Intelligence Agency Sought By Military

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—A copyrighted dispatch to the Chicago Tribune today said President Roosevelt had received a draft of an order together with a proposal to establish a "central intelligence service" charged with coordination of postwar intelligence work and superseding existing federal police agencies.

The paper's Washington bureau, in an article by Walter Trohan, said the "highly confidential and secret" memorandum was given Mr. Roosevelt by Brig. Gen. William J. Donovan, director of the office of strategic services. The office would have no police power.

The Tribune asserted it had "securely" exclusively a copy of the memorandum, and added: "The Tribune also obtained a copy of an equally secret suggested draft of an order setting up the general intelligence service, which would supersede all existing federal police and intelligence units, including military intelligence, naval intelligence, the federal bureau of investigation, the secret service, the internal revenue agents, and the federal communications commission. The order gives the unit a wholesale grant of power."

The agency, with an "independent budget," would have seven principal functions, according to the article. These would be: Coordination of all intelligence agencies of the government; to assure "integration of national intelligence efforts"; Collection of "pertinent information" on foreign nations; evaluation and dissemination of this information; procurement and training of personnel; "subversive operations abroad"; determination of policies "essential to the collection of information"; such other activities as the President may require.

And finally, the agency "shall have no police or law enforcement functions, either at home or abroad."

Under this order, the Tribune said, it would be possible for the director "to determine American foreign policy by wading out, withholding, or coloring information gathered at his direction."

Five Bills Soon Will Start Way In Legislature

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—The 49th legislature may still be a dodo aeronautically speaking, but it promises to emerge from its fledgling status soon with five separate bills dealing with as many angles of aviation.

One bill by representative Ned Price of Tyler and Houston McMurry of Henrietta sets up a uniform airports act, while another by the same crew creates a three member state aeronautics commission.

Still another by W. W. Roark of Temple empowers the railroad commission to issue carrier permits and a fourth by Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe would create the office of aeronautical airport and highway department.

A fifth bill by Sen. Penrose Mellett, W. E. Stone, Buster Brown, and Grady Hazlewood, purports to do much the same as the Price-McMurry bill on setting up a non-salaried commission with a full time paid director.

Members are speculating as to whether these bills will ride through separately or possibly be welded into one super bill in committee or on the floor.

Moffett's bill ground looped in an attempted take off against a cross wind in a senate highway committee hearing this week. Witnesses appeared against the bill to argue that the highway department would coordinate traffic routes to new airports as a part of their regular program. The committee left the bill hanging.

Since the other four pieces of legislation deal strictly with airports and carrier control they will have an opportunity of receiving clearance in newly created committees on aeronautics set up in both house and senate for the first time this season.

NEW YORK—Newest conversation piece costume blouses, with messages of love, names of perfumes and doodle-type scrolls printed thither and yon over their high-collared, are so striking they're apt to stop speech right in its tracks.

Example of one conversation-stopper is the print motif you see on the blouse at the right—names in fancy script and bottles as big as life of famous perfumes splashed all over in gay colors on a white background.

The blouse style with its back buttons and collared neckline, bow tied slightly off center, is typical of new short-sleeved fashions which can team up with a lone skirt to make a costume or can add the dressy touch to a simple suit.

As arresting as this blouse, individualized by the perfume motif is, ditto those carrying such messages as "I love you" and "doodle-type scrolls"—"Gin Rummy" for instance is written all over one—some of the most eye-catching prints, however, are bold "Tiffani" checks in rayon sirah, the silk and gingham, and Gibson Girl stripes in cotton-and-rayon mixtures.

Example of designer's skill with stripes is shown left in the Florence Gator blouse of ever-fast crim crepe—a new rayon and cotton fabric—on which tucking at cross purposes is used to form the bosom front and the prim bow tie at the neckline.

NEW YORK—Newest conversation piece costume blouses, with messages of love, names of perfumes and doodle-type scrolls printed thither and yon over their high-collared, are so striking they're apt to stop speech right in its tracks.

Example of one conversation-stopper is the print motif you see on the blouse at the right—names in fancy script and bottles as big as life of famous perfumes splashed all over in gay colors on a white background.

The blouse style with its back buttons and collared neckline, bow tied slightly off center, is typical of new short-sleeved fashions which can team up with a lone skirt to make a costume or can

Harvesters Battle Sandies Here Tonight

Fans Are Urged To Come Out Early; No Seats in Advance

Tonight at 8:00 o'clock, in the junior high gym, two of the greatest rivals in Texas interscholastic League history will clash in an all-important District 1AA conference game.

Amarillo's giant Sandies will meet the Harvesters of the local high school. One of the largest crowds in Pampa basketball history is expected to witness the game.

MacArthur's statement is vividly portrayed in tonight's Pampa-Amarillo basketball game. The two teams are rivals, it's true, but we're sure you won't find any inkling of actual enmity between the boys who make up these teams.

Some try to play Pampa-Amarillo games up as battles between so-called "hated rivals." That word hate is the very thing our sons and daughters are fighting against.

When it comes to sports rivalry, the public, as a rule, begins to get slightly unreasonable; making false accusations, accusing opposing players of poor sportsmanship and other such mistakes; but, when you get down to it, these boys are only human. They are going to make errors that look like intentional offenses for the simple reason that they want to win even more than the fans want them to win.

Pampa players and fans have an enviable reputation for good sportsmanship, and we can say the same for Amarillo or any other town in Texas. Let's keep it that way, folks. Let's show the Sandies and Sandie fans that we know they'll play fair and that we intend to do the same.

There has always been a certain number of fans that make a practice of booing opposing players, referees and fans. No matter how adverse any decision, let's make it our duty to see that such practices are stopped.

Booing is not going to help your team. Just remember that MacArthur said "friendly" strife.

Paul Brown Is In Pro Ranks

CLEVELAND, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Lt. Paul Brown, who came up from the high school coaching ranks to gain national fame at Ohio State and Great Lakes, has moved into the professional field at a salary his employer terms larger than any football coach in the country.

The 36-year-old Brown, on leave of absence from Ohio state, yesterday signed a five-year contract as head coach and general manager of the Cleveland team in the budding all-America conference.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed by Arthur McBride, Cleveland tackle manager who owns the Ohio city franchise, but he said it was the best deal ever given a football coach. One unofficial source reported Brown's annual salary would be in excess of $15,000.

New Orleans Meet Starts With 86

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Golf's money boys tee off in the opening rounds of the $5,000 New Orleans open today in what the favorites predict will be the toughest tournament of the winter series.

Eighty six professional and amateurs are scheduled to go the opening 18 holes today. Another 18 is on the slate for tomorrow with 36 holes winding up the tournament Sunday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The weight of expert opinion seems to be again the Howard Hobson-Julian Rice version of basketball—but the fans seemed to like it and, for that reason, so did this non-expert observer—there's a bigger kick in seeing a long shot swish through the basket than in any amount of fancy floor work under the basket—especially when so many big boys are trying to get under the basket that you can't see who's who—and you should have heard the customers shouting "three" when a kid was poised to shoot from just inside the 23-foot arc—for the scoring, it's no more confusing than the difference between a base hit and a two-bagger—and we never heard of a football coach, for instance, objecting to long phases or wide end runs because he preferred the more intricate teamwork of an off-guard play.

HOME SWEET HOME

Jersey Jones, the reformed publisher, tells this one about how Manager Tommy Thomas of the Baltimore Orioles visited the stadium three days after the baseball season ended to pick up his mail—the Orioles had won the Intentional League pennant, the playoffs and the little world series and had broken all Baltimore attendance records—but when he got to the bowl, the navy had taken over for a football game and all Tommy's explanations and credentials couldn't get him in to his own office.

SERVICE DEPT.

Lt. W. Robert Dixon, Syracuse, N. Y., tennis player back from England, claims that piloting a P-47 helped his net game and vice versa. Aerial combat, he says, sharpened his sense of timing and balance while tennis relieved the nervous tension of flying—S. C. Ed Bascho, who played a lot of tackle for the Port Pierce, Fla., navy amphibs, would be heading for Annapolis this fall if he was six weeks younger. He'll be 21 on Feb. 25—Capt. Nathan Anderson, former Oklahoma U. trackman, recently wrote Coach Jack Jacobs for two javelins—not to toss at naris. "As soon as this thing is over, all our units are going to have a service men's olympics in Paris," Anderson explained.

CHAMP IN INFANTRY

CAMP ROBERTS, Calif., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Manuel V. Ortiz, 29, world's champion bantamweight boxer from El Centro, Calif., arrived here for training as an infantryman.

Ramblers, Aggies Enter Stars in Border Olympics

LAREDO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Randolph field and Oklahoma A. and M. football powers of last season, have entered track and field teams in the thirteenth annual border olympics scheduled here March 9.

Neither was represented in the olympics last year.

Manager Bob Parker said Randolph field and the Aggies would compete against each other as the service teams are being thrown in with the colleges and universities this year.

The divisions were combined in order to speed up the meet and also to make possible more chances of record-breaking.

Other entries include Chase field of Beville, Moore field of Harlingen, Laredo army air field and the old standbys—Texas A. and M. and the University of Texas—who never have missed a meet.

One of the stars of the Oklahoma A. and M. team is Bob Fenimore, the all-America back who appeared with the Aggies in the Cotton Bowl against Texas Christian. Fenimore is a dash man, running the 100 in 9.7.

Perry Samuels of Thomas Jefferson and August Erfurth of Brackett, stars of San Antonio's two great schoolboy teams last season, are among the top high school entries.

Plainview Boxer Will Appear in Madison Square

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Texas, with credit to the United States marine corps and Washington, D. C., will be represented in the eastern division of the National Golden Gloves at Madison Square Garden in March.

Carrying the blessings of the Lone Star State will be Sgt. LaVern Roach, 19-year-old native of Plainview, who will go to New York with the team representing Washington, where last month he won the welterweight title and the Mrs. Eleanor Patterson trophy as the outstanding senior boxer of the Golden Gloves tournament.

Sgt. Roach was born seven miles north of here and received his education in the Plainview public schools. He joined the U. S. marine corps in February, 1943, shortly after his graduation from Plainview high school. At present he is with the athletic department at Cherry Point, N. C., where he is a star of the leatherstocking boxing team.

Roach played halfback on the Plainview high football team and also was a member of the school's amateur boxing circles. He fought in the 112-pound class in the state Golden Gloves in 1941 and as a bantamweight in 1942.

In the marine corps Roach developed rapidly under the coaching of Sgt. Johnny Aboud, an outstanding professional lightweight, was awarded a trophy for being the most popular boxer in the tournament.

He has won 20 bouts and lost only two since becoming a member of the fighting leatherstock and never has been knocked out during his boxing career.

Roach is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Roach of Plainview.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—He was mentioned often as a possible purchaser of the New York Yankees, and he's still mentioned as the possible next commissioner of baseball, but James A. Although he frankly admits he would have liked to have purchased the Yankees, he laughs off the mention of his possible selection as successor to K. M. Landis as commissioner.

"Nobody has approached me about it," he said.

Culture by the Yard

The advertisement gave us a bit of a shock. Here was one of the country's leading book dealers, old, respected and highbrow, offering to sell you a library at what might be called space rates.

"Do you have an empty built-in bookshelf?" the ad inquired. It went on to list the various books in the country's leading book dealers, old, respected and highbrow, offering to sell you a library at what might be called space rates.

The ad offered three selections of Giants in Literature for the home in lots of 100—priced roughly at $200, $500 and $1000. There was also a selection of 1520 volumes, price not given, but presumably it would knock your hat off.

Well, we thought, a fine thing when a respected old house boldly offers to make you into a phony literate. Has the day come, we asked ourselves, when the book must go the way of the piano, which long since, in most homes, ceased to be a musical instrument and became a piece of furniture?

And then we got to thinking of the means by which most full bookshelves in our land probably got that way. There were the college textbooks, of course. And the book subscription club selections. And detective novels, the fruit of years of last-minute shopping in stations for something to while away a tedious train journey.

But these were a shelf or two. The rest of the books are "sets," the result of visits from hungry, persistent salesmen with their toe in the door and the wiles of the devil on the tip of their tongue.

They had a way of making you feel shamefully illiterate, of convincing you that you would have to bear through life the reproachful glances of your children if you didn't buy their history set or lectures or gold-leaf encyclopaedia.

And so you paid three prices for the set and got beautifully stung. But you weren't the only sucker in town. The acquisition of literary gems throughout America became a series of unhappy incidents that happened in the best of families, and which went unmentioned by common, tactful consent.

We suppose that logic and economy are on the book firm's side. Probably you'd get a better bargain. (And what's so awful about buying literature by the yard—didn't Dr. Elliot sell Harvard classics by the foot?) But still, somehow, the old-time book peddler was a little more flattering.

Arming the French
Gen. Brehon B. Somervell has sent the encouraging word from Fhris that there is not at present any supply shortage on the West front. But this is not a signal to relax efforts to improve our manpower supply and utilization, or to think that supply problems are definitely licked.

They cannot approach solution until we have made good our commitment to equip and supply a large force of French troops. In the last war the bulk of American munitions and much of our equipment was provided by the French. Now the procedure must be reversed. The same interest in mutual help.

The rapid equipment of a French army will relieve the American load in the west, and surely make the war shorter and less costly. The French are ready and impatiently willing to fight. Their part in Germany's defeat is an obligation of honor and national pride. By every consideration of sympathy and realism, we should help them meet that obligation.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S FOURTH INAUGURAL
(The Christian Century)

With the shortest address since Washington's second inaugural, Mr. Roosevelt took the oath of office for the fourth time on January 20. Brevity is usually a virtue, but the country would have listened gladly to a more full and frank statement of the issues that are determined to win the war and make a just and durable peace, that "the trend of civilization is forever upward," that we must avoid suspicion and mistrust and fear, while unexceptionable in phraseology contained nothing to grip the mind or to give the impression of a strong hand at the controls. To those who heard the listless words as they came over the air, or read them in the press, the impression was almost inescapable of a speaker who had done this so often that he was content to do little more than go through the motions of making another speech.

Some of Mr. Roosevelt's countrymen may have been reassured to learn that he was not opposed to "perfection" as his recent message to Congress suggested, and it is said that his assertion that "we must live as men, not as ostriches, not as dogs in the manger" (was it not at this moment?) has been received with enthusiasm in England. But for the most part, the feeling remains that Mr. Roosevelt made his fourth inaugural not as did Lincoln, when he used the opportunity of his second inaugural to reveal how his soul was wrestling with the tragedy of war, but simply because American custom calls for a speech at Presidential inaugurations.

Evidence of Un-Christian Leadership
In the last issue I set forth some tests to determine whether or not a man was a Christian. I also stated that a student of history could foresee what was coming by reading the books issued by men who are regarded as Christian leaders.

Men of foresight in 1909 could have predicted the terrible unemployment and depression of 1929, the long period of unemployment through the '30's and the war today. It was at that time that the Methodist church the Federal Council of Churches went on record as worshipping the state or the mob rather than the inherent God-given rights of every human being.

I drew the conclusion in the last issue that Dr. E. Stanley Jones was not a Christian. Now I want to quote from his book, "The Light of the American Road," to show how far the inherent God-given rights of every human being are regarded as a Christian.

In his book he says, "Perhaps the most fundamental struggle in our national life is the struggle between the rights of property and the rights of persons." He says that the impression that property itself has rights, property has no rights but men have rights in property. There is no struggle between property and men. Jones would make the people believe there should be a struggle between those who own much property and those who own less property.

Jones says we have a right to limit immigration, but we have no right to humiliate others. It is beyond conception how anyone who understands the principles of Christianity can claim that a nation has a right to limit immigration. To do so is to deny the brotherhood of man, and that is to repudiate the very crux of Christianity.

Jones also says, "Democracy must give equal access to education, to culture, to meaningful employment." And by democracy he has said, the state. When pressed, he has admitted that the state must be the agent to do what he says democracy must do.

By this act Jones would take away from individuals their inheritance, natural rights. He is repudiating the fundamental teachings of Jesus that "Even the very hairs of your head are all numbered"; that every man must be respected. Jones is advocating force in place of voluntary persuasion. No Christian would advocate such a procedure.

Believes in Russian System
It is hard to conceive how any man can think he is a Christian when he considers the Russian government a proper form of government. Listen to E. Stanley Jones' endorsement of the Russian system in his book, "The Christ of the American Road."

"When I paid a surprise visit to a school in Russia and asked for the privilege of talking to a class, I was sent to a class made up of twelve- or thirteen-year-olds. I asked them what they had in favor of this regime. A sea of hands went up as if they expected to be asked why they loved it. Their answers were intelligent and to the point. Then I asked them what they had against the regime. A few hands went up. 'We still have a good many of the bourgeois left in our system; we must clear them out.'"

Then he continues with a statement that puts Dr. Jones on record as endorsing the Russian system. He quotes the answer of one of the pupils, "But sir, we have nothing against the system. The system is all right." Remember he formerly said the answers of these school children were intelligent and to the point.

Of course in the whole procedure Dr. Jones shows his utter lack of knowledge of the Russian system. No adult in Russia except Stalin, and even Stalin, is a child trained in that environment, would have dared criticize the system. And yet Dr. Jones implies that the Russian system respects the dignity of the human soul and is a desirable form of government.

As further evidence of his belief in the Russian system rather than the system set forth in the Declaration of Independence, Dr. Jones declares, "A combination of individualism and collectivism will give us what we need," and continues by saying, "We will proudly give to Russia the first commandment, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

And E. Stanley Jones makes the above claim after millions of people have been shot down in Russia because they had a different idea of the meaning of "love thy neighbor as thyself" from that of the government! And yet he says collectivism will give what he calls "the new man" the commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Task, Task, Tasks!
Without taking sides in the argument over Henry Wallace's aspiration to be secretary of commerce and also administrator of the vast RFC financial empire, one may be intrigued by his remark that he does not want the former position if there is danger that a "too little and too late" man might get the financial administrationship.

If the jobs are separated President Roosevelt will, of course, appoint the man to take over the financial set-up. Surely Mr. Wallace does not contend that he is the only available appointee who would not be a "too little and too late" man. Surely he does not insinuate that the President would appoint such a person to that job. Any implication that Mr. Wallace lacks faith in the President's appointive discretion must have been unintentional.

CONGRESSMEN WANT THE REINS AGAIN

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Proposals for improving the relationships between congress and the executive end of the government, the voters and the special interest lobbies and pressure groups, must be judged on the point of whether congress is out of step with the rest of the world or whether everybody else is out of step with congress.

Defenders of congress are too often forced to plead that their critics do not understand what congress is supposed to do or what it does. On that basis it is the executive arm of the government which needs the most reforming. Nevertheless, few people can deny that there is general public dissatisfaction over the continued rowing between congress and the executive.

A right to derogate the agency set-up might be in order at the same time congress goes through its reorganization. Anything that would improve relationships between the executive and legislative arms of the government would be a help, but since the "outletting" of certain unpopular executives, and furthermore it might lead to considerable embarrassment of the President. Questions would have to be submitted in advance, and answers might be declined.

The general accounting office, created as an agency of congress, might do this, but its functions have been limited to auditing and it is not used to advise congress on what the executive agencies of government should or should not do. Bureau of the budget, in the executive office of the President, determines that, but it reports to the President, and not to congress.

More review and control over the executive departments is what congress wants. It finds expression in proposals like that of Rep. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois that all executive orders be suspended until ten days after the passage of a congress to examine them and then veto any it doesn't like.

Feeling that the executive departments have been running off with the government, there has been some talk of debate on the part of congress to recapture the leadership and make the executive arms more subservient to its will. Laws establishing the Smaller War Plants Corp. lend lease administration, office of war mobilization and reconversion and similar agencies shall make periodic reports to congress.

When congress gets the reports, the congressmen do not have time to study them and do not have the staff to make studies of the reports for them. This leads to the desire to reform congress so that it has some agency to keep better check on what the executive departments are doing, how they're spending the money congress gives them.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER
WALLACE—Republicans in house and senate have concocted an ingenious formula for opposing the nomination of Henry A. Wallace as head of commerce, even though that department is so stripped of power that it amounts to little more than a statistical bureau.

The principals behind this new movement are Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Minority House Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., who see no reason for relenting simply because President Roosevelt has promised to sign the George bill directing all lending authority from the commerce department. Bob and Joe figure that they are riding a sure political winner on this radical-versus-conservative issue, and they intend to whip it on to the last stretch.

Mr. Wallace, in their opinion, will be more effective in administration councils as a cabinet member than he would be as federal loan administrator. The latter, according to their theory, does not sit at White House powwows where basic policies are framed, whereas the secretary of commerce enjoys this privilege.

EXPLANATION—Jesse H. Jones, consciously or unconsciously, tipped off the G. O. P.-ers to this strategy. In frequent appearances before congressional committees investigating his transactions, he emphasized that the Reconstruction Finance Corp., officials do not form basic policy. His instructions on advancing funds for prosecution of the war come from departmental heads after they have first sold the idea to F. D. R. Here are the Texan's verbatim words:

"If the war department tells us to build a navy, we build a war ship. If the navy department tells us to build a navy plant, we build a navy plant. If the foreign economic administration tells us to make a loan to South America, we make the loan. So you see that we do not consider ourselves a policymaking organization."

This explanation may account for Mr. Roosevelt's readiness to agree to passage of the George bill, and why Messrs. Taft and Martin want to keep Mr. Wallace a thousand miles or more from the inner circle of advisers.

SUSPICION—The exceptionally well greased machinery which President Roosevelt employed for assuring the senate that he would approve the George proposal first provoked republican suspicion that the White House-Wallace forces were scheming to outflank the opposition. Gallery reporters apparently missed the maneuver, but it was not lost on the minority strategists.

On Thursday afternoon, Feb. 1, Majority Leader Barkley urged passage of the George bill, explaining that he had always opposed giving vast control over cash and credit to a cabinet member. He added, however, that he did not know whether the President had approved the Georgian's plan. By that time the senate had voted in favor of it overwhelmingly.

The upper chamber then passed on to consideration of the nomination of Colonel Elliott Roosevelt for chief general. The discussion took about twenty-five minutes, and then the Kentuckian rose again to move that action on the Wallace nomination be postponed until March 1. He assured his colleagues that he anticipated the house would act "promptly and favorably" on the George bill.

OUTSMARTED—While Mr. Barkley was on his feet, he received a message from the White House informing him that the President would sign the George bill, and had objected to making Mr. Wallace a mere figurehead as secretary of commerce. Naturally, Mr. Taft grew suspicious, in view of the fact that only thirty minutes earlier, the Kentuckian had professed ignorance of the White House attitude.

Only Mr. Roosevelt was many thousand miles away from Washington when his message was forwarded to the senate. He was then on his way to the Big Three conference "somewhere east of London." Apparently, he had fortified himself by leaving his approval of the George bill at Pennsylvania avenue before he left.

Thus F. D. R. may have outsmarted himself. For it was this easy willingness to agree to stripping down the Wallace-headed commerce department which strengthened the Taft-Martin determination to demand "unconditional surrender" from the White House.

WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The growing intensity of the Allied assault which is boring into the Reich from both west and east has strengthened the belief among observers that the Big Three, now in momentous conference in the Black Sea area, are likely soon to call on the German people to desert Hitler.

Should it be the design of Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin to issue such a summons, it would be logical to assume that it would come at the psychological moment when the Germans have been squeezed just hard enough—a matter calling for very delicate timing.

The moral effect of such summons would be greatly strengthened if the call came while the Big Three were in session. Deserter of Hitler by part of his people probably wouldn't end the war, but it would put an awful crimp in the effort to carry on. Of course a good many folk in the United Nations almost hope that the Germans will keep on fighting until the Allied armies have had a chance to trample the length and breadth of the Reich with hob-nailed boots.

While we are on this subject of surrender, did you read that terrible story from Temple, Texas, about the experience of Pvt. William

Navy Supports Draft

In Order To Aid Army

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Rear Admiral W. J. C. Agnew told the house military committee Wednesday the navy's needs for nurses could be met without a nurse-draft law.

However, the assistant surgeon general added, the navy is supporting a draft proposal because only in that manner can the army's need for 18,000 more nurses be met.

The navy, Admiral Agnew said, believes it will reach its ceiling figure of 11,500 nurses by June 30 through voluntary enlistments, and can fill monthly replacement requirements thereafter in the same manner.

Current navy nurse strength, he said, is 9,221, with 2,300 applications pending and 70 percent of the applicants likely to be accepted. In addition, the navy has 123,100 medical corpsmen including 12,500 Waves.

Dr. Donald C. Smelzer, president of the American Hospital association, told the committee that many hospitals may be required to close their doors unless something is done to provide nurses, and asserted there was a need for legislation to provide for "an orderly distribution" of nurses for military and essential civilian needs. He did not specially endorse a draft.

Kurusu Does 'Job,' He Is Now Retiring

A Domei news agency broadcast, recorded by the federal communications commission, said Kurusu had accepted an offer to "act in an advisory capacity for the Japanese foreign office."

Two toward the box where he is and make a special bow to him—"But why would I bow to him, Mamma, and not to all?" Mamma puckered her lips. "Fritchen, the Count is a very, very great man." Frederic said, "Yes, but he is not so great as Professor Elmsner."

MAMMA could not sleep; she could not even close her eyes. She tossed and was very restless. All her thoughts were of the concert. Would Fritchen remember all she had told him? Her ears were alert for the sounds of the returning carriage. She heard nothing but the wind in the eaves.

One thing she had managed to do before they had put her to bed, a perfectly well woman; she had managed to see that Fritchen looked his best. She and Papa had laid out the money for the very finest velvet trousers and new shoes and a handsome smock with a broad collar and sturdy strings with which to keep the smock in place about the child's neck. He wore mittens, too, for his fingers must be warm if they were to be limber.

AT last! They were home at last! Mamma sat up. She flung the bedcovers from her, but, on second thought, pulled them back, then shouted: "—Well! Are you there?" Fritchen was at the door first. Mamma saw by the light of the candles how his eyes glowed. She knew the concert was a success.

"—It was, wasn't it?" Papa Chopin, his high hat still on his head, was in the doorway. "—Well, don't any of you say anything!" "I wasn't afraid, Mamma." "—No, no! Don't tell me that. I know that. What was there to be afraid of? But how was it? It is only to show them, but when they say I am sick, then I don't know what to say, I want to laugh in their faces. Fritchen, my darling, your Mamma can laugh as hearty as any of them."

She laughed and Fritchen joined in the laughter. "—Now, my darling, there are

A SONG TO REMEMBER

THE STORY: At the age of 10, Frederic Chopin's dexterity at the piano has already made him a person of note in the little Polish village of Zelazowa Wola. Count Skarbek, owner of the village, has requested that he play in a public concert at Warsaw. Frederic considers it a great honor, and he and his young friends have been having secret meetings and when they grow up intend to fight for the freedom of Poland, which is under the rule of the Russian Czar. Elmsner is sympathetic, and swears at the day when Paris musical world will acknowledge Frederic's genius.

THE CONCERT

Fritchen's first public performance had its effect on Mamma Chopin. She was put to bed with a fever and it was thought she would not be well enough to attend. "I am not sick," Mamma said. "How perfectly ridiculous." She called for Fritchen and the boy went into the bedroom and stood alongside Mamma's bed and took Mamma's hand.

"Frederic, did they tell you Mamma was sick?" "Yes, Mamma." "That is a terrible thing to tell you. Look at me. Does your Mamma look sick?" "No, Mamma."

"I am not sick yet they won't let me get up. What am I to do? I am as well as anybody but to them that doesn't make any difference. I must still do as they say. Well, I will do it, of course, I am not so stubborn. I will do it if only to show them. But when they say I am sick, then I don't know what to say, I want to laugh in their faces. Fritchen, my darling, your Mamma can laugh as hearty as any of them."

The army jumped off yesterday after a paralyzing artillery bombardment. The Germans said the offensive already had extended as far south as the German town of Trier, 20 miles southeast of where the U. S. Third army is on the attack opposite the Luxembourg frontier.

The American First and Third armies attacked on a 70-mile front, the former on the verge of springing into the Rhineland plain below the Roer dam network which still poses the threat of a drowning flood over Allied forces in the Aachen area.

Also ready for a possible offensive were the U. S. Seventh and French First armies, at the south, mopping up doomed German pockets. North of Strasbourg the Germans have abandoned Herlshheim and Offendorf.

The first announcement did not locate Koenigsberg and left the impression that the capital of East Prussia was meant. Later Berlin broadcasts identified the town.

Schroeter was sentenced in court at Schwedt, 30 miles south of Stettin.

Court To Review Two State Cases

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The supreme court Wednesday accepted for review two cases involving interpretation of statutes which have stood for a number of years without question. In one, the court consented to consider the question of whether or not the 39th legislature's act relating to oil and gas lease rentals on "bays, marshes, reefs, salt water lakes or other submerged lands," includes state-owned river beds. The court granted the Grayburg Oil company leave to file a petition for a writ of mandamus against Bascom Giles, commissioner of the land office, to compel him to renew an oil and gas lease on 280 acres of Pecos river bed in Pecos and Crockett counties. Giles had refused such renewal on the basis that Grayburg had defaulted on rental payments since 1929. Grayburg contends under the law none had been due since 1928.

Grayburg's motion noted a "mutual desire for construction of the statutes" in regard to oil and gas leases on river beds.

In the second case, the sufficiency of the title of an act of the 46th legislature, revising the unemployment compensation law, was in question.

The unemployment compensation commission sued the practitioners, a fraternal benefit society, to re-alleged to be due under the consumer contributions and penalties pension act. The state won a judgment of $11,883.16 in trial court, but the third court of civil appeals reversed and remanded the case. The practitioners contended the title of the amending act was insufficient, and the original law excluding insurance agents and solicitors, continued in force.

In this case, the state was granted a writ of error under which the court will construe the act.

Beaumont Woman Gets $50,000 Inheritance

HOUSTON, Feb. 9.—The $50,000 estate of Mrs. Thelma Merchant of Houston, who died last August, will go to her sister, Mrs. Pearl Shepherd of Beaumont, a jury decided here.

The jury decided a handwritten will signed by Mrs. Merchant in March, 1941, never had been revoked.

It had been contested by a niece of Mrs. Merchant, Mrs. Leola Rhodes of Dallas, who contended Mrs. Merchant had written a later will in February, 1942, giving the estate to her. She said the second will had been lost or destroyed.

Former County Judge Roy Hofheinz had admitted the lost will to probate last fall and Mrs. Shepherd appealed the case. Yesterday's jury verdict reached after a two-weeks' trial reversed the former decision.

Gracie Reporting

Consolidated News Features Today I'm going to dispense a bit of advice to all the nice young war brides our boys have been sending home from Australia, Scotland, Ireland, Egypt and all the other countries overseas where we have bases.

I'm afraid you girls will find America a bit different from your homeland. Those of you from Egypt will miss the camels, both for riding and smoking purposes.

You lassies from Scotland may be surprised to find that men don't wear skirts here, but in our part of California neither do the women. You girls from England and Australia will find that bobby sox aren't worn by policemen but by members of a strange cult given to the practice of strooning and collecting autographs.

And you will certainly be at something of a loss in a domestic argument as you can't threaten to go home to mother, particularly if she lives in Sydney, Australia. But your husband will be happy because it will mark one of the first times the mother-in-law can definitely be said to be down under.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION OF FINAL ACCOUNT THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Gray County, Greeting: O. A. Hays, Administrator of the Estate of Edna M. Hogsett, deceased, having filed in our County Court his Final Account of the condition of the Estate of said Edna M. Hogsett, deceased, numbered 993 on the Probate Docket of Gray County, together with an application to be discharged from said Administration.

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED That by publication of this writ not less than twenty days before the return day hereof in a Newspaper printed in the County of Gray you give due notice to all persons interested in the Account for Final Settlement of said Estate, to appear and contest the same if they see proper so to do, on Monday, the 5th day of March, 1945, at the Court House of said County, in Pampa, Texas, when said Account and Application will be acted upon by said Court.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at my office in the City of Pampa, Texas, this 8th day of February A. D. 1945. CHARLIE THUT, Clerk County Court Gray County. A true copy. I certify.

Hot Tamale, Dog Are Side by Side BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 9.—(AP) Under brilliant sunshine thousands of colorful Mexican costumes flashed on the streets of Brownsville Thursday at the opening of the eighth annual Charro Days fiesta.

Blessed by ideal weather which has been a rare article in the history of this costume carnival, Charro Days got off to its most resounding start since its earliest days and by noon thousands of people were on hand.

And at this fiesta the hot tamale and the hot dog will be served side by side on the same plate as a "Charro specialty," indicative of the fact that it is an international festival at which the peoples of both sides of the Rio Grande gather as friends to carry on in the tradition of the border fiesta of an earlier day.

Charro Days will move steadily toward a fast tempo as the week moves on with a series of brilliant costume dances, night club entertainment, costumed parades in which thousands of little children and costumed men and women on horseback will take part, and other events.

Its distinguishing characteristic is that the people here all wear costume and at least 20,000 costumes will be visible on the streets by tomorrow when the parades start. It is a fiesta in which the people gather on the streets and sing and dance and there is something moving on into the small hours of every morning.

The fiesta runs on through Sunday with a speed boat regatta as the final event here and a bullfight and Noche Mexicana program in Matamoros across the Rio Grande.

Court To Review Two State Cases

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—The supreme court Wednesday accepted for review two cases involving interpretation of statutes which have stood for a number of years without previous question. In one, the court consented to consider the question of whether or not the 39th legislature's act relating to oil and gas lease rentals on "bars, marshes, reefs, salt water lakes or other submerged lands," includes state-owned river beds. The court granted the Grayburg oil company leave to file a petition for a writ of mandamus against Bascom Giles, commissioner of the land office, to compel him to renew an oil and gas lease on 280 acres of Pecos river bed in Pecos and Crockett counties. Giles had refused such renewal on the basis that Grayburg had defaulted on rental payments since 1929. Grayburg contends under the law none had been due since 1928.

Grayburg's motion noted a "mutual desire for construction of the statutes" in regard to oil and gas leases on river beds.

In the second case, the sufficiency of the title of an act of the 40th legislature, revising the unemployment compensation law, was in question.

The unemployment compensation commission sued the practitioners, a fraternal benefit society, to re-alleged to be due under the convener contributions and penalties pension act. The state won a judgment of $11,883.16 in trial court, but the third court of civil appeals reversed and remanded the case. The practitioners contended the title of the amending act was insufficient, and the original law excluding insurance agents and solicitors, continued in force.

In this case, the state was granted a writ of error under which the court will construe the act.

Beaumont Woman Gets $50,000 Inheritance

HOUSTON, Feb. 9.—The $50,000 estate of Mrs. Thelma Merchant of Houston, who died last August, will go to her sister, Mrs. Pearl Shepherd of Beaumont, a jury decided here.

The jury decided a handwritten will signed by Mrs. Merchant in March, 1941, never had been revoked. It had been contested by a niece of Mrs. Merchant, Mrs. Leola Rhodes of Dallas, who contended Mrs. Merchant had written a later will in February, 1942, giving the estate to her. She said the second will had been lost or destroyed.

Former County Judge Roy Hofheinz had admitted the lost will to probate last fall and Mrs. Shepherd appealed the case. Yesterday's jury verdict reached after a two-weeks trial reversed the former decision.

Gracie Reporting

Consolidated News Features Today I'm going to dispense a bit of advice to all the nice young war brides our boys have been sending home from Australia, Scotland, Ireland, E. Y. P. I. and all the other countries overseas where we have bases.

I'm afraid you girls will find America a bit different from your homeland. Those of you from Egypt will miss the camels, both for riding and smoking purposes.

You lassies from Scotland may be surprised to find that men don't wear skirts here, but in our part of California neither do the women.

You girls from England and Australia will find that bobby sox aren't worn by policemen but by members of a strange cult given to the practice of swooning and collecting autographs.

And you will certainly be at something of a loss in a domestic argument as you can't threaten to go home to mother, particularly if she lives in Sydney, Australia. But your husband will be happy because it will mark one of the first times the mother-in-law can definitely be said to be down under.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION OF FINAL ACCOUNT

THE STATE OF TEXAS, To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Gray County, Greeting: G. A. HAYS, Administrator of the Estate of Edna M. Hogsett, deceased, having filed in our County Court his Final Account of the condition of the Estate of said Edna M. Hogsett, deceased, numbered 493 on the Probate Docket of Gray County, together with an application to be discharged from said Administration.

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED, That by publication of this writ not less than twenty days before the return day hereof in a Newspaper printed in the County of Gray you give due notice to all persons interested in the Account for Final Settlement of said Estate, to appear and contest the same if they see proper so to do, on Monday, the 5th day of March, 1945, at the Court House of said County, in Pampa, Texas, when said Account and Application will be acted upon by said Court.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at my office in the City of Pampa, Texas, this 8th day of February A. D. 1945.

(SEAL) CHARLIE THUT, Clerk County Court Gray County. A true copy, I certify.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
A few years ago Princeton university published a large book under the title "Twelve Who Raised" by E. R. Palmer. It was a large book, and it dealt with the 12 men who constituted the "Committee of Public Safety" which governed France during the year of the Terror in the French revolution. When life was anything but safe.

It is a small book of only a few pages, even taking all four Gospels into account, that tells of another 12, who were concerned, also, with safety, or salvation; but what a different 12, and what a different sort of safety!

These 12 were the friends of Jesus, called to be His companions and followers, fishermen some of them, and all through His making "fishers of men." To them He gave the joy as well as the burden of sharing in His earthly ministry, and of establishing the Christian church after He had gone, assuring them of His continued presence. "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Was there ever such a dream, or such a project? Was any great task ever begun or carried on with such seemingly small resources, or by men so little prepared for such immense responsibilities? Yet Jesus knew His mission, and He knew the sort of men He needed to carry it out—men of daring and initiative, capable of making great sacrifices, ambitious, free from entanglements, and with minds responsive to new truth and teaching.

It is a mistake to think of the 12 Apostles as ignorant or unlearned men. Nor do they seem to have been poor. As to education, every Jewish boy attended the school associated with the synagogue, and was trained in the law and lore of his religion. With this went the insistence that every boy should learn a trade, or be brought up to useful work, thus, a fisherman, or a farmer, or a carpenter, might in reality be a very intelligent and educated person.

Another common mistake is to think of the Apostles as old men. They are almost always pictured in that way; perhaps because of their major work in establishing the Christian church in which they became old. But when Jesus called them they were young men like Himself, and Christianity in its inception was a young men's movement, full of all the enthusiasm, and adventure, and capacity for sacrifice and action, that have characterized young men's movements throughout history.

Let us rejoice that the Apostles, some of them at least, did grow to old age, guiding, counseling, beloved in the church, which belongs to us all, and in which all of us, young and old, can have our part.

Had a Little Talk With the Lord.
The public is cordially invited to attend all of these services. Rev. Bowen said.

First Baptists To Have Varied Program

The Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist church, will occupy the pulpit for both services Sunday.

"The most Important Question Ever Asked!" is his subject at 11 a.m. This program of music, song and sermon will be broadcast over the local broadcasting station, KPDM from 11 till 12 a.m.

R. Virgil Mott, director of music, will present the choir Sunday morning in a special arrangement of a direct question, "Did You Think To Pray?" Mr. Mott will also sing a solo, which will ask another direct question, "What Will You Do With Jesus?" All special features will be accompanied by Miss Eloise Lane, church pianist.

The evening service will begin promptly at 7 o'clock when the church choir will meet in eight separate departments for regular opening assembly programs. Interesting programs have been arranged by all department directors. The regular hour of worship will begin at 8 o'clock. Rev. Carver has announced his subject for the evening, "A Banquet With a Place Card for Jesus."

Christian Science Sunday Study Topic

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, Feb. 11.

The Golden Text is: "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently" (1 Peter 1:22).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Love must triumph over hate. Truth and Life must seal the victory over error and death, before the thorns can be laid for a crown, the benediction follow. 'Well done, good and faithful servant,' and the supremacy of Spirit be demonstrated" (page 45).

Pneumonia Strong in Winter, Spring

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The state health officer, pneumonia caused over 2,800 deaths last year in Texas, a reduction over the previous year but still too high. It is more prevalent during the winter and spring months.

Pneumonia is usually caused by a germ called the pneumococcus, which many of us have lurking in our throats ready to start trouble when our resistance to it is lowered. We can keep up our resistance by avoiding undue fatigue and avoiding unnecessary exposure to extreme weather conditions. When we go out into the cold, additional wraps should be sufficient to protect us. Keeping the temperature of our homes as low as is consistent with comfort will greatly lessen the difficulties encountered in adjusting ourselves to the cold when we go out.

Another method of prevention in pneumonia is not to neglect a cold. For the common cold often results in pneumonia when neglected. A person with a severe cold should follow his physician's advice until the cold has disappeared.

The successful treatment of a pneumonia case often depends upon beginning treatment very early. That is why a physician should be called at once in such cases. A patient may really have beginning pneumonia when he thinks it is only a cold. If the physician's advice is sought for the cold he will have an opportunity to start treatment early if pneumonia occurs in such cases.

Redistricting Bill Put Aside Awhile

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Public hearing on the controversial question of redistricting the state for legislative representation will not be held until current measures pending in the house have been recognized by sub-committee action.

Two bills and a substitute proposal Tuesday night were referred to a sub-committee of five for further study and combination. This sub-committee will report back to the committee Feb. 13, and the date for public consideration will not be sent until then.

The various bills are by Reps. Harley Sadler of Sweetwater, S. J. South Carolina began the movement which led to the organization of the Southern Confederacy by the adoption at Charleston Dec. 20, 1860, an ordinance of secession.
