

Two Killed in Explosion Which Rocks Entire City of Corpus Christi

Several Other Persons Are Still Missing

CORPUS CHRISTI—(AP)—A tremendous explosion at a gas company, the sound of which carried 30 miles, killed at least two persons and injured six here at 7:32 a. m. today.

Fire Chief John G. Carlisle said firemen and policemen were combing debris over a quarter-mile area for several persons reported missing after the blast destroyed the Hydro Gas Fuel company in a light industrial section west of the city.

Three hours after the explosion firemen were battling flames spouting from broken safety valves of two 12,000 gallon gas tanks at the scene. Hoses sprayed the tanks with water, cooling them in an effort to forestall further explosions.

The explosion occurred at 7:32 a. m.

One of the dead was identified as the Rev. E. E. Lewis, pastor of the First Pentecostal Church of Corpus Christi who was employed at a cleaning plant near the gas company.

The unexplained blast rocked the whole of this densely populated port city. Windows were broken two miles away. At a distance of three miles the blast was a sharp report, described as "like a shotgun going off at close range."

It was heard by residents of Sinton, 30 miles away.

S. C. Keller, truck driver, was near the scene.

"I saw two men run from the wreckage," he said. "One fell after running 100 yards. The other made it for another 50 yards, then fell. I helped him to his feet."

Maurice Mober, Willbur Carrow, Jr., and William Biser were at a cafe, four blocks from the scene.

Early Action for Curbing of Atomic Energy Forecast

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—Bernard M. Baruch, chief of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, said today that the veto must not hinder inspection and control organizations watching over world arms limitation.

Baruch, United States delegate to the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission, was said authoritatively to have prepared a statement and some resolutions for presentation at an important policy-making meeting of the commission (5 p. m. CST).

Just what he will propose has been closely guarded by delegation but observers pointed out that the United States wants action on the atomic question. This was said to be especially the case since V. M. Molotov, Russian foreign minister, made a statement yesterday which United Nations delegates had awaited for a considerable time.

Molotov got down to brass tacks on the inspection and control features of disarmament when he told the U. N. Political Committee that organizations should be set up within the framework of the U. S. Security Council for the inspection and control of arms limitation regulations.

Russia has proposed general disarmament but the Soviet delegation and the United States agree that atomic weapons should have top priority in considering disarmament.

"Consequently," he said in this highly significant paragraph contained in his speech, "it is entirely wrong to consider the matter in the light that any government possessing the 'right of veto' will be in a position to hinder the fulfillment of the control and inspections."

"The Control Commissions are not the Security Council and therefore there are no grounds whatsoever for saying that any power making use of the 'right of veto' will be in a position to obstruct the course of control. Every attempt to obstruct the control or inspection carried out in accordance with the decisions taken by the Security Council will be nothing other than a violation of the decisions of the Security Council."

Baruch has fought since last June 14—and even before—for establishment of a system of control and regulation of atomic energy which would not be subject to the right of veto in the Security Council.

General Strike Ends In City of Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif.—(AP)—The City of Oakland and AFL leaders today reached an agreement to end a general strike which has strangled commerce in East Bay cities for two days.

Oakland City Manager John P. Hassler said a return to work order would be given to all union business agents at a meeting today at 10 a. m. (1 p. m. EST).

The union strike confirmed the agreement based on the conditions that police would not be used in breaking picket lines and that city officials remain neutral in labor disputes. Hassler said he gave assurances meeting the union conditions.

The agreement was reached at an early morning meeting after some 1,000,000 East Bay residents found all transportation tied up, food and other necessities in short supply and the City of Oakland under a state of emergency with full police powers voted to the mayor.

The general strike, fifth of its kind in the history of the American labor movement, moved toward a close today after a week of bitter negotiations between the AFL, Teamsters Union and the Independent Machinists Union.

The strike began Tuesday after the AFL, Teamsters Union and the Independent Machinists Union would go back to work today.

The strike was called by the Kahn and Hastings Retail Stores, source of the original dispute last October when the Retail Merchant Association declined to negotiate a contract for the two stores alone, but held out for blanket negotiations for all member stores when and if the union could show a majority of employees were union members.

After the strike began Tuesday after escorts of Berkeley and Oakland police conveyed 12 truckloads of merchandise into the two stores, through picket lines, on Sunday morning.

In a statement, the strike strategy committee said its action hinged on these conditions:

That the city government of Oakland officially state that they will not in the future use the police department as escort to guard professional strike breakers in and out of the city of Oakland for the purpose of breaking legal strikes; that they refrain from taking sides in any issue between labor and management and that they strictly confine themselves to their duties as prescribed by law.

Hassler, who was named city manager after the strike began, said he had given the strategy committee a list of demands covering the law of our land, as far as city government is concerned.

Dave Beck, chief of the Western conference, Teamsters and Pacific Coast AFL labor leader, broke off the first large segment of labor support by ordering his Teamsters to immediately because it was punishing "innocent employers, workers and the public." Local Teamster leaders had no immediate comment.

More than 10,000 Machinists employed in industrial plants throughout the manufacturing centers of the city.

Greece Charges Slavs in Case

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(AP)—Greece charged today that "the whole guerrilla movement against Greece is receiving substantial support from the countries adjacent to Greece's northern boundaries, and particularly from Yugoslavia."

In a 35-page document filed with the United Nations Security Council and made public today, the Greek government also linked Albania and Bulgaria directly to the disorders along the frontier and called on the U. N. to order an "on-the-spot" investigation.

The complaint charged specifically that:

1. Groups of men "are being trained and organized in foreign territory and sent into Greece, together with consignments of war material."

2. Armed bands or isolated members of such bands "are crossing the boundary lines in both directions under the protection and guidance of the frontier authorities of the neighboring countries."

3. Greek fugitives from justice and "anarchists are being received and cared for in foreign territory, and are being incited by propaganda to carry on subversive activities in Greece."

Municipal Judge on Side of His Patrons

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Municipal Judge Leonard Kaufman stepped forth today in behalf of the traffic violators he nicks for an average $12.60 daily in fines.

He complained to police that there are so many no-parking bans down town that often patrons of his court have to park in restricted areas to make appearances on time, and return to their cars to find themselves ticketed again. He urged lifting of all restrictions on four blocks of main street near the City Hall.

Concession Is Necessary in French Crisis

PARIS—(AP)—France's week-long governmental crisis was completely locked today with the current position of rival parties making formation of a new government impossible until there is a concession in some quarter.

The National Assembly was set to try again this afternoon to select an interim French Premier, but success was extremely doubtful.

Former Premier Leon Blum's Socialists forced the crisis into an impasse last night by voting 2,242 to 2,145, with 55 abstentions, not to enter any cabinet that excluded communists.

Earlier yesterday Maurice Thorez, the communist candidate for the interim Premiership, had been defeated in the National Assembly.

The only way out of the growing impasse appeared to be:

1. Mutual concessions by communists, socialists and the MRP (Popular Republican Movement) of former Premier President Georges Bidault which would result in electing an MRP Premier.

2. A rescue move by the radical Socialists in persuading 74-year-old Edouard Herriot, like Bidault a former Premier, to serve as a compromise candidate.

Last night's decisions by the socialist National congress was coupled with an agreement to abstain from voting in today's balloting for the interim premiership in the assembly, in which the communists will again present Thorez as a candidate.

The MRP had announced it would present an opposition candidate but would await the socialists' decision with regard to the communists before determining its own policy.

City Manager Garland Franks this morning spiked rumors that the election would be contested by city officials and declared bluntly that the Commission and other officials will accept the vote of the people. He added that a canvass of the votes by the City Commission had been scheduled for today, but postponed due to the absence of Commissioner Ewing Williams.

The Commission meeting was postponed from today until tomorrow when Mr. Williams will be able to be present.

It was estimated by election officials that approximately 40 percent of the voters balloted on affidavits stating that they had forgotten their poll tax receipts, lost them or were voting on exemptions. Each of these persons will have to be rechecked against the records by the city clerk. It will take approximately one week or 10 days for the clerk to make his canvass of the voters to check financial or other qualifications of the ballots.

Election Judge Charles Ward yesterday estimated that approximately 50 ballots were mutilated or so marked that clerks were unable to tell which way the voter was casting his ballot. A final count on this side showed that exactly 37 ballots were uncountable.

Franks said that voting throughout the day was held in an orderly manner as he has ever seen. There were no incidents, disorders or disturbances of any type.

Returns on each of the amendments:

Section 1 of Article 7—Increasing the size of the Commission from three to five men; 737 YES to 704 NO.

Section 2, of Article 7—Setting the terms of office for two years each for both mayor and commissioners; 747 YES and 478 NO.

Section 5, of Article 7—Regulating the election of commissioners from separate wards and describing the ward boundaries; 744 YES to 710 NO.

Section 11 of Article 7—Regulating the replacing of the mayor by the council; 744 YES to 710 NO.

Civic Clubs to Hold Joint Meet

Pampa's four civic clubs, Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and Jaycees will hold their annual joint meeting in the City Hall Palm Room tomorrow at noon.

E. O. Wedgeworth, spokesman for the Lions Club, said this morning that his club would be represented by more of its members than than any other organization, while Jaycee Member Jack Vaughn claims he has never heard of any other organization than the Jaycees.

Wedgeworth also added that when "L. N. Atchison, Steve 'Suds' Matthews, Hugo Olsen and Clarence Kennedy are in charge of the program, there is bound to be trouble."

Irvin Cole, Rotary Club president, said his organization has invited all the others "at their own risk."

Lewis Holds Fast to Production Throttle

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman will address the nation on the coal strike crisis at 8:30 p. m. (CST), Sunday.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today that Mr. Truman will speak for about 20 minutes on the situation growing out of the coal strike, which has brought mounting unemployment and has stymied reconvertng industry.

Ross said the President was giving serious thought to the preparation of the speech and it might run longer than 20 minutes.

What Mr. Truman will say depend on the state of affairs at the time he goes on the air, he added.

Ross declined to speculate on the possibility of a settlement of the strike prior to the broadcast, which will be carried by all major networks.

It will be the President's first talk to the nation since he announced the removal of meat controls in mid-October.

Mr. Truman is expected to appeal to the striking soft coal miners over the head of John L. Lewis to go back to work.

He was said to have withheld his decision to make the speech until Lewis' contempt of court trial was concluded.

End of the trial had brought fresh prodings by Congress members for a radio appeal to the miners, or some other action aimed at getting coal production.

Lewis, continuing his relentless throttle on soft coal production, conferred with his lawyers today on whether the United Mine Workers should answer their $3,500,000 contempt judgment with a "try and get it."

As the conference went forward at UMW headquarters—and the industry-strangling coal strike showed no signs of abating—it became known that President Truman will appeal directly to the miners.

Officials close to the President said he will broadcast his appeal within a few days, possibly Sunday night.

Questions confronting the Lewis legal battery included:

1. Whether to post bond to cover the $3,500,000 fine on the union, and if so how it is to be raised. (The $10,000 fine on Lewis personally will be covered by a bond before 3 p. m. the union lawyers told Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.)

2. Whether to appeal at once to the Circuit Court of Appeals, or adopt delaying tactics. The legal staff left no doubt that an appeal will be taken, but the timing was problematical.

3. The prospect of a new contempt citation, if Lewis continues to ignore Judge Goldsborough's reaffirmed order to call off the strike.

4. The possibility of prosecution under the Smith-Connally act, which makes it a penal offense to incite or encourage strikes against the government.

Sitting in on the union conference was Secretary of the Treasury Thomas Kennedy, former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania on whom will rest the responsibility of raising the bond if Lewis decides to meet it. Kennedy has reported the union's treasury is good for $13,500,000.

Joseph A. Padway, AFL chief counsel who joined Lewis' staff for this momentous legal showdown, said yesterday in court that the union may left the government try.

Local Directors to Attend Band Clinic

Day Robins, Jim Butler and Charles Meech, Pampa schools band directors, will leave this afternoon for Lubbock, where they will attend the annual Band Clinic, presented at Texas Tech College, it was announced this morning.

The clinic, which will be held Friday and Saturday, will be attended by school band directors from the entire Texas Panhandle.

Job Openings Drop to New Low

Local job openings have dropped to a new low in Pampa during the week, according to a survey made yesterday by the U. S. Bureau of State Employment Service manager.

"Demands for unskilled and semi-skilled workers are practically nonexistent at this time," Fort said, following a check of local contractors, business men and merchants. Fort stated that there had been similar periods of short duration during the past year. "Such periods are usually followed by plentiful demands for laborers," he added.

"Job openings that do exist now are for highly skilled workers such as general machinists, auto mechanics and auto body men. There are a few openings for domestic workers, salesmen and typists," Fort said.

"The employer contact activities are being carried out at an accelerated pace," Fort said. "Any employer who needs help is asked to contact the employment office."

Build Your Home for Family Not for Rats

AUSTIN—(A)—State Health Officer George W. Cox advises new home builders in Texas to build for their families only and not for rats.

"When a new home is not rat-proofed, the rats usually move in about the same time your family does. As long as this continues, typhus fever menaces your family and community," Dr. Cox declared.

He has prepared a booklet explaining how rat-proofing may be incorporated simply and cheaply in designing a building. Copies may be obtained from local health departments or by writing the State Health Department, Austin.

From hard-hit Denver where trees were being chopped to keep people warm to Hamilton, Ohio, where a complete fuel-saving blackout darkened the city of 60,000, the nation felt in varying degree the spreading effects of the coal stoppage.

A company of Ohio state guards rode in police cruisers or stood by the Hamilton armory last night for emergency duty as the city kept street lights dark to extend as long as possible its limited coal supply.

Meanwhile, the railroads were slashing service to comply with the government's latest conservation orders. The Pennsylvania Railroad today announced a 50 percent cut in operations, effective Monday but would not estimate the number to be laid off.

Steel companies, first to feel the effects of the coal strike, planned further drastic cuts in operations as a result of the rail embargo, effective at 12:01 a. m. Friday.

Oakland and neighboring communities, were affected by Brown's order.

"If I can get them back to work immediately, I will," said Thomas Mc Manus of Oakland, district business representative of the Machinists.

"This is not to be construed as a withdrawal of our support for the strike in their strike on Keith's and Hastings stores," he added. The general walkout grew out of a protest to police action in conveying non-union trucks through picket lines to the stores.

Beck, in Seattle, conferred by telephone with John F. Hassler, newly appointed city manager of Oakland, and sent Einar Mohn, Teamsters International representative from Los Angeles, into union strategy meetings to urge arbitration.

Reminded that local leaders earlier had rejected arbitration Beck said "I don't give a damn what anybody says. I saw arbitration."

The separate actions by the Machinists and Teamsters came after two days that saw transportation tied up throughout the affected area, some stores closed and housewives raising low on food stocks and gasoline for their automobiles.

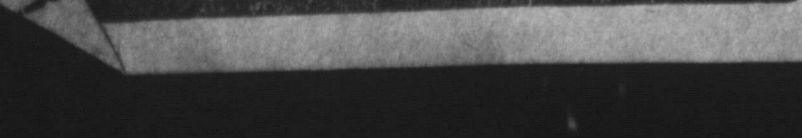

There was little or no violence, as both parties to the conflict counsel against outbreaks.

The presidents of all the clubs which comprise the City Council, and the presidents of the men's service clubs of Pampa will be guests at a tea Sunday, when the name of the "First Lady of the Year," will be announced by a special committee composed of Pampa citizens.

This is an annual event sponsored by the local chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

This title is bestowed upon the lady who in the opinion of the committee is the outstanding woman in Pampa. She will receive the certificate of recognition, awarded by the international organization through the local chapter.

The committee has canvassed the possibilities for the honor from all fields of endeavor, including cultural and civic work, home-making, business and other community activities.

Mrs. W. R. Campbell was selected as "First Lady of 1945". She is quite active in every field.

Women in all types of community activity have become so increasingly important in affairs, that the international organization of Beta Sigma Phi believes these awards should be made on a basis of local merit, determined by an unbiased committee of outstanding citizens. Members of the local unit are not eligible.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

If you want to be a good Santa to your little date-dream, this Christmas. Clothes are not appropriate for boys to give girls; accessories are permissible and jewelry is considered suitable if you "go steady." Choose a rather impersonal gift and you can't go wrong; she'll be starry-eyed because it came from you. These will be within reach of your allowance:

Books: Famous classics that everybody should read and likes to own (your teacher will give you a list of them).

Accessories: Bifocals in a gay color preferably with a "window" inside for snapshots. Miniature Metal compact, perhaps heart-shaped. Comb and arette lighter to slip into her purse. Fragrant bath set including matched cologne, bath powder, etc. Lipstick in an unusual case, some are studded with rhinestones; some are crystal-clear lucite; another looks like costly jade.

Perfume: Light flower scents, not a heavy fragrance. Be sure it's made by a well-known company, a name she knows.

Jewelry: A charm that "means something to you both" for her bracelet or ring. A name ring with her first name engraved on the top; yours on the under side if she's your special date.

Records: Favorite bands. An album or holder for records.

Records of hair or neck-size leather folder for snapshots.

Gifts to wear: Gay kerchief (square wool scarf), fluffy white or pastel angora mitt white wool arjete socks.

Betty Hutton To Sing at Premiere

"The Hard Way," from the moving picture "Duffy's Tavern," will be sung by Betty Hutton (above), one of the stars of the ESA sorority premiere here Dec. 12 at the La-Nora theatre.

Miss Hutton, portrayed by a talented Pampa artist, is one of several "big names" slated to appear in the premiere. Others include Joan Crawford, Dick Foran, Alexis Smith, James Craig and Don Wilson, famed radio artist.
 The show, which will be broadcast over Radio Station KPDM, will be "emceed" by Cecil Hunter, Amarillo, well-known in the Southwest for his characterization, "Stutterin' Sam."
 Prior to the premiere, scheduled to begin at 8:30, the "stars" will arrive at the theatre in shiny, new automobiles, with searchlights playing in the sky, similar to big Hollywood show.
 Besides the stage numbers and audience participation, a moving picture, "Singing While You Dance," will be shown.
 Tickets for the event are on sale at Creney, Wilson and Harvester drug stores and by members of the sorority. Over half the seating capacity of the theatre has already been sold.

 contract with the government.
 He issued the order—a hold-everything order—until he had a chance to decide whether Lewis had a right to end his contract.
 But this restraining order was a short-term thing. But yesterday, after finding Lewis and the union for contempt of court for disobeying that order, the judge issued a temporary injunction against ending the contract.
 This took the place of the restraining order. It is in effect now. It has no time limit. It holds good until the judge decides, maybe months from now, whether Lewis has a right to end his contract.
 The temporary injunction tells Lewis and the union exactly what the restraining order did: Not to end their contract.

The UMW risks a $250,000 additional fine every day that the strike continues in defiance of a temporary injunction which Goldsborough issued yesterday.

Lewis also is risking a jail term which he escaped yesterday. Goldsborough said he thought a prison sentence would be proper for Lewis, but bowed to the government recommendation for a fine instead.

VOTE IS NOT DECISIVE, COMMISSIONERS NOT ISSUE

Now that the "shouting" is over and the votes have been counted in the city election, we think a few remarks on the subject of the results and the objectives are appropriate.

From indications, it seems to us that the voters, in casting a simple majority of ballots in favor of a change in the form of city government, were doing no more than what the population on a national scale did in the general congressional elections a few weeks ago.

However, while on the national scene they voted for a change in their leadership, the people of Pampa voted for a change in the form of government. Perhaps, we think, both elections reflected the dissension and dissatisfaction running through the citizens' thought.

It does not seem that personalities were the issue in the local election. We think the people were wise in not making it a matter of personalities, because our municipal government has been operated on a relatively economical basis.

For that reason, we think those present commissioners who will be eligible should run for reelection in the balloting that must follow within the next few weeks.

As for the voice of the people, we do not think the vote was too expressive of that. Certainly the vote was so close (according to first and unofficial reports: 737 For, 704 Against) that it can't be taken as a criterion. In other words, it is certainly not an irrevocable mandate from the people.

FOREIGN POLICY PIGEONHOLES

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There are four ways in which a nation can throw its weight around and make its influence felt in world affairs, according to Dr. Harold D. Lasswell of Yale.

Dr. Lasswell was one of the first students of World War I propaganda. In World War II, he was director of communications research. More recently, he made a survey of U. S. information and cultural relations in the Middle East for the State Department. He speaks as an authority.

Collings Lifted From Soup (Headline)

AMERICA'S housewives, who do approximately 75 percent of the purchasing that underpins the nation's economy, have already anticipated the time they will have to spend in the aisles of the nation's stores.

LOOKING AHEAD

There has been a definite tightening of the nation's economy since the first postwar rush to a comparative market. People are buying carefully and "choosing" instead of hoarding, now that they figure they can bank on a continuous supply of commodities.

HOW ABOUT AMERICA?

Confusion, today, is not confined to Europe. In America we have been having a lot of confusion, and we are purposely trying to keep it that way. Labor finds it difficult to live on current income. Labor's need is wages, and I cannot believe that labor as a whole would consent to wage stagnation and light production.

PROPAGANDA IS RUSSIA'S FORTE

But what Russia lacks in force and economics, she will make up for in her use of symbols—her propaganda. Her international information program, her concerted effort to spread the doctrines of communism throughout the world, it is probably no exaggeration to say that Russia has come closer to "dominating the world" by her propaganda than did either Great Britain or Japan, the two great powers of modern times that relied on their reputations, trade backed by armed might. At its peak, neither caused the concern that Soviet Russia has caused by the injection of her ideas of communism into the political blood-stream of the countries of the world.

THOUGHTS

And Joshua said, Herab ye shall be as a nation, and ye shall be a nation. Not God in Gardens when the eye is cool? Nay, but I have a sign: 'Tis very sure God walks in mine. —Thomas Edward Brown.

NATIONAL AIRLIGIC

WASHINGTON BY RAY TUCKER TURNED—Government economists report jubilantly that the economic world has turned. Their primary survey of concern and conviction them that the next few months will witness the return of a buyers' market after five years in which the bargaining advantage has rested with salespeople on the other side of the counter.

The experts also believe that the pendulum will swing in favor of consumers with respect to heavy articles—automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, radios, all electrical appliances and household furniture—by late spring of 1947, barring a serious wave of strikes in these industries.

DISCREET—The nation's purchasers have strengthened their market position by their discreet handling of their funds. They have not gone on the postwar spending binge that had been anticipated and feared by the non-minded prophets at Washington.

ECONOMY—Army-Navy bigwigs are shivering in their uniforms over the prospect that two Republicans with a strong economy complex will preside over the House Appropriations subcommittee that does out funds for their respective services.

College Football Attendance Is Up Nearly 50 Percent Over 1945 Total

NEW YORK—(AP)—College football attendance spiraled toward a new high in 1946 with a survey of 27 leading colleges reporting a 48.4 percent increase over last year, topped by Michigan's 514,579 count at its Ann Arbor stadium.

On this basis of the Wolverines' reported gross of $1,121,000, big time football drew well over $22,000,000 at the box office with at least 23 bowl games still to be added.

Crowding Michigan for top honors was the University of Pennsylvania which attracted 502,000 for seven games at Franklin Field in Philadelphia. They were the only colleges to better the half million mark.

Next in line among the first 10 in home drawing power were UCLA, 429,423; Ohio State, 371,017; California, 367,000; Yale, 357,000; Minnesota, 326,912; Tulane, 298,430; Southern California, 297,119; and Northwestern 289,000.

Grid interest showed the sharpest spurt in the South where a 58 percent increase was noted in a survey of 26 schools drawing 2,926,032. Tulane, Louisiana State, Miami and

Assault Selected As Horse of Year

NEW YORK—(AP)—In a poll that popped up with the first unanimous vote in the history of the balloting, Assault today was named king of the three-year olds and "horse of the year" for 1946 by the sports writers of the nation.

The Clubfoot Comet from the wide open spaces, triple-crown champion of the Derby, Preakness and Belmont and first horse in history to win more than $400,000 in one season of galloping, was the unanimous choice of three-year old boys among the 174 writers voting in the 11th annual poll of the Turf and Sports Digest magazine.

Then, having spread-eagled his own field so completely, the chocolate champ from Texas went on to take the horse-of-the-year honors by a 3 to 1 margin over Warren Wright's Armed—110 votes to 37.

Local Boy Wins Scholastic Honor

CANYON—Initiated into Alpha Chi, scholastic fraternity at West Texas State, Jack Andrews of Pampa last week was recognized as an outstanding student of the college.

With eight other students, he became a member of the honorary society which recognizes scholastic attainment by receiving into its membership the upper 10 percent of the Junior and Senior classes.

Andrews is a Senior member and was elected vice-president.

According to judicial opinions the term "sea" refers to a body of salt or brackish water, less than an ocean.

Conference basketball and football schedules for the six District 1-AA schools were mapped out at a meeting in Plainview yesterday, attended by coaches and other school officials.

The conference cage schedule, which opens January 17, will include 10 conference games for each school, the group having voted to discontinue the practice of dividing the district into two halves.

On the grid front, Pampa lost its Thanksgiving Day date with the Amarillo Squires here and will play Borger on Turkey Day. Instead, Amarillo, however, plays here on November 15.

The Thanksgiving Day card includes the Pampa-Borger battle at Pampa and the Amarillo-Plainview mixup at Plainview. Lubbock, by agreement with Texas Tech, will not play a Thanksgiving game this year.

Coach Otis Coffey of the Harvesters said today the 1947 Harvesters football schedule would probably include Electric, Sweetwater, North Side of Fort Worth, Vernon and Childress. Contracts have already been signed with Sweetwater, and North Side.

Children will replace Norman Oda, which is being dropped from the schedule in a move to keep the schedule exclusively Class AA.

The 1947 conference football schedule:

- Oct. 11—Lubbock at Borger.
- Oct. 21—Amarillo at Brownfield.
- PAMPA AT PLAINVIEW.
- Oct. 31—Plainview at Borger; BROWNFIELD AT PAMPA.
- Nov. 7—Lubbock at Amarillo.
- Nov. 7—Plainview at Brownfield.
- Nov. 8—PAMPA AT LUBBOCK.
- Borger at Amarillo.
- Nov. 14—Borger at Brownfield.
- Nov. 15—Lubbock at Plainview; AMARILLO AT PAMPA.
- Nov. 27—Amarillo at Plainview; PAMP AT BORGER.
- Nov. 29—Brownfield at Lubbock.
- The district cage schedule:
- Jan. 17—PAMPA AT BORGER; Lubbock at Amarillo; Plainview at Brownfield.
- Jan. 18—Brownfield at Amarillo; LUBBOCK AT PAMPA.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK—(AP)—Ever hear of a "T" formation in basketball? . . . Well, Loren Ellis, ingenious Valparaiso U. coach, plans to spring one on the Garden court fans against Long Island tonight and while he says he didn't borrow the formation from football, the two are comparable. . . . Ellis' diagrams show a one-man "line" up under the basket, a quarterback in the free-throw circle and two halves and a full just outside. . . . He doesn't explain how they assume those fixed positions when most basketball systems seem to be grab-the-ball-and-run-like-heck.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE Marcel Cerdan, the French middleweight, claims a record of some sort for the delayed collection of a fight purse. In 1942 Marcel fought Jose Ferrer of Spain in Paris by German demand. After stiffening Ferrer in 52 seconds, Cerdan didn't stop moving until he reached Casablanca, where he learned that European title had just been taken away from him. Three years later he returned and collected the million franc purse from the French promoter, who, Cerdan manager explains, was glad to pay because he was in enough trouble already.

Graham Grid Coach Resigns Position

WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—Football Coach Otha Tiner of Graham has announced his resignation so that he might go into business with his father-in-law in Fort Worth.

Tiner, whose team gained statewide recognition this year, said there was no connection between his resignation and the defeat of the Steers at the hands of Wichita Falls in the last and title-deciding game of the season. He said he had been considering resigning for some time, but had postponed making an announcement until the end of the football season.

Heiskells Score 34-26 Win Over White Deer Five

Three Pampa independent basketball teams opened their season last night, the Heiskells scoring a 34-26 victory over White Deer in the opener, with Pampa Bus defeating the Modern Five, 42-9, in the nightcap.

Bob Andis, ex-Harvester cage star, racked up 14 points to take high-point honors for the Heiskells, while Guy Hester and Lawrence Hester were high for White Deer with eight points each.

The Pampa Bus quitted had too much reserve strength for an inexperienced Modern team. Junior Davenport took high-scoring laurels with 16 points.

Bramham Blasts Out at Gambling In Minor Leons

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Major league baseball executives swung into session today as minor circles still buzzed over outgoing President W. G. Bramham's parting blast at gambling in the national pastime.

Both American and National league representatives opened confabs expected to cover such matters as 1947 playing schedules, possible action to curb player raids by the Mexican league, a players' pension plan, and the major-minor league agreement.

The smaller leagues grouped in the National Baseball Association prepared to elect a successor to Bramham, whose final report yesterday struck savagely at "the general decadence in baseball."

George Trautman, vice president of the Detroit Tigers and former American Association head, reportedly held the inside track for the minor league post, but support was seen growing for President Billy Evans of the Southern Association.

Bramham, whose retirement after 16 years was officially voted by 42 minor league leaders, was named life time consultant to the incoming president at $10,000 yearly salary.

Bramham, Durham, N. C. former judge, leveled charges that:

For the first time since the so-called Black Sox scandal, there has been strong circumstantial evidence this past season of players throwing games, betting against their own clubs (and) being in collusion with gamblers and bookmakers.

Investigators hired by disturbed club owners, Bramham declared, reported gamblers were so thick in some parks they broke aisles and "cried out their odds like auctioneers." Despite preventive measures, the situation has grown worse, he said.

Bramham's suggested remedy: "Enlist the efforts of all lovers of the game, in and outside its ranks, to aid us."

He will be enlisted in the Navy and enrolled in the school. Upon completion of the course they will be assigned to one of the Navy bands.

personal responsibility of trying Nazis. On the other hand, American military government is reluctant to invest the money, men and time to do the job itself.
(Here's the present status of the bogged down post-war anti-Nazi campaign: Last spring the American military government turned over to the German provisional government the task of trying and sentencing Nazi suspects.
Last month Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy U. S. military governor, angrily accused the German courts of "whitewashing" Nazi defendants on a large scale. He threatened that "if the German people are unwilling to do the job, the military government can and will do it."
Well, let's see what the Germans did to punish their guilty after the last war. In 1919 German representatives solemnly signed an agreement to turn over 900 of their war criminals to the victorious Allies.
But in 1920, after a storm of German protests, the victors agreed to permit the German supreme court at Leipzig to try the 900.
Of these suspects this high court subsequently refused to try 888. Of the dozen tried, only six were condemned. And of these six, said Emil Ludwig in 1943 in his book "How to Treat the Germans," three escaped prison within a few days and the last three "were confined to prison for some weeks."
Before criticizing the German judges themselves too strongly, consider their human predicament. There are more than 16,500,000 Germans in the American zone. Some 104,000 have been accused under the denazification laws, another 250,000 will be charged and the status of 5,000,000 more is still in doubt. These are official American military government figures as of a month ago.

That means one out of every three Germans in the American zone still doesn't know eighteen months after the war whether he will have to go before a German court. This court can acquit him completely, turn him loose with a stigma that will permit him to work only at common labor, or convict him and send him to prison.
Assume that the judges are all ardent anti-Nazis—and they are certainly aren't. But in any case they are all Germans. They know this hatred will build up and cost them their political future when the Americans pull out—if they do pull out.
Many observers in Germany believe, however, that if the country is to have a real housecleaning of Nazi remnants the Allies will have to do it themselves, perhaps on the pattern set at Nuremberg. At present we are netting many minnows, while some bigger fish are swimming away.

Special Opinion Offered for School
AUSTIN—(AP)—The term "recreational facilities" cannot be construed to mean rent or apartment houses for teachers, the attorney general has held in an opinion.
County Attorney W. O. Shafer of Odessa in asking the opinion pointed out that if the term were broad enough to include such housing, it would be most economical to independent school districts.
An act of the 49th legislature provided independent school districts with the power to build or purchase buildings and grounds for the "purpose of construction gymnasiums, stadia, or other recreational facilities."
"It is obvious that teachers' homes are in no way related to structures or improvements used for athletic purposes, such as gymnasiums or stadia," the opinion declared.

Well, I see that a medical professor says it's easy to tell if you're smitten by a real love or just a mild case of the roving eye. Just ask yourself a series of questions and if you can answer "yes" to all of them, then Cupid has set up housekeeping in your heart.

If he troubles with the professor's list of questions is that they're too general. Like "do you enjoy being with the object of your affection?" Anybody can say "yes" to that without a qualm, but suppose you break it down and try to answer such a question as "would you enjoy being with the object of your affection in a quiet hut that leaks?"

My own opinion is, if you think you're in love you'd better not ask yourself any questions at all. When you put romance in the witness box, matrimony is likely to get overruled.

Don't Neglect A Bronchial Cough Due To A Cold

When your cold brings on a nasty, troublesome bronchial cough, spend 45 cents at any drug store for a bottle of BUCKLEY'S CANADIOL MIXTURE—triple acting—to relieve, coughing fast. Take a teaspoonful and hold it on the tongue a moment, then swallow slowly and feel its powerful, persistent action spread through the throat, head and bronchial tubes. BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE acts promptly to help loosen up thick, sticky phlegm—soothe irritated throat membranes, and ease hard coughing spells.

Most all Canada knows BUCKLEY'S—folks who live up North where a cough mixture has got to do a real job, keep BUCKLEY'S handy. So try it the very next time a cold results in a wrenching, stubborn cough—find out for yourself just how good it is for coughs due to cold.

ARTHUR CONDON himself brought her the news, just before quitting time.

"They're coming home tonight," he said, his face beaming. "I just had a wire. What about having dinner out at the house with me, so you'll be there, too, when they arrive?"

Elise caught desperately at the first filmy excuse that came to her mind. "I'd have to go home first—and dress. I'm always dirty when I leave the lab."

He smiled indulgently. "If you want to go home first, all right. I'll drive you over and wait while you change."

That wasn't what Elise wanted—she wanted to put off indefinitely the moment of facing Russel.

But she saw from the older man's face that he was counting on her to help make it an occasion—his homecoming.

"All right," she said meekly. Preoccupied with her crowding thoughts, Elise was hardly aware of what she put on—a white jersey dress, the first thing her hands fell on in the clothes closet, old but the off shade of its white gave her skin a misty luminous look, and the soft material clung tenderly to her young body.

She snapped the broad gold belt into place, put on lipstick, picked up a bag, gloves and coat and ran down to the car where Mr. Condon waited.

She had very little to say, but Arthur Condon did not notice her silence. He, himself, was filled with a talkative eagerness.

Cocktails were served in the library before dinner and they were just finishing them when the door bell rang and the butler went through the hall to answer it. Almost immediately they heard Janice's high sweet voice and following a rush of footsteps she came bounding into the room.

he would wait until they were alone.

Strange though that his eyes smiling into hers carried no hint of their secret understanding or that the hand holding hers gave no extra pressure.

THERE was yet another surprise in store. At the table, later, Russel abruptly switched the conversation.

"I've been doing a lot of thinking, Dad. You know that new enamel we're making. I've got some new ideas about it—I think I can improve the formula. I want to talk to you about it."

Arthur Condon could hardly believe his ears. This was what he had been hoping for so long. To have Russel show a real interest in the factory and the work there.

"Certainly. Certainly," he said heartily. "We'll talk about it in the morning."

Elise looked and listened, her puzzled wonder growing.

Russel, of course, was the one who drove her home. And yet even after they were alone, he said nothing for awhile. And it was a strange silence. Almost as if he had his mind on something else besides the girl at his side.

"Are you all right, Russel? I mean—sometimes injuries show up later after an accident."

She put the question more to cover up her own nervousness than because of any real anxiety about him. He certainly looked all right. The lines of strain were gone from his face and he had a healthy tan from mountain sun and wind.

"Sure, I'm all right," he said instantly. "All that happened to me was just a bad shaking up."

He paused a moment and then abruptly: "There's one thing I want you to know—that accident certainly knocked a lot of foolishness out of me . . ."

She stared at him, not knowing how to take his words. Was he trying to tell her that he had changed his mind—his feeling about her? That her letter saying she would marry him had come too late?

His next words surprised her even more.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

The saga of Johnny Brothers (part one):

Johnny W. Brothers of Panhandle, Texas, had been a corporal for over a year and decided he'd like to be a sergeant for a change.

In an article rivaling Private Hagrove's best, Brothers tells, in the Panhandle Herald, how he figured out a way to win friends and influence promotions: build a shower for his headquarters personnel.

His outfit was in Tunisia, and the men were bathing out of their helmets.

Well, he built the shower. It was a major project, taking over a month. He had to erect a building, a lower, a rock-lined floor, find and fix a barrel and spray. All on his own time.

"Everything went fine," he says. "The men could bath very easily now. That thing saved many man hours. The colonel himself was using it, and I knew that I would be recognized."

Then Major General Lewis H. Breton, the Ninth Air Force commander, visited the post unexpectedly—and decided to take a bath.

"I saw he and the colonel going to the shower with their towels. Oh, boy, the commanding general was to bathe in my shower. This will do it, I said. I was glowing all over."

But suddenly the colonel appeared.

"Corporal Brothers (the colonel had three ways of saying Corporal Brothers: One was to look up, one was to stand up, and one when he wanted my undivided attention.) The way he said it, this time was definitely the latter type. So I jumped to my feet and froze."

"Why is there no water in the shower?" he said very loudly. I had forgotten to fill the barrel at noon, as I usually did.

"The commanding general would like to have a bath, and he is the type that we do not like to keep waiting," the colonel said. He said moreover that if I wanted to keep my corporal's stripes, I would not forget to fill it again."

He didn't get his sergeant's stripes. He was lucky to keep what he had.

(Did he ever win a promotion? What did he do next? And did peace give him a run-around, too? See tomorrow's exciting episode.)

RUSSEL was saying earnestly, "I hadn't realized before . . . until I got to thinking down there . . . how much Dad had counted on me to carry on with the factory and his plans. Suddenly I saw how selfish I had been. Thinking of nothing but my own personal desires ever since I came home. I'm going to make it up to him, Elise."

It was incredible to Elise that this was all he had to say to her now that they were alone. She tried to adjust herself—to accept the strange situation.

Rather faintly she managed to say, "I'm sure you will, Russel." It just didn't make sense. Not one word—not the first reference had he made to the letter she had written him. She sat perplexed and silent until they reached her house.

He went to the door with her and bade her good night. A friendly, casual good night. And with a final breezy, "Well, I'll be seeing you around the lab, Elise," he took his departure.

Elise had been too keyed up all evening to think clearly; but once she was alone in her room she began to see almost immediately how things were. It was obvious that for some reason or other Russel hadn't received her letter. She thought back carefully. She was sure she had addressed the letter properly to the Colonial Hotel where Janice had said the boys were staying. And she began to understand what must have happened. They had left the hotel before her letter arrived. It was the only logical explanation.

Strange, though, that it hadn't been forwarded to Russel in Colorado Springs. He had been there two weeks waiting for Red to mend so they could return home. If her supposition was correct, her letter was still floating around somewhere in the mail and it

J. L. Spencer Joins High School Faculty

J. L. Spencer, former Danziger Refinery payroll clerk, has been employed as mathematics and commercial arithmetic instructor at the High School, Knox Kinard, superintendent of city schools, has announced.

Spencer, who is to fill the recent vacancy made by the resignation of Miss Odessa Howell, employed by the Danziger Refinery two years. Prior to that time he was principal and coach of the High School at Miami.

happening since he went away." They were both so ill-at-ease, holding so much back that the conversation between them was jerky, filled with uncomfortable gaps of silence. During one of these, Red motioned to the piano between the windows and asked her politely if she played.

"I used to play quite well," Elise admitted, "but I'm terribly out of practice."

"Would you play something for me?" he asked unexpectedly.

Elise was surprised. She hadn't thought that music would be among the things he appreciated. Perhaps he was only asking her to play to avoid the necessity of having to talk to her. Stiffly she walked over to the piano and sat down.

For a moment her fingers lingered uncertainly over the keys. She played a couple of simple short selections. And then she challenged fate and let her emotions take over. Deliberately she began to play the haunting, yearning "Clair de Lune" of Debussy.

She put her heart into it and she dared not look at him. If she had she would have surprised an intent, strained look upon his face. "I'll have to remember this all my life," he was thinking desperately.

Remember it all his life, for it was all he would ever have of Elise Varney, this poignant memory of sad heart-breaking music and the tall lovely profile of a girl he loved silhouetted against the somber drapes of the dim room.

"Thank you—thank you very much," he said when she had finished. And then abruptly, "I'd better be going now."

"When are you coming back to the lab?" she asked impulsively.

"Some day next week—I expect. As soon as I get the kinks worked out of this leg."

He didn't tell her that he was just coming around to pick up his belongings and get out for good. She stood watching him as he went down the walk and along the sidewalk and out of sight. It wasn't until she turned around to go upstairs that she saw the letter lying on the hall table. The letter addressed in her own handwriting.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
