

CAPTAIN YANK

SO THOROUGHLY DID TRUMAN STUDY WORLD AFFAIRS HE LED CONFERENCE

(This is the first of three stories by Ernest B. Vaccaro, who accompanied President Truman to Potsdam, in which he will tell how the President came through his first major assignment.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(AP)—The real story behind Harry S. Truman's part in the Big Three Potsdam conference goes back more than 25 years.

March 19, 1920, the U. S. Senate turned down the treaty which would have made this country a member of the League of Nations.

As an artillery officer, Mr. Truman had learned what war was like. He felt that the league lost for the peaceful nations of the world an opportunity to keep the guns stilled.

He always had been a student, but when President Roosevelt died, and the job of directing American efforts toward this goal fell to his own responsibility, Mr. Truman found there was much preparation he had to make.

He had not been a member of the foreign relations committee during his Senate membership. He did not have the background available to members of that committee on Mr. Roosevelt's consultation with Prime Minister Churchill and on earlier meetings of the Big Three.

He didn't lose any time. He told a news conference he would not address the opening session of the San Francisco security conference, but that he would back the American delegation from his desk.

Then began a day-and-night study of the international situation from every possible angle. He called in James F. Byrnes, now his secretary of state, who took shorthand notes at the Yalta Big Three session. He called in Harry Hopkins, Joseph E. Davies, Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, Mrs. Anna Boettiger (President Roosevelt's daughter), army and navy and state department experts, any one who might contribute helpful information.

When he announced that he was hopeful a new Big Three meeting could be arranged, it was evident he felt he was ready to hold up his end. Those who conferred with him during those critical days expressed amazement at the quickness with which he was able to strip long and laborious documents down to their essentials.

When he boarded the cruiser Augusta at Newport News Va. early the morning of July 7, he told reporters that his big job was to enlist Russian participation in the war with Japan.

He and his friend, Jimmy Byrnes, were in thorough accord on the necessity for taking the lead at Berlin. On the 8-day voyage they whipped into final shape a proposed agenda after a complete review of British and Russian proposals. Mr. Truman was anxious to succeed in his first major mission, but he is not a man who takes worries to bed. He slept soundly at night after prayers for strength and right decisions. The beginning of the meeting found him in the peak of vitality.

The very first meeting with Marshal Stalin and Churchill proved the value of his preparation. They were astonished when the President immediately offered a series of written proposals for reference to the foreign secretaries for action at once.

So carefully were the proposals prepared that they became the agenda for all future deliberations, although they were supplemented by oral suggestions from the others.

The final protocol is mostly the handwork of Mr. Truman and Secretary Byrnes.

At the final session Clement Attlee, who became British prime minister midway of the conference, suggested some minor change in language in an agreement. Stalin thought the American language better. Mr. Truman reasoned that the British suggestion would do no harm and told Stalin he had no objection.

If the President of the United States can understand it," Stalin said, "the Russians can understand it too."

Mr. Truman, the one time Mis-company and more than holding his sour farm boy, was moving in top down.

Religious Leaders Condemn 'A-Bomb'

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(AP)—Characterizing the atomic bomb as "an atrocity of a new magnitude" and a new law for humanity, a group of 24 educational and religious leaders has asked President Truman to stop production of the weapon and seek "commitments by all nations" outlawing use of the bomb.

Signers of the state included: Prof. Roland H. Bainton, Yale Divinity school; Rev. A. D. Beittel, president of Talladega college, Ala.; Rabbi Abraham Cronbach, Hebrew union college, Cincinnati, Ohio; Rev. Samuel W. Marble, Trinity-Trinity Methodist church, Denver, Colo.

Contracts for 434 Cargo Ships Remain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(AP)—Contracts for 434 merchant ships remain on maritime commission books after cancellation of contracts for 135 others.

The commission said it had not been decided whether additional contracts might be cancelled, since a hull-by-hull inventory still is being made.

Ships in advanced stages of construction will be carried to completion. The outstanding contracts, covering virtually all types from small coastal freighters to giant P-2 passenger ships, extend into 1946. With completion of these contracts, the war-time construction program will be ended.

In the future, the commission said, contracts will be awarded only for ships needed for post-war trade routes. These contracts will be let through competitive bidding, instead of the war-time speed-up procedure of cost-plus.

PAPER PROFIT MILWAUKEE, Aug. 22—(AP)—The federal court says it OK for Mr. Goldman to continue to charge himself brokerage fees of $25 a car in excess of ceiling prices for produce.

The OPA sued Morris Goldman, Inc. wholesale produce firm, for $10,135 in "treble damages" for alleged overbilling sales to the American Produce company. Goldman also owns American produce. The court dismissed the suit.

Huge Bazookas Were Studied by Desperate Nazi

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN WITH BRITISH FORCES IN GERMANY, Aug. 19—(Delayed by center)—(AP)—The Germans were experimenting with huge bazookas as field artillery and aircraft cannon when the war ended and had perfected a new defense system against bombers.

The fantastic weapons which Hitler had for a last try for victory were taken off the secret list today by a team of American and British technicians.

Germany had made great strides perfecting guns with recoil. They were based on the bazooka principle of eliminating recoil through ejection of gases from the rear of the barrel.

Several giant bazookas with 11-inch bore were found. These could have been used as artillery pieces or mounted on large aircraft. Shells weighed about a half ton and had terrific penetrating power.

A monstrous cannon of this type was found on the channel coast trained toward London. Gases could hurl shells 120 miles.

The defense against bombers was by use of planes which American fighters called "Foo Fighters." These were jet-propelled craft which were "buttoned" to the base of steel poles and shot vertically into the air at the tremendous speed of rockets. Pilots inside guided the planes at 550 miles an hour, intercepting bomber formations with sprays of rocket shells fired from the noses of the craft.

After the pilot had used his two minutes of fuel, he pulled a lever and was catapulted out to float to safety by parachute. Simultaneously the tail of the plane dropped off, releasing another parachute which brought the craft gently to earth where the Germans could salvage the jet guns. Chains of stations for these jet craft were stationed all along the bombers' routes.

Another German weapon was the spider bomb—a winged missile fired from planes and electrically guided to targets by a thread of wire attached to the bomb and the parent craft.

For submarine warfare, the Germans developed a super-speed U-boat powered by ingolets, the powerful propellant used in V2 rocket bombs. The submarine attained high underwater speed.

They perfected a "splash bullet" which was used against troops with a deadly and horrible effect.

Chili Spareribs Are Unusual Dish

Spareribs are not very hard to get. And you'll find them easy to eat with this unusual recipe.

Chili Spareribs
By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Three pounds spareribs, 4 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons pepper, 1-2 cup flour, 1-4 cup sliced onions, 2-3 cup water or juice drained from canned tomato, 1-3 cup vinegar, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon chili powder, 1-8 teaspoon garlic salt, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 tablespoon horseradish, 1 medium head cabbage, 5 peeled raw tomatoes or 2 cups of drained canned tomatoes.

Have breast bone cracked to make carving easier. Wipe spareribs with damp cloth. Sprinkle both sides with part of the salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Place half the ribs in the bottom of the 3-quart heavy enamel glass casserole. Cover with onions and top with the remaining spareribs. Combine water, or tomato juice, vinegar and seasonings, and pour over ribs. Cover. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 3 hours. Baste frequently. During the last hour of cooking, leave the cover off so that the meat will brown. Lift off the top ribs and put cabbage, which has been washed and cut into about eight pieces, in the center; sprinkle with remaining salt and pepper, baste with the liquid and replace the top layer of ribs. Add drained canned tomatoes or halved raw tomatoes the last half hour of cooking. Continue cooking, occasionally basting the meat and vegetables until the meat separates easily from the bone and the cabbage is tender.

Fashion Fundamentals for Fall Wardrobe

Fuller Sleeves Flatter Shoulder

Beltwether of sleeves used to give coats, suits, and dresses a new-looking round-shouldered and curvier silhouette, is the dolman of last season. Also in the fall flock are the "balloon," the "bloomer," the loose, flowing "academic" sleeve, the capelet, the double sleeves and the "popover."

4th Air Force To Fete U. S. Press

PORT WORTH, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Two representatives of the Star-Telegram flew to the west coast this morning in an army air force training command staff transport plane to participate in a fourth air force program Friday at Hammer Field, Cal., honoring the American press.

The two representatives are Miss Eleanor Wilson, staff writer, and Mrs. Catherine Gunn, wife of the late Stanley Gunn, Star-Telegram war correspondent in the Pacific who was killed by a bomb in a Japanese air attack on Leyte. Mrs. Gunn also is an editorial department employe at the Star-Telegram.

At the Hammer field ceremonies, Mrs. Gunn will receive a citation awarded in recognition of her husband's service as a war correspondent. Miss Wilson will receive a copy of the citation for the Star-Telegram.

Unfaithful Husband Once Protected Wife, Now It's Other Woman

By RUTH MILLETT

There has always been a certain amount of infidelity among husbands. But time was when "the other woman" stood "to lose all, since a husband—even an unfaithful one—felt that he had to protect his wife's position.

But apparently the idea of chivalry is changing. Today the married man who gets in a scrape is anxious only to protect the name of "the other woman" and let the wife look out for herself as best she can.

The American soldier who had quadruplets by an English lady at the time the story came out in the papers was concerned only with marrying the girl and giving the kids a name. He didn't even speak of the humiliation he had brought upon his young wife back home.

And several times stories have come out about married service men who wrote their wives to please give them a divorce, so that they could protect the name of some girl they had been living with overseas. One "gentleman" even wrote his wife and mother of his child that he didn't love the girl he had been living with, and loved only his wife. But he felt he was honor bound to marry the other woman, and would the wife please give him a divorce.

STRANGE IDEA
And now comes the story of the army captain who, with a wife and two children in this country married a WAC sergeant in Germany and now says: "I want more than anything else in the world to clear the name of the most wonderful person I ever have had the pleasure to meet—Kay." Kay is the WAC sergeant.

If this new idea of chivalry takes hold generally, parents will have to back down on one of the beliefs they have always instilled in their daughters. That is, that the wife's position is unassailable and the girl who becomes "the other woman" in a triangle can't expect any protection from the man in the case. That when it comes to a showdown, he will stand by his wife.

The only protection a wife will have in the courts, if it becomes generally accepted that it is more important for a husband to protect "the other woman" than the wife. Strange idea of chivalry, isn't it?

Exercise of Gasoline Tax Laws Is Studied

PORT WORTH, Aug. 22.—Constructive program to help each state more efficiently administer its gasoline tax laws is one of the post-war goals of the North American gasoline tax conference, John F. Boyle of Baton Rouge, La., president, told the west-central region here.

The region is comprised of New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

In regard to the constructive program, Boyle said the groundwork already had been laid by the central and northeastern group, and "it is felt that the west-central group can fall in line with the other regions with respect to his subject."

Boyle urged postponement until next year of the scheduled convention of the tax conference. The meeting is scheduled for New Hampshire, but one faction of the conference favors moving the site to Biloxi, Miss.

Home Canners Urged To Do More Canning for Fall

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

The army of home canners has a bigger job than ever this year. In 1944 an estimated 3,400,000,000 quarts of home canned fruits and vegetables were put up. The 1945 job must be better if American families are to be well fed.

By latest reports, civilians can expect about 19 per cent less commercially canned vegetables and 7 per cent less canned fruits, not including citrus, than last year. Home canners will have less sugar, but can use scientifically tested ways to can with less sweetening, and still get first class flavor, texture and color.

To can your victory garden crop of tomatoes and fruits, the important acid foods that do not require steam pressure canners, use an enameled water-bath canner. Half a million new ones will be on the market this year. Many women will make their own out of lard cans, metal pails, kettles, wash boilers and hot boilers.

Ready-made or home-made, a water-bath canner must be deep enough for the jars used. A vessel must be at least 3 or 4 inches taller than the jars to allow for jar height, plus a rack, plus water to cover jars an inch or two and bubble up in a rolling boil. If a canner is too shallow, the water cannot boil up briskly over the jar tops to sterilize food throughout each jar.

Give a home-made canner a good rack. As a guide to size, measure the diameter of the canner. A rack for cooking bread or cake, or a wire basket, will often serve. Or a rack may be made to measure of wire or strips of wood. Don't use pine, because resin would boil out and get on the jars. Partitions in a rack are an advantage. They keep jars from touching one another and falling against sides of the canner. A water-bath canner needs a good lid but not a tight lid.

About 630,000 new aluminum pressure canners are now reaching the market. If you are using an old one, be sure it is in first class working condition. To prevent food spoilage and danger to health, canning experts insist that all non-acid vegetables and meats must be put up under high pressure. A clean pressure canner with an accurate gauge is an absolute MUST. Check the gauge before canning. Because a dial-type gauge is a delicate instrument, it may in time get out of adjustment. An inaccurate gauge may cause underprocessing, with possible spoilage later; or overprocessing, with loss of food value and flavor.

Write to the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for a free copy of the newly revised "Take Care of Pressure Canners." It's an "insurance policy" against canning failures.

New jar rings are definitely superior to 1943 rings, and an improvement on those on the market last year. However, bolt rings 10 minutes in one quart of water, containing one tablespoon of soda for each dozen rings, and then rinse in boiling water.

Presidents Jackson, Lincoln and Johnson were self-educated.

Medieval Touch
The almoner's bag, new designing idea plucked from costumes of the 12th and 13th centuries by Eta, which suspends from belts and shoulders, creates the effect of panels or plaques. Symbol of the almoner's bag which inspired its design is the gold-palleted coin dot motif sparkling from the belt-suspended pouch on the dress in the center and again decorating the bodice of this model of seraphic blue or fashion wine—two new fashion colors for fall launched in this line.

Incidentally, two-color and two-fabric contrasts are big themes in almost every collection. Among the newcomer cold-weather fabrics is faulle, which for the first time leaps over summer boundaries to make many of the winter's snappiest dress frocks and fancy suits.

Scholarships Are Awarded Students West Texas State

CANYON, Aug. 22.—The scholarship committee of West Texas State college has announced the award of 16 scholarships for the coming school year.

Those receiving awards include Bradford Bullard and Sherrod Reavis of Shamrock and Miss Kathryn Price, Skellytown.

Miss Price received the Kappa Tau Phi scholarship, presented by this sorority each year. Miss Betty Bell, Vernon, was president of the organization that spring when the award was made.

Each of the scholarships is valued at $50.

Students receiving the honors were recommended by their high school principals and others acquainted with the students.

Money for the scholarships was given to the college to assist worthy students. Awards are made on the basis of scholarship, citizenship, participation in extra curricular activities, and to some extent on need of the student for help.

Towel Pad Aids Perfect Press

It's the little expert tricks of pressing clothes that often bring the scale of balance between looking passably nice and hand-book perfect.

Take sleeves, for instance, particularly the bolstered, jutting and shoulder-puffed fashions that are on their way in. To smoothly guide an iron over them, use a sleeve board. To make one, roll a heavy magazine up in a towel and insert it in the sleeve that you press.

Woolen duds pressed come off the board lint-free, if you'll use a woolen pressing cloth. Unless you press dark "silks" on the wrong side, there is more than apt to be a mirror-shine to taunt you for your amateur status as a presser.

Lapels or pockets come off the board looking more professionally pressed if you'll pave the way for your iron by inserting heavy paper for padding.

The world has grown so small, and the perils of lawlessness so great, that it would be suicidal to refuse to vest powers of control in men and nations of understanding and good will.—Alpena, Mich., News.

Bobbye Jo Tucker Is Hostess to Friends

Bobbye Jo Tucker was hostess Monday for a picnic lunch at her home honoring Glenna and Jeanette Hackney of Lubbock.

After the lunch, the group attended the motion picture at a local theater.

Present were Betty Dulaney, Barbara Connrod, Billie Marie Money, Glenna and Jeanette Hackney, and Bobbye Jo Tucker.

Shamrock Bride-elect Is Coffee Honoree

SHAMROCK, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Cabot Brannon was hostess to a group for a morning coffee honoring Miss Minnie Katherine Holmes, recently, closing a series of pre-nuptial parties which complimented the honoree.

In the dining room the table was attractively appointed, centered with an arrangement of panicles.

The guest list included Miss Holmes, her mother, Mrs. B. F. Holmes, and Mesdames William F. Holmes, Lyle Holmes, A. N. Holmes, Hester Holmes, Frank Dubose and Oscar Laycock.

Misses Ruthie DuBose, Eloise Lehmann of Langdale, Ark.; Ruth Tilley, and Barbara Nell Laycock.

VICTORY OVER DISEASE

One highly significant statement was that recently from army medical corps sources to the effect that for the first time in the history of war in Europe, more men were admitted to American theater hospitals for treatment of battle wounds than for diseases. The same fortunate situation seems to have existed in the Pacific as well.

The amazing record for the American forces doubtless has been due, in some degree, to the fact that Uncle Sam's fighting men, taken as a whole, were the healthiest ever to be sent into battle.

But, beyond any question, the most important factors were the safeguards taken to protect the health of our soldiers and sailors. Never in any war has any nation given such vigorous and intelligent attention to the prevention of diseases—particularly germ diseases of the type which have little or no respect for natural resistance. This was a protection provided through such expedients as destruction of vermin and the provision of opportunity for uncontaminated drinking water. No one knows how many men were saved from sickness or death through such measures, but certainly the number totaled in the many, many thousands.

And, if war can be productive of blessings, the experience gained in the prevention and treatment of diseases surely is one of them. It is a blessing which will be with us in peace, as well as in war. It undoubtedly will mean longer and healthier lives for people today and for all generations to come. It represents a victory no less important than any gained upon the fields of battle.

Mrs. Lane Curious As to How Capitalist Turns Labor Into Cash

By ROSE WILDER LANE

(Author of "Let the Hurricane Roar," "Give Me Liberty," and "The Discovery of Freedom.")
It is lamentable that the men who tell us all about the new economy called capitalism are the men who know nothing at all about it. Before a doctor practices medicine he has had some experience in a hospital; before a carpenter builds a house he has sawed and driven nails; but from Fourier to Lenin to the editors of the Daily Worker, none of the expert authorities on capitalism have ever so much as run a corner grocery.

Karl Marx and Adolf Hitler are typical. Marx read and thought in the British Museum, living on a rich man's money which (Marx thought) was crushed under the weight of the very lives of the wretched poor, as wine is squeezed from grapes. With all his high thinking, apparently he never thought of getting off the necks of the toiling masses himself, and honestly earning his own living. To give the devil his due, Hitler did try to paint pictures and even houses, but he lacked the brains and the character to do a good job; so he, too, became a parasite on the rich man's money set out to smash capitalism and run the whole world's economy as (he thought) it should be run.

THE QUEER thing is that millions of corner grocers and house painters who can and do earn their living by useful work, and have better sense than to hire a Karl Marx as a delivery boy or to trust a Hitler to mix a can of paint, will believe that such parasites actually know all about the world's practical affairs, and that they are great leaders who will give everybody plenty of groceries and paint all the houses on earth with three coats of the very best white lead, triple ground in the finest linseed oil.

It is a misfortune that businessmen don't write the books and make the speeches about American business affairs. Everybody talks about capitalism nowadays—except the men who know something about it. The same thing that factory workers (for instance) know least about, is the factory they're working in and the business that creates their jobs and pays their wages. Where do their wages come from? How does their work produce their wages? They don't know, and nobody who does know, tells them.

MAYBE THEY don't care. I must admit that I didn't, really, when I was working for the Pacific Hardware and Steel Company, thirty-six years ago. But nobody told me then that the company was robbing me every Saturday when the cashier gave me my wages; nobody said that I'd have to wreck the company to keep it from robbing me of my job and all my wages.

All my wages were in the envelope they call "22's" every Saturday. About 1,000 girls were working in my department, and I just took it for granted that the company was richer than me, because certainly I couldn't have handed out the thousands of dollars that I saw the cashier handing us every Saturday. I couldn't have paid for one of the hundreds of desks, dictaphones, filing cases, mailing machines; I had the vaguest notion of the huge organization of many thousands of workers, and of the intelligence that somewhere, every hour, understood and managed it. I put into the whole complexity only a day's work, and somehow all this property and all these workers produced for me my $12.50. And if or when I put in more skilled work, as some girls did, then it would be more money for me, as it did for them.

I THINK NOW that if ever the cashier had pushed out to me an envelope containing $13.36 and a list of "deductions," that I'd have waked up right then. I'd have wanted to know exactly HOW my six days' work had been producing my $12.50, neither more nor less; and WHO had dared to take my money out of my pay envelope, and WHY the cashier had let anybody take it without my consent. And I think I would have begun with the cashier, and gone right on to the department manager and the superintendent and whoever was bossing those bosses, till I could tell me, I would simply have taken for granted that the man who knows how a business is run, is the man who is running that business. And unless he had put those "deductions" into his pocket, I wouldn't have thought that he was the man who had robbed me. I would have asked him exactly how he took six days of my work and changed it into $12.50 cash. How do you suppose he did it? I wish I knew.

Your GI Bill Of Rights

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON—Here are some questions from GIs who are interested in their rights to homesteads:
Q. After talking it over with my wife, we think it would be a good idea to establish a homestead in Alaska. I and I want to know if the same privileges a vet gets on homesteading in the U. S. apply to Alaska too? Also, is there a lot of good farmland available in Alaska?
A. Generally the homesteading regulations are the same for Alaska as they are here. There is good farmland available for homesteading in Alaska, but you'd better go into the thing very thoroughly and acquaint yourself with exactly what the conditions of life and farming are there.

Q. I am planning to stake out a homestead and use my veteran's preference. What I want to know is can I also get a loan guaranteed to buy some equipment for the land too?
A. Yes.
Q. My buddy in the army is from the West and he has two sites all picked out for us to start homesteads. I want to get all the details of the thing straightened out before I take my wife West, but they tell me I have to go out there first. Is that true?
A. You have to go out and inspect the land before making application for the homestead. Each application must be accompanied by a sworn statement that the applicant has inspected the land sought, and is personally familiar with its characteristics.

Q. Can you do anything who will give everybody plenty of groceries and paint all the houses on earth with three coats of the very best white lead, triple ground in the finest linseed oil.
A. No. The land must be classified by the government as best suited for the use to which it is intended to be put.

Travel To Mexico Up 200 Percent

MCCALLEN, Aug. 22—(P)—Lifting of gasoline rationing also lifted the lid on tourist travel into Mexico. U. S. customs officials at McCAllen said yesterday.
A 200 percent increase in Mexico-bound travelers was reported by U. S. customs service officials at the international bridge between Reynosa and Hidalgo, near here.

Paul Vickers, manager of the McCAllen chamber of commerce, said travel inquiries had increased 50 percent in his office since rationing of gasoline had been removed. He warned, however, that a housing shortage still exists.

President Melvin B. Baker announced Tuesday. Plans being expanded include the gypsum plant at Rotan, Texas.

News Behind the News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

TRICKERY—After reading Hirohito's "alibi rescript," many high officials here are not so sure as they once were that it is a wise move to keep the Emperor as our figurehead in ruling Japan.
They laugh scornfully at his statement that he never intended to "embark upon territorial aggrandizement" and his message to his Asiatic "allies" who have "cooperated" with him: "toward the emancipation of East Asia." This sort of double-talk appears to be an attempt to while away time and to mislead the public. General MacArthur muzzles him once and for all. Oriental experts in Washington were bawling those bosses, till I could tell me, I would simply have taken for granted that the man who knows how a business is run, is the man who is running that business. And unless he had put those "deductions" into his pocket, I wouldn't have thought that he was the man who had robbed me. I would have asked him exactly how he took six days of my work and changed it into $12.50 cash. How do you suppose he did it? I wish I knew.

LIAR—Hirohito may still be regarded as a semi-delty by his subjects. But Japanese "gods" are not bound by moral compunctions. The Emperor's last free word to his people was a calculated falsehood to pervert the record.
Shintoism teaches that when the "supreme race" or leader performs an act as a matter of national policy the possibility of wrong is at once excluded. Or as one Far Eastern authority puts it: "What the aggregate of Nipponese does can not be anything but right."
The cult of "Kodok" or Emperor-worship itself is a fiction which only the credulous could possibly believe. The Emperor Meiji, Hirohito's grandfather was helpless clay in the hands of the militarists. His son, Emperor Taisho, was insane. And Hirohito was a puppet for the war lords. A race that believes such tripe "gods" will swallow the Mikado's mendacious swan song.

PEPPETS—As for Japan's "allies" who "have consistently cooperated," pre-peace cables from North China told of hungry, scantily clad puppet troops deserting whenever possible.
To celebrate the Chinese New Year in Peiping the local Japanese commander took sugar away from the inhabitants and gave this luxury to Nip troops. In Manchuria males were forced to slave in building fortifications along the banks of the Amur river. Half the population died of abuse. One of Hirohito's final gestures was to grant general amnesty to half a million Chinese political prisoners in Manchuria. The jailing of such a large number doesn't look much like "cooperation."

United States officers trained here for occupation duties had been told to eliminate the militarists, respect religious convictions, be fair to a population fed on propaganda and to close one of the most successful of our facilities hoped that such treatment would win the common people to democratic ways.
They may have to revise their

LASKI—They are also worried by the wild remarks of Prof. Harold J. Laski, chairman of the British labor party's executive committee. This week he urged the French national socialist congress in Paris to consider "unity of purpose in economic undertakings." This looks like a scheme to start a European socialist bloc.
Yet Laski got sore when American business leaders warned that we should watch our loans to Britain lest we build up a collectivist state which would be in trade competition with us. He complained that this was an attempt to dictate the internal policies of the United Kingdom.

With nylons coming in, now I can use my last bottle of leg make-up to finish painting the lawn furniture. Leg make-up—I've seen women who looked as if one leg had rotted home while the other one went to the beach for a sun-tan. Peter Edson's Column: HALIFAX MAY NOT RETURN TO WASHINGTON

NEA Washington Correspondent
(Peter Edson is on vacation)
WASHINGTON—If, as expected, Edward Frederick Lindley Wood, the Earl of Halifax, retires from his post in Washington, he will bring to a close one of the most successful embassies in British history.
Lord Halifax is now in Britain, having left Washington before the votes were counted in the recent election. He is expected back some time in the early fall but few people expect him to stay. Even if the conservatives had won, it is believed doubtful that the tall, lanky nobleman would have returned to Washington for any length of time. Now that labor has won its overwhelming victory, it seems almost certain that he will return to his Yorkshire home for good.

Halifax came here at the very beginning of America's participation in the war. Never before had Anglo-American relationships taken on such enormous importance. In addition he loomed the highly popular Lord Lothian who had died tragically on Dec. 12, 1941—just five days after Pearl Harbor.

ARRIVES IN STYLE
The fact that Churchill chose his foreign minister and one of the chief members of the inner war cabinet to come to the United States as ambassador is an indication of the importance assigned to the post. On top of that, Churchill sent Halifax to America aboard Britain's newest and finest battleship, the King George V.

To give point to the crucial nature of his mission, President Roosevelt personally went to meet the boat when it anchored in Chesapeake bay, an honor previously reserved only for heads of states.
Despite all this, the appointment of Lord Halifax drew loud cries of anguish from many left-wingers who were suspicious of his conservative views. Many Washingtonians also believed that the supposedly austere ambassador would renew the chilly atmosphere which had pervaded the huge embassy on Massachusetts avenue until it had been lifted by the ebullient Lothian.
It is doubtful if any ambassador ever had a bigger job than Halifax. Naturally austere or not, Lord Halifax started learning about Americans and making friends with them. Perhaps no ambassador of a foreign power has covered so much American territory.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Paul Mantz, the fellow with wings, is back in the sky over Hollywood. As a lieutenant colonel in the air forces for two years, he found the war pretty dull compared to the chores he does for movie-makers.

Less than a week before becoming a civilian he climbed into broken-down 1910 pusher-type plane, took aloft, landed, for a film scene, on the 15th fairway of Hollywood's swank Rolling Hills Country club.

There was a broad grin on his face as he stepped out of the plane. "Now I'm having fun again," he said.

Paul Mantz is an airman extraordinary. Film stunts are his specialty. He once did 46 consecutive outside loops. He's had 10,000 hours in the air, never cracked up a plane.

He suffered a broken leg once in an automobile accident. "I was flying too low," he explains.

In his spare time he operates a charter flying service for movie people or anyone else who has the money to rent an airplane. He once flew a coyote from the High Sierras to a sound stage in Hollywood for a closeup.

WAR WAS TOO DULL
Which gives you an idea of why Paul Mantz found the war rather dull, as organizer and boss of the First Motion Picture Unit, assigned to photograph sky battles and turn out training films.

A World War I flyer who came to Hollywood in 1927 to become filmworld's first stunt pilot, Mantz also owns the biggest collection of World War I airplanes in the world. He rents them to movie makers, with himself as pilot.

Recently he was flying an old-fashioned two-winged job, put together with wire and toothpicks, for a scene in the Rickenbacker movie. He took off from a small country airport near Santa Rosa, Calif., and landed at an army field nearby.

The boys at the field, knowing nothing about the film scene, stared incredulously as Mantz landed the Jallopy and taxied down the field. Mantz stepped out of the plane, wearing 10 vintage sail-clothes, sweater, goggles and helmet.

"Hello, boys," dead-panned Mantz. "My dad and I built this plane up in the mountains 40 years ago. I just heard there's a war going on so I flew down to see if we could put a machine gun on this egg-biter and make it a little more useful."

For a couple of minutes, Paul said he thought these young army fellows believed him.

BEERY PLAYS IT SAFE
Wallace Beery, who flies his own plane, is a great pal of Mantz. Beery, wearing 10 vintage sail-clothes, sweater, goggles and helmet.

"Hello, boys," dead-panned Mantz. "My dad and I built this plane up in the mountains 40 years ago. I just heard there's a war going on so I flew down to see if we could put a machine gun on this egg-biter and make it a little more useful."

"I thought you were going to Salt Lake," said Paul.

"I am," said Beery, "when I can see it from here."

World Today

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

British foreign Secretary Bevin's pronouncement of policy rounds out the preview of what we may expect from England's new socialist government, and in these early stages we find it moving along a line not very far "left" of center, thus confounding those prophets who expected a radical upheaval.

A striking feature of Bevin's speech in commons was that it echoed the policies of the late conservative government under Winston Churchill. Indeed, the conservative members of parliament not only gave a warm demonstration of approval but aristocratic former foreign secretary Anthony Eden congratulated Bevin and placed the conservative seal of approval on the socialist declaration. And so we have further backing for the tradition that Britain's foreign policy remains fundamentally the same, no matter what party is in power.

Even more illuminating was socialist Bevin's stand against "totalitarianism." Referring to the countries of Europe which "have been imbued with the diabolical ideas of nazism," he declared that as new governments are elected there is one thing "we must aim to resolutely even at the beginning, and that is to prevent the substitution of one form of totalitarianism for another."

Specifically, he said of Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary (which are in the Russian sphere of influence) that "the governments which have been set up do not in our view represent the majority of the people, and the impression we get from recent developments is that one kind of totalitarianism is being replaced by another."

So England's sensational new government is setting out as a moderate institution which is well inside both the extremists of the "right" and those of the "left."

This tendency of the socialist government isn't surprising to those who know Britain well. There are comparatively few extreme "leftists" in England always has been conservative, but during the last quarter century there has been a steady swing towards moderate socialism that finally has resulted in the present government which comprises representatives of all classes of society.

Accordingly we see the regime under Prime Minister Attlee embarking on a limited program of nationalization, with strong indications that private initiative will be encouraged. In short, there is to be wholesale change in Britain's economic structure now.

JAPANESE DIPLOMACY

IF diplomacy is the art of deceit, as the Machiavellians teach, then the Japanese have indeed proved themselves to be master diplomats. Theirs was the kind of diplomacy which Hitler also used with such startling success before and even after the outbreak of the war. Its principles are simple. They can be summarized as follows:

1. State your aims frankly and boldly, but in terms of a world-embracing ideology which other nations will dismiss as fantastic but which will inspire your people to follow you through thick and thin, irrespective of the deviations necessitated by practical day-to-day politics.

2. Until all preparations have been made and the right opportunity for striking has arrived, lie low, speak softly, cultivate foreign diplomats and visitors, make fair promises all around, sign any treaties that will dispel suspicions, proclaim yourself the champion of peace, progress and prosperity.

3. Divide your possible opponents by playing them off against one another.

4. Strike hard and fast when the moment seems ripe, and let your aims justify your means.

It is such a political system which distinguishes the Hitlers and the Japanese war lords from ordinary gangsters. And it is this system which makes the ruling ideology of a nation even more important than its official professions and even acts.

The ruling ideology of Germany under Hitler was National Socialism, which seized upon the two most vital forces of the age—nationalism and socialism, and by converting the first into a monstrosity, and the second into a man-eating state-ism, produced an explosive energy that found its unifying concept in the German "master race." The ruling ideology of Japan ("for ages eternal") has been Shinto, which unifies racialism and state-ism into the equally explosive concept of the divine family state of a superior race of gods ruled by a supreme God-Emporer who has the divine command to be the Emperor of the world.

Foreign Office a Geisha Girl
Yes, though the real nature of National Socialism was fairly well understood long before the war, Hitler had little difficulty in fooling the statesmen of the world by maintaining a front of "gentleman" in his Foreign Office and his diplomatic service who gave

Marine Generals Request Duty on Tiny Wake Island

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

GUAM, Aug. 22—(P)—The commanding generals of six marine divisions in the Pacific want one assignment above all others. It is Wake Island.

All want to be the first to recapture the tiny outpost where a handful of leathernecks fought valiantly and well against enormous odds. They want to see Old Glory flying over the white coral sand again.

Commands of all six marine divisions have made formal requests to be allowed to restore Wake as an American possession.

Wake is more than a convenient stopping place for trans-Pacific planes—2,000 miles from Honolulu; 1,000 beyond Midway; 2,650 from Manila. Especially to men of the marine corps, it has become a symbol of fighting courage.

So well did the American garrison of 517 fight that the angry Japanese asserted there were at least 4,000 troops ashore.

There were 379 officers and men of the First Marine Defense Battalion, commanded by Maj. J. S. P. Devereaux.

Many were killed in the first five hours, in which 24 Japanese bombs dropped 100 hundred pound bombs. More perished in the Delty air attacks and later naval bombardments which the Japanese unleashed on the stubborn garrison.

With six 6-inch naval guns and 12 Wildcat fighter planes, the Wake defenders held the enemy off day by day, inflicting damage all the while. On Dec. 10, the Japanese sent in a task force of 12 warships. Devereaux let the vessels come closer and closer. Not until they were only 4,500 yards offshore did he order "open fire."

Two destroyers and a gunboat were sunk. The other warships, damaged, fled smoking. Leatherneck pilots sank a light cruiser.

Courage wasn't enough. Early Dec. 23, Devereaux message Hawaii "Island under gunfire. Apparently landing."

Enemy guns were pounding the atoll. At 5 a. m., the major sent his famous message:
"Enemy on island. Issue in doubt."
Even then, the Japanese had to fight their way ashore to take what was left of Wake.

Truman Says V-J Not To Be Legal Holiday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(P)—The White House has announced that V-J day will be proclaimed on the date of Japan's signing of surrender terms.

President Truman plans to make a short radio address on V-J day. V-J day will not be a legal holiday.

Jap "Peace Mission" With Secretary Hull—December '45

"The divine mission of Japan puts her above treaty breaking... For Japan, any means justifies the end."

Japan definitely guarantees the independence and territorial integrity of the Korean Empire. Japan in agreement with Korea in 1904. (In 1910, Korea was annexed to the Japanese Empire against the will of the Korean people.)

"The Contracting Powers, other than China, agree to respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China."—The Nine-Power Treaty, signed by Japan and the United States, 1922. (In 1931, Japan conquered Manchuria and set up a puppet regime; in 1937 Japan attacked China and set up a puppet regime in Nan-king.)

"No military or naval bases shall be established or fortified in the territory of Japan."—The Twenty-One Demands, 1915. (The islands were immediately turned into strongly fortified military and naval bases, as revealed by the war.)

"The Oriental ideal of love, benevolence and mutual help demands war for selfish ends. Japan's pledge on receiving the divine sword that lays not— is dedicated to the peace of East Asia and to the welfare of the world; it is employed only against the forces inimical to international justice and to the common interests of East Asia. Japan's advances, inspired by— humanity, should not be confused with aggression for gain at the expense of other nations."—Goal of Japanese Expansion, by Tatsu Kawai.

Jap Suicide Attacks Began in October, 1944, Navy Reveals

By FRED HAMPSON
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The kamikaze attacks — Japan's banzai charges of the air — began on a big scale in October of 1944 but it was a hush-hush subject for several months.

Not until the Okinawa campaign did the American public get more than an inkling of this desperate, aerial suicide savagery and the toll it was taking.

Isolated cases of suicide air attacks dated back almost to the beginning of the war, but not until the Leyte invasion in October, 1944, did the kamikaze corps appear in strength.

The first suicide attack I saw occurred at dawn on October 21, or D plus 1. Several correspondents on the deck of the communications ship Apache saw a Japanese Val (dive bomber) come down on the Australian cruiser Shropshire, which was about a half mile off our bow.

We saw a lot of the kamikaze around Leyte gulf after that. Several warships, including the heavy cruiser St. Louis, were hit along with a number of Liberty ships, a tanker and some landing craft.

AAA Is Replaced By PMA Agency

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—One more of the government's alphabet agencies—AAA—which means agricultural adjustment agency, went out of existence Monday but another—PMA—took over its duties.

PMA stands for the newly created production and marketing administration of the agriculture department.

In line with an announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, the old "triple A" as such ended and its duties will be handled by the "field service branch" of PMA.

A spokesman said the only change would be possible consolidation of previous state offices with various other agriculture department offices such as the office of supply, but not the soil conservation service, the farm security administration or the farm credit administration.

United Nations Can Interfere In a Civil War

Do you have any questions on the San Francisco United Nations conference on international organization? To help the people of this country better understand the United Nations Charter and their responsibilities to world organization, the American Association for the United Nations is answering questions received reflecting the tremendous interest today and always for lasting peace.

Q. Can the United Nations interfere in a civil war?
A. Yes, if the situation is likely to endanger international peace and security. The United Nations has power to act whenever there is a dispute or situation which threatens or may threaten world peace.

Q. What will happen to the League of Nations?
A. Undoubtedly much of the property and assets of the League of Nations will be transferred to the United Nations. The preparatory commission of the United Nations, meeting in London, is to make recommendations concerning the transfer of certain functions, activities, and assets of the League which it may be considered desirable for the United Nations to take over.

Q. Who will the judges of the international court of justice be?
A. The court will have fifteen judges, elected by the general assembly and the security council. No two can be citizens of the same nation. They will serve for a term of nine years and may be re-elected. They will be selected on the basis of their qualifications, not nationality, attention being given, however, to see that the principal legal systems of the world are represented on the court.

Q. Does the Charter contain a bill of rights?
A. No, but the Charter provides for the promotion of human rights and fundamental freedoms. It will be the task of the commission on human rights, provided for in the Charter to work out an international bill of rights.

HOMING
SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—A tall fellow hummed "Deep in the Heart of Texas" while waiting for his last paycheck at Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp.

At intervals he shouted, "Yes, I'm going home—lordy, lordy!" He admitted he liked San Diego, was treated well, had a comfortable place to live and has been paid well. Asked why he wished to return to Texas, the tall fellow replied: "Have mah baby bawn in California? You must be crazy!"

Wainwright To Be Flown Into China at Once

CHUNGKING, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Japanese red tape delaying Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's departure from Manchuria, where he has been a prisoner of war, apparently was cut today by Soviet authorities.

A message from an American airborne humanitarian team at Mukden quoted Russian officers as saying last night that a B-24 Liberator was en route to Hsian, 160 miles to the northeast, to fetch Wainwright, who has been a prisoner there with seven Americans and 26 other Allied nationals.

The Japanese, apparently fearful of taking any action that might cause difficulties with the Russians, previously were reported delaying Wainwright's departure pending Soviet approval.

The humanitarian team at the Mukden prison camp also disclosed that a Russian mission which arrived there last evening had immediately ousted the Japanese guards and placed Maj. Gen. George M. Parker Jr., ranking American officer at the camp, in full charge.

Reports from the other humanitarian team at Peiping said all internees there—including 117 Americans—had been moved into hotels. The condition of the internees was said to be as good as could be expected and medical arrangements were described as very satisfactory.

A team of 22 Americans and Koreans in the midst of 50,000 Japanese troops in an unescorted, unarmed transport plane was requested to leave the next day by Japanese military authorities, who moved up tanks and mortars.

The plane left Keijo for Weishien, where 1,528 internees, about half of them women, are quartered. The general health of the internees there was reported good.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's headquarters, meanwhile, said the names of liberated war prisoners were being compiled as rapidly as possible and that some already had been transmitted to Washington, whence notification would be sent to relatives.

Headquarters said that thus far the name of Lt. Col. James Duvess, leader of the heroic marine stand on Wake island in 1942, had not yet appeared on any of the lists.

School Opening

Monday, September 3, as the enrollment date for Moberite students. All faculty positions have been filled with the exception of one.

Superintendent D. D. Fletcher of Canadian is expecting an approximate enrollment of 617 students in Canadian schools. Enrollment will start on September 10.

E. A. Kimmins, superintendent of McLean schools, has announced that students will enroll on Tuesday, September 4. The faculty is completed and nearly 600 students are expected to enroll.

Although there are several vacancies in the Miami faculty, Superintendent E. M. Ballengee expects to have a complete teaching system before the opening of schools. The date has been set for Monday, September 3.

E. R. Reeves, superintendent of the LeFors school system, announced the tentative enrollment date as September 4. A breakfast and general faculty meeting will be held on Monday, September 3.

A report from Panhandle schools showed September 3 as the opening date. All faculty positions are filled according to the school board.

H. M. Lane, superintendent of schools in White Deer, announced the enrollment date as September 3 but said there may be a change in the original date.

Ceiling Price

high for a time if they were not controlled.

Out of that point grows OPA's over-all policy for removing price controls. They will be eliminated, commodity by commodity, as supply matches demand.

The agency expects balance to be reached first in the case of raw materials—grains, metals and so forth. Principal exceptions are tin, lumber, textiles and crude rubber.

This means that in general removal of ceilings at retail will lag behind elimination at manufacturing levels.

And even at retail some products within general categories will be freed of controls much sooner than others.

Humanity Pays Terrible Toll for World War II

The tabulation above gives the terrible price that the war cost the peoples of the world in lives lost and wrecked. The figures include military and civilian losses. They are taken from the most conservative, but incomplete estimates from official statistics, and show that over 60,000,000 people are dead, wounded and missing. In addition, there are 12,000,000 prisoners of war and, as the war ends, to this figure can be added over 4,000,000 more—Japan's armed forces.

Fire Department Commended Today

W. C. deCordova, city manager, in a meeting Monday night, commended the Pampa fire department for its excellent record during his administration.

DeCordova spoke to local firemen at the fire station and said that at no time during his office had he received complaints to the fire department's action.

There has not been a major or disastrous fire in Pampa since deCordova took office in January of 1943, according to Fire Chief Ben White.

The following is a report of recent losses as taken from local fire records: 1943—$13,756.93. 1944—$4,103.50. 1945—(up to date) $1,507.15.

White, in a statement this morning, thanked deCordova for his remarks praising the department and said the talk was greatly appreciated.

contractors and so on. Also to be dropped will be the whole series of priority ratings—AA-1, AA-2, AA-3, and AA-4.

Replacing them will be a simpler system, much reduced. Producers for military requirements will get an "MM" rating. Then there will be a junior rating called "CC."

WPB said the junior rating will be used sparingly. A company can get it to break a serious recovery bottleneck in materials or equipment.

But otherwise—non-military production will get no help through priorities, generally. It will be a free scramble.

The government told businessmen to build all the new factories, plants and additions they could.

Controls on building were taken off but the government still kept controls of some materials, like lumber.

WPB Chairman J. A. Krug said the tight supply situation—in lumber and other building materials—shows ease off soon as military demands slacken and more men are available for work.

Enough DDT—the new insecticide—to rid a house of mosquitoes and flies and other pests for a year: at $1.50 to $2.25 a year. The U. S. public health service made the estimate of the cost.

Unless a special session is ordered the legislature does not meet again until January, 1947, and that will be a newly elected legislature.

Approval of the court amendment not only would increase the elective membership of the bench but would increase from two to five the concurrence of judges necessary to a decision.

The court now has three elective justices and six appointive judges on the commission appeals. Members of the commission do the work of judges but only the judges can approve their decisions.

The new proposal is for a chief justice and eight associate justices. The present elective justices would continue undisturbed for their elective terms. The appointive judges of the commission of appeals would become associate justices of the court until January 1 next proceeding the expiration of their appointive terms. They would then have to stand for re-election. All terms thereafter would be for six years and three justices would be elected every two years.

The amendment permits the court to sit in sessions for the purpose of hearing preliminary matters only. All causes would be decided by a majority of the nine.

Geneva May Be Seat Of United Nations

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Geneva, home of the League of Nations, appears to be winning favor among diplomats in London as a possible site for permanent headquarters of the United Nations security organization.

One Allied official who declined to be quoted by name, said today that the site now depends primarily on Russia. If the Russians agree, the United Nations may move into the white marble palace constructed for the league at Geneva.

The closest approach to war news from the Pacific today was a Soviet Russian report that four Japanese generals have surrendered to the Red Army and 450,000 soldiers of Nippon's crack Kwantung army were taken prisoner in Manchuria and Sakhalin Island.

Woman Victim of Gunshot Wounds

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Burial services for Mrs. Frank McBroome, 19, who died yesterday from a gunshot wound Friday night when her husband mistook her for a burglar at their home, will be held in Houston today.

McBroome, 25, has been cleared of any criminal intent in the shooting. County Solicitor Robert R. Sweet told the grief-stricken husband, "There is nothing to charge you with, and if we did charge you, no jury in the world would convict you."

Mrs. McBroome's mother, Mrs. H. T. Vaughan of Houston, was at her daughter's bedside. Mrs. Vaughan told Peace Justice Henry L. Oppenborn, "I am convinced that it wasn't Frank's fault. He wouldn't have done her any harm. He loved her too much."
