Patterson Modifies Request to One-Year Draft Law Extension

Fathers Now In Uniform May Get Out

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's advocacy of an indefinite draft law was modified today by Secretary of War Robert Patterson, who said Eisenhower now wants a one-year extension.

Patterson told the house military committee, before which he and Eisenhower testified yesterday, that he and the chief of staff are agreed on a one-year continuance of the law, which expires May 15.

Patterson said he and Eisenhower were in full agreement that length of service under extension legislation should be limited to 18 months, that fathers should not be inducted and that all fathers now in uniform should be released by late summer.

He is willing, Patterson said, to accept a limitation that the induction be held to men between 18 and 25, both inclusive.

Members of both senate and house military committees appeared to share a general feeling that selective service should be kept alive beyond its May 15 expiration date. But there was no clear-cut agreement on how long.

The two committees returned to the subject after long testimony—some of it in secret session—yesterday.

1. Secretary of State Byrnes, who was reported by members to have told the senate committee that those charged with responsibility for the nation's security are alarmed lest there not be enough new soldiers and sailors to replace those now entitled to come home.

2. Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, quoted as telling the senators that the navy could not hope to get

'Some Price Increases' Are Expected--Porter

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP)—Paul A. Porter, OPA administrator, said today there would be "some price increases" as the result of approved wage boosts but predicted that the new wage-price policy would have little or no effect upon rents or on "the average of food prices."

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(Special)—Independent oil operators up before the special Senate Petroleum Investigation committee yesterday stated that crude oil prices would have to be increased to maintain the present productive capacity.

Testimony was also given as the hearings went into the third day, that an import policy is based on conservation of domestic reserves and not on conservation as its proponents offer.

Merle Becker, vice president of C. McBride, Inc., St. Louis, said productive capacity can be maintained only through the discovery of new reserves in larger volume than is annually required to meet the needs of the nation.

This in turn, he stated, requires constant exploratory activity, which is only possible when a reasonable profit can be obtained from regular operations.

Price is the most important tool of the oil industry," Becker stated, adding that "without an adequate price all other tools become useless."

Becker concluded by stating that the independent oil producer is convinced that with the production capacity now available in the nation, sufficient to meet all present demands, there is no reason for not immediately removing the price ceiling on crude oil. If this is not done an increase of at least 35 cents should be given in order to stimulate development.

Wirt Franklin, independent operator of Ardmore, Okla., discussed the importation of crude oil and petroleum products. He said there was no reason "why these resources should not be developed for the benefit of all." History has repeated itself, Franklin asserted, in bringing about forecasts that we are running

Politically Powerful National Organizations Behind UNRRA

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 22.—(AP)—An array of politically powerful national organizations gathered today behind a drive to force the United States to ration cereals, fats and oils "which are desperately needed elsewhere."

Simultaneously they called for care of political refugees "without requiring the consent of their governments," and urged immediate creation of a new international organization to care for them until they can find new homes.

A total of 20 organizations signed the statement—among them, the National Grange, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the community service committee of the CIO and the general Federation of Women's clubs.

In their statement, observers for the organizations—here at the invitation of the state department for the UNRRA council meeting—declared President Truman's emergency famine program was "insufficient to cope with the immediate threat of widespread famine and inadequate to fulfill America's moral obligation and responsibilities as a world leader."

"We therefore urge that the U. S. government set aside at the source greater amounts of those goods required for overseas relief, rationed at once in this country, food such as cereals, fats and oils which are desperately needed elsewhere."

The displaced persons who are likely to be residual inhabitants of camps this summer should be assured the full care and services of UNRRA—without requiring the consent of their governments—while awaiting the opportunity for permanent resettlement.

Drive to Restore Navy Fund Cut Gains Momentum

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—The congressional drive to give the navy the extra $210,000,000 it wants gained momentum today despite a presidential rap at the sea arm.

Lawmakers pledged a renewed battle for the full $6,225,000,000 described by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz as the minimum sum the navy needs to maintain a strong fleet.

The budget bureau slashed that figure to $4,225,000,000 and Nimitz, chief of naval operations, and other top admirals have since told a house naval committee inquiry that this would require drastic retrenchments in fighting ships, manpower and research.

President Truman told his news conference yesterday that the statement by the navy was not in line with the facts. He did not say what statement he referred to, but a White House official who demanded anonymity told a reporter later the chief executive was "shooting" at Nimitz.

The latter had told the house committee that the projected cut would jeopardize the nation's defense and its position in world affairs.

Saying there has been a misunderstanding that ought to be cleared up, Mr. Truman asserted that Budget Director Harold Smith will appear to explain the whole thing.

Instrument for Preservation Of Peace-UNO

LONDON, March 22.—(AP)—Prime Minister Stalin told the Associated Press today "I am convinced that neither the nations nor their armies are striving for a new war," the Moscow radio said.

"They want peace," Stalin said in the interview as broadcast from Moscow, "and are striving for a guarantee of peace."

FEAR OF WAR
"That means," Stalin added, "that the present fear of war caused not from that quarter. I think that the present fear of war is caused by the activities of certain political groups who accuse themselves with propaganda for a new war and who are thereby sowing the seeds of discord and lack of confidence."

Moscow, said AP Correspondent Fddy Gilmore asked Stalin what significance he attributed to the United Nations as a means of preserving international peace, and Stalin replied:

INTERNATIONAL SECURITY
"I attribute great significance to the United Nations organization since it is a serious instrument for the preservation of peace and international security."

"The strength of this international organization consists in the fact that it is based on the principle of the equality of the rights of states and not on the principles of the

Friendship With Russia Is Plea Made by Pepper

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) said today those who cry "communism" at the sound of a kind word for Russia are blocking the most direct road toward an enduring peace.

The Florida senator told reporters he regards as part of "the current pattern of attack" assertions made by Senator Ball (R-Minn.) in opposing Pepper's suggestion that this country destroy its atom bombs and go into a Big Three meeting with "clean hands."

Ball said in a senate speech yesterday that the American communist party is "beating the drums" against an atomic control bill amendment which he described as "a minimum safeguard to national security" but which Pepper had criticized in his foreign policy address on Tuesday.

Asserting that his proposals "came from my own heart," Pepper added that he considers it "neither fair nor good judgment" to proceed on the premise that no agreement can be reached with Russia.

Ball told his colleagues that destruction of this nation's atomic bombs and the plants in which they are made—as suggested by Pepper—would commit the United States to policy of appeasement because of its resulting impotence.

Russia still has an estimated 10,000,000 men under arms, and her armies are occupying Iran in violation of a treaty and threatening Turkey," the Minnesotan said. "No one knows what secret weapons Russia has developed or is producing behind her iron curtain of isolation."

The Minnesota senator quoted from an Aug. 22, 1940, speech in the congressional record in which Pepper had attacked a communist party anti-drift pamphlet, calling it "a sinister influence from Moscow x x x reaching into our own land."

"That was when Russia had a non-aggression pact with Hitler and the communist party line was to op-

If You Don't Belong to a Church, Plan to Attend One on Sunday

No More for Mom

Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski, above, the poor little rich girl whose childhood was spent in courtroom custody battles, no longer will pay her mother $21,000 per year, she says. Gloria is using her money for relief of suffering children throughout the world, and her mother, Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, can work as she had done in the past. Gloria said she belongs where he was sitting and was killed. But the record concerning Eli is that "this son made himself vile, and he restrained himself not." The course of these sons, accepting bribes and misconducting themselves with women, who were named to the temple, shows to what a corrupt state the people had fallen.

But now there came a new leader, who with religious fervor and integrity combined high qualities of political leadership. It was under this new leader, Samuel that the people attained such strong national consciousness that they rejected Samuel himself, as the religious head demanding a military leader and king, thus proving the way for that disaster which was shortly to come upon them.

The story of Samuel both in its personal aspects and in its political implications, is of great interest. We begin first with the little boy in the temple, brought there by his mother, Hannah, and devoted to the service of the high priest, Eli. He was the child of love and prayer. His father, Elkanah, is one of the noble figures in the Old Testament, a man of delicate feeling who truly loved his wife, despite her barrenness; and Samuel, in the beautiful account of his birth, was the child of his mother's prayers.

Eli, too, was more successful with his little helper than he was with his own sons; and when Samuel heard a voice calling him, Eli did not rebuke him, or make fun of him, but recognized that it was a divine call, and told him when the call came again to say, "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth."

From that hour Samuel became conscious of a great mission. He sensed the tragedy of his abuses, and he sought to strengthen the religious life of the people, but became also their political and military leader. He took hold with a firm hand, and if we picture him as the mild, gentle child serving in the temple, we must put beside that picture the severe judge heving in pieces before the altar the enemy king, Agar, in retribution for his acts of atrocity.

When, and how, does a people become a nation? History has various answers. Some times the process is slow, as in the building of our American life out of original colonies, with much common heritage, but widely separated geographically and culturally. Sometimes the process is rapid, but not altogether artificial, as in the national developments following world war I.

In the history of Israel the process was slow in its final state because strong leaders came off the scene. By the progress from Egyptian bondage through the wilderness to the Promised Land, the consciousness of the people was tribal, racial and religious, rather than national and when the religious life was at a low ebb, as it was repeatedly in the lives of the people into idolatry, the lines of distinction between the Israelites and their idolatrous neighbors were accentuated. In the period of the Judges, leaders like Joshua and Elishah, the woman, indeed, exercised great influence, but after their time, the process seems to have been a matter of personal integrity and loyalty to the people for the news of military disaster to Israel so overcome him that he fell from

Fred Thompson, who has returned from the navy, will be the guest teacher for the Everyman's Bible class which meets in the City club room in the City hall.
At the evening hour, Mrs. Harold Craddock will be the soloist. The choir will sing "When the Morning Comes," an arrangement by B. E. McKimney. The pastor's sermon subject for the evening hour is "The Blind Man's Cry."

Divorce Problems

By Beauford A. Norris

LAST SUNDAY'S Pampa News carried a report which should have had more front page space and headlines in larger print. The report was headlined "Emotional Balance of County" and had to do with the 1945 statistics on marriage and divorce for Gray county. It was cleverly written but no amount of good humor can lessen the tragedy exposed in that report.

THE FACT that the divorce rate is about to exceed the marriage rate gives us little reason for pride in our county. The figures quoted were: 250 marriage licenses issued in 1945 while 242 divorce suits were filed with 155 divorces granted. It was noted further that 98 divorce suits have already been filed in 1946 and that, at last year's rate, 494 suits will be filed this year with 350 divorces resulting. The latest statistics I have read on the national marriage and divorce situation are one divorce in five marriages. Surely this is an inconspicuous "first" for our great nation and our local record should be classed as alarming. Pampa is not in competition with Reno, and my guess is that none of us want such distinction for our fair city.

EVEN SOME of us of the church must face the occasional necessity and advisability of divorce and it is not my business here to point a finger of scorn at those whose lives are filled with tragedy. No doubt there are comforting ways to "explain" and analyze this deplorable condition, but we need something more than gasps of astonishment from churchmen and careful analysis from our courts.

THE HOME is the basic unit of society, the biggest business in this or any other country. It is a divine institution and must cooperate with the divine to endure. The whole country is talking about solving the housing problem. What about our "home problem"? Isn't it about time we were getting excited about it too? Who's to tackle this gigantic problem and save our land from domestic ruin? The courts, the schools, the churches? All these and more, for it's going to take a grand offensive to stem the tide. Perhaps national marriage laws will help. More character education in our elementary schools and colleges will help. Surely it's time for unified or cooperative action on the part of our churches. Is it too much to expect the churches of Pampa unite in a crusade to lower our divorce rate? Will the citizens of Pampa do something about this disgrace or do we want our courts to grant 350 divorces in 1946?

Church Women Aid British War Brides
"War Wives Clubs" through which Christ Church, Glens Falls, N. Y., ministered to the social and fellowship needs of several scores of wives of servicemen during the past three years is now "a memory" because of the return of the husbands from overseas. At their last meeting, Rev. W. J. Benedict, pastor of the church, paid tribute to "the courageous young women who refused to accept separation as defeat, and who met for fellowship and sewed for the needy."

The housing of war brides now entering America from Great Britain is becoming a serious problem in the larger cities, according to reports. Bishop William T. Manning of New York, has written to all clergy in his diocese asking their assistance in locating suitable homes, suitable church relationships, and other aid in adjustment to American ways. Other church groups are taking similar action. Chaplains and social workers of all churches have been called upon to assist. Says Bishop Manning: "Some of these young women may have to become guests in already overcrowded homes with the almost inevitable result of increased hardship and the possibility of domestic friction — which does not aid the stability of marriage. It has been objected that some of these marriages may not turn out successfully, but our concern is that as many of them as possible shall succeed, and to this end we must do everything in our power."

The recent convention of the Young Women's Christian association, representing 434 associations, in session in Atlantic City, N. J., took steps to make all churches of the association completely interracial—principally that negro women and girls be taken into the "main stream" of branch life and activity. Among the proposals adopted by the delegates is the elimination of negro associations by integration with other branches when it is at all possible in local communities; and the fostering in all branches of intergroup activities be seen white and negro girls. The convention placed upon the National Board of the Y.W.C.A. the responsibility of seeing that this racial equality is carried out.

Chamber Manager Is Fast Becoming Known as BTO

Most recent BTO on the Pampa horizon, according to our information, is E. O. "Red" Wedgeworth, manager of the chamber of commerce.

There are reasons: Nineteen forty-six chamber of commerce activities started with chamber elections and a ceremony held in recognition of selective service board members, closely followed by the first quarterly banquet of the chamber, the arranging of meetings relative to the Pampa-to-Perryton highway and the proposed county hospital, the Lions Minstrel show, an all-time hit, which was directed by Lion Wedgeworth, and the annual Junior Livestock and Hereford shows and sales.

(Incidentally, we recall one rancher say at the Chuck Wagon feed held the night of the Hereford show, at which Wedgeworth was master of ceremonies of a short program, "That's Red Wedgeworth. I guess he can do anything.")
Now things are getting in shape for the annual chamber of commerce membership drive.

Along with the above activities Wedgeworth attends to numerous odds and ends, such as making arrangements for meetings of the 17 committees of the chamber and keeping tab on them, giving information to veterans on how to obtain surplus property, contacting organizations and individuals throughout the state for information chamber members might want, and discussing with persons who drop in at the office the probabilities of locating living quarters.

Other than the above, he's off to various luncheon club meetings, is a member of the Lions club quartet which is in much demand on local programs, is a member of the Pampa Toastmasters' and country clubs, and is secretary to numerous organizations.

His free time he spends with his wife and young daughter.
Today E. O. Wedgeworth was to attend the Amarillo conference on the community's responsibility to veterans and their families. His next announced engagement is at Abilene when he will speak on "Chamber of Commerce Activity" at the annual conference of C. of C. managers, to be held April 10, 11 and 12. He will also lead group singing at the meeting.
Footnote: If you don't know what BTO means ask your high-school-age son or daughter or a neighborhood teen-ager.

Teen Togs Are To Be Sweetly Pretty

Easter Ensembles Will Have 'Little Women' Look

For Easter Sunday and later, the teen-age girl will look her prettiest in ensembles such as the barrel-skirted red wool suit, left. An eyelet cotton gilet accents the snug, double-breasted jacket, fastened with ruby buttons. The tight-fitting pale pink wool jacket of the suit dress, right, tops a very full gray woolen skirt.

This dashing Easter ensemble for the young girl is made of suede-finished putty beige wool. Both the double-breasted dress-maker suit and the matching coachman-styled coat are fastened with brass buttons.

navy, beige. Kelly green, shock red and pale pink and blue have eyelet embroidery dummies and crisp pique neck-liners that tie in cat's whisker bows. There's no white on one suit-dress but because it teams up two flattering colors and follows the new curved line of fashion it is as much liked by young juniors as telephone numbers and phonograph records. Designed by Emily Wilkins, this suit-dress has a buttoned-up pale pink jacket with a scalloped edge, and it fits as snugly as paper on a wall above a very full gray skirt.

Many suits will march in the Easter parade with their own cut companions to make young things look as soignée as the best-dressed grown-ups. The coats are boxy, back-belted or semi-fitted, and are designed for wear as extra wraps over dresses. One of the snappiest ensembles shown in the Junior Miss collections combines a double-breasted soft dress-maker suit of suede-finished wool in putty beige and a color-twinned coachman-styled coat. On the double-breasted coat are duplicated the double row of brass buttons that march like West Pointers across the front of the suit's jacket.

Pampa Veteran Will Be Guest At Army Resort

Sgt. Joseph D. Hegdal, who is now home at Star Route No. 4, Pampa, is an army air force member who was a Jap prisoner of war. He has completed his hospitalization and has indicated that he wishes to accept the air force personnel distribution command's invitation to spend two weeks of his 104 day furlough as a guest of the air forces at Miami Beach, Fla. He will arrive there on April 23.

In addition to receiving government paid transportation—either by commercial air, rail or private car—a former air force Jap prisoner of war may invite two of his immediate family to "vacation" with him on the same basis—as guests of the air force. Throughout their stay at Miami Beach, an appreciative Uncle Sam "picks up the checks" for all room and meal costs.

A special service department is ready to offer the soldier and his family an elaborate free program of entertainment. Golf, deep-sea fishing, tennis, horseback riding, movies, swimming, sightseeing tours, or just sunbathing on the beach are some of the attractions offered.

If a man decides to accept this opportunity, and practically all have to date, he states on a questionnaire whether he would like to go to Miami Beach by air, rail or in his own automobile and the AAF personnel distribution command routes him, arranges his transportation, gets reservations in the best hotels and pays the bill for the two weeks vacation.

The above unique program of affording our liberated prisoners of war a period of relaxation in pleasant surroundings is elective by the individuals concerned. They may accept or reject the offer as they choose.

EQUAL RIGHTS
"If the United Nations organization succeeds in continuing to preserve the principle of equal rights, it will undoubtedly play a positive role in the cause of guaranteeing universal peace and security."

Stalin then was asked: "What should the governments of the freedom loving countries now do for the preservation of peace and order in the whole world?"

The radio said Stalin replied: "It is necessary that the public and the ruling circles of the powers organize a wide counter-propaganda against the propagandists of a new war and for the ensuring of peace so that not a single act of the propagandists of a new war should remain without due rebuff on the part of the public and press, so that the necessities of war may thus be exposed in good time and may have no chance of rising freedom of speech against the interests of peace."

Behind Russia's Iron Curtain

The Story of Stalin's Viceroy

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of six dispatches dealing with the men "Behind Russia's Iron Curtain," written for NEA Service by a veteran foreign correspondent.

By JOACHIM JOESTEN
NEA Special Correspondent
NEW YORK, March 22.—(NEA)—That Finland today still is a relatively free and democratic country, she owes above all to the wisdom and diplomatic skill of President Juho-Kusti Paasikivi, who recently succeeded former President Maunheim.

In view of the fact that Paasikivi not only is Finland's chief exponent of amity with Russia but also has been for years a personal friend of Stalin's, it is natural to presume that he must be at least a parlor think we could bury that many in our little country?"

As it was, a lot of Russians—and Finns—were buried during the short but bloody "winter war" that followed the collapse of these negotiations. When it was over, it was Stalin who rather than Paasikivi led the peace delegation to Moscow and there signed the peace of March 12, 1940.

A few weeks later, he was named Finnish Minister to Moscow where he stayed until the renewed outbreak of war in June, 1941.

Paasikivi thoroughly disapproved of the Finnish alliance with Germany and he labored persistently to bring about a separate peace between his country and Russia.

At least twice, in September 1942 and again in February 1944, he turned up unofficially in Stockholm to talk things over with Mme. Kolontay, but each time the war party in Helsinki nullified his efforts.

When Finland eventually was forced to sue for an armistice, in September 1944, Paasikivi kept in the background but a close friend of his, Premier Antti Hackzell, headed the new peace delegation to Moscow.

This time Finland, amputated again and subjected to a Soviet-dominated Control Commission, was in real danger of being swallowed up by Russia. Again Paasikivi came to the rescue, assuming the premiership on Nov. 17, under the most trying conditions.

Upon taking office, he promised to "work in mutual understanding with the Soviet Union and meticulously to fulfill the armistice terms."

In spite of his deceptively Finnish-sounding name and of his genuine Finnish patriotism, Paasikivi is not really a Finn. He comes from pure Swedish stock.

His father, Johan August Hellsten, a merchant, belonged to the Swedish minority which centuries ago settled on Finland's west and south coasts and gained a powerful influence on the country's economic and social life. His mother, Karolina, also was a Swedo-Finn.

UNDAMATED START
Born on Nov. 27, 1870, at Tampere (Tammerfors), he was christened Johan Gustav Hellsten, but later he "Pinnified" his name.

Physically, Paasikivi is thickset, with a square head, ruddy face and bushy gray hair. He has been married twice and has a grown-up daughter, Annika.

Paasikivi's start in life was easy and undramatic. After studying law at Finnish, Swedish, and German universities, he went into the banking and insurance business. He soon gained a reputation as a financier and fiscal expert.

For 20 years, from 1914 on, he was managing director of the state-owned Kansallis Osake bank and during most of this time he was also vice-president of the Helsinki Stock exchange. Since 1928, he has headed the Finnish section of the International chamber of commerce.

He entered public life in 1907, when he was elected a member of the diet. The following year he became minister of finance of Finland, which at that time still was a semi-autonomous grand duchy under Russian rule. After the emancipation of his country, he held the premiership for a brief period in 1918.

A significant phase of Paasikivi's life began in 1920 when he was picked to head the Finnish peace delegation which negotiated the treaty of Dorpat on Oct. 14. That it was Paasikivi who ended Finland's first war with Soviet Russia and secured his country's existence as an independent state. Little did he know then that he would have to repeat the performance over and over again.

In 1936, Paasikivi was sent as minister to Stockholm. There he met Soviet Russia's famous woman ambassador, Mme. Alexandra Kolontay, with whom he established personally amicable relations despite their countries.

Later this friendship proved a great asset in Finland's efforts to get out of the war. And quite recently it was reported from Stockholm that Paasikivi had nominated his former official antagonist but personal friend, Kolontay, as a candidate for the 1946 Nobel Peace Prize—a unique event in the annals of international diplomacy.

The great test of Paasikivi's statesmanship came in October 1939 when he was recalled from his Stockholm post to head the Finnish mission to Moscow which sought in vain to reach a peaceful settlement of Russia's territorial demands.

Paasikivi probably would have succeeded in this arduous task but for the arrival, a few weeks later, of Foreign Minister Valno Tanner, who blocked all concessions made by the former and thus caused the breakdown of negotiations.

On Feb. 21, 1946, Tanner was sentenced to five and half years in prison by a "war guilt tribunal" in Helsinki.

Despite the underlying gravity of the talks, the atmosphere in Moscow was genial and at times downright playful, thanks to Paasikivi's good humor and quiet composure. While Tanner and Molotov bargained heatedly, Paasikivi swapped jokes with Stalin.

JOKES WITH STALIN
Some of these were of the grim variety the Soviet dictator particularly delights in. Once when Stalin threatened to hurt 2,000,000 men residing in Finland, Paasikivi is said to have replied with a chuckle: "Dear me, where on earth do you

President Juho Kusti Paasikivi of Finland... the country's leading exponent of amity with Russia, a personal friend of Stalin's for many years but politically a conservative. Yet Stalin prefers this chamber of commerce member to any Finnish communist as head of the government.

Is Sex a Problem? Subject at P-TA

KELLERVILLE, March 22 (Special)—R. B. Johnston, social science teacher in the Letors Junior high school, was the main speaker at the regular meeting of the local P-TA Tuesday evening. Johnston spent ten years as sociologist at the reform school for boys and girls of Texas. His subject was: "Is Sex a Problem?"

He said that it was useless to ask that question, that there always had been a sex problem and that there always would be, but that it is not alarming and that it was spoken of many times in the Bible. "In the days of old, Sodom and Gomorrah had to be destroyed because of loose sex life and each successive generation has not grown progressively worse," Johnston stated "it is the older people who think that every generation is always getting worse. We do have a sex problem but it is no worse than it has ever been, but wars make things more bold."

He further stated that parents should guard vigilantly the youth against danger. "If you were to send a child across a pasture where there were bears, lions and wolves, you would at least caution him against danger and to be on guard," he stated. "Yet parents will let their children go out in the world to face the lions and wolves without even saying a word of admonition to them. But in spite of this, 90 per cent come out alright. It is the 10 per cent that we are troubled with."

"They are the drunk type and who in many cases have parents of the loose type," he said. "In 1940, and it is worse now, out of every 100 babies born in Texas, three were illegitimate and in most cases these babies were born to drunk teen-age girls who did not know the paternity of her baby because she was drunk at the time," he related. "90 per cent of all syphilis was contracted while drunk and this disease can be contracted as much by kissing as any other way," he declared. "Texas has six insane asylums which contain a total of 18,000 inmates and 40 per cent of those were there because of syphilis, it attacks the spine and causes insanity."

One person out of ten has had or is now suffering with a venereal disease but the sex problem is no worse now than it was in the days of old, but we have to keep constantly on guard and always speak a word of caution which might save a life from sorrow and destruction. "Boys are sent to reform schools for many offenses, but I never saw one girl there who was not a sex offender. That is about the only offense that girls are sent there for. I have heard many girls tell sad stories of the wolves that caused her to drink and were in a large measure responsible for her downfall, but if the parents had been cautious it would have helped a great deal."

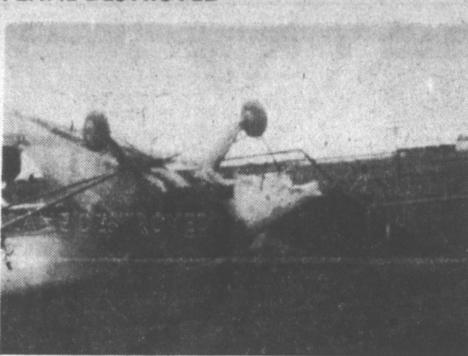

Mrs. Byron Holley was in charge of the business session and the organization voted to sponsor a library for the school children of this community. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Holley was reelected president; Mrs. Marsena Imel, vice president; Mrs. Pauline Cotham, secretary and Wheeler Knox, treasurer.

Dorothy Clark and Imogene Peabody sang two numbers accompanied by Leta Mae Hughes at the piano. The room award went to Mrs. Mildred Scroggs seventh grade room. The play, "Henpecked Henry" which was recently put on here by local talent will be put on again at Sam Norwood on Thursday night. Refreshments were served to a large group.

TIPS FOR TEENS

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Washing your face was boring business — something to avoid, if possible — when you were a tot. But now you know it's the basis of beauty, the way to avoid ugly blackheads, clogged pores and oiliness. Best thing to do about blackheads is prevent them with mild soap, warm water and a complexion brush. Complexion brushes were wartime casualties and are still hard to find. They are soft-bristled little affairs something like a shaving brush. If you can't find a complexion brush in the shops a shaving brush will do just as much for your skin, giving it a more thorough cleansing than a wash cloth. After the warm rinse use a cool one. This contracts the pore-openings and makes them less noticeable so your skin looks smooth and finer in texture. A pinch or two of salt in the last rinse will help to make your skin less oily — a good trick before a date or dance. Oily skin should be damped every morning and night in warm water and soap-suds, always rinsing with cool water for the final splash. If you give it another quickie after school in the afternoon, so much the better for your complexion. When your skin grows shiny and moist with oil during the day or evening "blot" it with a clean handkerchief to remove some of the excess oil.

(For more tips on the care of oily skin send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams, c/o Pampa Daily News.)

Oil Operators

out of oil, the same cries being heard after World War I. One of the problems faced by the oil industry is the unrealistic extension of a Good Neighbor Policy which allow unrestricted imports of crude petroleum to enter the nation under an import duty of only five and one-quarter cents a barrel. Franklin stated that charity should not result in injury at home, and that the domestic producer should be given adequate protection against the drastic results of heavy imports. Franklin suggested a tariff and excise tax which would remove the cost advantage of import oil, plus a limiting of the volume of imports as being two methods of protecting the domestic industry.

We, the Women

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer
The Civilian Production Administration has finally cracked down on shirt and nylon hosiery manufacturers, reported to be hoarding supplies, by ordering them to halt production immediately until their stocks are reduced to "more reasonable levels." Until they comply they will not be allowed to accept yarn or fabric or place new orders for such material. It's high time the CPA stepped in to do something for the shop-wearer consumer. The action undoubtedly would have been taken sooner if the consumer had risen in indignant wrath after 30 fruitless shopping trips to buy a pair of stockings. Or after being told "no shirts—no shorts" over a period of months. But the consumer was humbled during the war years. He got used to the idea of not being able to have many of the things he wanted and needed during the period when shortages and scarcities couldn't be helped. When the war was over, he went right on being patient and long-suffering. IT'S TIME TO YELL. But from now on in he ought to holler when he can't get what he needs. Maybe his squawking will uncover hoarded supplies. Maybe it will let the manufacturers know that he—the consumer—is still an important guy, a fact generally forgotten during the war years. CPA didn't make public the names of the firms found to be hoarding shirts and stockings. But they should have. The consumer has a right to know who has been holding out on him—who has been responsible for all those fruitless shopping expeditions. Then maybe the consumer as well as CPA could turn on a little heat. It is no secret that slowness of sharing atomic energy and a major cause for continued and dangerously increasing tension in the world today.—J. D. Bernal, vice president Association of (British) Scientific We in the United States must use our great strength and power to advance the national well-being by raising the living standards of the American people and strengthening the basis for lasting peace and prosperity.—President Truman.

Price Increases

of needs backed by records in commodities and savings. Regarding the new wage-price policy, the OPA head declared it may affect the prices of apparel and textiles and added that "unless brought to a halt by firm government action, speculative increases in raw cotton may force another revision of textile prices." He said there was "no question but that it (wage-price policy) will increase some prices among consumers metal durable goods." "Where these price increases are necessary they will be made promptly—not only to speed production by removing business hardships, but also to minimize withholding of goods while prices are being adjusted," he said. "Finally there will be prompt price adjustments wherever necessary to eliminate hardship and to speed all-out production."

Pepper's Plea

pose every effort to get America prepared," Ball said. "Unfortunately, Senator Pepper does not seem to recognize that the same kind of propaganda is being used now for the same purpose — to make America weak and impotent." Ball said that communists had raised the cry of "fascism" against the atomic control bill amendment sponsored by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) to set up a military board which could appeal civilian commission decisions it felt infringed on national security.

Scott's Scrap Book

By SCOTT RAFFERTY
Our Irish temper has reached the boiling point in the past few days over the "bidding" of colleges for the services of high school players.

It seems to us that a player might as well be put on the auction block and sold like a slave in pre-Civil War days; this is what it amounts to and something must be done about it.

The situation is especially bad for two more reasons. The first is that schools bid on a player's services sometimes before this player has finished his high school eligibility and the other is that various newspapers are contributing to the practice by openly publicizing the offers.

A star athlete, the day the season is over, is literally swamped by letters, personal visits, telephone calls and given rosy pictures of the advantages of this or that school.

The same player finds himself in the middle of a college whirlpool, where he can be "sucked in," not by a school's educational advantages but by the ability of its smooth-talking scouts to convince him "our school is the only place."

We have a firm belief in the rightfulness of athletic scholarships. We believe that they should be given with the same discretion and high standards that scholarships in any other type of education are given.

But the situation has gotten completely out of hand. No attention is paid to whether the athlete is really "ready" for college or not. He may need some more training in various fields before he can be assured of getting an honest education.

It isn't a pretty picture. Since when do some of the nation's really fine schools have to engage in "borderline" practice that may ruin a boy's amateur standing for life?

Our advice to the schools is to stop the whole thing immediately before the whole bubble, which is getting very thin, bursts wide open and exposes some of the malpractices that are going on.

As for our advice to the high school athlete, we'll just say that the boy should exercise his good judgment as to the school's educational advantages, FIRST, and then investigate the athletic situation.

Furthermore, every boy should keep in mind a statement that has already been chorused by several top coaches of the South and Southwest. "That is the fact that these schools are overcrowded as far as athletes are concerned. Not enough equipment is available to outfit the huge squads reporting for practice."

Also, every college has its influx of war veterans, many of them already in possession of two or three years college football experience in addition to service sports.

These older men, and we mean men, are going to be playing the football. The younger, inexperienced, hopeful kids are going to be setting on the bench waiting a year or so till they "get their change."

Amazing Baylor Athlete Presents Track Challenge

WACO, Texas, March 22—(AP)—Bill Martinson, who needs a rock in his pocket to get up to 140 pounds, has thrown the southwest conference track situation out of gear.

Bill came all the way from Minnesota to enroll in Baylor university and lick what was heralded as the greatest array of sprinters in University of Texas history.

This mite of a guy (5-foot-7) has won all the titles in meets thus far. He's a fast cry from the flag end of World War II when Bill emerged with the ankle muscles torn away from the bone of his right leg.

Bill arrived a little late for football. Besides he still was favoring battle wounds. But came track. Nobody had heard of Bill until he won the 100-yard dash in the Border olympics in 9.9. Then in the Southwestern exposition meet he took the 100-yard and 100-meter runs and further humiliated the Texas sprinters by coming from behind to anchor Baylor's 440-yard relay team to victory.

Martinson was high school dash champion in South Dakota. Also a star football and basketball player. He completed 12 passes in one half of a grid game for a record. In another game he ran punts back 98 and 101 yards. In basketball he shot the ball in the waning minutes of four consecutive games to give his team wins. And he was schoolboy diving champion of North Dakota, Montana and Minnesota.

In the service he did 100 yards in 9.6 broad jumped 24 feet 11 3/4 inches and was top man of the U. S. Marine corps obstacle run and bayonet course.

Boudreau Says Cleveland Won't Figure in Chase

By GAYLE TALBOT
CLEARWATER, Fla., March 22—(AP)—Dismissing his own Cleveland Indians with a very few words, mainly concerning their lack of punch at the plate, Manager Lou Boudreau predicts that New York, Detroit and Boston will put on a merry scrap for the American league title.

"We won't be in it this year," he said. "We'll have good pitching, but you've got to have hitting to go with it. The three top clubs have both, and that includes the Yanks."

In Bobby Feller, Alie Reynolds, Steve Gromek and Charley Embree the Indians possess a four-man pitching staff, probably second to none in the game, and in Boudreau himself they still have a fine shortstop who hits over 300 but after that they taper off rapidly.

George Case is the team's new left-fielder. He hit 204 for the Senators last year. The two other outfielders will be divided up among light hitters.

Les Fleming, who packs the heaviest bat on the club, has sewed up first base duties, and it looks now as though Lambert Meyer, who played second base last season, will retain that post.

Ken Keltner will be back at the hot corner when he signs his contract. Meanwhile Don Ross, who played the bag last year is being given a contest by a freshman named Bob Lemon, who last played with Baltimore in '42.

Sherman Lollar, a six footer who clouted 364 for Baltimore last year and was named the most valuable player of the International league, is figured to take over the burden of catching from Frank Hayes, a fine workman but a weak hitter.

Basketball Coaches Say Game Will Gain Increased Popularity

NEW YORK, March 22—(AP)—Interest in basketball, already at the highest peak in its history, is going to keep right on mounting as the result of the game's extensive use by the armed forces for both recreational and training purposes, the country's coaches believe.

This was apparent today as the annual convention of the national association of basketball coaches moved into its second day with a large number of cage mentors from all sections of the nation on hand, many of them back from military assignments.

Among coaches who served as athletic officers or civilian consultants in combat or occupation zones it was agreed that basketball was the most popular sport played by servicemen.

Toledo, San Antonio Baseball Clubs Pair Up in Training Camp

SAN ANTONIO, March 22—(AP)—The Toledo Mudhens and the San Antonio Missions combine forces today in one spring training camp.

For the past two weeks the two farm teams of the St. Louis Browns have maintained separate training camps.

Officials of the clubs said the consolidation was decided upon so that managers could better compare the 120 candidates for the two teams before making final selections for their clubs.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Notebook

By HAL BOYLE
CAIRO, March 22—(AP)—Tewfik El Hakim is the "George Bernard Shaw" of the middle east. He is a precise middle-aged man with a small mustache and French mannerisms picked up in Paris, where he was educated.

He is perhaps the most disliked man in Egypt—by moderns, the women, because of his theory that every man should have four wives. Modern Moslem women feel they are having a hard enough time getting rid of centuries-old Arab religious restrictions of their sex without Tewfik El Hakim and his campaign for polygamy. And what infuriates them more is that Hakim himself, while advocating four wives for every other man in the world, declines to take even one unto himself. He poses as a confirmed woman hater.

"But I think every man who wants them is entitled to four wives," he says.

"Four wives can do so much more for a man than one. He needs one, for example, for companionship; another for cooking; still another to take out and show off in the company and a fourth one for romance."

"I can see how it might be possible for a man to get along with as few as two wives—but that is the kind of a man who would start a long journey on a bicycle."

Hakim is one of the highest paid writers between Casablanca and Calcutta. He writes for "Akhhbar Elyom," a weekly news magazine circulated throughout the middle east. He and his publisher, Mustapha Amin Yousef, are engaged in perennial financial debate.

"He gets 50 cents a word and we are glad he doesn't stutter," said Yousef. "He always suspects us of not counting the number of words in his articles correctly, but he is too lazy to do it himself."

Sgt. E. W. Cabe, Jr., Commended for His Outstanding Service

MANILA. — For his outstanding services as supervising principal of the Philippine Institute for the armed forces Technical Sergeant Ernest W. The commendation from General Plank reads as follows: "I take great pleasure in commending you for the highly efficient manner in which you participated in the development and operation of the Philippine Institute for the armed forces at Manila, Philippines. Your devotion to duty and utter disregard for personal consideration to provide the institute the best possible facilities for the troops are high tributes to you as a soldier and have contributed materially to the morale of the students. Your loyalty and splendid cooperation are in keeping with the best traditions of the service and reflect great credit upon you and the entire command."

Sgt. Cabe served in England, France and Germany before coming to the Philippines. He was director of instruction, Pampa public schools before entering the service on April 2, 1944. He received his B. All Coaches But Iba Favor Aggies Over SWC Champs

KANSAS CITY, March 22—(AP)—Baylor university's Bears turn youth and speed on seven-foot Bob Kurland and powerful Oklahoma A. & M. tonight in a western regional N.C.A.A. basketball tournament's opening round game that all but one of the coaches agree will be won by the defending champions.

Agreeing with the price-fixers are Bill Henderson of Baylor, Forrest (Frosty) Cox of Colorado and Nibs Price of California, coaches of three of the four-team tournament field.

The lone dissenter is Henry (Frank) Iba who coached the Aggies to a National N.C.A.A. crown last year and earlier this week beat the Big Six champion Kansas Jayhawks in a playoff game for the fifth district invitation.

Coach Iba who coached the Aggies declares that Kurland will make the difference between victory and defeat for his Southwest conference champions.

While Baylor doesn't have a match for Kurland, the Bears won 28 of 30 games to gain their conference title and will show one of the southwest's finest players in 18-year-old Jackie Robinson who averaged 13.5 points in 12 league games.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr. NEW YORK, March 22—(AP)—Most of the basketball coaches who have gathered here for their first big convention since the war figure they're too busy this year getting the college game rolling again to tinker with the rules. . . . But that doesn't keep them from advancing individual ideas. . . . There's the three-circle plan for jump balls, for instance, and Oregon's Howard Hobson still is strong for widening the free-throw lane to loosen up the game under the basket and minimize the effect of tall players. . . . Hobby bravely offers this proposal despite the fact he has a 6-foot-8 freshman center. . . . Pro Allen, the articulate Kansan who thinks 12-foot high baskets would make it basketball again instead of "round-ball hockey" came up with a suggestion recently to make the court 130 feet long and to use seven-man teams so there'd be more seats along the sides. . . . Shaking Heads and Human Liberties

It's a funny thing. Now that the war's over, there's a lot of head-shaking in our town. People say: "What's the younger generation coming to?" "How can we end these strikes?" "The country's going to the dogs!" "There ought to be a law!" etc.

But when the younger generation was walloping the Axis "super-men"—and labor was doing the most colossal job in history—you never heard a murmur. But now that we're back to our traditional life of personal liberty, just see how the heads begin to shake again.

I guess there'll always be head-shakers—folks who feel "there ought to be a law"—who believe that the best form of regulation is suppression, whether it's applied to beer or baseball.

But from where I sit, America's done pretty well with the idea of personal choice and individual liberty. I guess that's just the way Americans are made.

PERHAPS WE ARE TALKING TO OURSELVES

IF THE LAYMAN can at all fathom the "stir" over Iran and Manchuria—as created by Russia and the Anglo-Saxon world—perhaps it would be somewhat clearer if we considered a recent dispatch from London by William H. Stoneman, foreign service writer for the Chicago Daily News.

Stoneman, citing the fact that Russia was completely laid waste in many sections where the Germans went in 1942, suggests that there are 20 million people still homeless in that land. And during the counterdrive, thousands of Red army soldiers and civilian workers went into other lands and came in contact with American soldiers, better clothed and possessed of many things which to a Russian would be luxuries.

These people, consequently, are now dissatisfied with what they have in their homeland. Large groups of them may have voiced out loud their dissatisfaction. This is a problem to the collectivists in the Kremlin.

To counteract this unrest at home, Moscow may be creating a furge through claims that the English-speaking world is plotting ill for Mother Russia, Stoneman writes.

Be that as it may, we have no inside information on what is happening there; and any conclusion we may come to is based on speculation. And what is happening there—and it might be even worse than what we think—will remain in the dark as long as the present government is in Moscow, likely will remain. Americans, traditionally permitted to be in "on the know," are prone to be suspicious of a land like Russia. This is not good for the relations between the U. S., Britain and the Soviet.

How seriously Russia should view this suspicion and our dislike for rigid censorship depends upon where Russia is going and what she plans to do. If she is bent on aggression, it will make no difference to her; if she is merely putting on the "pressure" with scare tactics, to get oil from Iran, machinery from Manchuria, she might well consider the impact of that feeling which is welling up against her in such countries as the United States and Great Britain.

But perhaps we are talking to ourselves—pipe dreaming, so to speak. Communism doesn't think much of "feelings."

Do You Want To Be Paid?

I have been quoting from "The Crisis of the Free Market" by Professor F. A. Harper. This book can be had by sending 25 cents to the office of the newspaper publishing this column. I quote further from this book.

In regard to the lifting of controls Professor Harper says:

"The avowed intent of the government is to lift the remaining controls 'as soon as possible.' This is a perfectly meaningless statement by itself. We can appraise the intent to lift price controls 'as soon as possible' only if we know the assumptions and reasoning that led to their being put there in the first place.

"According to these assumptions the wisdom of a government in economic affairs is superior to the combined wisdom of the citizens."

He points out a policy of lifting controls "as soon as supply catches up with demand" is a snare because "under present and proposed conditions and policies guiding reconversion, supply can never catch up with demand for goods and services, in general. It is a handicap race, with demand assured of the lead. . . . The inflationary forces underneath our economy are now tremendous, and additional fuel is still being added, especially in the form of programs for heavy government spending."

FEDERAL RESERVE FIGURES DECEPTIVE

He points out the fact that the government is using the Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production in a way that fools the people. He explains that the industrial production index shows a rise of 230 per cent in 1944-45 over production before the war. This causes people to think that we can have better than twice as high a standard of living as before the war. This rosy prospect, he says, needs deflation for several reasons:

"First, this index covers industrial production only (the manufactures and the minerals), and excludes such things as the normal about three-fourths of our national economy; the remainder shows no such increase and possibly a decrease. Second, perhaps eight million persons, not normally in our working force, were pulled into jobs during the war, which helped make the increase possible; presumably they will not continue to work. Third, before the war, about 16 per cent of our regular working force was unemployed. The reemployment of these workers accounts for an important part of the increase in production; we hope, of course, that their continued voluntary employment will be possible to the extent they wish to work. Fourth, many people worked long hours (some as many as six hours a week in 1944); they may not continue to do so, or the labor organizations or the government may not allow them to continue to do so. And fifth, even in the industry the index grossly exaggerates the increase in efforts that has really taken place."

"Another cause of the index being misleading is explained by the author in the following statement: 'Production of many wartime goods started at a very low level, and improvements from which great gains were to be expected were, for instance, a company formerly making vacuum cleaners converted to the making of a new war gadget—perhaps a new-styled bomb sight. With the same man working on both products, his contribution to the production index would probably be counted the

(Fort Wayne News Sentinel)

Few things show up the madness of the Government's empty talk about price ceilings more than the subsidy, a Government device by which the ceiling is sidestepped.

Caught in the housing jam which any bright administrator should have foreseen years ago, Mr. Truman followed the accepted Washington method of appointing another official. This was Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt.

Mr. Wyatt's idea of expediting new houses is to pay subsidies to the producers of building materials. The reason is that the producers, because of price ceilings, cannot operate at a profit.

The OPA refuses to lift the price ceilings with the result that production of building materials has lagged.

The subsidy simply means that the building materials people would continue to sell their products at ceiling prices, after which the Government would pay them a bounty which would comprise the companies' profit.

It is the same thing that was done on farm products which were held to the price ceilings fixed by the advertising man, Mr. Bowles. In order that the farmers could then produce at a profit, the Government paid them a subsidy.

The only effect of this All-American Wonderland nonsense is that it keeps up the myth of low prices. The money to pay subsidies comes directly from the Treasury. The Treasury gets it by imposing income taxes on the people, who are the consumers.

If a ceiling price of 50 cents is placed on butter, for example, and the farmer cannot produce butter-fat and make a profit under that arrangement, the Government might then make up his profit by granting a subsidy of 10 cents a pound.

That 10 cents a pound is paid by the consumer, because the consumer is a taxpayer. For a pound of butter he pays 50 cents to the grocer, and 10 cents to the tax collector, and so the butter costs him 60 cents a pound. None of Mr. Bowles' ledgerdom can change that either.

In the meantime, the OPA can boast about keeping prices down, and display indices showing that the cost of living has gone up only so-and-so.

The other part of the cost-of-living increase is hidden in your tax report.

Some for the first day's work on the bomb sight as it had been for the last day's work on the vacuum cleaner."

It is easy to see how this would distort the true picture of increase in production. He sums up by saying:

"Perhaps the most serious danger in our present situation is the effect of policies which are based on this error in judging our capacity to produce."

Professor Harper does a splendid job in showing how impossible it is for the government to control prices. He points out the divers ways in which the indexes of price levels do not reflect truthful prices, and makes this observation:

"Under wartime price controls, the official indexes of price have become price-quality-shady-deal-subsidy-substitution indexes instead of price indexes. Consequently, the price indexes have lost their meaning as measures solely of price changes, and are subject to misinterpretation and misuse. . . ."

UNDERSTANDING—High administration spokesmen have recently given realistic analyses of Russia's mysterious attitude and behavior in off-the-record talks with key groups of congressmen in Capitol Hill. They made no attempt to defend Moscow's aggressiveness and refused to keep certain major agreements; they simply tried to explain her course in order to soften growing resentment among the legislators.

Their explanations, which were based on fairly close and extended contact with key figures around the Kremlin, underlie the Truman-Byrnes-Harman assertions that it may be possible to improve relations with the Soviet, possibly at the forthcoming meeting of the security council of the United Nations.

Pending that conference, which may prove to be one of the historic assemblies of modern times, the White House and state department are anxious that no American in a prominent post ruffle the international waters with controversial statements.

Indeed, it is felt in some high quarters here that the recent speeches by Secretary Byrnes, Senator Vandenberg and former Prime Minister Churchill were both premature and provocative.

The way may come—and soon—when Washington will have to indulge in even plainer speaking in regard to Russia's puzzling program in the Middle East, central Europe and Manchuria. But it is believed that the three powers now involved in so many disputes should make one more try at a basic understanding before going their separate ways.

ACCUSED—Stalin's advisers reject utterly the Anglo-American protest against the Soviet's persistent effort to surround her borders with "friendly states" either by exporting direct control of their affairs to the territory in those countries, or by justifying the past and present record of the U. S. and Britain in this kind of diplomacy.

At this very moment, according to Moscow, London is striving to dominate those nations which are vital to the preservation of the life lines of Empire. 10 Downing Street, reports the Kremlin, appears willing to play with monarchies and fascists and reactionary regimes in such countries as Spain, Italy, Greece and even Argentina.

In the Dutch East Indies, China and India, England is also accused of pursuing the same course that Russia follows in her "spheres of interest."

LOGIC—The Muscovites also point an accusing finger at the United States in so far as safeguarding its territory in those countries.

Peter Edson's Column: RELIEF NEEDS WILL RUN FAR INTO 1947

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Signs now point to the need for continued relief to the war-ravaged parts of the world even after UNRRA — the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration — officially goes out of business, at the end of 1946 in Europe and in the spring of 1947 in China. UNRRA itself will not be continued, no matter what the need. Whatever relief work remains to be done will then become the responsibility of the United Nations organization.

Careful appraisals of the world food situation today indicate no alternative to United Nations' handling of food distribution in the countries where there will be crop shortages in 1947. Failure to provide for the food shortage areas would mean a return for power politics, exercised through food distribution. Countries with food surpluses or the ability to acquire surpluses, would dominate the countries with food shortages. If the United Nations failed to handle the problem,

Administrators who have built up the UNRRA organization feel that it should be taken over by the United Nations organizations to carry on whatever relief work is necessary next year. ### MACKENZIE'S Column

AP World Traveler
PARIS, March 22.—Former President Herbert Hoover is launching his investigation of the European food shortage without any delusions as to the gravity of the position or the dangers which develop when men's minds are overwrought by hunger.

His recognition of the great urgency of the situation was quite apparent in a private conversation which I had with him on the eve of his departure for Rome, where he will continue his study.

It was easy to see that he was working from the encyclopedic knowledge which he acquired while federal administrator for Europe at the end of the last war.

His present problem makes the dilemma of old Mother Hubbard look like the plenty of a Sunday school picnic.

The position isn't the same now as it was after the last war, when Mr. Hoover made himself famous as Europe's provisioner. Then the world was prepared for the food shortage which followed the first global conflict and the contingency could be met. But now there is no anything like enough food until after the harvest several months hence. No wonder Mr. Hoover says the next four months are the crucial ones.

He points out that the immediate relief must come from North and South America.

Mr. Hoover will find (and probably foresees it already) that the passions of Europe are being swayed by hunger. Folk in the hard-hit areas are reaching willy-nilly for new political nostrums in the hope that they will bring relief.

Thus we have political chaos in various of the liberated countries, and in the conquered states the labors of the occupation authorities are being rendered increasingly difficult because of public bitterness over short rations.

Mr. Hoover points out that the situation calls for sacrifices by the haves for the have-nots. Four months, of course, won't replenish the world's cupboard, but it will get by its most pressing emergency.

I see General MacArthur reports that the Japs are going in for freedom in a big way, one indication being that they now have 90 political parties.

My goodness, we have only four for our political parties ourselves; the northern democrats, the southern democrats, the eastern republicans and the mid-western republicans.

I'm afraid the Japanese have over-extended themselves a little with 90 parties, their babies are going to need plenty of stamina around election time to withstand kisses by 90 candidates, and the men won't do well either if each candidate passes out cigars. In 90 cigars there are round to be a couple that taste like something that had been erupted by Mt. Fujiyama.

George says the Japanese used to make very good jugglers back in yau-delle. Well, they'll have to be sensational if they're going to keep one candidate in office and 89 in the air.

Doctor Says Effects of Tropical Diseases Will Be Felt for Years

DALLAS, March 22.—(AP)—Dr. W. Grady Reddick predicts that the effects of tropical diseases to which members of American armed forces were exposed will be felt in the United States for many years, but sees no need to fear new epidemics.

Addressing the southern clinical conference meeting here, Reddick, who is a member of the faculty of southwestern medical college and served in the navy in the South Pacific, said that "diagnostic horizons must be broadened to include the diseases of the world."

Reddick foresaw malaria as the biggest troublemaker and Japanese B. Encephalitis, a new type of brain fever, as the disease most to be feared. The latter disease is carried by mosquitoes and the death rate is nearly 60 per cent, he said, adding:

"Investigations on the west coast have proved that mosquitoes native to the United States can transmit the germ to ordinary fowls, and from there it can be taken to animals and humans."

Urging doctors to become "parasitic minded," Dr. Reddick said that many interesting diseases, most forgotten in medical treatment in this country, were found among the natives and troops in Pacific areas, but he added "I have seen more since returning to Dallas than I ever saw in the Pacific."

Betty Compton Back in Movies

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—(AP)—You may remember Betty Compton as a shapely, well-stemmed, blonde beauty. For your information, she still is.

The former screen star from Beaver, Utah, is back in the movies and playing a role in "Claudia and David." She is now 49, but she has a figure that a bathing beauty would envy. Her face appears closer to 30 and her smooth legs taper to a well-turned ankle and a tiny foot. She doubts if today's young girls will be able to achieve the same.

Of fish and fowl mice and men: Cleland Burcham's radio went haywire. The Shamrock man investigated and found the trouble. He also found something he had lost six months ago.

A mouse had built a new home in the radio and had caused a short. It was an expensive home, Burcham said. It had been built of a $29 bill, gnawed to bits. It was expensive to Burcham, too. It was his bill.

William Taylor, a Corpus Christi taxi driver, was peacefully rolling along when suddenly there was a frightening crash and his windshield collapsed all over him.

He was dazed and blinded by the splintering glass, but that wasn't all. He felt, but couldn't see, something alive in his lap.

It was a wild duck, which was delivered to the taxi company's owner Rex B. Jones, after doctors had removed glass from Taylor's left eye.

L. L. Farmer of the Purdon community near Corsicana is being, you might say, egged on by his flock of hens.

Not long ago an unusually large egg was laid. Displayed in the office of the Corsicana Sun, it started a minor contest among the area's hens. Several oversize eggs were reported within a matter of days.

But now Mr. Farmer's hens are laying decorated eggs. He found one with a striking likeness of a sunflower evident on one side.

In Pampa a Rhode Island red hen belonging to J. B. Cooper laid an egg within an egg. The outer egg had a natural yolk and white. Inside the shell was a second hard shell egg, about the size of a big pecan.

It has not been broken yet, but appears to be normal.

If you're nervous and neurotic, get a fish bowl—with fish in it.

Pierre A. Fontaine, director of the Dallas aquarium and fish hatcheries, advanced this theory some time ago, now says doctors are backing him up.

Doctors and dentists have aquariums in their office to keep patients relaxed. Mothers use them to calm down troublesome children. Some doctors have even prescribed aquariums for patients with jumpy nerves. A wounded soldier was helped to recover by watching a guppy and a school of young.

All you have to do, says Fontaine, is watch the fish for a few minutes a day. It's soothing.

State workers want more money—and who doesn't? Their case is going to be presented to the next legislature by Weaver Baker, chairman of the board of control, who already has sent copies of his recommendations to the head of other departments.

Meantime, the subject of state workers' salaries may become an issue in the gubernatorial campaign. Gov. Coke Stevenson has said that, in his opinion, Texas' employees were "pretty well provided for."

Baker and Stevenson are both potential candidates for governor. Neither has expressed his intention to run, but Baker has Attorney General Grover Sellers.

There is due to be some clarification about candidacies in the governor's race before the end of this month.

Stevenson has stated that he does not want to run, but there is still a good deal of pressure on him to make the race. Homer P. Rainey, former president of the University of Texas, will not announce until his advisers tell him the time is psychologically right. They believe his campaign is coming along satisfactorily for the time being.

Incidentally, friends of Rainey at Vernon organized a "Rainey-for-Governor" club at Vernon and thought it was the first in the state. But Rainey headquarters, welcoming the new club, noted that there already were active organizations at San Antonio, Houston, Dallas, Goldthwaite, and McAllen.

Getting back to the subject of state workers' pay, there was recently organized the Texas Public Employees association, the aim of which is to look after the welfare of its members, described by their president as the "truly forgotten men economically" of today.

Here are the names, positions, and monthly salaries of the directors of the association:

Linden Jones, chief of the seed laboratory division in the department of agriculture: $236.25.

Luther Estes, head of the franchise tax division in the office of the secretary of state: $262.50.

Jack Rowland, assistant attorney general: $333.33.

Erwin K. Stork, budget director in the state board of control: $230.00.

Mrs. Marjorie Taber Ogle, chief of the bureau of labor statistics: $236.25.

Truman Olliday, chief auditor in the state treasurer's office: $300.00.

H. B. Fox, that alert citizen who produces the Granger News, received a call from Boyce House the other day. This was, in part, the result:

"Writer House is a genuinely interesting character, but he has one fault. He likes to run for office. I pinned him down and he admits he is thinking of running again this year. He says there are lots of things to run for because as far as he can tell a lot of offices have been practically vacant for some time now, considering the brand of leadership manifest."

"He will have to originate a cure for Johnson grass before I can swing my support to him, however."

Two candidates for lieutenant governor are already hard at work lining up their organizations over the state. They are Sen. Allan Shivers of Fort Arthur and Rep. Jo Ed Winfree of Houston. Last time they passed through Austin, both stopped at the capitol radiating confidence.

Our entire national future hinges on our ability to stay within ourselves: the forces of constructive energy which are the key to the greatness of any people.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.
