Walkout Toll Spreading To New Fields

PITTSBURGH — (AP) – Spreading walkouts in the two largest coal producing states today brought the country to the brink of a nation-wide strike. Nearly half the 375,000 diggers are idle. Smarting under the government-ordered reduction in. the pay boost they recently won, members of the United Mine Workers union closed more mines in West Virginia and Pennsylvania

At least 3,000 miners in Western Pennsylvania and 1,700 in West Virginia ignored go-to-wor whistles. They joined the 160,000 diggers across the nation who refused to work last week while the Wage Stabilization Board was debating the $1.90 daily pay boost.

WSB action, in cutting that increase back to $1.50 a day, set off the new series of walkouts. UMS President John L. Lewis remains silent.

The 23rd Amendment

Why do people call the accomplices of big government "liberals" and "progressives"? It's giving these words a bad smell. Liberal comes from liberty. Progressive comes from progress.

Every time the government usurps a business which was formerly operated privately, liberty and progress die in that field. They must die, because government ownership is monopolistic.

Private monopolies can be broken by competition. With government monopolies it takes a revolution.

If you work for the government you can't strike.

If the government defaults on a contract you can't sue. If you're in competition with the government, it gradually but inexorably puts you out of business, whether your business is gas, electricity, or schools.

The government will put you out of business whether it desires to or not. Government in business enjoys economic advantages which private business is denied.

The government business doesn't pay taxes. It is audited, not by an impartial judge, but by a friend. It can juggle its books, run at a deficit, get free publicity and advertising

Whether it intends to or not it ruins its private competitor by mouthing such slogans as:

"We produce for service not for profit." "Sure we run at a loss; we're big hearted. We're a public service. We don't make up our losses out of your hides like our private competitors do."

This slogan ignores the government losses which are made up by all taxpayers, whereas private losses are made up by the few stockholders involved.

With all this demonstrated, why do we still call people who believe in it "liberals" and "progressives"?

If the government were denied the right to compete with private business, as the revolutionary 23rd Amendment proposes, liberty would be restored to you, the people. That Amendment is truly liberal, truly progressive. E erybody would benefit from the increased efficiency and the reduction in taxes which would result from turning government businesses back to the taxpayers.

It's easy to see how you personally would benefit from a reduction in taxes. But in thinking about how liberty affects progress you have to go further. Imagine how you would spend the extra money.

this column has been contending. That our educational system cannot teach the concepts of our Constitution. Mr. Norton remarks "that our expensive educational estab-lishment has left the masses without constitutional or governmental capacity."

Here are quotes from Atty. Norton's letter concerning the legality of the $18,000 contributions to Nixon's campaign for Americanism: "Since about 1907 Congress has been enacting and revising Corrupt Practices Acts which recognize the right of an American to contribute the campaign of those seeking Federal office. That is what was done by the friends of Senator Nixon in California. Somebody should have explained that to Eisenhower and the two editors. "A revision of the law in 1925 made it unlawful for any corporation to make a contribution toward the election of a Federal officer. 'In 1939 an Act to Prevent Pernicious Political Activities. forbade persons to contribute in excess of $5,000 a year, which might mean $20,000 during a Presidential term. It forbade those in the Executive Department "to take any part in political management or political campaign." The President drove through that in special railway trains loaded with all the instrumentalities of the ballyhoo. He is selecting himself, instead of letting the electors of the Constitution do "In 1940 the law was amended to prohibit political committees from collecting and spending over $3,000,000 a year, or it might be $12,000,000 during the quadrennium. "I" 1948 the labor union was forbidden to contribute. In 1936 unions, according to Beard's "American Government and Politics," had contributed $770,218. "An Act of 1940 forbade further collections such as had yielded $315,000 by the sale of the "Book of the Democratic Committee," actographed by President Roosevelt. Many in "big business" were gone atter and they bought, each, many copies of the book. 'So, in 1944, President Roosevelt devised a Thousand Dollar Club, to contain a thousand members, and to replace the contributions condemned by Congress. Members were feted at Washington during the inauguration in January, 1945. "In the light of that very connsed history, how can any one

Low Blows? Of Course!

The average man pays $1000 per year in taxes, direct and hidden.

If the government were required, as the 23rd Amendment proposes, to dispose of its business within three years the average man would pay no more than $300 in taxes.

What would you do with the extra $700 you'd be allowed to keep? Buy your wife a few clothes? Yourself a new car? Wait.

It would depend on what government businesses were cut out, wouldn't it?

How much of a government subsidy are you receiving now? From Federal, State, County, or City governments?

You'd get money back in taxes from them, too. If you missed the service, you'd have to buy it privately, if the 23rd Amendment were made to bind ALL government.

If the state government passed a law permitting state schools to go out of business by renting or selling their property to private educators, you probably would take part of the $700 not collected in taxes and spend it on your children's education.

You would if you were truly liberal, truly progressive. Nobody can force anybody to be liberal.

The absence of high taxes would permit men now in business to take their present profits and expand. Their expansion would provide new jobs. Wherever you spent your $700 a new industry would be built to cater to your needs.

If you spend it on cars, the automobile industry will expand. The price of cars will come down.

If you spend it on schools and hospitals, more schools and hospitals will be built than now exist.

No matter how you spend your money you will benefit in five ways at least.

1. You will keep the money that you now pay in taxes which support government businesses.

2. You will spend that money or put it in the bank and spend it later. You will have extra things you cannot now afford.

3. The money, whether spent or saved, will be invested by you or your bank in industries that will make new jobs. Your community will prosper from the release of eneray

4. The necessity for welfare service will almost dry up. More people will be working, making more money, and will be able to give more of it to private charity.

5. You will decide for yourself for a change what acfivities you want to support, in business or charity.

You will be self-reliant. What you earn will be yours to keep, not somebody else's. What you build will be your accomplishment. YOU can take the credit. You can do the right thing yourself if you want to, instead of
