Nationwide Oil Strike Is Possible; Natives Rioting in Saigon, Indochina

41 Europeans Are Kidnaped; Market Burned

SAIGON, Indo-China, Sept. 26—(AP)—Uncontrollable Annamites (natives) who kidnaped 41 Europeans and possibly killed 10 yesterday, burned down their market place last night.

French who gathered in excited clusters on Main street watched the flames and charged that Annamites stole Saigon's fire engines three days ago now were engaged in carrying out their threat to burn the city to the ground.

Two platoons of British troops driving across the northern part of the city Tuesday afternoon rescued 31 of the 40 French men kidnaped by Annamites, a British headquarters spokesman announced.

The British said nine were missing and probably slain. They said first reports did not make it clear whether women and children were involved, but one French officer said he was positive that some women and children had been kidnaped.

The British also reported the kidnaping of a British officer, a former prisoner of war, seized by the Annamites, he still was missing at nightfall.

Fighting went on into the third consecutive day, and was the most severe since the British first entered the city.

American officials said they were going ahead of the British in their attitude toward Hungary. Informants at the British foreign office said the British view remained the same: That the Hungarian government is unrepresentative.

Both the United States and Britain are known to be disturbed by the Russia-Hungarian economic situation.

Truman Outlines America's Part In Rebuilding the World Order

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—President Truman declared today that any swing to isolationism in the United States would put this country on the road to ruin.

Then, with machine gun rapidity, he replied to a variety of questions which further revealed some of his plans for American participation in remaking the world order.

1. "The disposition of Japan's fleet will be decided by an allied reparations committee just as in the case of German naval force. This would open the way for both Britain and Russia to claim a share as they did at the Berlin Big Three meeting.

2. In his forthcoming message to congress on the atomic bomb he will say whether he believes the secrets of the bomb should be divulged to other nations.

3. The present organization of Japanese occupation under General Douglas MacArthur was agreed upon by all the governments interested—evidently meaning Russia, Britain and China.

4. He has no knowledge of any plans for another "Big Three" meeting.

5. In the President's opinion there is no evidence that the Big Five council of foreign ministers in London has "failed"—the word a newsman used in asking the question. Let's wait until we see what are the real results of the meeting before we call it a failure, the President said, and not make a decision on surmises.

There are many questions on the subject of Japan. The President told his news conference that he knew nothing officially concerning reports that the Russians were seeking creation of an allied control commission in which they would participate.

In London, Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav, M. Molotov is reported to have criticized N. S. Khrushchev's policy with these points:

1. Complete demilitarization of Germany's political, educational and economic life, as ruthlessly as required.

2. Care of displaced persons at the expense of the Germans.

3. Reestablishment of an internal economy so Germany could maintain a living standard not higher than that of surrounding countries.

4. Removal of all excess heavy industries.

"Patton is a professional soldier and will obey these orders," Smith added.

He explained that a soldier had the right to express his opinion on a subject until a higher commander made a decision, but that once that decision was made the subordinate could do nothing but carry it out.

Smith declared that, as far as the Nazis were concerned, Bavaria could be cleaned up in 10 days. However, he said U. S. army headquarters were deeply concerned over the sector's deep-rooted "ultra-conservatism."

Patton Summoned By Eisenhower To Make Report

FRANKFORT ON MAIN, Sept. 26—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower summoned Gen. George S. Patton today to make a personal report on denazification progress in Bavaria.

Lt. Gen. Walter B. Smith, Eisenhower's chief of staff, announced that the supreme commander had called for an immediate report on Nazi soil holding office in Third Army territory and also had requested Patton to give a personal accounting of his stewardship in Bavaria early next week.

At a press conference called as the result of Patton's recent remark that "Nazism might well be compared to any political parties at home—republican or democratic," Smith said Eisenhower would permit no modification of his order that Nazis be removed "ruthlessly from public office, regardless of general efficiency."

Patton acknowledged yesterday that his choice of words had been unfortunate.

Asked what would happen if Patton's account of his stewardship in Bavaria was "not satisfactory," Smith said "I have no idea."

The chief of staff outlined Eisenhower's policy with these points:

1. Complete demilitarization of Germany's political, educational and economic life, as ruthlessly as required.

2. Care of displaced persons at the expense of the Germans.

3. Reestablishment of an internal economy so Germany could maintain a living standard not higher than that of surrounding countries.

OWIU Organized In Pampa Area

Between 500 and 600 workers in this area are members of the Oil Workers International union and are under union contract, according to Arthur Griggs, secretary of local 235.

The following plants may possibly be affected, said Griggs. If the nation-wide call to strike is ordered: Danciger Refineries, City Service Oil Co., Phillips Petroleum Co., Columbia Carbon Co., Smith Bros. Refinery, Sinclair Oil Co., General Atlas Carbon Co., and rig builders.

already are on strike in seven states, being up a large number of refineries and other gasoline and oil products production plants.

O'Connor made the estimate that a nationwide walkout by the union would involve 250,000.

He said the union's executive council authorized the complete stoppage.

The conciliation conference presided over by Justice William L. Knous of the Colorado supreme court, at request of the labor department, was regarded in Washington as the first major test of the administration's postwar labor policies under Secretary of Labor Schwelben and his revitalized conciliation department.

There had been no disclosure of what was accomplished, if anything.

250,000 CIO Men Will Be Involved

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Oil Workers International Union, CIO, today authorized a nationwide strike if the present government-sponsored conciliation conference fails.

Secretary of Labor Schwelben told the conferees at its opening yesterday that it "must not be permitted to fail."

Harvey O'Connor, union public relations director, told reporters the announcement that a national strike had been authorized—an announcement read to the conciliators and to reporters—"meant a strike."

Minutes later O. A. Knight, Fort Worth, Texas, union international president, burst into the lobby and told reporters and his own colleagues that "this doesn't mean a strike has been called—it means a strike has been authorized if this conference fails."

Immediate effect of the union's spectacular announcement on the conference, regarded in Washington as testing administration postwar labor policies, could not be determined.

Justice William L. Knous of the Colorado supreme court, presiding, hurriedly talked with Knight and other union officials in the hotel lobby, then went into another closed session with industry representatives only.

Knight refused to tell reporters his union membership, saying "we have enough to do the job," but O'Connor said a complete walkout by this union would affect 250,000 workers in the industry.

Importance of Repressuring Is Explained

"Few people realize the extent of the West Pampa oil field repressuring project that will get underway here early in 1946," Fred Neslage, engineer of the West Pampa repressuring association, said yesterday.

Neslage, who was named to the post by the 26 major operators who will take part in the project, said that the project would prolong the life of the field by about 30 years and, by the time it was finished, would cost millions of dollars.

The engineer said that repressuring has proved successful in other fields. It serves to force the oil into the areas where it can be pumped out by existing wells.

At a meeting of major oil company executives, in Amarillo some time ago it was pointed out that the average daily production per well in the West Pampa field had dwindled from 30 to 15 barrels a day in less than two years, and if repressuring was not done soon, it would completely play out in a short time.

In summarizing the details of the project for the benefit of the average citizen, Neslage pointed out that gas is injected into the ground through wells spaced about one to every 160 acres in the 14,000 acre field.

The high pressure of the gas shifts the oil in the reservoir to places where it can be pumped out through already existing wells.

At the start of the project, Neslage continued, there would be about 75 input wells that would inject gas into the reservoir.

Veteran Is Held Here for Forgery

District Attorney Walter Rogers has returned from California where he obtained extradition papers on James A. B. Height, 21, who will be tried here on charges of forgery and swindling with worthless checks.

Height, who was being held by San Diego authorities, signed extradition papers last week and is being held in county jail here.

Rogers said that the youth is a discharged World War veteran and that he claims to have become mentally unbalanced as the result of a plane crash when he was in flight training.

Rogers said that he was checking with army authorities on Height's story and a report would probably be available when the case goes to court.

Chamber Highway Group Holds Meet

Plans for securing the construction of a number of highways leading to Pampa were discussed by the highway committee members of the chamber of commerce at a luncheon meeting held Monday at the Schaefer hotel.

Highways 18 and 80 were under particular discussion, said Judge Sherman White, committee member who is steering the project. He added that an engineering staff of the state highway department is now making a survey on Highway 18, the Pampa Perryville route.

Highway committeemen are Crawford Atkinson, chairman, C. R. Lockhart, Ferris Oden, Charles Gunn, Arthur Teed, D. V. Burton and Walter Rogers.

VETERAN MAKES TOUR THROUGH WAR WRECKAGE

"The last time I wrote I told you that I thought I was going to be shipped," said S/Sgt. George Leon Pobes in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pobes, star route 2. "But that turned out to be a dud for which I am very grateful."

For Sgt. Pobes, with an eye for beauty in the wreckage of the war, and an awareness of people, covered quite a bit of territory through France and Belgium while on a trip accompanying a major in charge of S-2 of his unit. He writes:

"First we went up to Namur, Belgium, to headquarters and spent the night there. . . Saturday we went out to the military cemetery at Foss. It is small but a very pretty place, where several hundred of our boys have been buried. It is kept very nice and those who have sons there need not worry about the care given the graves, for the civilians are hired to take care of them and they do it very beautifully. . . Then from there we went over to Dinant, on the Meuse. This is one of the most beautiful spots on the continent. From there we went over to Celles, where the Germans were stopped in the battle of the Sambre. . ."

GI's Greatest Desire Is to Get Home—Mahon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Rep. Mahon (D-Texas), said the thing that impressed him the most on a recent world tour, was the fervent desire for the G. I.'s to get home.

Mahon was one of six members of the house war department appropriations committee who arrived back at the capitol yesterday after a five-week tour of American military bases around the globe.

Mahon said "the delay of G. I.'s getting home has aroused in some of them a resentment that has approached the point of bitterness."

The return of soldiers is complicated by the fact there are "acres and acres" of American equipment around the world which can't be abandoned, Mahon stated.

Other congressmen making the trip were Reps. Snyder (D-PA), Norrell (D-Ark.), Case (R-S.D.), Engel (R-Mich.) and Tibbott (R-PA).

Navy Men With Three Children To Get Releases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The navy announced today that any enlisted man with three or more children under 18 years of age will be released at his own request. The move, effective immediately, marked a liberation of policy governing so-called "hardship" cases which are handled outside the point discharge system. Under such conditions, an enlisted man would be considered a "prima facie hardship case," the navy explained. The change will not affect the point system, which gives a flat 10 point credit for dependency regardless of number of dependents. The navy estimated at the time the point system went into effect that there were about 97,000 enlisted men in the navy with three or more children. A "sizeable percentage" of that number already have been released under the point system however.

The new rule does not apply for officers. "Hardship" cases involving officers will continue to be considered individually. Previously there were no specific conditions to determine hardship cases. Each case was reviewed on its own merits. The navy said that to date about 93,000 servicemen have been released under the point system. The daily rate has steadily increased, reaching 5,800 last Friday. During the first 21 days of September, voluntary enlistments totaled about 12,500, including 9,000 in the regular navy and 3,500 in the reserve. Regular enlistments are for four-year terms and reserve enlistments for the duration of the emergency.

Pioneer of Shamrock Dies in Rest Home

SHAMROCK, Sept. 26—Miss Charley Palestina Swader, resident of Shamrock for the past 26 years, passed away at the rest home of Mrs. J. C. Tinsley, south of town, at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, Sept. 14.

Miss Swader, 76 years old, had been in ill health for many months at her home, 410 North Madden street, and had been confined to her bed at the home of Mrs. Tinsley for the past four weeks. The body was taken overland by the Kelso Funeral home of Wellington, to Hubbard, Texas, where last rites were conducted Wednesday. Burial was in Hubbard, the home of a cousin, who was the only relative of Miss Swader.

Years ago, Miss Swader was associated with E. P. Tipps, her brother-in-law, in the Swader-Tippis dry goods store, a pioneer Shamrock firm. Ill health forced her retirement several years ago. She had many friends in the Shamrock area and was loved and respected by all who knew her. Mrs. E. P. Tipps and Mrs. D. J. Bulls accompanied the body to Hubbard and attended the funeral rites.

Solons To Visit Scene of Pearl Harbor Disaster

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—A senate-house committee decided today to visit Pearl Harbor in its investigation of the sneak Japanese attack which plunged the United States into war.

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky.) said the group would go to Hawaii as soon as it has made a preliminary study of evidence already obtained by various inquiry boards. He said hearings probably will be held there. Testimony likely will be taken from witnesses who would have difficulty in coming to Washington for hearings here, he added.

The primary objective of the trip, Barkley said, will be to familiarize committee members with the physical layout of Pearl Harbor in relation to preparations made to meet such an attack as the Japanese staged.

So Sorry, Ladies—Silkworm Shortage

TOKYO, Sept. 26—(AP)—So sorry, ladies. Japan is worrying more about food just now than about supplying silk hosiery and lingerie. The Japanese ministry of agriculture announced today plans for further conversion of mulberry (silkworm-food) acreage into human food production. Between 1940 and 1945 nearly 800,000 acres of mulberry land went into food production, and plans announced today call for conversion of another 350,000 acres. That doesn't leave much food for silkworms.

Varietas Members Are Entertained At Coffee To Open Season's Events

Mrs. S. C. Evans and Mrs. J. E. Kirchner were hostesses to members of the Varietas Study club in the home of Mrs. Evans Tuesday morning, for the opening event of the year.

Mrs. Kirchner served coffee, sweet rolls and fruit from a table covered with a cloth of white embroidered linen, and centered with an arrangement of white and orchid pompon chrysanthemums in an antique crystal bowl.

The reflector was encircled with corsages of pompons for each member. In the entertaining rooms, the flowers were repeated in small vases, with the addition of a large bowl of red verbenas.

Mrs. C. L. McKinney stated in her greetings to the club, "There is a prayer of thanksgiving upon the lips and in the hearts of each and every Texas club woman for the peace of the world. Club women everywhere have worked hard and long for it, and now, they will work even harder to aid in maintaining the peace, so hard won." She closed with a prayer for peace.

Mrs. McKinney introduced the new president of the club, Mrs. Felix Stalls.

Mrs. Stalls named the symbols of the club gavel, saying, "The symbols of this gavel are love, liberty, unity and charity. Love, as motherly love, consoling a weeping child; charity is a principle around which women's clubs have been organized in every land. Unity is the most essential quality of permanency and strength. Liberty is symbolized by a flaming torch held by 'The Lady in the Harbor of New York,' greeting her returning sons."

After appointing Mrs. E. J. Haslem and Mrs. Luther Pierson as the hospital and camp committee, and Mrs. S. C. Evans, Mrs. M. O. Pickett, Mrs. Lee Harrah, Mrs. H. Price Doster as a condolence committee, Mrs. Stalls said, "The committees are the ears and eyes of an organization." She asked their support and cooperation. Mrs. Luther Pierson gave a report from the camp and hospital committee and also a report of the year book committee.

Corporal Dorothy Maness of McKinney was a guest at the coffee, and Mrs. R. E. Gatlin entertained with several number of appropriate music during the entertaining hours.

Children Have Right to More Parents' Time

By RUTH MILLET

"There is not enough living with the children on the part of many modern parents," says a Georgia juvenile court judge.

True or false?

Well, there are thousands of young parents whose living pattern follows that of the junior Joneses. Their kids are never allowed to interfere with their lives. And they get a lot of praise from their friends for how little difference having children makes in their scheme of things.

Mrs. Jones is always available for any kind of committee. You'll find her name on the list of practically every club in town. It has been war work lately, but before that it was something she considered equally important.

How does she manage so much time away from home? Well, the six and eight-year-old children rosin the neighborhood, and some seventh or eighth-grader she wouldn't think of trusting with any other job around the house looks after the baby. Or during school hours the baby can be pushed off on the cleaning woman.

Red for Redheads No Longer Taboo

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The ancient taboo which kept redheads from wearing red accents in dress has been lifted, thanks to technicolor movies which have proven how wrong this rule is.

But even in technicolor, the chosen red accents rarely have blue tones lurking in them, and they are used for touches which are usually kept away from a girl's hair.

Red notes which make the most pleasing harmonies for the girl with the vivid aureole are related to the hue of her hair, so one expert tells me. In choice of costume colors for the redhead, he says green in any shade is tops and that the perfect foil for the girl who doesn't want to whoop it up in dress is black.

Keeping your lipstick shade to whatever red note you wear in a costume is a rule most girls can use to advantage, but is one which the redheads must follow slavishly.

HOW WELL WILL IT WORK?

It may have seemed odd to many Americans that the new British government's proposed domestic reforms were announced by a man who is not even an official member of that government.

But as chairman of the labor party's national executive committee, Prof. Harold Laski's importance exceeds that of the national committee chairmen of American political parties. He is not merely a boss of political campaigns. He is one of the new government's leading philosophers.

Hence, when he outlined the plan to nationalize successively the Bank of England, the coal mines, inland transportation and the iron and steel industries, one could be certain that he has had a major part in planning that program, and that his counsel will be sought in carrying it out.

But Professor Laski is still not in the government. It will be up to the members of that government to answer to the British people for the workability of their new program. They must prove not only that they are "prepared to give the little man . . . all the progressive chance that he requires." They must also prove that political monopoly is better than private monopoly, and that public enterprise is more just, profitable and productive than private enterprise.

And it will be up to the new government to take responsibility for the timing and extent of the reforms. However desirable these reforms may be—and the majority of Britons obviously want them—they must be done right.

Like it or not, the source of much prewar British wealth and many prewar British jobs lay overseas. That source has been dried up and replaced by overseas debts greater than the original investments. As a result, the island heart and nerve center of the British Empire is in a precarious financial position.

Added problems, of course, are the widespread destruction of industrial and business installations and private dwellings, burdensome taxes. These must be wrestled with and solved without undue experimentation or inopportune public spending.

The new labor government has a great opportunity as well as a discouraging difficult task. But its great challenge is the same one that the conservatives would have faced: not how good is your philosophy, but how well will it work?

The Origin of the Ford Shutdown

Ford recently announced that he was obliged to lay off 50,000 men because of his inability to secure parts due principally to a strike in the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company.

The Detroit Free-Press of September 2 carries an advertisement over their signatures telling what caused the strike. Quoting from the ad, here is what the corporation had happened to bring on the strike:

"Last April this Company discharged several employees, for participation in the bodily ejection from its plants of two foremen.

"These were acts of violence and misconduct which the Company felt it could not possibly condone. For they were a challenge to the very fundamentals of management—the ability of this Company to operate and to do its business at all.

"The issue was clearly drawn. No question of working hours—or rates of pay—or working conditions was involved.

"Solely and simply it was a matter of the right and the ability of Kelsey-Hayes to control and discipline its employees when serious acts of misconduct or violence were perpetrated in its plants.

"Union representatives a few days ago notified the Company that unless all of the discharged men were immediately rehired, Kelsey-Hayes plants would be shut by strike.

"There could be but one answer by the Company to such an ultimatum. The answer was a flat 'No.' For we cannot possibly operate our plants—continue to pay wages—and stay in business if we are without authority in these plants. And the officers of the Union know it is impossible.

"That is very sound and absolutely reasonable. Then the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company, however, makes a statement that is not reasonable. The ad continues:

"We have no quarrel with or opposition to labor or to labor unions, when these unions are honestly and fairly governed and operated—when the interest of the members comes first and not that of a little clique of wild-men striving with each other for leadership."

"What the company fails to understand is that it is impossible for any union group that bargains for seniority and minimum wages to operate honestly. By so bargaining, they are setting man against man. The are saying in effect that it is right to help establish values but must continue to buy the product no matter what they (the workers) and the employer agree to do. Kelsey-Hayes evidently does not realize there are three parties to every honest contract. The employer, the employee and the customer. Kelsey-Hayes has forgotten its customers.

What the company is reaping is exactly what could be expected. When employers say that their employees have a right to combine to eliminate discrimination from below, they are abandoning the American principle and substituting a form of collectivism.

And if the majority of union workers have a legal right to combine to keep other individuals from selling their labor for less, they have a legal right to tell the employer whom he can hire and what he can do.

The company also talks about wise labor leadership. How can union labor which invariably demands seniority and minimum wages and abandonment of the competitive system be wise? If union labor can be wise, then the

World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Frayed nerves and shortened diplomatic tempers have been comprising much of the recent product of the Big Five council of foreign ministers meeting in London to straighten out Europe's chaotic affairs, but there has been a highly important by-product.

We are learning very rapidly who's who in Europe—that is, what the great powers' new spheres of influence are. Yesterday's explosive meeting of the council of ministers reported more tranquilly today gave us the best view we've had thus far, and it was pretty conclusive.

Of course, as this column previously has commented, Russia is the new comer in the field of power politics, and so Moscow's ambitions have been the unknown quantity. Britain's interests—many of them of long standing—have been apparent, but Marshal Stalin has played his cards close to the chest and has had the world guessing. The foreign ministers' meeting, however, by washing a lot of gravel has hit pay-dirt finally.

An authority who attended yesterday's block-buster session said Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov had refused any plan which would give the western powers the right to take an active hand in the Balkans. In short, the Balkans are Russia's preserve—not trespassing allowed. This confirmed a trend which long has been clear, and we now can draw a fairly conclusive map of zones of influence.

A total of some twelve countries of eastern and central Europe which very definitely are within the Russian sphere.

Of course that isn't the whole picture. Moscow has indicated its intention of assuming the part of a major power in the Mediterranean, and has requested trusteeship of Italian colonies. The Soviet union also is safeguarding its interests in the Baltic.

EUROPE—President Truman recognized the danger and importance of this problem when he named a close personal friend, W. Stuart Symington of St. Louis, to be surplus property administrator in place of the old three-man board which functioned so ineffectively. Congress showed its concern by prompt passage of the bill setting up a single official instead of the cumbersome commission created a year ago.

Mr. Truman has also sent three trusted associates to Europe to investigate the tangled situation abroad—Mr. Symington, Reconversion Director John W. Snyder and Leslie C. Biffle, secretary of the senate and one of H. S. H.'s first pals on Capitol Hill. He will rely on their judgment on getting rid of the tens of billions of dollars worth of excess stuff scattered from the Firth of Forth to the Arabian gulf.

This leftover property provides a peculiar problem. The foreign surplus consists of cured meats, canned fruits, dehydrated and canned vegetables, sugar, millions of pairs of shoes, millions of yards of clothing, 500,000 motor vehicles, thousands of railroad cars, 2,000 locomotives, steel rails, telephones, telephone wire, etc.

GRAB—It would be an economic waste to return these stores to the United States. The expense would be excessive and they would flood the market to the disadvantage of domestic producers. Ideal solution would be to turn it over to foreign nations, but they do not have the purchase price.

Unless proper precautions are taken, there is the possibility that shyster syndicates will grab this stuff at low cost and sell it to buyers at a tremendous profit. There have been reports that speculators are now buying heavy goods from RFC warehouses throughout the United States.

In the early days of West Point, entrance requirements were so low that the professors would not conduct their courses until they had taught the basic elements needed for their comprehension.

News Behind the News

The National Whirligig

WASHINGTON
By RAY TUCKER

SURPLUS—The unexpected collapse of Japan has transformed the disposal of an estimated hundred billion dollars' worth of surplus war property into a major headache for congress and the administration. Although the legislators thought they had solved this problem when they passed the surplus property act a year ago, key democrats on Capitol Hill conceded in recent debate that it has been botched completely and that a new start must be made.

Surplus property was only a minor worry until Tokyo surrendered. But now the war and navy departments are releasing unwanted goods at the rate of a hundred million dollars' worth every twenty-four hours. There are not sufficient warehouses to contain them, and there are no enough transportation facilities to haul them to convenient selling points throughout the nation.

Officials do not know how much or beyond belief. Surplus property officials do not know how much or what kind of goods they have on hand. They cannot determine its value. They cannot discover where it is located—in the United States, Europe, the Middle or Far East, North Africa.

BREAKDOWN—The method of distribution has broken down. Lists of salable articles are supposed to be available to dealers, but for obvious reasons they are incomplete and unsatisfactory.

Groups supposed to have preferred status—states and cities, philanthropic organizations and veterans—have found it almost impossible to bid or buy. They cannot even obtain information on inventories, prices or the sites of disposal centers.

The need for prompt liquidation of this vast amount of capital and consumers' goods is recognized by government officials. Immediate sales will satisfy the popular clamor for commodities while private industry is shifting from war to peace production.

But if the surpluses, which embrace everything from leeks to fruits and clothing, become frozen through a breakdown in distribution, they will reach the market at the very moment when competent stuff is rolling out of the factories. The result would be economic saturation and depressed prices.

EUROPE—President Truman recognized the danger and importance of this problem when he named a close personal friend, W. Stuart Symington of St. Louis, to be surplus property administrator in place of the old three-man board which functioned so ineffectively. ### In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—For some time now people have rushed up to Joan Caulfield and asked her the strangest questions. First it was "Can you paint scenery?" Then: "Can you develop a sexy walk?" Or: "Can you model house dresses?" Or: "Will you go to Hollywood?"

But the last fellow who rushed up to attractive, blonde 29-year-old Joan really floored her. "Miss Caulfield can you sing with Bing Crosby and dance with Fred Astaire?" he asked.

After coming out of what film writers call a "double take," Miss Caulfield said, "Yes." What's more, she did.

You'll be hearing a lot soon about Joan, an Orange, N. J., girl, who got the break thousands of film boys dream about as leading lady for Fred Astaire and Bing Crosby in Paramount's technicolor musical, "Blue Skies."

As a matter of fact, Joan has been getting similar breaks ever since she left Columbia university, where her dramatic coach met her in the hall one day and said, "Can you paint scenery?" She could and did.

Later, a fellow from a mail order catalogue asked, "Can you model house dresses?" So she became a Cover model. Then she started haunting the offices of Broadway producers seeking a stage role. One of them, George Abbott, had seen her photographs.

"Can you develop a sexy walk?" he asked her. Joan said she could, and did.

STRICTLY FROM COIN
It was for the role of a gold digger in "Beat the Band." The show opened in Boston. Her parents, non-theatrical people from East Orange, were in the second row. Joan made her entrance in a black bra and black filmy panties. The men whistled and the boys from Yale screamed.

"My mother," Joan said, "all but fainted. Then she practically fainted again when I started my lines. They were decidedly of-color. And believe me, I was pretty corned myself. Even I didn't know what some of them meant. I was so dumb, in fact, that the stage manager gave me a large key to keep for him and said it was the key to the curtain and I believed him."

Mr. and Mrs. Caulfield were much happier about Joan's stage career in her next role, as Corliss Archer in "Kiss and Tell," the part Shirley Temple just played in the movies. The play ran 14 months and both the play and Joan were terrific hits. It was then that a man asked, "Will you go to Hollywood?" Joan said yes and signed a Paramount contract.

SHE LEARNS QUICKLY
First thing Paramount did with Joan was cast her with Sonny Tufts and Veronica Lake in "Miss Susie Single's" still unreleased.

But the big break, of course, came with "Blue Skies." Things were pretty hectic for a while. The director-producer, Mack Sennrich, died suddenly.

The new producer didn't like Joan and she was out of the cast several weeks. Then she was back in and the new producer was out. She started dance rehearsals with Paul Draper. Then Draper was out and Fred Astaire was in. Joan and Fred worked smoothly together.

"We learned one number together in 3 minutes," she said.

Learning things quickly is Joan Caulfield's specialty.

HAD IT COMING

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 26—(AP)—Two perspiring men walked off the hot streets into a tavern. One of them ordered a beer.

When the bartender, Frank Souza, rang up the 10 cent sale, they pulled guns and robbed the till of $200.

As they turned to leave, the one who ordered the beer stopped to quaff it.

His companion admonished him to get going.

"What's your hurry," he snapped. "I paid for it, didn't I?"

Goodness, I suppose it's only natural for young people like Shirley to grow up. But it frightens me to think that in a few years I may have to resign my membership in the Girl Guides.

As a wife, Shirley faces one difficulty. She put away her dolls so recently that if she has a baby she may try tugging it to make it say "Mama." Aside from that she should be the second happiest wife in the world. After all, I got George.

PLOT IS FOILED

THIS STORY: Leana sends a telegram. Meanwhile, Leana plans for moving X-999 go on. Bob has found an abandoned mine shaft in Tonto mountain, easily accessible. Carolyn accepts a telegram, reads its mysterious message, then discovers that the wire is addressed not to Bob, but to Leana!

CAROLYN'S eyes narrowed. "This proves it!"

Her initial flash of regret over having opened a private personal message was completely gone. Quiet anger rose within her. Hurriedly she re-sealed the message—its envelope had been too loosely glued—and took it to Leana's desk. Leana was across the compound at the laboratory now.

Carolyn went there, planning as she walked. She would have to think fast! The guards all knew her because she had hired and paid them. But there was the matter of door keys, and physical help.

Ken Palmer would do anything she asked. The U-235, Bob had said, would be in four leaden boxes totaling some 150 pounds, perhaps more.

"When will you load the boxes on the freight car?" she asked Bob, when he had a moment to spare. Tonight, really. But too much activity again at night might excite suspicion. Best to move as if it were simple routine, don't you think?"

She nodded. She saw the boxes and went gingerly near to them, with Bob.

"One man could lift one box, couldn't he?" she inquired, in casual tone.

"Oh sure. It's safe now, enclosed in the lead." He smiled tolerantly as if at a child, then showed her how easy it was by moving one of the containers a few feet and that was precisely what Carolyn wanted to know.

SOME time later a westbound freight train was moving at average speed across a nearby state. It was exactly like hundreds of other such freight trains, except that in the caboose rode four armed guards, carefully picked from those who had stood duty near the Schoenfeld Laboratory. They did not look like guards. They were dressed like railroad brakemen.

Dr. Hale had simply explained to the railroad authorities that he was shipping some valuable chemicals and had arranged for those four "caretakers" to go along. They would stay, in shifts, with the specially chartered freight car when it was shunted onto a siding at the remote village of Blair, Ariz.

Bob himself had thought to go along as guard but, as Carolyn pointed out, he could do nothing that trusted hired men couldn't do, and his presence on the train might arouse too much interest.

Then, too, Carolyn suggested, if the shipment went without him, Bob could wind up his business affairs at the laboratory, and fly west with Carolyn and her mother, in time to meet the train.

Leana Scorni was not present to discuss the matter with the train left. Bob told Carolyn that Leana had been unexpectedly called out of town. Carolyn said nothing, but her pulse quickened.

The train rolled with routine smoothness for several hours. The four men in its caboose had been instructed to sleep only in shifts of two even while moving.

There is little to do in a freight car. Monotony settled hard and was abruptly broken when the train slowed down in a forest on its first night out. The conductor looked up first. "Hey!" he called, to no one in particular. "Ain't no stop scheduled here. We ain't at no place, in fact!"

"Trouble on the engine, I reckon," a brakeman ventured. "He was more right than he guessed. The long train stopped completely, and at once two masked men appeared in the caboose door.

"Just sit tight!" one commanded, behind a stubby but fierce looking sub-machine gun. "With your hands high!"

NEWS of the train robbery reached Carolyn Tyler at 1:40 o'clock next morning. The telephone jangled her awake. Bob was calling "Carolyn!" He was literally crazed with anxiety. "It has happened again! Our train—it was held up! Robbed! The agent just telephoned me, too. They took our stuff! Held up our men! The whole thing—all of it—all of it—look it away, Carolyn! I—"

"He was so nervous as to become inarticulate. And for her part, Carolyn and a sudden chilling sensation. For long seconds she stood breathless, staring at the table light by her phone. But in her was no acute fear. She felt oddly enough—a peculiar elation.

"Bob!" she cried. "No! I—No! Bob! They didn't! I know what I'm talking about! Look! I'll come to you at once and—"

"But they did, Carolyn! The agent said—"

"No, no, I tell you! I don't care what the agent said. Get hold of yourself, Bob, and listen to me. It's all right. All right, I tell you. Your X—" She remembered not to mention the secret, even in this stress. "Your shipment is safe, I—"

"They took the entire thing! All four of the boxes! All!"

"No, I tell you, Bob! I—listen, they may have stolen the boxes and everything from that freight car, Bob, but I tell you your precious stuff wasn't there! I—I took it out myself, Bob! Before the train left!"

MR. WILLIAM BENTON COMES TO WASHINGTON

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Every time a newly-appointed public official comes to Washington, the quaint old capital custom is to stand the poor character up at a press conference and let the boys and girls look him over.

It's an ordeal only slightly less trying than the death march on Bataan. The poor victim is propped up like a duck on a rock and trick questions are heaved at him. To keep him from coming too badly bruised, he usually is surrounded by experienced hands in his department.

But mostly the new man has to fend for himself and if he bounces back the bricks as pearls of wisdom and in general handles himself well, he's a good Joe and he's in—until further notice.

Mr. William Benton of Chicago was subjected to this hazing 24 hours after he was sworn in as assistant secretary of state. He turned out to be a medium-sized gent with a nice voice and a nice smile and a slight need of a haircut, unless he likes it that way.

The sour apple job wished on Mr. Benton is public affairs. This doesn't mean he's to be in charge of public ceremonies. It means public relations, only to say it right out that way in the state department would never do. He also is to be responsible for supervision of the office of international information and cultural affairs which hiccoughs into OIICA, and the international information office which stutters into IHO. What this all amounts to is that Mr. Benton's lot from here on in is to sell the state department at home and abroad—and not short, either.

Appropriate Muzac for every international situation. Chapin's "Folies" while fixing the Chirion line. "Vienna Breeze" if the Russians weren't cooperating on Austria. A tango for the Argentine and "Song of India" when the independence issue comes up. Visiting diplomats might bring their own records. The British, here to negotiate

HE'S AN ALL-OUT DIPLOMAT NOW
Mr. Benton says he has severed all his past and private business connections and from now on, till he gets fired or gives up, he will be strictly in the diplomacy business. That's too bad. If he could have moved some of his past into that noble Victorian pile of building blocks which houses the state department, think what an improvement it might have made. Every conference room wired for technicolor and sound. Advertising sales presentations for visual education on every wall. Liptick, perfume and corset ad models all over the place.

Appropriate Muzac for every international situation. Chapin's "Folies" while fixing the Chirion line. "Vienna Breeze" if the Russians weren't cooperating on Austria. A tango for the Argentine and "Song of India" when the independence issue comes up. Visiting diplomats might bring their own records. The British, here to negotiate a loan, could overture with "You Made Me What I Am Today, I Hope You're Satisfied."

If anybody tells you the state department doesn't do things like that, Mr. Benton, pay no attention. In your first press handout, you used a lot of four dollar sales resistance words to say, "Our foreign relations must be exposed to the insight of the common man." That's no way to sell stuff. Get on the ball, Mr. Benton, get hot.

Texas Crude Oil Production Unchanged

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 26—(AP)—Daily average crude oil production for the week ending September 22 totaled 4,557,329, up 750 barrels from the previous period, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The eastern area increased 3,950 to 204,559 but a 6,000-barrel drop to 45,100 in Michigan almost canceled these.

Oklahoma's West Edmond field, still increasing production, climbed to 87,900 barrels daily from 651 wells, helping to boost that state's average for the week to 394,600.

Texas production was unchanged at 1,889,600, and the Rocky Mountain area of Colorado, Montana and Wyoming dropped 3,100 barrels to 136,500.

California climbed 2,900 barrels to 385,750, and Louisiana increased 600 to 363,800, while Kansas slumped 150 to 273,000.

Mississippi's 51,050 barrels compared with 53,700 the previous week.

Cubs Can Grind Out Cards' Last Hope With Win Today

Ray 'Pappy' Prim Helps Hank Borowy Gain 20th of Season

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Detroit is one rainstorm away from the World Series and the Chicago Cubs aren't far removed.

If the weather man turns the faucet on Briggs stadium again today, washing out the scheduled doubleheader with Cleveland, the Tigers will back into the 1945 American League throne without winning another game.

Thinks are not quite so simple for the Cubs in the National but they lead by 2½ games and can grind out the St. Louis Cardinals' last hope today by repeating yesterday's 6-5 conquest in their final meeting. They still would not be "in" mathematically but it would be so close that they'd have to lose their remaining five games and the Cards win their four to miss a tie.

Most of Charley Grimm's Bruins figured they won the flag when they beat Harry Breechen yesterday but Jolly Cholly wasn't so sure. Billy Southworth, manager of the opposing Cardinals, refused to give up and predicted, "we're not out of it yet. But we've got to win that one."

Hank Borowy failed to last through a desperate Card rally in the eighth but received credit for his 10th victory as a Cub and his 20th in a combination season with Yankees and Bruins.

Ray (Pappy) Prim helped him out with a superb relief job. Some solid base hits by Phil Cavarretta and Andy Patko, each of whom knocked in two runs, turned a threatened loss into a glorious victory.

Borowy became the first two-league 20-game winner since Iron Man McGinnity of Baltimore and New York 43 years ago.

After today's series finale, the Cubs have five to play, three with Pittsburgh and two with Cincinnati while the Cards have only four to go, three with the Reds and one with the Pirates.

The American league is an open and shut proposition. If the rain that postponed yesterday's game continues, Detroit never will play the final pair with the Indians who have engagements at St. Louis Thursday and Friday and at Chicago Saturday and Sunday.

Then, even if the Tigers lose both their remaining tilts with the Browns, Washington would miss the pennant by one lonely percentage point, 566 to 565. The Senators' only hope is for Detroit play all of their remaining four tilts and blow at least three of them.

Only two other games were played yesterday, one in each league as the Pittsburgh at Cincinnati contest also was washed out.

Brooklyn tightened its grip on third place and just about ended New York's last hopes of regaining a first division berth with a 7-4 triumph on Goody Rosen's three-run homer in the ninth.

Al Hollingsworth hurled the St. Browns to a 4-1 margin over Chicago for his 12th success on the strength of a four-run fourth inning against Ed Lopat.

We now realize more than ever the need for real international cooperation in health and we hope to march side by side with our comrades in the United Nations in securing it.—Sir William Jameson, chief medical officer, British Ministry of Health.

Buckaroos Take On Coyotes in Week's Big Game

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP Sports Editor

Fewer than 40 teams—one-third of the original field—are due to coast undefeated, untied records when the firing ceases in Texas schoolboy football this week-end.

At least six will fall because there are that many games matching teams with unblemished records while all along the line unbeaten eleven face clubs likely to trim them down to their size.

Top battle of the week is the Wichita Falls-Breckenridge tussle at Wichita Falls, a game pitting not only undefeated, untied teams but schools rated among the sectional powers of the state.

Other games in which teams with unblemished records meet are Amarillo - Vernon, Sweetwater-Brownwood, Lufkin-Orange, Temple-Austin and Port Arthur - San Jacinto (Houston).

There are 45 teams undefeated and untied and four that are unbeaten but have ties on their records. The latter include San Angelo and Lamar (Houston), San Angelo plays Highland Park (Dallas), one of the top-rated teams of the state, and Lamar meets Breckenridge of San Antonio, an unbeaten, untied outfit.

Sixty-three games are on the schedule which opens tonight when Jeff Davis of Houston plays St. Thomas of Houston.

Four districts have conference games. The title race opens in the Fort Worth district where Arlington Heights clashes with Fort Worth Tech; Woodrow Wilson, pace-setter in the Dallas district, takes on Forest while Sunset plays Adamson and Crozier Tech goes against north Dallas. In district 10 Ennis meets Waxahachie and Cleburne travels to Bryan. In district 11 Tyler plays Henderson and Texarkana tangles with Gladewater.

Phillips Will Be Out To Avenge Two Straight Losses To Pampa

Shooting for their third consecutive victory of the season, Pampa's Harvester griders are working hard in preparation for Friday night's game with the uncared on Phillips' Blackhaws.

The Walker-coached Blackhaws have rolled up 83 points in two games and will be out to avenge the two consecutive 13-0 defeats they have suffered at the hands of the Harvesters.

It will be a light but experienced team that Coach Chesty Walker will bring to Pampa Friday night. Several of the boys have played more than a year as regular and many fine reserves came back from last year to bolster this year's eleven.

Reports from Phillips say that the Blackhaws want to win the Pampa game more than any other this year.

Meanwhile, out at Harvester park the Harvesters are going through spirited workouts daily in preparation for the game. The team is showing a great amount of aggressiveness and none of the boys has indicated that he believes Phillips will be "easy."

One Harvester will be out when the opening whistle blows Friday night. Co-Captain Charlie Beard will vacate his end position to give an injured shoulder time to heal.

In his place will be Lonnie Williams, who received a pass for a touchdown against Midland and alternating with Williams will be Beryle Tech; Woodrow Wilson, pace-setter in the Dallas district, takes on Forest while Sunset plays Adamson and Crozier Tech goes against north Dallas. In district 10 Ennis meets Waxahachie and Cleburne travels to Bryan. In district 11 Tyler plays Henderson and Texarkana tangles with Gladewater.

The guards are particularly outstanding. Before the season opened, Coach Oils Coffey pointed out that the guards would be the most difficult to choose and it has proved to be just that way.

Don Humphreys is the fastest of the six guards on the squad. He has the advantage of more experience and is a very fine defensive player.

Virgil Fish is also an outstanding defensive player and is one of the most rugged tacklers in the district.

Jack Hood is the best blocker of the guards and, next to Humphreys, is the fastest.

Carlton Brooks, a first year man, has proved to be one of the most dependable guards both on offense and defense and Brooks has been called the fastest developing men on the squad.

Bill Bain is the smallest of the guards but is by no means the least. Bain is a good blocker and is one of the best line-backers on the squad. Another better guard is Don Morrison, who is one of the smartest players on the team.

The tackle positions are also well taken care of in the eyes of the Harvester coaches.

Captain Jim Terrell, who weighs 187, and Stanley Simpson, 195, have handled the starting tackle positions so far this year but have had ample support from Beryl Williams.

Maurice Lockhart, at center, continues to show more fire and aggressive spirit than he has ever had before. Coaches say that if Lockhart continues at his present pace he will be one of the outstanding centers of the district.

"In Kelly Anderson," Coach Coffey said, "I believe we have one of the most capable reserve centers that there has been here in a long time."

"As for the team as a whole," Coffey said, "they are green and inexperienced but they are developing fast. They have fine team spirit, and they show a willingness to stick strictly to the training rules without complain. This should result in a boy not only being able to play

Program for 1946 Is Recommended By Farm Bureau

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The American farm bureau federation recommended to President Truman today a 1946 agricultural program calling for support prices on all commodities where increased production is sought.

The delegation, headed by President Edward A. O'Neal, specifically recommended (1) "support prices on all farm commodities for which an increase in production has been asked, whether through proclamation or by official program planning," and (2) price supports during the first postwar year on total acreage of annual crops under production next January 1.

After the first year, the group suggested, the government should support prices on these commodities to the extent that farmers "respond to requests for adjustment in production."

The farm leaders said the present program on corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco, rice and peanuts was adequate.

Other recommendations included:

- 1. Continuance of support prices on dairy products until consumer subsidies are removed and price increases permitted, and comparable prices for dairy products in line with parity prices for basic commodities.
2. Removal of the price ceiling of $18 per hundredweight on live cattle, increasing the compliance rate

3. WALL STREET NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—It was another bull market for rail stocks today although steel, aviation and selected industrials absorbed their share of the buying.

The Associated Press 60-stock average touched its highest level since April, 1927. Extreme advances were limited in most cases near the close and scattered declines appeared. Dealings speeded up now and then but slow-downs were frequent. Turnover for the full proceedings expanded to around 1,300,000 shares.

At eighty-year peaks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Strickland, American Airline, Eastern Air Lines and American Smelting. Prominent gainers included Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, MKT preferred, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck.

On the downside, most of the time were Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil (NJ), Chrysler, Deere, American Telephone and International Nickel.

Railway bonds were popular.

Congress Shelves Jobless Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—With members voicing alarm at idleness in spreading strikes, the House ways and means committee today shelved all legislation proposing liberalization of unemployment benefits.

The committee, by a 14 to 10 vote, brushed aside President Truman's request for the legislation.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) announced immediately that the committee will turn tomorrow to legislation of the first peacetime legislation trimming down wartime tax burdens.

Rep. Knutson of Minnesota, ranking ways and means republican, told newspapermen "the strike feature was the deciding factor" in the committee's action indefinitely postponing all further consideration of jobless pay expansion.

NEWS OF OUR MEN AND WOMEN IN UNIFORM

"SWEATING IT OUT"

1st Lt. Robert H. Kelley, 406 N. Cuyler, who served four months in the European theater of operations as an education officer, has arrived at the San Antonio district, AAF personnel distribution command.

IN COMMUNICATIONS

GUAM (Delayed)—Norman Daniel Garrett, RM 1/c, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Garrett of Pampa, Texas, completed two years of naval service while attached to the communications department of the administrative command, amphibious forces, Pacific fleet, Marianas.

Guariti's battle experience was gained in four Pacific invasions—Guam, Peleliu, Leyte, and Lingayen gulf. In the Yngayen gulf he served aboard a landing craft control ship that led the first wave in. He has been overseas for the past 16 months.

His home is at 315 N. 8th street, Independence, Kans.

HOW IT ENDED

SHAMROCK—Ensign James B. Clark, 22, husband of Mrs. Kathleen Rose Clark and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Clark, was on the USS Monterey off the coast of Japan when V-J day arrived.

Helicopter fighters and Avenger torpedo bombers had catapulted off the Monterey flight deck an hour before word came to "recall all strikes," which meant that the ships that were headed for their objective, the Tokyo industrial area, should return immediately to base, jettisoning their bombs in the sea.

After all the squatty bombers and sleek fighters had come home to roost, Captain John B. Lyon, commander of the Monterey, announced, "The conclusion of the war against Japan," quoting a message from Secretary Forrestal. A few hours later Admiral Halsey spoke briefly by radio to the men of this and other ships.

With a heavy record of naval action the light carrier Monterey docked last week in New York—home from the front lines where she was considered a lucky ship.

Ensign Clark, in the service since Nov. 1942, spent all his time overseas since Sept. 30, 1944, aboard this ship.

Saigon

widespread since unrest became riotous on Sept. 2. Annamites took over arms from surrendering Japanese at that time.

They attacked the French, killing seven.

Indian guards said that last night's market place fire was clumsy set. They added that they saw Japanese soldiers in the vicinity when the fires flared up.

The fighting Tuesday occurred in all areas of the city except the center of the French sector.

An estimated four-day supply of fresh footstuffs were left on Tuesday, but last night's fire may have destroyed much of it. The city's rice stock, however, could last for four months.

MaJ. Gen. Douglas Gracey, commander of the British Saigon control commission, summoned Japanese General Numata on Tuesday afternoon and informed him that if he did not carry out instructions to maintain order, it would prejudice the return of his troops to Japan.

Saigon was a city without lights, water and electric power for the second day, but electricity was restored Tuesday night. Civilians again remained overnight in the corridors of guarded hotels.

The 40 French were seized shortly after noon on the streets and from their homes in the northern part of the city—which Japanese are charged with guarding.

A British patrol, consisting of two Indian platoons, pushed across an arroyo and through the northern sector, recovering 31 of the kidnapped men by mid-afternoon.

First reports did not disclose if any were injured.

The kidnapped British officer was seized in the northwestern part of the city.

Sporadic sniping was reported in the northwestern sector, and Gburkas reported some house-to-house infiltration in the central sector of the city.

The slaughter house which Annamites seized was in southwestern Saigon, where natives attacked an Indian guard before noon. Indian troops were dispatched to the vicinity.

Occasional street battles were reported. But by mid-afternoon, the British had cleared a large number of native-placed roadblocks from many parts of the city.

The British said that as the Indians advanced from house to house, the natives discarded their weapons and fled. They said there was no leadership or coordination in the uprising.

Large numbers of weapons were reported tossed into the arroyo.

The British also disclosed that part of the French force defending Saigon—rearmed former French war prisoners—had been withdrawn because they lacked the training required for security and effective control.

Hollywood Canteen

Closes Thanksgiving

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Hollywood canteen, which provided a touch of glamor for many a visiting serviceman during the war years, will close Thanksgiving Day after three years of entertaining but its services will continue in another form.

The canteen directors last night announced formation of the Hollywood canteen foundation to administer a trust fund of more than $500,000. The directors said they will "consider applications" for causes which will reflect the spirit for which the canteen was created.

Pioneer

Lt.-Col. Clay Tice, above, of Los Angeles, is the first American deliberately to land a U. S. plane on Japanese home soil since beginning of the war. His fighter plane developed fuel line trouble while on reconnaissance and he set the craft down on a Kyushu field, to find the enemy officers friendly, showing no spirit of defeat.

the bulge last December . . . we saw tanks that had been stopped, and what the Americans did to them when they ran out of gas, there on top of the hill . . . Plenty of wreckage left around everywhere, both German and American. Small wonder that it cost so much to run the war.

"From there we drove on down the border to Bastogne . . . another great battle during the bulge. Here is where the 101st airborne infantry was surrounded for 12 days and refused to surrender. Patton came to their rescue from the south with his Third army. These places are really torn up but the Belgians have already begun to reconstruct their cities. Everywhere we went they thanked us for their liberation.

"The Belgians, by the way, are a much better looking people than the French. Also much cleaner in their homes and towns. One always sees them out scrubbing the walls and even the streets out in front of their homes. There is never a smell that is always prevalent in the French towns.

" . . . then to Luxembourg, the duchy below Belgium. This is also a very beautiful drive through the mountains covered with pine, spruce and other timber, besides having wonderful dairy products . . . a resort country and there are lots of fine hotels. Not fine in our sense of the word, but they are comfortable and also extremely picturesque.

"The city of Luxembourg itself is very old and quaint . . . some of the most beautiful flowers I have ever seen . . . stayed there that night . . . then to Metz . . . one place that the Germans held out so long in the south of France, the Notre Dame . . . and is quite as famous. The city of Metz is in the Moselle, and is one of the largest steel manufacturing centers of France. It is very rich but not yet again in operation. Not because they don't have the scrap, for they have already gathered up all of the salvage and have stacks of it all over the place.

"Also saw huge ordnance depots around there covering 10 square miles that were covered with U. S. equipment just waiting to be shipped to the Pacific . . . then on to Verdun . . . the historic battle ground of the first war where the French held the Germans for four long years . . . the French have a com-

East plant at Amarillo to provide the Pampa area with a complete circuit hook-up.

With it's headquarters in Pampa, the Texas Gas and Power corporation serves Pampa, White Deer and Panhandle with an abundance of natural gas at low rates.

The company is home-owned and Texas financed and ninety per cent of the stock is owned by Pampa stockholders. Company policies and decisions are formulated and made in Pampa.

The company owns no production but purchases all gas requirements—providing a big market for the Panhandle gas industry. The gas is supplied from six wells with an average open flow of 43 million cubic feet per day and the company is negotiating for three more wells which will raise the average to above 58 million cubic feet per day.

Because of the nearness of the gas field, Pampa enjoys the second lowest gas rate in the state.

Pampa's municipal water supply is drawn from five wells within the corporate limits of the city. These five wells have a total production capacity of approximately 4,000,000 gallons daily.

Water is pumped from the wells into four concrete and steel ground storage tanks having a capacity of 4,500,000 gallons. In addition, there are three elevated steel storage tanks in the city having a total capacity of over 500,000 gallons.

It can be said that Pampa's water system is one of the most efficiently operated in the state. The bacterial quality of the water is checked daily and the chemical analysis is run annually. The water supply has the stamp of approval of the state health department.

"Also saw huge ordnance depots around there covering 10 square miles that were covered with U. S. equipment just waiting to be shipped to the Pacific . . . then on to Verdun . . . the historic battle ground of the first war where the French held the Germans for four long years . . . the French have a company that must have at least 10,000 graves in it—all lost in the battle of Verdun.

"From there we came back up the Moselle river to St. Quentin . . . about 750 miles in 57 hours, and on these torn-up roads that is some trip."

policy in Japan sharply, complaining it was too soft, and to have asked establishment of such an allied council.

Mr. Truman said any criticism of occupation policy could be communicated to him direct.

The President was reminded that when the allied countries were not in agreement on occupation policy for Japan that the U. S. view would prevail.

He was asked if machinery has been provided in the control set-up whereby other countries could protest occupation policies.

The appointment of General MacArthur as allied commander in chief, the President replied, was concurred in by the allies.

A reporter wanted to know whether the Russians have an opportunity to express their views.

Yes, the President asserted, they have a representative with MacArthur. Or, he added, they can convey their views to him.

The President, under rigorous questioning on foreign affairs, said he knew of no plans for another meeting of the "Big Three." At the same time, he expressed some impatience with published reports that the meeting of the foreign ministers council in London was a failure.

All these reports, he said, are pure surmises. He suggested critics wait until the foreign ministers report to see if the meeting is a failure or not.

He said he had no comment on his own on the progress of the London parley and that his best guess is that Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will return in about 10 days.

The President said that he knew of no plans of General MacArthur to return to this country, and that he knew of no reason to ask him to return at this time. He had been asked about recurring reports MacArthur might be recalled to make a report on occupation policy.

Repressuring

ject over seven million cubic feet of gas per day and, if the project proved successful, it would eventually increase to about 300 impunit wells with an injection capacity of 30 million cubic feet per day.

Construction work, including the erection of a booster plant and the laying of about 15 miles of pipe line, has already begun.

The project will be financed by every oil operator that makes use of the gas injection method. Each operator will be assessed a cost in relation to the amount of his daily production, otherwise the smaller companies will not have to pay as much as some of the larger concerns.

In order to more fully acquaint the men of the industry with how repressuring works and to instruct men who will actually work on the project, a series of classes will be held here under the sponsorship of the American Petroleum Institute.

General subjects to be discussed in the classes, which will begin October 15, will be:

- 1. The geology and structural characteristics of the West Pampa field. 2. The objectives of the repressuring project. 3. The cooperative aspects of the project. 4. Practical problems encountered in other projects and how they were solved. 5. Procedures to be followed in the continuous work of the project. 6. The handling of the gas that is injected into the ground. 7. The handling of the produced gas, oil and water.

THREE PASSPORTS CHICAGO, Sept. 26—(AP)—Margaret Noone wanted three passports to her native Ireland but she settled for one.

She had planned to take along Truman de Valera, her pet dog, and Smicki Smack, her cat, but she balked upon learning they would have to be inoculated.

"They wouldn't like that, 'tis sure," she said. "They'll be better off at home."

treaty which gives Moscow control over at least half of Hungary's economy. The American attitude as outlined here, however, is that the present Hungarian government is acceptable provided it pledges free elections.

Members of several delegations who earlier had commented on the growing tension at the conference could not explain fully the new friendliness, but it was pointed out that the discussions had veered away from the knotty question of Russian insistence on participation in Mediterranean control and American-British demands for a voice in Balkan affairs.

Meanwhile, there has been considerable discussion of the policy of the United States in the Pacific. Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov is reported to have criticized U. S. policy in Japan sharply, complaining it was too soft, and asking establishment of such an Allied council.

The Chinese, while defending U. S. policy in Japan as proceeding with necessary caution, were reported favorable to the idea of a control commission.

Despite an official Paris dedication last night that the council would wind up its work today, turning over unresolved questions to deputies, it seemed likely that two or three more sessions must be held.

BAD MANNERS

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 26—(AP)—Firemen Howard Swope mounted an 85 foot rescue ladder while citizens applauded his daring feat of mercy.

But the object of the rescue, atop a utility pole for three days, had a strange way of saying "thanks." Swope descended with a profusion of lacerations. "I never did see anything quite so mad," he said, as a large yellow tomcat leaped from his arms.
