Tornadoes Slam Into Dixie; Casualty Toll Is Mounting

6-State Area Cringes Under New Assaults

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (AP) — A flurry of tornadoes, small but destructive and deadly, struck the South late Saturday as a widespread area from deep in Dixie northward to Missouri counted 232 persons killed by storms and rampant flood waters.

Alabama, from mid-state northwestward almost to the Tennessee border shouldered the onslaught of the latest storms—three within a few hours.

The toll: three dead, 50 left homeless.

In the six-state storm area, a stricken first late Friday afternoon, several thousand persons were homeless and more than a thousand were injured, many seriously.

Arkansas, hardest hit by the vicious storms, reported 149 killed and between 2000 and 3000 homeless.

The latest town to be added to the growing and ghastly list of stricken communities was Hartsville, in northwest Alabama.

The three dead there were reported by the Alabama highway patrol. In a ravaged section about two miles east of Hartsville, 12 dwellings were toppled by mighty winds.

In Hartsville itself, between 30 and 40 homes were churned into debris.

Earlier, Jemison in central Alabama and Tuscaloosa, to the west were struck by tornadoes. Damage was reported but no fatalities.

The roster of the dead, by states, was: Arkansas, 149; Tennessee, 49; Missouri, 13; Mississippi, 11; Kentucky, 7; Alabama, 5.

The dread task of counting and burying the dead, and searching through the twisted wreckage of homes and other buildings, continued throughout yesterday.

In one area alone, centered at Dyersburg, Tenn., the property damage was estimated by City Judge Lyman Ingram as eight to $1,000,000. This huge loss included a quarter of a million dollars worth of property leveled by the high winds and fire at the municipal airport.

There, the hangar was demolished, together with the 27 small planes it housed. National Guardsmen aided the weary and bewildered populace.

Kentucky's death toll was recorded at Scottville, where seven members of one family drowned when flood waters of Garrett's creek washed away their home.

Members in the six afflicted states were ripped apart by the swirling black angry winds. Tangible skeletons of power lines were strewn pell mell, spring crops were inundated, livestock perished.

The storms burst out of black skies yesterday with a terrible fury. There were at least a dozen separate tornadoes in west Tennessee alone. They came shipping up from Mississippi.

A series of tornadoes raged through Arkansas, bisecting the state from the southeast corner to the northwest tip on a 45 degree angle.

Small tornadoes were also spawned in Texas and Kentucky where they ran a short but destructive course, but killed no one.

A chilling Northerly swept Pampa and other parts of West Texas Saturday and last night and sent temperatures plunging to a low of 17 degrees here early Saturday morning.

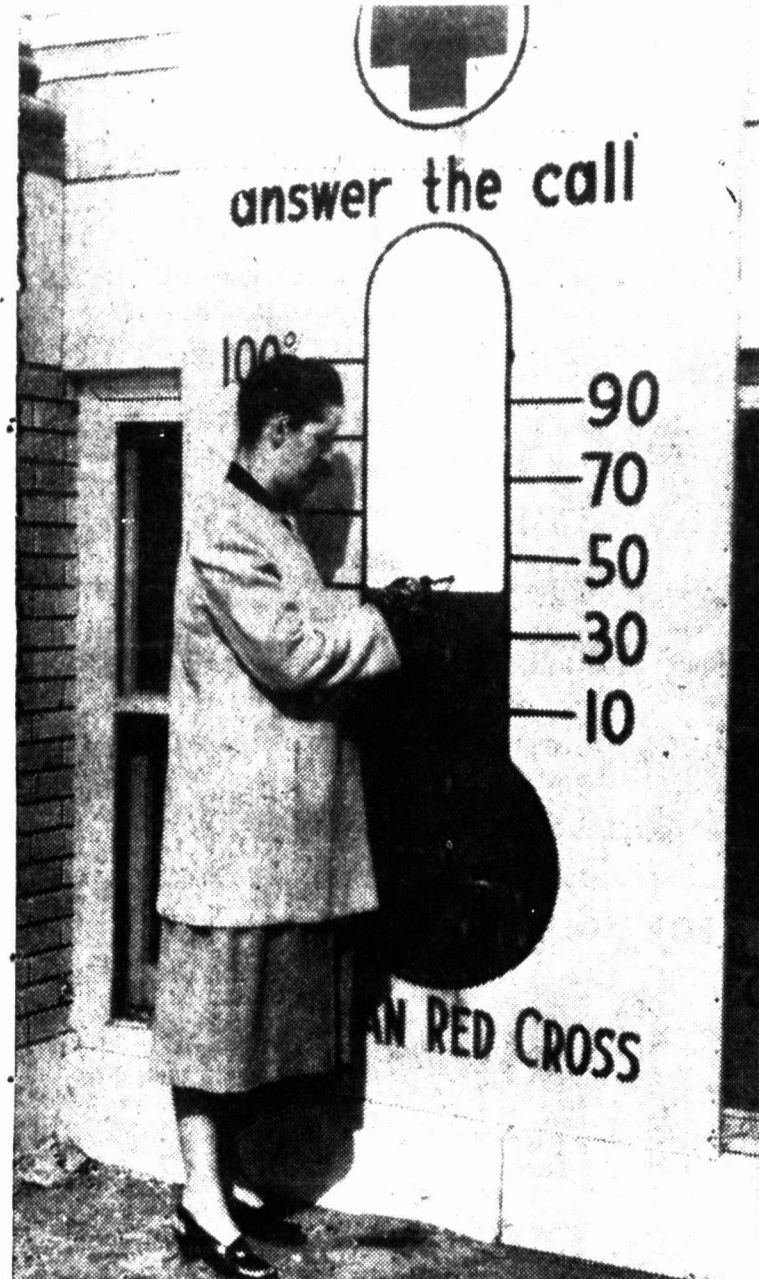

Winds from the Northwest at 40 mph were recorded by Central Airlines with gusts yesterday morning up to 55 mph.

Only a trace of moisture fell in the Pampa area, though wind-whipped snow flurries fell intermittently Friday night and part of Saturday.

Elsewhere in the state the Northerly accompanied dust and sub-freezing temperatures were reported as far South as Abilene and Wichita Falls.

Colder weather was forecast Saturday night in the West Texas area with expected lows from 10 to 22 in the Panhandle. Sunday is to be partly cloudy and a little warmer in the afternoon.

Mac Charges U.S. Being Led To War

JACKSON, Miss. — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared Saturday that the national administration "is preparing us for a war in Europe, unprepared, into the Korean conflict."

He lashed the present leadership and said it was "leading us toward a Communist state with as dreadful certainty as though the leaders of the Kremlin themselves were charting our course."

The 71-year-old former Far Eastern commander lost his most critical battle thus far at the Truman administration as he addressed a joint session of the Mississippi legislature from the state capitol building.

He called on the people to "re-chart the nation's course" under constitutional processes, apparently referring to next presidential election.

MacArthur, who is regarded as supporting the presidential bid of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and not refer to President Truman by name, but pictured his administration and policies as a path to the ruin of the country.

The general arrived from New York at 1:12 p.m. (CST) aboard a chartered DC-4. The arrival was two hours behind schedule because the pilot had to fly off course to miss the tornadoic weather centered over mid-South states.

After a rough flight that made a number of the general's party sick, MacArthur was paraded through the city and taken directly to the capitol for his address.

The crowd of thousands spread thickly over the capitol grounds applauded 21 times as the general charged the administration with implementing "the blueprints of Marx and Lenin with unerring accuracy and gives the stark warning that unless the American people stem the present tide he (See MAC CHARGES Page 3)

Red Cross Workers Will Meet Monday

Red Cross volunteer workers will attempt Monday to push the $381 collection toward the $12,383 goal.

Workers will gather at 8 a.m. in the Palm room for coffee and donuts. Each will be given several names of persons they are to call on for contributions.

Howard Buckingham, chairman of the fund drive, said many persons have failed to contribute to the Red Cross.

Officers Free Two Suspects

Two more suspects in the March 13 hijacking of Carl T. Harris were eliminated after two men taken to Austin were cleared by the polygraph and detector test, and released Friday night.

Sheriff R. H. Jordan said last night, "We're still working out a few other angles; it's like groping around in the dark blindfolded."

Jordan added the only method officers have been able to follow is "a process of elimination" since there were no clues left at the scene.

Harris was pistol whipped and robbed of more than $1000 in cash in the dining room of his home around midnight March 13. Since then police and sheriff's deputies have been rounding up all known police characters in and around Pampa for questioning.

Referring to the two men he released Friday, Jordan said, "I never saw a case where circumstantial evidence pointed so closely to those two. Everything we learned centered on them, but they bore up in Austin and the test showed negative from start to finish."

Germany's 'Worst' Air Crash Kills 43

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — The Royal Dutch airliner "Queen Juliana" crashed explosively in a suburban woods Saturday and killed 43 of the 47 persons aboard. It was the worst plane disaster in German history.

Bound for Johannesburg to Amsterdam, the four-engine DC-6 mowed tree tops for a quarter mile in an instrument approach to the Rhine-Main airport through murky weather and then slammed into the ground with a loud explosion two miles short of the runway.

Flames licked swiftly across the wreckage and into spinning evertrees around it, hissing under a drizzling rain.

All four survivors, two men and two women, were injured. One of these were passengers. The other was the Dutch stewardess, Miss A. J. G. Gutter. All were rushed to a U. S. Air Force hospital at the airport, which handles both military and civilian traffic. Physicians said they did not expect the two men, a German and an Egyptian, to live.

Royal Dutch airline (KLM) officials said the craft carried 37 passengers and a crew of 10 on the fatal flight.

Two German truck drivers, Willibald Hoffman and Konrad Beutel, saw the crash and hustled to the rescue. They risked their lives to pull survivors out of the burning fuselage.

IN ACCORD ON DELEGATES — Members of the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee yesterday are shown a few minutes after they unanimously went on record favoring totally uninstructed delegations to county, state, and national party conventions. The decision was unanimous and came on the heels of a declaration last week by "Loyal Democrats" that they would attempt to send instructed delegations to several conventions. County Demo Leaders Vote For Uninstructed Delegates

Gray county Democratic leaders Saturday morning declared they favored uninstructed delegations from precinct conventions through to the national convention in Chicago during an executive session of the Gray County Democratic Committee held in the grand jury room of the court house.

The executive committee, made up of the county chairman and precinct chairmen, voted 11 to 0 to support County chairmen, voted 11 to 0 to support County chair-uninstructed delegations to all conventions. Seven of the precinct chairmen were absent.

During the session, the executive committee voted unanimously to raise filing fees in the Democratic primary from five percent to a maximum of eight percent of a first year's annual salary of each elective office in the county.

However, the filing fee is set for the office, not the candidate. If more than one candidate files for the same office the fee is divided equally.

Increased cost of election supplies, the need for more ballots than usual, and increases in pay for election officials brought about the jump in filing fees. The committee agreed to levy a seven percent charge but empowered the county chairman to boost it to eight percent as he found costs would exceed income from the fees.

Sturgeon said he favored making a prorata return of filing fees to candidates if there is any. (See COUNTY DEMO Page 3)

Local Serviceman Awarded Marine Commendation

Navy Hospitalman James H. Cline, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Cline, 1125 Terrace, Pampa, has been awarded a Marine commendation for "devotion to duty and display of courage" while under fire in Korea.

He is now serving in a hospital near Inje, Korea.

Marine Maj. Gen. G. C. Thomas said the citation was for excellent service while serving with a marine infantry company during operations against the enemy on Sept. 16, 1951.

Hospitalman Cline, serving as corpsman of a company under heavy fire from enemy artillery and mortars, performed his duties in a highly professional and commendable manner," the general said.

Without regard to his own safety, Cline went forward to administer aid to wounded men. In marine officer noted. And it was only after rendering medical assistance to the last man and supervising his evacuation, did Cline return to safety.

His "conduct throughout was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval service" and "was an inspiration to all who observed him," Gen. Thomas said.

Cline, a graduate of Pampa High school and a student in Amarillo college, was inducted into the navy in September 1950.

Anticipate Higher Sales Of Pepper

BOMBAY India — Indian black pepper exporters hope for increasing sales to Soviet Russia, once an insignificant buyer of the spice.

Russia bought 1,000 tons of Indian output in the 11 months ending October 1951, Bombay exporters declared. The United States bought 9,000 tons, followed closely by the United Kingdom with 2,000 tons.

Russia is buying the pepper with rupees gained in the sale of 100,000 tons of food-grains to India during the spring food crisis. Soviet purchases have eased a recent crisis in the Indian pepper industry, which has felt the pinch of competition from Indonesia and other countries.

Businessmen Favor Anti-Trust Laws On Unions, But No OPS

By staggering margin independent businessmen and their employees told Congress they wanted unions made subject to anti-trust laws: The President forced to report to Congress on agreements made with other nations; and a reorganization of the Department of Agriculture.

This was learned from "The Mandate," monthly bulletin of the National Federation of Independent Business which has a growing branch in Pampa. The same organization, on a nationwide basis, also told Congress it does not want any increase in powers of the Office of Price Stabilization, and slightly favored maximum discounts for industries where that discount may be needed.

The strongest chorus of "ayes" came for a bill making unions subject to anti-trust laws by a percentage of 96 for 3 percent against, and one percent undecided. The same figures were true of a bill that would reorganize agriculture department aimed at clipping off $50 million annually in government expense, however, only 35 percent of the votes would compel the president to report to Congress on prospective agreements with foreign countries. Four percent thought he should not be compelled to make such reports while one percent declined to vote either way.

The only bureaucratic program to show some signs of support was that calling for increased powers of the OPS. Eight percent voted to increase its powers, 58 percent yelled "no" and three percent let the question go by the boards. But it was the involved economic question on allowing larger maximum discounts for industries needing them that passed by, the narrowest margin, 57 percent voting yes; 35 percent saying no, and eight percent not voting.

New to Pampa, the National Federation of Independent Business is a nation-wide organization made up of men and women owning their own business; employed by independent businessmen; a member of a profession or an employee of a large industry joining as an independent citizen.

At intervals the association mails out bulletins concerning legislative action affecting independent business. Each bulletin contains a ballot covering several laws pending before Congress and asks the member to vote on the proposed measure. These are sent to a local tabulator who makes up the returns and transmits them to the association's national headquarters. There the returns from the nation are tabulated and sent to congressmen, senators, and other government officials. Each congressman also receives a tabulation from his home district showing how the folks back home feel about the legislation.

In the current issue of the bulletin are five proposals:

1. The Dollinger bill which would increase the minimum hourly wage from 75 cents to $1.25.
2. A bill which would create unification of armed forces purchasing.
3. The Ford bill aimed at depriving the President and his associates from censoring the news on scandals in government.
4. A law compelling the Federal Security agency to make annual reports of what is done with social security tax money.
5. The Moody-Dingel bill making the federal government conduct tribute 50 percent as much as the states do for unemployment compensation in the more heavily populated industrial centers. Each of the bills is argued pro and con in the bulletin to give member voters an opportunity to understand what the legislation will mean if passed or defeated. The previous ballot first to be voted in the Pampa area, was sent directly to Rep. Walter Rogers in the meantime E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the chamber of commerce, agreed to serve as payee-teller and chairman of the Pampa unit. The current ballots are being mailed to him.

MARKETS

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK — Futures prices lost some of their early gains on the New York Cotton Exchange last week but wound up with a net advance for the week as a whole.

The net gains over the week ran from $3.25 to $4.25 a bale. The market gained its early strength from February cotton consumption estimates which showed an unexpected advance.

Toward the close of the week, however, profit taking was attracted by higher price levels and there was some selling on rumors of a more optimistic view of 1952 plantings in some sections.

The Bureau of Census official consumption report on Wednesday was in line with the exchange's earlier estimates.

The general also touched on the off-shore tideland oil issue and on the states rights theme, saying:

"Of possibly most immediate concern to the South," he said, "has been the manner in which this federal autocracy has sought by the unconstitutional assumption of authority and power to inordinate taxation to seize or suppress the sovereign powers expressly reserved to the states."

"Efforts to sequester their tideland resources or to regulate their purely social problems are among the many recent incidents."

County Demo

money left over following the August Democratic runoff primary.

The committee set 10 a.m., May 3, as the time for holding precinct conventions in the 18 voting boxes.

The following locations for holding the conventions were tentatively selected by the group:

1 - Auditorium, Lefors School; 2 - Auditorium, Baker school; 3 - Grandview school; 4 - W. J. Ball real estate office, Alarred; 5 - City hall, McLean; 6 - Laketon store; 7 - Residence of C. C. Stockstill; 8 - Hopkins school; 9 - Auditorium, Woodrow Wilson School; 10 - 31st District Court room, court house; 11 - undecided; 12 - undecided; 13 - undecided; 14 - Horace Mann school; 15 - Carpenter's hall; 16 - Undecided; 17 - Dy-sart Moror Co., McLean; 18 - Charles Webb residence.

Chairman Aaron Sturgeon, present, except H. C. Coffee, signed affidavits seeking re-election to their present posts with party secretary Bob Baker.

Those present and filing for re-election were: D. M. Jones, Pct. 1; Mrs. C. A. Tignor, Pct. 2; Jim McCracken, Pct. 3; W. J. Ball, Pct. 4; Charles Cousins, Pct. 5; John Hamley, Pct. 6; C. C. Stockstill, Pct. 7; A. B. "Gus" Greene, Pct. 8; J. E. Kelley, Pct. 10; Bill Greene, Pct. 14; and County Chairman Aaron Sturgeon.

Other precinct chairmen and others who intend to file for those offices have until midnight, May 5, to file with the executive committee for a place on the ballot.

In other actions the committee went through the formality of calling the first and second primary elections for July 26 and August 23, and called and set the time and place for precinct and county conventions.

Each of the committeemen indicated they would get to work in an effort to encourage larger voter attendance and participation at the precinct conventions.

Sturgeon told the committee: "The minority forces — made up of the Loyal Democrats — supporting the pro-Fair Deal administration are making an all-out effort to take over and control precinct conventions. If they can control enough precinct conventions, they can easily control the county conventions, and so on up the line. These forces are seeking instructed delegations to the state and national conventions in support of the left-wing group of our party. The only way we can stop this is for people who think as we do to get out and encourage voters to attend precinct conventions and county conventions, and also to vote."

The meeting adjourned shortly after 12 noon.

Truman Determined To Run Whole Show

The ultimate decision between free world and slave world lies in the balance. That's what Harry S. Truman, President of the United States, said today in a radio and television address in an attempt to justify a demand for nearly eight billion of American dollars to carry on his global WFA.

Truman is determined to run the whole show at whatever price it may be, could be seen in his insistence that the representatives of the people in Washington were not to cut one cent from his figures.

Truman says, in effect, I have the only plan to save the world from communism and this is the cost of the program and you'll like it or lump it.

As usual, he did his best to frighten his listeners with the dire warning that the action Congress takes (on the program) may make the difference between life and death to many of you listening to me tonight.

That, mind you, came from the man who declared war all by himself in Korea and is personally and specifically responsible for the casualties that are occurring there.

What Truman has demonstrated he believes is that the way to fight communism is to make a Communist nation of the United States. And this will rid us of communism!

We have no way of knowing just how glibly Truman thinks the American people are. But he apparently has a pretty low opinion of them when he thinks that he can conduct his administration the way he has and still give the people confidence that he knows what he is talking about — whether it be on foreign or domestic issues.

The record is so bad against Truman and his administration that even his most ardent supporters are beginning to look around for something to admire in his conduct of the office of the Presidency.

Having made a plea for bipartisanship in the consideration of the aid program by the Senate and House, with a typical Truman political approach he then not only attacked Republican opponents but members of his own party who do not think that they might interfere with his global scheme. He has steadily and consistently demanded that politics be the rule in all such foreign affairs and he is ready to do battle at the drop of a hat with anyone who might have the courage to stand up and fight his Socialist-Communist notions.

Not once in his speech did Truman show how the American people should do anything but let some more of their liberties be following his program. Slowly but surely it is beginning to dawn on a great many Americans that we are not containing communism as Truman would have us believe; that we have not stopped communism in Korea; that we have aided communism in China and elsewhere; and — that we are growing more and more communistic within our own nation. It may sink into Truman's mind before very long that we cannot be fooled forever.

The Doctor Says: It is not too early for parents who are considering sending their children to summer camps to complete their arrangements. These camps for boys and girls are now a part of the American scene which thousands of lucky youngsters enjoy each year.

Better Jobs

By R. C. HOLLES

"Away From Freedom" VII I am continuing to quote from Dr. V. Orval Watts' new book "Away From Freedom." This book can be purchased from the office of this newspaper for $1.

Under the sub-heading of "Government Hegemony: Increased Instability," Dr. Watts has the following to say: "As far as anyone knows, man's conduct is not pre-determined, therefore is not predictable in the way that certain natural phenomena, like the weather, may be. Yet, in freedom, human conduct is increasingly rational and cooperative.

Therefore, it provides a basis for hopefulness and creative activity. The truth behind the adage, 'Never sell America short!' In voluntary enterprise, success goes to those who bet on increasing opportunities for economic cooperation and who judge more or less correctly what other people want to buy or sell.

In freedom, people cooperate in hope of reward. This means that each person gets the aid of others by using sufficient inducement to enlist their will—their determination—to do what he wants and expects. Under such conditions, people are more likely to cooperate and create a better life for themselves.

Government intervention, or "management," in economic affairs introduces the element of legal coercion. Coercion, whether legal or illegal, needs abandonment of reason and of appeals to reason as means of getting cooperation. It does not mean mere coercion substituting force for reason.

Such coercion and suppression arouses in the citizen opposition hope and approval. Whether legal or illegal, it arouses the desire to escape and evade (e.g., flight of capital), or to resist and disobey (e.g., "black markets"), rather than to cooperate. It can accomplish its purpose only as it fosters evasion, escape and evasion of the law. Up to that point, the victims use their ingenuity to thwart the will of the coercer. Beyond that point, the victims become hopeless, apathetic and uncreative. A certain stage the results are declining output, trade, and prosperity.

Dr. Watts goes on to explain how fiat currency nurtures statism: "This use of fiat currency finances the growth of the unproductive, collectivist, and restrictionist State. It liquidates the productive and stabilizing elements. Thus it creates a vicious cycle of revolutions, such as the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia, the Fascist Revolution in Italy, the Nazi Revolution in Germany. As Keynes himself said, 'The more a nation becomes a full-fledged Keynesian!'

"There is no subtler, no surer means of overturning the existing basis of society than to debauch the currency. The process engages all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner which no one man in a million is able to diagnose.

It looks as if we are destroying our country by this method of fiat currency. Very few people realize that our trouble comes from the way men think and what men believe. As Dr. Watts says: 'As a man thinks, so is he.' Dr. Watts comments on this as follows: 'The individual's view of man and society determines the way he feels and acts toward his fellow-men. His view of his own rights determines the way he discharges his own responsibilities. His view of his responsibilities determines what he expects from others and how he tries to get it. A teacher may profess to deal only with government policy in regard to money and credit, taxes and spending, not with individual conduct and morality. But how can government control spending, lending, saving and investing, without affecting individual rights and responsibilities in use of money?'

diphtheria may or may not be required. The youngster going to a camp should be prepared to abide by the rules. For example, if the camp is located in an area where there are rattlesnakes, high boots may have to be worn and it could be dangerous to break this regulation.

ABIDE BY CAMP RULES In most places swimming is an important part of camp life and the rules of safety should be strictly followed. Knives, axes, and other instruments which can cause injury should be taken only as advised by the camp director. There are plenty there, and every dollar we spend is an investment to assure the well-being and security of our country.

We do have a tremendous piling up of dollars; sales, income and the rest in depreciated dollars, built up on a foundation of national debt, while savings, insurance policies and accumulated funds shrink to smaller and smaller dimensions in their purchasing power. We have even come to the point where debt is no longer viewed as a liability that has to be paid off, even with sacrifice, but instead is viewed as an asset, a way to get more and more money into circulation.

The long-delayed collapse that is coming, as completely ignorant now as was the collapse of 1929 before that arrived, will be a complete answer to the wild speculators and generous annexers of other people's money. But that is a tragic way to learn the lesson, horribly unfair to those who must suffer and who had no share in producing the wind which finally blows us as a whirlwind. It is a better to listen to one of America's immortal wise men, who once said, '... no revenue is sufficient without economy, and ... the most plentiful income of which as people from the natural productions of their country may be dispensed in vain and needless expense, and poverty be introduced in place of affluence.'

DOWN THE DRAIN By Dr. Alfred P. Hoaks These are the days of budget-making in hundreds of communities, as well as in cities, states and the federal government, there is talk and argument on how much we want to spend and then how we can get the money. It does not occur to the tax-makers that they could start with the income they have and figure out how much they could do with it if they used it wisely.

Only the taxpayer is inarticulate and waits in tremulous anxiety to learn what the legislators, from senators down to aldermen and selectmen, have done to his purse. The taxpayer can be certain of one thing: that it will cost him more than he can well afford. The next certain thing is that he is not likely to do anything about it.

Here is a typical answer to the objector who protests against the huge spending: "All right, just what would you cut out, or where would you reduce?" Continuing the answer, neither can it come from the profits of business if we are to maintain the free enterprise system that has brought our people the highest standard of living the world has ever known. Whatever may be the differences of opinion between various groups as to the best way to maintain and increase our standard of living, surely there is a common enemy that would destroy this standard — and inordinate taxation is such an enemy.

It was the common belief of the trades unions of Great Britain, who for so long have been the backbone of the welfare burden and the tax load could be unloaded on the rich and on profits of business. They were told there was no end to the benefits they could obtain by "looting the rich." They were assured that the welfare burden would be destroyed and the people generally were worse off than before. They then turned to the profits from business when the Government needed additional money, but they found that with the profits. They thought the government (the people) would benefit from taking over, owning, and operating various industries, but they found this not only wiped out the taxes the government must go into the private industry but that additional taxes had to be raised to pay the losses of these nationalized industries.

We are now hearing the same cry from organized labor in our country. "Take us out of profit!" When labor union members say that, they are destroying their own future and the future of their children. If the corporation is not allowed to earn a decent profit, then there is no inducement for the stockholder who is often the working man himself — to hold his shares and there is no inducement for anyone else to invest his money in the enterprise. That means the corporation must go into the open market and borrow money to finance itself instead of relying on the cooperative investment of shareholders. But the ability to borrow money under such conditions doesn't last long.

There are then two alternatives: the corporation either goes out of business or it is taken over as a government-owned, nationalized project. In the first case, the workers lose their jobs; in the second case, they lose their freedom.

uses may well be used to these words of Benjamin Franklin. It is time we learned to live on our income, to make dollars we have do what is useful instead of merely appropriating dollars that must be created through debt to spend ourselves into destitution.

Of course, the working man might think he would not be hurt if the government took over. The trades unions of Great Britain welcomed government ownership and operation; they thought they would be better off than ever. It they were again disillusioned; they soon found they had no place in a nationalized industry. They found out that the government as an employer was much more ruthless and much harder to deal with than private ownership had ever been. They found out that a government which would destroy private ownership would also destroy organized labor.

It is quite clear that it is to the common interest of all the people of this nation to see that taxes are reduced instead of increased. There is a point beyond which taxation will inevitably destroy the freedom of the whole people, not just part of them, and there are many indications that we are approaching that point. Organized labor cannot escape its share of the responsibility for the future welfare of the nation.

It's Your Money

John Beck

FOOL'S PARADISE TRAGIC ILLUSION: When Goetz observed that the discovery of the double entry was among the greatest accomplishments of the human mind he was not confining his observations to a mere method of bookkeeping. He was thinking of the much broader application. He was thinking that wherever we find a gain or asset of any nature we can also find an equal liability or loss — an eternal balance in the general state of things.

If this concept knocks the notion of total welfare into a cocked hat, it should not be too surprising. Obviously, welfare must be paid for, and if we seek it in the wrong way, the price can be high. There is nothing mysterious about this; it is as simple as it sounds. For 20 years we have thought in terms of social gains and national assets, but now the liabilities and losses are showing up.

The First National Bank of Boston: The distorted financial picture of our present economy is a "tragic illusion." Our "real national wealth is diminishing with the snowballing of federal expenditures." The most discouraging feature (we have to face) is the lack of concern or understanding of fiscal affairs on the part of the top echelon in government circles.

OPPOSITION NIL: The bank publication notes that the spending orgy, now long in progress without signs of diminishing, has met with little public opposition. People apparently believe "that American resources and financial capacity are unlimited, and that our wealth is being expended at a rapid rate, but there has been a slowdown from this rate more recently."

However, says the bank, "during this period the population of the country increased by more than 20 percent. Therefore, in terms of 1929 dollars, per capita wealth in 1948 was more than eight percent below that of 1929." And that is before the current income tax cut, considering the tremendous increase in per capita debt we have acquired since 1933.

PRODUCTIVITY SLIPS: It is noted that the claims of federal government on national income while productivity has not exceeded a three percent a year average expansion (many economists rate it lower), and that for the past two years productivity has not increased at all (National Industrial Conference Board report). Necessary to realize what it means for government to take an ever increasing bite out of a product that cannot keep pace with the bill.

Just as the people at large have been fooled, so has corporate enterprise been taken in by our economic dolesters. But the light is dawning in the field of business. In reporting on the statements of corporations for 1951, the National City Bank of New York warns: "An appraisal current earnings of corporations and generous allowance must be made for the effects of price inflation for the 12 years since 1939."

Rising prices (inflation) not only swell the reported earnings, but ... overstate the rates of return on a corporation's net assets, which in most cases are carried on the books far below their present value. This situation constitutes a "loop-hole" through which billions, if not billions, of dollars are drained out of the economy every year by government in its own interests at the expense of all its citizens. So when next you hear of a "loop-hole," think of this one, the big one, all in favor of big government.

The Boston bank concludes: "Apparently the only way of avoiding disaster lies in the hope that the burdened taxpayers will arouse from their lethargy and insist upon the elimination of waste and extravagance at all levels of government." That's basic if we hope to repair the state of our nation now in a conditional of political and economic decline.

Every effort should be made to break this nexus, not by terminating the alliance, but by self-help which alone can turn the allies from dependants into partners. The need for the largest possible degree of economic self-sufficiency has become paramount, even where this may lead to the employment of less economic means of production. The allocation of sulphur supplies for the next six months emphasizes that need. By decree of the "international" materials conference, the United States is to receive 2,225,000 tons as against 194,000 tons set aside for the United Kingdom. It is difficult to believe that the American demand for sulphur is 10 times greater than the British demand for the United Kingdom. It is time we learned to live on our income, to make dollars we have do what is useful instead of merely appropriating dollars that must be created through debt to spend ourselves into destitution.

hundreds of happy and successful women can testify. The woods, the studios, the theaters and television camps are awash with dames who have a husband and children at home and a professional acting life in public. Every time I see a marriage burst apart on the complaint that you can't be wife and actress, the conflict being too severe to endure, I know where the conflict lies and it isn't on a stage or in the lens of a TV camera. It's a basic inability to make any marriage work and if the girl never heard of show business, she still would have been a bad marriage risk. I will go out still farther on this limb and say that I have made a private bet with myself that I will announce her death in less than three months. But it won't matter. By then she will have reaped a lot of hired publicity for herself.

The little city girl was visiting grandma in the country. Walking in the garden, she saw a peacock for the first time. Little Girl— "I've seen a peacock quick. One of your chickens is in a peacock's feathers."

International Whirligig... Turks Got Needed Assurance By Visit Of Eisenhower

By JOHN FISHER When General Eisenhower flew to Ankara to welcome Turkey as a new member of NATO, he gave the Turks the feeling that they are not alone in confronting their hostile neighbors. They needed such assurance. The Russian Bear always is either showing its fangs or pushing one of its Red cubs into prodding Sofia to step up a war of nerves on Ankara.

Bulgaria sent Turkey a sharp note accusing that nation of harboring "reactionary elements" that have fled from Bulgaria. The Reds maintain that the refugees have been organized by Anglo-American agents into "bandit, diversionist and spy groups" and then sent to Bulgaria "to lead an armed fight against the legal authorities."

Sofia thus charges Ankara with transforming Turkey into a base for hostile actions against a friendly state and hints that serious consequences may follow. Such recklessness reveals the jittery state of mind of the Bulgarian government.

The nation is in the grip of a spy hysteria. Six persons recently went on trial charged with being "terrorists and espionage agents of the U. S. Intelligence Service." One of them, a Bulgarian was accused of parachuting from a plane out of Greece. Two were sentenced to death; three to long prison terms.

RURAL FOLK, REDS CLASH A law has been passed appropriating all printing and engraving equipment including typewriters, ink and stencils. All public meetings are forbidden, except those called by the Communists. Authors and college professors must conform or be punished. "We comrades," boasted Prime Minister Vulko Chervenkov, "should not forget that there is no one to criticize us. We have no opposition and there will not be any opposition in this country."

Nevertheless, resistance always showed up. Even though the peasants' method of persuasion is to keep ruinous taxes on recalcitrants and to a battle the taxes and the sign up. The inactivity of the peasants for the Communist rulers is disclosed in the following yarn circulated in the Balkans: Two commissars accosted a farmer in his field. "What are you planting?" one asked.

The silent peasant refused to reply. The second commissar remarked to his companion, "Don't waste breath on the stubborn mule. Whatever he is planning will come to us in the end." "You bet it will," exploded the farmer. "I'm planting hemp for scaffold rope."

Clashes between rural folk and Red officials often go beyond words. News reached the village of Bregovo in the Voden province that some of the townpeople, who had withdrawn from collective farms, were to have their property confiscated and themselves be deported to the interior. The neighbors rose in revolt. Armed with farm weapons they threatened the militia until reinforcements arrived and crushed the uprising.

IMMIGRANTS INTO BULGARIA The fear of deportation permeates Bulgarian life. Approximately 160,000 Turkish minority members have been expelled from the country. They were harshly treated and arrived in Turkey without goods. American ECA money helped the Turks in re-habilitation measures. Last fall the Turks closed their border to stop the Bulgarian Communist spies into Turkey with the swarms of fugitives. When Turkey joined the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Sofia retaliated by calling off the postwar agreement to repatriate the Turkish minority. Most of the refugees were from the Dobruja region on the Black Sea which borders Bulgaria and Romania. About 100,000 Bulgarians from this area also were deported to different parts of the country. Russian immigrants were settled in the vacuum, thus providing "reliable" inhabitants close to the USSR frontier.

The Russian newcomers have parted from the remaining natives. The port of Varna has been renamed Stalin. More than half of its residents are Soviet citizens. Other newcomers to the area are the prisoners of concentration camps. They are building in Romania a huge Danube-Black Sea canal. The project on the Bulgarian side of the border is a reclamation measure, which the Reds describe as a "gigantic transformation of nature." So many slaves from different countries are in the area that instructions and propaganda are printed in 15 languages.

"MOST SOVIETIZED" One of the Dobruja camps houses women who are forced to crush a daily quota of yellow stones. The Belene camp contains many high ranking political prisoners, including the former mayor of Sofia and several generals. A major had been punished so severely that some of his ribs were fractured. He was permitted to stay in bed for 10 days. Then he was driven to work even though he could not stand on his feet.

The Belene camp, located on the Danube island, is one of the most Sovietized in the Balkans. The prisoners are called at dawn and told until 9 o'clock at night digging drains. Their usual fare is cabbage soup, dry dough and watery cabbage soup. Among the many different religious faiths represented in this camp are the Greek Catholic, the Russian Orthodox, the Bulgarian Eastern Day Adventists. A member of that faith explained to a camp official that his religion forbids work on Saturday, the Sabbath, and asked permission to have that day free, agreeing that he would work on Sunday.

The camp commandant granted the formal request. But the guards beat his face so badly that the victim was disfigured. Prime Minister Chervenkov likes to brag that Bulgaria is the most Sovietized in the Balkans. It already has close language and cultural ties. Its army is Moscow, managed and its economy is patterned after the Soviet system. And the spirit of the government that uses the sweat of tortured slaves in the same sacred spirit that characterized Moscow, Bulgaria may well be the next republic to be added to the USSR.

Plans Are Underway To Form 'Friends Of Library' Here

Plans are afoot to establish a Friends of the Library group in Pampa. A local group heard Ray Janeway, Texas Tech librarian, discuss the value of such a group Friday night. Through Friends, a public relations program can be carried out which will spread the use of library facilities throughout the community, Janeway said. Libraries are "dull" to newspaper readers because seldom does anything sensational or new happen in them," the speaker asserted. "Through a Friends committee, more persons can get to know the services the library has to offer." In other communities, Friends have contributed tangible goods, such as money and books, and intangibles, such as good-will. "Your Friends should be kept to the local situation," he said. Services which can be established include discussions of the American Heritage and the Great Books and inclusion of record and film media. Janeway said Friends can be helpful if the problems of taxation or censorship become vexing to the library.

He told of starting "things to film" developments which some Friends could prepare the community could hold on film a 20-minute film. This included micro-page book.

Shamrock Editor Completes 20th Year On Paper

Arval Montgomery, genial editor of the Shamrock Texan, is completing his 20th year as head of the local weekly. Just out of high school, Montgomery joined the Texan staff in 1932. He has produced a newspaper that was judged one of the nation's top weeklies in 1951, receiving highest honors in a contest sponsored by New York publishers for weekly papers. "I didn't know much about a newspaper then," Montgomery says modestly, "but the years forced me to learn." He scorns a mere 40-hour week, often burning the midnight oil and frequently working 60 or more hours. His partners in the enterprise, which recently moved to a sharp-looking new building on Main street, are Albert Cooper, publisher, and Bill Howe, advertising manager.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Haseo—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: Three famous baseball uniforms, Nos. 3, 4 and 5, have been retired by a major league club. What was the club and who wore the uniforms?

FOR NEARLY FOUR YEARS NOW WE HAVE BEEN throwing a lot of roses toward the Pampa schools' athletic organization and team, so we feel that we are entitled to an occasional fistful of thorns, too. And each spring it seems there is some reason for doing just that. Where the blame lies, we aren't definitely sure, but we have been unable to uncover any worthy reason for the failure of Pampa High school to participate in ALL the spring sports that the kids want to play.

Last year it was track that was dropped. This year baseball. And golf has never gotten a good break while tennis apparently is out of the question.

But back to this year, and the dropping of baseball. We were on vacation when that official action took place at Lubbock. Having been back for a week we have had many objections to the action taken from adults, students and parents alike. So we have taken a week to find out what we could about the move.

A conversation with Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools, went something like this: "Mr. Kinard, could you give me the official reason why baseball was dropped this year?"

"We felt that we could handle with baseball, spring (football) training and track. We didn't have too many returning players. We decided that we had more than we could say grace over and wanted to get back to spot with track. We wanted to be doing it (playing baseball), and I personally hated terribly to drop it, because I like baseball perhaps better than any other sport. We are just trying to spread out too thin on too many things."

It's true that the spring brings an overload of sports of all kinds with track, baseball, golf and spring football practice. And it's also true that Pampa is the smallest school in District 1-AAAA. But not much smaller than Borger, which is playing baseball and having track also.

As for returning players, a check with the box score of the final game of last year, which saw the Harvesters beating the Borger Bulldogs for the second time as Ed Dudley pitched a three-hitter, showed that six of the starters are still in school and eligible for this year. There is probably no other team in the district that had two-thirds of its team return. Who gave Mr. Kinard that misinformation about returning veterans we don't know. How many track veterans came back after not participating in track last year?

It was a good idea to get back on the spot with track, all right. Pampa took a pretty good roasting all over for dropping the sport, especially right after spring football practice had been voted back. But why trade one sport for the other... let's have both. Pampa is drawing bad publicity now over the baseball deal. Amarillo's papers have taken us to task as well as Borger.

Says Glen Elkins at Borger: "The Bulldogs are, however, carrying on as well balanced a sports program as most schools' their size. Pampa has dropped baseball be-

Doug Ford Paces Jacksonville Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — (P) — Doug Ford, former amateur star from Harrison, N.Y., drove to the half-way lead in the Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament with a seven-under-par 137 here Saturday.

Ford backed up his first round 69 with a 68 early in the day and the rest of the star-laden field whacked away all day without denting it.

Bob Toski, 25-year-old Northampton, Mass., professional, and the veteran Jim Turnesa finished at 138, one stroke back of Ford. Toski had a 71 and Turnesa 68 on their second round over the 6,508-yard Hyde Park course.

Bobby Locke, Johannesburg, South Africa, and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., were bracketed with Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., Earl Stewart, Jr., Dallas, and Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N.Y., at 139.

Jack Burke the Texan who is gunning for his fifth straight PGA tournament victory made up a little ground with a 69 for a 36-hole total of 141.

The third round is scheduled Sunday and the wind-up of the 72-hole tournament comes Monday.

Aegean ran second and Reighs Bull, the favorite, was third. Phil D. owned by W. C. Martin, of Stratford, Tex., was ridden by Ray York of San Diego.

Dickey came into the game in the eighth with the score tied 6-6. He was reached for two singles and a walk, loading the bases, and Bob Ramazzotti fly scored the winning run.

Bob Kelly, who entered the game in the seventh for the Cubs, was the winner.

Ginger Rogers won a Charleson contest in Fort Worth, Texas, and thereby entered upon the career that led to movie stardom.

Gal Grapplers Here Thurs.

Pampa wrestling fans will be treated to a "first" in Pampa next Thursday night when promoter Howard Vineyard presents girl wrestlers for the first time. They will meet in the 60-minute main event, best two out of three falls.

Lorraine comes from a sports-minded family, her father having been an amateur boxing champion for a number of years. She was a great high school athlete herself. Jo Ann found the game of being a stenographer too tight so turned to professional wrestling.

They will be supported on the card by John Povich of Hungary and Tommy Martindale of Milwaukee, who will meet in a 20-minute, one fall preliminary.

There will also be another match announced later this week, Vineyard said. It will be a 45-minute, two out of three falls.

Reserved seat tickets will be placed on sale from 1-6 p.m. Wednesday at the Sportsman's Store and from 5 p.m. on Thursday at the Southern Club.

Yankees Outlast Redlegs, 11-8

TAMPA, Fla. — (P) — Both the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Redlegs took off hitting slumps Saturday as the world champions won an 11-8 slugfest.

The Yankees slashed seventeen hits, including homers by Jack Jensen and Gil McDougald.

Wally Pate and Eddie Pelligrini pounded three-run homers for the Reds, who now have dropped five straight games.

Allie Reynolds, the Yankees' double-no-hit ace, was the only pitcher of distinction. He worked five scoreless innings at the start.

As Jim McDonald, righthander secured from the St. Louis Browns last winter, was slammed in the final four.

Four Redleg hurlers, including Frank Hiller and Bill Bevens, were pounded by a Bomber batting order which had been held to seven runs in the previous 46 innings. Hiller yielded both the round trippers.

Giants Bump Frisco Seals

SAN FRANCISCO — (P) — Big Jim Hearn became the 112nd pitcher of the New York Giants to go as far as seven innings as the National League champions defeated the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League, 8-3, Saturday.

Hearn gave up seven hits, three walks and all three San Francisco runs before pitcher Montie Kennedy took over to hurl two scoreless innings.

RALEIGH, N. C. — (P) — Center Bob Zawoluk led an amazing St. John's of Brooklyn team to a brilliant 64-57 victory over highly favored Kentucky last night in the title game of the eastern NCAA regional play-offs.

Zawoluk set a new NCAA individual scoring record with 28 points.

The Redmen thus will represent the East in the national finals at Seattle, Wash., next week.

McGuire showed 11,200 spectators the underdogs of Coach Frank Reynolds collected that a control game mixed with some accurate shooting could manage the Wildcats, the nation's No. 1 team and defending NCAA titlists.

The defeat snapped a 23-game winning streak for the usually high-scoring Kentuckians.

St. John's began to mold its upset in the first period. It was the deadly hook shooting of Zawoluk that set the stage. He dropped in 16 points in the first half.

KANSAS CITY — (P) — Texas Christian University's Horned Frogs beat an ice-cold New Mexico A&M Aggie team 61 to 44 for consolation honors in the NCAA's district one basketball playoffs last night.

The University of Kansas Jayhawks (23-2) and St. Louis University Billikens (23-7) met for the right to play in the national finals at Seattle next week.

It was strictly no contest after Texas Christian sprinted to a 17-9 lead at the quarter. The Southwest Conference champions were in mind for a few minutes in the first period. Penn State managed to draw even at 8-8 then, but they never were able to close the distance from then on out. Two quick goals by Thompson and 6-7 forward Bobby Speight shot the Pack ahead where it remained.

CHICAGO — (P) — Dayton's fast-running flyers belted Princeton 77-61 to take third place in the NCAA regional basketball tourney at the Chicago Stadium last night.

Dayton, runner-up in the recent NIT tourney, zoomed to a 19-point lead at 46-27 in the second quarter behind center Don Meineke's sharp play. That tamed the Tigers.

Meineke, more than a match for Princeton's 6-8 center Foster Cooper, bagged 26 points. Dayton's Ernie Olson should be a high school champion instead of Amarillo.

Amarillo found it has used an ineligible man in beating Odessa out by a single point in the recent meet.

Of course, we don't want an ineligible athlete competing but officials can do nothing until a protest is filed. Bob Cohen, president of the Olympics, said.

Thus far there has been no protest from Odessa or any other team, Cohen added.

Brewster County, Texas' largest county, is bigger than Delaware, Rhode Island, and the District of Columbia combined.

Rich Get Richer, Poor Poorer In High School Football, Recent Survey Shows

(Does high school football pay? You're rich living. It's money in the bank. The rich, indeed, are getting richer.

Let's take a look at the quadruple A's, the super conference of Texas. They've got a lot of boys, a big coaching staff, a fine stadium and a lot of people to watch them play football.

Lubbock, the 1951 state champion, grossed $183,943.24 during its 13-game season and wound up with a net profit of $43,598.46.

Odessa, with a better-than-average team, took in $95,963.20 and shared a respectable $30,485.22. Amarillo, another 1-AAAA club playing 10 games this year, they'll drag down a bit, then have enough left over to pay for basketball, baseball and track.

Climb down out of the clouds, buddy, before you fall down. If you lived in one town in the Panhandle, you shelled out 300 bucks for every person in your family, you put your high school team could field a football team. Of course, it's exceptional there. Some schools even made money.

If you lived in a town that had a Class A or Class B school, the football probably didn't come near paying for itself. Say your team supported a Class AA team. The chances are it made a little money. But when you're in a city, handle a AA school's made mon-

Oilers Open Spring Training Camp This Week At Cuero

This is the week that the limit being eight. Along the way the bus will pick up Haggard, Auerbach and Volow in Fort Worth. They will be joined at Cuero by Molberg, Baldwin, Holmesly, Sudol, Moore and Woldt.

Davis Battles NY Champion

NEW YORK — One of the Texas Panhandle's greatest pound for pound fighters, Kenneth Davis of Clarendon, will seek his second intercity Golden Gloves championship here tomorrow night. He will be fighting at the 126-pound weight for the Chicago team which will meet the New York east coast Golden Gloves champions at Madison Square Garden.

Following tomorrow night's bout, Davis, along with members of both teams, will prepare to leave for Europe and a five-week tour of the Continent, meeting Golden Gloves teams from most European countries. Last year Davis, who is now stationed with the Marine Recruiting Depot in Los Angeles, won the international championship at his weight.

His probable opponent tomorrow night will be Isaac Christud of Newark, who defeated Daniel Joseph of Lowell, Mass., for the New York crown.

The Oilers have carded an 11 game spring training schedule. The program includes three games at Pampa and one at Amarillo while the others will be played downstate. The complete schedule:

April 3, Amarillo at Cuero; April 4, Amarillo at Gonzales; April 6, Roswell at Pleasanton; April 7, Amarillo at Gonzales; April 9, Amarillo at Cuero; April 11, Roswell at Cuero; April 15, Plymouth Oilers at Sinton; April 16, Plymouth Oilers at Cuero; April 18, Amarillo at Pampa; April 19, Amarillo at Amarillo; April 20, Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers College at Pampa.

In the biggest trade of the week within the league, the Albuquerque Dukes sent a hard hitting outfielder, Joe Fortin, to the Lobo in exchange for punchhitting Pedro Santiago, the Puerto Rico flash, and a nonveteran pitcher, Fortin, who formerly played at Lamesa, was expected to help take up some of the hitting punch slack lost when the Lobos sold shortstop Glen Selbo to Abilene. Fortin has been making his winter home in Pampa.

O'Sullivan To N-S Finals

PINEHURST, N.C. — Pat O'Sullivan, the scintillating slugger from Orange, Conn., and 19-year-old Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., Saturday scored impressive North and South Golf Tournament semifinal victories.

Personable Pat, seeking a record-equalling third straight title, threw five birdies at Mrs. H. S. Covington of Orangeburg, S. C., and finished even with par to take a 4 and 2 decision. Little Barbara also finished even with par as she scored a 4 and 3 victory over Margy Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich.

The 18-hole championship match will be played today. Both Barbara and Pat led by three up at the turn with a 37, par as she scored a 4 and 3 country club course.

Barbara never trailed after opening with four fours for an early three up lead.

Pat lost the first hole to a par four as she missed a six-foot putt for a half, but then she grabbed the next five to continue her pattern of the past two years. She has usually raced into a comfortable lead and then they fought off her challenges on the back nine.

From the second through the sixth, 25-year-old Pat was unbeatable as she birdied three holes and parred two others to win them all.

Cecil Isbell To Help Coach Texans

DALLAS — (AP) — Cecil Isbell, the Texan who starred at Purdue and in professional football, Saturday was named backfield coach of the Dallas Texans of the National Football League.

Jim Phelan, head coach and general manager of the Texans, announced the appointment. Isbell was assistant coach of the Chicago Cardinals last year.

Isbell is an older brother of Larry Isbell, all-America quarterback at Baylor last fall.

Isbell, 37, is a native of Topeka, Kan., but played high school football at Houston.

Purdue where he starred in 1935, 1936 and 1937.

He was a passer and runner for Green Bay from 1938 to 1942 and was all-pro in 1940, 1941 and 1942.

Isbell still holds the league record for touchdown passes in consecutive games, tossing for scores in 23 contests in a row.

Isbell was backfield coach at Purdue in 1943 and head coach in 1944, 1945 and 1946. He returned to professional football in 1947 as head coach of Baltimore.

He directed that team until it quit the pro league in 1949.

Woodrow Wilson Tops Sam Houston

Two successfully converted free throws in an overtime period gave the Horace Mann grade school team a 14-12 victory over the Baker school quintet.

Converting the free pitches were Carl Jeter and Hillis. High point men for the winners were Jeter and Gendorf, with five points each, while Cooke and Whisenant paced the losers with four each.

In the other game, Woodrow Wilson's strong sub led over the Sam Houston quintet, 23-13. Langford led the winners with 10 points, followed by Gene Green with six.

Woodrow Wilson paces the league with an undefeated record in five games.

Panhandle Relays Postponed Week

PANHANDLE — (Special) — Inclement weather forced postponement of the sixth annual Panhandle Relays scheduled for here yesterday. The huge event, which had an original field of 26 high schools entered, has been rescheduled for next Saturday afternoon.

Many of the teams originally entered will be unable to participate next week due to previous commitments, and therefore a new deadline for entering will be made for next week.

Dimmitt High school is the defending champion.

Cardinals Whip Tigers In Eleven

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, involved in their sixth extraordinary game in 11 days, lost a 5-4 decision to the Detroit Tigers Saturday in 12 innings.

Pitcher Ed Ludwig, who went to the mound for the Cards in the 11th, gave up the winning run. He walked George Kell, who advanced on a sacrifice and scored on a single by Vic Wertz.

GIVE UP — Gabby Hayes, wearing his 16-year-old beard, started when Billy Hickson first began wrestling professionally, draws a head on the popular wrestler while the two were combining efforts on a polo drive in East Texas a short while ago. The tall-tale telling movie, radio and television star is a close friend of Hickson's.

Versatile Billy Hickson Can Write, Play, Sing, Wrestle

Billy Hickson, Knoxville, Tenn., gift to professional wrestling, is a man of many trades other than grunting and growling. Speedy, as Hickson likes to label himself (an very appropriate too) is the capable head man in a western string band and has spent a good share of his years in the other ring sport, boxing.

With his string band, which is now working out a radio and television schedule in Iowa, Hickson writes a little music, sings a bit more in his chock-scrapped baritone, and plays a lot more on a golden guitar.

"I can't read a note," said Billy last week, "but I can pick it out by ear and really enjoy doing it. I'll be the first to admit that I'm no Frank Sinatra or Eddie Arnold. There's no sense of making claims you can't back up. But I do enjoy that work and hope someday to get organized to take my band on the wrestling circuit with me."

That would be something to behold — a group of musicians putting their instruments aside, engaging in a wrestle royal for half an hour, and then returning to their instruments for some greamy waltz music.

The Hickson family includes six boys. Four of them have been professional fighters and

Not too long ago he worked on a polo drive with garrulous Gabby Hayes, the tall-tale teller of the movies who is also heard over KPDM weekly, and his cowboy cronie, Monte Hale, popular Top o' Texas rodeo guest puncher. Billy had to wrestle that night, so Gabby went into the ring as his official second. The referee called the boys out to the center to talk over the rules and Gabby followed his wrestler. As the referee started to lay down the law, the be-whiskered Hayes pulled out a long six-shooter and said "No need for those, mister, this is going to be a clean match." And it was.

Hickson's likeable personality, coupled with his speed and shiftness in the ring, make him a popular wrestler wherever he may be working. Recently he has been running into Pat O'Dowdy of Big Spring in the Pampa ring. But it's nothing new to Hickson. He's got scars on his right wrist to show where he and O'Dowdy tangled one time — out of the ring.

Lamesa Golf Pro Resigns Post

LAMESA — (AP) — Dick Julich, golf professional at the Lamesa Country Club since July 1, 1951, resigned Saturday to accept a job as pro at the Enid, Okla., Meadow Lake Club.

Turner Ready For Shot At Gavilan

NEW YORK — (AP) — A July title fight between undefeated 21-year-old Gil Turner and welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan was in the making today following the Philadelphia sensation's seven round technical knockout of Don Williams Friday night.

Young Gil, a ball of fire all the way in his Madison Square Garden triumph, said "I'm ready for Gavilan. Bring him on."

George Katz, Turner's manager, said "a Gavilan - Turner bout in Philadelphia this July would draw $350,000, including television and radio money."

"I've turned down three non-title fights with Gavilan for Turner," added Katz. "We want that title shot. The kid's ready now, one in May, and then rest him for the July fight. We'd have to wait until then because of the coming Ezzard Charles - Jersey Joe Walcott fight in June."

Matchmaker Al Weill of the International Boxing Club said he would do what he could about making the title fight.

Garden and TV fans really got an eyeful in Turner. He froze a little in his Garden and TV debut but with Vic Cardell on Dec. 28, although he won by a wide margin. Against Williams, who lost by a shade to Gavilan in Boston last month, Turner wasted no time. He started throwing leather from the opening bell and hardly stopped for a moment.

In the seventh round of the scheduled ten, he belted the slender Worcester, Mass., champion with 110 punches by boxing writers' count. At the end of the seventh, Referee Ray Miller called in Dr. Vincent Nardiello for a consultation and then the official stopped the bout. It was listed as a seventh round TKO under New York rules.

Turner weighed 147 1/2 to Williams' 146 1/2. It was his 30th consecutive victory. He has scored 23 knockouts.

It is so far from El Paso to Austin that an early-day senator, traveling with a wagon train for safety against the Indians, did not reach Austin until the legislature had met, transacted all its business and adjourned.

Texans Complete Exhibition Card In State; Play Five

DALLAS — (Special) — The most promising team in professional football will make its first appearance in Texas against a pro rival when the Dallas Texans battle the Philadelphia Eagles in Odessa Friday night, August 29.

The Texans, built around a nucleus of fine veterans, have added some of the outstanding college griders of the 1951 season to their roster, including a half dozen players from the Southwest conference. The University of Texas provides three Texans choices in ends Paul Williams and John Adams and tackle Jim Lanford, William Ward, Arkansas guard; Russ Hudeck, Texas A&M tackle and TCU's brilliant back, Gil Bartosh, round out the Texas contingent.

Bartosh still has another year to play at TCU.

The Dallas club, playing as the New York Yankees, had one of the most potent offenses in the league last year, operating from a tricky spread and a powerful T formation installed by Coach Jim Phelan. A pair of fine quarterbacks in George Ratterman (Notre Dame) and Bob Celeri (California) operated the Phelan offense and brilliant running by Claude (Buddy) Young of Illinois; George Tulaferro, All America from Indiana; Zelle (Tugboat) Toth, giant LSU full back and Sherman Howard (Nevada), gave the club a terrific punch on the ground. A pair of adept pass receivers at end in Dan Edwards and Dan Garza complemented the passing of Celeri and Ratterman to give the team a varied attack.

Phelan's team was handicapped early in the race by a slow start. Jim was hired as coach after the club had been in training camp a week and it took quite a while to install and polish his offense. By the end of the national football league season, the Yanks — now Texans — were one of the toughest clubs in the loop.

Exhibition Schedule: Thursday, Aug. 23 — Carswell AFB at Corpus Christi. Friday, Aug. 29 — Philadelphia Eagles at Odessa.

Friday, Sept. 5 — Washington Redskins at San Antonio. Friday, Sept. 12 — Detroit Lions at Dallas.

Sunday, Sept. 21 — Chicago Cardinals at Houston. Home league schedule: Sunday, Sept. 28 — New York Giants 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 5 — San Francisco 49ers 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18 — Green Bay Packers 8:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 9 — Los Angeles Rams 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 30 — Chicago Bears 2 p.m.

Spoon Lure Began As A Teaspoon

By AL McCLANE
Fishing Editor

We sat up through the wee hours this morning listening to a fellow talk about a new lure he's putting on the market. It's a spoon whose shape provides a high-lift hydrofoil, allowing for maximum motion through any speed range. Because of its calculated instability under induced spin, it breaks rotation from one direction to the other.

A spoon, in case you forget, is a metal blade looking much like the business end of a sawed-off teaspoon. Fish grab a spoon under the impression that they are grabbing a smaller fish who's suffering from a handover or a broken landing gear as he wobbles under the cannibal's nose.

Getting just the right wobble is not simple these days — because fish and fishermen demand more realism in their baits. Modern lure makers spend months calculating the relation of weight to mass in thousands of curvatures before marketing a finished product.

The oldest fishing lures in the world. The probable date of their origin is about 3000 B.C. The ancient Romans used polished clam shells equipped with various types of metal and stone hooks, later using crudely carved metal discs.

The progress of spoon design never was along well-defined lines. It wasn't until 1834 that an American angler really did something to qualify for the title of "spoon inventor."

The student was one Julio T. Buel, a man of unlimited and extravagant imagination. Julio selected pure silver for his artificials, as he reasoned that this was the nearest to the color of a fish's belly. But this is getting ahead of the story.

Around 1819, young Julio tossed some white pebbles in a brook as kids will, but the Vermont youngster noticed trout rising to them. The seed of invention was sown. While eating his lunch on a lake one day, he accidentally dropped a teaspoon overboard. As the spoon sank, he noticed the peculiar twists and turns it made in the water.

Julio had been experimenting on bits of bright tin with a hook soldered at which revolved in the water when retrieved, but the convex face was a new idea.

Young Julio's first effort was in Lake Bownoseen, the lure — an old brass teaspoon on which he had soldered a hook. The line was tied to the broken handle end. His catch was phenomenal. Nobody reported what he caught, but we can assume the kid knocked himself out, as he always did things in a big way.

Being a perfectionist, Julio spent several years in working over the finest details of proper spoon design. He applied for, and received, the first patent for trolling baits in 1834. The result was that the manufacture of spoons was begun by him in 1848 at Whitehall, New York. To this day Buel spoons are still taking fish.

Samples Bids For Spot On NTSC Squad

DENTON, Tex. — (Special) — Ronny Samples, a member of the golf team while at Pampa high school, hopes to play on the national collegiate champion team of North Texas State College someday.

Meanwhile, he spends much of his spare time on the golf course. He did not make the 1000 yard Eagle squad this year but he may do so next year or the next.

Samples, as a young golfer eager to learn, has the advantage of advice from other Eagle golfers, among them National Amateur champion Billy Maxwell, captain of the North Texas State golf team. And he is under the tutelage of Fred Cobb, whose teams have won the National Collegiate Athletic Association team title for the past three years.

As Coach Cobb says, "Ronny and other young players can hardly expect to break into the lineup right away. But if a boy is willing to work and eager to learn, we intend to give him every chance to improve himself. Many of the boys who will be sitting on the sidelines this year would be good enough to make college teams elsewhere."

Samples has not participated in tournaments here but he has a string of competitive play well recorded before his enrollment at North Texas. He has played in tournaments at Colorado Springs, Altus, Lubbock, and in the Top of Texas tourney, among others.

The NTSC team this season won the Border Olympics golf title and took first and second places in the Southwest Recreation meet in Fort Worth.

Why don't you try a backpacking hike this summer? It will do something for you that nothing else will accomplish. You reap mental as well as physical benefit. It gives you a feeling of self-reliance and you will be absolutely on your own and no longer dependent upon anyone.

Thousands of people take such vacations every year on the rough Appalachian Trail in the East and on the John Muir Trail in the West. They travel over the Rocky, Appalachian and Ozark mountains, carrying everything on their backs. Others have just as much fun although they travel no farther than to the little stretches of wild country near their homes. Even the crowded metropolitan area of New York has its Catskill Mountains and its Bear Mountain State Park.

You will enjoy your outing most if you leave your city habits behind. Do not make specific plans. The best thing of all, it seems to me, is to wander about in a more or less footloose fashion, simply enjoying yourself.

You'll find lists for gear and grub at sporting goods stores, libraries, and in the outdoor magazines. But here are a few additional hints from Colonel Townsend Whelen, noted camping authority.

Shoes for all-day summer or fall hiking should be light with tops never over seven inches high and with corrugated rubber or composition soles. Get them one size larger and wider than your city shoes. To break them in properly, stand in three inches of water for 10 minutes, then go for a hike until the shoes dry on your feet. Afterwards rub them with boot grease. Always wear medium-weight wool socks.

Your food should be the kind that produces energy. Pass up most dehydrated foods which lack energy but seem attractive because of their light weight. There are certain light foods however that pay for themselves — such as powdered milk and instant powdered coffee.

Usually I find it best to plan only two meals a day with a bit of sweet chocolate in between. Hunt or fish in the early morning before breakfast or after your 5 o'clock supper, since these are the most productive hours. After breakfast, start on your hike and stop at the first good camping spot that you come to in the early afternoon.

Had several interesting things happen on the golf front this past week.

R. M. Samples hit the perfect shot on No. 14 Thursday, knocking the ball into the cup with one blow using his trusty niblick from the 125-yard tee. Congratulations, R. M., and condolences to your opponents who witnessed the shot, R. A. Baker, Mickey Frigmore, and Frank Lawler. Here are the figures on how soon you should make another such shot — Out of every 45,000 strokes on all par three holes the country over, one of those balls will go into the cup for the shot every golfer dreams of, so keep on trying.

Les Speer, the village inn-keeper, hit one for the books the other day. His tee shot on No. 11 came to rest about 130 yards from the pin. After making the proper selection as to the club he needed for the forthcoming shot he calmly stepped up the ball, zered in on the pin, made proper adjustments with the feet, took a slow backswing and knocked the ball into the cup for an eagle two on a par four hole. The boy, Les, golfer Hope Fuller reads this!

Johnny Clark, the long, tall, pleasant smiling boy who learned his golf under Fred Cobb at North Texas, drove the ball onto the green on the same hole where Speer made his two. Johnny needed for the cup for another eagle on the same hole on the same day. Johnny's drive covered 330 yards. Some lick, huh?

First meet of the Panhandle Men's Golf Association will be held March 30 at the Phillips Country Club. Play will be on a match play basis, at three points per match with the team compiling the most points at the end of the four meets declared champions. All players interested in playing next Sunday are urged to leave their names at the golf shop by 7 p.m. March 29.

April 5 will see the summer playing rules go into effect. Groups will consist of five players or less.

I hear where Malcolm Douglass is doing a fine job in his No. 1 position for the golf team at Texas A&M. He and teammate Johnny Barrett won their doubles matches against Hardin-Simmons players last week. Douglass won his singles in that match with a one-over round. Against Houston U., Malcolm birdied the last three holes to win the singles and doubles for his school. This boy started his golfing career as a Pampa High school player several years ago, and in the eyes of Johnny Austin is undoubtedly the best young player to ever come from the Top O' Texas.

DOG NOTES

LEFT-HANDED PATTED DOGS would affect the offspring of any Nine times out of ten you pat later breeding. Yet, the idiotic idea you dog with your right hand, crops out fresh every now and then. This is not true all over the then, needing new denial. Only re-world. Ask any ex-service man, certainly one of my readers sent me who served in the Middle East a newspaper clipping from some Africa in the last war and he will question-and-answer column where tell you that practically all of this theory was related as being native dogs approached their left true. It isn't. Never has been and side when coming to them for never will be. morsel of food or a friendly pat.

There was a reason for this. IS HE A FIGHTER

For generations the Arabs and Moslems have considered the dog and would he rather pick a fight or clean. Yet, they do have a than eat? If so he is a menace and definite respect for dogs but avoid a pest. He is nothing to be proud touching them except with their left hands. One never sees these natives patting a dog except with his left hand. All dogs in that part of the world have learned that part if he is tackled or in his man's contact, with them is left-master's defense, but of the dog handed, hence for generations they that goes around picking fights have learned to approach man from for the fun of it, or whose owner encourages him to fight. This type of dog has no right anywhere.

Clinic Held For Harvester Golfers

The Pampa Harvester golf team, and other interested adult golfers, sat in on a 90-minute special golf clinic at the Country Club Friday afternoon. The clinic was conducted by popular George Aulbach of the Amarillo Country Club, who was assisted by the Pampa professional, Johnny Austin.

Aulbach, who coaches the fine Amarillo Sandie golf team, gave a personal demonstration of what to do right and what not to do in the basic fundamentals of the game. He also took care of the audience' problems in a question and answer session.

In addition, he showed four movies dealing with the fundamentals of the game, the advanced fundamentals and showed films of various golfing greats in action. Included in that list were Horton Smith, Sam Snead, Ray Mangrum, Patty Berg, Dick Metz, Jimmy Thompson, Willie Turnesa, and some of Texas' greatest golfers, Reynolds Smith, Gus Moreland, Dave Goldman, Harry Todd, Jack Mungler, Henry Picard, Ed White, Betty Jameson, Rufus King, Craig Wood, Mrs. Dave Chandler, Don Schumacher, and the great Byron Nelson.

Earlier in the day, Aulbach spoke to the Pampa Kiwanis Club, presenting a golf talk and movie to the Kiwanians.

SMU Grads To Organize

A meeting of all alumni of Southern Methodist university living in the Pampa area has been scheduled at 8 p.m. Monday in the home of Cleon C. Hemmell, 1800 Hamilton.

"The alumni association at SMU has written me that there are more than 25 alumni living in the Pampa, vicinity," Hemmell said.

"We want to invite all of these alumni members and their wives or husbands to meet with us Monday evening. We want to determine if there is enough interest to form a Pampa Mustang Corral."

Mustang Corral meetings are scheduled all over the country Monday. Reunion dinners and informal meetings in 63 Texas cities have been planned and across the nation 75 more meetings are set.

Focal point of these meetings will be the observance at SMU where the first distinguished alumnus awards will be made.

Department Store Sales Take Drop

DALLAS — (AP) — Department store sales in principal Texas cities, last week continued their downward trend compared with the similar 1951 period.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, in its weekly report, said sales dropped 27 percent at El Paso compared with the corresponding 1951 week. Dallas sales were down three percent. Only Houston, with a two percent increase, was on the up side.

Pampa Family Keeps Old Book Collection

Books, someone once said, are a man's best friends. This may be especially true when those books are old family treasures like those kept by Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Foley, of 407 W. Thut.

Foley, a ditch machine operator, and his wife have kept gathering books "as we went through life."

McGuffey's "Eclectic Spelling Book" and the "blueback" elementary spelling work revised from Noah Webster's work are two of the oldest and most prized books in the Foley collection. They are believed to have been used by members of their own family as they received schooling.

Other members of the Foley family haven't been as school book conscious as the Pampa Foleys and so have contributed their texts to the collection. One of Mrs. Foley's grand fathers, a resident of Taylor, Texas, will be 105 years old April 9.

The old books give their son, Richard, 11, a fifth grade pupil in Baker school, an opportunity to compare his books with what used to be used. "They have harder words to spell," he says. "The new books, of course, have new words. But to Richard, they are easy to handle."

Fisher Enters Hemphill Co. Judge Race

CANADIAN — (Special) — Edward C. (Clancy) Fisher, Canadian attorney and onetime county judge, tossed his hat in the political ring this week as a candidate for the office of County Judge and Ex-Officio County Superintendent of Schools.

Fisher will oppose County Judge H. M. (Hez) Wood, who has announced as a candidate for re-election, in the Democratic primary elections in July.

Judge Fisher was succeeded by Wood in 1946, when he retired from office after serving 10 1/2 terms (1937-1946) as County Judge.

Fisher has served Canadian as city attorney, an appointive post, since retiring from county office, and has continued his private law practice.

He is a World War I veteran, having served overseas as a captain with the American Expeditionary Forces in France; and has been active in American Legion affairs. He is a past commander of the Zvabach Owens Post here.

County Conservation Work Cost $59,395 During 1951

Conservation practices in Gray county cost $59,395.19 in 1951. The Gray county office of the production and marketing administration announced Saturday.

The federal money is used as an incentive to farmers to follow soil conservation practices to prevent soil depletion. Most costly of the conservation services were dams on 37 farms, amounting to $14,019.96. Listing and chiseling were the practices carried out by most farms, 179, at a cost of $10,386.90, on 34,623 acres.

Other practices, the extent of the operation, the number of farms, and the amount spent for each practice: Standard terraces, 194,882 feet, 16 farms, $2,397.46; diversion terraces, 97,941 cubic yards, 33 farms, $5,876.46; stalk protection, 8555 acres 67 farms, $2,138.75; summer fallow, 17,628 acres, 147 farms, $10,696.80; water wells, 959 feet, six farms, $1918; sage bush control 1,656 acres, three farms, $1,987.20.

For bindweed control, 43,930 pounds of chlorate and 1,197 pounds of 2,4-D were used on 49 farms, a cost of $4,979.55. 33,050 pounds of superphosphate were used on eight farms, $37.11, and 700 pounds of winter legumes were used on one farm at a cost of $38.50.

In other PMA news, as released in the Gray county farm newsletter, the 1952 final loan rate for Gray county on grain sorghum loan made in 1951 will weight. Barley will be $1.17 a bushel and the oat loan rate will be 83 cents a bushel.

The maturity date on grain sorghum loan made in 1951 will be March 31, 1952. "If your grain sorghum under loan is not redeemed by that time, CCC Commodity Credit Corporation) will take possession of the grain in satisfaction of the loan," PMA said.

Physicist Develops Hailstorm Theory On Northern Lights

ITHACA, N. Y. — (AP) — The Northern Lights, or Aurora Borealis, are celestial hailstorms. The hail is a rain of charged hydrogen atoms coming from the sun.

The verification of this storm has been reported at Cornell university's department of Physics. It was done with instruments which break light into rainbow colors.

Dr. Carl W. Gartlein, Cornell physicist, calculated that if this hail causes the Northern Lights, the instruments would show it when sighted both from directly underneath and from far off to one side.

Underneath the motion would be directly down. From the side the downward movement would appear to be sweeping across, but with scattered motions toward, and away from the southern observer.

These measurements were made and showed the two motions. The sighting directly underneath an aurora was done in Arnprior, Ontario, by H. S. Stevenson, a Canadian government scientist. The lights were sighted from the side at Cornell.

They gave a speed of about 1600 miles a second to the down-rushing hydrogen. Our sun shoots these atoms out from his face by some unknown process.

The Cornell work is sponsored by the Evans Signal Laboratory of the U. S. Signal corps, and the National Geographic society.

It's The Law In Texas: Grand Jury Indictment Often Confused With Conviction

What does indictment by a grand jury mean? Lawyers find that many persons are inclined to confuse indictment by a grand jury with a court conviction for a crime.

This misconception is unfair to anyone who becomes the subject of a grand jury investigation. Justice, in the United States, is based on the theory that a man is innocent until proven guilty, and public opinion should withhold its verdict until the courts have had an opportunity to determine guilt or innocence.

An indictment is simply a written accusation presented by a grand jury to the district judge. It charges some person or persons with a crime. It is NOT a conviction. When a grand jury indicts a person it merely affirms that there is sufficient reason for him or her to stand trial. That is as far as the grand jury goes.

After that, the judge and the trial jury take charge of the case. At the trial the indictment is simply the state's pleading in the case, to which the defendant may plead "not guilty." This trial jury is instructed by the judge that it must not consider the indictment as any evidence of guilt.

All felony offenses in Texas, that is all offenses punishable by imprisonment in the state penitentiary, must be prosecuted on an indictment by a grand jury. A grand jury may indict an individual for a misdemeanor, an offense punishable only by a jail sentence or by fine, but this is rather an unusual procedure.

Misdemeanor cases are customarily prosecuted on the basis of an "information" filed by the county attorney. This serves the same function as a grand jury indictment.

The importance of a grand jury verdict is this: If it votes a "true bill" — that is, if someone is indicted — the district attorney must prosecute the person indicted, but if the jury votes a "no bill" — that is, not to indict — the suspected person cannot be tried.

In most cases, the district attorney informs the grand jury of persons or crimes to be investigated and produces the evidence for it. However, the jury is free to order any further witnesses it may wish to hear brought before it, and is by no means limited to the evidence the district attorney produces.

A grand jury cannot require a suspect to testify before it. But suspected persons sometimes ask to be allowed to appear before a grand jury to testify in their own behalf. They may do so and still be prosecuted and convicted.

The grand jury procedure is one of the basic protections enjoyed by the common man against outrageous procedures of would-be tyrants, and dates from early Anglo-Saxon times. It assures that no person shall be forced to stand trial for a felony on the basis of a malicious or frivolous accusation having no apparent factual support.

When called to serve on a grand jury you share with a group of fellow citizens some of the most solemn responsibilities known to our democracy. Consequences of life-or-death importance may hinge upon your vote.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because an attorney may change the application of the law.)

Twins In Korea Decide It's Better To Be Separated

WITH U. S. THIRD DIVISION, Korea — (AP) — Twins Jacob and Gene Canosa have decided after four months of combat "fighting alongside your brother just doesn't work."

So they split up for the first time in 18 years. The PFCs from Tacoma, Wash., landed in Korea last November. They went into action as automatic riflemen during the bloody battle of Little Gibraltar.

Jacob was wounded in the head in that 41-hour fight. "I almost went crazy trying to locate him on the hill," Gene said.

The wounded twin rejoined Gene a month later in Company F of the 15th regiment. They went out together on several patrols until Gene decided "we were worrying about each other too much."

Gene asked for and got a transfer to the 62nd Military Police company. "I will really seem strange not to have my better half around," Jacob said. "We always did everything together — even dated the same girl in high school."

Amarillo Jet Pilot Gets Commie MIG

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — American Sabres shot down five Communist MIG-15s and damaged five others Thursday, bringing their two day score to six Red jets downed and 12 damaged.

The one MIG kill in Wednesday's three battles was credited to Capt. Robert T. Latawa, Jr., 116 Hillcrest Ave., Amarillo. He damaged another bringing his total score to two destroyed, three damaged.

The jets damaged Wednesday include a new "type 15" Communist plane, "a funny looking bird" rarely seen over Korea. It was a high wing version of the familiar Russian — type MIG-15.

A Fifth Air Force spokesman said the high-wing jets rarely have been seen. This was the first reported hit. The spokesman said it appeared to be more efficient at lower altitudes than the low, swept-wing MIG-15. But it seemed to be about 50 miles an hour slower. It is about two feet longer and had a two foot wider wing span than the MIG-15.

Lt. James Carey of Las Vegas, Nev., said he hit the "type 15" jet in the wing and fuselage. "I found myself on the tail of this funny looking bird."

Library Holds A Gala Opening
BARRHEAD, Alta. — (AP) — Opening of a new library is usually a cut-and-dried affair but the youngsters really whooped it up in this small community north of Edmonton. More than 1300 students and many parents attended the official opening of the second regional library in Alberta.

Twenty-six school buses brought them to the modern Barrhead school. They swarmed through the corridors, inspected the art exhibits, had their fill of hot dogs and soft drinks and heard speeches by government officials. It was topped off by a program of basketball, boxing, tumbling, movies and dancing. Persons who attended the opening bought library membership at $1 each. The money will be used to expand the original stock of books.

Wants Taxes Raised

OMAHA — (AP) — They could hardly believe their eyes in the county attorney's office. The letter received from a woman said her personal property taxes were too low.

She asked an increase, explaining she was ill when assessments were made and her lawyer, who filled out her tax schedule, overlooked some items. Chief Deputy County Attorney Robert C. McGowan, in recommending to the county board that the request for an increase in taxes be granted, said, "Never in our memory has such a request been made."

Cabot Enlarges Its Scholarship Plan

Sons and daughters of employees of Cabot companies will be eligible for additional five scholarships as the plan starts its second year of operation. Applications for the scholarships, worth $500 apiece, will be available at the various plants about April 1.

With the initial year of the scholarship project almost completed, company officials said yesterday they were well pleased with the results. Of the 10 recipients of the first scholarships, nine are continuing their courses of study.

Cabot awarded five scholarships last year to graduating high school seniors and five to undergraduate college students to set up the program.

The purpose of the Cabot scholarship plan is to encourage and assist sons and daughters of Cabot southwestern employees in securing a college education," the company announced.

The scholarships will be awarded on a competitive basis by a special committee composed of representatives from the universities of Texas, Oklahoma, Southern Methodist, and Louisiana State.

Deadline for filing applications will be June 1.

Eligibility is limited to children of those who have been Cabot employees five or more years. Children of deceased or retired employees are also eligible. One of the current recipients is the child of a deceased employee.

"The award of $500 a year may be used by the successful applicant for any purpose incidental to receiving a college education," the companies said. This includes tuition, books, laboratory fees and living expenses.

Winners may attend the college or university of their choice, and if their work is satisfactory, the award may be renewed.

Scholarship holders, their home town, and the colleges they now are attending are:

Gene Garrison, Pampa, at West Texas A. & M.; Hayes, Pampa, New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts; James Jackson, Pampa, Tarleton State college; Harold C. McCray, Pampa, Texas A&M; Robert E. McDonald, Pampa, Hardin - Simmons university; Ruby Nell Norman, Pampa, Northwest Texas hospital school of nursing; Mackie L. Pratt and Carman Thurs-

Cotton Ambassador Honored In Dallas

DALLAS — (AP) — "Terrific, you-all no kidding." That's what the Maid of Cotton thinks about the honors that have come her way already.

She recently left Dallas on her 65,000-mile trip over three continents with the blessings of the city fathers upon her.

For the pretty little (size 12) blue-eyed brunette who was chosen Maid of Cotton at Memphis in January is a citizen of Dallas.

"We could have no better representative than we have in Pat Mullarky," said Mayor J.P. Adoue, Jr. at a luncheon given here in her honor.

"An ambassador with character, grace and intelligence," Tom E. Braniff, airlines president from Dallas, said.

"Proud of her," said Callum Thompson, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

When all the nice things had been said, Pat got up in her brown (cotton) velveteen dress and hat, hung onto the microphone with her white (cotton) gloved hands and took a deep breath.

"Well," she started off. "Why, honestly, I could almost cry. I'm so happy to be here. Boy, honestly, it sure is good to be home. I'll be back home in August. Then I guess I'll take my exams I missed."

"Everybody asks how do you feel, I don't really feel. It's just like there are two of me — but it's mighty nice to be both of me."

"I'm going to be an ambassador, and I hope I can make people see just how wonderful cotton is. Cotton really is 'it'."

Pat is the 20-year-old ambassador of an industry that involves 13 million persons from the farm level to the huge textile mills. At the farm level alone, it's a $4 billion industry.

The first Maid of Cotton was named in 1933 by the City of Memphis, Tenn., to go around to the cities of the south and advertise its annual cotton carnival. In 1940, the National Cotton Council took over the promotion. It's grown bigger every year. Pat will tour larger American cities this year, run over to England and Europe, pick up some cotton dresses in Paris, made by top Paris designers (dresses made of American cotton) and then swoop down to South America.

Factory For India

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — India will have its own penicillin factory in 1953 producing every year 3,600,000,000 units, increasing later to 9 trillion units, official sources here said.

Plans to achieve this objective have been made by the government of India jointly with the World Health Organization and the United Nations International Children's Emergency fund.

The agreement envisages the training of about 30 Indians in Belgium, the United States and Canada for six months on penicillin production. Two have already completed training in Europe.

Scotchman Can't Be Said Scotch

FORT HOOD — (AP) — Andrew Baxter of Goldthwaite, Texas, is a good American who really isn't an American. He also is a Scotchman who isn't "Scotch."

When tiny Goldthwaite (pop. 1586) decided to erect a sign of welcome to its emergency USO center for the thousands of GIs encamped here for the mammoth Army - Air Force maneuver "Exercise Long Horn," the job was given to Baxter, a sign painter who arrived in this country from his native Scotland just six months ago.

Russia Has TV

MOSCOW — (AP) — Pravda reported Wednesday that about 60,000 television sets are in use in Moscow. The Communist party organ said the number included 35,650 installed during 1951 and another 8,000 during the first two months this year.

Television stations also are an indication of the number of receivers there.

The sign, a larger and more elaborate display than had been expected, the USO committee inquired what the cost would be.

"Cost?" asked Baxter in surprise, "why the cost is nothing at all. That's the least a man can do for his country."

SPRING MAY HAVE ARRIVED officially at 10:45 a. m. Thursday morning, but ours arrived at 7:45 a. m. when our laddie greeted us with the following inspired "pome":

Spring has sprung,
The grass is green,
See, I wonder where
Dem flowers is.

The birds is on the wing,
Now ain't that absurd,
When everybody knows
The wing is on the bird.

Ah, such talent! At least it was in the right spirit. One must admit the first day of spring was truly glorious! Really believe the spring cleaning—the tear-everything-apart-and-put-back-together kind—will have to wait until the dust-blowing wind has subsided a bit. Still on the spring subject: noticed a bevy of young misses fluttering down the street in the freshest outfits—full quilted skirts and white sleeveless sweater-blouses... the girls seemed to glow... so pert and oh, so young.

TOOK MY FIRST SUNBATH the other day... got a little pink. Don't see how this pale skin of mine will ever turn into the beautiful golden tan I keep hoping to get. You know, it is so disheartening to work like mad trying to get a tan, sneaking out between household chores, and feeling you have finally attained your goal—then you trip off to the grocery store in a becoming short-sleeved sun dress to really show off your accomplishment; there you meet your neighbor who somehow has managed to sneak out often than you have. You return home feeling very pale and anemic. Oh well, each year I try.

PEG BOWS to Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rexroot. Imagine five children having their tonsils out all at one time. Am sure Mr. Peg and I suffered much more than our little ones did—one at a time.

GUESS EVERYONE had a gay time at the St. Pat's day dance held in Parish Hall Monday night. Didn't get to go myself—went to Shamrock to help the Irish City celebrate its day. My, they certainly go all out when they celebrate.

AM LOOKING FORWARD to the Price College Male Choir concert tonight. It is sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. All of you that are able to should attend—it's free.

THE TEEN-AGERS had a formal ball Friday night in the Palm room. The dance was given by Larry Cox, Kenny Anderson and Mary Young. How sweet and lovely the girls looked... the fellas were mighty handsome, too. They have such wonderful times at these dances... does the old hand good just to watch them.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mrs. F. W. Shottwell who will take over the post of executive secretary of the Red Cross on April 1. Don't forget the coffee and donut rally to be held at 8:00 p. m. in the Palm room Monday. If you are interested in soliciting for the Red Cross, PLEASE be there. Let's all give our support.

LEADERSHIP AWARDS were given Thursday morning to the Girl Scout leaders who have completed courses in basic leadership training. Belonged to the Camp-Fire Girls when I was a little girl. 'Tis their birthday this week—40 something years old, they are. Wasn't a charter member, really wasn't.

SORRY TO HEAR that Jimmy Jordan has been ill again. She is such a pleasant and charming person.

HEARD THAT SEVERAL WIVES are to be fishin' widows this week end. Mrs. W. L. Rowntree and Mrs. W. E. Hinton for two. Don't feel alone, gals... you're not... Peg is one of you. Don't mind too much, but it is difficult being convincing while praising Mr. Peg's angler's ability. Oh, well, the fish taste good even if they are not too large... or too many.

BACK TO (SIGH) SPRING AGAIN. Bought my first flower seeds 't'other day. Don't have too much luck getting things to grow, but have such fun trying. This year will be particularly fun with a new puppy to help plant the seeds. Ha! When and IF the seeds finally turn into blossoms, my beauty-loving daughter picks them as quickly as they bloom. She is forever picking "pretties for Mommy"... no stems. The thought is there, anyway.

SAW CUTE MRS. J. W. GRAHAM, Jr., on her way shopping. Could almost form a club of Pretty Young Mothers with Three Sons (Clever title, huh?) Members would be Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Jack Nimmo, and Mrs. Geo. Cree, Jr. The Jay Gramahs were on the committee in charge of the Sunday night buffet at the country club. Such good food... do believe Mr. Peg was actually embarrassed... I went back for seconds... twice!

DON'T GUESS I'LL EVER grow up. Just love Easter. Have so much fun dyeing and decorating eggs for the kiddies. You should see Mr. Peg's creations.

SAW MARGARET LOCKHART getting outfitted for Easter... beautiful suit, hat, gloves, jewelry and all. A complete ensemble. She will probably be leading the parade.

LADIES IN BOWLING: The Service Liquor bowling team is the first team of women bowlers from Pampa to participate in the Texas Women's State Bowling tournament at San Antonio, returned Tuesday after a successful week end of bowling. The first meeting of the Women's Golf Assn. was marred by hard winds and dust last week, but this week the golfers had a great day on the links.

SEEM TO HAVE JABBBERED mostly about the weather, but after all the beautiful weather we have had most of this week deserves to be jabbered about, Agree?

WELL... must end this jabber from PEG O' PAMPA

WHAT'S COOKIN' IN GRAY COUNTY HD CLUB WORK

By HELEN DUNLAP
Home Demonstration Agent
All the home demonstration club women of Gray County are looking forward to the demonstration in the making of hats to be given in the county court room, Saturday afternoon, March 29. Mrs. E. Westbrook of Phillips, who will give the demonstration, will show the making of one hat and a purse. Although her specialty is making these articles for children, she feels the women can get the principles on hat and purse-making for the adult. She will also give patterns for adult hats to those in attendance.
In making a special visit to her home this week, Mrs. Westbrook gave us the plan for her demonstration and told us more of the types of children and infant wear which she makes. She plans to bring samples of all the articles she handles, as well as a different kind of cut-out articles to be made by the individual.
We found Mrs. Westbrook to be a very busy woman, who works as a secretary in one of the schools in Borger in addition to managing her home and her specialty shop. When she was asked how she began her business, she stated that it was done as a result of a hobby. When her youngest children, a pair of twins, were babies, she started making them to help increase the family income. She became more and more interested in it until she has made a business of it. Her business has grown until at times she employs as many as four women to help her. She now makes hats of straw braid and of felt, which she ships to retail shops located at various points over the United States.
Mrs. Westbrook makes her own hat decorations of felt by the use of dye made for that purpose. She says, however, that flowers for straw hats take too much time and they are tedious to make. She advises that they be bought already made.
Crimoline and buckram are used in making straw hats. In fact the straw braid is sewed to the buckram frames. These hats are lined with felt while the felt ones are left unlined.
Mrs. Westbrook said that she did not use special thread in sewing hats. Sewing thread is what she uses and it serves just as well for this purpose. She warned us that the sutures on felt hats should be lengthened. Otherwise the thread will cut the felt and defeat the purpose.
Besides the finished products, Mrs. Westbrook has yard materials which are used in the making of various costumes. The kinds depend much upon the season. She now has net for use in making evening dresses and dancing costumes. At all times she has felt on stock, as she finds it a very practical material. Suede cloth is used for trimmings and in infant wear. Taffeta which she has in stock, is used for costumes largely, but it can also be used in the purse and hat making. She uses organdy in making baby bonnets and for costumes for different ages. A little later she expects to have some cotton print materials for use in home sewing.
All women who attend this demonstration will receive help in creating from materials at hand. We hope that every club woman can come to this demonstration and catch some of the enthusiasm which Mrs. Westbrook has for this hobby, which has proven to be a useful business.

Mrs. Charles Davis, Recent Bride, Is Honored With Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower was given recently in the home of Mrs. Charles Davis, the former Miss Pauline Forman. Hostesses were Mrs. W. E. Allen, Lee Kitchen, T. C. Addington, Robert Hollis, Boyd Brown, J. S. Fuqua and Mrs. Skaggs.
The honoree was presented a corsage of blue carnations tied with white ribbon. Her mother, Mrs. W. R. Forman, received a white carnation corsage.
Mrs. B. R. Forman, sister-in-law of the bride, registered guests in the bride's book.
The table was laid with a crocheted cloth over blue and centered with an all-white two-tiered wedding cake trimmed in wedding bells, roses, lilies of the valley and topped with a miniature bride and groom. White candles decorated with blue carnations flanked the centerpiece.
Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Fuqua alternated at the coffee service, and Mrs. Kitchen served cake.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
She's putting her foot down, she says.
She's putting it down on her daughter's habit of "borrowing" her friends' belongings. She writes, "The argument is that this borrowing-lending custom is necessary to acceptance by the 'gang.' In spite of this, I am clamping down on it as I think it discourages self-reliance."
The public schools of Tacoma, Wash., do not approve of the "borrowing" custom, either. Tacoma school authorities, aroused by an epidemic of shoplifting among students, condemn the "borrowing" habit as a "device that has been used to cover up the possession of articles obtained by shoplifting."
Let nobody go flying off to the conclusion that I am suggesting that all youthful "borrowers" are shoplifters. I'm not—but I am most certainly suggesting that Mary's urge to borrow her friend Jane's new ruby-and-rhinestone scatter pins is quite apt to be Mary's urge to possess those things.
The dictionary definition of the word "covetousness" describes Mary's urge most aptly. It says that covetousness is an "excessive desire for what belongs to another." Moses thundered against it along with stealing when he came down from Sinai with the Ten Commandments.
That is why we should not too complacent about the "borrowing" habit.
It is the "excessiveness" of children's urge to adorn themselves with the possessions of their friends that should concern us.
Why does Jimmy find Billy's toys more entertaining than his own?
Why are Mrs. Jones' selections of scarves and ties more satisfactory than ours? Why does Mary deprecate the scatter pins she chose herself to exaggerate the beauty of Jane's?
These are important questions to answer if we are going to "clamp down" on the "borrowing" habit.
I disapprove of it because I think it's bad preparation for life in our society. We do not live in a communal community where all property is held in common but in one whose customs and law draw a strict line between your possessions and mine.
The "borrowing" habit trains children to believe that they can indulge every impulse to possess, and thus it provides them with totally false and unlimited vistas of enjoyment. As they will have to learn to readjust themselves and learn to find satisfaction within the realistic limits of their own possessions, I think we are unkind to condone the "borrowing" habit.
Mind, I see nothing objectionable at all in my child asking to borrow a book that belongs to yours, a toy or even a sweater once in a while. We are not so independent of each other that we never feel a need to borrow or to lend. This article is on "borrowing" as a habit.
However, even when "borrowing" is occasional, I don't think we can be as casual as we often are. We are ultimately responsible for the return of the article our child has borrowed from the Jones youngster down the street. If we want him to continue to enjoy the Jones' hospitality, we will make sure that it is returned to the home where it belongs.
Envy of others' possessions is a pathetically futile waste of emotional energy. That may be why "covetousness" has been considered a sin.

Ruth Millett

There is such a thing as a woman having too close a friend. She is too close a friend if: You feel you can't ever entertain without including her. She feels free to tell you the unkind and uncomplimentary things that someone else says about you. You tell her all of your personal troubles, including the shortcomings of your husband. She is always critical of anything you buy if she wasn't along to help you select it. She is forever offering advice. She feels she knows you so well she can be "perfectly frank" in everything she says. This is just an excuse for not bothering to show you the courtesy and respect she shows others. She is always trying to improve you, instead of letting you be yourself. She knows just how you should dress, just how you should decorate your living room, just how you should bring up your children. She wants a full accounting of any party you attend to which she was not invited. She feels free to ask any kind of personal question, from how much you paid for your new dress, to how you are getting along with your in-laws. She is jealous of your other friends. She monopolizes your time. Close friends are wonderful assets. But a too close friend will in time always become a nuisance.

Dr. Logan's Wife

By Diana Gaines

THE STORY: Insinuations that his wife Jennet has been unfaithful shock Dr. Gus Logan, and he cannot understand why she gave Peter Srinov, a young biophysicist, a check for $1200. Actually Jennet has been infatuated by Peter, but faithful to her husband and the money, raised by selling an old piece of jewelry, had been a goodly gift to be used in Peter's pet campaign for some clearance. Maxwell Cois, head of the hospital and also a fanatical of the stuns, had obtained a photograph of the check and had used it in an effort to oust Peter from the hospital staff.

GUS LOGAN ran to the stairs, his hands on the spokes of the balustrade, his knees bent, his face between the bars. "Jenny, oh, Jenny, don't do this to me. I will listen. Come back and tell me it's not true—tell me I'm crazy, dreaming. I love you, Jenny. I love you so much I'm dying of it." His voice was so broken she thought he was crying. She came flying back down and she caught his sobbed words to her breast. They clung to each other for a moment, and then she led him to the couch and sat at his feet. With one hand Gus covered his eyes, and Jennet swung up to snap off the lamp. She sat down on the floor again, and stroked the palm that lay open on his knee, and then she closed her hand around it.

"My poor darling, listen to me. I did meet Peter for the first time at the Pelletiers'. I've only seen him four times in my life altogether. The morning after the party, you remember, I brought that medical paper down to Walter Pelletier and Peter was there and he offered to show me his lab. I told you that. Then last Monday night, you had a meeting. I was on my way home and I bumped into him and went to that cursed lecture with him—that's when it all started."

"So it did all start."
"Not what you mean, Gus, listen—you promised."
"Go ahead, I'm listening."
"I tried to tell you how upset I was after that lecture. I fell—oh, I know it doesn't make sense—but I felt sort of personally responsible for those wretched people he talked about who live in rat-ridden, smelly houses. Nothing was going to go right in my lovely home, I was going to be punished and punished until I made up in some way for my sin."
"What sin?"

"WHAT sin?" Jennet echoed. "I don't know. The sin of selfishness, I guess. The sin of having a nice home while others live like pigs."

"Tell me honestly, Jenny, this is not time for tact. Maybe the love that I thought there was between us—maybe it's all in my own head. Don't you love me, Jennet?"

"Of course," she said. "Of course, I love you, darling. And you've always been kind and good and marvellously understanding and I am lucky to have your love. But just this one thing—well, I thought you'd tell me I was silly. And I was silly, but that was neither here nor there because I was also desperate. I thought if I gave a lot of money—not just five or ten dollars like you said because I wouldn't miss that—but a big amount." She paused, chewed her thumbnail pensively. "But of course I really didn't miss this because it was something I never used; but it worked, so it must have been the right amount."
"What are you talking about, Jennet? What do you mean—you don't use it? Where did you get the money? Do you have a savings account some place that you never told me about?"

"Gus, you must believe me. Remember that old lavalere I had in the vault? That diamond thing I always meant to have reset? I took it to Chagiantz. He gave me $1200 for it."

"Now it is not only the medical executive committee, but the tradesmen too. The circle widens. Chagiantz is a gossip in this town. He thinks my wife had to sell a piece of jewelry to raise money."

"Please, Gus. He won't say anything. He promised he wouldn't."
"Promised!" Gus exploded.

"HE says this sort of thing happens every day in his shop. Movie stars, celebrities—the richest people sell their jewelry. What's there to be ashamed of?"

"This whole thing is clear as mud so far maybe if you go on."
"I—I didn't want to write a check because—forgive me for this—I didn't want to have to explain. So I had a certified check made out to me."
"Say what you mean, Jennet," Gus rebuked her. "You didn't want me to find out. This way if I happened on it, you could make up something. Are you good at making things up, Jennet?"

"I have never lied to you, Gus, and there's no need for lies now. But oh, Gus, haven't you ever since we've been married done something or felt something or thought something that you knew I wouldn't understand?"

"No," Gus said. "Never."
She knew he spoke the truth. "Anyway," she went on hopelessly, "I phoned Peter the next morning from my office and I told him I had something to give him. We had lunch—nowhere near the hospital, dear, on some hill—and he thought I was crazy too, for giving so much, I mean, but he also said it was needed and that he would give it to his friend at the housing association. That's the last I've seen of him. In fact, the last I'll ever see of him. I told him so yesterday at lunch. He's nothing to me, Gus, nothing. A nice bright boy, a total stranger."

Ballerina Will Not Train Child To Become A Dancer

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Ballerina Moira Shearer drops this unusual comment: She won't raise her child to be a dancer. The flame-haired English dancer, who is responsible as any one person for the current ballet boom, is expecting a child in August. Her confinement will mark the first extended vacation she has had from the ballet in 16 years. And therein lies the reason she does not want her child to be a dancer.

"Usually a dancer starts in the ballet at the age of 10, as I did," she remarked. "Of course, I was carrying on my usual schoolwork at that age, but much of the time was spent in learning the ballet. After five years, I started dancing professionally. Then the grind really began. "A ballet dancer doesn't merely perform before the audience and let it go at that. There are three or four hours of exercises and practice every day, added to time spent on stage. That is utterly necessary, if one is to continue in the peak of performance. You can never let down. If you do, you are soon finished."

"Miss Shearer remarked that the average child does not know what he or she is getting into when they start on ballet careers. If they did, they probably would reconsider. Usually it is the mother or father who supplies the drive for a child to get started in ballet, she observed. She added that she doesn't intend to perform that service for her expected offspring.

That is particularly true if her baby is a boy, she remarked. "Aside from other reasons," she said, "what future is there for a male ballet dancer? He is generally through dancing at 40 or before. Since he has spent most of his life in training for the ballet, he is unsuited for anything else."

Electronic Brain Made To Sing

NEW YORK — (AP) — The electronic brain at Manchester University in England has been taught to sing "God Save the Queen," the British Information Service reports.

"The mechanical creature is given a coded version of the score, which interprets, then constructs the necessary waveform to give effect to its interpretation. There is no sort of recording or phonograph in the machine," said the Earl of Halsbury, managing director of the National Research Development Corporation.

Grain Grading School Slated For Canadian Area Farmers

CANADIAN — (Special) — Wheat farmers of the Canadian trade area will have an opportunity to attend a grain grading school here next Thursday, March 27.

The meeting is sponsored by local elevator men in cooperation with the Texas A&M Extension service, and will be held in the American Legion hall beginning at 9 a.m.

Two Amhillo men, Fred T. Dines, wheat marketing specialist for the Extension service and Frank Rose, chief inspector for the Amarillo Grain exchange, will conduct the school.

In addition to the grain grading school, new regulations regarding the marketing of weevil-damaged grain are to be explained at the meeting by representatives of the Pure Food and Drug inspection service. Local elevator men expect the new regulations which forbid the marketing of weevil or rodent-damaged grain to be of great importance to both farmers and elevator men.

Arrangements for the meeting are being made by County Agent Walter Grist; R. A. Ford, manager of the Canadian Grain Co-op; and Jimmie Forrest, manager of Fraser Grain Co.

Hemphill Tops County Quota For Red Cross

CANADIAN — (Special) — Hemphill County's 1952 Red Cross membership drive has topped the assigned quota of $145, Red Cross Chairman Malouf Abraham reported, but the drive is continuing.

The county's drive is still not complete, Abraham said, and contributions are still being sought. The total of approximately $1500 raised last year.

The chairman said that $1,200.80 had been turned in to campaign headquarters, but some areas are still unreported.

Mrs. Guber Lee Mitchell, membership drive chairman, urged that all workers finish their soliciting at the earliest possible time, so that the campaign can be closed. She also asked that anyone wishing to contribute who has not been contacted by one of the workers, please send their contributions without waiting to be contacted.

Axis Ship Salvaged

GOA, Portuguese India — (AP) — Two sunken merchant vessels of the wartime Axis powers have been salvaged by a Goa firm.

The German S. S. Drachenfels and Italian Anfora have been brought to the surface recently. Both ships were scuttled by their crews in a spectacular episode at the time of Goa's carnival celebrations in February, 1946.

The ships took refuge in the neutral waters of Marmagoz harbor early in World War II. Crews of the vessels set off noisy explosions in the 1946 scuttling. Police captured the crews and Portugal ultimately repaired the men.

Jet Ace Says Reds Easier To Down

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — The only jet ace in Korea says it's easier to shoot down Red MIG-15 jets now than it was when he arrived last August.

"We're now able to place our aircraft in firing position on the MIGs," said Maj. William T. Whisner, Jr., Shreveport, La., as he packed to start home. "One possible reason for this is that the MIGs are generally coming up in greater numbers."

"However, we find more aggressive and capable MIG pilots than we did six months ago."

"Apparently they are learning a little about his business, too. I can't explain why but the MIGs seem to enjoy doing battle with the Sabres. We try to cooperate with them."

Whisner, an F-86 Sabre pilot, flew his 100th mission Sunday. That gives him the right to go home.

Whisner, 29, became history's seventh jet ace Feb. 23, when he shot down his fifth MIG fighter. He also is credited with sharing another MIG kill and damaging six.

turned a bright shade of green. As you've undoubtedly guessed, he had led the king of clubs under the impression that he was leading the king of spades.

"Well, he grabbed his king of clubs to try to put it back in his hand, and I didn't try to stop him, but my partner insisted that the card had been led and that East couldn't take it back. Since North also happens to be my boss, and since I'm not a complete nitwit, I didn't argue the point. That king of clubs had to stand as a lead.

"The payoff, as you can see, is that the king of clubs is the only card that East can lead to defeat me. With that lead I get no ruffs in dummy, and I can win only ten tricks in high cards: a spade, a heart, two diamonds, and six clubs.

"If East leads any of the remaining ten cards in his hand (but not the king of clubs), I can make the contract. For example, if East leads a third spade, I throw a diamond from my hand and win in dummy.

"Then I finesse the queen of diamonds, take the ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond in dummy with the queen of clubs, and finesse clubs to return to my hand. All the finesses work, and all the right cards drop.

"The play is much the same no matter what East returns—just as long as he doesn't get a brainstorm and return that king of clubs. Do I have a right to howl and gnash my teeth or don't I?"

WASHINGTON — (AP) — United States producers want to pipe gas from Texas to eastern Canada while others seek to pipe Canadian gas to this country's Pacific Northwest.

Several other proposals, officials said, are pending to bring gas from Canada to supply the North-western United States, now without natural gas.

The commission set hearings on the gas-from-Canada proposals for April 8, and a spokesman said it yesterday Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. and the Niagara Gas application would be considered at the same time.

Reds Reject Arms Census

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP) — Russia has rejected an American plan for a world-wide arms census and further dimmed the faint hope that the Soviets will cooperate with the U.N. disarmament commission.

In a bitter 45-minute speech Wednesday, Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik also called on the commission to take action against germ warfare and punish those using it.

He said he referred to the United States. But he ignored an earlier challenge by United States Delegate Benjamin V. Cohen to support a proposed Red Cross inquiry into Red charges that United States planes are spreading germs over North Korea.

Primary Elections Confuse Politicos

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The professional politicians must be badly confused. Life was comparatively simple until the primary elections in New Hampshire and Minnesota.

Go around and meet the people, shake hands with them, and get on the TV screens in their living rooms so you can get your ideas across to them. They seemed like three obvious and wonderful ways of getting votes.

And maybe they are. But the results in New Hampshire and Minnesota don't prove it. At the same time they don't disprove it.

The uncertainty of all this must be a hardship on any politician who'd like an easy formula. General Eisenhower, whose TV appearances have been few and far between, who stayed in Europe where he didn't meet the local people, and who never shook a local hand, trounced Sen. Taft in New Hampshire and far-outdistanced him in Minnesota where the voters had to write in the names of both men.

Yet Taft has probably made more TV appearances in the past few years, and particularly in the past year, than any office-seeker in the country. He spoke and shook hands all over New Hampshire. He stayed out of Minnesota.

The Taft people shrugged off Eisenhower's New Hampshire success, where the state political machine was backing him, and they expressed satisfaction at Taft's showing in Minnesota although Eisenhower ran far ahead of him.

The Eisenhower people, of course, played up their victory in both states for all it was worth and, considering the attention given the victory, it seems to be worth plenty.

The only other place where it seemed the people could express their feeling about the two men was in New Jersey in a direct preference primary but now Taft has withdrawn there and says he won't campaign. This will cloud up the vote there.

But if any politician is drawing a lesson from the Taft-Eisenhower results, Senator Estes Kefauver rises to haunt them because Kefauver in a write-in vote in Minnesota and a direct preference in New Hampshire ran far ahead of President Truman.

President Truman did what Eisenhower did: he stayed away from New Hampshire and Minnesota and never shook a hand in either place.

Kefauver trooped all over New Hampshire, sticking out his hand whenever he could to strangers, saying "I'm Estes Kefauver, Ma'am. I'm running for President and I'd like your support."

While the State Republican machine backed the victorious Eisenhower in New Hampshire, the State Democratic machine backed the President against Kefauver who drowned Truman in votes.

This completely contradictory situation can only add to the dismay of the professional politicians in search of simple solutions to the vote-getting problem.

Add to all this the fact that in the past few years Kefauver — unlike the seldom TV'd but still victorious Eisenhower — has probably been seen on as many living room-TV screens, if not more, than Truman.

It's quite possible that the voters in New Hampshire and Minnesota simply did what came naturally — voted for the man they liked — without being impressed by local speeches, handshakes or TV appearances.

Public May Take Part In McCarthy Oil Developments

HOUSTON — (AP) — Glen McCarthy says he hopes "to give the public an opportunity to participate" with him in his future oil explorations.

In an interview with Steve Booke, business editor of the Houston Post, McCarthy said the plan still is largely in the discussion stage.

He continued: "My record for discovering oil speaks for itself. Every day I get letters from average people all over the country asking me how to get in the oil business."

"When our plans are completed, I hope to give the public an opportunity to participate with me in my future oil explorations."

"This company will be an entirely new enterprise."

"All of my future ventures will be carried on by my own company, Glen H. McCarthy, Inc."

The Shamrock hotel owner emphasized his projected corporation has nothing to do with his present holdings.

McCarthy Oil & Gas Co. and McCarthy Chemical Co., two of his principal companies, are now being operated by Warner H. Mendel, counsel for Equitable Life Assurance society from whom McCarthy had borrowed $24,100,000.

His New Ulm oil field holdings are held collateral by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. against a $8 million loan.

Weatherly, whose FFA boys have won almost every title in the area and state agriculture field, also came in 1937 and has served continuously in the vocational agriculture post.

Mud Is Big Business Now; Held Vital To Oil Industry

By WILBUR MARTIN
HOUSTON — (AP) — Maybe you shouldn't sell those mud pies you made as a kid for a plugged nickel, but mud is big business now — and an essential part of the oil industry.

It isn't the same kind of mud that makes mothers wince when Junior comes galloping into the house. Research engineers have fondled this mud in the same manner you probably did when you were making those pies.

Maybe you can't see why mud would be important in drilling an oil well. But it is, with these principal functions:

Overcoming gas, oil and water flows — and preventing blowouts; keeping the hole free of cuttings; preventing the walls of the hole from caving; cooling the bit and lubricating the drill stem, and securing proper information from the well and not damaging productive beds.

Of these, preventing blowouts and securing information from the hole are the most important, in the opinion of James W. Bugbee.

Bugbee is with Baroid, one of the biggest and probably the oldest of the concerns specializing in drilling mud.

"The cuttings that the mud brings up will tell you what you have actually got in the hole," he said. "And in a wildcat well — that's all important."

You don't just mix a lot of mud over where you're going to drill and then start. You force the mud down the drilling stem, making sure you've got just the right amount and the right type.

Type can vary, almost from location to location, but generally in areas. What's good mud in the mid-continent area may not be quite right on the Gulf coast. Bentonite — or soapstone — forms the basis for one of the two basic types of drilling mud offered by Baroid. This is the same Bentonite used as a base for women's face powder.

It is mined in chunks, then put through a high refining process. Spotless laboratories, immaculate research personnel, and highly complicated equipment signal the respectability — and importance — of mud, a far cry from its first mention in connection with oil well drilling.

This was in 1897, Bugbee said, when there was reference to "driving cattle through a tank to stir up the mud on the bottom" and then "forcing the mud into the hole."

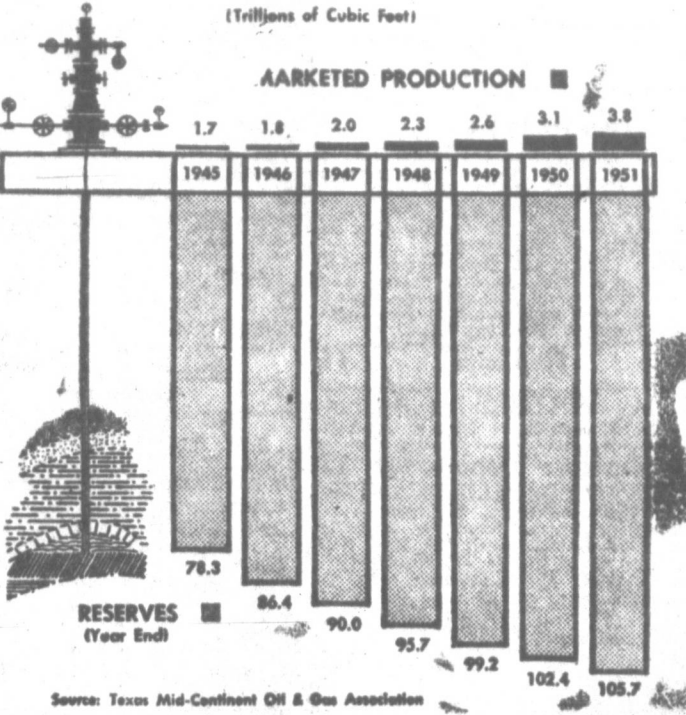

Mud as big business dates back only since the early thirties. Then, Bugbee said, wells started getting deeper and mud took on added importance.

The vast majority of drilling muds can be classified as water base muds, consisting of three parts: the liquid phase, or water; the gel fraction, which is the gelling, colloidal reactive portion, and the inert fraction, consisting of the sand, weight material and other inert solids.

Most of the mud control is directed to the gel fraction. This is the part that is enriched by the addition of bentonites and clays and is improved by chemical treatment or damaged by contamination.

How much mud is used in drilling an oil well depends more on the location of the well than on the type of well. Some prefer more than others. Generally, the major types of

TEXAS NATURAL GAS PRODUCTION & RESERVES

TEXAS GAS GAINS — Texas reserves of natural gas, largest in the U. S., now total 105.7 trillion cubic feet, a record high, according to recent estimates by the American Gas Association. The survey shows that the state's growing supply of gas continues to dwarf, by comparison, the amount needed to supply present markets.

Operators Bring In 871 Barrels

Oil completions held the top spot in Panhandle oil field activity last week. Operators completed seven new oilers for a booming total increased potential of 871 barrels, far above reports in recent weeks.

There were a total of 11 completions filed with the Railroad commission. The remaining four were plugged wells.

World's Oil Production Increased Over Last Year

TULSA, Okla. — The world's 1951, it represented a gain of 5.2 percent. Over this period of average of 11,874,400 barrels daily to meet the ever-rising demand for petroleum and its products.

The January total of world crude-oil production consisted of 6,193,000 barrels daily from the United States, 4,650,200 barrels from non-Communist countries, and 1,031,200 barrels from Russia and its Easting to the Oil and Gas Journal.

The January total was little changed from the previous month but in comparison to January daily over the previous month. In only one out of the last 13 months has Venezuelan production failed to set a new record.

The decline of about 2,000 barrels daily in production in Canada in January was due to limitations on oil transportation from the main producing areas in Alberta. This oil has one of its principal outlets in the pipe line to the Great Lakes which is cut back during the winter months because of the closing of Great Lakes shipping.

The oil trade magazine said oil production from the nationalized fields in Iran was about 30,000 barrels daily in January. With Iranian oil exports halted, this total compares to nearly 650,000 barrels daily which the country was producing a year earlier under British management. Elsewhere in the Middle East, there was little change in production from December to January. Iraq production will expand considerably later this spring, as a result of the initial opening of the new 30 and 32-inch line to the Mediterranean.

Active Oil Rigs Show Increase

DALLAS — A total of 2892 rigs were active in oil fields of the United States and Canada for the week of March 17, 1952, according to a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Co.

This total compares with 2839 reported a week ago, 2882 a month ago, and with 2278 in the comparable week of 1951.

Withdrawals Move In Greater Volume

AUSTIN — (AP) — Withdrawals from Texas banks are moving in volume greater than seasonal average would explain, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported.

The bureau's seasonally adjusted index of bank debits (or withdrawals), for February was up four percent from January and 12 percent above the February, 1951, level.

The index is computed from the monthly totals of all money removed from bank deposits accounts for spending or investment.

Withdrawals from February to February gained as much as 85 percent in Texas City, 52 percent in Midland, 45 percent in Longview, 42 percent in Odessa, 38 percent in Arlington and 30 percent in Texarkana.
