JUST ONE DAY TO GO — And the advantages of Leap Year will be gone for another four years. Many a Pampa maiden is checking through her list of eligible males these last few hours of 1952, making double-sure she has not overlooked a likely prospect. And pretty Billie Pulliam, KPBN continuity director, shows the technique of some gals as she thoughtfully eyes the remaining few names at the end of a long, long list. "Course, gals can get married during the three years between Leap Years — but it just makes it easier to nail a male when the gal can do the asking, that's all. But don't get frantic gals, there's still one day more. (News Photo)

Offer Is Made In Laketon Dispute

Settlement of the dispute over location of electric lines along the Laketon-Miami road remained up in the air today. In the negotiating, Atty. J. E. Thompson, representing T. C. Bates, owner of the property where the line is under dispute, said Greenbelt Electrical Cooperative had been offered an easement 18 inches outside of the fence to place the poles and line. However, Thompson added, the cooperative hasn't said whether they would accept or reject the offer.

Bates also will ask damages caused to his fence by moving the poles — which now stand anywhere from three to four feet into his field from the present fence line. Location of the half mile of poles has also interfered with cultivating the field since they were put there several years ago, without the owner's consent. The recent flareup came when the cooperative sent out a form letter to residents served by that particular line that they would be removed by Jan. 1, 1953, and advising that those affected would be without electricity and should make their arrangements accordingly.

Thompson said he had not received any word yet as to whether the electricity has been shut off yet, or if it would be. "Mr. Bates has offered to give them easement," Thompson said "outside of the fence on his property, but he doesn't want any poles or guy wires on his field."

In the offer, Thompson added, no set figure was named for the damages to Bates' crops or to the anticipated damage that will be caused to the fencing by removing the poles.

Pilot Says Commie Agents Worked In Secret Utah Base
WASHINGTON (AP) — Col. Paul W. Tibbets, pilot of the plane which dropped the first atomic bomb on Japan, said today foreign agents penetrated the secret B29 base in Utah where the first Atom bomb crew was trained.

Tibbets said agents of two foreign countries were arrested within the closely guarded air base at Wendover, Utah, at a time when only a handful of scientists and high military men knew about the bomb. He did not name the countries nor say whether the agents had had an opportunity to learn any secrets. He said he did not know what became of the agents, that the Manhattan District took charge of them. The Manhattan District was the Army code name for the A-bomb development project. There was no immediate opportunity to ask him about these details, and no immediate comment from the Pentagon. Tibbets made the statement while chatting informally early today with Air Force officials and others following a private showing of a new motion picture based in large part on his experiences. New Faces Due Housing Is Sought

An influx of new persons into the Pampa area this week—and more expected this week end—is giving the Pampa Chamber of Commerce a problem. For its list of available furnished and unfurnished apartments and houses has been depleted, according to E. O. (Red) Wedgworth, local manager. The Chamber is making a community-wide request for all Pampans who know of available housing to call it so that the list may be made complete. The phone number is 383. Largest group of those incoming, it is understood, is 18-20 families representing the Shell Exploration Co. which will be in the area about a year.

Singers To Usher The Old Year Out

A musical program to bid farewell to the old year and usher in the new year is scheduled by the Community Singers at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in the Church of God, corner of Reid and Campbell.

Elmo Hudgins, president of the group, is to lead the Community Singers and visiting vocalists in a diversified program. The Gospelaires are to be present and invitations have been sent to Shamrock, Childress, Wellington and Borger quartets, duets and groups. The public is invited.

DIVES TO DEATH — Workers attempt to remove the body of William Cox, 24, left, from the wreckage of his plane after he committed suicide by crashing his craft into a gravel pit near Sweetwater, Texas. Disregarding the radio pleas of his wife, police, and highway patrolmen for four hours, Cox dived his five-place plane head on into the pit from an altitude of 400 feet. (NEA Tele-photo)

Rancher's Death 'Accidental'

SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP) — The death of Ollie William Cox, a young rancher who told friends by aircraft radio, he was going to plunge his plane into the ground—and then did it—has been listed officially as an accident. A complete report on the crash and death of the wealthy 23-year-old rancher will be made later by Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Safety Investigations. Justice of the Peace M. C.

HST To Ask $73.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — An informed administration source said today President Truman will call upon the new Congress to vote about 73½ billion dollars in new appropriations next year.

He predicted government expenditures of "somewhat under" 80 billion dollars — subject, of course, to changes by the incoming Eisenhower administration.

Spending in the present fiscal year, the source said, will probably fall between four and five billion dollars below the latest official estimate, due to lags in defense expenditures, but tax collections will be about what was previously estimated.

That would mean a five to six billion dollar budget deficit at the end of next June in place of the present official estimate of $10,300,000,000.

On a cash income and out go basis, the deficit, according to this information, from a man who asked that he not be named, would be from two to three billion dollars instead of the present estimate of nearly seven billions. The present fiscal year—fiscal 1953—ends next June 30; fiscal 1954.

President-elect Eisenhower can make any changes he wishes in the budget program which the law requires Truman to lay before Congress only a fortnight before he leaves office. Congress can also make changes. The Truman administration sources said defense spending this fiscal year will not exceed $7 billion. (See BILLION, Page 2)

City Burglars Strike Twice; Jobs Similar

Police today were investigating two break-ins, presumed to have occurred within a short time of each other. And J. O. Dumas, assistant police chief, is "almost positive" that (1) two persons pulled each job, and (2) the same two burglars were involved in each break-in. The "chances are 9-to-1 on it," Dumas said.

Taken from Radcliff Supply Co., 112—E. Brown, sometime Monday night were 11 pairs of welders gloves, a pair of shoes and two hammers. "Nothing is missing so far" from Stapleton Boot and Leather Shop, 612 E. Frederic, Dumas said. That burglary was reported Monday.

The Radcliff breaking was discovered this morning and reported to police. A wooden panel on the lower portion of the rear door had been cut out. Dumas continued, and kicked in. Evidentially, he said, the burglars crawled through it, pried open an inner door and entered the office.

Entrance to the Stapleton concern, too, was made by the same means — the rear door. There, however, a screen door was cut, the door's glass broken and the door unfastened from the inside. Exit was made the same way, Dumas said.

South Texas Politico Faces Two Charges

ALICE (AP) — Woodrow Laughlin, the county judge who beat 79th Dist. Judge Sam Reams for the latter's office, was under indictment here today on charges of swindling and being financially interested in county contracts.

Laughlin, with the backing of South Texas political kingpin George Parr, defeated Reams in the Democratic primary and then stood off a write-in campaign for Reams in the Nov. 4 general election.

Yesterday the Jim Wells County grand jury returned two indictments against Laughlin, one charging he misrepresented his law library when he sold it to the county for $2,385.70, the other that he was financially and illegally interested in county contracts.

The indictments were returned to Dist. Judge Paul Martineau of Corpus Christi, sitting on the bench here in the absence of Judge Reams. Bonds of $1,800 each were set on each of the two indictments.

The 79th Judicial District covers the politically turbulent area of Duval, Jim Wells, Starr and Brooks Counties. The Parr family has dominated politics in the area since 1911.

What was at first thought to be a serious challenge to the Parr regime developed this year after Reams in public statements called for an end to "one-man political rule." The Freedom Party was formed and the group waged intensive campaigns against Parr-backed candidates.

The campaigns became unusually bitter in September after Jacob S. (Buddy) Floyd Jr., son of an arch political foe of Parr, was shot and killed from ambush. The elder Floyd testified at examining trials for Nisco Alanz and Mario (El Turko) Sapet that he was meeting with Alanz at the time his son was shot to death.

Alanz told him, Floyd said, that he had been marked for death because it was feared he would lead a write-in campaign in an effort to defeat the Parr-backed Laughlin.

Reams, too, was marked for death, Floyd said, and the shooting of the younger Floyd was a mistake. The bullets, he testified, actually were meant for him.

Alanz, law partner of Raeburn Norris, Parr-backed district attorney-elect, and Sapet, a lawyer, will make a response.

Commission Picks Dosier To Audit Highland General

H. P. Dosier, local certified public accountant, was employed yesterday afternoon by the county commissioners to make a general audit of Highland General Hospital.

It was one of two last official acts of the dying court that goes out of office at 10 a.m. Jan. 1, 1953.

The audit will cover the period from when the hospital opened its doors in 1950 to Dec. 31, 1952. It was requested by the State Health Department, institution. Audits such as this are made at intervals upon special request of the health department.

The court also signed a lease agreement for one year with Central Airlines; the agreement in turn to be re-made between the county and Cabot Co., owner of the building in which Central maintains its offices. Other smaller routine items of business were also disposed during the last meeting of the court.

Carnival Of Death Races Toward 1953

Texas' bloody carnival of death raced toward its New Year's finale Tuesday with an ever mounting toll stacked up by traffic, shootings, knives and fire.

The count of violent holiday deaths stood at 114 with traffic contributing the lion's share of the horror.

Of the terrible toll, 65 died in the teeming streets and highways and along lonely rural roads in motor vehicle accidents. Other kinds of mishaps had accounted for 23 deaths and homicides and suicides numbered 27 among the dead. The State Department of Public Safety, before the holidays started, had predicted a total of 202 violent deaths in Texas with 105 by traffic. There were three days left to match the prediction . . . or exceed it.

Joint funeral services were set in Houston today for two persons killed in an auto-train crash near Ragley, La. Mr. and Mrs. Huey P. Francis. Their deaths were not counted in the Texas total because the accident happened outside the state.

In Abilene, Tex., a New Jersey government inspector Stanley Blenden 58 — was charged with aggravated assault with a motor vehicle after a Sunday collision that killed three persons. Five-Car Pileup
Blenden's was the first of five cars that figured in a collision with a loaded oil truck. (See CARNIVAL, Page 2)

Baptist Men Plan Banquet

An estimated 325 persons are expected to be on hand for the 11th annual Ladies Night banquet of the Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church.

The affair will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the church's main dining room. Featured speaker will be Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne College, Brownwood — a "Will Rogers type of speaker," according to E. L. Anderson, first vice president of the Brotherhood.

Guests of honor for the occasion will be the widows of church members. But the banquet is for "the entire membership of the church," Anderson emphasized. Welcoming remarks will be made by Rufe Jordan, president of the Brotherhood. Mrs. N. B. Ellis will make a response. Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor, and Paul Biggs, director of music, will sing a duet. Anderson will introduce all guests to the gathering.

Master of ceremonies will be Jimmy Thompson and Clifton Kelly will give the invocation. Other officers of the Brotherhood for 1953 are Floyd Watson, second vice president; J. W. Graham, third vice president.

Rayburn Leaves For Washington
BONHAM (AP) — Rep. Sam Rayburn, who served longer completing 40 years in Congress, is expected to serve as House minority leader in the coming session. The veteran Texas Democrat, of the House of Representatives, was to leave here today by train to be on hand for the opening of the 83rd Congress Saturday.

Dean Acheson Said Possible Probe Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee today pushed its search for government interference with a Red-hunting grand jury in New York amid indications it might question Secretary of State Acheson.

The secretary's name figured yesterday as members of the jury testified that efforts were made to block their recommendation for a continuation of the hunt for Communists on the United Nations staff.

Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) told reporters Acheson may be summoned tomorrow. The State Department has categorically denied attempting to interfere with the grand jury.

Meanwhile, four Justice Department officials — Roy Cohn, Myles Lane, Charles Murray and William Foley — were called to give their version of the case. The committee, which has been investigating the Justice Department for almost a year, yesterday heard from five jurors: Joseph P. Kelly, Joseph A. Cahill, Charles J. Harsanyi, Corinne L. Geist and Max M. Zimmerman.

They told about calling approximately 100 U.S. citizens employed by the U.N. and questioning them about their loyalty or Communist affiliations.

About half of the witnesses refused to answer their questions. The jurors reported, claiming the guarantee of the Fifth Amendment which says no one has to testify against himself in a criminal case.

The jury failed to indict anyone, the committee was told, but the jurors became "indignant" and they testified, voted unanimously to report the conditions they found "so the U.S. public would be started out of its lethargy."

The presentation filed by the jury said "an overwhelmingly large group of disloyal U. S. citizens" had infiltrated the U. N. staff. Since then, 18 have been fired as security risks.

Kelly, the jury foreman, said that Cohn, a special assistant U. S. attorney, was a Communist. (See SOLONS, Page 2)

Sunny Skies Over The Top O' Texas

Blue skies and relatively mild temperatures were the order of the day for Pampa and vicinity today — as downtown streets stayed muddy and car collisions continued.

Pampa's mercury rose to a high of 50 degrees Monday afternoon and dropped down to a low of 25 early this morning. By 1:15 a.m. today it had risen past the freezing mark to 34 degrees.

Over the rest of the state, however, many overnight showers were reported by The Associated Press. But a low pressure area moving eastward from the Gulf was expected to clear the skies during the day.

The rainfall was heaviest in Central and South Texas. The AP reported.

Forecast for tonight and Wednesday called for still clear skies and slightly cooler temperatures.

Courageous Mother Didn't Let Death Mar Yule, Child's Birth

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (AP) — Doctors today praised the courage of Mrs. Mary Decelle, 32, who didn't let the knowledge of sure death spoil the birth of her fifth child or the family's Christmas observance. Mrs. Decelle gave birth to an apparently healthy 5 pound 7 ounce boy last Saturday, then died of cancer less than 24 hours later. The brave mother had pleaded with doctors to be permitted to leave Keris Memorial Hospital so she could spend the holiday with her family at home. She promised to return the day after Christmas for a Caesarian section. Doctors let her go home about 30 days before Christmas and on Dec. 28 she kept her promise and returned to the hospital to face the death she, her husband and her parents knew was inevitable. Dr. Walter Rath said last night, "Mrs. Decelle was one of the most courageous women I've ever met in my life. She held the child long enough for us to take it and then she died." Dr. Rath said permitting Mrs. Decelle to leave the hospital so she could be home for Christmas was "a big chance" because surgeons knew she was then living only from day to day. "But," the doctor added, "the will, determination and courage of Mrs. Decelle prevailed." The woman's 28-year-old husband Morton, an electrical mechanic, said that although his wife knew she was suffering from cancer and all hope had been given up for saving her life, she appeared to be happy. What Stalin Really Said

Differences Show Up In Translation

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — There are important differences between the Russian text of Premier Stalin's Christmas Day statement and the widely published English text.

The Russian word used by Stalin was "sotrudnichestvo" (collaborate) and not "kooperirovat" (cooperate). Again the accurate translation waters down the strength of Stalin's reported language.

'Kitchen Gadget' Shower Is Given For Miss Betty Wilson At Buffet Breakfast

Miss Betty Wilson, bride-elect of James Thomas Brown, was 1952 and friends home for the honored Sunday morning with a buffet breakfast in the home of Mrs. H. H. Hicks, north of city. The traditional bacon and eggs, muffins and coffee were served. Assisting Mrs. Hicks in serving were Jan Sanders and Martha Hopkins. And Mrs. H. C. Wilson, mother of the bride-elect, presided at the silver coffee service. Centering the serving table was an arrangement of white gladioli mums and tulips in blue containers carrying out the honor guest's chosen colors of white and blue. Shower gifts for Miss Wilson were "kitchen gadgets." Miss Eulaine Ellis assisted at the Hammond organ. The guest list included former classmates of Miss Wilson from the Pampa High School class of 1927.

This broiled sandwich is a hearty and attractive mainstay for a special supper menu. The toast base is topped first with tender spears of either freshly cooked or canned green asparagus. Creamed chicken is mounded atop, then sprinkled generously with cheese and the layered sandwich popped under the broiler to melt cheese into bubbly goodness. In making the sauce, evaporated milk is diluted ever so little with vegetable liquid to assure desirable richness and smoothness for the creamed chicken layer. Since this sandwich is so substantial, a relish tray, fruity dessert and beverage is all that is needed to round out a satisfying meal.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Judy's Aunt Sue was a college psychology major. Her mother was not, though she was a pretty steady young woman. When Judy's little brother was born, Aunt Sue was delighted with him. "He's a Baker, this one," she said. "He's got our nose and jaw."
As Billy grew, so did his aunt's enthusiasm for him. And her interest in Judy decreased. Their mother noted this fact, so when Aunt Sue came rushing into the yard, she made a point of taking Judy on her lap. She would keep her there while Aunt Sue made for the play pen and grabbed the baby.

She did some hard thinking as her sister-in-law bawled. "Oh, I could just eat you up, you little monkey, you! Isn't he your auntie's beautiful boy? That's auntie's baby—smile at her."
After a bit, Judy's mother decided that Aunt Sue was speaking to Judy as well as to Billy. She saw that, without words, Aunt Sue was saying to the child who did not resemble the Bakers, "I do not find you delicious. Quite the contrary. I find you not charming like your brother, but commonplace."
So one day, in the midst of one of Aunt Sue's ecstasies over Billy, his mother got up from her chair in the yard. To her little daughter she said placidly, "Aunt Sue likes Billy more than she likes you, Judy. So let's leave her alone with him, shall we? Let's go inside and make some calico tea."
Aunt Sue didn't come around again for a while. When she did, she had mended her manners. "I have much respect for Judy's

McCarren Is McCoy

When Sen. McCarren makes a statement concerning the findings of his committee about the activities of the Institute of Pacific Relations, there is a tendency to take it with a grain of salt.

That is why a report made to the Commonwealth Club of California by Anthony T. Bouscaren, professor of Political Science at the University of San Francisco, is of increased importance.

And this is the report of Prof. Bouscaren: The Institute of Pacific Relations was established in 1925 ostensibly to study and discuss impartially the problems of the Pacific.

On July 2, 1952, the Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee reported its findings on the IPR and its relation to subversive and internal security.

Among the conclusions of the Subcommittee were the following: 1. The IPR has been considered by the American Communist Party and by Soviet officials as an instrument of Communist policy, propaganda and military intelligence.

2. Members of the small core of officials and staff members who controlled IPR were either Communists or pro-Communists.

3. Owen Lattimore was, from some time beginning in the 1930s, a conscious articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy.

4. Effective leadership of the IPR had by the end of 1934 established and implemented an official connection with G. N. Voitinski, Chief of the Far Eastern Division of the Communist International.

5. The effective leadership of the IPR worked consistently to set up actively cooperative and confidential relationships with persons in Government involved in the determination of foreign policy.

6. Over a period of years, John Carter Vincent was the principal fulcrum of IPR pressures and influences in the State Department.

7. It was the continued practice of the IPR to seek to place in government posts persons associated with and selected by the effective leadership of the IPR.

8. The IPR possessed close relations with the State Department through interchange of personnel, attendance of State Department officials at IPR conferences, constant exchange of information and social contacts.

9. A group of persons operating within and about the Institute exerted a substantial influence on United States Far Eastern policy.

10. The IPR was a vehicle used by the Communists to orient American Far Eastern policies toward Communist objectives.

And this, it must be remembered, is not that terrible man, Sen. Joe McCarthy talking. This is a studied and carefully documented opinion, just as Sen. McCarthy documented his information, much to the embarrassment of his opponents.

Utilities' Taxes

According to the Oregon Voter, 14 per cent of all the ad valorem property tax levy in that state is paid by public service enterprises — power and light, railroad, and telephone companies.

The situation is comparable in the other states — in all parts of the country the public service companies are among the largest tax-payers, and are often the very largest.

The argument, of course, is that socialized power is cheaper power. That argument is strictly in the three-dollar bill class. Survey after survey has shown that any rate advantage of publicly-owned as against privately-owned utilities is made possible only by tax exemption and tax subsidies.

On the average, the business-managed power companies pay out about 23 per cent of all their revenues in taxes. The socialized operations either pay no taxes at all, or comparatively small sums as token grants to states and municipalities.

Every time a tax-paying enterprise is socialized, the tax burden of all other taxpayers must go up. Socialism means political control over our lives and affairs — and we pay a big price in money to boot!

A Book By A Culture Carrier

Frank Chodorov in his book "One Is A Crowd" has a chapter under the heading "Return Revolution." In this chapter he writes: "It all began as you know with the Declaration of Independence.

These principles, moreover, were quite metaphysical, completely outside the realm of experience. They were: one, that all men are created equal, and, two, that all men are endowed with inalienable rights.

But government is not an abstraction; it consists of people, and the inclination of most people is to improve upon their circumstances with whatever skills and capacities they possess and with whatever opportunities they meet up with.

It is considered significant that many CIO politicians did not praise the choice of Durkin until after it was denounced as "un-American" by Sen. Taft of Ohio. Their temporary silence was the tipoff on their off-the-record reaction.

DURKIN AS MIDDLEMAN—More over, the presence of a relatively high union official in the Eisenhower household will make it difficult for both AFL-CIO orators to attack or question administration activities.

For the same reason, it may handicap Durkin in maintaining good relations between 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue and his old headquarters.

The irony of the situation lies in the fact that Reuther's peculiar appeal and recognized skill is his ability to attack. He may grow restless under the restraints imposed upon him by Durkin's nearness to Eisenhower.

It was a major factor in the election of the automobile industry's young organizer over Allan Hayswood, who lacks his rival's energy and imagination.

Now Reuther knows that he must deliver the goods in a striking way. Stevenson's stunning defeat with respect to the electoral vote, as well as Eisenhower's popularity.

Founding Fathers delimited the powers of the new government — by the system of checks-and-balances — to that extent did they render inestimable social service.

"The Founding Fathers forged well. Putting aside what it might have been, the Constitution did pay homage to the doctrine of natural rights. It did so by the simple expedient of putting restraints and limitations on the power of government.

"From this we learn a little heeded lesson in social science, namely, that the real struggle that disturbs the enjoyment of life is not between economic classes but between Society as a whole and the political power which imposes itself on Society.

National Whirligig... Ike's Appointment Of Durkin Has Embarrassed Labor Camp

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Although the top leaders of organized labor are late Philip Murray's regime, the CIO had the inside track there. It is considered significant that many CIO politicians did not praise the choice of Durkin until after it was denounced as "un-American" by Sen. Taft of Ohio.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JOHAN, M.D.

One has to be about 50 years old or more to be able to remember very well the great worldwide influenza epidemic of 1917-18. Those who cannot remember that frightening experience may have difficulty in believing the suddenness with which apparently healthy men, women and children were suddenly struck down.

Many collapsed within a few minutes. Many quickly developed pneumonia and died almost before anyone realized they were sick.

The medical profession was a practically helpless and could only try to insist that victims of the dread flu stay quietly in bed until fully recovered.

Too often this advice was difficult or impossible to follow; many times an entire family was laid low at the same time and the mother or father would creep out for a look at the rest of the family, thus taking a risk which was often fatal.

Since that great epidemic other less serious epidemics have occurred. But what is alarming is that our defenses against another disaster such as that of 1917-18 are little better now than they were then.

It is doubtful that any treatment known today would be much more effective in countering the flu than those available 35 years ago. When it comes to prevention, the outlook is a little more promising.

Vaccination has been tried, but because there are several kinds of viruses involved, building up resistance to one does not mean that the next one which comes along will not knock us down.

The time may not be far distant when vaccination will bring protection, and indeed some of the most intelligent scientists in the world are working on this problem.

Influenza strikes the healthy and strong as readily as the weak or infirm. Indeed the man who has "never been sick a day in his life" and then gets the flu is perhaps running the greatest risk of all, because he is not accustomed to giving in to illness.

LABOR'S ROLE — Reuther does not favor the formation of a separate labor party. The Nov. 4 casualties among minor political organizations like Socialist-Labor and Progressive groups (imposed some losses among CIO.

But he does believe that labor must remain politically active, perhaps more so than ever before. He plans to make its influence felt in any revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, as well as in all legislation affecting farm, social security, health and education problems.

Fair Enough... Pegler Believes Irving Brown Still Espouses Foreign Ism

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

I challenge Gen. Eisenhower, I challenge Beedle Smith (the chief of the Central Intelligence Agency), the editors of the Reader's Digest and everyone else within a sound of my voice to adduce one single word in support of the insinuation that Irving Brown, the foreign political agent of the American Lovestone Communist movement, ever has retreated from the belligerent threats of that ism to impose a soviet system on the United States by shooting revolution in the streets.

Eisenhower knows Brown personally from association in Europe. But Ike seems to be a political illiterate who can't evaluate Communism as such. He was a dupe in the last days of the war and the months just after and made terrible mistakes.

I have selected excerpts from the political professions of Brown and Jay Lovestone, Brown's political fustler, which leave no excuse for doubt that they were intent on reducing the American people to slavery under dictatorship.

One has to be about 50 years old or more to be able to remember very well the great worldwide influenza epidemic of 1917-18. Those who cannot remember that frightening experience may have difficulty in believing the suddenness with which apparently healthy men, women and children were suddenly struck down.

Many collapsed within a few minutes. Many quickly developed pneumonia and died almost before anyone realized they were sick.

The medical profession was a practically helpless and could only try to insist that victims of the dread flu stay quietly in bed until fully recovered.

Too often this advice was difficult or impossible to follow; many times an entire family was laid low at the same time and the mother or father would creep out for a look at the rest of the family, thus taking a risk which was often fatal.

Since that great epidemic other less serious epidemics have occurred. But what is alarming is that our defenses against another disaster such as that of 1917-18 are little better now than they were then.

It is doubtful that any treatment known today would be much more effective in countering the flu than those available 35 years ago. When it comes to prevention, the outlook is a little more promising.

Vaccination has been tried, but because there are several kinds of viruses involved, building up resistance to one does not mean that the next one which comes along will not knock us down.

The time may not be far distant when vaccination will bring protection, and indeed some of the most intelligent scientists in the world are working on this problem.

Influenza strikes the healthy and strong as readily as the weak or infirm. Indeed the man who has "never been sick a day in his life" and then gets the flu is perhaps running the greatest risk of all, because he is not accustomed to giving in to illness.

LABOR'S ROLE — Reuther does not favor the formation of a separate labor party. The Nov. 4 casualties among minor political organizations like Socialist-Labor and Progressive groups (imposed some losses among CIO.

But he does believe that labor must remain politically active, perhaps more so than ever before. He plans to make its influence felt in any revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, as well as in all legislation affecting farm, social security, health and education problems.

Thus, assuming that Meany's AFL boys do not get strange thoughts of grandeur because of the Durkin-Eisenhower tieup, the "one big union" idea may be the solution to Reuther's search for a way out of the present wilderness.

Finally, a closely-knit, well-financed and dynamic movement of 35 million workers may be the most effective answer to the prospective selection of Taft as GOP majority leader of the Senate.

New Congress May Give Atom A Job In U. S. Civilian Life

Editors Note: When will the atom be harnessed for industry? Will the government or private business play the major role? The prospects and problems involved are discussed below in the first of a series of four articles on atomic energy.

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new Congress may give the atom a job in civilian life.

Within two or three years, officials estimate, a small pioneer "package" atomic plant could be producing limited quantities of electric power for industry.

In live years or less, a large central atomic plant could be built, generating energy by the millions of kilowatts instead of thousands, and also turning out plutonium for atom bombs.

But today there are no plans to construct either.

Industry is not ready to risk millions of dollars of stockholders' money in experimental plants that hold little promise of profits for many years. The Atomic Energy Commission is not yet ready to divert the money or resources from defense.

These proposals and others, however, are almost certain to be heard early in the new year before the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy. Rep. Carl T. Durham (D-NC), outgoing chairman, has announced he will ask for hearings quickly on industrial participation in the atomic program, now a government industrial participation in the monopoly.

It may require anywhere from 10 to 15 years, according to expert estimates compiled in a report this month by the congressional committee, before atomic-generated electric power can be made cheaply enough to compete with energy from coal, oil or water power.

To shorten the time, officials and industry experts agree, it probably will be necessary to gain experience from the erection and operation of experimental plants and prototype reactors. They estimate cost at five million dollars or more for the little "package" power plant and 60 to 80 million dollars for the large plant that would turn out both power and plutonium.

Pressure is building up on Congress and the AEC to break the ice—to work out some kind of industry-government partnership which will enlist the driving force of private competition in atomic development.

The AEC is building up a perpetual government monopoly is not accepted by AEC, Congress or industry.

The AEC is writing a report on its views for the proposed congressional hearings. It also created this fall an office of industrial development, with orders to plan for a day when "industry will carry on its own atomic program."

The immediate objectives are limited. Real-life prospects do not indicate early fulfillment of any dreams of autos which operate on their lifetime on one atomic pill, or cities which are fueled, lighted and heated by an atomic storage battery.

Where costs count little, as in matters of national security, orders are possible. An atomic submarine is on the way and an atomic warplane may be in the air within a decade. These could lead to atom-powered ocean liners, air transports and even locomotives.

But atomic reactors are bulky and costly.

They present enormous problems in the conversion of heat to power and in disposal of radioactive waste. They must be walled behind six feet of concrete or the equivalent.

L.R. Hafstad, AEC's chief of reactors development, illustrates as follows one flaw in the popular conception of the atomic age:

Even if the government gave away power generated from the atom, the consumer of electricity could expect a saving of not more than 25 to 30 per cent on his electric bill.

That is because the reactor is merely the equivalent of the fuel box and boiler in a coal-fired plant. It produces only the heat. To make electricity requires heat-transfer equipment not yet perfected for atomic plants, turbines, generators and the same type of distribution system used in conventional power plants.

The coal, oil and gas industries therefore are not quaking in their boots—even though uranium reserves contain 10 times the energy of U.S. oil reserves and a pound of uranium holds energy equal to 2,600,000 tons of coal. The utility companies are anxious to see a start on an industrial atomic program.

Management of the program requires unraveling a web of legal obstacles under the Atomic Energy Act. Industry would like the government to foot most of the developmental bills. It wants an assured supply of uranium "fuel" from the sole owner, Uncle Sam.

The AEC on its side must decide, among a host of vital questions, whether it now can relax its emphasis on military problems sufficiently to delve into civilian matters; whether it can write terms under which private interests are admitted into an industry developed with public funds; and how to subsidize an industry which almost certainly will need subsidies for a time, possibly for a long time.

On the technical side, much of industry is no stranger to the atom. Most of the atomic weapons program—which as an industry compares in scale with General Motors or United States Steel—is managed by private contractors on a cost-plus basis.

Industry's interest in an atomic electric power plant has grown and numerous proposals have been advanced. Most of them rely on the fact that a reactor can be built to produce both energy and a new supply of fissionable materials for sale to the government. By paying enough for the latter, the government could, in effect, absorb part of the cost of power.

Other proposals include:

1. An industry proposal that AEC build and own a pilot-plant reactor. Once it is completed and technical questions answered, industry might invest in a full-scale plant.
2. Another industry plan, from DOW Chemical Company and Detroit Edison Company: That government research be continued until technical problems are solved, whereon "the two companies would like to build and operate a commercial-sized reactor plant using private capital and without recourse to governmental funds."
3. A proposal having considerable support in government and industry: The government would build and own a reactor to make power and plutonium; on the same site, private utilities would build the necessary facilities to take off the energy and distribute it. No change in the Atomic Energy Act would be needed.

4. The "power package" proposal: This plan, under serious AEC consideration, calls for federal construction of a small plant in an isolated area where conventional power is excessively high priced. AEC is now making a survey of such marginal power areas where atomic energy might be competitive.

5. The all-government approach: AEC might build the first plant and generate power for its own use. The atomic program, far from adding to the country's power capacity, next year will be consuming 2 1/2 per cent of all power produced.

6. The foundation proposal: Advanced by a former AEC member, this plan suggests that private foundations pool their funds to finance an atomic power plant for developmental purposes.

7. The offshore proposal: An atomic power plant might pay its way in countries where electricity costs more than in the United States; several have suggested that Point Four appropriations might be used to build a pioneer reactor in some underdeveloped country.

It is quite possible that England will show America the way. Britain reportedly plans to start next year the world's first nuclear fission plant to provide power for industry.

They're Solid Citizens! Hank Thinks Motion Picture People Are Solid As Any Set

By HERY McLMORE
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — Maybe I'm such a phony that I can't recognize a phony when I see one, but every time I come to Hollywood I run across nothing but nice people, all of whom seem to be as sound of mind and limb as 'any other species of American.

Half the articles you read about Hollywood would lead one to believe that it is a town populated by popoffs, showoffs, heels, crackpots, and a general assortment of male and female blighters who should be shipped away to a desert island and left there to perish after they'd eaten their vanity and money.

I'm still impressionable enough to like to visit studios and have yet to feel as if I were in a zoo. The actors and actresses appear to be normal, hard-working people, and as courteous and as well-behaved as the men and women in Social Circle, Georgia, Teaneck, New Jersey, or Sioux Falls, Iowa.

We spent a day at the Paramount lot with Bob Hope where he is shooting "Here Come the Girls" with Tony Martin, Arlene Dahl, and Rosemary Clooney. Hope didn't have much work to do that day, so what did he do? He spent most of the time in his bungalow arranging a giant show for a veterans' hospital, and working with Paul Douglas on a routine Paul will use in Korea.

Korea is no fun this time of year, or any other time of year for that matter, but Paul and his wife, Jan Sterling, along with Walter Pidgeon and a troupe of twenty-five or more, are up at Christmas and New Year's at home to play for the front line soldiers in sub-zero weather.

If that's crazy, nonsensical Hollywood, then a lot of us would do well to adopt the attitude, "I'll bet you that half the people who read about Hollywood think of Dave Chasen's restaurant as a wild and woolly place where everyone wears ten-carat diamonds, super dark glasses, and drinks champagne by the barrelful. It is as quiet and nice a restaurant as you'd ever find. Dave and his wife, Maudie, are as simple as old shoes and you don't have to be Tyrone Power to get a table.

Really, when I read some of the things written about Hollywood I get mad. Sure there are screwballs out here, but I don't think there are as many here as in a lot of towns I've visited.

Where would you find nicer guys than John Wayne, Dennis

Morgan, Tony Martin, Buddy Rogers, Roy Rogers, John Hodiak and a hundred others that I've met off and on? At Paramount I saw Cecil B. DeMille and he was behaving himself very sensibly. He was in the restaurant eating a bowl of soup looking like anybody's grandfather. His chair wasn't made of gold and no slave girls were fanning his soup to cool it off.

In San Francisco I ran across Pat O'Brien and all he could talk about was hearing his daughter sing a solo with the Marymount Glee Club. That solo meant much more to him than how his play "Strike a Match" was going.

In a few days I'm going out to have a dinner with an old sweetheart of mine, Mary Pickford. She was kind enough to call to say that my column had given her pleasure and ask whether we'd have time to come and see her.

I like Hollywood and its nice people.

U. S. railroads transported 8,500,000 carloads of coal in 1951.
