FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields - 10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the sixmonths period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

Europe Minimizes Possibility Of War

try are often surprised at one thing — the amount of war talk that goes on inside the United States. This doesn't mean that thoughtful Europeans are performing the ostrich act, burying their heads in the sand, and telling themselves that all is well and the Soviet Union isn't so much of a menace after all. But the European press plays down the possibility of war much more than does the American, and the feeling that another global war is inevitable is much more widely held here than across the Atlantic.

There may be a certain fatalism in the European attitude. War has devastated her cities and decimated generations of young men. It has created human misery to an unknown and almost unimaginable extent so far as most Americans are concerned. So great and awful a cataclysm, many Europeans feel, cannot happen again. And most certainly they feel that, should it happen, the world will end so far as they are concerned, and victor and vanquished alike will be destroyed.

In any event, and regardless of the reasons for it, the European Army plan has fallen far short of the blueprints. The story is well told in a recent article in U. S. News & World Report, which began, "An unexpected slowdown is upsetting the basic schedules for building of military defenses for Western Europe.

'Target dates for arms build-up are being set back. Budgets for armament are being replanned and reduced.

Arms output and arms shipment are lagging. "War, if it should come in the year or two just ahead, will find the West far less prepared than plans called for just six months ago. Real defense, which had been planned for 1954, now appears unlikely before 1956 or later."

The goal set for NATO was 25 fully equipped and active divisions by December of this year. These were supposed to be A-1 outfits, ready for anything. Actually, 23 divisions are in being, but they are poorly trained and their equipment is inferior. Equally important, there is a severe shortage of up-to-date combat aircraft, and a potentially even more serious lack of adequate bases.

All the nations involved have contributed in one way or another to the slowdown, with the exception of The Netherlands. Britain's rearmament program is well behind schedule and may sag further. We have reduced our aid to Europe. France has cut her defense goals. and Italy is asking for a cut. The start of German rearmament is being delayed. Belgium has slowed defense preparations and has reduced the length of the terms conscripts must serve.

What it all amounts to is that Europeans are enormously weary of the burdens imposed by war and preparation for war. Some of them argue that if the Russians had wanted war, it would have started before this, when Western Europe was totally defenseless and the Soviet hordes could have rolled to the channel and perhaps beyond without encountering anything worthy of the word opposition. As U. S. News put it, "War in Europe, any time soon, is being set down as a remote prospect by the military leaders and diplomats who shape policy in Western Europe . . . Armed strength is regarded as an argument to be used in some future negotiated settlement with the Communists rather than as preparation to defend the Continent against an early armed aggres-

So, curiously enough, there is less belief in the inevitability of war in Europe, which would be the immediate battleground, than there is in the distant United States. All men of good will must hope that the European leaders are right on this tremendous question.

Things To Remember

In these days when some people in both high and low positions would sell the United States short for the purposes of promoting restrictive socialism, it is well to pause and take stock of what this country has offered the individual — unlimited opportunity.

Recent news reports cite one more example of what opportunity means. J. C. Penney, merchant and agricultural expert, has just given to the University of Missouri 250 head of purebred Guernsey cattle for breeding, research and educational purposes, together with a 750acre farm, and stocks and bonds to assure working funds, having a combined value of $725,000.

Penney, who is now Chairman of the Board of J. C. Penney Company, has demonstrated what a man can do with opportunity. He started as small as a man could in 1902 with an idea and a little store in Kemmerer, Wyoming. He believed then, as he does now, that what is needed is ability and the will to work hard toward the achievement of a goal - any goal which is right and clean and decent and worthwhile.

He had the ability; he had the goal; he had a sound program. Above all, he lived in a country that offered individual opportunity. Today there are over 50,000 full-time employes in over 1600 Penney Stores.

Records such as this should cause any red-blooded American to turn thumbs down on opportunity-destroying socialistic schemes which remove the chance for each individual to advance according to his ability, as did Mr.

Our Neighbors Those people who live next door or down the street a way or around the corner. Do you know them? Do you put yourself out just a little sometimes to make their lives a little more pleasant? A cheery "hello," a genial smile, an invitation to come in and sit awhile. These are the tiny miracles that make neighborliness blossom and grow into a thing of strength and beauty. Charity, they say, begins at home. Similarly, it is from your home that nextdoorness emanates. Let's all be good neighbors. Remember, there is no tax on your temember, there is no tax on you nvestment in friendship.
