TITO YIELDS TO U.S. ULTIMATUM

Complaint Is Reported Filed Against U. S.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Moscow radio reported today that Yugoslavia had filed a complaint against the United States with the United Nations Security Council, but the Yugoslav delegate to the U. N. said the note merely asked that the economic and social council discuss the question of shipping on the Danube.

Dr. Andrija Stampar, Yugoslav delegate who also is deputy chairman of the economic and social council, said as far as he could "recall" the note did not mention the United States specifically.

He said he had filed the letter with Trygve Lie, U. N. secretary-general, about two weeks ago and asked that the question be placed on the agenda of the economic and social council which is due to convene here Sept. 11.

"This is not a question for the security council," he said. "The letter was sent to Mr. Lie so that the matter could be discussed at length in connection with the problem of the reconstruction of devastated areas."

The United Nations confirmed that such a letter had been received Aug. 13 calling upon the economic and social council to study the question of Danube shipping.

A spokesman for Lie said that he had received no communication from Yugoslavia concerning a complaint with the security council.

Dr. Stampar said he knew of no new instructions enroute from his government requesting that the matter be moved from the economic and social council to the security council.

Actual Work on Peace Document Is Accomplished

PARIS—(AP)—The peace conference today accomplished its first actual work on a draft peace document.

Nearly four weeks after the conference opened it adopted the first paragraph of the preamble of the Italian treaty.

This paragraph names the members of the conference who will be signatories.

Its option was facilitated by withdrawal of a Yugoslav amendment which presumably intended to ask that Albania be included.

Two and One Half Percent Raise on Tires Is Allowed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—OPA today authorized an immediate retail increase on about two and one-half percent in prices for tires for passenger cars, motorcycles, trucks and buses.

The increase is being allowed, the agency said, to meet a requirement of the new price control act that dealers' profit margins be restored to the level of last March 31.

The tire increase came as OPA hurried to meet a deadline for price increases required by the new statute. Most of these increases must be in effect by tomorrow.

Earlier in the day, the agency granted price increases ranging from one to three percent on several kinds of building materials and otherwise adjusted ceilings.

The price boost on tires was allowed both on sales by retail dealers and on sales at retail by wholesale distributors.

The new retail ceiling for the popular size 6.00-13 four-ply passenger car tire is $16.10, as compared with $15.70 previously.

Car ceilings were raised an average of 7.3 percent two weeks ago to meet a requirement that dealers' pre-war profit margins be restored.

Now OPA is debating whether to raise ceilings on about three percent is necessary to assure dealers the same handling charges they received before the war.

Loftier ceilings in prospect apply mainly to industrial items, including a long list of building materials and some metal products, OPA officials said.

OPA announced new factory list prices for five makes of trucks—Chevrolet, Dodge, Ford, GMC and White.

These ceilings, effective immediately, are lower in a few cases but generally higher than prices previously authorized on an individual truck model basis.

Britain Accused Of Interference In Polish Affairs

LONDON—(AP)—A Polish embassy spokesman accused Britain today of "open interference" in Poland's internal affairs.

The British foreign office spokesman responded that London's financial accord with Warsaw will not be ratified until the Poles fulfill assurances of free general elections.

The Polish spokesman said a recent British note criticizing the conduct of the June national referendum was "taking sides" with opposition parties in Poland and was based on unsubstantiated "rumors" that the election had not been free and unfettered.

The British foreign office spokesman countered that there was nothing in the Polish statement to indicate that Potsdam assurances concerning free elections were being fulfilled.

Until such fulfillment is assured, he continued, the Polish government would not receive the $16,000,000 in Polish gold held in London.

An Anglo-Polish accord for return of the Polish gold, signed in June, provided for scaling down of Polish debts to London.

The British spokesman said no consultations were taking place either with the United States or Russia regarding the coming Polish elections, and that Britain was not contemplating such consultations.

The United States sent a note to Poland at the same time as the British protest, on Tuesday, accusing the Polish government of oppressive acts that were stifling democratic activity and of permitting serious irregularities in counting ballots of the June 30 election.

4-H Club Boy To Attend Round-Up

John Spearman, who lives 10 miles east of Pampa, will be the only Gray county boy to attend the state-wide 4-H club round-up at College Station, Aug. 28-30.

A high school Junior, John has been vice president of his 4-H club one year and president two years.

In 1940 his beef calf took first prize in the county show, and in 1943 he placed fourth in the Sears Roebuck gilt contest. In 1944 he had the Sears Roebuck honor.

John invested his earnings in registered Hereford heifers in 1945 and now has 16 heifers.

He was winner in 1943 of a Santa Fe railway contest that netted him a free trip to Chicago.

A state of officers of the new government has been submitted by congress party president, Jawaharlal Nehru, to the viceroy for his approval and the approval of the London government.

Budget Revision Brings New Fight, HST-Democrats

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman, who already has crossed verbal swords with republicans over his budget revision, today faced a major row with some of his own party leaders over the same issue.

The democrats are aroused by a $300,000,000 slash they contend he ordered in expenditures for flood control and rivers and harbors projects for the fiscal years 1947 and 1948.

Four key party members in congress issued a statement terming the presidential action "without either constitutional or statutory authority" and in defiance of the will of congress.

They described it further as "an assumption of unwarranted and drastic powers" and issued a call for a national protest meeting in New Orleans Sept. 20.

The four are: Senate President McMillan (D-Tenn.); acting Chairman Overton (D-La.) of the Senate Committee on Appropriations; Mansfield (D-Texas) of the House Rivers and Harbors committee; and Chairman Whitington (D-Miss.) of the House Flood Control committee.

The aroused democrats invited republican members of their committee to join them in the protest meeting.

Several republicans have taken issue with Mr. Truman since he announced his revision of the budget earlier this month in an effort to bring it into balance this fiscal year or next.

In their pot-shot at Mr. Truman's fiscal intentions, the four democrats stated:

"The declared purpose of the President to balance the budget and to create a substantial surplus to be used in the reduction of the national debt cannot very well be effected by the cancellation of the expenditure of $300,000,000 for urgently needed river and harbor and flood control work, especially in view of the tremendous expenditures amounting to billions of dollars, for creating unnecessary extravagances, which have been encouraged and approved by the President."

They said that delay in proceeding with some projects would result in increased flooding or other disasters.

Another phase of Mr. Truman's economy program drew a wry comment, meanwhile, from Gen. Carl Spaatz, army air forces commander who announced that 20 percent of AAF civilian employes will reduce the number from 163,000 to 131,000 by January 1.

Executive Offers WAA Assistance

LONGVIEW—(AP)—In answer to a war assets administration stop order against the proposed transfer of surplus camps and war plants to educational institutions pending completion of a congressional investigation, R. G. LeTourneau, wealthy manufacturer and philanthropist, said here today that the U. S. attorney general approved the transfer of Harmon general hospital to the LeTourneau foundation for educational purposes.

The WAA order affects $3 surplus camps and war plants sold at 100 percent discount to educational institutions.

The attorney general of the United States approved the legality of the transfer of Harmon general hospital real estate, located at Longview, Texas, to the LeTourneau foundation for educational purposes before the foundation would accept the property.

Slavs Holding One Passenger On Transport

PARIS—(AP)—An official Yugoslav spokesman said today the Turkish officer-passenger on the U. S. transport shot down Aug. 9 was being held because his flight over Yugoslavia was not accidental.

This coincided with a six-word dispatch from Belgrade to the French press agency saying that Marshal Tito had decided to reject the United States ultimatum.

While some terms of the ultimatum already had been met, Secretary of State Bernes said the Yugoslav matter was a pending matter.

He added all official United States communications would come from Washington.

Sava Komsanovic, the Yugoslav ambassador to the United States and a member of his country's peace delegation here said in a statement:

"As has been announced 24 hours before the American note was handed Yugoslavia the passengers and the members of the U. S. transport have been released with the exception of a Turkish officer, whose flight over Yugoslavia—as the investigation has shown—was not accidental."

The Turk, said by the pilot of the plane to be a captain but otherwise unidentified, previously had been reported by the Yugoslavs to be in a hospital at Ljubljana. He was seriously wounded when the plane crashed.

Anderson Would Induce Farmers To Watch Goals

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Wary lest some crops may yield surpluses next year, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson is casting about for a method of inducing farmers to stick to government production goals.

Under existing farm laws the agriculture department is required to "support" prices of most agricultural commodities.

Specifically, prices or returns to growers must be maintained at not less than 90 percent of parity, except in the case of cotton, which must be maintained at not less than 82.5 percent.

Parity is the figure designed to give the farmer the same buying power he enjoyed in some past favorable period.

Looking to the prospect that world food demands on this country may dwindle considerably after this year, Anderson is known to feel that these support levels may be too favorable.

That is, they might provide an incentive which would lead farmers to produce more than is needed.

Some thought is being given to suggestions that the price support program be linked to a system of production controls. Under these suggestions, the price support programs would be carried out only if a farmer produced within goals set by the department.

Hopes for Safety Of 5 Yanks Fade

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Hopes for the safety of five American fliers shot down by Yugoslav fighters last Monday faded today with a state department report that the Yugoslav Fourth army had expressed doubt any of them had parachuted to safety.

That note of pessimism was raised as the department, on the basis of a message from its diplomatic representatives at Belgrade, officially confirmed the release of nine occupants of another American plane which was forced to crash land Aug. 9.

The two incidents led to an ultimatum demanding that Yugoslavia release all the fliers still alive or face an American request for prompt action by the United Nations Security Council.

The message concerning the missing five came from Harold Shantz, charge d'affaires at Belgrade. It read:

"Lieutenant Theodore Hohenbichl, consul of Zagreb, phoned at 1:30 p. m. that the crew and passengers of the plane downed Aug. 9 have been given liberty and the Yugoslav fourth army offered motor transport to the Morkov Line."

"However," Shantz said, "the crew and passengers of the plane were not seen until the morning and that because of bad weather they decided to postpone until tomorrow the visit to the plane that crashed Aug. 19."

"The fourth army said they are doubtful whether any of the crew have thrown objects overboard at that time because of bad weather which might shake it not wreck the machinery for preserving peace."

But even with subdued gratification, this country still awaited a full accounting before marking the episode closed.

Three factors combined to "relieve the tension which rapidly was reaching its peak," Shantz said.

First, the Yugoslav government's swift submission to the American ultimatum a sign that the American sphere of influence have decided against forcing at Belgrade a major showdown which might shake it not wreck the machinery for preserving peace.

Second, the Yugoslav government's swift submission to the American ultimatum a sign that the American sphere of influence have decided against forcing at Belgrade a major showdown which might shake it not wreck the machinery for preserving peace.

Troopship Puts to Sea After Blast Warning Issued

JERUSALEM—(AP)—The British troopship Empire Heywood put to sea today a short time after naval headquarters received a telephoned warning that the vessel, carrying 600 Jewish immigrants, would be blasted shortly.

Authorities said the Heywood would remain in the Mediterranean sea today a short time after naval headquarters received a telephoned warning that the vessel, carrying 600 Jewish immigrants, would be blasted shortly.

The Heywood also had been damaged in a previous explosion, a Cyprus prevented the immediate landing of the illegal refugees aboard the Heywood. They are being deported under the British policy forbidding further illegal immigration to Palestine.

One destroyer accompanied the Heywood, scheduled to dock at Cyprus a week ago with the refugees but was forced to return to Haifa when refugees ignited two small gelignite bombs in the hold.

Pilot Explains His Entanglement With Slav Planes

GORZIA, Italy—(AP)—The pilot of the U. S. army transport plane forced down in Yugoslavia two weeks ago said today he failed to understand the signals of two Yugoslav fighter planes which later forced him down with gunfire.

"The fighter planes flew around us a couple of times," said Capt. William Crombie, a Turkish captain.

"I did not know what they meant. They kept diving at us and pulling away."

Crombie recalled that he had flown 23 missions over Marshal Tito's country during the war to drop supplies.

"I would be surprised to see another increase before long," an OPA official told a reporter.

In announcing the immediate $7 hike yesterday, OPA cited these reasons:

1. "To help assure an adequate supply of newsprint for United States publishers by attempting to prevent a diversion to other markets of foreign newsprint."

2. "To check any tendency on the part of domestic producers to divert newsprint production to other more profitable lines of paper."

3. "To offset manufacturers' higher costs for raw materials, labor and freight."

New Government For India Is Set

NEW DELHI—(AP)—An interim government intended to place India on a path to independence, after nearly two and a half centuries of British rule, is expected to be announced tomorrow.

Viceroy Lord Wavell will broadcast at 8:30 p. m. (9 a. m., CST) a state of officers of the new government has been submitted by congress party president, Jawaharlal Nehru, to the viceroy for his approval and the approval of the London government.

Meanwhile the city of Calcutta, scene of bitter butchery as a result of Moslem-Hindu differences over India's future, crawled back to normal, but slowly. Six more isolated bombings, one fatal, occurred this morning. Offices and commercial establishments still were closed or operating with skeleton staffs.

Bodies clogged sewers, garbage was still uncollected and cholera was reported in some parts of the city. However, a pipe mouth at the city's water pumping station, once clogged with floating bodies, had been cleared.

The military still controlled traffic, blood guard at storm centers and enforced a curfew.

A general survey was recently conducted in Oklahoma, showing that the U. S. Public Health Service, in cooperation with the city and state, is waging a blood-battle against malaria. A local church offered its facilities for a blood-testing center, and many thousands of people were examined during the 15-day drive. The service brought out the fact that malaria is a disease which represents wholesome change in the national attitude toward diseases which are the cause of untold suffering and death. It is a disease which has long been well-known to all who faced the fact.

Scriptures: Exodus 20:1-17; Proverbs 4:1-9; Matthew 5:1-48
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
A general survey was recently conducted in Oklahoma, showing that the U. S. Public Health Service, in cooperation with the city and state, is waging a blood-battle against malaria. A local church offered its facilities for a blood-testing center, and many thousands of people were examined during the 15-day drive. The service brought out the fact that malaria is a disease which represents wholesome change in the national attitude toward diseases which are the cause of untold suffering and death. It is a disease which has long been well-known to all who faced the fact.

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

By Alice M. Loverick
Copyright, 1946, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THIS STORY: L. Cecelia Hart, was only 17 when I came to Linn-fall that eventful summer to help out Cousin Ellen, who was the Fitzgerald housekeeper. Miss Charlotte Brent captured my heart immediately but autocratic old Honora Fitzgerald, who ruled the household from a sick bed, frightened me. Miss Charlotte showed me around the place, told me about Professor Mark Fitzgerald, to whom she was engaged. Cousin Ellen acceded me for taking time off from my duties.

THOROUGHLY chastened and feeling a little homesick with the cooking of twilight, I was washing the dishes after dinner when Ellen left to answer Mrs. Fitzgerald's bell.

"It's herself," she told me when she returned. "She had a bad turn. Ah, she's going this time, sure."

How often she was to say this to me during the summer. I was to grow used to it, but now I was properly impressed.

"Do you wipe your hands, now, and get down on your knees, Cecelia," she said. "We'll say the rosary for her."

Obediently I sank to my knees and there by the kitchen stove Ellen and I said the rosary for the sick woman, Ellen wiping her eyes continually, I watching her covertly and thinking in mild surprise, "Why, she really feels bad."

Ellen sighed as we rose. "Ah, she was the fine, proud woman," she said. "In her day she could hold her own with the best of them. Smart she was, and she had, ah, it's a sad day."

Hanging out the dish towels after the kitchen work was done, I looked down at the little river, which now lay in the fading light. The two red cows that I had seen grazing in the next meadow were gone, everything was still except for the frogs in the river, who were making the most mournful sounds. Here on the hilltop we were so by ourselves, it was so horribly lonely. If I were only at home, far from Ellen and her sighs and the house where death was hovering. At home in the little house where my father smoked his pipe and I read bits out of the paper to my mother, as she mended unbelievably huge holes in the socks of my three small brothers.

BUT I was not there. I was here at the Fitzgeralds' and it would be a long time before I could go home again. I was very near to tears when I went into the house to find that Ellen had disappeared again, no doubt to help out in the sickroom in some way.

I huddled on a chair in the kitchen, wishing I dared go out for a book somewhere so I could read myself into forgetfulness. I also began to feel very sleepy, but, of course, I wouldn't be able to sleep a wink in this strange house with the muffled conversations and sounds of hurried feet going up and down stairs and the many other sounds that accompany the very sick and the dying.

It seemed hours later when Cousin Ellen came bustling back. "Ah, she's bad," she told me. "She's very bad. Doctor Hamilton's there, and Father Burke. Come, we'll say another rosary for her now."

I got to my knees again, feeling decidedly rebellious. It was all very well to say one rosary. I was too much the child of Thomas and Mary Elizabeth Hart not to know that one should pray for the sick and the dying. But I resented bitterly having to say two rosaries in one night for a woman I didn't even like, who was never even related to me. At 17, prayers were more or less automatic with me. It would be a few years before I would appreciate the beauty and significance of the oft-repeated

Polio Death Rate In Texas About Same as in '45

AUSTIN—(AP)—Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, today predicted that Texas' poliomyelitis death rate for 1946 will be approximately the same as that of 1945.

He said that 135 of approximately 1,000 reported cases resulted in death last year.

No figures on the polio death rate have been compiled by the State Health Department thus far this year, said Dr. Cox.

The State Health officer pointed out that the department loses track of polio cases after they enter hospitals for treatment, but said he hopes to secure statistics after the seasonal incidence of polio dies out.

Latest figures on polio, through Aug. 17, show 105 counties reporting a total of 630 cases, he said. At the same time last year, 96 counties had reported 607 cases.

New cases for the week ending Aug. 17 numbered 49.

Bexar county has reported 93 cases this year, Dallas county, 83; Tarrant county, 82.

Commenting on the after effects of polio, Dr. Cox said it is mostly the arms or legs which are paralyzed. Severe cases, similar to that of a strong water cramp, is often experienced in the more serious cases, while victims of only slight attacks may feel no discomfort at all, said Dr. Cox.

The State Health officer has repeatedly stated that the incidence of polio in Texas has not reached epidemic proportions.

In the Greek theater, important actors were given added height by wearing built-up shoes.

Longview District Leads in Violations

AUSTIN—(AP)—The Longview district of the Texas liquor control board had the greatest number of criminal cases filed during July, the board has reported.

Sixty-nine cases were filed there, resulting in 37 convictions, a jail term and fines and costs totaling $6,189.

Amarillo and Dallas districts had the next highest number of criminal cases with 46 each.

Bids Received for Building Purchases

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Four bids for purchase of the old post office and court house site at Beaumont, Texas, were received by the public buildings administration yesterday but names of the bidders and amounts offered were withheld.

An official of the agency's real estate division said bidders and amounts will be disclosed in about two weeks. An appraisal of the property now is being made and until the appraisal report is received no action can be taken on the bids, he said.

The human heart pumps five to six quarts of blood through nearly 4,000 circuits of the body.

Funny Business On Movie Screen Is Serious Work
By BOB THOMAS
"HOLLYWOOD"—(AP)—Making with the funny business on the screen is serious work, as Cary Grant can well attest.
After a stretch of love films and biographies, the fidgety southpaw actor is back at his forte, light comedy. Leaving this, I slipped in on the "bachelor of the boy-scouts" set for a few laughs. I could have gotten more at an emballers' social.
Actors Grant and Ray Collins and Director Irving Reis were faced with the problem of wringing a laugh from a few lines. The scene will take less than 30 second on the screen, but several hours were required to transfer it to celluloid. The deathless words:
Collins: "Where are you going?"
Grant: "To Africa."
Collins: "That's a long way off."
Grant: "Not when you're in Arabia and that's where I'm going."
All the principals on the set went into a gag conference which possessed all the levity of a U. N. security council meeting.
The conference broke for coffee and Cary came over and sighed, "It sure is hard to find out what people think is funny."
I switched the conversation to "right and day" and Cary declared: "The actor doesn't have a chance to defend himself against those guys (the critics)."
"I sang like myself in the picture so they say I have a lousy voice. If I sounded like Caruso they'd say who are you kidding? That ain't Grant."
Besides, he added, "I don't see how anyone can find so much fault with something that costs the actor 90 cents, 40 cents or even a quarter."

Tanning Industry Fears Short Supply
NEW YORK—(AP)—Unless the government can channel livestock through markets which comply with its regulations under the new price control order, the tanning industry will be faced with an acute and continuous crisis of raw material supply.
The tanners' council of America said yesterday.
Stating that a heavy run of cattle and calves seems inevitable during the next three months, the council said:
"The great bulk of this livestock supply is actually marketed in channels that comply with controls and regulations, the hides and skins will become available to tanners, and excellent delivery standards will be maintained."
"The bulk of the cattle sent to market during this period do not make choice beef and may not therefore be diverted from legitimate channels."

Safety Group Signs Proposed Amendment
AUSTIN—(AP)—The Texas Safety association has signed a proposed good roads amendment to the state constitution. A. F. Allen, president, has reported.
The amendment, which will be submitted to Texas voters on Nov. 5, provides that motor vehicle registration fees and gasoline taxes, other than the one-fourth allocated to the available school fund, be used exclusively for acquiring rights-of-way, constructing, maintaining and policing public roadways.

Arrangements Made For Dental Service
DALLAS—(AP)—Arrangements have been made by the veterans administration for veterans with service-connected dental conditions to receive treatment from private dentists in sections of the Dallas region remote from VA clinics.
VA officials have announced completion of such arrangements with the American Dental association and the State Dental societies in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

SMOKE DREAMS
HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(AP)—It's publicity that counts in Hollywood, they say, and Miss Jacque Lee, a singer, believes it.
Winner of a radio contest yesterday, Miss Lee was told she could have any wish she wanted within reason. She said she wanted her name inscribed in the sky a mile high.
The radio sponsor got hold of a skywriter and said he would do it.
The old Roman alphabet had no J, U nor W.

Small Businesses May Obtain Help From New Office

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON—(AP)—Suppose you're a small-business man, or a man who wants to open a small business.
 And you want some information or you have tax worries.
 Where can you look for help on things like that?
 The commerce department has a special bureau—called the office of small business—which may be able to help you.
 If you have problems like those mentioned above, then write to, or visit, the office of small business in the commerce department here. Eventually that office expects to have specially trained men in the department's various offices around the country—perhaps as many as 75 offices—where small business men can go directly for such help.

Until then, get in touch with the office here in Washington.
 Suppose you're having trouble with your taxes.
 By getting in touch with the small business office here you may be able to get advice on how you legitimately can save money on your taxes.
 Or the office may be able to help you unsharpen some tax red tape if you've become tangled in it.
 But over and beyond all this, the small business office is making a survey, and will continue to make such studies, on tax and loan problems of small businesses.
 In addition to this kind of help, the small business office has taken over the area development division of the small business office.
 The division has only a small staff here, but by the end of the year it expects to have three men in each of the commerce department's eight regional offices.
 The division's job is to work with state planning bodies, or with cities or counties which are looking for information on how to start up new industries or businesses.
 The area development division's work goes like this:
 Here's a city where citizens would like to have a new business if they are arching in their area that would attract a new business or make it profitable.
 The division's men will show how a survey of the area can be made—to find what attractions and resources and markets it has for a new business—and what kind of plant profitably could do business there.

PERON—FRIEND OR FOE: 'EL LIDER' PASSES UP SOME QUESTIONS HE CANNOT ANSWER 'WITH MY HABITUAL CLARITY'

(Editor's Note: The following is the second of two dispatches on "Peron—Friend or Foe" written by the Executive Editor of NEA Service, Inc., after a visit to South America.)
 By BOYD LEWIS
 NEA Staff Correspondent
 BUENOS AIRES, ARG.—(NEA)—Juan Domingo Peron sat at the head of a 50-foot mahogany table, the picture of handsome amiability. The president of Argentina had decided to play host to two dozen visiting United States journalists and he was playing his role well.
 He wore a blue-grey business suit, a white shirt and blue, figured tie. His thick black hair was slicked down in a gleaming pompadour and a smile flicked on and off his face as he spoke. It is an enigmatic smile made with the corners of the lips curled down.
 I had submitted 24 questions by cable to the president with a request for replies at an interview. The president opened his reception, after serving the platters of hors d'oeuvres and sherry wine, by releasing his replies to the entire U. S. delegation.
 That is, he released the replies to those questions he cared to answer. He replied to 10 questions, chiefly those of a general nature with which I had completed my "gar coat" some of the sharper inquiries. Questions 8 to 20 he passed off with the reply: "I do not wish to give an indiscreet answer" and question 24 he answered with a sardonic jibe: "The question is not sufficiently clear for me to answer it with my habitual clarity."
 Close observers of Argentine affairs believe that both his "on record" remarks and the nature of the questions on which he choked have the significance in interpreting the nature of his attitude toward existing North American business.
 On record, Peron said that the "July 4 revolution" was aimed at "affirming and not destroying the country's democratic and liberal constitution." He accused the opposition press of being "not democratic but capitalist" and of electing anti-Peronists to congress by "fraud, compulsion and venality."
 To defend the institutions created by "our Magna Carta" Peron said he would "use in such defense all the powers that may be necessary."
 Three questions aimed at finding out whether Argentina considers itself bound to the Pact of Chapultepec, where in the nations of the western hemisphere guarantee to come to the assistance jointly of any one of their number attacked by an aggressor, were answered in words which might be subject to a variety of interpretations. They did not, however, support former President Farrell's decree affirming the pact and it would appear that Peron did not consider the country bound unless congress ratified the affirmation.
RUSSIAN HOPES
 Peron asserted that Argentina would not make any trade agreements which would impede development of Argentine industrialization. It would appear from this that Russian hopes of trading manufactured goods for raw materials might be doomed to disappointment.
 He replied "categorically, no" to a question whether Argentina recognized British sovereignty over the Falkland Islands and Antarctic regions, but added:
 "Argentina has no aspirations to territorial expansion. The only thing she seeks is the recognition and exercise of sovereignty over that which rightfully belongs to her."
 And here are the things Peron known to his rabid followers, to re-act that:

 He will not report the Nazi agents except for small fry; that he does not like North American investment in Argentina and that he resents current American business activities in the country; that his attitude toward future American business is to get the most possible and give the least possible; that he will use any stratagem to get weapons for his military followers—from the U. S., Russia, Great Britain or anyone else; that his armed force is in fact hardly more than 100,000 men, or that he would give his shirt to get the atomic weapon.
 Since the real answers to these questions vitally affect our policy toward Argentina, some U. S. quarters do not wish to respond with their "customary clarity."

Behind this fear of an indiscretion apparently lies a belief that the world is headed for a third World War. Peron indicated this belief in a speech to congress recently, and also in a reply to my inquiry: "Would the president care to expand on his recent statement that he expected a third world war?"
 Peron's face wrinkled into a sardonic smile. He said:
 "I should not talk of a third world war to you who have just come from the United States."

Gracie Reports
 By GRACIE ALLEN
 Well, I see that the atomic bomb has invaded the world of art, or at least the world of tattooing. Many sailors are now having that famous mushroom cloud put on their chests instead of such slogans as "Joe loves Mabel," and "I'm sure the cloud will prove safer for Joe if he ever marries a girl named Peggy."
 I think the idea of having historical scenes tattooed could be made very educational. Fifty years from now children who find history books dull could persuade Grandpa to open his shirt and show them "Byrnes defying Molotov in Paris" or "Elnatra listening to Coma record." Even on a chest the size of George's there would be room for some of the activities of ex-mayor La Guardia.
 Naturally we girls won't go in for that form of art. Carrying around tattooed current events would date us terribly.

Borger, Pampa Stage Home Run Spree, Oilers Win, 12-7

Two Teams Blast 10 Homers; Hacker Gains 17th Victory

BORGER—(Special)—Clyde Hutto and Warren Hacker tangled in a pitcher's battle here last night to see who could give up the most home runs. Hutto won, giving up six as the Oilers blasted Borger 12-7 to give Hacker his 17th win of the season.

The Gassers collected four round-trippers out of 12 hits off Hacker, while Pampa got six homers in 16 hits.

Earl Harriman, Virgil Richardson, Al Zigelman and Hacker all homered for the Oilers. Harriman and Richardson got two each. Zigelman's was his first of the season.

Manager Ted Clawitter of the Gassers, in the meantime, was collecting two while Gordon Nell and Royce Dossett were contributing one each to the cause.

Harriman's four-baggers, his sixth and seventh of the season, came on the first and eighth, each time with R. C. Otey on board.

Richardson hit his two in the seventh and eighth, each time with nobody on base. The two bring his totals for the season, tops out at 12.

Zigelman hit his round-tripper in the fifth with Joe Fortin on base while Hacker's came in the second with Seltz on 14 was Hacker's second homer of the season.

For the Gassers, Nell's 39th home run of the season came in the second with none on, Clawitter's first of the season came right after Nell finished circling the bases. Dossett slugged his in the seventh with none on, following Clawitter's second of the game in the sixth, with Vurdon Gilchrist on base.

A new league record came near being shattered last night when Vurdon Gilchrist, Borger's heavy-hitting second baseman, walked for the 132nd time this season, putting him only one behind the record set by Barney Barnhill of Wink in 1937.

The two teams will meet there tonight with either Bill Garland (21-7) or Joe Isaacs (2-1) scheduled to take the hill for Pampa. Game time is 8:30.

Last night's win was the Oilers' 11th in their last 12 starts and gives them a 16-3 won-lost record against the Gassers this year. Tonight's game will close regular season play against Borger.

Musial Stars, Cards Tie Bums for First

By JOE REICHLER
 AP Sports Writer

If the St. Louis Cardinals fail to win the National League flag this season, it won't be the fault of Stanley Frank Musial, the circuit's number one batter.

Musial rapped out six hits as the Cardinals swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-6 and 4-2, to draw even with the Dodgers who were shut out, 2-0 by the Reds in Cincinnati.

The hard-hitting first baseman, who the opener, played in the afternoon, with a home run in the 12th inning and blasted the Phillies' hopes of a split with a trio of base hits which accounted for the winning runs in the second game, played at night.

Johnny (double-no-hit) Vander Meer pitched the shutout against the Dodgers, handing the Brooks their second loss in three games as they fourth and final western trip.

The Chicago White Sox won their first game from the American League leading Boston Red Sox in nine starts at Fenway park this season by coming from behind to eke out a 4-3 11th-inning decision.

Winning their second doubleheader in two days, the runner-up New York Yankees trimmed the St. Louis Browns, 4-3 and 8-2.

The Boston Braves won their sixth straight victory over the Chicago Cubs, 3-2.

Brook's Southpaw Monte Kennedy won a tight pitching duel from veteran Rin Sewell as the New York Giants nosed out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1-0, in ten innings.

The Philadelphia Athletics hammered Bob Feller for three consecutive hits in the seventh inning to outscore the Cleveland Indians, 8-6, for their third straight victory.

A scheduled night game at Washington between the Detroit Tigers and the Senators was halted by rain at the end of two scoreless innings.

So They Say

The whole picture, production-wise, looks very encouraging. If nothing happens to rock the boat we should get goods in tremendous volume as the shortages are relieved. — CPA Administrator John D. Small.

The United States is the object of envy of many nations of the world and many peoples. Our treasury is most attractive to them. Immigration to our shores is something that they dream of. I do not favor and I shall not vote to make it possible for the international court of justice to decide whether a question of immigration to our shores is a domestic question or an international question. — Sen. Tom Connally (D) of Texas.

A year after the close of the most destructive war in history we find little progress has been made toward permanent international harmony. Russia constantly besets the path with road blocks. Russia continues to act very much like the little boy who takes his ball and goes home when he can't pitch. — John Steele, national commander American Legion.

Nelson, Aching Back and All, Defeats Barron, 3-2; All Winners Shatter Par

By GAIL FOWLER

PORTLAND—(AP)—Defending champion Byron Nelson aching back and all—was still very much in the running today as eight survivors of an original field of 123 hit the 36-hole quarterfinals of the 28th annual national professional golfers' championship.

Lord Byron led the procession of sub-par winners in yesterday's third round, being nine under par for the 34 holes he required to dispose of Herman Barron, Tam O'Shanter open champion from White Plains, N. Y. The score was 3 and 2.

Every one of yesterday's winners bettered par. Ed "Porky" Oliver of Chicago, who was to play Nelson in a feature 36-hole today, was eight under for 32 holes in beating Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., 5 and 4.

Some of the lads being inducted into the armed forces didn't get very far along with their schooling. So in many camps classes were started for them. In one of these classes a bulking lad, who was being given some special instruction in English, was asked:

Officer—What is the principal part of a sentence?
 Soldier (promptly)—Soldierly confinement on bread and water.

Girl—You know, I didn't accept Fred the first time he proposed.
 Friend—If I say you didn't, you weren't there.

So make it four dollars.
 Find of her. He'll die of the shock. But I have a rooster that's two for the price of one.
 Motorist—Well, how much is you?

It is high time we became hard-boiled about our determination to have lasting peace through international teamwork. — John Stelle, national commander American Legion.

Hearings on Election Suits Will Continue

RIO GRANDE CITY—(AP)—Hearings in three Starr county election contest suits were to continue in 79th district court here today.

More than 200 witnesses have been subpoenaed in the contests, brought by A. J. Sanchez, loser to Laura Carr in the county clerk's race; Alfonso Hinojosa, defeated by Martin Canales for county commissioner, and Efrain Duran, who opposed F. D. Guerra for county treasurer.

The plaintiff's petitions allege misuse of absentee ballots.

Passenger Held

Kosanovic's reference to release of the other nine crewmen and passengers of the plane "22 hours before the American note was handed Yugoslavia" was the first indication that the Yugoslav government contends it did not receive the state department ultimatum until today.

Kosanovic charged that "recent events in which American aircraft over Yugoslavia territory were involved—30 miles inside Yugoslavia—are a result of the tense atmosphere which is being deliberately maintained from some quarters, in order to make it possible for an explosion to occur."

The psychosis which is being created in the world by certain circles and is meeting with the support of those who have lost the war and whose only hope lies in a third world war can be eliminated only by means of sincere and equal relations among the great powers," he said.

"We Yugoslavs desire peace. We have never been guilty of provoking war. We have always only defended ourselves."

"We ask the American people, for whom we have always had feelings of sincere and deep friendship, to show us understanding and impartiality and to avoid drawing erroneous conclusions which are contrary to the fundamental principles for which we fought together."

"Regrettable incidents should not be allowed to serve the designs of the enemies of Yugoslavia, but were carried out to test American reaction."

Kosanovic referred to press comments which said the attacks on United States planes were not accidental or the result of nervousness of individual Yugoslav pilots, but were carried out to test American reaction.

"Such has, roughly, been the tone of the American press towards Yugoslavia in the last few days, if we disregard the violent terms in which the attacks were couched," he said.

"I surely know my own people well, and I have a sufficient knowledge of the Americans, to be able to affirm that such conclusions are a basic misinterpretation of the facts and cannot possibly contribute to ascertaining the truth."

"It is a matter of common knowledge," Kosanovic said, "that Trieste and through gone A. (the British-American sector of Venezia Giulia) as well as in Italy, Austria, etc. there are in refugee camps in freedom, under the protection of the Allied authorities, some of the most odious war criminals, whose crimes against the Allied cause can not be subject to doubt."

"The only thing these people hope for is a new war, otherwise they can not prolong their lives," he said.

"Some of them are, nevertheless, being employed in the capacity of advisors by responsible Allied officials in these delicate zones. This fact can not be considered as accidental."

Tito Yields

1. The release of the seven Americans and two Hungarians who had been held since their plane was fired upon by Yugoslav fighters and forced to crash land August 9.

2. Tito's own declaration—that: "I have given the strictest orders... not to fire on foreign planes, and the procedure of Aug. 9 and 19) is not to be repeated."

3. A report from American embassy officials in Yugoslavia that "the Yugoslav government has promised to give satisfaction."

The fact that much remains for the Balkan nation to answer to was made abundantly clear in the ultimatum itself. That document—in demanding the release of the occupants of the two planes still alive—

"If within 48 hours from the receipt of this note by the Yugoslav government, these demands are complied with, the United States government will determine its course in the light of the evidence then secured and the efforts of the Yugoslav government to right the wrong done."

Probably involving protracted negotiations, this would mean:

1. Compilation of detailed explanations from the occupants of the planes, the Yugoslav government, and any possible witnesses.

2. Full satisfaction of any formal demand for redress for the casualties among occupants and property damage to the two planes involved in the attacks.

3. Iron-clad assurances from Yugoslavia that there will be no repetition of the attacks.

Prior to Tito's pledge given to the newsmen, the grave problem of preventing similar incidents occupied concentrated attention in both diplomatic and military quarters.

Eyewitness

"I flew contact as far as the lake and then I started to climb to get above the clouds," he said.

He said he recognized the Austrian city of Klagenfurt and set his course slightly north of west. He had his radio operator ask the Udine airport for a hearing. He was "deferred" because the airport was working another plane. So he flew west for 15 minutes until he thought he was north of Udine.

"The clouds broke a little and I began to see the ground," Crombie went on. "I thought from the map that we were then northwest of Udine, so I changed the course to the southeast."

It was then, the pilot said, that a fighter plane dived on us.

"I thought it was a British ship," he related. "I said 'hello' on the interphone, but there was no answer."

"I continued southeast and I saw two other fighters. From their markings, I recognized them as Yugoslav fighters. Then I knew I was over Yugoslav territory."

"Everything happened then."

"I circled a town which I later found out was Ljubljana—which I thought might be Udine and at 14,000 feet I let down."

"That was when I saw the first burst of machinegun fire, although others in the plane said there had been an earlier one."

"There was no damage to the ship. But that was when the Turkish captain was hit. A bullet went through his back, came out just over his heart, and shattered his wrist."

"I picked a little cornfield about 15 miles northwest of Ljubljana and crashlanded with the wheels up. Everybody lay on the floor and nobody was hurt, although the plane was badly wrecked."

"After about two hours some Yugoslav officers and soldiers came and asked us why we didn't land. We told them we had not understood."

High-pitched sounds can extinguish a flame.

Election

Two McDonalads are battling it out for the post of commissioner of agriculture. J. E. McDonald, of Ellis county, the incumbent, pushed ahead of the field in the first primary, but in Gray county he trailed his run-off opponent, R. E. McDonald, of Travis county, 1,191 votes to 1,413.

First primary Gray county voters also went counter to those of Texas as a whole when they gave Jesse Owens, of Wilbarger county, 1,783 votes to 1,335 for Tom L. Beauchamp, of Smith county, in the race for judge, court of criminal appeals. With a slim statewide lead, Beauchamp now faces Owens in the run-off.

In Gray county, Wade Thomas, incumbent, with 1,410 votes in the first primary, is opposed for commissioner, precinct number two, by Bertie M. Vaught, who garnered 587 votes in the July 28 balloting.

Opponents for commissioner in precinct number three are James A. Hopkins and Earl Johnson. The latter received 67 votes to Hopkins' 61 in the first primary.

Complaint

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast heard in London, declared that Yugoslavia had alleged specifically that the United States refused to relinquish six Yugoslav passenger ships and other vessels now anchored in the Upper Danube.

Quoting a Tass message from Belgrade, the radio said that Dr. Stambur had asked that "the incorrect detention of passenger ships and other vessels" be put on the agenda "for the next security council meeting on Aug. 31."

Meanwhile, security council delegates watched closely developments on the U. N. ultimatum to the Yugoslavs over shooting at U. S. planes.

Grave tension between Moscow and the western powers was reflected, however, in a statement from the Brazilian delegate sternly denouncing Russia and "all her satellites."

The public statement from Dr. Pedro Leao Veloso, who seldom speaks up in council, and once prefaced a brief address with the remark that he is a man of few words, was a reproof of one he had prepared before learning last night how the Tito regime had reacted to the American demands.

"The Brazilian expressed his hope that Premier Marshal Tito would fulfill all the conditions laid down by Washington."

"However," he added, "the attitude of the Yugoslav military authorities has no justification in peace-time or friendly relations."

"Unfortunately the Soviet Union and her satellites have adopted in words and deeds the same aggressive methods of the one-time fascist states."

"The incident that arose between Yugoslavia and the United States is a regrettable consequence of these methods."

RECONVERSION'S FIRST INVENTORY: DREAM OF BOOM IS CLOUDED BY LABOR SHORTAGE

By MARC J. PARSONS
NEA Staff Correspondent

One year after V-J Day the United States still is struggling to fulfill the glowing reconversion promises of the first days of peace, and it appears today that industry is finally shifting into high gear.

Strikes caused the major industrial headaches in the first year of peace; now Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small warns of a threatened man-power shortage.

Certainly the U.S. is approaching the "full employment" figure of 60,000,000 civilian workers much faster than most experts expected. Upwards of 37,000,000 now are employed and unemployment is "remarkably low," Small says.

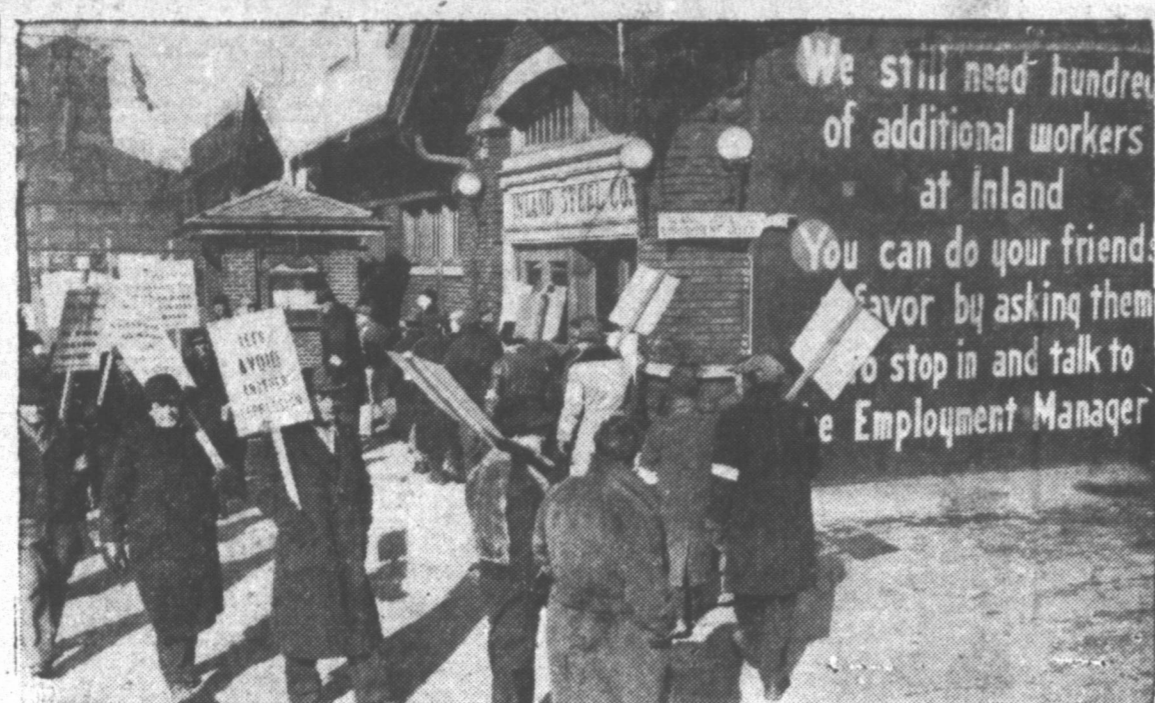

Unemployment figures vary from two to over four million. Many of these are technically "unemployable" and marginal workers. Many others are in transit from one job to another.

Up until a month or so ago, the armed forces were pouring on average of 600,000 soldiers and sailors back into the labor market. Today the rate has dropped to about 100,000 monthly. These are quickly absorbed into industry.

Small feels that business is going to be forced to resort to one of two methods of getting the man-power it will need if full production is to be maintained. These are:

1. "Recruit back into the labor force large numbers of those who have left since V-J Day."
 2. "Require that large amounts of overtime be worked if production schedules are to be met."
- Production is sky-rocketing now that the major labor disputes and most of the minor ones have been settled. Reconversion Director John R. Steelman says "total production of goods and services stands at the highest point in peacetime history. Production of over-the-counter consumer goods for the first half of 1946 was the highest in either peace or war."
- But production hasn't even begun to catch up with the pent-up buyers' demands. Incomes remain high, sustaining buying power. Steelman listed consumer income (total income received by individuals in the country) at $158 billion a year, slightly below pre-V-J Day levels.

The pickets are gone from the scene now, but the sign on the building still remains as industry, its reconversion promises balked at first by labor troubles, now faces a threatened man-power shortage as it shifts into high gear a year after it got the V-J Day "green light."

and still going up. Steel production rose from 43 percent of capacity to 87 percent. It now is running around 90 percent, and George Ross, secretary of the Iron and Steel Institute says: "If the steel industry can obtain the scrap and other raw materials it needs and if it is not hindered by other troubles beyond its control, the next 12 months may be better than any similar peacetime period on record from the standpoint of production."

Barring another period of labor strife it looks like the U. S. is off towards the long heralded post-war boom.

SSS men came for him and whisked him off to Obersalzberg. There he was told that the fuhrer's great dane, "Blondie," was ill, but that the doctor couldn't see the dog until Hitler awakened from his midday nap. In time, he was ushered into the presence, he said, and Hitler put on his weeping act.

"He must have thought I didn't believe he loved his dog, I guess," Dopfer said. "He told me that his dog was more important to him because he was 'so lonely.' He said I could have anything in the third reich if I would cure the dog."

Dopfer examined the dane, found a trace of pneumonia, but after five days he concluded that what really was wrong was the fuhrer's own vegetarian diet.

Danes need meat, the veterinarian told the fuhrer, who grudgingly consented to include it in Blondie's diet.

Blondie, eating meat, got over her ailment and the summer rolled around. In November, Hitler put in a hurried call to Dopfer from the Russian front. Blondie had a skin disease this time.

This time Dopfer brought the dog to Munich for three months to make certain of a cure. Hitler called personally a few times, always opening his front conversation with "Here, Hitler. How is my dog?"

When his work was done, Hitler's staff told Dopfer to submit a bill. He thought his double success was worth 8,000 marks, but in deference to the fuhrer he said he would leave his fee to Hitler's judgment. Dopfer never heard another word from the grateful fuhrer.

Nor was he ever paid for his work with Eva Braun's three Scotties.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Notebook

By TOM REEDY

MUNICH—(AP)—Adolf Hitler stood in the big, cold-looking reception room of his chalet at Obersalzberg. There were tears in his eyes and an entreaty in his voice.

"If you can save my dog," he said, "you can have anything you want."

Dr. Alphons Dopfer, top-rank Munich veterinarian and known throughout Germany for his skill with dogs, said he would try. The ailing dog got well. But the fuhrer never paid the bill.

Now 53, Dopfer, a tall, strong man, with piercing eyes and clipped mustache, would just as soon forget the 6,000 marks he says Hitler owed him.

In the first place, he says, it was forced labor, and his experience at the dictator's chalet and later at army headquarters on the Russian front dismayed his dog lover's soul.

The doctor was working with an office full of quirming dogs, he said, one day in March 1943 when he got a telephone call from one of the fuhrer's staff. In a short while

Farmers Urged To Order Quality Seed

AUSTIN—(AP)—J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, has urged farmers to begin ordering quality cotton planting seed for 1947.

McDonald said there is a prospect of a dangerous shortage of the seed, figures from the division of field seed certification indicating that there will be sufficient registered and certified seed to plant slightly more than one million acres next year.

LET'S VOTE TOMORROW

People of this area have shown within the past few days that they do have a lot of life in them. When we use that expression, we mean they have a sense of their civic duty. The way they turned out for the second annual Top o' Texas rodeo and quarter horse show is proof that they have an interest in their community, their county.

Tomorrow they will have another opportunity to show they have an interest in their county, their state. For tomorrow they will go to the polls to vote in the run-off for county and state offices.

We should like to point to conditions which existed in McMinn county, Tennessee, a few days ago, without intimating in any way that such conditions exist in this area. We wish to call attention to the fact that, if the citizens of that Tennessee county had done their duty by going to the polls when there was an election, regardless of how insignificant it was, the possibility for the growth of a political machine would have been far less.

The machine that was ousted by force in that election was the result of citizen apathy, citizen ignorance of the responsibility that qualified voters have to their community and their country.

Let us never permit it to be said that we lost our freedom through failure to use the voting franchise. Let's all vote tomorrow!

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Are you a successful hostess, madam? Do your parties sparkle? Do your guests clamor to be invited again? Or do your little soirees turn into floppers at which your guests either yawn and watch the clock or get drunk and pass the time in fistfights?

Tut, tut, madam, if your parties are busts, perhaps all you need are a few Helpful Hints on Hostessing, and today that is precisely why we are here. We got the dope straight from the champion social de-luxe party-slinger of them all, Miss Lisa Maxwell, whose personal guest list is the ultimate Who's Who of international society (cont. division).

IMAGINATION DOES IT

"Imagination, my boy," she says firmly, "imagination. One can't just invite a lot of people in and have a party, you know. Not a good party. It takes ingenuity and careful planning."

"And remember: The careful planning should begin with the guest list. The trouble with most hostesses is that they give their parties to pay off social obligations. They simply invite all the people they owe something to, and that's it."

"Foolishness, my boy—sheer folly. Naturally, half the people aren't congenial to the other half. They just don't mix."

"I plan my guest lists two ways: (1) congeniality of interests, personality, and so on; (2) ability to contribute to the party."

"Oh, I never let my guests sit around like bumps on a log, you know. I make them do things. Keep 'em busy, that's the ticket. I make talkers talk and singers sing, dancers dance and charmers charm."

NO ADDED-STARTERS
"No one can wangle an invitation to one of my parties. Believe me, when I'm planning a party I'm a regular little old dictator."

"People call up and say, 'Elsa, darling, may I bring So-and-So?'" "No!" I tell them. "Positively not!" "It doesn't do to be weak with them, you know. They'll coax and wheedle and cajole, but you've got to be firm."

Miss Maxwell is a great one for games, she says. In expensive games, and prizes. Beautiful, expensive prizes.

The games keep the guests entertaining one another, and the prizes, usually jeweled affairs specially designed for the occasion, draw gasps of admiration for the hostess.

She has made a career of party-giving, but she insists that she has managed to retain her amateur standing.

"If I make my living giving parties, the way people say I do, I'd be rich. Lord, the money I've spent!" She lolls of a Hollywood lady-columnist, whom, by special dispensation, she permitted to attend one of her parties in New York.

"Why, the poor dear marveled, 'nobody's even drunk!'" "Of course they're not drunk! I told her 'There's all so busy enjoying themselves they haven't got time to drink!'"

Catch on, madam?

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
AP Staff Writer

A person planning a vacation and wanting to do a lot of fishing locally would glance at a map of Texas and decide the best place to go would be along the Gulf, where there's lots of water, or to Lake Texoma, or Possum Kingdom, or somewhere like that.

These are good places to go. But you'll probably be surprised to learn that about the best bass fishing in Texas is in Coleman county, which, on the map, looks so far from water you wonder how people exist.

Paradoxically, this water shortage is what makes fishing good there today. They don't even have wells in Coleman county. If the natives dig deep enough, they don't hit water, but if you can see how annoying this must be.

They raise a lot of livestock in Coleman county, and stock has to have water. So they began, with government aid, to build tanks and ponds. There are more than 2,000 ponds, some as large as 50,000,000 gallon jobs, in Coleman county now.

And they're building more.

The water that fills these is surface water from rains. And to keep the water good, they've stocked it with fish, mainly black bass and blue gill and bream.

Fish multiply amazingly 3,000 eggs at a spawning per fish, for example, which makes rabbits, seem second-rate. The bigger ranches still don't encourage fishing, because the sportsmen stumble over their cattle, sheep and goats. They have "no fishing" signs all over the prairies.

The pond project was first launched in 1944 by the Coleman Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been handled throughout by Joe C. Timmerly, in charge of soil conservation work in cooperation with the Central Colorado soil conservation district. State hatcheries provided fish, the government helped finance the ponds, and farmers and ranchers are thoroughly sold on the project.

Texas, you'll admit, is different. Next thing you know they'll be holding rodeos in the Gulf of Mexico.

MACKENZIE'S Column

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

(Subbing for Mackenzie)

Although the safety of their nations abroad has always been a serious consideration of sovereign nations, the row between the United States and Yugoslavia seems to be more a symptom of larger ills than a definite international incident.

Under other circumstances the situation might not have provoked such an official furore.

Odd as it may seem, there are careful observers who believe that the Russo-Turkish situation is as much or more of an issue in this case than the actual attacks on Americans. They believe the United States is now beginning to accept the lines as drawn; that there really are two worlds instead of one; that we are finally out to stop any further infringement of one upon the other; that this is a time of testing.

As these observers see it, Tito, acting as a front line "patrol" for Russia, has backed down rather than have an issue drawn between the Soviet and the United States. The Russian policy, however disrupted the United Nations council.

The probing is going on back and forth all along the line, as witness the new Russian-Yugoslav agitation over Danube shipping. American policy is trying to loosen Moscow's hold on northern Korea, and to fathom the Soviet aims regarding Manchuria and the communists in the North China.

The British, with their announcement of virtual "nationalization" of the Ruhr's industry at least for the time-being, seem to be countering a Russian move to re-establish eastern Germany war factories to produce for the red army.

As for the actual attacks on American planes, it is obvious that Tito would never have gotten so tough except for the stern attitude toward off-course planes which is established in the Vienna area and in the far east.

There is also no question that a subtle propaganda is being carried on in Europe which is spreading fear of all American airplanes.

"You've no doubt heard of your colleagues haranguing the veterans; socialize the state for the good of the veteran. Let the Government care for him from his discharge until he dies. Speaking on behalf of the group I represent, I want to assure you that there are some of us who can manage on our own. I for one prefer to manage my own. I certainly don't want the Government to help me find my niche in life, nor do I want them to tell me which union I must join in order to work for a living. When I got out of the Army with two DFC's seven Air Medals, two Purple Hearts and various battle stars, all I wanted was to be left alone. I thought that I was still in America that was free. I find that I was gravely mistaken and I hope that there are still enough men in Washington, such as yourself, who will help make this Nation free again."

"Sorry, I seem to be over-wrought on the subject, but I am a little bitter when they expect me to swallow all of their scare propaganda and a lot of other junk that they turn out in their millions. I know it works for some people, but it doesn't take me. I don't hold with very much of anything that Henry Wallace might say when Mr. Wallace has been forced to retreat so many of his statements after someone has called his hand. The same is true for Mr. Bowles. He should be back in business for himself, but I'd be willing to bet that he stays in Washington for the rest of his life, living off the taxes collected from those he wants to help so badly."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON
BY RAY TUCKER

UPSET—The approach of the end of the 1946 primary season demonstrates that the postwar voter, including those who stayed at home as well as those who entered the armed services, is a more flexible and more forward-looking mind in their legislative and administrative bodies.

They have kicked out sitting men from positions in lowly courthouses and on Capitol Hill. The youngsters apparently feel that the older generation failed them during the interwar period of 1919-1939.

AGE—It is no off-year accident that at least half of the twenty-odd senators and representatives recently were twenty-year men who had profited politically from a similar state of ballot-box unrest after World War I.

Messrs. Shipstead, Wheeler and La Follette, to mention only the most suffering examples, were sent to Washington by the fathers of the voters who are turning them out of office today. The same age ratio applies to officeholders who lost out in state, county and local primaries.

Political observers attribute the veteran legislators and executives

Revolt against the "ins" to several new elements which never figured in headquarters' calculations in the past to any great extent.

The first consists of the returned veterans whose direct action methods in Tennessee, Rhode Island and elsewhere reflect their determination to realize some of the bright, God-be-with-you promises made to them when they enlisted or were drafted.

WOMEN—The 1946 "interlopers" also include a vast number of women—housewives, office and factory workers, voting-age schoolgirls—who now recognize the intimate association between politics and the problems of the homemaker. They learned the power of the ballot, propaganda and pressure from consumer, labor, welfare and relief organizations in which they served during the war.

The two other groups which have exerted a puzzling influence, whether organized or unorganized, are the millions of industrial employees and the various racial blocs, especially the colored people.

All these elements are young enough and stubborn enough to be independent of ordinary political wheelers. They are not susceptible to doorbells ringers or the boss' threats. They have an utter regard for the records, reputations or the Who's Who biography of the political legislators and executives

They have an utter regard for the records, reputations or the Who's Who biography of the political legislators and executives

YEARNING—Franklin D. Roosevelt is largely responsible for this political revolution, although he sleeps in a rose-guarded lawn at Hyde Park.

It was he who made these various elements articulate and taught them to push the lever of a voting machine. He made American politics as fascinating and meaningful as jigger-bugging, baseball, chess or a study of the classics, depending on the social or cultural instincts of the particular class he sought to cultivate, at the moment.

He stirred vague dreams which he could not make come true, but the yearning for their realization still troubles a vast portion of the populace, especially the elements listed above.

The identity of the primary victims supports this theory. About twenty sitting Capitol Hill democrats have been defeated, and against only four republicans. Most of the majority losers had bucked the Truman policies which he inherited from F. D. R. It appears that the Roosevelt spirit still marches on.

WORRY—There is, however, the reverse factor that the postwar electorate has had its stomach of reform and excitement and change simply for the sake of change. The "great gamble" in foreign affairs has not yet succeeded, and our two World War II heroes—Stalin and Chiang Kai-shek—have let us down. Many folks apparently want a "return to normalcy," although not of the Harding brand. Only November will show whether they believe they can achieve that state more quickly under democratic or republican rule. Meanwhile, the politicians wait and worry.

OUTWORN—It is ironic that such erstwhile "liberals" as Messrs. Shipstead, Wheeler and La Follette should be the unhappy heirs of F. D. R.'s legacy of disunity and disillusionment. Mr. Roosevelt, in effect, "reformed" the Farm-Labor, the Progressive and the Wheeler type of democrat out of existence.

All three so-called progressive groups, with the personal exception of Mr. Shipstead, linked their fate and fortune with F. D. R. in the 1932 campaign.

But this grandiose reforms and visions and promises so far outshone their historic platforms that they had nothing new or startling to offer the current crop of voters. They were like 1946 salesmen trying to attract new customers and hold old buyers with a stale and outworn article.

The new voter, in short, wants new toys—or Titans!

Brazil is the only independent nation of the western hemisphere whose language is Portuguese and the only country of Pan America to have been an empire for any length of time.

"I was brought up to be a Democrat. I was brought up in the belief that the party which could do no wrong. None of my family since their arrival in this country before the Revolution had had any but democratic ideas. Somewhere, somebody has changed, and I don't know where to return Mr. Truman to office nor would I support any of his current cabinet for the position. Claude Pepper is the last person I would want to make a President of the United States."

"I want to tell you that I don't believe in the New Deal and completely fed up with the Fendergast machine."

"You've no doubt heard of your colleagues haranguing the veterans; socialize the state for the good of the veteran. Let the Government care for him from his discharge until he dies. Speaking on behalf of the group I represent, I want to assure you that there are some of us who can manage on our own. I for one prefer to manage my own. Faculty Members Address Letter To Association

GALVESTON (AP)—Nine members of the University of Texas school of medicine faculty have addressed a letter to the American Association of University Professors stating that they are in "disagreement with the methods and conclusions" of the association with respect of the university.

The letter declared that the association's reports on the university are "exceedingly meager as to facts and entirely misleading, that certain events have been grossly magnified, others minimized or glossed over or entirely ignored."

The letter stated: "It is our opinion that if the general membership had been furnished with a complete, factual report on conditions at the University of Texas under the administration of Dr. Homer P. Rainey before any censure action was taken, no action of this kind would have occurred, and furthermore, that Dr. Rainey would not enjoy his undesired reputation as a champion of the ideals and purposes of our association."

The letter, addressed to Ralph E. Hunsford, general secretary of the association, was signed by Dr. C. T. Stone, professor of medicine; Dr. Jesse B. Johnson, associate professor of radiology; Dr. Willard R. Cooke, professor of obstetrics and gynecology; Dr. E. N. Eggers, professor of orthopedic surgery; Dr. Clarence S. Stevenson Blames 'Management' for Educational Faults

AUSTIN—(AP)—Gov. Coke Stevenson yesterday blamed "management" for Texas' educational faults. He took sharp issue with recently expressed views of State superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods, who endorsed Dr. Homer Rainey's candidacy for governor in a radio address Monday.

Dr. Woods said in the address that the cause of the "friends of education" in Texas can best be served by the election of Homer Rainey as governor. He said Texas ranks 38th in education among other states. Stevenson cited an increase in legislative appropriations for education from $20,000,000 in 1920 to $88,845,000 for the current fiscal year ending Aug. 31.

"With that increase, if there's anything wrong with education in Texas, it looks like the fault of management rather than finances," he said.

Asked if he meant that Texas should get another superintendent of public instruction, Stevenson replied: "That inference might be drawn but I'm not saying it."

Sergeant First Human To Use Ejection Seat

DAYTON—(AP)—The air material command has disclosed that First Sgt. Lawrence Lambert, 29, of Berkeley, W. Va., was the first human in the United States to be shot out of a high speeding aircraft with the aid of the newly developed pilot ejection seat.

Lambert was shot from a P-31 flying at more than 300 miles per hour at an altitude of 6,000 feet over Patterson field. He squeezed a handle setting in motion the automatic apparatus that catapulted him from the plane, separated him from his seat in the air, caused the parachute to open and landed him safely.
