NEW YORK COTTON
 NEW YORK — (AP) — Cotton futures turned irregular in quiet dealings Wednesday. Commission houses were inclined to take profit, following the recent sharp rise in value, and there was some selling from trade sources, attributed partly to hedging and liquidation of futures against purchases of spot cotton.

The Census Bureau reported February domestic cotton consumption totaled 158,882 running bales, compared with trade expectations of 165,000 bales.

Cotton futures rallied sharply in the final hour of trading on New Orleans and local covering. The sharp rise brought out hedging and profit taking and the market gave up a portion of the advance.

Futures closed $1.05 to $2.05 a bale higher than the previous close.

'Don't Holler At Us Rookies,' Says WT-NM Prexy

"We don't care how much noise you make at the ballpark this summer, but please don't holler at our umpires," Ray Winkler, president of the West Texas-New Mexico League, laughingly told members of the Pampa Rotary club at their noon luncheon yesterday.

"We will have all new faces, including four rookie umpires," Winkler said. "I'm a rookie going to face this season along, so I hired the four rookies."

Winkler went on to explain to the Rotarians about the league and lauded the makeup of the other organization.

He was introduced to the group by Ivy Griffin, business manager of the club, who also introduced Owner Doug Mills and Field Manager Jake Phillips. Phillips gave a brief sketch of his plans and the type of team he will field this season.

Phillips promised Rotary that the almost completely revamped club will be made up of "hustling, young ball-players, who will make mistakes, but will be playing for all they are worth."

George Scott, president of Rotary, appointed a group of 10 members to take part in the annual Red Cross drive for funds.

Taft To Pull Out Of N. J. GOP Primary

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Taft said today he has decided to withdraw from New Jersey's Republican presidential preference primary.

The primary is April 15.

Taft said he was withdrawing because Gov. Alfred Driscoll "has broken his word" in endorsing Gen. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination "and has obviously taken steps to corrupt the intent of the preference primary."

The New Jersey contest had been expected to provide another test of strength between Taft and Eisenhower, following Eisenhower's triumph over the Ohio Senator in New Hampshire's primary March 11.

Last Monday Driscoll and other New Jersey Republican leaders announced support of Eisenhower for the nomination.

The envelope bore the postmark of a state remote from Illinois; high officials declined to disclose the sender.

Officials said an attempt will be made to locate the sender with a view to possible prosecution for mutilating United States currency.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO (AP) — Grains were lower throughout most of the session on the "word of trade Wednesday, although quite a bit of the lost ground was recovered toward the close.

There wasn't much spark to the late upturn, which in part reflected short-covering by local traders. It followed news that France had requested offers of hard red soft wheat after the market's close. A drying up in country offerings of cash corn aided that trend.

Wheat closed 1/4 lower to 3/4 higher. March $2.58, corn 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher, March $1.81, oats 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher, March 90, and hard 3 cents lower to 2 cents higher, March $12.17.

Factional Feuding in Texas May Reach New Peak Soon

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN — (AP) — Factional feuding among Texas Democrats could reach a new peak of bitter intensity this presidential election year.

It could result in a series of convention bolts and party splits exceeding the eruptions of 1944 and 1948, or anything in the past. That sums up the impressions this correspondent got in grass roots tours of 49 counties. The first took in Central, West and Northwest Texas; the second covered South Central, East and Southeast Texas.

Everywhere in talking with Democrats I found at least two major factions, subdivided often into four. Some of the four shaded off in the direction of the Republican party; others leaned toward formation of a third party in 1952.

This factionalism reflects the every-which-way political thinking produced by widespread unrest, distrust in national party leadership and of foreign policy, cynicism or resentment over high taxes and tax scandals, and a dozen other factors.

Farmers for instance told me they wanted to stay with their traditional Democratic party, but they also said they didn't want Truman. In East Texas especially they were afraid of the FEPEC and relaxation of the color line in general. But they also remembered the depression, blamed the GOP for it, and didn't want to vote Republican.

On the East Texas swing I found television gets in backwoods farm houses in the big thickets, their owners working full or part time on defense or related jobs in the Sabine industrial district and raising crops part time. They drove 60 miles to work in fine new cars, and cursed Truman and high taxes. But they also remembered the hungry days of the depression, and in the final analysis they would mostly stay with the Democrats.

Local political leaders nearly everywhere told me they believed Gov. Allan Shivers would control the precinct, county and state conventions through May. If so, of course, that would mean Texas' delegation to the national convention would go unrepresented. But the "Loyal Democrat" organization headed by Fagan Dickson of Austin was also at work, especially in such industrial centers as Beaumont, Port Arthur, Houston. This organization is determined that Texas stay with the party, no matter who the nominee for President is. So far the governor hasn't said that he would. He said if Truman is nominated, he would come home for new instructions.

Those are the major factions. In politics a candidate has the usual pre-convention tussle with the party in an uproar. There are factions and sub-factions: middle-of-the-roads, third party or Dixiecrat leaners, extreme leftists, all within one party framework as of mid-March. What it will be like after the first series of conventions, nobody knows.

The "loyalists" are known to be ready to organize their own conventions from the precinct level up if the Shivers group doesn't require the party loyalty pledge. No compromise talk is in the air now.

Individual voters I talked with were confused in their own philosophies of government and confused about the party situation. A great many voters still have the idea they could have a voice in the dispute merely attending precinct conventions, despite a statewide educational campaign on the subject.

Several amateur voters said they knew all about precinct conventions, but didn't go because of a general understanding they were fixed in advance with ready-made chairmen, prepared resolutions and so on. Others in this group told me they wouldn't know what to do after they got to a precinct convention. Both major party factions are putting out literature telling them, but none of it had gotten into the hands of the voters I talked to.

Lots of them said if things didn't settle down between now and November to heck with it. They were going fishing and forget about politics.

Rail Attorney To Address Area Seniors

Pampa, Alaneerd and Morse High school seniors have been invited to Amarillo next Wednesday to listen to and take part in discussions of "What Makes a Free Enterprise Economy Tick." It will be the first annual Amarillo Citizenship forum. Its sponsors are the Amarillo public schools and junior college, the Amarillo chamber of commerce and the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Among guest speakers will be Gilbert Smith, Austin, special counsel Texas Railroad association. He will talk on "The Flight of the Railroads—a Typical Problem of Business."

Following addresses, a group of four speakers will form a panel for a question-and-answer session with the students. The moderator will be James F. Melton, manager of the taxation and legislation department of the West Texas chamber of commerce. Senior students will be guests of Amarillo college for a tour of the campus to close the meeting.

New Army Rifle Is Being Planned

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Lt. Gen. T. B. Larkin, the Army's chief of Logistics, says it will be at least two or three years before a new automatic rifle begins replacing the semi-automatic M-1.

Larkin talked about new weapons in a copyrighted interview in U. S. News and World Report, a weekly newsmagazine. The discussion ranged from guided missiles and monster tanks to bullet-proof vests and frostbite-proof boots.

The missiles and tanks are in the realm of the future, he said, but the vests and boots are already cutting casualties in Korea.

The new rifle will require "two or three years' worth" of tooling up, Larkin said, and a decision to begin is being delayed by "practical considerations." He explained: "We've got to phase out the old and phase in the new." Otherwise, there would be either too many or too few rifles, he said.

Larkin said the Army's supply program will reach the "level we desire" by the end of this year and will stay that way if Congress keeps funds coming. If not, it would begin tapering off.

Mice, Monkeys Survive Scientific Space Trip

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An Air Force scientist told today of a rocket catapulted 80 miles up into space with live monkeys and mice aboard.

It was a preliminary test aimed at learning eventually whether man can fly in outer space. Or in the borderline of space ranging up to altitude of 120 miles above the earth.

The mice are still living and propagating freely. The five monkeys survived the actual flights but four of them were killed when parachutes carrying them back to earth failed. The fifth monkey landed all right but died of heat prostration in the New Mexico desert.

The account, which outdoes a lot of science fiction, was told at a meeting of the aero medical association by Dr. J. O. Henry of the Air Force's aero medical laboratory at Wright-Patterson base, Dayton, O.

The tests were designed to determine the physical and psychological effects of being made "weightless" under certain conditions of extreme altitude flight—a possible hazard that would face man in the regions of free space.

Dr. Henry said this "gravity free" condition can be produced for several minutes as a rocket falls freely, with downward acceleration exactly equaling the earth's gravity.

The monkeys and mice apparently got through it all right, he said. (In possible space ships weightless condition would be of lengthy duration.)

In an interview, Dr. Henry told how the flights were made: V-2 rockets, reaching altitudes up to 80 miles, and smaller aerobee rockets, with altitudes up to 40 miles, were used in tests at Holloman Air Force base, White Sands, N.M.

All the monkeys actually "asleep" through their 2,000-mile-an-hour ride, because they were anesthetized with morphine.

However, as they rode in the nose of a rocket, they were equipped with instruments for measuring pulse, breathing, heart action and blood pressure—and the information was raced back to the earth all during flight.

The mice were not given any morphine. And their chamber was equipped with a device in which they were able to run and jump—and all the time their antics were being automatically photographed.

During the "weightless" stage of three minutes, the mice literally floated in their rocket-nose "cabin"—but after the descending nose reached a point where gravity again took over, the mice hopped around normally, just as though nothing had happened.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTERITE, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTERITE at any drug store.

"I belong to three clubs aiding the needy—no wonder I'm gaining so much, with those extra lunches!"

Politicians Think Voters Are Stupid

By HENRY McLEMORE
The New Hampshire primary proved only one thing to me. It proved to me that the men running for the highest office in the world—the presidency of the United States—consider the average voter a very stupid man.

Not one of the presidential candidates campaigning in New Hampshire was born in New Hampshire. But every single one of them tried to make a sudden tie with New Hampshire.

I don't remember exactly what they said, but it would run like this, roughly:

"I'm from Cincinnati, but my wife's great-uncle came from New Hampshire."

Stassen: Don't forget that, of all the vacation spots in the world, the Stassen family considers this the loveliest spot.

Kefauver: I was married in New Hampshire and I want to come back.

Misenhower's representatives: like is as strong as the Old Man of the Mountain.

Truman's spokesmen: The Truman administration is solid as the hills.

Every speaker told a joke, or what he thought was a joke. A few people laughed, so that was considered a bright spot in the speech. Secretaries undoubtedly made a note of it so he could tell it again in the next town.

I have no idea who will be elected president. I am not a Gallup or a Roper. But, from my position as a citizen, I am positive that the citizens have grown up more than the politicians.

Politicians haven't changed much in a hundred years. They still think their wild promises will be believed. They still think they run this country.

But they don't. When I started in the newspaper business, the stock market pages and the sport pages were the most important in the newspaper. But, since then, citizens have grown up. You can't worry too much about an exhibition baseball game when your kid's in Korea, and you don't care when your stocks go up if you know taxes are going to take all your profit.

The truth is, we haven't a true leader who has yet shown his head. All we have running today are politicians, backed by politicians, playing on the emotions of people who, they think, don't understand.

Mr. Truman makes a speech asking for billions and never mentions the corruptions in Washington. I believe people see beyond that. Stassen just talks. Kefauver talks and never mentions what television did for him. Warren talks and never mentions his whipping in '48. Eisenhower won't declare himself, which amounts to fence straddling.

I am afraid that, for the first time since it was founded, the United States won't come up with a great man at a time of crisis. From where I sit, it looks as if the American voter is going to have to choose his president from among men who are a little bit shy of being able to handle the job.

The thing that makes me mad about the men who have thrown their hats in the ring is their patronizing attitude toward the voter. They don't seem to realize they'd never have a chance to live high, wide and handsome in Washington if it weren't for the guy they seem to sell so short.

Venezuela Planning For Top Oil Year

CARACAS (AP) — Venezuela is set for another record-breaking oil production year in 1952. Expansion programs planned by oil companies will boost both crude and refined output above the 1951 peaks.

At the close of last year Venezuelan oil wells were pumping at a record rate of 1,776,581 barrels per day, raising the average for 1951 to 1,704,642. In 1950 the average daily crude output was 1,497,985 barrels.

Total Venezuelan crude production last year amounted to 622,194,000 barrels, compared to 546,787,000 the previous year. During last December refineries were operating at a record rate of 353,390 barrels of oil per day and total refined production for the year reached 115,086,118 barrels, compared to 91,151,130 for 1950.

Spurred by the Korean war, the shutdown in Iran and Western rearmament demands, drilling activity last year was almost double that of 1950. In 1951 a total of 1216 wells were drilled, of which 1087 were oil-producing wells, eight were gas wells and 121 were dry holes. The previous year 873 wells were drilled, yielding 593 oil-producers, five gas wells and 75 dry holes.

Company plans for 1952 assure that Venezuela will safely hold its position as the world's second (to United States) nation in petroleum production and Number One oil exporter.

Of the 1,776,581 barrels of crude per day produced during December, a little over 91 percent was accounted for by Venezuela's "Big Three": Creole Petroleum Corp. (Standard Oil of New Jersey subsidiary), Shell Caribbean Petroleum Co. (Royal Dutch Shell group), and Mene Grande Oil Co. (Gulf Oil subsidiary).

Creole, the giant of the Venezuelan oil industry, has a capital investment budget of $111,600,000 for 1952, nearly half of which is earmarked to step up crude flow. Creole plans to spend almost $30,000,000 on exploration this year to find new crude sources.

Shell has a $105,000,000 capital investment program for 1952. Mene Grande will invest $70,000,000.

The other companies in Venezuela — Socony-Vacuum, Texas, Mercedes, Atlantic, Richmond, Sinclair, Pantepec, Phillips and British — are also reported to have expansion plans set for 1952.

Sharp Earthquake Is Felt In Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — An earthquake of unmeasured strength jarred Seoul and Central Korea at 6:25 p.m. today (3:25 a.m. CST). No serious damage was reported.

The quake was sharp in Seoul. It was felt at the United Nations command advance headquarters at Munsan. It rocked the press train there slightly. Most military personnel were at dinner. The quake rattled china and set hanging lights swinging.

Because of war damage and Communist looting, there are no longer any seismographs in Seoul. Japan's central meteorological station in Tokyo said it barely recorded the quake and that another station in southern Japan did not record it at all. The Tokyo observatory assigned it a rating of four on a scale of seven, indicating a fairly strong quake at a distance.

It was considered possible the point of origin might have been distant on the Asiatic mainland or that the shock was sharp but purely local.

Pistol-Totin' Soldiers Vex Army And Post Office Officials

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Enlisted men in Korea who want to tote personal six-shooters are giving headaches to the military and post officials. Also they are leading kin-folk into unwitting infraction of the law.

Officials say an increasing number of revolvers and pistols have been found in the mail recently, addressed to Marines and G.I.s. Relatives try to mail the guns in response to requests from servicemen in the war zone.

Why do they want them?

Marine and Army authorities here said they weren't sure, but they had some ideas after talking with relatives. Among the reasons suggested were these:

1. If officers can wear side arms, why shouldn't enlisted men?
2. In forward areas, close to the battleline, regulations require that firearms be carried. A revolver in a holster is easier to carry than an M-1 rifle on a sling or in the hand.
3. Some soldiers claim in letters that they are inadequately armed.
4. A mistaken impression that any officer has the unlimited right to have a sidearm mailed to him, leading to an idea that the enlisted man should have the same privilege.
5. Some young soldiers are only a few years removed from boyhood days when they yearned to pack a pearl-handled six-gun in a holster, cowboy fashion. (There was at least one older soldier of fame who wore pearl-handled revolvers, name of Gen. George Patton.)

The military says most enlisted men don't need sidearms, that under the "tables of organization and equipment" sidearms are issued "to any and all whose duties require use of same."

Postal laws specify that "pistols, revolvers and other firearms capable of being concealed on the person are non-mailable and shall not be deposited in or carried by the mails." However, a provision does allow sidearms to be mailed to officers of the armed forces "for use in connection with their official duties when an affidavit is provided guaranteeing that the need is for official use only."

The trouble seems to be that most relatives — including mothers, aunts and sisters — simply never heard of the law covering firearms. And it is likely most G.I.s also are unfamiliar with it.

So when Willie writes home and says "Ma, send me a revolver," she just wraps it up and takes it to the post office. It is up to the postal clerk to ask what is in the package and then explain it can't be mailed.

Changes Made In Regulations For Building Materials

Several changes in construction orders have been received by the U. S. Department of Commerce, national production authority in Lubbock.

Major amendments in CMP regulation 6 which covers all construction except residential includes the following:

1. Raising from two tons of carbon steel to five tons of carbon steel per quarter which may be self authorizing with the U-8 allotment symbol for the category of construction commonly referred to as "commercial" or "all other" types of construction except amusement and recreation.
2. Creation of a new category of self authorization for public roads and highways under the jurisdiction of the bureau of public roads, which is allowed 25 tons of carbon steel and 200 pounds of copper per project.
3. A provision allowing the use of foreign and used steel to supplement allotments or self authorizations amounts without including this steel in the allotment amounts. (This does not apply to recreation and amusement construction.)
4. Placing of a dollar limit on the amount of DO ratings which may be used with the self authorizing construction projects.

Residential construction is now covered by a new order, M-100. Major changes in this type of construction are as follows:

1. Increase of 500 pounds of carbon steel on the allotment quantities permitted so that the amounts of steel which can now be self allotted with the use of the U-7 symbol is 2300 pounds per dwelling unit on houses using steel water system along with 85 pounds of copper, and 1900 pounds of steel per dwelling unit on houses using copper water systems along with 135 pounds of copper.
2. New provisions for the alteration or addition to existing residences.
3. Provisions for the use of foreign and used steel to supplement allotment or self allotment quantities.
4. Wherry housing and housing in connection with petroleum production, refining and processing are exempt from the provisions of order M-100.

Copies of CMP Regulation 6 and M-100 are available at the district office of the U. S. Department of Commerce, National Production Authority located at 283 Cotton Exchange building, Lubbock.

Tiny, Battery-Powered Wrist Watch Makes Debut

CHICAGO — (AP) — An electric wristwatch, hailed as keeping at most perfect time, has been announced.

It has a little electric motor inside, yet is no bigger than a conventional wind-up watch. It has a barely audible tick, no mainspring, no winding mechanism.

A main secret is a tiny amazing battery, smaller in volume than a penny. It runs the motor for more than a year. Cost of a new battery probably will be less than a quarter.

The battery delivers power at an absolutely constant rate. It takes only 1-100ths of a watt to run the watch.

The wristwatch was demonstrated at a press conference by Elgin National Watch Co. Only a laboratory model has been made, said J. C. Shennan, Elgin president.

Simultaneously in Paris, the Lip Watch Co., Besancon, France, announced an electric wristwatch. It differs in many mechanical and electrical respects, Shennan said. The two firms have exchanged information but each did its own research separately.

Shennan says better the electric watch keeps better time than wind-up ones.

The electric watch will cost more, for some years at least, Shennan said, but price was not estimated. The first watches, possibly available within a year, will be for men, for the tiny motors aren't small enough yet for women's wrist watches. The watch is anti-magnetic, can be fitted with a water-proof case.

The works consist of a battery, motor and a train of gears to drive the hands. There are far fewer parts than the 150 in a conventional watch.

Only a few details were disclosed immediately.

The battery, or energy capsule as Elgin named it, powers a synchronously controlled motor replacing the usual mainspring and other parts.

The motor develops only 1-75,000,000th of a horsepower. The watch uses so little power that electricity to light a 100-watt bulb would operate 10 million of them.

Coils for the motor are only an eighth of an inch in diameter.

ameter, only 1-32nd of an inch long. They are wound with 3000 turns of insulated copper wire. Only a sixth as thick as human hair.

The company did not announce the exact shape of the tiny battery but said it was comparable in volume to one a half inch long and smaller around than a pencil.

A regular airlift for livestock is now in operation from Kangaroo Island to Adelaide, Australia, a run of 90 air miles.

Ruth Millett

"They've been little demons all day," the harassed mother confided as she turned over her two youngest to a friend, who had offered to look after the children while the mother entertained her study club for luncheon.

The two "little demons" were angelic for the friend. This sort of thing happens to mothers so often, there must be a logical explanation for the phenomenon. Haven't you often had a grandparent, a babysitter or a neighbor tell you how well-behaved your children are, when you know they've been behaving like wild Indians around home? Sure you have. Every mother has. So there must be a reason for it.

In the hurry and bustle of the day's work it is easy for a mother to start pushing her children around — to give orders, rather than courteous requests, to scold before waiting to get the whole story, to say "I'm too busy" when the child asks for companionship in a reasonable way.

Perhaps, if we tried always to treat our own children with as much courtesy as we treat other people's children, it would be a different story.

Instead, we too often shrug off the problem by saying that we are with the children constantly, and that if anyone else had them for any length of time, the youngsters would act the same way.

Isn't it just an excuse we mothers have concocted for forgetting that children are really little people, who resent unjust scolding, being pushed aside, and being made to feel "in the way?" No wonder they act like little demons!

If you have one of those wool-rubber combination brushes that pick up such substances as animal hair or face powder, suds and rinse it often. It won't pick up dirt unless it is clean.

Do's And Don'ts In Society Reporting

(Publicity chairmen of various clubs are asked to clip the following and save it for reference. This information is also helpful to anyone turning in stories for the woman's page.)

- Do's:
1. Be absolutely correct. Spell all names correctly using full names and proper titles. Use the husband's name or initial unless the woman is divorced or a widow. Example: Mrs. John Smith (using husband's name) Never use: Catherine Smith
 2. Report news promptly. Timeliness is important in the display given to parties and meetings. The most recent news deserves the most space and the best position.
 3. Label copy with name of club and publicity chairman, giving telephone number.
 4. Type copy if possible, but if you can write legibly, that will be fine. Print names — o's and a's, i's and e's can look amazingly alike when written in longhand.
 5. Use plenty of names. We like them. Just don't expect a 100 or more names to appear. The editor reserves the right to cut a guest list when space prohibits its use.
 6. Report news by 5 p.m. the day PRECEDING the day you wish a story to appear. Exceptions will be made in the case of night meetings, or late-afternoon meetings.
 7. Report all stories for Sunday by 5 p.m. Friday except those concerning Friday evening meetings and parties which may be turned in early Saturday morning. Friday is the busiest day in the woman's department, so if news for the Sunday paper can be sent in earlier, the last-minute congestion may be relieved.
 8. Turn in notices of forthcoming meetings for the social calendar by 5 p.m. Friday. No additions will be made to the calendar after it has been set for the week. If you fail to get a club notice in the calendar, a separate news story can be made prior to the meeting.
 9. Study write-ups in the newspaper and try to make your report follow newspaper style, giving the four W's — who, what, when and where — in the first paragraph. If your story is rewritten by the editor, do not be offended, but profit the next time by the changes.
 10. Feel free to call or visit the editor at any time, and express ideas for your club's publicity.

- Announcements of rummage sales, dances, etc., to be run three days in a row. That's advertising. However, we are glad to make an announcement of a sale. That's news.
- 9. Don't forget to suggest any unusual club program plan that may make a good picture to accompany your news story. It may not always be possible to get the News photographer, but by planning ahead, it may be arranged.
 - 10. Don't tell other people about the faults of the woman's page — tell the society editor!

SGT. AND MRS. BILL ELLINGTON

Williams-Ellington Say Vows In Altus Church

Miss Jimmie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams of Altus, Okla., became the bride of Sergeant Bill Ellington, son of Mrs. Palmer Cotham of Pampa and John Ellington of White Deer, in a ceremony read February 24 in the First Christian church in Altus.

Rev. Bruce E. Johnson, pastor of the church, read the vows before a background of white gladioli and greenery. The altar was flanked with branched candleabra.

Ronald Mitchell, organist, played "Through the Years" and "My Happiness" preceding the ceremony. He also played traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white tulle dress with silver accessories. She wore a matching Juliet cap with a short veil, and carried a white Bible topped with a white carnation corsage.

Miss Shriley Cotham of Pampa, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a lilac silk suit and matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

James Willson of Pampa served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a dove-gray suit with navy accessories. She wore a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Cotham wore a light tan ensemble with a red carnation corsage.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with low bowls of pink carnations and a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. June King of Anadarko served the cake, and Miss Betty King also of Anadarko, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Paul Witherspoon of Oklahoma City, twin sister of the bride, and Miss Wanette Wallace registered guests. Others assisting were Mrs. Hobart Jameson, Ernest Spears, D. R. Vaniman and Mrs. Nola Douglas of Sayre.

The couple will establish a home in Manchester, N. H., where Sgt. Ellington is stationed with the U. S. Air Force.

Young English Couple Enjoying Extended Visit In United States

Mrs. Alan Green, who is about to complete a six-month visit in the United States, will return to her home in Ashford, England, soon, and she'll take with her many pleasant memories of people and places she's known in this country—especially the memory of the Panhandle of Texas which reminds her of parts of England.

"Except," she laughs, "YOU Texans have miles and miles of one type of countryside, and at home there's just a mile or two of moors, then woods, and we don't have the immense space you have here."

That's just one of a number of differences Mrs. Green and her husband have found in this country and theirs since they arrived here last October. Mr. Green is a Cambridge graduate and is here on a graduate scholarship which is under the auspices of the Mutual Security Agency, an off-shoot of the Marshall plan. They went first to the University of Michigan, and the semester ended, visited Chicago, then established a temporary home in Bartlesville, Okla. They lived in Oklahoma City a month and are to be in Pampa two weeks during which time Mr. Green will be associated with Cities Service.

Despite the many differences, the Greens feel "very much at home" in Pampa and are enjoying every minute of what they feel is just an extended vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Davies are their host and hostess in Pampa, and are seeing that the English couple see everything of interest in this area. Several social gatherings are planned to introduce the couple here.

Mrs. Green was a guest at the local AAUW meeting this week, and answered many questions on English schools. Prior to her marriage she was a teacher, and substituted after her marriage. She plans several tours of Pampa schools and is anxious to see how the English system compares to the system here.

"Reforms are going on constantly in England's educational system," she explained, "but our young men and women finish college at about the same age they do in this country. We have only three years of college, but chart and stitch illustrations. Send 25c in COINS, your name, address and the PATTERN NUMBER to ANNE CABOT (The Pampa News), 1150 Ave. Americas, New York 36, N. Y.

Anne Cabot's New Album of Needlework is chock-full of grand designs, plus exciting features and a gift pattern printed in the book. 25-cents.

the last two years of English high school seem to be equivalent to the freshman year of college here. Children go to infant school from five to seven years, and at seven they go on to junior school and here their real education begins. In the infant school, however, they do learn their sums, learn to read and count.

"At eleven years, the academic students go to grammar school and those with technical knowledge or skill with their hands, go to art or skill schools. Others go to the modern school which gives an education up to 15 years."

Mr. and Mrs. Green are living in an apartment here, and she is enjoying doing her marketing. In England, women still face rationing of meat, eggs, butter, cooking fat, sugar, tea and margarine. Soap was recently removed from the ration list.

"Our markets are separate at home," she explained, "and we make a trip to the butcher's, the bakers, and the green shop. We register with one butcher in her own home in England.

The "super-mart" is a delight to Mrs. Green and she's also impressed with the laundermats. She is surprised American women think refrigeration is a necessity. She has a refrigerator in her own home in England, but it is not a common thing.

"You Americans keep your homes so warm, too," she said. "We don't heat our houses in England. There is so little fuel we always wait until about 4 p.m. to light the fire. We wear warm clothing while doing our housework and keep busy to keep warm."

Furniture, clothing, automobiles and many other products are much more expensive in England than here, but Mr. and Mrs. Green believe the homes are less expensive.

The English wages are far below this country's. Mrs. Green pointed out she earned more as an unskilled clerk at the University of Michigan than she did as a teacher in England.

About $60 a month is a good wage for English girls," she said. Mrs. Green will sail on the Queen Elizabeth during the Easter holiday, but Mr. Green will remain in this country until the fall. They spent last Christmas in Montreal with one of Mrs. Green's four sisters, and have covered a lot of miles. Mr. and Mrs. Green have also traveled extensively in Europe. She visited France in 1938 under an exchange system which enabled her to learn the French language. She lived six weeks in the home

Tips For Tasks

(Readers are invited to send in household tips which may be a saving in either time, money or energy). Sewing on material that ravel easily may be simplified if you cut an old candle with your shears. The wax from the candle will stick to the blades and a little of the wax will remain on the material, preventing it from raveling.

Try using your child's toy wagon to pull along the pails, soap and clothes you need for wall-washing or other housecleaning routines. You'll have less lifting, less stooping and less dripping.

MY TASK

To love someone more dearly every day.
To help a wandering child to find his way.
To ponder of a noble thought and pray.
And smile when evening falls — This is my task.
To follow truth as blind men seek for light.
To do my best from dawn of day till night.
To keep my heart fit for his holy light.
And answer when she calls "This is my task."
And then, my Saviour by and by, When faith hath made her task on earth complete.
And lay my homage at the Master's feet.
Within the Jasper walls — This crown my task.

Collins Says U. S. Stands On Threshold Of New Arms Era

WEST POINT, N. Y. — (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins says the United States is "on the threshold of new developments" in weapons that "completely astound" even the most hopeful military planners.

But the army chief of staff warns that the nation must not place its total reliance on super weapons.

Collins delivered the main address at a luncheon this week at the U. S. Military Academy observed Founder's Day, the high spot in the school's 150th anniversary celebrations being held this year. It was 150 years ago Sunday that President Thomas Jefferson signed a bill establishing the academy.

Collins said that "guided missiles, atomic weapons, jet aircraft, tremendously powerful ammunition and many other advances are all creating a new framework of defense."

He said implication of the new weapons "are so vast and their potential so promising that if we are not careful it is possible that our total national effort could be directed into one specific system to the detriment of other systems," which, in time might prove even more effective.

"There is also danger," Collins continued, "that we may become so enthralled by machines and weapons systems that we will lose sight of the fact that the man — the individual soldier — is the supreme element in combat."

Collins did not elaborate on his reference to new weapons. Last December he said the United States had developed and tested atomic artillery.

Dr. Logan's Wife

By Diana Gaines

THE STORY: In an effort to oust young Peter Surinoff from Angel's hospital where he is engaged in research in atomic medicine, Maxwell Cota has insinuated that Janet Logan, wife of Dr. Gus Logan, one of the staff, has been unfaithful. A certified check for $1200 endorsed by Janet was found in Peter's room by Cota. Actually, while Janet is attracted to Peter, younger than her aging husband, she has been a faithful wife. She had sold an old piece of jewelry and given the money to Peter as a going-away gift, realizing that she could see him no longer and not sensibly. The money was to be used in alum clearance, a project Peter is interested in. Cota, a landlord of the atom, had been trying to oust Peter from the staff on the ground that Peter had signed the loyalty oath. Cota's insinuation about Janet at a meeting of the hospital board, shocks Dr. Logan who has a weak heart.

XXXIV

THROUGH the black wash of silence broken by the sparkle of passing street lamps and the swish of passing cars, Walter Pelletier piloted the car as though it were a leaking ship on a rough sea, shifting and braking and steering with care and penance. Gus Logan, beside him, was still, closed up and still with the pent stillness of a mortally wounded animal who knows there is more battle to come. Pelletier was suffering for the man's suffering.

But one cannot on a sudden empty the mind. Over and over again, his dull mind sorted the blocks of image and speech and tone and circumstance that had built the evening's catastrophe. If only it were just the catastrophe of an evening and not of a life, and if only it were only one life and not two, not three. Why did meanings and implications have to linger after the death of the spoken word to infect the listener with death? Over and over again Pel-

Scientists Believe Plasma Substitute Has Been Found

NEW YORK — (AP) — Scientists believe they have found a substitute for blood plasma, — a new substance using red blood cells which are now largely wasted in getting plasma.

The product, known as modified human globin, has proteins taken from the red blood cells and prepared so that they can dissolve in human blood and feed the body, like plasma.

Dr. Max Strumia, director of the John S. SHARP Research foundation, said that the globin could be produced more cheaply than plasma. He added that its use would increase the protein yield of each blood donation by "more than three times."

It is the protein part of plasma that is valuable when patients are given plasma for nutrition or to combat shock.

A report on the use of the new product is to be presented shortly to the National Health Institute, a government agency in Washington.
