British, U.S. Zones In Germany Merged

NEW YORK—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes, jointly announcing with Foreign Minister Bevin a British-American economic merger in Germany, declared today that he would ask the big four foreign ministers to discuss peace plans for Austria as well as Germany before ending their New York sessions.

Byrnes and Bevin said in a statement that the zone economic merger would become effective Jan. 1, that it should make 40,000,000 Germans self-sufficient in three years and that they hoped it would lead to discussions with Russia and France for the economic unification of all Germany.

Isolation of Spain Might Bring Strife

TAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(AP)—The United States declared today that adoption of Polish and White Russian measures to isolate Franco Spain would lead to a bloody civil strife which might eventually involve other nations in a new war.

Sen. Tom Connally (D-Texas), setting forth views of the United States before the 54-member political committee of the United Nations assembly, declared the approval of either proposal would produce no positive results beyond cutting the Spanish people off from the rest of the world.

On the negative side, he said, they might well "lead to civil strife with serious international complications."

He referred to Poland's resolution calling for a worldwide diplomatic break with the Franco government and the White Russian proposal asking for economic sanctions.

Connally joined the Spanish debate after a list of small countries had spoken for and against the various measures now before the committee, including a United States resolution introduced late yesterday proposing that the assembly ask Generalissimo Francisco Franco to step down as leader of the Spanish government.

The committee decided to defer debate on the arms limitation question until its afternoon session, when Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov was expected to give his views on an American proposal.

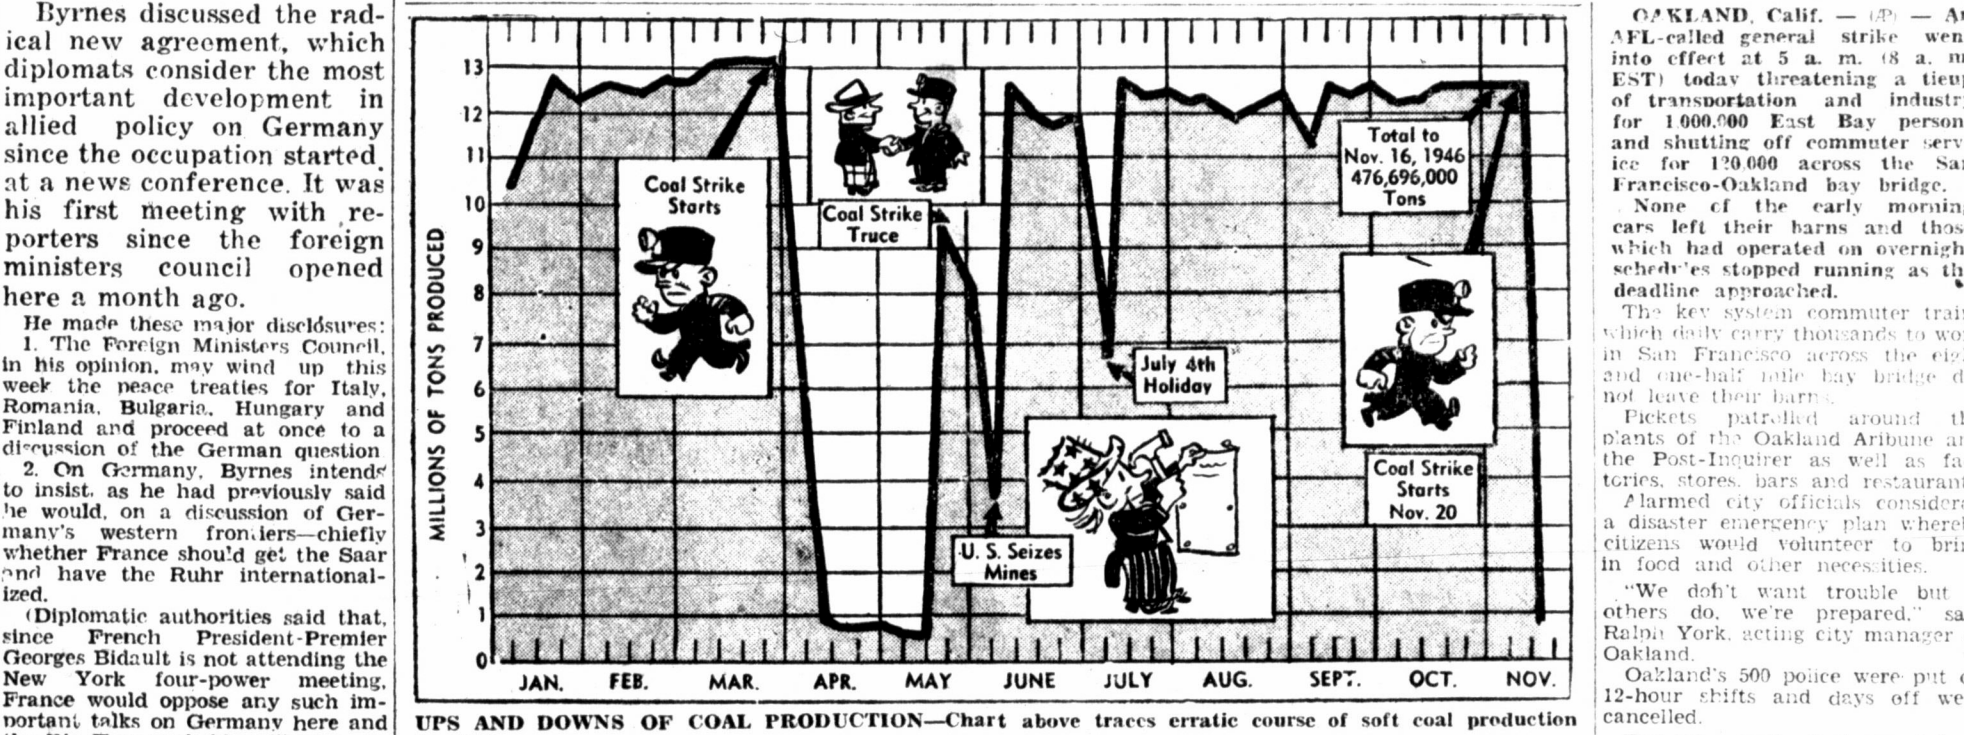

Vishinsky told the committee yesterday that a delegation was not prepared to discuss the U. S. proposal at that time. Whether he would be in a position to appear before the committee today was doubtful.

It was understood the Soviet delegation had asked Moscow for instructions. See U. N. MEETING, Page 5

UPS AND DOWNS OF COAL PRODUCTION—Chart above traces erratic course of soft coal production in 1946.

Young Musicians Display Desire To Please Group

By SCOTT RAFFERTY
Eyed meant a finished group of musicians, but displaying an intense desire to succeed, the 90-piece West Texas Philharmonic orchestra gave its first concert of the year last night and received an enthusiastic round of applause from an audience that filled the lower floor of the Junior High Auditorium.

Made up almost entirely of Junior High and High School student musicians from several Panhandle cities and towns, the orchestra played a program of popular classics best-suited to the young talent.

Samuel Lewis Chamberlain, conductor, turned his baton over to two guest conductors and to his associate during the evening, and the musicians performed equally well for all four, considering the difficulty of rehearsing musicians who live in widely-separated points.

Highlighting the concert was the appearance of Robert Barron, popular conductor of the Amarillo symphony, and a fine violinist in his own right.

Mr. Barron, ably accompanied by Russell Curtis at the piano, played the "Andante" from the "Spanish Symphony" by Lalo; "Hejre Kati" by Hubay; "Canzonetta" by D'Ambrósio, and "Melodie" by Charles Davies, former vice president of the United States.

A large group of small children in the front rows somewhat spoiled Mr. Barron's appearance by their unwillingness to remain quiet, especially on the selection "Canzonetta," which was played on a muted violin.

The concert opened with the first movement of the Fifth Symphony of Beethoven, using the well-known V-for Victory theme. This was followed by the first movement of Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto in B Minor. Both were conducted by Mr. Chamberlain.

Senators Ignore Plea By Releasing Report

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Republican decision to make public a staff investigator's "confidential" report on conditions in the American occupation zone of Germany widened an already gaping party-line split in the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Chairman Kilgore (D-W.Va.) criticized the decision by the four GOP committee members—Brewster (R-Me.), Ball (R-Minn.), Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Knowland (R-Calif.). He declared it is not a committee report, but one by a committee employee, and is based in part on "hearsay."

In addition, Kilgore read reporters a letter from Secretary Patterson expressing the war department's opposition to release of the report.

Despite the uproar, Kilgore told reporters he has not the slightest intention of resigning the chairmanship of the committee. Kilgore is due to be displaced by Senator Brewster, however, when Republicans take over majority control of the Senate next month.

The report in question was made by committee counsel George Meader after a trip to Germany. Published accounts have declared the report contains charges of widespread misconduct by occupation troops, by Negro soldiers and German women; of very high venereal disease rates; or low quality replacement troops; of an influx of large numbers of Jewish refugees into the American zone; and of the refusal of many thousands of displaced persons to be repatriated from the American zone, where their care is being paid for by United States taxpayers.

Plans for hearings in Europe by a subcommittee were well advanced before the open appearance of opposition from the war and state departments, which resulted in cancellation of the inquiry.

When the matter finally came down to a committee vote last week, the excursion was rejected 6 to 4. The Democratic majority voted solidly against it. The state and war departments had made it known they considered the investigation ill-advised at this time in view of the peace negotiations under way in New York.

Sentence Will Be Heard Tomorrow

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers were held "guilty of contempt of court" today for disregarding an order designed to avert the industry-shattering soft coal strike.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who handed down the historic verdict after five days of court proceedings, deferred sentence until tomorrow.

The penalties in fines or jail sentence are within the discretion of the court. The law sets no maxima or minima in contempt cases.

Opposing attorneys were directed by Judge Goldsborough to submit their recommendations tomorrow at 10 a. m. (CST.)

The overnight adjournment was announced after Lewis, making his first public utterance since before the 33-day strike, had spoken out against "this ugly re-education of government by intimidation."

He referred to the court's decision as "a gross violation of the constitution," his protest terminating a hearing which led to the strike.

Lewis declared the order deprives the miners of their constitutional rights as American citizens. Pointing to the fact that Goldsborough directed that Lewis be free of bond in custody of his counsel, Lewis protested indignantly.

The court did not order for contempt of Lewis, but only for contempt of the court's order. Goldsborough emphasized that Lewis was guilty both individually and as president of UMW, and that UMW is "guilty by proxy."

Then he said quietly that having found Lewis guilty of contempt, he considered the question of sentence "of course very important."

"The court will be somewhat unusual, but certainly not improper," he said, "the court would like to have the views of counsel for the defendants and counsel for the government as to what these sentences should be."

Neither the government nor defense lawyers would discuss with reporters the question of penalties.

When Lewis was asked for comment, he merely shook his head slightly and turned away.

After the judge pronounced his verdict, Lewis asked for and was granted permission to make a statement.

National AAU To Hold Meeting in Santone Friday

SAN ANTONIO—(P)—Nearly 300 delegates representing 38 states and the territory of Hawaii will be here next weekend for the fifty-eighth annual meeting of the amateur athletic union with some very "hot potatoes" scheduled to be dumped into the laps of the various committees. Fireworks are certain to evolve around 69 proposed revisions to the AAU constitution, one amendment advocating that athletes who have received pay for coaching or officiating be permanently disbanded. Then there are three proposals on the list prepared by Fred L. Steers of Chicago, chairman of the legislative committee, which deal with the denial of AAU membership to subversive groups or clubs. Making permanent the war-born rule which permits swimmers to compete as amateurs 60 days after having drawn their last check as a life guard and amendments which would bring U. S. swimming and diving more in line with international competition also are on the agenda.

Of interest to sprinters in track is an amendment that would track indoor races to the old style of penalizing false starts which called for a one-foot set-back for the first break, two for the second and disqualification for the third. Under today's rules a sprinter is allowed two breaks without penalty, then is disqualified.

Limiting officers to two successive one-year terms also is proposed. A number of track and field performances will be submitted for approval as world records, including the 180 feet 2 3/4 inches Bob Fitch of Minnesota tossed the discus and a 22.5 time in the 220-yard low hurdles by Harrison Dillar of Baldwin Wallace.

The convention proper does not open until Friday morning, Thursday some 125 of the delegates will go by bus on a sightseeing trip to Mexico. Delegates will be formally welcomed to San Antonio at a luncheon by Mayor Gus B. Mauerman Thursday. General Jonathan Wainwright, the hero of Bataan, will give the principal address at a luncheon Friday opening the convention. Willard N. Greim of Denver, serving his third year, is president of the National AAU.

This will be the second time the AAU has held its convention in Texas. The first time was at Houston in 1936.

Cage Star Will Leave Houston

HOUSTON—(P)—Guy Lewis, who won 210 points last season to set a new scoring record for the Lone Star Conference, has announced he is withdrawing from the University of Houston to accept an oil and gas concern agency at Troup, Texas.

Lewis' announcement came only a few minutes before the defending Lone Star champions, the University of Houston Cougars, opened their 1946-47 basketball season against the Houston YMCA.

The Cougars led the Triangles, a team composed largely of former Southwest Conference stars during most of the first half but fell behind in the final periods to lose, 56-46.

Bill Henderson, former Texas A. & M. star, was high scorer for the winners, with 15 points, followed by Bill Henry, formerly of Rice, with 13. Louis Brown led the Cougars with 12.

Army's Narrow Escape With Navy Is Determining Factor

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK—(P)—In a final voting spree for the campaign, the nation's sports writers today knocked Army's Cadets off their throne as kings of the gridiron for the first time in three seasons, and named the Irish of Notre Dame as the "football team of the year" for 1946.

Reversing their field as a result of Army's close call against Navy's fire-eating Middles last Saturday, while the Irish were wrecking Southern California, the sports writers deposed the reigning Cadets by the slim margin of 71 points in the largest vote ever cast in the Associated Press' weekly poll.

Actually, however, it wasn't quite that close. If the 184 scribes balloting for their selections for the top ten teams, as of the end of the season last Saturday, an even 100 voted for Notre Dame to head the parade, as against 48 for Army. Nine others, unable to decide, split the vote and called it a tie between the two outfits which battled to a scoreless draw three weeks ago—the only blot on Army's otherwise all-conquering three-year run.

Of the other first place nominations, 23 went to unbeaten, untied Georgia, in third place in the final voting for the year; two went to the all-winning Bruins of California at Los Angeles, who held fourth place, and one each to up-and-down Texas and one each to Delaware. Delaware like Army, had been unbeaten in three years. Neither Texas nor Delaware made the first ten in the final ratings.

Only once before in their tremendous three-year romp have the Black Knights of West Point been out of first place. That came the first week of this season, when Texas temporarily ousted them for a brief one-week period. In the final voting of the country the first time in history any one outfit has been at the head of the class in both departments.

This time, however, the Irish got back on a peacetime basis to bowl over all their opponents except the Cadets and roll up the best offensive and defensive records of any team in the country—the first time in history any one outfit has been at the head of the class in both departments.

The outpouring of votes that resulted—counted on the usual basis of ten points for a first-place selection, nine for a second, eight for a third and so forth—gave the battering South Benders a total of 1,730 points as against 1,659 for Army. Georgia's Bulldogs rolled up 1,448 and UCLA, 1,141. Texas led the first year four teams had gone over the 1,000-mark.

Both Army and Notre Dame voted not worse than fourth on 172 of the 184 ballots, with the Irish getting 60 second-place nominations to 94 for Army, 10 third place, and UCLA, 1,141. Texas led the first year four teams had gone over the 1,000-mark.

Just back of UCLA, in fifth place in the final standings, came Illinois' Big Nine champions, who tangled with the UCLAs in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1. The Illini polling 893 points, beat out their western rivals, the Wolverines of Michigan, who wound up in sixth place, with 778.

As a matter of fact, seven of the top ten teams are parties of the first or second part in the major bowl battles of New Year's Day. Georgia's Sugar Bowl rival, North Carolina, came home in ninth place, with 394 votes. Tennessee's Vols ended in the seventh slot with 507 points. They now head for the Orange Bowl to take on the Rice Owls who round out the top ten with 207 points. Louisiana State, finishing eighth with 402 points, meets Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl. The Razorbacks finished 16th in the final tabulation.

Layne Unanimous Choice On All-Southwest Team

DALLAS—(P)—Blond Bobby Layne, University of Texas star fullback, was the only unanimous choice on the All-Southwest Conference team selected yesterday by coaches of the seven schools.

Weldon Hubon, Rice guard; Clyde Scott, Arkansas wingback; and Carl Russ, Rice fullback, each needed only one vote to be a unanimous choice.

For the first time since the pre-war years there isn't a freshman on the team.

Four sophomores made it, however, two of them repeating their freshman status. These were Dick Harris, Texas center, and Huey Keeney, Rice back.

The team has three players from Rice and three from Arkansas, while Texas and Southern Methodist land two each. Coach Christiane one. Baylor and Texas A. & M. failed to land a player on the first string. The team: Guards—Weldon Edwards, Texas Christian, sophomore; Charles Lively, Arkansas, junior.

Ends—Wendell Williams, Rice, and Hubert Bechtel, Texas. Tackles—Charles Malmborg, Rice, and Monte Moncrief, Texas A. & M.

Guards—Harold Collins, Texas and Odell Stultzenberger, Texas A. & M.

Center—Bill Thomas, Arkansas. Backs—Jim Canady, Texas, Ken Holland, Arkansas, Virgil Eikenberg, Rice, and Aubrey Fowler, Arkansas.

Others receiving first team ballots were Max Baumgardner, Texas, end; Jim Minor, Arkansas, and Harlan Wet, Texas, tackles, and Theron Roberts, Arkansas, guard.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK—(P)—One surprising point about ASA Bushnell's reshuffle of the Army-Navy game was the revelation that even a lot of coaches don't know exactly what the book says about stopping the clock—Coach (the say) Ed McKeever claimed he has watched the electric timepiece plenty of times and seen it move on when it should have been stopped for a substitution. Army's Johnson added that the rule was misunderstood at West Point until a mixup earlier this year resulted in a clarification. The point of the whole matter, it seems, is that the clock operator is just a push-button official who can't do anything until he gets the signal, and that in the case of a substitution, time is again as soon as the ball is spotted.

INSIDE BASEBALL
Pony league baseballers are wondering how the Batavia and Jamestown, N. Y., clubs can become the first co-champions in baseball history and how they gained that designation two months after the season ended in a playoff game. In the last half dozen games, the Batavia clubbers came on to overhaul Jamestown's four-game lead. They staged a playoff game with appropriate ballyhoo and a sellout crowd and then announced that "by agreement" they would be co-champions and the playoff was merely for places in the governors' cup series—Two months later the league's board of directors upheld the agreement and made it official.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES
After the Florida grid team had lost eight straight games, the Miami alumni wired Coach Bear Wolf "unanimously and enthusiastically" commending him and his squad—Arnold Perrin, who led the Utah's basketballers to the 1944 National championship is back in school after a two-year absence—Another report on the "hot" court team, Kentucky: "Adolph Rupp went clear down to his third team and still had two all-Americans left over."

Gaels Invited To Stay in Galveston
GALVESTON—(P)—Several Galveston civic organizations, clubs and leaders have invited the St. Mary's Gaelic football team of San Francisco to workout here while preparing for the Oil Bowl game in Houston on New Year's Day against Georgia Tech.

The Aleutian islands extend farther west of Seattle than Maine extends east of Seattle.

TIRES • BATTERIES

Production Is High!
Demand Is Higher For The Tire That OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

The new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown has made such a hit with car owners that they're telling all their friends! That's why we have been so busy taking orders from eager motorists who insist on getting the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES.

They are convinced that the wider, flatter tread—which puts more rubber on the road—wears more evenly and lasts longer than the treads of wartime or prewar tires.

The tire body was redesigned and engineered to take this more rugged tread by using sturdier cords and more of them. It's 35% stronger, and is better able to resist road shocks and bruises.

Big cars, small cars, and new cars in all types of service—all will get better mileage with this new tire. If your needs are immediate, see us... we'll do our best to keep you rolling.

NEW FACES in CONGRESS

(One of a Series)
 WASHINGTON. (NEA)—It'll be interesting to see what happens when an avowed non-drinker hits the cocktail capital of the world where they say more business is done over a quiet Bourbon and soda than on the floor of the Senate. But James P. Kem, Republican Senator-elect from Missouri has never been known to let little things like having to turn down a drink interfere with his life-long ability to win and influence friends.

Kem will bring to his new job what any oldtime Congressman will tell you is an absolute essential for the job—a strong back. The mere physical exertion of being a U. S. legislator is tremendous. Kem's physical energy is astonishing to his friends. Not once during his tiring campaigning did he ever complain of fatigue. He added weight to his six-foot bulk while making six to nine speeches a day. Public speaking is right up his alley. He will give the Senate gallery spectators plenty to listen to when he gets on his favorite issues. The new Senator is a successful lawyer in Kansas City. His hobby is a farm where he raises purebred cattle. He is married and has two daughters, one married and one a student at Vassar.

Texas Today

Jan H. S. Anderson of Austin is married and his six children, which should be enough to keep an average man busy, but he has more idea, projects, and promotions than you can shake a stick at—even a very small lightweight stick that doesn't require much shaking. One of his most recent—and most successful—is the Texas state directory. It's a handbook of Texas State Departments and directory of all state officials and employees. The directory is one of those things that make people say why didn't I think of that? There's a definite need for it, particularly among politicians and state workers. It contains about 300 pages of material, including over 5,000 names and 200 pictures. Anderson says as far as he knows, there hasn't been a complaint yet about errors. Further, it's solidly packed with advertising. The next edition, for 1947-48, is due in April. It will include new

Do you think steel profits are big?

Recently in a nation-wide poll most people guessed that steel profits were about 20 cents on each dollar of sales. They said 10 cents would be about right. Actually, for the past ten years steel company profits have averaged less than 5 cents on each dollar of sales. Although profits continue low, wages, employment and production are near record levels.

EMPLOYMENT

The number of wage earners is not far from the highest in peacetime steel history—20 per cent above the 1929 level.

PRODUCTION

Despite strikes earlier in the year, steel production in 1946 was headed toward a new peacetime record until the November coal strike.

WEEKLY WAGES

Weekly wages in steel industry in the third quarter of 1946 were 63% higher than in 1939.

STEEL COMPANY PROFITS

Average profit per dollar of sales in 1946 is lower than it was in most good prewar years.

CALL ME LIZ

by Rene Ryerson Mart Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

XXI
ELISE had taken the taxi that night. She had gone to the Condon home and she had helped Janice dress and pack and then she had driven to the airport with Janice and her father.

Together she and Arthur Condon had stood at the end of the runway with a chill down wind whipping around them and watched the plane carrying Janice fade into the still dim sky.

It was on the drive back home that Mr. Condon had spoken to her about what was really worrying him. He told her of his recent concern about Russell and that he himself had urged the trip which had turned out so badly. He sighed heavily:

"I'll—'I'll never be able to forgive myself if either one of the boys is hurt seriously."
"Hurt seriously?" The words brought the feeling of panic back to Elise.

After a moment she said uncertainly, "You mustn't blame yourself for that, you know. You meant it for the best."
Arthur Condon looked at her thoughtfully. "I've sometimes thought, Elise, that Russell is in love with you. Now, I don't mean to pry—'it's your affair and his, but I want you to know that nothing would make me happier than to have you and Russell marry."

This on top of her sudden and shattering realization that it was Red McFan she loved instead of Russell was all she could do to hold back hysterical tears.

"Mr. Condon—please—please—"
Of course he misunderstood her reaction.

"There—there—" he said contently. "I shouldn't have talked about it now, I know you're worried."
If he really knew the truth, Elise had thought in stony despair!

Two weeks, and now staring up at the calendar, thinking back into the unhappy wretched days and hours that had passed, the same contradictory regrets and wishes were still spinning through her mind as they had that morning.

If she only loved Russell and was worthy of the approval of his father. If only she hadn't fallen in love with Red McFan. If only she hadn't mailed the letter to Russell saying that she would marry him.

If... If... If...
Only with this difference; she knew now irrevocably that she had to accept things as they were. She had hurt Russell deeply once by refusing to marry him. She could not repeat it again, when she had actually given her promise.

Yes, she was resigned to the necessity of going through with it... but that did not stop the ache in her heart, or the wild fluttering of forbidden ecstasy there when she thought what might have been if she had had the sense to face her real feeling about Red McFan in time.

Easy to realize now that she had been attracted to him physically from almost the first moment they met. She remembered the feeling she had had the night they first danced together, and the pity she had known the evening Russell and she had found Red drunk in Tonelli's after Jackie had thrown him over.

But she had been too proud and too snobbish to face it then. Trying to fool herself into thinking that she hated and despised him and resented his presence. The resentment at least had been real, an instinctive resentment because he had so easily upset the plan of life.

But what a thin disguise her constant quarreling with him had been for the wild love beating in her heart.

For she loved him the way she had dreamed of loving Russell... the way she had wanted to love

Russel. With all the breathless palpitation and the passionate yearning which she had tried to tell herself in the sophisticated way of young women, was just a myth story writers had created for their own purposes.

Over and over these thoughts churned in an endless circle until at moments she thought she would go off the deep end.

At lunch time she moped into the women's room that opened off the laboratory. In the mirror above the lavatory she saw her face pale and sallow looking from loss of sleep, with great dark circles under her eyes, and was so miserable she didn't care how she looked. Which was very bad indeed. Listlessly she applied a little lipstick and turned away from the mirror.

She wasn't hungry; she didn't want to eat. She never had been into the kitchen since the smell of the food would only nauseate her. And she was too restless to stretch out on the couch and rest.

Suddenly she remembered a roll of pictures she had left at a camera shop to be developed. They had probably been ready days before, but she had forgotten about them. She'd go by and get them. It would be something to do.

The snapshots she had expected to be ready for her. She looked at them on her way back to the laboratory on the bus. There were several good pictures among them. One of herself smiling straight into the camera. And another of Russell.

Elise looked at that one a long time. His fair hair brushed back from a straight meticulous part on one side of his head, his deep-set thoughtful eyes, the thin lean planes of his face.

She looked at it and sighed and wondered for the millionth time why she hadn't fallen in love with him instead of Red McFan. Russell was everything most women would want.

She took the pictures back to the laboratory with her and tossed them into the drawer of her work table and forgot about them.

Something happened that afternoon that put them completely out of her mind.

By this program it is expected not only to decrease the costs of occupation for the area, but also to make possible the gradual restoration of a healthy non-aggressive Germany economy which will contribute materially to the economic stability of Europe."

The agreement provides for two classes of imports into the merged zone—those such as food and medicine for prevention of disease and unrest and those for the restoration of peaceful German industries.

Improved Ways Of Fire Fighting Are Shown Here

Over a score of local and visiting firemen last night attended the free fire drill held by Fire Chief Frank Williams, instructor of the fire school, College Station.

Chief Williams called on firemen to identify and explain the use of different fire fighting tools as they were called out. Assistant Chief Stokes of the Pampa, Department named the men to pick out the tools and explain their purpose.

After the men told all they knew about the various couplings, jackets, lines and clamps, Chief Williams pointed out the additional uses they could be put to and showed improved methods in the present way of handling them.

Fifty foot sections of hose were strung out on the engine room floor while firemen demonstrated to him the way in which they make line connections or carry hose sections about the scene of a fire.

Williams shortly after demonstrated recently improved methods. At one point of the drill he complimented the Pampa firemen for not straddling hose while they worked or walked with it and emphasized the danger to anyone—firemen or spectators—who is habitually inclined to stand around with a live hose line between his legs.

Care of all types of equipment was also shown during the evening.

When the drill was finished Chief Ben White and the boys entertained their guests and themselves with refreshments.

Kilgore said a committee member approached him on the matter last Friday, but he declined to say the publication of the report without the approval of the whole committee.

The four Republican members decided to go ahead regardless. Along with copies of the report, they gave reporters transcripts of four closed committee sessions on the investigation.

Elgore heard of their decision almost immediately and summoned a news conference at his office. It was there that he made public Patterson's letter of disapproval.

the huge oil lines running 1,500 miles from the Southwest to the Eastern seaboard.

The decision to move gas through the lines during the government's struggle with Mine Chief John L. Lewis was announced yesterday. Interior Secretary J. A. Krug told the committee natural gas would begin moving within five or six days and would help relieve the fuel shortage caused by the coal strike.

The lives have been idle since the war. Chairman Slaughter (D-Mo), told newsmen the decision "indicates the government is planning a finish battle" with Lewis. Aides have said that is President Truman's intention.

The Interior Secretary said the lines would be operated on an emergency basis under a four months lease to the Tennessee Gas and Transmission Co., and that the government expects to make a $1,000,000 profit on the deal. The company will pay six cents rental for each 1,000 cubic feet of gas delivered.

However, Krug admonished that while "gas can be a help" in the coal crisis, "it is not the answer." He pointed out that the lines can move the fuel equivalent of only 6,000 tons of coal a day, while normal coal production exceeds 2,000,000 tons a day.

"In the next five or six days," he said, "we can be moving 50,000-700 cubic feet of natural gas through the lines daily. In two or three weeks this can be stepped up to 100,000,000, and in about 45 days to 150,000,000 cubic feet daily."

instructions. If those instructions arrived in time, Viskinsky was expected to take the floor today or tomorrow to make known the Russian position.

The U. S. rejected Russia's disarmament proposal as "too narrow and circumscribed."

U. S. Senator Tom Connally (D-Texas), told the committee that "the two objectives of the Soviet proposal are the removal of the atomic bomb and whatever regulations with regard to armaments may take place shall be vested in the Security Council, where the 'atomic bomb' veto would be anything that may be undesirable to any member of the Security Council."

Connally said the United States felt the necessary safeguards, including inspection and control, "must be subject to being blocked and destroyed by any state or group of states through the veto."

Russia's resolution called for a general reduction of armaments, with the atomic weapons stipulated as the primary task. She accepted inspection and control within the framework of the Security Council, where the veto could be applied.

Meanwhile, Russia fought bitterly to block United Nations approval of an Australian resolution censuring the Soviet Union for her frequent use of the big power veto in the Security Council.

Coal Strike

prior to 1932 is a sordid one," Lewis began in somber tones.

It was Lewis' first public statement since before the soft coal strike began on Nov. 20.

Lewis stood facing the judge, with his broad back to the crowded courtroom.

After reviewing a history of government statutes forbidding courts to restrain strikes, he turned quickly to coal strike issues and inveighed against "the deadly brutal 64-hour work week in American coal mines."

Lewis asserted the UMW had been impletted to announce termination of its contract with the government on November 15. This step led to the coal strike and the contempt proceedings against Lewis and the UMW.

After his announcement that the contract was ended, Lewis said, the government "in violation of the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act asked for a restraining order and it was granted 'without notice and without hearing.'"

Sonorous he went on, denouncing "this coercive and all-embracing restraining order," which he accused of ignoring.

Speaking "officially" as president of the UMW and vice president of the AFL "with 8,000,000 members," Lewis said he could not subscribe to "his ugly recrudescence of government by injunction."

Addressing the court, he said: "Your injunction, sir, I respectfully submit, deprive the miners of these constitutional rights, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, and freedom from involuntary servitude."

"The miners and I stand upon these constitutional rights as American citizens."

"The miners are law-abiding, God-fearing citizens," he said, and have only "asserted their rights as citizens."

As he finished and stalked to a seat behind his lawyers, Judge Colsbrough shuttled papers quietly for a minute while the courtroom buzzed.

"The jurist's finding of 'guilty of contempt of court' ended one phase of the government's legal drive to force the 400,000 soft coal miners back on the job. Still on tap is the government's request to make the restraining order a temporary injunction."

It was unclear whether the judge tomorrow will issue a ruling on this.

The judge could continue the case to bring out more testimony on the legality of the government-UMW contract, or he might decide he had heard sufficient evidence on that point and announce his ruling simultaneously with the sentencing of Lewis.

50 Attend First Food Sessions

A total of 50 persons attended the opening classes in the food handler's course which opened in the City Hall Palm Room yesterday and officials said they hoped for at least a 40-percent increase in enrollment.

Two classes of the same nature were taught each day, the morning class from 9:30 to 11 o'clock and the afternoon classes from 2:30 to 4 o'clock.

Subjects being taken up today are food poisons and infections. Tomorrow's classes will be concerned with rats, flies and cockroaches and their relation to the spread of disease.

The courses are taught by C. W. Evedlove of the State Health Department.

Employers strove to keep their places going. The United Employers, Inc., advised such of its 650 member firms as phoned its offices to open for business as usual whether employees show up or not.

The 28 Oakland stores in the Retail Merchants Association, none of which has a union contract, planned to open as usual, J. P. St. Sure, association attorney said.

Two of the 28 were the struck stores, Kahahn's and Hastings.

The police action of Sunday was termed "high-handed and discriminatory" by spokesmen of the AFL Central Labor Council.

Some unions were informed that the retaliatory action was a 24-hour "holiday." But a notice posted in shops of the Key System commuter and local lines said "a general strike has been called."

James P. Galliano, attorney for the AFL Central Labor Council, said the action was in protest against "a city government which allowed itself to be used as a tool of Oakland's sacred cow, the Retail Merchants' Association."

He said arrangements had been made by the AFL Council "whereby registered pharmacists, retail milk drivers, hospital help, sanitation employees and other employees in essential service" would remain on their jobs.

SUCH THINKING IS VAIN, AND NO SMALL WAY HOPELESS

A correspondent for an American newspaper the other day wrote from the world trade charter meeting at London about "a smashing victor for the United States delegation."

There have been various other references in print about "victories" and "defeats" in the peace conferences, and, regrettably many of those references have got into print in The Pampa News. To change them would require re-writing in places, when time was important.

It is, of course, absurd to speak of nationalistic victories or defeats in meetings designed to work out the world's problems. There seems, to us, to be no such thing as victory or defeat when the world is so much one world.

But the old diplomatic habits of thinking are hard to break. The result, if not the avowed purpose, of meetings in history has been that one side has gone away with what it thought was "victory" over another.

The world wars should have been enough to prove to us that such thinking is vain—and not to say the least, hopeless.

OUR ONE-WORLDNESS

The one-worldness of our world is no better demonstrated anywhere than in the current coal strike. Because Pampans burn gas to keep themselves warm is no protection against one-man cancellation of contract for coal miners. We use steel, and coal makes steel. By the same token, because 3,000 miles of deep water lies between the United States and Europe is no protection to those people over there, either.

When John Lewis' men refused to mine coal in West Virginia, they were cooling the family hearths in much of Europe. When the hearths are cooled, the people grow even more disillusioned. Disillusioned people are more likely to turn to Communism.

THAT'S THE ONE-WORLDNESS WE MUST FACE.

WACKENZIES Extras Real Stars

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AF Foreign Affairs Analyst

There's plenty to distract our attention here at home. We're in the cold-water to remind us of the wintry potentialities of the coal stoppage, and the heavy gunfire in our U. N. peace organization—but let's not overlook the one world conference which opened today in London.

The Indian problem ranks among the vital issues of our time. Failure to reach a satisfactory solution might result in the catastrophe of civil war in that country.

That's a hard thing to have to say, but it's true and it is well that we recognize the fact. A round-table conference is a momentous affair.

Three of the world's outstanding personalities have come out of the Far East to sit down in the British capital with the British officials to try to figure out ways and means of bringing India's warring Hindus and Moslems together and thereby implementing England's offer of independence to that continent with its four hundred millions.

There is Field Marshal Lord Wavell, Viceroy of the King-Emperor's greatest imperial possession, There is Pandit Nehru, the aristocratic Hindu who heads the present interim Indian government and next to Mahatma Gandhi is the most powerful in the country. There is Mahomed Ali Jinnah, brilliant and highly cultured head of the Moslem league, who guides the destinies of 60,000,000 Moslems.

Upon those three men, more than upon any others, rests the immediate future of India. Wavell's role is largely that of conciliator. In the hands of those political geniuses, Jinnah and Nehru, is a terrifying power which has been given few men to possess. Wavell's part is even more difficult than that of the Indian leaders but he brings to the gratifying spirit which we saw in a bloody 1941.

"Have you ever thought that a world conference might be put into peace endeavors the same energy, the same self-sacrifice and cooperation as we use in the wastefulness of war?"

CAPITOL NEWS

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson says current estimate of the military budget for 1947 is $2.5 billion to $10 or $12 billion is merely another argument in favor of the merger of the armed services into one department of national defense.

When economy is the basis of military policy, the decision must be made by someone whether battleships or bombers must be cut. No one in the armed services can now make such a decision.

So the matter is left to separate congressional appropriation subcommittees not qualified as military experts to decide what the nation needs for balanced national defense. Under merged administration, says Patterson, that would not happen.

Army Air Force brass is now making big off-the-record talk that if budget-balancing and spending have to come, they should be achieved at the expense of old-fashioned naval and ground forces, leaving everything "in the air."

Sea forces would be limited to aircraft carriers, tenders and their protection.

Ground forces would be all made airborne. Main reliance would be placed on a striking force of long-range bomber, fighter, patrol and transport planes, and service units.

SENATORS JOIN ANTI-ROCKET WAR
Senate Democrats—what's left of them—are now vying with Republicans to see who can make the most of the anti-rocket war. The Democrats are more in the lead.

Labor isn't the only target for sharpshooters in the new Republican Congress. Democratic administration's vigorous enforcement of anti-trust laws is also likely to be attacked.

NATIONAL HIRLLIG

Common Ground

By RAY TUCKER
VICITIMS—The principal victims of a prospective recession and of threatened strikes would be World War II veterans who have re-entered industry by the millions since their discharge from the armed forces. Except for a few ex-servicemen's organizations dominated by leftists, sentiment in these circles against John L. Lewis and his lies is more bitter than it was during the conflict.

Private studies show that comparatively few of the ex-soldiers belonged to unions before they donned the uniform. Therefore, they cannot claim to seniority rights, and they would be the first to be laid off in the event of industrial stagnation. They would then become eligible for membership in the $2-30 club and entitled to collect $20 a week from the federal government during the period of their unemployment.

"Later, he wanted to go to lunch and he turned on the ignition and went around in front to crank the car. He was then a big, stout man and the engine started with the first turn or two of the crank."

"The car tried to climb over Henry's shoulder but he got out of its path by a hair. The car then started to move and he stepped on the gas for nearly a block, from one side of the pavement to the other, and finally wrapped itself around a telephone pole."

"He stood perfectly still, watching until the car collided with the pole. Then he dusted his hands, turned and walked away without a word or changing expression. I don't know whether he ever bothered to have the car fixed."

"I have always said, I always say, that the student who reads the sacred volume will make better citizens, better fathers, and better husbands."

—Thomas Jefferson

DISCHARGED—It is not generally realized, but when the United States Unemployment Service was returned to the states on Nov. 15, the task of demobilizing the greatest military discharge in history, civilian life had been virtually completed. The government, employers and the men themselves combined in a remarkable job of human reconstruction.

The latest analysis shows that about 13,600,000 men and women have been discharged. These include about 700,000 who have not yet returned to the work force, and are in hospitals and other institutions.

Of the 12,900,000 male servicemen who have been let out, 11,600,000 are now at work, receiving on-the-job training or attending schools or colleges; another 200,000 have retired or are not employable at this time.

JOBS—These figures mean that about twelve of every thirteen servicemen who found jobs are doing so, proving their training and knowledge by industrial or collegiate study. Statistically, here is the picture:

10,520,000 actually employed; 1,140,000 in school or college under the G. I. Bill of Rights or other legislation; 700,000 unemployed and looking for work; 300,000 still on vacation after discharge; 200,000 retired or not employable; 400,000 still to be discharged.

"LUCK"—In short, the problem of occupational adjustment or readjustment has not been so difficult as anticipated by pessimistic prophets.

The nation's present total of employed people is approximately 57,000,000 or within 3,000,000 of the seemingly fantastic number promised by Henry Wallace and FDR in the wind-up of the 1944 campaign.

Oddly or understandably, farm life apparently offers few attractions for ex-G. I.'s. Only about 800,000 are now engaged in agricultural pursuits.

It is believed that the 2,500,000 now in classrooms, learning a trade, seeking work and awaiting discharge, will find employment as the industry continues the advance it has made since V-J Day. But they and the 10,000,000 plus now drawing pay envelopes will be out of luck if the economic situation becomes "snafu."

REMINISCENCES—Henry Wallace's Iowa friends are telling tales on him as a sequel to his unfortunate discharge from the army during the recent congressional campaign. These reminiscences of his youth as an editor of "The Farmer" and as an agricultural correspondent are interesting. "The child is father of the man."

"At that time," writes an old Des Moines associate, "Henry had not developed the character and ambition, or he kept them to himself if he had them. He was all wrapped up in scientific feeding of livestock."

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—There is no argument about balding, snarling-mustached little Clifford Severson being Hollywood's No. 1 producer. With the collaboration of Mrs. Severson, that is.

When the Seversons sit down to dinner, there's a DeMille-like mob scene. Starching just about as the eye can reach are little Seversons. Eight of them, to be exact, including Winston Franklin MacArthur Severson, aged 3 and William Roosevelt Churchill Severson, aged 7.

And they're all in the movies. Including Mama and Papa.

Papa has played waiters and butlers. He was once interviewed for the role of a harassed father, but the studio casting-director turned him down. He wasn't the type.

You probably saw one of the eight Severson kids in that movie last night. They're all over Hollywood, popping in and out of movies to the tune of a family income of around $50,000 a year.

In addition to Winston and Billy, there are: Christopher, 10; Ernest, 13; Raymond, 14; Yvonne, 16; Clifford Jr., 21; and Venice, 22.

THE SEVERSONS NEVER FAIL Casting offices can always count on at least one Severson's filling almost any role.

"When I get a studio call," says Papa, "I'm the family's combination agent, chauffeur, and business manager. I always go with three kids. One of them usually comes along, if there is any difficulty I just find a telephone, and Mother rushes over with reinforcements."

Little Winston Franklin MacArthur Severson, the 3-year-old, is the littlest of the Seversons. He is the son of the late Earl-Long's "Army Comes Across."

Papa runs the home like a dramatic school. Every one of the children will recite at the drop of a crumple.

And the Seversons have crumpled every afternoon at 4. Papa is from England; Mama is a minister's daughter, born in South Africa.

Clifford Severson was a doctor of psychology in England. Now he's Hollywood's answer to the juvenile acting problem.

QUITE A HOUSING PROBLEM "It was worried," first, about putting all of our children into the movies," Mama Severson told us. "I didn't want a prodigy family. I wanted average kiddies."

"But Papa said he could handle the situation—and he's doing it. Our children are not precocious, typical movie kids."

"Naturally, it's quite a problem in these days of skyrocketing prices, to keep all the youngsters in shoes."

For a while there Papa had a real housing problem, though.

"The family was evicted from a Hollywood home they had long occupied. Papa started looking."

"People asked, 'Any children?'" "Eight," said Papa, ducking. "Then he started looking. For nine months the Seversons—all 10 of them—moved from hotels to rooming houses to hotels."

Finally, they found a benefactor—the former actor, Fox Jackson, wife of the producer who married Deanna Durbin. She had a big five-bedroom home in Beverly Hills.

"That's where they are all living now—including Mrs. Jackson and her two children."

AFFECTS A COMPASS "Because the earth's magnetic poles are more than 400 miles from the geographic poles, a compass in Northwest Washington points 23 degrees east of true north, while in Uppend Maine the needle points more than 20 degrees west of north."

HEAVY PRODUCER "A world's record belongs to a sow owned by a Worcestershire, England, farmer. The sow produced 385 pigs in her 11 years of life, with 65 being born in three litters within one year."

The first school in the city of New York was started in 1663 by the Reformed Dutch church.

GRASS FOR LEASE

Have 1440 acres of grass that I want to lease for $1200 if I can lease it in the next few days.

Have a good 80-acre wheat farm that I want to sell for $55 per acre, one-third of the wheat goes to the buyer and the owner retains 2/3 of the mineral rights.

If anybody would like to do a little plumping I could let you have a few acres of land east of town for around $3.00 per acre lease. Have a good 5-room home on North Russell St. that I'm going to leave to my wife. This house is one of the best built homes in the town and I want $8000 for it. BUT if you would really be interested and would like to live on the hill, you come around to my office and we'll do a little talking.

Do you need a good three-room home in a good location? The party that owns it had a ridiculous price on it to start with, but she just can't afford to live there. So believe that it will sell. It's a good home and would make some couple a dandy place to live.

It's a little better, and I have until the first of January to sell it, and maybe I'll make the grade as it sounds pretty good. It's a 2 1/2-acre irrigated farm south of Hereford, just 1 mile off the pavement. It's all broke out but 80 acres and the price is $75 per acre, and this price is about $25 less than you can buy any of the other farms around it.

I have lots of listings, that the owners don't care about advertising, such as stores, ranches, etc., so if you are interested in some big stuff that's in the way around, and maybe we can figure out something for you to get your money invested in.

FINISHED and partly finished table lamps are shown at top. Two objects center and front and two lying down at either side and behind are wooden tops of lamps. Mrs. Geo. Cartwright, 1900 Alcock, is shown at the lathe turning out another of these popular products, which she started making three years ago as a hobby. At left is another lamp-to-be, no more than pieces of wood of different colors, glued together.

LAMP-MAKING WAS HOBBY ONCE, BUT NOW A BUSINESS

Three years ago, Mrs. George Cartwright, 1900 Alcock Street, started as a hobby the making of table lamps; today it is a business. With Christmas coming shortly, she is working indefatigably at finishing some $300 worth of fancy woodcraft, and the number of orders that could be taken is more than she had ever expected.

Mrs. Cartwright, who is adept at golf as well, got the idea for making lamps on a commercial basis when her friends, for whom she had made gift lamps, began turning in from six to a dozen orders each. It had never occurred to her, she explained that the lamps were of particular value. Since then she has been selling them from $15 up. One lamp, given to a nephew, sold for $50 at San Antonio.

Going to her work bench in her husband's cabinet shop around 7 a. m., she is often seen there as late as 10 at night.

"I didn't get to play golf this year, and I have even turned my housekeeping over to help. I spend all my time with the lamps," she said. She was working at the lathe when she was approached for this story. In the last three weeks she has sold $122 worth of lamps.

She does all the work herself. When she first began this work, she "stacked" different kinds of wood that makes up the base. Different kinds and colors of wood are glued together, allowed to dry, and then are placed on the lathe for vertical shaping. However, more recently she has glued the wood for horizontal lathing.

There are never less than 25 pieces of wood in a lamp; often there are 36. All lamps contain maple, mahogany, and walnut. Quite a variety is often used. Some of the wood comes from other countries, such as the oak which comes from Guam and other points in the Southwest Pacific. Shipment was cut off, of course, during the war, but it's coming through again—but slowly. Oak comes often from England, different kinds and shades of mahogany from the Honduras, Dutch East Indies, and the Philippines.

Recently she used wood which came from Japan. The only name she knew it as was "suzuki wood"—the name being adopted for it because it caused sneezing when one cut on it. "I don't think I want to use any more of that," she observed.

It takes about a day and a half man hours' work to finish a lamp. The work isn't particularly hard.

Atomic Control to Stay With Army Until Mid-1948

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The complexities of putting the Civilian Atomic Energy Commission into full operation may require retention of the Army's Manhattan District until mid-1948.

The government, it was learned yesterday, has included such a contingency in its plans for placing complete peacetime control of atomic energy research and development, including both military and civilian application, in the hands of the new super agency.

The current appropriation for the War Department includes $375,000,000 for "atomic service" to cover a period from last July 1 to June 30, 1948. Persons in a position to know said this will allow Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves' Manhattan District to carry on while the civilian commission headed by David E. Lilienthal analyzes its assignment and makes ready to take over.

As part of the planning for the transition, the Army and Navy have appointed a joint liaison committee. The Army delegation is headed by Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton and the Navy membership by Read Admiral Thorvald A. Solberg. This group has been given the job of advising the civilian commission on that part of the atomic energy useful to the military including the business of making bombs.

The liaison committee, which held its first meeting Friday, is engaged in the specific work of preparing an agenda of military matters for consideration of Lilienthal's commission.

One of the questions under consideration by the liaison group presumably is whether future production of atomic bombs should be under private contract or directly by the commission, somewhat as government arsenals now manufacture standard weapons. While the Los Alamos, N. M., laboratories are government-owned, the five atomic bombs so far exploded were produced under private contract with the University of California supplying the personnel management and operating the facilities.

Actually, the Manhattan District now functions more as a directing agency than as an operating unit. The two big atomic plants—Hanford, Ore., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., are operated under contract with the general Electric Company and the Monsanto Chemical Company, respectively.

Eastern commission houses sold corn, but offerings were readily absorbed by local traders associated with processing interests.
