Five Die in Ship Sinking

BUENAVENTURA, Colombia, April 30 (UP)—Five persons were listed as dead and 51 were missing Thursday in the sinking of the Colombian motorship Dochara in coastal waters of the Pacific Ocean. Officials said 23 survivors had been picked up.

The cornerstone of the South Carolina State House in Columbia was laid in 1851.

Work was suspended when Sherman's army destroyed Columbia, Feb. 17, 1865. Work was resumed in 1888, but suspended again in 1891, and the building was not completed until 1907.

The trend toward push-button housekeeping will increase during the next 10 years, according to the research department of a Midwest manufacturer.

The company foresees automatic control of windows, doors, lights, radio and television sets, as well as heating and air conditioning.

Three Arrested For Pampa Burglaries

Three men charged in a recent Pampa burglary are behind bars today as two more petty break-ins were definitely cleared by city police.

Billy Balleu, Amarillo, was picked up at 6:15 p.m. yesterday and verbally admitted to breaking in the Top of Texas Realty Co. and the Duplan Insurance Co. on April 11.

John and Robert McCormick, brothers, were picked up last night at Drumright, Okla., one hour after local police called that town asking for their arrest. The McCormicks are charged with the Tuesday morning burglary of the Bevedere Club.

Chief of Police Jim Conner and Chief Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nichols left this morning for Oklahoma to bring the brothers back to Pampa to face charges here.

Balleu at 10:15 a.m. today was taken from the city jail by Amarillo police and taken back to that city where he faces burglary charges there. Balleu is now on probation for burglary.

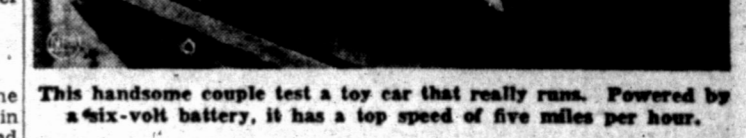

Assistant Chief of Police J. O. Dumas said Balleu spoke freely about his Pampa activities in a verbal statement, saying he didn't remember anything he did there.

Dumas quoted Balleu as saying he broke into several places while drinking heavily and remembers some things and forgets others. He told police the break-ins at the Smokehouse Cafe and B&G Cafe.

UP President Says . . . Alert Newspaper Reporters Best Defense Of Free Press

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 1—UP—Aggressive, alert reporters working their daily beats, not international treaties or codes, are the best defense of a free press, Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press, said Thursday night.

In an address delivered as part of the journalism week program at the University of Missouri, Baillie said "the proper right to keep the channels of news free and clear, the reporter is the man on the firing line. It is his job to get the news or be convinced that there is good and sufficient reason why it should be withheld."

"In wartime or when military security is at stake, the reporter will cooperate with the censor but he will not collaborate with him to let the area of censorship get out of bounds."

"The reporter never forgets that free governments are founded by the people and remain responsible to them, and that his responsibility is to provide an unbiased account to the people of what their government officials are doing."

Some in All Fields "The reporter's task is the same in covering other groups in various fields whose activities develop public interest, such as business, labor, medical and scientific bodies."

"Since the end of the last war there has been considerable collective effort in behalf of freedom of information. This has been in the attempt to write international treaties and codes of ethics which by law would command that the press be free or by example would lead the press to greater freedom."

"These efforts have been frustrated to date because in the United Nations, where they have been most vigorously pursued, the countries who want a really free flow of news are outnumbered by those who do not. In fact, the countries which initiated this work in the United Nations five years ago, seeking greater press freedom throughout the world, now find themselves on the defensive fighting off proposals which on their face espouse freedom of information but which in practice would restrict it."

"I do not criticize the United Nations for this nor our country's participation in the proceedings. It is just a fact of life."

"'Lost Perspective'" "However, I do think the problem of preserving and broadening freedom of information needs to be put back into perspective. We have heard so much about it in international forums and read so many high-sounding declarations emanating from journalistic bodies of all kinds that we are apt to think that freedom of information will stand up like a brick wall."

"Spill The Beans" Reputable reporters honor the rules of the background conference without question. Honorific confidences is one of the first rules of the business.

"The trouble is, there is sometimes an eager beaver who breaks the rule. The new officials in the Eisenhower administration are learning this the hard way."

"In the recent Department of Defense case, news about an important change in defense production schedules got out before the detailed planning of the shift had been completed."

"The result may or may not have had something to do with the downward plunge of the stock market. More important than that, however, was the possibility that many defense contractors were caused to do some frantic scrambling to see if their plants were going to be closed down. Recent Serious News Leaks May Result In A Crackdown

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A tightening up on leaks of inside information by top-level officials is now being seriously considered by the Eisenhower administration.

If this proposed crackdown on news leaks to the press finally adopted, only one important loophole would be left open. This would be a provision for the release of what are known as trial balloons, to test what public reaction would be to a proposed policy.

One official would be designated to give out certain information for news dispatches and broadcast reports, without revelation of the source. Otherwise, all top government officials would be expected to keep the lid on all news about new administration policies until they are ready for formal announcement.

The need for some such policy as this has been heightened in the last week by two serious news leaks. One involved Department of State, the other Department of Defense policies.

In both cases, groups of reporters regularly assigned to Pentagon and State Department had arranged off-the-record conferences in which they were to be briefed on upcoming policy decisions.

The off-the-record or background conference is an old device in Washington. It is valuable to reporters in that it keeps them advised on current developments. It helps them prepare for future news breaks. Most important of all, it prevents reporters from going wrong in important stories, by furnishing them with explanations of inside facts which cannot be printed without harming national security.

Dallas Minister Speaks To Lions

Dr. Alton Reed, Dallas, has blamed "dethronement of God" as the greatest single factor in the weakening and downfall of a government.

Other business handled at the Lions meeting included a unanimous vote to meet Friday at Celanese during its open-house celebration instead of Thursday in the church.

Reviewing the fall of the Roman Empire, Dr. Reed suggested history repeats itself and cautioned his listeners to review our government with an eye to the historical cycle.

Dr. Reed presented his views at the Thursday noon luncheon meeting of the local Lions Club.

He gave five major reasons why the Roman empire fell — stressing the pushing aside of God, the disintegration of the home, taxes became too high, immorality of pleasure, building of tremendous armaments.

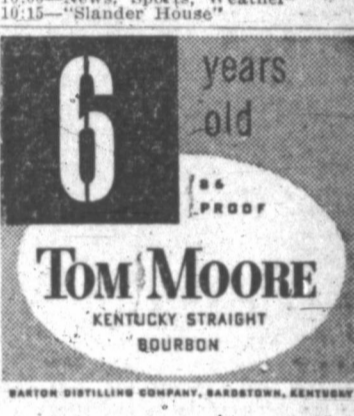

However, he stressed he was not a pacifist and fully believed our present defense program is our duty of protection and necessary due to present conditions.

He touched on communism stating that the danger of subversives from within were as much to be feared as the armaments of enemy on the outside.

Dr. Reed was introduced by Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church. He is conducting a revival in the church throughout this week.

Former Mining Engineer Gains Award As Outstanding Farmer

FORT WORTH, April 30—UP—A 37-year-old Rio Grande-Valley farmer, who gave up a lucrative career as a mining engineer, Thursday was announced as Texas' outstanding farmer in the eighth annual "save the soil and save Texas" awards program.

He is Jack Garrett, an ex-Air Force pilot who operates a 260-acre farm near Harlingen. The Iowa-born Garrett is the first Valley farmer to receive the award in the $15,000 annual conservation program sponsored by the Fort Worth Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper.

Garrett stopped in the Rio Grande Valley on a visit after his discharge as a major from the Air Force. At the time, he had several lucrative offers from South American mining companies.

But, it was while visiting his wife's parents in Brownsville that he decided to become a farmer in the Valley.

Garrett will receive a $500 check when he and other state champions are honored Saturday night at the awards dinner at Hotel Texas.

An Alford farmer — Thomas Hodges of the Denton-Wise district — took honors as best comeback farmer of the year, and will be given $500.

The strong, vigorous but loving hand of protection will see this sapling through. Every sapling needs such care if it becomes a mighty tree. It must grow straight if it grows tall. It must be shielded from the blight of insects... it must have food and light. Father, Mother, are you your sapling's guiding hand? Remember, as the sapling is bent, the tree will grow. You have a responsibility... you are accountable to God. Do not provoke your children to anger, but train them in the discipline and instruction of the Lord. Are you doing that? Juvenile Court records show few church and Sunday school children go wrong. Be your sapling's guiding hand.

If You Ten Victim Burning Cr

SAN ANTONIO, April 30 (AP)—Ten men who were killed in a burning B-29 Superfortress and exploded three miles from Randolph Air Force Base today.

Five of the 15 men aboard the plane were killed in the crash. The others appear to have been thrown from the plane. The big bomber, which was trying to go to Randolph, after its No. 1 engine failed and its No. 2 engine caught fire.

Witnesses said the B-29 was nearly vertical when it crashed and exploded. Lt. Francis L. Kafka, formation officer, identified the dead as:

- Maj. Junior F. Klein, commander, 44th Bombardment Squadron, 31st Bombardment Group, 43rd Bombardment Wing, 8th Bombardment Division, 2nd Lt. Chester E. navigator of Marion, Mo.
- 2nd Lt. Byron I. Sil

FORT SILL, Okla., April 30 (AP)—Two 15-ton cannons were laboriously along Thrifts Frenchman's Flat, 40 miles from Fort Sill, last month, one of them with a flat atomic artillery battery.

Eight railroad flat cars were used to haul the guns. An Army official said the men who were chugging the cannons took a long route to Nevada—because of the atomic power plant at Amabilio, Tex., weren't permitted to permit the massive guns.

The guns will arrive at Fort Sill on May 4, via Oklahoma City, Okla., to Kansas City, Mo., and then to Salt Lake City via Union Pacific.

Another McEmore Special . . . Hank Says Native Dancer Will Take First Money At Louisville

By HENRY McEMORE
Experience has taught me that my knowledge of the thoroughbred horse could be engraved on the head of a pin with the cutting edge of a feather duster, yet I ache all over to make a prediction as to the order of finish in tomorrow's running of the Kentucky Derby.

It's not fair of me, I know, because the only Derby winner I ever selected was "Omaha," way back when Roosevelt had more than a year to go on his first term. Even then I didn't back "Omaha" at the pari-mutuel windows. I put my money on "Indian Broom." I believe the critter's name was, and the Broom made a clean sweep of me if not of the race.

Save for that one year, 1935, I have advised any and all who cared to read to place their bets on some of the wisest animals ever to be seen outside of a zoo. One of them — and I'll almost swear to this — brayed, not neighed, when he found himself in the starting gate. Fortunately, the jockey on this animal had a distress rocket in his saddlecloth and rescuers were able to find the pair of them in the backstretch not too long after dark set in.

But this year it is different. I honestly believe that anyone, even if he has difficulty in distinguishing between a race horse and an umbrella stand, can name the winner of the mile-and-a-quarter chase over the sacred dirt of Churchill Downs.

How are any of the other colts going to beat "Native Dancer"? Oh, sure, he could do a samba at the start and throw his jockey into the infield, or he could jump the rail and head for the barn, but these sort of things don't happen very often, especially when there is a rider like Eric Guerin aboard.

Tomorrow's Derby looks to me like a chance in a lifetime for all handicappers, professional and amateur alike, to redeem themselves for past failures.

"Native Dancer," or the "Gray Ghost of Sagamore" as Sammy Renick likes to describe him on television, hasn't lost a race since he first went to the post, and he has answered the starter's bumper eleven times, and against the best two and three-year-olds in the country.

as easily as the mint makes money. My only fear for tomorrow is that Guerin, sharp as he is, will go to sleep on top of the Dancer, so effortlessly does he glide from pole to pole. I trust he won't smoke during the race and risk going to sleep and setting the Dancer's blanket on fire.

A "Native Dancer" victory will win a hatful of cash for the needy Mr. Vanderbilt but it will cost horse players many fatfuls. Not tomorrow, "mind you, but in years to come. "Native Dancer" is a gray and horseplayers have long shied away from grays as poor risks, a rightly so. But let the Dancer come booming home on top and grays will become the rage and remain the rage until two or three hundred of them finish half a mile back.

After "Native Dancer" what? "Correspondent." Any cold that turns a mile and an eighth in 1:49 over the Keeneland track, or over a bowling alley for that matter, is better than a fair hand at running. If it weren't for the Dancer this California bred, reared, and raced baby would be a standout. It just happened to be his luck to come along when the Vanderbilt flash did.

For third, I'll go along with "Royal Baby Gem," and for fourth, "Tashian King."

No one is going to get rich on "Native Dancer" except his owner. He'll go off shorter than a dehydrated midget and return the handsome sum of $2.25.

But what's wrong with twenty cents? It's a down payment on a shoeshine these days.

Survey Shows Pampa Spends Less, Takes In Less Money

(Special to the News)
NEW YORK—A special survey of the municipal finances of 684 cities in the under 25,000 population group shows the city of Pampa to be spending relatively less than most of the others and taking in smaller revenue than the average.

The data, gathered and published by the International City Managers Association, supplements data for larger cities, covering the year 1951, just released by the Commerce Department.

Many of the cities have been subjected to severe financial pressures because of inflation and the national defense effort have forced salaries up and required larger budgets for materials and supplies.

Pampa's expenditures, $832,000, were higher than the year's revenues, which amounted to $711,000. Approximately 42 per cent of the receipts were from property taxes, as compared with an average of 37 per cent among all the cities in the 10,000 to 25,000 population group.

In Pampa, revenues were equivalent to $42 per capita in comparison with the $61 average reported by the City Managers Association for all the cities in the group.

As a whole, revenue and spending of city governments continued upward in the year, but not as sharply as in the other years since the end of World War II. Less extensive borrowing and capital outlay, particularly by the larger cities, held down the increase in total city expenditures to only 3.7 per cent over the prior year.

Hollywood Welcomes Writer Of Blood 'n' Thunder Mystery

By ALINE MOSSBY
HOLLYWOOD, May 1—UP—Scene: Hollywood's welcoming party for Mickey Spillane, the famous blood and thunder mystery writer whose hair-raising stories about Detective Mike Hammer are being transferred to the screen.

Producer-Director Victor Saville threw a press reception for Spillane on the set of his first film, I, The Jury.

The set, of a dingy New York bar, was covered with red-checked tablecloths for the party and reporters and actors with tough mugs and gats under their arms hovered over the scotch and chopped liver.

Spillane, just like in his books, pulled up to the sound stage in a cab during a driving rain. He wore a trench coat over his rumpled tweed suit.

The writer settled at a table with Actress Peggie Castle, who plays the villainess in the film. She wore black lace with a plunging neckline, dangling earrings and big, blue eyes.

Spillane announced he didn't care what Hollywood did to his books since he's competing with Saville by filming a television series on histories anyway.

"When I film 'em myself if somebody doesn't like it I say 'sue up,'" he said, speaking rapidly and softly in his New York-type accent.

"I look at what's on television and I say writers who can't do better with their brains they ought to hang up. And all the movies do is book retreats. Why, everybody who sees this picture will know the ending from the book."

body tried to censor my stuff?" he demanded, and leaned forward menacingly. "I gotta little system worked out. Anybody gets tough with me—I let 'em have it."

He settled back and tipped into the chopped liver.

"I'm not like Hammer," he said. "I'm scared. I just write what people want to read. It's no rougher than what you read in the newspapers."

"I even went to one literary tea once, way the hell up in a penthouse. All those poets and authors sittin' around, givin' me the needle. I just took out my money and counted it on the table. Aaaaah, they are slobs."

I noticed a man sitting next to Spillane, silent, square-jawed and sinister with a scar running down his cheek.

"That's Jack Stanley, a cop from New Jersey. I patterned Hammer after him."

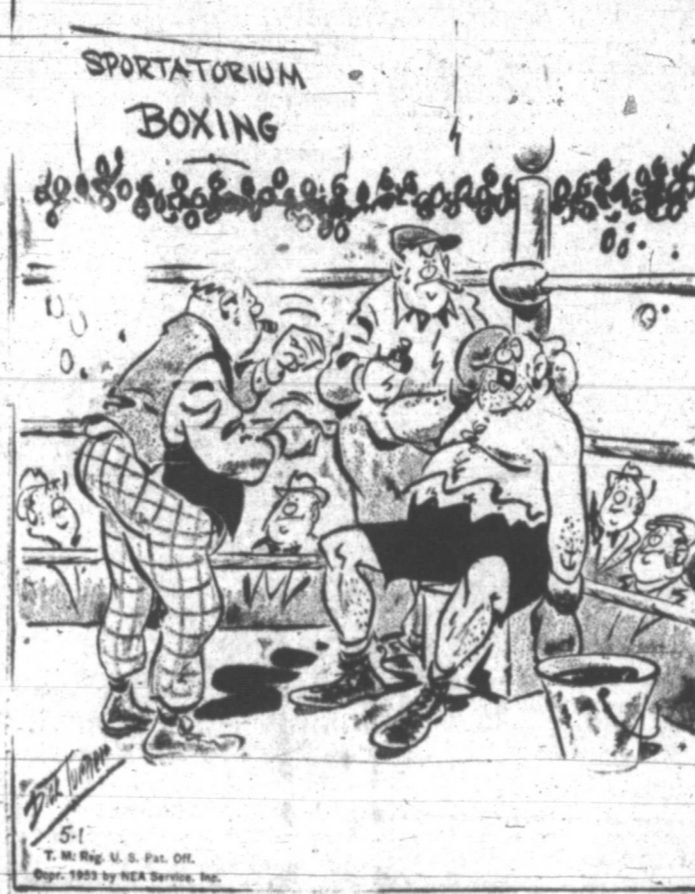

"I wanted him to play Hammer but they gave him just a bit part," said Spillane.

Stanley's eyes narrowed and he smiled slowly while the rain beat down and the bosomy blonde strained at her plunging neckline.

BUTCH'S BEACHED—After five years at sea, "Butch" O'Brien, who rates his own private life-preserver, is being transferred to shore duty.

"Butch," seen here aboard the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Bon Homme Richard, is the number one shipmate of Lt. E. A. O'Brien. The six-year-old mongrel retires from the Navy with the Japanese Occupation, China Service, Korean campaign and United Nations campaign medals.

Pampa Students Initiated At Tech

Four Texas Tech students from Pampa were initiated Thursday night into the Alpha Phi Omega organization at Tech. The students were Ruel Casey, freshman Engineering major; Charlie Pipes, sophomore Business Administration student; Fred Williams, freshman Engineer; and Dibrell Stowell, freshman Agriculture major.

A banquet was held at the Caprock Hotel following the initiation. Arno Nowatny, dean of Student Life at the University of Texas and a past national president of APO, was the speaker for the occasion.

Alpha Phi Omega is a campus service organization made up of former Boy Scouts. Lewis Jones, assistant dean of Student Life, is faculty sponsor.
