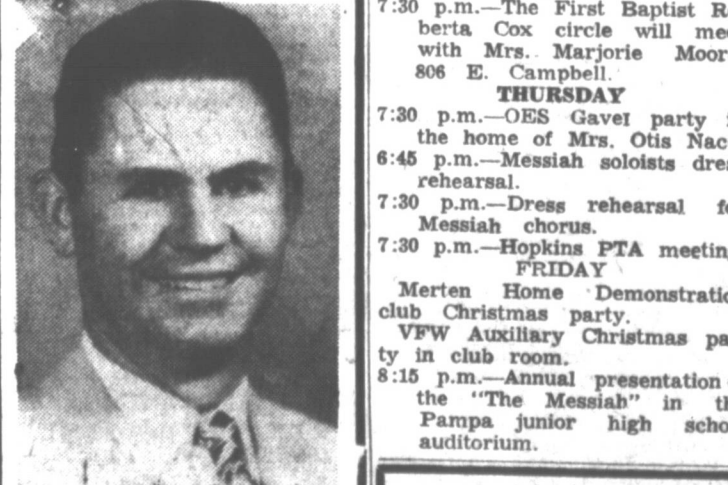

Of course there is nothing wrong with it. A good job has become the modern girl's "dowry" — the asset she brings to the marriage to help get it off to a good start.

The girl who offers to work for a year or two or three while her husband gets all the training he needs for his career is making a sound investment.

And it will probably pay off in several ways. To begin with, it is a good way for a young couple to start off with the idea that they are real partners, that both have an equal stake in the husband's career and hoped-for future success.

Mrs. J. B. Crocker Entertains Father At Birthday Party

Mrs. J. B. Crocker entertained her father, L. L. White, here last week on his 74th birthday. Mr. White's five children were present for the celebration. They are Mrs. Crocker, Mrs. R. A. Coon, Roswell, N. M.; W. S. White, Pantex; W. G. White, Hereford; and Mrs. L. M. Henderson, Pampa.

Others attending the party were the following grandchildren: Bernard Coon, Roswell; Lonzo, Mildred and Carol Don Coon, also of Roswell; Mrs. Wallace Shelton, Pampa; Mrs. Carlton Buck, Amarillo; and Albert Dean and Delbert White of Hereford.

Mr. Shelton and Mr. Buck were also present.

Great-grandchildren attending were Janice, Judy and Robby for the years she was a working member of the partnership. Every generation of women has to help its men in the best possible way.

Today's young wives don't have a chance to share pioneer hardships with their husbands the way the women did who crossed the prairies in covered wagons.

But they can help their men buck the big city struggle by earning a pay check to either help make it possible for the young man to get advanced training in whatever field he has chosen or help, while his pay check is small, to secure a home and furniture, etc.
