Superfortresses Smash For Third Time At Manchurian Industry

Vital Steel City Of Anshan Is Hit

BULLETIN
A B-29 SUPERFORTRESS BASE IN WEST CHINA, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A heavy force of American superbombers raided industrial installations at Anshan in Manchuria by daylight today, with the object of cleaning up "anything overlooked" on two previous raids on that key city.

Superfortresses smashed at Japan's vital war industry in Manchuria today, abruptly switching American air power blows from the Philippines to the northern segment of the Japanese empire.

It was the third B-29 attack on the enemy's mainland arsenal in three months. Tokyo broadcasts said the target was Anshan, site of Nippon's second largest steel works, bombed by the giant China-based planes July 29 and Sept. 8.

Dewey Delivers Caustic Reply To Pres. Roosevelt

By JACK BELL

ENROUTE WITH DEWEY, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Confident he had given the republicans a new battle cry with an assertion the American people will vote in November to "restore integrity to the White House," Gov. Thomas E. Dewey traveled across Oklahoma today for his last two scheduled stops at Sapulpa and Tulsa on a western campaign swing.

In a bitter, caustic reply to President Roosevelt's Saturday night speech ridiculing and mocking republican attacks on the new deal, the GOP standard bearer today shouting, over a crowd of nearly 10,000 persons in Oklahoma City's civic auditorium last night:

"I say the time has come to put a stop to everything that is summed up in that phrase, 'the indispensable man.'"

The GOP nominee's special train carried him to Sapulpa, where after a welcoming celebration on the high school steps for Mrs. Dewey, the New York governor and his wife planned a brief visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orin Hutt. Next stop was Tulsa for a series of conferences, after which the special was to leave for Albany, N. Y.

But all of this was anti-climax to Dewey's punching comeback in reply to what he described as the president's "speech of mud-slinging, ridicule and wisecracking" which the New York governor contended "plunged the depths of demagoguery by dragging into this campaign the names of Hitler and Goebbels x x x."

Disclaiming any intent to use such tactics, the highly-browed republican nominee asserted "the winning of this war and the achievement of a people's peace are too sacred to be cast off with frivolous language."

Opening a "smashing attack on the President with the assertion—'He has asked for it. Here it is'—Dewey said that Mr. Roosevelt had called a "malicious falsehood" the statement that he regarded himself as indispensable.

Dewey quoted Senator Harry S. Truman: the democratic vice presidential nominee, and Mayor Frank Kelly of Chicago, who effect the station must re-elect the President in order to attain "his own salvation" and to assure "the very future of the peace and prosperity of the world."

Dewey said he had heard no presidential repudiation of either statement. Then he added:

"Let's get this straight. The man who wants to be president for 16 years is indeed indispensable. He is indispensable to Harry Hopkins, to Madam Perkins, to Harold Ickes, to a host of other political job."

Plans Laid Out To Collect School Taxes

Members of the Pampa independent school district conducting their regular weekly meeting last night in the office of Roy McMillen, school manager, mapped plans for the collection of delinquent school taxes.

Delinquent taxes, pointed out the school district manager, are running into the thousands of dollars and date, in some cases, from 1927.

Embracing a total of seven schools in the city, the board instructed School Attorney Arthur Teed to file tax suits if necessary to wipe out the delinquent tax list.

Crude Oil Output Shows Decrease

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 26.—(AP)—United States crude oil production decreased 4,590 barrels daily in the week ended September 23 to 4,737,510 barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Illinois output was down 10,100 barrels daily to 194,700 barrels; Oklahoma, 1,800 to 70,000; Michigan, 110 to 49,990; and the Rocky Mountain area, 1,130 to 124,620.

California production increased 1,050 barrels to 881,250; Kansas, 800 to 280,900; Louisiana, 2,600 to 362,600; Oklahoma, 680 to 342,850; and Texas 50 to 2,156,150.

East Texas production was unchanged at 370,900 barrels daily.

Clipper Plane Is Down in Mexico

PUEBLA, Mexico, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Troops and relief parties today are climbing paths in the desolate American mountains north of here to reach the Mexican aviation company (CMA) "clipper" plane which ran out of gas and crashed during a storm.

The last word from the village of Tlalnalapa last night was that two were dead and 10 injured among the 19 passengers and four men of the crew.

The only names given of casualties were those of the two Cuban correspondents, Dr. Jose Ignacio Solis of Diario de la Marina and Dr. Paul Alfonso Gonsalves of El Mundo.

The chief pilot, Captain Ricardo Gonzalez Figueroa.

The wrecked plane is popularly called "La Havana Clipper" in Mexico because it picks up at Merida, Mexico, the last of the Havana Clipper of Pan American Airways, of which CMA is an affiliate.

Guides said doctors, nurses and supplies must go by horseback to the plane for the last thirty miles of the way to the forest clearing near a sawmill where the plane crashed late Saturday in rain and mud.

The first word of the disaster came Sunday afternoon when some of the passengers reached Tlalnalapa where there is no telephone but messengers carried the news to the governor of Puebla.

Meantime, six Mexican warplanes assigned to the air search over the region, were circling low. One of the pilots said:

"The Douglas plane could be seen flying to the northwest of the mountain or Perote. Its wings apparently were unbroken and resting on the ground."

He said it was obvious the plane had fallen into a rugged uninhabited region and that help must be sent to the passengers and crew in the shortest possible time.

First assistance was given by the exploring airplanes, which dropped medicine kits, food, blankets and other bedclothes, the pilot said.

New Commissioner Assumes Duties

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—(AP)—C. W. (Pete) Strance of Corsicana, former deputy supervisor of the Houston district, today began his duties as chief supervisor of the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission.

The commission announced appointment of Strance who replaced Jim Baskin.

Strance had been employed by the commission since 1942. He is a former deputy supervisor of the Palestine district.

ANIMAL SCENE IN THREE ACTS

Only 2½ months old, Flossie the Pup didn't know how predatory chickens can be until a flock of the feathered gangsters raided her at mealtime and did away with her dinner, as pictured above. Having one leg broke, and bound up in splints, wasn't any help to Flossie in the emergency, either. But her owner, Ehsan Karadag, of Chatham, N. J., saw the robbery being committed, shooed off the chickens and refilled Flossie's plate, to bring about the happy ending seen in bottom photo. Flossie has decided that dog's best friend is man.

Texans Will Have Wide Selection Of Electors When They Go to Polls Nov. 7

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Texans will have their choice of six slates of presidential electors, including Roosevelt-pledged democrats and anti-Roosevelt democrats officially listed as "Texas regulars," when they go to the polls Nov. 7.

The anti-Roosevelt faction of the democratic party in Texas, losing control of the state convention and defeated in an effort to get its electors in the democratic column on the ballot, filed under a new label yesterday, and the filing was accepted by Secretary of State Sidney Latham.

He had already accepted elector-nominee lists, certified by these parties: democratic, republican, prohibition, socialist, America first.

By order of the state supreme court, Latham had been directed to certify to county officials the names of the Roosevelt-pledged electors, nominated at the September state convention, as the electors of the democratic party. The September session threw out the names of 15 electors nominated by the May convention—which was controlled by the anti-Roosevelt faction—who had said they would not vote for the national party's nominees following the snubbing of Texas demands by the Chicago convention.

Following the supreme court's action, the anti-Roosevelt group met in caucus, then organized a convention Saturday. Yesterday, with the filing of its electors, it announced it had taken on the name, "Texas regulars."

Roy Sanderford of Belton as chairman of the convention, and Hamilton Rogers of Fort Worth as secretary, filed the electors names with Latham. Sanderford said the party would establish headquarters in Austin, and carry a campaign to restore constitutional government to the United States and elect a democrat as the next president "to every precinct in the state."

"We do not propose to be deterred by a flimsy supreme court decision that would either destroy the democratic party or surrender it to the satellites of Hillman and Browder et al," Sanderford said. He had nothing to add in regard to candidates or campaign plans, but indicated further announcements would be made.

Lloyd E. Weice, one of the anti-fourth term leaders, said in Fort Worth last night that the Texas regulars were expected to hold a state-wide rally at Fort Worth early in October.

He said that such speakers at such a rally might include former Governors Mike Conner of Mississippi and Sam Jones of Louisiana, and Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex), and that other such meetings would likely be held in Texas before the November election.

Sanderford was chairman of the May 23 regular democratic convention, which named 23 electors and instructed them not to vote for the national party's nominees if the national session seated a delegation from a rival pro-Roosevelt meeting. They were left free to vote for some other democrat if the Chicago convention failed to adopt the two-thirds rule and to incorporate a white supremacy plank in the platform.

Attack Is Made On Little Steel Formula by AFL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The American federation of labor said today that maintenance of the Little Steel wage formula is a violation of promises to labor and to servicemen and that it constitutes a basis for a major postwar depression.

George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, and Matthew Woll, stepped out of their positions as members of the war labor board into the role of pleaders before the board. Their appearance opened the final phase of arguments on whether the WLB should recommend a change in the chief price control policy to President Roosevelt.

"We have said and we say again here today," Meany asserted, "that the present wage freeze policy constitutes a fraud on the nation's workers who are producing for victory and on the nation's soldiers and sailors who expect to return to standards of living at least as good as they left behind them when they went off to fight."

"While labor has steadfastly supported wage regulations as an aid in the fight against inflation, labor has opposed the wage freeze policy of the government, x x x any wage freeze policy beyond the control of the WLB was a flagrant violation of the agreement made between labor, industry, and government on Dec. 23, 1941."

Said Woll: "Our problem today is no longer the fear of inflation, rather our fears today are centered on the specter of widespread deflation undermining all parts of our national economy."

The AFL submitted its case in detail to a panel several months ago. The hearing before the board itself was called today to hear oral argument on the findings.

The panel submitted no recommendations, as such.

World Security Operation Seen As Uphill Job

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—American officials are reported to have revised sharply their estimates of how long it will take to get a world security organization into operation. Their confidence in ultimate success remains, but they see it now as a slow uphill job.

This is due to the amount of time required for representatives of the United States, Britain and Russia to get together on an organization blueprint in the talks at Dumbarton Oaks.

Latest word is that at least one important question—what happens if one of the big powers is accused of aggression—will have to go unanswered for the time being.

One postwar agreement was discussed last night in a British-United States announcement that they will continue after the war the blacklisting of firms found to have been pro-axis.

If many points should remain unresolved after the imminent conclusion of the Russo-Anglo-American talks, a second Dumbarton Oaks meeting might have to be held.

The present session was originally scheduled to last three weeks and has now run into its sixth.

Consequently officials no longer expect a world security system to snowball into existence. They anticipate a slow and tedious process of consultation and agreement that may mean an interim of more than a year between the ending of the war in Europe and the formation of machinery to maintain peace by permanent cooperation among the United Nations.

FHA Will Retire, Speaker Asserts

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The federal government will retire from the housing business and turn it back to private capital after the war, Marshall W. Amis of Fort Worth, regional director of federal housing, told delegates of the 47th convention of the Texas federation of labor (A. F. of L.) here yesterday.

"Postwar homes will not be planned or built by any federal agency," said Amis, "except in such cases where private capital fails to provide for every citizen the decent home which is his American birthright."

He scotched the idea that postwar houses would be constructed almost instantly of miraculous pre-fabricated materials. "Homes will still be built of wood and brick and stone by your labor," Amis told the convention.

Daniel W. Tracy, assistant U. S. secretary of labor, denounced the "labor baiters" who, he said, had camouflaged the true part of labor in the war.

"Since the beginning of the war, time lost through strikes amounts to only one-hundredth of one per cent in Texas, and one-tenth of one per cent throughout the nation," said Tracy.

Tracy said that Texas salaries were below those of most other states, and urged AFL members to start now to secure state legislation equivalent to federal legislation as a protection against wage-cutting in the postwar period.

City Manager Also Faces Material, Labor Shortage

The shortage of labor and materials are the obstacles to be hurdled before Pampa can enjoy normally clean and well-marked streets, it was announced today by city manager W. C. deCordova.

Working now with a three-man force, the street department under the normal conditions would consist of 16 men, he explained. This wartime force, he added, must repair blacktop surfaces, oil dirt streets and clean alleys before winter begins.

"The marking and cleaning of streets in the business district is important, but not as vital as the saving of about $150,000 invested in blacktop surfaced streets that urgently need repair," said deCordova.

"There is also the question of oiling dirt surfaced streets before winter, and we must meet the more urgent demands first," he added.

Pampa will receive a solid carload of asphalt this week, the first that has been released by the government to this city in over a year, and the city manager with his three men

Enemy Says British Sky Division Quits

BULLETIN
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 26.—(AP)—German casualties on the western front—in killed, wounded and captured or troops hopelessly cut off—were estimated tonight at close to 1,000,000 since D-day.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
 Associated Press War Editor

The struggle of heroic airborne fighters to keep open the gateway to the German industrial Ruhr was cloaked in secrecy by supreme headquarters today, a short time before a Nazi propaganda broadcast said the entire division of British sky troops in the Arnhem pocket in Holland had been wiped out.

International information bureau, Nazi propaganda agency, said 1,400 British wounded had surrendered and that "this morning the last 600 British paratroopers laid down their arms."

Spearhead Goes Into Action

Desperately fighting on the other side of the Neder Rhine to keep supplies rolling to the airborne, an Allied spearhead wheeled into position to beat off German attacks which thrice have cut the Nijmegen lifeline.

At the same time two other columns were closing in on the German town of Kleve, northern terminus of the Siegfried line.

Supreme headquarters clamped a news dimout on the middle Holland front after a British spearhead shot through Helmond and Duerne in an advance of several miles. This thrust reached a point seven miles southeast of Veghel, sore spot on the vital Eindhoven-Nijmegen road over which roll supplies for the relief column driving to the rescue of pocketed British "Red Devils" west of Arnhem. The Germans had cut the road for five hours yesterday before tanks routed them.

Prime Minister Will Speak on Thursday

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, cheered from all quarters of the house of commons as he took his seat shortly after returning to London, avoided statements of major war questions today in preparation for a full dress statement on Thursday.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden arose in the prime minister's behalf to set that date for the start of a two-day debate which may well bring disclosure of Britain's attitude on what to do with Germany after the war—a question which already has brought about a split in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Former Marshall Editor Back Home

MARSHALL, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Capt. C. S. Boyles, Jr., former editor and assistant publisher of the Marshall News Messenger, has returned to Marshall on inactive duty after two years in the U. S. marine corps.

At various times he was assigned to marine public relations duties in Denver, Kansas City, Washington and for a time was officer in charge of marine corps activities in West Virginia. He more recently was adjutant of marine air group 93 at Cherry Point, N. C.

Traveler Reports Allied Direct Hits

MADRID, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Allied bombers scored direct hits on the Reich's chancellery, Hitler's Berlin headquarters, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' home, the Adlon hotel and the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger printing plant during a raid September 15, according to a traveler from Germany who was in Berlin during the attack.

The traveler, who arrived here yesterday, said the chancellery was "almost a complete wreck," and that Goebbels' home nearby also was badly damaged. Goebbels, he said, emerged uninjured from an elaborate bomb shelter beneath his home.

James C. Zuspan Dies in Action

Technician Fifth Grade James C. Zuspan, who has been operating with an engineer corps somewhere in Belgium, was killed in action Sept. 18, according to a message received by the relatives from the war department.

Cpl. Zuspan, whose wife Doris lives at Borger, was the son of Mrs. W. E. Mellon, Route 2, Pampa, and the grandson of Mrs. W. G. Edwards of Miami. He leaves a son, Jerry Charles, two.

Born Aug. 26, 1920, he had been in service for four years last June 25, and had been serving on the continent since June 9—three days after D-Day. He had been stationed in England for several months prior to that time.

Further details of his death are being forwarded by mail to the family from the war department, a message by the adjutant general said.

When your feet won't go where you want to go—you're drunk, old man, you're drunk.

Something new was added to the life of A. L. Jones, Pampa police desk clerk, last night when one would-be victim of the bottle staggered into police headquarters demanding arrest, stating that he had disposed of over $43 on the liquid in one day.

Jones eyed the drunk and the drunk eyed Jones, only to exclaim "And don't let me out."

Jones accommodated, and today the drunk was fined $10.

The other cases of drunkenness and one of traffic violation were also aired this morning.

Paper, Campaign Is Off for Time Being

Residents of Pampa who have placed bundles of waste paper and magazines at the curb in hopes PAAF trucks, that canvassed Pampa yesterday, will pick them up must find other means of turning them into vital war materials, for the Boy Scout and army paper drive is off . . . at least for the time being.

Pampa scouts, together with six trucks from the local air field, made a thorough canvass of Pampa last Friday and Saturday, gathering 80,000 pounds of waste paper and magazines. The army resumed the procedure Monday, but today Col. Charles Harrin, commanding officer, pointed out that army trucks could not call for small bundles of paper—only large quantities. Thus to conserve gasoline they have for the time being discontinued the paper pickup service to Pampa.

Scout Executive Hugo Olsen, who was in charge of the paper drive that just terminated, has however pointed out that Pampans may dispose of their magazines and papers by bringing and depositing them near the steps on the north side of the city hall.

Legion of Honor Conducted Here

Adobe-Walls council of the boy scouts conducted their legion of honor in the county courthouse last night, awarding certificates and badges of merit to at least 30 county boys.

Rev. Robert Boshen, president of the council, presided; and received a gold pin signifying that he is a past president of the Adobe-Walls group. Rev. Boshen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, has resigned his pastorate and will assume his new duties, soon as pastor of a Fort Worth church.

Awarded certificates were:

NEW YORK WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Soaring commodities, responding to Washington price controls, imparted some of the swing to the stock market today and leading issues pushed up fractions—some that, no gains, several to peaks for the year or longer.

Rails and carrier equipments were especially popular from the start with dealings livelier than in most recent sessions. Aircraft and motors eventually joined the best near the close. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

Top gains in 1944 so far longer were American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive, Grumman Aircraft and Consolidated Value. In the rising contingent were Beech Aircraft, Lockheed, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears, Roebuck, Schenley, United Aircraft, Texaco, American Smelting and Refining, Western Union "A", American Smelting and American Telephone.

Man Is Held on Federal Charge

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Laurent Hendrikus Johannes Brackx, 49-year-old Netherlands native and former American merchant marine captain, today was held by the federal bureau of investigation on an accusation that he was commissioned by the Fascist Italian government to obtain secrets of Radar. E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the New York FBI, in announcing the arrest yesterday, said Brackx had been under FBI surveillance since 1940. Brackx, declaring he was innocent and demanding a hearing, was held in $25,000 bail on a charge of conspiring to commit espionage.

Conroy quoted Brackx as reporting the Italian government was interested in obtaining Radar plans, as well as airplane production information and data on shipping in the Caribbean area.

U. S. Attorney James B. M. McNally said Brackx, formerly a USNR lieutenant, had studied espionage at Axis schools and had mailed a letter to a "spy drop" in Switzerland.

as to when clean streets can be expected, while the department in turn is endeavoring to locate a 600-30 truck tire needed to replace one that is already worn out on the street sweeper. Until the new tire is located, the street sweeper remains unserviceable.

To add to his already large "headache," the city manager last summer secured the services of 18 German prisoners of war, who were housed in the then six-man street cleaning department thoroughly cleared Pampa alleys. The department was not fortunate in securing the services of even one prisoner this year.

"Today," said the city manager, "the alleys of Pampa are literally covered with every kind of refuse, refuse, the city manager said that one resident of Pampa had dumped a number of glass jars in his alley. Boys come playing and jars are broken, and a soldier, home on furlough for the first time in many months drove his automobile down the alley and over the broken glass. He today is confronted with indicting the man who boarded to issue a permit for a new tire.

The "headache" of the city manager is something that cannot be overlooked, and in meeting the present labor shortage deCordova himself spent the entire afternoon Saturday a week ago firing a tar baller in order that one of his men could have the opportunity of attending a relatives funeral.

Pampans, however, have something to look forward to, because as soon as the necessary street repairs are made, the department will sweep the streets and paint the parking lanes.

WFA To Purchase Cotton at Parity

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—War food administrator Marvin Jones has announced the WFA will purchase from farmers at parity prices all cotton of the 1944 crop for which a loan schedule has been announced and which may be placed in acceptable storage.

The program will start as soon as arrangements can be made and extended through next June 30, with the Commodity Credit Corporation handling actual purchases.

At the same time Jones announced the WFA will buy from producers at parity prices less carrying charges to the end of the storage year all unredeemed 1944 crop wheat which is under loan May 1, 1945. The wheat also will be bought through the CCC.

Jones said the CCC purchase prices for wheat in storage in terminal and sub terminal elevators, will be advanced from time to time during the season.

WFA said its cotton sales policy, announced on August 26, will be modified to permit the CCC to sell cotton at not less than parity.

gained control of the party and set up a new slate of electors, not including the 15 who said they would follow the May session's instructions, it filed its nominations with Latham. Latham said he would certify the May electors, and the court test, won by the September forces, followed.

The anti-Roosevelt forces then formed their new party at a convention here.

Sanderford said all of the May electors "opposed to the new deal" were willing to serve with the Texas regulars, but that Otto Atchley of Texarkana had requested that the name of Horace Blalock of Marshall be substituted for him and John Mann of McGregor requested that the name of E. R. Spencer of Columbus be substituted for him.

From the original May 23 democratic electors, the following were re-filed by the Texas regulars: J. Holbrook of Austin; E. B. Germany of Dallas; T. G. Thiford of Nacogdoches; Ernest A. Bond of Schulenburg; Arch H. Rowan of Fort Worth; John Wheeler of San Antonio; John H. Crooker of Houston; Mrs. F. R. Carlton of Dallas; J. Harry Burke of Corsicana; Olin P. McWhiter of Greenville; Fred Brown of Eastland; W. Edward Lee of Tyler; H. J. Mosser of Alice.

Substituted for Mann was Spencer, and substituted for Atchley, was Blalock.

The regulars' new names (taking the places of original May electors who were retained by the September convention) were: Mrs. Cecil Smith of Sherman; Richard S. Brooks of Midland; E. L. Klett of Lubbock; Raymond Robbins of Athens; T. J. McMahon of Abilene; Mrs. Orville Tunstall of Fort Worth; Donley Suddath of Henrietta; Clyde Warwick of Canyon.

The main body of troops that abandoned Pingka, former southern anchor of the Nipponese Salween front, reached Mang-shih to which Japanese previously fled from Lanching, China-based U. S. Liberator's striking at Formosa sank a tanker and damaged a freighter.

Tokyo broadcasts said 70 superfortresses participated in the raid on Anshan, bombing the town for an hour while others swooped on Dalren. Panshiu, another Manchurian industrial city, was also named as a secondary target.

Varying Japanese reports, usually overenthusiastic in listing U. S. plane losses, said from two to 13 superiors were shot down.

Social Security Question Answered

The social security question "What does a person have to do to come in to the system?" is answered in the following paragraphs:

He must work in a job that comes under the law, that is in a factory, mill, shop, mine, store, filling station, cafe, hotel, theatre, laundry or some other business or industry, and he must get a Social Security Account Number card to make certain that his wages are properly credited. After the worker obtains an account number, the Social Security Board sets up an individual account for him. Every time his employer reports a certain amount of wage earnings for him, these wages are credited to the worker's Social Security account. Later on when the time comes for the payment of benefits this account will be used as the basis upon which the insurance payments are calculated.

holders, indispensable to America's leading enemy of civil liberties—the mayor of Jersey City (Frank Hague). He is indispensable to those infamous machines of Chicago—in the Bronx—are all other things.

"He is indispensable to Sidney Hillman and the political action committee; to Earl Browder, the Soviet and pardoned communist leader."

Declaring that it was "the simple truth that Mr. Roosevelt's record is 'desperately bad,' Dewey said it was no "falsification" that this nation was not prepared for war.

He quoted Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, as saying in 1940 that the army was "only a few weeks away from being a statement of Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, last January 4 that "December 7, 1941 found our army air forces equipped with plans but not with planes."

"Does my opponent still desire to use the words 'falsification' and 'Goebbels' the republican nominee taunted Dewey. "Does he still claim we were prepared?"

He followed with quotations from statements of the president in 1935 and 1937 to the effect that there was no American involvement in war, adding that when he, Dewey, had suggested in 1940 the creation of a two-ocean navy the President had commented that was "just plain dumb."

Dewey also took up Mr. Roosevelt's description as a "fantastic charge" the COPI nominee's statement that the administration plans to send men in the armed forces after the war to lessen unemployment.

The nominee quoted from a statement attributed by Stars and Stripes, army publication, to Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, that "we can keep people in the army about as cheaply as we could create an agency for them when they are out." The speaker pointed out that Hershey still is in office.

FOR MEN ONLY

Scientists have now found that men who are run down and no longer have the ability to enjoy life as they once did, may be suffering from a deficiency of certain essential vitamins and hormones. Middle-aged men especially may be the victims of this embarrassing condition. Tromone, the new medical discovery, combines the necessary vitamins and hormones that may do a kick out of life again. If taken in sufficient quantities, it makes up your vitamin-hormone deficiencies. Tromone may stimulate your vitality, give you the verve and zest of a much younger man. Added years may no longer deprive you of desired enjoyment once you begin to use Tromone. Note: follow directions on label. Tromone for sale at City Drug Co., Crestway Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

APPLICATION FOR LIQUOR PERMIT

The undersigned is an applicant for a Retail Liquor permit from the Texas Liquor Control Board and hereby gives notice by publication of such applicant in accordance with provisions of Section 10, House Bill No. 77, Acts of the Second called session of the 44th Legislature, designated as the Texas Liquor Control Act.

Flower Arrangement Rules Are Given by Pampa Garden Club

- Section one artistic arrangements as set by the club are: 1. Line arrangements; 2. Mixed arrangements; 3. Garden, garden basket. Several varieties in a garden basket just as picked from the garden.

JUMPER EFFECT

THE jumper in many true versions and in any number of guises is one of the most popular styles of Fall and Winter. It's shown, by one New York designer, in black and white wool checks with black wool jersey sleeves, as pictured. Another house presents the double-purpose jumper in rich purple wool jersey with tiny cap sleeves. You wear it with a shirt for day, and dress it up with jewelry and a frivolous little hat for night-time.

Convention Reports Given at Meeting Of Baptist W. M. U.

Problem Child

Allied troops in Italy can't be blamed if they find the native residents' attitude a little hard to take. Correspondents' dispatches indicate that the average Italian is pretty discontented. He complains that food and other necessities are more plentiful, and utilities and transportation services were better under the Germans.

Obviously this average Italian has a warped conception of Allied strategy and aims. It is hard for him to believe that the Allies landed in Italy, not primarily to improve his lot in life and restore his comforts, but to think him to love and weak point and speed the winning of the war.

The bloody, difficult Italian campaign is nearing its end. But there are still Nazi and Fascist Italian forces to be overcome before the southern door to Hitler's Germany is opened. To finish this job is the reason for the Allies' presence in Italy. It is hard for them to understand their annoyance when, in the midst of it, all people not long transferred from the status of enemy to co-belligerent start griping about accommodations.

But it is also easy, at a distance, to pity the Italian attitude while not approving it. For here we have a perfect example of what happens to a dictator-ruled nation when the dictator is gone. For more than 20 years in Italy the state was all. It told the people how to live and how to think, how to love and hate, how many children to have. For more than 20 years individuality was stifled and opposition suppressed.

The great majority of Italians have no political experience, responsibility or initiative. Who among them really knows the workings of democracy, the meaning of freedom, the duties that go with the privileges of that freedom? Only a handful of old men.

The youngest one who should be providing vigorous and dynamic leadership has grown to manhood in a regimented atmosphere in which the paternal state always knew best, and would take care of them if they stayed passively in line and avoided thinking and complaining.

It is tragic but not surprising that the Italians complain. They have read the Four Freedoms, and are disappointed that these freedoms didn't start functioning at once. This condition will not be overcome quickly. And it will be encountered all over again in Germany. We shall find that totalitarianism in a lingering disease with a slow, painful convalescence, and with plenty of headaches for doctor as well as patient.

The Embarrassing Mr. Lynch

The Italians not only have lynched a fascist criminal before he could be brought to trial, but have Latinized the English word lynch into the "liniare." Undoubtedly they thought they were borrowing an American descriptive of an American practice, which is as regrettable as lynching is reprehensible.

For the argument still rages as to just who the Lynch was or gave his name to Lynch's law or lynch law. The Encyclopedia Britannica says he may have been in Englishman, an Irishman, a Virginian or a South Carolinian.

But one thing is certain. The practice of lynching is older than Lynch. It flourished under a variety of names in medieval Germany and the English border country, in Russia and the Balkans. Only in the past century or so has the word been confined to the United States.

Certainly it is time that we erased the last traces of this barbarism, so that Europe won't have to look to America to find a fitting word for execution without trial.

Not a Democratic Solution

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, replying to a letter that suggested her lack of knowledge of the south's Negro situation, made what was probably a thoughtless remark, but one susceptible of an unhappy interpretation.

Commenting on the small southern communities where Negroes outnumber white persons, Mrs. Roosevelt wrote that "perhaps one of the solutions will be to move the Negroes into places where there are only a few, and thus prevent the lack of balance."

This scarcely seems a democratic approach to the problem. Even under stress of wartime labor shortage, we have not "moved" people from one place to another without their consent.

It is very doubtful that Mrs. Roosevelt's proposed solution would be either beneficial or well received.

The Nation's Press

The Mystery of Pearl Harbor (The Washington D.C. Times-Herald)

Latest Red herring dragged across the trail of the mystery of Pearl Harbor is the State Department's denial of this week of rumors concerning changes in disposition of U.S. naval forces at Hawaii shortly before December 7, 1941.

The rumors are that Saburo Kurusu, special Jap ambassador in Washington when the bombs showed up, had requested that we pull in some of our naval and aerial forces from Hawaii on the plea that to keep those forces

Government Ownership And Selfishness

The selfishness and wickedness of human beings is usually the reason for or forth by believers in government planning for government ownership of the means of production.

They imply that under government ownership crime and selfishness would be reduced or eliminated. What they do not seem to see is that it would be much easier for people to become big criminals, robbers or tyrants under government monopoly than under the competitive system.

This is true because under the competitive system men vote approval or disapproval of the goods from whom they buy. Every time they buy they are voting that the seller is the best seller they know. Every time they refuse to buy from a seller, they are voting that there are other sellers who are better. Thus the public can eliminate one by one the inefficient, the selfish or the crooked capitalists.

This would not be the case under government ownership of the means of production. The would have to eliminate the whole government in order to correct one error. This would be very difficult to do when the government owned the press and the radio and all other means of communication.

Private ownership of the means of production is by far the best way of educating industrialists, the men of genius, to be honest and efficient. The consumer is the boss under private ownership, while when the State owns the means of production it has control of the guns and the means of information, and the consumer is helpless until he overthrows the government.

So the next time you hear a man contending the morals of men would be improved by government ownership, ask him how this could be brought about. He is either deceived or is a secretly paid agent of some interests that want to get control over the lives of others.

War and Production An argument we will hear the socialists using is that the war has taught us that we have the resources and the capacity to produce under adverse circumstances more than enough to meet the needs of a minimum subsistence for all our people.

This will be a stock argument for all socialists. What they do not see is that in producing for war we have a single purpose; we can unite on one objective—the winning of the war. When that is done we shall have accomplished a specific objective. It is a temporary objective that can be measured.

On the other hand, there can be no common agreement on what should be produced when we attempt to supply the needs of all the people. We cannot agree upon what we need. There are, again, people will work much harder in war for protection of life and property than they will work to support someone else who does not seem to be willing to work very hard.

The statement would imply that there was a given amount of people to be supported with no increase in population. Undoubtedly if the public concentrated upon supporting the least fit, they would multiply much more rapidly. The average intelligence thus would be lowered. The population would increase until the wealth used for tools was consumed in supporting the indolent, so that the population again would be reduced and the remainder would live in squalor and penury.

There is all the difference in the world between government control of production for war industries and attempted government control of the initiative of individuals in supplying peace time needs. Every country that ever attempted to supply the masses with bread and free circles eventually destroyed itself. It is a law of nature that people must live by the sweat of their brow, and when they attempt to violate this law they destroy themselves.

out would prejudice the Kurusu-Nomura talks with Secretary of State Hull.

The State Department says that it "did not at any time raise this question with the War and Navy departments."

If any sidestep. Naturally the State Department would not give such instructions to the War or Navy department. One Government department does not order other departments around.

If any such instructions were sent out, they must have come from the President in his proudest capacity of Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces.

The fact is that our claws were pulled in before December 7, 1941. Our battleships were docked in pairs, many of our planes were lined up in hangars, or in the open. The result was a field day for the Jap bombers, and the most disastrous day in our history, ever yet sustained by U.S. fighting forces.

Blame has been heaped by the Administration exclusively on Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter S. Short, Navy and Army chiefs in Hawaii at the time. Kimmel insists that the full story has not been told, and he wants a court-martial trial. To suggestions that he tell his story by affidavit, he replies that the Navy has told him to keep his mouth shut. Should he make such affidavit, he would most likely be court-martialed for that and deprived of his pension.

Apparently the Roosevelt Administration is determined to keep the mystery of Pearl Harbor a mystery until after the November 7 election, and perhaps until after Roosevelt is out of public office.

Leaves From The Editor's Notebook

An envelope arrived at this desk today from Headquarters Ninth Air Force, European theater of operations. It was marked Official Business and addressed to the Military Editor. Surely it must be important, we thought, since, with airplane space and fuel at a premium, it had been flown straight from the scene of action.

The envelope was handsome, a two-color job in black and red. The extra printing job may have added a tiny drop to the war's cost, but surely important official business deserves a neat and attractive package.

The contents had been passed by the SHAEF field censor, and was marked for immediate release. And this, except for altered name and address, was the message:

"A Ninth air force service command unit in France: Eleven years ago, about this time of year, Pvt. Joseph Doakes of Copher Corners, Kan., now with the Ninth air force service command in France, finished second in the National Marble Shooting contests at Ocean City, N. J. Today he is with an air depot group, somewhere in Normandy."

"Doakes says he has plans for his bankroll after the war. His father passed away while he was stationed in England. We sort of had plans for a neighborhood grocery store when the draft board stepped in," he added. "Now that dad's gone, guess I'll have to tackle the job myself."

That was it. . . . The soldier's real name is omitted for obvious reasons. We have no wish to make light of his personal loss. But we do submit that by no trick of journalistic logic can this be called a news story of general interest. It should be evident to the least practiced eye that it is a publicity story aimed solely at getting the Ninth air force mentioned.

This is the same group that was the center of a small tempest recently when four American correspondents were asked to move on from Ninth headquarters. The correspondents claim they were asked to leave because "they were trying to cover the war instead of writing Ninth air force publicity." The Ninth's public relations officer, who resigned, said the move was routine. There were probably unpublicized irritations and pressures on both sides.

And we don't blame the Ninth air force publicists. We do blame the extreme jealousy between various outfits that causes them to use their public relations officers like civet cats, press agents, and judge them by the same standards. The above story, flown across the Atlantic at great haste and some expense, is only an extreme example of getting the "clients' name in the papers."

The army seems to forget that the folks back home are not interested in its internal finances. They are interested in and proud and grateful for the superb job that all soldiers and fliers are doing, regardless of their outfit. Hollywoodish publicity blarney, under the tragic circumstance of war, are not in very good taste.

FDR OPPONENTS SEEK FARM VOTE

By PETER EDSON

Washington Correspondent Biggest political bust of the present campaign is apt to come from the call for a meeting to recapture to democratic party from Sidney Hillman, sent out over the name of Senator Cotton Ed Smith of South Carolina. No other democratic revolution has succeeded this year, and this latest one seems particularly ill-starred.

Feppery old Cotton Ed is merely the front for this particular rural revolt. After 36 years in the U. S. senate, Cotton Ed was repudiated by the voters in the South Carolina primary last July, when they chose Gov. Olin D. Johnson to succeed him.

The real agitator behind the last year's move to "recapture" the democratic party from Sidney Hillman, is one Ralph Moore, a big grinning, glad-handing Texas cotton farmer. Moore has for five years played a leading part in organizing the anti-Roosevelt fight in Texas last summer. In trying to organize a new revolt by putting out a call for a meeting in Washington, Moore's idea was to set up a committee that will "get out the farm vote" in the same way that Sidney Hillman's group is getting out the so-called labor vote.

That this can be done is, to Moore, demonstrated by the fact that it was the farm vote of Michigan which defeated Democratic President M. Brown for the Michigan senatorship in 1940, in spite of the big labor vote polled for Brown in the state. Moore claims that since this was done in Michigan, it could also be done by getting out the vote in

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

DEFECT — The American army demobilization plan will bear striking resemblance to the one installed in England by Winston Churchill after the 1914-1918 struggle, when Britain's first demobilizing program failed. It is understood that the same demobilizing program discussed the question at some length in their recent conferences.

The original arrangement proved so unsatisfactory that many units in London and in France staged first-rate mutinies. Mr. Churchill describes vividly in one of his books a revolt that he witnessed from the window of Buckingham Palace. It was after these disturbing episodes that he was assigned the task of finding a remedy for the discontent.

Before he took over, the war ministry gave discharge preference to skilled mechanics and expert factory workers. The motivating purpose was the need to gear up the nation's production plant so that the empire could hold her own in post-war competition for trade. But there was one basic defect in this scheme, and that was the failure to utilize the utilization of a similar method over here after the present conflict.

RESERVE — Key industrial employees, then as now, were the last to be demobilized. They had only short hitches with the armed services. Therefore, the fighters with longer periods to their credit objected to the least practical of demobilization. So did their families and friends.

Mr. Churchill immediately scrapped that procedure. He brought back the old soldiers on the basis of the same sort of human credit system that Washington had been working on—length of service, time in battle, wounds and general health condition, number and need of dependents. He continued, as we probably shall, the draft, and he set fresh recruits to Europe as members of the army of occupation.

This will do more than allow two-thirds of the demobilized to get uniforms. It will enable the United States to build and train an army of young and sturdy warriors who will make up a reserve force guaranteeing the nation's safety for another ten or fifteen years.

NEW — Thomas E. Dewey's address on labor problems supplied the tip-off on the kind of government that will inaugurate if he enters the White House next January. He proposes to streamline the federal establishment on a functional basis. Dewey held that under the present setup, as he emphasized, almost a score of agencies handle questions affecting employers and employees. An equal number have jurisdiction over various phases of agriculture, industry, business, finance, railroads, etc. It is inevitable that conflicting rulings which bewilder the citizenry or vitiate responsibility.

Probably the next president, whether he be Mr. Roosevelt or the New York Governor, will have to create several new departments. With airplanes scheduled to enter the travel field in a big way, with

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

Today the class will come to order for a little lecture on motion picture censorship. Bedroom scenes for instance. They pop up almost every day in Hollywood based on the assumption that people do sleep and the screen is supposed to reflect life.

In some parts of the country, censorship boards regard a bed as a comfortable piece of furniture. In other it is a hideous monster with all kinds of implications lurking under its covers. Some censors object to seeing a lady and gentleman in the same bed, even if they have been married for 50 years.

So there is a censorship rule that the gentleman must keep one foot on the floor. This has worked pretty well up to now, although it is fast making contentionists out of gent like Walter Pidgeon and Errol Flynn.

There are all kinds of kisses, but it is generally agreed that anything over 30 seconds is necking. And ordinary screen kisses under ancient Massachusetts state censorship law can be only half as long on Sunday as on week days.

Film censors are about as conscientious as politicians. For years they have been approving photographs of Dorothy Lamour in her scanty eight-ounce sarong. But recently they banned as indecent three photographs of Dottie in modern shorts.

GO THE LIMIT, BOYS Writing a scene for Hedy Lamarr in a new film, a script writer commented: "Miss Lamarr enters the room wearing a negligee. The negligee is stunning—as stunning as the censors will permit."

Feminine scanties take on unlooked-for meanings in the eyes of the censors. Set-dressers hung a pair of lace panties on a rooftop clothesline for a scene in a movie but the censors ordered them replaced with a pair of stockings.

And speaking of stockings, a studio wanted to dress a line of chorus girls with black silk stockings on one leg, none on the other. The censors screamed. Two bare legs were all right. Two legs with stockings were all right. But one of each—never! Well never for either, a little whim of the censors which left the small native boy in the picture "Hurricane" standing in white belted swimming trunks after the wind whipped away his sarong.

Once a censor objected to some photographs of Betty Hutton. "You can't get away with those night-gown pictures," he said. "They're impossible." "That's no nightgown," argued the chief executive recognizes the evils in the present system. Indeed, he may try to steal the Dewey thunder by promulgating his own during the campaign, with the promise that he will implement it at the end of the war.

ELECTION — The most disturbing political news for leading democratic strategists is the warning that comes from correspondents on the Dewey train that such states as Wyoming, Utah, Oregon, Nevada and Montana are leaning Republicanward. In the last three elections they have been citadels of Rooseveltian popularity and strength.

In 1940 F.D.R. carried Wyoming by seven thousand, Utah by sixty thousand, Oregon by thirty-nine thousand, Nevada by ten thousand and Montana by forty-six thousand. These majorities do not appear large, but for such relatively small population states they are quite sizeable. Altogether they have twenty-four electoral votes, or enough to swing the election in a close contest.

The Wilkie tide swept to the edge of these areas, receding at the farm fringe to the east. But it is reported that the mistakes of the Versailles Treaty, the Versailles Treaty fathered the German aggressive spirit which brought about the Second World War.

Certainly the Treaty of Versailles was far from perfect. Certainly, too, the sufferings of the German people were intense. But only a small fraction of that suffering came from the terms of the treaty. A great part of it came as an aftermath of the war itself and from the German militarists' determination to bootleg Germany a new army.

But the Germans blamed us, and our peace treaty. The more sentimental of us echoed the plaint. If we had not been so unkind to the poor Germans at the Versailles, we said, they would not have felt the need to rearm, they would have fallen prey to a demagogue like Hitler. On such lopsided, literally Jerry-bull logic, we based a whole theory of war guilt, in which we were both judge and villain.

The truth is that German militarism never meant to give up the fight when the German army sued for armistice in 1918. It only went under cover to lick its wounds. Our alleged unkindness at Versailles had nothing whatever to do with Germany's dedication to another war and, should that war fail, to still another.

The truth is that in August and September of 1918, when they were privately told by General Ludendorff that defeat was imminent, Germany's cleverest, most ruthless men, the German General Staff, the top-ranking industrialists, and some of the most astute university professors, came together with a strong common purpose to form a cabal powerful and fanatic enough to make ready a new army and to sweep Germany to victory after a short armistice.

All sound Ludendorff in that sense autumn of 1918, however, there was indescribable national confusion. The various cliques seethed in ferment; the cabinet members quarreling of

War Today

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

General Eisenhower's call for action by organized soldiers through Hitler's untried foreign labor indicates his confidence that allied armies will soon be in Germany in force, and gives the first official intimation that we expect any real help from inside.

There is a vastly different situation among the millions of foreigners in the Reich, however, as compared with the French Maquis which enabled thousands of soldiers to devote their energies to the main effort.

By every report, Germany has kept a tight hand on her imported labor. These men and women from all over Europe have been confined only to a slightly less degree than prisoners of war. They have had little opportunity to learn the country, or even to meet privately.

Out of the 8 to 12 millions, of course, there are a great number, even though a small percentage, who have nursed a grudge against the German war effort, and organized for V-hour. They are closely watched, and may be able to do little until all the arms are abandoned anyway, but in the aggregate effect may be considerable.

At any rate they may embolden the few who are still in the service. The few of them from the Holland front, add to the growing feeling of several days that the big push is about on. That, too, is the meaning of repeated German counter-attacks along the west wall, the only purpose can be an attempt to unbalance the forces we have poised for a major effort.

All went well until the short was shown to the Ohio state censorship board. The board passed the film except for this bit of whimsy by the narrator: "The courting season of the newt opens on the 10th of March and extends on through the following February, lasting about 10 days of general overhauling and redecorating."

Representing Combined Allied Press WITH BRITISH AIRBORNE TROOPS IN THE ARNHEM AREA, Sept. 26-47—German shelling of our little stronghold is continuous and getting more vicious.

Now it seems they are bringing up batteries of 88's, and confused firing about a hundred yards away may mean the German infantry is attacking.

We can hear a German Spandau gun firing, but since some of our men are using captured weapons, we can't judge from the sound whether it is turned against us—and we can't see because of the thick trees.

Typhoon planes were attacking enemy guns with rockets earlier, but now it is raining again. One day's clear sky would make all the difference in the world.

But, meanwhile, rain or shine, our men go on fighting—beating off attacks and themselves attacking while waiting the arrival of the Second Army.

I can't yet write the full story of all they have done and all they have endured, but if in the years to come any man says to you, "I fought with the Arnhem Airborne force," take off your hat to him and buy him a drink. His is the stuff of which England's greatness is made.

GERMANY WILL TRY IT AGAIN

By Sigrid Schultz

As an American newspaper correspondent in Berlin from 1919 to 1941, Sigrid Schultz saw at first hand the events that led from World War I to World War II. And she saw the behind-the-scenes preparation for the coming "war-in-peace" that she terms may minimize in World War II. This is the story of Germany's plans to win the peace, plans that even now are being put into effect.

WE do know, and we should never forget, that the German militarists consider us Germany's principal enemy. Our democracy is a symbol of hope to the oppressed. As long as it survives, the nations the Germans are determined to subdue will never resign themselves to German domination.

And we must draw the logical conclusions from our knowledge, calmly but quickly. As late as the summer of 1943, German propaganda still triumphed in the belief of an appalling number of Americans and Britishers that the mistakes of the Versailles Treaty fathered the German aggressive spirit which brought about the Second World War.

Certainly the Treaty of Versailles was far from perfect. Certainly, too, the sufferings of the German people were intense. But only a small fraction of that suffering came from the terms of the treaty. A great part of it came as an aftermath of the war itself and from the German militarists' determination to bootleg Germany a new army.
