Arrest Two In GI-Loan Conspiracy

HOUSTON, Nov. 10 —UP—Houston real-estate operators Adolph Sherman and Otto Faber were freed on $1,000 bond Tuesday, charged with paying veterans to buy GI-loan homes and then selling them to non-veterans who could not get the low down payments that veterans enjoy.

Sherman, 55, and Faber, 46, were charged Monday and arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Ralph Fowler.

A. F. Ferguson Jr., agent in charge of the FBI here, said 17 veterans possibly could be charged with making false statements to the government or with conspiring to defraud the government.

They allegedly were paid $200 each through the formality of buying the homes under GI loans and then turning around and, without living in them, sold the homes to non-veterans who were eager to take advantage of the low down payment and low interest rates of GI loans.

The cases were brought to light as the U.S. district attorney's office investigated abuses of the veterans home loan program.

Gene Lewis, H. E. (Doc) Schwartz and Bob Sidwell this morning were named to Pampa's tax advisory board.

Action came at today's meeting of the Pampa City Commission as commissioners filed secret ballots.

Both Lewis and Sidwell were members of the 1953 city tax equalization board. Third member and chairman was C. P. (Doc) Pursley. Four other persons were also in the running in the vote.

An unofficial body, the tax advisory board is appointed in late fall and is generally named — as these — in April as the city tax equalization board for that year.

Mother, Child Badly Burned FORT WORTH, Nov. 10 —UP—A 48-year-old mother and her five-year-old son were in a hospital with serious burns Tuesday after a butane tank exploded at their Roanoke (Denton county) farm home.

The mother, Mrs. R. M. Keel, was reported in poor condition with third-degree burns over most of her body. Her son, Don Wade, suffered third-degree burns on his face, left shoulder, hips and hands.

Bermuda Meet Scheduled By The Big Three

LONDON, Nov. 10 —UP—President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and French Premier Joseph Laniel will meet in Bermuda Dec. 4 to Dec. 8 to review the entire international situation, an authoritative British source said Tuesday.

Churchill will make one more effort at the Bermuda meeting to convince Mr. Eisenhower that Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin should be invited to a "last chance" conference, the source said.

However, if Churchill fails to convince the President of the need for the meeting with the Soviets, the source said the British leader will scrap the plan for the present.

Churchill's recent speeches have shown less enthusiasm for a top level Big Four talk.

Washington reports said the principal subject of the meeting would be to survey the position of the western powers now that Russia has turned down talks to ease world tension and adopted the "hard" policy of former Premier Joseph Stalin.

The British sources said the American, British and French foreign ministers also will attend the Bermuda meeting.

The meeting is a revival of the session between the three western leaders which had been scheduled for Bermuda last July but was cancelled because of Churchill's illness.

The invitation for the new meeting was issued by Churchill about two weeks ago, the source said.

Russia's rejection of the West's invitation for a four power ministers conference in Lugano speeded the decision for the three-power talks, London and Washington sources said.

White Case Impact Eyed In Election

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10 —UP—Politicians waited anxiously to see what impact the Harry Dexter White case may have on Tuesday's special congressional election in California.

The balloting could cut the Republican party's plurality in the House to only one man, 218 Republicans, 216 Democrats and one independent.

GOP leaders, rocked by recent defeats in Wisconsin, New Jersey and elsewhere, feared a split Republican vote might hand the vacant 24th district seat to the strongest Democratic candidate, George L. Arnold.

But, in the wake of the last-minute sensation over White, Republican candidate, Glenard P. Lipscomb, 38, said he was "now proud" to be a candidate pledged to a Communist-fighting administration.

The polls opened at 8 a.m. with about 40 per cent of some 185,000 registered voters expected to turn out. First returns from small precincts were expected by 8:30 p.m.

Lipscomb's Republican rival was John L. E. Collier. Both are state assemblymen. Lipscomb was the "official" party candidate, holding approval of the county central committee and state and national party leaders.

HOUSTON, Nov. 10 —UP—A 38-year-old mother had custody of her two children again Tuesday on a promise to probation officers here she would never again chain them in their home as they have been in the past.

The children, ages five, four and one, were returned to the mother, a paid worker, Monday night several hours after police picked them up in a cold, dirty frame home on a complaint of neighbors that "they cry so much at night we can't sleep."

A Negro maid at the home told officers two of the children were left chained to a bathroom fixture with dog chains each morning when the mother went to work at 8 a.m. and that she, the maid, unlocked the chains at noon when she came to the house to work.

But the mother said she had used the chains to keep the children at home only five times in about three months.

The one-year-old boy was left in his crib wearing only a diaper during the six hours between the time the mother left and the maid arrived and Mrs. Lanny Dixon, crime prevention policeman said he was "shivering cold" in the unheated house. The mother said she turned out all fires before leaving so there would be no possibility of the house catching fire during her absence.

The mother denied neighbors' complaints of rowdy drinking parties in the home and said the children's father was dead.

Truman And Byrnes Handed Subpoenas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 —UP—Former President Truman and Gov. James P. Byrnes of South Carolina have been subpoenaed to appear before the House Un-American Activities committee Thursday to testify on the Harry Dexter White case, it was revealed Tuesday.

The disclosure was made by Rep. Morgan Murray (D-Mo.), a member of the committee.

Moulder said Committee Counsel Robert Kunzig notified Democratic members of the committee that the subpoenas were issued Tuesday.

Moulder told a reporter that Democratic members were not consulted in advance. He said the Democratic members would seek to have Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., as the first witness.

The action is an outgrowth of Brownell's charge, made in a Chicago speech last Friday, that Mr. Truman promoted White in 1946 despite two FBI reports to the White House that White was spying for Russia.

Brownell said Monday that Byrnes, then secretary of state, was one of a number of top Truman administration officials who had been given copies of the FBI reports on White.

Byrnes confirmed this Monday night in a statement contradicting Mr. Truman's previous statement that he did not recall seeing FBI reports branding White a spy.

Byrnes said he knows that Mr. Truman received the FBI warnings about White, now dead, because he discussed them with him on the very day that White was confirmed by the Senate as U. S. director of the international monetary fund.

Vaughn Subpoenaed The House committee already has subpoenaed Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Mr. Truman's former military aide. Brownell has said the FBI reports on White were delivered personally to Vaughan for transmission to Mr. Truman.

The House group is the second congressional committee to enter the case. The Senate Internal Security subcommittee also has subpoenaed Vaughan and has asked Byrnes for a statement on the White case.

There was no immediate word as to whether the House committee's scheduled session on Thursday would be closed or public.

MANILA, Nov. 10 —UP—Nationalist party candidate Ramon Magsaysay took a lead Tuesday night over President Elpidio Quirino on the basis of early and incomplete returns from the bloody Philippines election.

At least nine persons were killed in election-day balloting marred by violence and reports of "open terrorism" in some provinces.

Nixon Witnesses Chiang's Parade

TAIPEH, Formosa, Nov. 10 —UP—President Chiang Kai-Shek paraded his armed might Tuesday before U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the biggest war games ever staged on the National island bastion of Formosa.

Chiang and high Nationalist officials refrained from commenting on a statement by U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that the United States does not necessarily "forever oppose" recognition of Communist China.

High-ranking Chinese officials did not hide their feelings of alarm. Only Monday Nixon told the Nationalists that Chiang's government was the truly legitimate government of China the United States recognized. He said the Nationalist cause "will in the end be victorious."

Nixon himself had no comment on Dulles' statement. However, he was willing to sing the praises of Chiang's armed forces. He said their showing exceeded his expectations.

Nixon and Chiang reviewed 45,000 Chinese troops in formation, then saw an American-trained Nationalist regiment take a fortified position in a simulated attack exercise that drew approving nods from American military advisers.

Nixon braved lashing winds and sand and frequent drizzles to watch the two-hour field exercise with Chiang.

Nixon's wife, Pat, shivered in a light coat as she stood beside a stateless Mr. Chiang while reviewing troops on a windwhipped airfield.

Funeral services for Orval Niles McDaniel, 39-year-old employee of the Cabot Companies, who died Monday afternoon at 4:15 in Wesley hospital from injuries received when he fell from a railway tank car earlier that afternoon, will be held at the First Assembly of God Church Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The Rev. J. E. Neely, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery under direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

McDaniel was injured when he fell from an oil tank car at the General Atlas Carbon plant about 4:30 p.m. He was reported to have been taking samples of oil from tank cars at the plant. He had taken a sample from the car from which he fell and had turned to close the dome of the car when he fell forward off the car.

He fell on his head on a concrete slab, according to Don Conley, safety director for the Cabot Companies. He was rushed to the hospital in a Duenkel-Carmichael ambulance.

Conley said that it is not known just what caused McDaniel to fall. There was no oil on the car's platform and none on the soles of his shoes, he added.

A native of Oklahoma, McDaniel had been a resident of Pampa for the past 11 years, moving here from Seminole, Okla. He had been a Cabot employee 18 years. He resided with his family at 522 N. Wells.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Hazel McDaniel, Pampa; two daughters, Mrs. Norma Frances White and Barbara Sue McDaniel, both of Pampa; a son, Steven Dale McDaniel, Pampa; two brothers, Lawrence McDaniel, Seminole, Okla.; Bill McDaniel, Drumright, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Eva Dawson, Venice, Calif.; Mrs. Lola Devlin and Mrs. Madge Cloud, both of Drumright.

Magsaysay Leads In Filipino Voting

MANILA, Nov. 10 —UP—Nationalist party candidate Ramon Magsaysay took a lead Tuesday night over President Elpidio Quirino on the basis of early and incomplete returns from the bloody Philippines election.

At least nine persons were killed in election-day balloting marred by violence and reports of "open terrorism" in some provinces.

Early unofficial tabulations of the important Manila cosmopolitan vote gave Magsaysay 21,886 to Quirino's 6,067. Samplings of skimpy returns from the provinces also showed heavy support for Magsaysay and his Nationalist senatorial candidates.

The first provincial returns came from Davao City on Mindanao Island. There Magsaysay had 136 votes to 24 for Quirino.

The full flood of results from the 52 provinces was expected early Wednesday. A trend should become apparent late in the day.

Magsaysay was formerly defense minister in Quirino's cabinet. He resigned to oppose the 62-year-old president in the second presidential election since the Philippines became independent.

Record numbers of the 5 million eligible voters went to the polls, but the balloting was marred by violence and reports of "open terrorism" in some provinces.

Officials predicted further bloodshed. The polls closed at 6 p.m. (4 a.m. CST).

The election was for a president, vice president, eight senators and the entire 102-seat House of Representatives.

Mayor Tom Rose and City Attorney Bob Gordon were scheduled to leave Amarillo airport at 4:15 p.m. today for Austin and a meeting with the law firm of Hollers, O'Quinn and Crenshaw on the gas appeal hearing slated for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 23.

Announcement of the trip came at this morning's Pampa City Commission meeting minutes after commissioners had approved unanimously the hiring of that firm and which S. C. McIntosh, director of the T.R.R.C. gas division, will preside.

Purpose of the get-together in the capital, Rose told commissioners, is to confer with the attorneys on strategy to be used in the Texas Railroad Commission hearing at which S. C. McIntosh, director of the T.R.R.C. gas division, will preside.

Commissioners this morning were expressing the feeling that the case of the City of Pampa vs. Empire Southern Gas Company would be a "test" case, that an entirely new means of determining a fair return on investment was involved. Basically, it's a matter of using the replacement cost of the original cost of equipment as a norm for figuring out the rate of return.

Two months ago, the city commission granted Empire an increase of 12-14 cents on the minimum monthly charge of $1.50. Empire has asked a $2 rate.

Rose and Gordon expect to return to Pampa Wednesday night.

PARALYZED IN WWI War Not Ended For This Vet

EDITOR'S NOTE: Millions of Americans will pause Wednesday to note another anniversary of the armistice ending World War I. It is 35 years since the bugles sounded "cease firing" along the battlefront, bringing to a close one of the bloodiest wars in history. In that conflict, 5,338,315 men lost their lives, 21,219,452 were wounded. Though there have been two wars since Nov. 11, 1918, for some World War I has not ended. One of these is Albert L. Schwenk of Westport, Conn. Here is his story.

By WILLIAM HOWARD BOSTON, Nov. 10 —UP—The dawn of Armistice Day 1953 will find Albert L. Schwenk, a former infantry sergeant, almost exactly as he was when the guns went silent Nov. 11, 1918—in pain, in a hospital bed, suffering from the effects of the same wound.

Only now he may be sleeping, instead of unconscious from a German bullet in his spine, and the bed is in a Veterans hospital here—not in a war-torn French town. Schwenk regained consciousness six days after the bugles sounded "cease firing" to find the enemy bullet had left him paralyzed from the waist to his toes. He has been that way ever since.

Should Have Died "The doctors say I should have died 25 years ago," Schwenk said. "But here I am — still around."

In a time when the idea of rehabilitating a man with half his body paralyzed was almost unthinkable, Schwenk rehabilitated himself. Clever with his hands, he learned to be a diamond setter while still in Army hospitals. Then he did the seemingly impossible. He left the hospital, got married and reared a child. With a little help from a pension and his wife working, Schwenk supported the family by dragging himself down the basement stairs each day and putting in seven hours at his work bench making jewelry.

Paid Over Bills for Time Schwenk has been in hospitals for more treatment and operations. When veterans hospitals fell into neglect in the 1920's and '30's, Schwenk went to private hospitals and paid the bills himself.

Mrs. Schwenk recalls how in one veterans hospital on Long Island, because he was a so-called "nervy case," Schwenk was confined to a ward for the insane. It took three months to get him out.

Schwenk has been in hospitals around Boston for a year now, away from his home in Westport, Conn. his grandchildren and the gardens and terraces he made himself.

Still the fight goes on in a hospital bed.

Homes Held Responsible In Juvenile Delinquency Fight

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of stories on a growing national problem — juvenile delinquency. The series, prepared by the United Press, gives a national and local view of the problem.)

To start the series, the United Press asked FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to set forth his views on the problem.

Subsequent stories in the series will tell of juvenile delinquency in each of four communities in the various geographical areas of the United States—a Southwestern metropolis beset by teenage "chain" gangs; a small New England town whose chief of police has likened the problem; a West Coast city where drug addiction has driven some teen-age girls to prostitution, and a Midwest city trying to live down a reputation for being "steeped in sin.")

By J. EDGAR HOOVER
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—UP—Juvenile delinquency today one of America's most pressing problems.

The time has come for a national awakening to the seriousness of the danger. Too often juvenile crime is regarded as something minor. A 15-year-old bank robber, a 12-year-old car thief, a 10-year-old burglar—these are hard for many Americans to believe. Yet day after day these youngsters are wreaking great damage to society.

Of over one million arrests reported by 222 cities over 25,000 in population last year, 7.8 per cent were of persons who had not yet reached their 18th birthday. Moreover, this group accounted for 19.4 per cent of all arrests for robbery, 26.9 per cent for larceny, 47.8 for burglary and 52.6 for auto theft.

Reflex of Moral Tone
 Juvenile delinquency is a reflection of the moral tone of his nation. Young people can't be expected to behave if their elders don't. A society which produces a high incidence of divorces, broken homes, illegitimate births and adult crime creates juvenile misbehavior. Remedial action can only come from a renewal of civic responsibility.

This responsibility must start in the home. There is no alternative. Time after time, in studying juvenile offenders, I have noted the utter lack of interest of some parents in their youngsters. They have been too busy, too concerned with other activities, or simply deprived of that love, loyalty and companionship which can only come from a father and mother.

The home must be returned to its rightful place as the center of family life.

Can Be Reduced
 Far too many American homes have become substitute hotels, restaurants and waiting rooms. True home life means a place of learning as well as a place of living where the fundamental lessons of moral conduct and spiritual guidance are taught and above all where a good example is set.

Juvenile delinquency can be reduced if every right-minded citizen will do his share. Boys and girls are not inherently bad. They need the help of adults. This is today the challenge of our free society. Only by saving our youth can we make our future secure.

Drinkers Once Sipped With Gold Straws

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—UP— I've heard of such awful things as an egg or a spray of sugar in your beer. But never until now did I learn the ancients used to draw suds through a straw.

This intelligence is contained in a little booklet put out by the United States Brewers Foundation, which knows a thing or two about suds. It's an interesting document called "Barley, Hops and History."

In the olden days, beer drinkers divided into classes like the very rich, the want-to-be-rich and poor people. Poor people drew the amber through reeds. The middle class could afford tubes, but the rich used a "straw of gold." One such golden "straw" was unearthed recently and now is in the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

The little pamphlet is a review of the ages, that Columbus wouldn't have discovered America if he had not run out of beer. (Legend, I say.)

Most famous of the early American brewers was Samuel Adams, "father of the revolution." The fact that Old Sam kind of MC'd the Boston Tea party, didn't matter, he was anti-beer. He inherited a brewery from his Puritan daddy.

The brewers also report discovering, in ancient volumes in the Library of Congress, that an 18th century schoolboy, working on his copybook sums, used beer to illustrate his numberwork. Much as our modern kids start out with "If I had a half dozen apples..."

Actual proof of this now is enshrined in the Princeton University Library. There is to be found the mathematics notebook of a 14-year-old New Jersey schoolboy named Stacy Beakes. In 1721, Master Beakes puzzled over this one:

"A certain man and his wife did usually drink out of a vessel of beer in 12 days and the husband found by often experience that his wife being absent it would last him 20 days.

"The question is how many days the wife were drinking it alone?"

The kid concluded the wife would empty the vessel in 30 days and worked it out like this: Together, the pair drank 1-12 of the beer in one day. The husband consumed 1-20 in a day; 1-12 minus 1-20 equals 1-30. So if the wife consumes 1-30 in a day, it would take her 30 days to dump down the contents of the vessel.

Runaway Gives Up After Sweetheart Weds Another Girl

SHERMAN, Tex., Nov. 10—UP— Janet Shepherd, 17, of McCook, Neb., and a new-found friend were held by juvenile authorities Tuesday after she "surrendered" to police and said she ran away from home to find a Texas boy she planned to marry—only to find him already wed to another girl.

Janet had been missing from her Nebraska home since Sept. 23. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shepherd, where en route to Sherman Monday to take the girl home.

But the attractive blonde told officers there was trouble in her home and she wouldn't stay there even if taken back.

Janet and Betty Frankum, 15, of Anna, Tex., the new found friend, gave themselves up in Denison Monday and were held by Grayson county juvenile officers here.

The girl said she hitchhiked to Texas to "look up a boy I wanted to marry." However, she said she found him wed to someone else. She did not say where the Texas boy lived.

"I've been getting a little nervous on the job lately, Doc!"

Pair Captured In Chase On Highway

ALICE, Tex., Nov. 10—UP— A juvenile and a Freer man wanted for attempted burglary and car theft were held Tuesday after two Texas Rangers shot a fire off their automobile during a highway chase.

The older man was three-time loser Charles May, 32, captured near Freer by Rangers M. W. Williams and Jimmy Wier Monday.

An attempted burglary was hindered at Kenedy, Tex., and cars were stolen at Corpus Christi and at Kenedy Sunday and Monday.

Police said they did not believe the 16-year-old boy took part in the escapade voluntarily.

The boy called to San Antonio Monday and asked a teacher at the "Southton Boy's Detention School, an acquaintance of his when he was an inmate, to call the San Antonio police he would point out the get-away car and his fellow accomplice to Corpus Christi Police.

He told the teacher, Mrs. Ophelia Collier, he didn't want to go any farther with May, who he said "brought me here (Corpus Christi) and now wants to take me to Houston."

But the pair later was found and arrested at Freer.

The boy's description fitted that of a youth flushed from a Kenedy auto firm by a night watchman early Monday morning. An abandoned car, stolen from Corpus Christi, was found at the scene and was traced to May.

Officers said another automobile was stolen at Kenedy, apparently for the trip to Freer.

City leads Okay County Barn Plan

The way seemed clear this morning for the construction of a county barn in Recreation Park and a Negro recreation center in The Flats.

City commissioners okayed a plan presented in person by County Judge J. B. Maguire Jr., to build a county barn adjacent to the present Texas Highway Department building and to set aside another area — approximately one-quarter of a mile away — for a future show barn.

In return, Maguire told the city commission that the county commissioners' court Monday approved the use of the county plot of land in The Flats by the city for the proposed construction of a Negro recreation park.

Labeling it a "swap-out," Maguire told city commissioners he didn't see any reason why the city and county couldn't get together on this matter and others, like sewer lines, roads, that might arise in the future.

It will be a 450 x 450-foot lot on which the county barn will be erected, according to the plan submitted by Maguire. The show barn area will be composed of two lots — one, 290 x 340 feet; the other, 315 x 200 feet.

County Commissioner W. E. Jarvis was also on hand with Maguire. Recreation Park lies in his precinct (No. 2) and it is his county barn now in The Flats.

This "swap-out" had been the subject of many a city and county commission meeting. Only last week Mayor Tom Rose and Maguire had tried unsuccessfully to get their respective public groups together.

Judge Maguire explained this morning that the building will be a "dual purpose barn." The county would own it exclusively for the storing and maintaining of its equipment. However, the Herford Breeders' association or any other group wanted to use it as a show barn, or if some organization wished to hold a barbecue in it, the county would move out its equipment for the event.

Other county business included the approval of an order of the State Highway Commission for the construction of a bridge at the north fork of the Red River on Farm-to-Market Road No. 740 near Bowser City. Judge Maguire was authorized to cash another $100 bond which expires this month to place in the permanent school fund.

Clothing Drive Opens Tonight

Pampa residents tonight will be called upon to contribute old clothes for needy Koreans when members of the Top O' Texas chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will present a program over station KPND, it was announced by Bunny Shultz, chapter president.

During the program, which will go on the air at 8:30 o'clock, and will continue for one hour, anyone having old clothes they would like to contribute to the drive should call the station — 4-7461 — and members of the chapter will pick them up, Shultz stated.

It had been planned that the drive would be held after the Parade of Quartets program later this month, but plans were changed so that the clothing could be received in Korea by Christmas. The annual SPESQA show will be held Nov. 21 at 8 p.m. in the Junior High School auditorium. It will feature three of the nation's outstanding quartets, along with several local units.

Shultz said that the chapter hopes to complete the drive tonight, but clothing will be accepted if turned in later. Cooperating with the chapter are churches and civic clubs.

The CC has submitted a resolution to the City Commission asking that an ordinance be passed requiring itinerant vendors, (peddlers) to obtain a license and post bond before being permitted to engage in house to house selling. Action by the "city dads" is expected at an early date.

Under a new procedure, a nominating committee submitted nominees for each of four places on the CC board of directors to be filled for the coming year. On nomination from the floor was added for one of the places. Ballots will be mailed to all members and must be returned to the secretary before Dec. 1. Death Ruled For DeWolf

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 10 — UP — Carl Austin DeWolf, a policeman's murderer who has received 15 years of execution in four years in the death house, must die, the Oklahoma Pardon and Parole Board said Tuesday.

Gov. Johnston Murray said he will not overrule the board. This means DeWolf will be electrocuted at McAlester state penitentiary one minute after midnight next Tuesday.

"We are of the opinion the verdict of death was fully justified. We found no sound basis for mercy," the board's written decision said.

State Sen. Kirksey Nix of McAlester, who led the attempt to save DeWolf, said he will ask Murray for further stays. But the governor said:

"No one could be fairer than I in allowing the man to go through all the courts of the nation twice. . . . Reasons for the stays have been exhausted. I am going to follow (the board's) recommendation as the law says I shall."

Convicted of Murder
DeWolf was convicted of murdering Jerry StClair, a Tulsa policeman, in a running gun battle here in 1946. His conviction was appealed unsuccessfully through Oklahoma courts and ultimately to the United States Supreme Court.

The board's latest decision was the fourth time it has found no basis for a reduction of the death sentence.

Zoning Proposal Handed To Panel

City commissioners late this morning tossed the ball to the Pampa Zoning Commission in the matter of restricting building 40 feet to the east of Hobart Street, between the Santa Fe Railroad tracks and Francis.

A recommendation by the Hobart Street Underpass committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, advocating that move, was handed over to the city commission and approved.

Talking of the recommendation signed by W. B. Weathered, committee chairman, City Attorney Bob Gordon pointed out that the problem of zoning rights versus property rights might well be an issue in the affair, that it might be better for the zoning commission to handle the problem.

"The quicker the city acts, the less it'll cost in the long run," Gordon commented, urging speedy action and cautioning commissioners that damage suits might arise if care was not taken in the matter.

Weathered's letter said specifically, ". . . amend the zoning ordinance to restrict. . ."

Jimmy McCune, chairman of the zoning commission, could not be contacted late this morning on when he would schedule a meeting on the affair.

He was en route to Roswell from his ranch near Elkins, N. M., about 30 miles northeast of Roswell. He was alone at the time.

A native of Castro County, O'Brien was a director of the Independent Producers Association, the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, and the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 — Appointment of William S. Fly of Victoria, former Texas legislator, as a member of the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority was announced by Gov. Allan Shivers, Elliott, retired, who succeeds Arvie Elliott, retired, will serve until Feb. 1, 1955.

Canadian Dam 'Educational' Plan Launched

Directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority today were prepared to make an all-out "educational" campaign for confirmation of the project, following an all-day "meeting of the minds" in Plainview.

For the confirmation elections in the 12 Panhandle-Plains communities included in the project, authorized in the last session of the Texas legislature, are just two weeks away — Nov. 24.

Five Pampa officials and three Pampa newsmen were among the 34 persons on hand Monday in Plainview's Hilton Hotel to talk over the various means of getting information to the public on the elections.

Among them were Former Pampa Mayor C. A. (Lefty) Huff, president of the authority, and Fred Thompson, second Pampa member of the authority; E. O. (Red) Wedgworth, chamber of commerce manager; Bill Waters, chairman of the chamber's legislative and national affairs committee; and James Cowan, city director of public works.

Time and again, during the get-together which lasted a total of three hours, it was emphasized that the upcoming election was merely for the purpose of confirming each community's inclusion in the project, that it had nothing to do with voting for a bond issue or the like.

At the request of Robert A. Maxey, Lubbock, vice president of the authority, representatives of 11 of the 12 communities (absent: Littlefield), gave the assembled delegates their ideas of ways and means of getting over to the public what the project means, especially for the future.

Included in the ideas were newspaper editorials, civic club talks, mimeographed fact forms, question and answer programs, talks for women's groups, phone calls election day, television plugs and mass meetings.

Authority directors voted unanimously to make KPND official election night headquarters.

Any person who renders property for taxation, resides within the municipality in which he owns property and is otherwise qualified may vote. It was emphasized repeatedly.

Mid-way in the day's meeting, those on hand had lunch with the Plainview Optimists Club, then watched a 29-minute colored film on "The Canadian River Project," prepared by A. A. Meredith and Jack Allen, both of Borger. Meredith, authority secretary, just out of the hospital, was absent so T. E. Johnson, director from Amarillo, took over his duties.

Plans were made to have the film—there are eight copies—shown several times in each of the 12 communities before Election Day.

The 12 communities included in the project — a dam and reservoir on the Canadian River near Sanford, north and west of Borger — are Pampa, Amarillo, Borger, Lubbock, Plainview, Slaton, O'Donnell, Levelland, Langston, hoka, Littlefield and Brownfield.

Reds Deadlock Talks To PWs

PANMUNJOM, Nov. 10 — UP — The chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission said Tuesday Red refusal to break a deadlock in the prisoner interview program would not prevent American officers from trying to win back the allegiance of 22 American prisoners.

The neutral commission also notified the United Nations Command there will be no explanation session Wednesday for anti-Communist prisoners. Wednesday is the 48th day of the 90-day "come home" interview program.

Indian Chairman Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya said the Communists are to blame for the current stalemate in interviews with anti-Communist prisoners.

Thimayya said he planned to turn, on his own, Communist prisoners who requested repatriation if the present program of explanations fails.

He said, following a tense meeting of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, he had in a crucial five-hour conference with Communist commanders Red territory to break the deadlock.

However, he said the stalemate explanations to anti-Communist prisoners would not affect all interviews with 356 American, British and South Koreans who had refused repatriation.

"There have been no explanation to prisoners for five days because the Communists demanded 201 of these prisoners, who were not in view last week because of a stalling, face Communist polit officers. Emir Saud Modern Product Of Dollars And Diplomacy

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign Analyst

The late, fierce King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia was a product of sand and the sword. His son and successor, Emir Saud, is a more modern product of dollars and diplomacy.

With the help of his Wahhabi armies, Ibn Saud conquered a vast and sandy kingdom which covered most of the Arabian peninsula. As a man he was described as Saud was born the same night in

I Want to Be Your Lucky Star
FRIDAY the 13th

the greatest Arab since Mohammed. The fact that a vast pool of oil under his sandy kingdom made him one of the world's richest, and most all-powerful men was an accident.

Now it remains to be seen whether, in the son, the softening qualities of oil have destroyed the abrasiveness of sand.

Desert legend has it that Emir Saud was born the same night in January, 1902, that the elder Saud began his own Arabian Nights career. On that night, with only about 10 followers, he scaled the crumbling walls of Riyadh and started a campaign which eventually was to unite the Nejd and Hejaz and place under a single ruler six million subjects and 700,000 square miles of territory stretching from the Red Sea to the Persian Gulf. Riyadh and Mecca became his twin capitals.

It was also the beginning of a feud between Ibn Saud and the Hashemite rulers of Iraq and Jordan which, despite various surface friendly gestures, has continued to this day.

It was in an atmosphere of violence that Emir Saud entered the world and grew to manhood, but under conditions vastly different from his father.

Ibn Saud, despite his annual income of $20 million a year in oil revenues and his love of four-engine personal airplanes and Cadillac, left his desert kingdom only twice.

He preferred to sleep on the ground and to live the life of a simple Arab whose food consisted primarily of camel milk, meat, rice and dates. He lived strictly according to the Koran, including the number of his wives. He never had more than four, although he divorced and continued to support around 12.

The new King is more cosmopolitan. He has traveled in the United States and throughout Europe where he represented his father at the coronation of King George VI of Britain.

As a ruler he is relatively untested. And the tumultuous Middle East, with its restless peoples and vast oil riches, has little room for weakness.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood on the record: Robert Mitchum: "Sometimes I'm inclined to think that Clark Gable was right when he said, of screen acting, 'It's a living.' I still have to rummage through my conscience for taking money under false pretenses."

Dinah Shore about TV wardrobe:

"You have to be careful. Don't dress as if you were out to get some other woman's husband."

Van Heflin, on why he's never regretted not being the collar-ad type or a definite personality:

"Hollywood producers may think of Robert Taylor or Humphrey Bogart for a role. But when they can't get them, they say, 'Okay, so let's get an actor who can play it.' That's when they think of me."

Jean Peters, on meeting Claire Boothe Luce in Rome:

"She's a handsome, dignified woman, but there is this jazzy side of her that comes out now and then as if to remind you that she wrote 'The Women' and 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye.'"

Orson Welles, on his addiction to "I smoke too much. As a matter of fact, I have to go on working so I have enough money to keep myself in Havanas."

Henry Morgan, about learning his lines for "The Far Country":

"I'm a little slow. I'm still hearing lines from my last picture." Scars Himself

Marie Wilson, absentminded about names:

"Gertrude Niesen is one of my best friends but I almost always call her Gertrude Lawrence. She didn't seem to mind until Gertrude Lawrence died. Now it's a little frightening."

James Whitmore, on his film career:

"Hollywood's been good to me. This is a ridiculous business. I've had fantastic breaks. This acting is like a big crap game."

MGM producer Sol Baer Fielding, about Hollywood's responsibility to the public:

"Movies today must do something more than appeal to the eye. Pictures must either entertain you or teach you something. They can't spend money on baby sitters, tickets, popcorn and parking just to be lulled into submission or invited to enter another world."

Robert Cummings, on TV's ability to polish the star:

"All I know is that when I go to premieres, people start yelling 'Beanblossom, Beanblossom.'"

Dany Robin, the French cutie who costars with Kirk Douglas in "Act of Love":

"I don't mind wearing a filmy nightgown for a scene in a film. But I won't pose for leg art. Acting is an artistry. Cheesecake is just sheer."

Novelist Louis L'Amour, who is writing a story with a strong role for a woman after specializing in screen originals for Jeff Chandler and John Wayne:

"I've been dating Katy Jurado. She gives me ideas."

Dawn Addams, after meeting Sylvia Pampalini, the Italian sheba who lashed out at Hollywood male stars as being too old and decrepit:

"Sylvia is the Marilyn Monroe of Italy and rather vivacious and plump for the American taste."

Robert Wagner, about night-club publicity:

"It doesn't amount to a darned thing. What's important is good pictures and good acting. You can't do either if you're running around with dames every night. The public eventually says, 'What's with this guy and this new-girl-every-night routine.'"

Historical Case

In the November 13th issue of Colliers there appears a fascinating article by Robert C. Goodman entitled "I Won't Send My Children to Public Schools."

The article reports on the State of California vs. William and Mary Turner of Los Angeles. Every person who is interested in the basic issues involved in compulsory education should read this article.

The basic issue involved, the Turners feel, is this: "Should the parent or the state be the overseer of the child?"

Mrs. Turner says that she hopes the appeal to the high court will establish the right of a parent to teach his own children.

Mrs. Turner has seven children. Some parents would be glad to get rid of seven children. They put the responsibility on the schools for what goes into their children's minds merely as a means of getting some peace and quiet around the house during the day.

But Mrs. Turner is a rather exceptional parent. Her husband, William, is a Rhode Island State University graduate. Mary Turner's grandfather was a university president and a renowned preacher; her mother served as state psychologist for Rhode Island.

Here is what Mrs. Turner says: "I won't send my children to public school. I love my children. I also like them; I like to be with them. I want the fun of taking a very personal part in their development."

She believes home schooling has advantages her children would never find in today's over-crowded classes.

Does Mrs. Turner or anyone have a right to keep their children home? Do children belong to their parents or to the state?

The state of California, so far, appears to believe that children belong to the state and that parents should have no say-so over what their children are taught.

Judge Roger Pfaff declared that it would be "educational anarchy" to let parents determine what a child should or should not study.

Judge Pfaff's verdict: "The Turners were guilty of violating the state educational law. The judge stayed execution of sentence (a $30 fine or six days in jail) to permit an appeal to be filed."

Mrs. Turner had used up all her own and her husband's money in fighting the case. She said: "I didn't know where to look for help."

Then, according to the Colliers' article, a miracle happened: "Then came the miracle Mrs. Turner could only have prayed for. Her telephone rang four days after the newspaper account of her court appearance and a male voice said: 'I think you are waging a noble fight. I'd like to send you a thousand dollars to help.'"

"At first, Mary Turner didn't believe him. 'Certainly, I thought it must be a crank,' she recalls, 'or at best a political sharpster of some kind trying to make capital out of our case.'"

"But when he identified himself as a respectable business man her heart leaped."

"After I caught my breath," she says, "I told him I couldn't accept any help with strings attached. I was lending myself to no cause of any kind." He said there would be no strings; he felt she was fighting for a basic liberty and he wanted to help preserve it.

"The money arrived by special delivery the next morning, with it came written assurance that more would be made available, to help fight the case all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary."

At the trial Mrs. Turner's daughter, Mariel, took the stand. "... the report of an academic testing bureau, submitted as evidence ... showed her to have the educational achievement level of a college sophomore."

Mariel is only 15 but already shows this achievement. Nevertheless, Judge Pfaff raised the cry of anarchy. Beware of people who cry "anarchy!" at those who fight against big government. For such people are on the side of government and against your right to exist for your own sake.

An Example

Through many long years the federal government was criticized by weary taxpayers for wasting money or supporting a needlessly huge army of government employees — and deservedly so. Under the new administration, both the number of federal employees and the cost of maintaining them have dropped, according to statistics reported in the Wall Street Journal.

Yet the entire cost picture of government employment — federal, state and local — may be received with mixed emotions. Total employment shows a drop of 1.3 per cent to 6,184,000 persons. But the drop has come only because the federal decrease offset an actual increase in the number of people on state and other local government payrolls. Moreover, because of the rise in employment outside the federal field, the total of money going into all public employees' paychecks actually increased by 3.6 per cent in the year ending last July.

The trend toward economy in Washington is to be hailed and commended — but it must be applied in all branches of government in the grassroots areas as well if the taxpayers are to get any measurable relief.

"Promoting International Collectivism"

VIII
I am quoting from the book "Communist-Socialist Propaganda in American Schools" by Verne P. Kaub from his chapter called "Promoting International Collectivism." In this chapter he writes: "Eagerness to indoctrinate the youth of the land with the ideology of all-powerful world government is evident in writings of leaders and spokesmen for National Education Association bearing on many subjects, and teachers are urged to offer this propaganda in connection with consideration of all types of instruction. For example, in 'Citizens for a New World,' Fourteenth Yearbook of the National Council of the Social Studies, 1943, teachers are instructed, Pages 167-8, that

"International Relations is a subject to be taught all through the curriculum, in all fields of subject matter, and at all levels — elementary, secondary and college. Though the principal emphasis can and should be placed in the social studies field, incidental reference may be made in other fields of study."

"Suggestions for such correlations of the topic 'give such as to how the subject can be introduced into English classes, speech classes, science classes and art classes."

"The internationalists who are in control of National Education Association policies disdain to conceal their aims. It is no loose federation of states which they advocate; no wishy-washy League of Nations would be acceptable, nor do they care for the present United Nations with its actions hampered by veto powers. The demand for super-government for the world, with the 'logic' often used for presentation, is stated briefly but convincingly on Pages 22-23 of 'Citizens for a New World':

"No state can be expected to disarm and give up its right to make war so long as war is the only means provided by which that justice for itself. Until substitute for war is provided which can give reasonable assurance to a state that its interest will be protected and that justice will be done for it, war can never be brought under control. Consequently, the community of nations must provide not only an international police force, but also provide means by which disputes can be fairly settled and by which an unjust situation can be changed. This means a complete international government with judicial and legislative agencies as well as the physical power to enforce decisions. It would not be just to demand that a state should give up the right to use force if this use of force is the only means by which it can protect itself."

"The 'Yearbook' authors tell us, Pages 104-105:

"The constitutional requirement that one-third of the Senate may block any treaty was a mistake on the day it was made. The treaty clause never worked for us as it was intended — with the President and twenty-six Senators sitting as an intimate executive council. Constitutions have been made by the dozen, all over the world, since 1789, but no other country has ever copied our treaty veto. We remain the only country in which one sixteenth of the national legislature can block the conduct of the nation's foreign relations."

"Yet it is intolerable that the anachronism of the treaty veto shall leave us helpless to take our full part in organizing against a Third World War. The struggle-hold of a constantly recruited 'battalion of death' upon our foreign affairs must be ended."

"If we could believe this declaration — including 'the treaty clause never worked once as it was intended' — the United States never has had a treaty with any other nation! Readers need not be too discerning to be able to discover other equally absurd and extravagant statements in these and other writings from official National Education Association sources."

"Nor need there be anxiety lest all this propaganda for world government is being carried on without approval of the rank and file of National Education Association departments whose officers are responsible for preparation and publication of the yearbooks and other printed materials of the departments from which quotations are made in this little book."

"At its annual meeting in November, 1948, The National Council for the Social Studies declared by resolution: 'Conscious of our obligations as citizens, as students of contemporary problems and as events, we the members of The National Council for the Social Studies, resolve that ... the Council favors the continued support of the United Nations and UNESCO, and the furthering of the classroom levels of the ideals of these organizations.'"

"Explanation of how the teachers of social studies can implement their intention of furthering the ideals of world government at the classroom level is not hard to find. 'Warren Robinson Austin, United States Representative at the Seat of the United Nations, wrote the 'Foreword' and begins 'pointing up' methods to be used in this revealing paragraph:

"Through educational process we must develop a habit of individual thinking about international affairs which will cultivate a sense of public responsibility for the success of the United Nations."

"Chapter One, 'The Challenge,' advances a step further in the final paragraph, Page 31:

"This report summons the teaching profession of the United States to unite in planning and executing an educational program for a peaceful world." "In Chapter Three, 'The Marks of a World-Minded American,' the reader 'stumbles upon' a subhead reading, 'The world-minded American believes that education can become a powerful force for achieving international understanding and world peace.' The same thought is reported in even plainer language on the following page (34), where it is stated that: "Education for international understanding involves the use of education as a force for conditioning the will of the people." I Raised Him From A Lad

National Whirligig... Democratic Victories Spur Ike To Act On Campaign Promises

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower and his advisers have already responded to recent political reverses by outlining a program for swift legislative enactment of the campaign promises that won him the White House, but which were forgotten or passed over at the last session of Congress. House-Senate leaders will soon be summoned to Washington to obtain their approval and agreement to cooperate.

The does not regard the Republican defeats in New York, New Jersey and Wisconsin as a repudiation of his administration's record, but as a warning that the voters are "impatient." He has discovered to his chagrin that, whereas the people would grant him plenty of time to prepare and mobilize for a victorious landing in Normandy or North Africa, they are not so tolerant or generous with respect to solution of their everyday, bread-and-butter difficulties.

An indictment generally used by triumphant Democrats in local and statewide elections in recent days charged that the administration had adopted a policy of "government by postponement." The charge was based on the fact that both the White House and Congress had referred so many questions to committees and commissions for long range study.

FOREIGN PROGRAM NOT AN ISSUE — In framing this 1954 legislative agenda, the Eisenhower political and policy committee has placed major emphasis on domestic issues. Their post-election autopsy shows that the administration's broad foreign program did not become an issue in any of the contests where the Democrats staged a comeback. Where the outcome was not determined by local influences and personalities, it hinged principally on Washington's action on the home front.

In White House opinion, and in the order of their importance on the 1954 legislative calendar, here is what the voters showed that they want from the administration: (1) Balanced budgets and tax reductions, with the drop in prices which producers can pass on to consumers as a result; (2) An increase in all Social Security payments and extension of benefits to millions now excluded.

POCKETBOOK RELIEF — Equally essential, in the 1954 session, is enactment of legislation designed to get an income tax refund to something like being shot at and missed.

THE UNCHRISTIAN APPEAL TO COERCION
(Christian Economics)

Jesus said, "I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." (John 12:32)

We believe that statement, nevertheless, it does not seem to work very well. Why?

Non-Christians judge Jesus Christ by those of us who profess His name. Unfortunately, try as we will, we do not seem to be able to lift Him very far above the earth.

We are so rooted in the earth ourselves that it is difficult for us to gain much altitude. Unfortunately, the coming of His kingdom is retarded by our feebleness. Nevertheless, Jesus does not coerce anyone, nor even scold us who profess to be His followers, for giving such a distorted and imperfect picture of Him.

Some men try to force their views upon others. They think, if they can obtain a vote of 51 per cent, that they have the right to coerce the other 49 per cent into accepting the program designed by the leaders of the majority.

Well-intentioned men, becoming impatient with Jesus' slow way of drawing by loving appeal, seek to do what He never did, to coerce their fellows through the medium of the state. In reality they are appealing from the persuasiveness of the Holy Spirit as exemplified in the life of Christ to the power of Caesar.

Fair Enough....

Visits To Joe Fay In Sing Sing Cost GOP Heavily In Prestige

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
NEW YORK — Tom Dewey undoubtedly has lost strength both in the State of New York and in the nation. But it would be futile to try to divine now what his luck will be next year when he is counted on to replace Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., from Albany, or in 1956 when he might try for a third presidential nomination.

The Republicans were hit worse than the Democrats in New York and New Jersey by the revelations of crime and graft in the harness-tracker racket and of political pilgrimages to the cell of Joe Fay in Sing Sing.

The reason was that Judge William F. Bleakley, of Yonkers, a dominant Republican machine politician, J. Russell Sprague, a Republican national committeeman and other prominent Republicans were caught in flagrancy. But the fact is that the union racketeers were Democrats of the Roosevelt-Truman dispensation.

Fay is a Hague man from Jersey City and Newark. He escaped a prison sentence for cheating on his income tax only by a spectacular feat of malpractice by the Department of Justice when Tom Clark, now of the Supreme Court, attorney-general, in a decision was warned to be careful and he plainly expressed suspicion of his own United States attorney just before the trial began in Newark. This man was Edgar H. Rosbach of whom Clark said: "I have had a lot of trouble with that fellow."

I had called on Clark to tell him that the trial judge, Thomas F. Meany, was a politician of the Hague organization and that a whole roster of Fay's gang had appeared before the judiciary committee to endorse his nomination. He owed his conviction in part to these Fay gangsters. I was naive. Clark knew much more about Meany than I did and was correctly informed on Rosbach, who was a stranger to me. Fay already had been convicted of extortion and the selection of one jurymen who was a contractor subject to reprisals by Fay's associate criminals in the union racket. Another juror was the wife of a real estate appraiser who drew a large sum of money from the municipality of Jersey City, then ruled by Frank Hague. The contractor was thrown off the jury, but the occupation and pay and the source of it, of the other juror's husband were not disclosed until after the acquittal. In view of Clark's admission that he was suspicious of his prosecutor, he might have been impeached, himself, by a determined administration under a moral party. But the New Deal was utterly corrupt, we were to learn later. So even though Clark said he thought the result was an outrage the morning after the acquittal, Harry Truman sent him to the Supreme Court.

Now it is true that Judge Bleakley has been hand-in-glove with Fay, James Bove and other filthy racketeers for many years. It is true that the acting Lieutenant-governor of New York, State Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, also called on Fay in Sing Sing and, for his defense, boldly explained on television that Fay represented a new "government" in this country. It is true that Republican State Sen. William F. Condon, one of Bleakley's henchmen and an old pal of some of the worst union racketeers, took money from some of them sensibly for campaign purposes and boasted of it. It is true that Sprague was turned up as the owner of 4,000 shares of the Yonkers Trotting Association and that he could not possibly have been stupid enough to have remained ignorant of the conditions disclosed after the remarkably bold murder of a criminal unioner in the Bronx. But the timing alone was bad for the Republicans by comparison with the Democrats.

But in New Jersey where Paul Troast, the Republican, was beaten for governor because he recommended clemency for Fay, the Democratic Party and the Fay rackets had been almost synonymous for 30 years, with intertwined memberships. Rosbach, who has since died, was a sorry specimen doing his best for his party when its members got into trouble. The income tax cases of bootleggers and black marketeers which were squared or messed-up on trial are other monuments to his loyalty to the party.

Who else went to call on Fay in Sing Sing?

Well, there was George Meany, the president of the American Federation of Labor, a staunch Democrat of the Roosevelt faith. There was Thomas A. Murray and Louis P. Marciano, presidents of the New York and New Jersey State federations of the AF of L. There were Richard J. Gray, president of the Building Construction Department of the AF of L in Washington; Sal Maso, president of the New Jersey State Building Trades Council; Joe Delaney, of New York, a vice president of the Union of Operating Engineers (Fay's racket) and Fay's successor in the exercise of his awful power in New York and Jersey and Meyer Ellenstein, of Newark, who was mayor for two terms and proclaimed his friendship for Fay and Longie Zwilman, another notorious racketeer, and there was John V. Kennedy, the mayor of Jersey City, who entreated Fay to moderate crime on the waterfront from his cell.

All these are Democrats. Most of them are powerful unioners who blast the Republican Party for maintaining the Taft-Hartley Law. Meany's name was kept off the list of pilgrims to Sing Sing and came out only when the Republican, Condon, explained that he went up the river only to conduct Meany to Fay's throne.

There were many more Democrats than Republicans involved in these things, which have had a perceptible effect on the morale of good citizens in the East. But, by a psychological freak, the Republicans took the onus. The defeat of the Republican Troast in New Jersey was definitely the result of his intervention for Fay although the whole Democratic Party itself in Jersey was indistinguishable from the mob.

Dewey has been negligent and cynical. But the guilt of the Republican Party is that of only a few individuals whereas the Democratic Party has been the sharing partner and accomplice of these rackets for decades.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

The thing I'd like to do most is avoid even a fractional part of a recent less than important squabble between a boy singer and his employer, but the employer unfortunately came up with use of an unusual word in show business: humility. And just about the same time he was uttering this word an old friend and movie director named Edgar Ulmer was walking off a job in Italy because he had expected Miss Hedy Lamarr to "approach her job with humility" and, apparently, she didn't.

As a man who has tussled the fringes of show business for some 30 years, I find it a little ridiculous for two men of professional stature to be ignoring pious wishes that their hired hands would come to work with a modicum of humility. It is the last possible description that should be applied to a player unless playing one role and one only. And even then the role should have its militant moments as indeed the Creator of the role in Person had. The Christ can be played with humility and indeed should be, but Christ had times of militance and they are recorded in the Bible. His driving of the money-changers from the temple, for example, was a moment in which no humility was discernible.

For any other role in sight or on record a humbled stance of studied humility is idiosyncratic. Great performances of sparkle and temper are not created in a mood of humility. Great stories are not written, great songs are not sung and great roles are not played by actors or actresses approaching their jobs with a "gee whiz, I owe this fellow a lot" attitude. The attitude is self-cancelling. If you go to a job bowed down with the fact that you must truckle to the boss because he gave you the chance you are going to fizzle out like a wet match.

I don't know much about the radio-television man who fired the singer, but plainly he is an executive of a certain kind and not a showman else he not only wouldn't expect but would definitely not want a lot of humility to zero out his employees. As for Ulmer, I have known him a long time, respect him as a director of film and invention, and am appalled at what must have been happening to him lately. He knows all about actors and actresses. He knows they can't be — and the good ones won't be — hampered by the humility bit. It is destructive to good performance and crippling to the creation of a role. I have never known Miss Judith Anderson, for example, to be weighted down by humility; or any other great actress of temperament and substance. It just doesn't go along with the job. They may get noisy, nagging, unjust, giggling, nervous, jumpy, flighty or annoying, but they give solid, colorful performances and to load humility onto these performances would be to turn them drab and lustreless.

Any time you interview a player and he or she draws a solemn face and says: "I approach my job with humility," brother, get running. You are in the hands of a phony. I can never forget a statement made one night across a dinner table by the Old Man himself, a gent named Gable: "I am the world's loudest actor. I don't know why they want me doing what I do, but I'm appreciative. Acting for movies has given me everything I ever dreamed I wanted when I was a starving young actor on Broadway. Any time they want me to hang up my gloves, I'm ready. I saved some money, I had the hoola that goes along with this crazy job. I don't think I'd ever be a good actor if I lived and worked at it for a 100 years. I'm lucky. That's it. If I want humility let them go to the dictionary." That's what I mean. Humility is for the frightened — on both sides. Any time a boss demands humility, his own inside mechanism is bothering him. You can be sure of that. Any time the employee flaunts his humility, you can be certain he's a scared rabbit.

Williamson Rates Odessa Third, Harvesters Sixth

Waco, Lamar Continue In 1-2 Berths

There was no change in the top six teams this week in the state Class AAAA bracket, according to the Williamson System.

Pampa's Fighting Harvesters, for the third straight week, holds down the No. 6 spot again. Preceding them in the Williamson rankings are Waco, Lamar of Houston, Odessa, Woodrow Wilson of Dallas and Port Arthur in that order.

Following Pampa in sixth place are Ray of Corpus Christi in 7th, Baytown 8th, Abilene 9th and North Dallas 10th. These four teams were in the top 10 last week but three of them are in different order. Abilene, idle last week, dropped from seventh to moving up a notch to 7th and 8th respectively. North Dallas held fast on 10th position.

There were a few changes in the second 10 of the AA bracket. Paschal of Fort Worth dropped out of the top 20 with Crozier Tech of Dallas moving in. Paschal was 19th last week but dropped to 25th this week after suffering a 19-35 loss at the hands of Fort Worth Poly.

The other changes in the second 10 saw San Angelo, 17th last week, changing places with 16th ranked Breckenridge of San Antonio and Dallas Crozier dropping to 19th and Reagan of Houston, 19th last week, round out the top 20.

From 11th through 15th the rankings stayed the same with Amarillo, Orange, Miller of Corpus Christi, Lubbock and Midland holding down these spots.

In the other schoolboy brackets, Texarkana, Edinburg, Temple and Big Spring comprise the top four in Class AAA; Stamford, Comanche, Taylor and Jasper, top four in Class AA; and Ranger, Lyford, Luling and Wink in Class A.

Included in the Double A rankings are Dumas 6th and Phillips 32nd. In Class A, Canadian is ranked in 41st spot and McLean 55th.

Following are the top 20 teams in each of the four schoolboy divisions:

AMARILLO STATION KFDA-TV will televise the Harvesters-Odessa battle at Harvester Park Saturday afternoon. It will not be a live broadcast, of course. We don't know the exact date it will be re-run but it will likely be Tuesday evening.

ONE OF THE LARGEST PRESS gatherings in history of Harvester Park will likely converge on Pampa Saturday afternoon.

Expected to cover the game here in addition to local coverage, are Monk Owens of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Spec Gammon of the Odessa American; and representatives from the Dallas News, Amarillo Globe-Times, and Berger News-Herald; and Radio Station KPND of Pampa and at least one radio station from Odessa. And this is in addition to the TV coverage.

BILLY LIGHT OF THE PAMPA Boys Club won his fight over TV in Amarillo recently, scoring a 3-round decision over a Clavis last Tuesday night, the other Pampa on the TV program, was TKOed after one round.

The Boys Club, incidentally, is getting a lot of letters and calls Tuesday night for the forthcoming season. It looks like the Pampans are going to be in for a full season.

Stanford's Indians remained on top of the Pacific Coast Conference standings Monday and chief contenders for a Rose Bowl bid, despite discouraging 23 to 20 loss to USC Saturday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—UP—Despite Notre Dame's tough tussle against Pennsylvania last week-end, the Irish received a point-score just five short of perfect from the United Press Board of Coaches Tuesday as they led the college football ratings for the seventh straight week.

The 345 points out of a possible 350 which Notre Dame attracted this week represented the high mark for the 1953 season and was the just one point shy of the all-time high set by Oklahoma's 1950 national champions.

Maryland, which like the Irish is unbeaten and untied, held the runner-up spot for the third week in a row, while Illinois, Michigan State and UCLA advanced to the next three places, taking advantage of an upset which dumped Baylor from third place last week.

Notre Dame, which beat Penn 28 to 20 last Saturday for its sixth straight triumph, received 31 first place votes from the 35 leading coaches who comprise the United Press Rating Board. Maryland had the other first place ballots. Three coaches selected the Irish second and one picked them third.

Maryland, which took advantage of two third-period breaks to beat George Washington, 27 to 6, had 278 points, cutting Notre Dame's lead 7. Georgia Tech (6-1) had 254 points, with 251 points, and Michigan State, with 251, each advanced a notch after Big Ten victories, while UCLA, which was idle last week-end, moved up three places to fifth with 187 points.

The upset defeat of Baylor, plus unexpectedly close games played by Oklahoma and Georgia Tech, accounted for UCLA's rise.

LEFTY GUARD—Ronnie Etheridge, Odessa Bronco guard, will figure heavily in the victory plans of the Odessa Broncos Saturday afternoon against the Fighting Harvesters at Harvester Stadium. Etheridge is the only non-senior on the starting offensive lineup. He is a junior. Etheridge scales 190 pounds and stands 5-10. He won a reserve letter last year as a sophomore. Broncos Hold Short Workout Monday; Defense Stressed

By SPEC GAMMON
Odessa American Sports Editor
OESSA, Nov. 10—Coach Cooper Robbins and aides Carl Cook and Jim Daniel put the emphasis on defense here Monday afternoon as they began preparing the Odessa Bronchos for their showdown battle with the Harvesters in Pampa Saturday afternoon.

Odessa's coaching staff has a healthy respect for Pampa's offensive power and realizes the Bronchos will have to be at their best defensively to stop the Harvesters.

A trio of ends—Russell Rummel and his assistants, Aubrey Neomaster and Dwaine Lyon touch on all phases of the game.

A good portion of the workout was used in setting up a defense against Odessa plays. Following this phase of the workout, the Harvesters polished up on their own offensive plays.

Coach Tipps, appearing before members of the Pampa Quarterback Club last night, had all kinds of praise for the Harvesters' Saturday foe—the Odessa Bronchos.

"We've been working for the past 10 days on setting up a defense against the Odessa attack," Tipps told the Quarterbackers. "But this is a pretty rough task."

"This fellow Schlemeyer can throw that football but even if the Broncos didn't have him, they would still be rough," Tipps continued.

Orville Lewis, assistant Guerrilla coach, who has been the chief scout on the Odessa games, also had praise for the Bronchos. In his address at the QB meeting last night, Lewis said the Bronchos have one of the fastest backfields in the state.

"Troy Moody, Odessa halfback can run the 100-yard dash in 10.1 in a football uniform," Lewis quipped. "And they have several others who are just about as fast."

Summing it all up, Tipps told the Quarterbackers that the Harvesters weren't going to forfeit the game.

John Darby, the injured Harvester halfback, suited out for the first time since his Abilene game (Oct. 23) when he received a kidney injury. Darby, who is still weakened from the 10-day stay in the hospital, may see part-time action in the Odessa game Saturday.

Longhorns Win 3-Way CC Meet
AUSTIN, Nov. 10—UP—The University of Texas cross-country team Tuesday boasted an easy cross-country win over Texas Christian and Southern Methodist. Texas, led by Inocencio cantu in 1:57 minutes over a 2.6 mile course, won the triangular meet Monday on 21 points, compared with 48 for SMU and 82 for TCU. Cantu finished ahead of Tom Rogers, also of Texas, James Woods of TCU and Leroy Lowe of SMU.

Dick Foerster of Texas placed fifth, Hutten Hale of Texas sixth, and Don Neighbors of Texas seventh.

Weaver Is Interested Tech Gets Feeler From Gator Bowl

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 10—UP—Texas Tech Coach DeWitt Weaver was "definitely interested" Tuesday in a query from the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., about participation in a New Year's Day football contest.

Weaver said he had turned down on "feeler" for a post-season bowl game, but the Gator Bowl appealed to him. He received a letter and telegram from Sam Wolfson, member of the Gator Bowl committee that selects the teams.

"I was asked whether Texas Tech would be interested," he said, "and replied that we were definitely interested. I was told the committee probably would pick the host team about Nov. 14 and that the bowl officials wouldn't know until about Nov. 17 whether Tech would be the guest team."

Weaver said he rejected an offer from the Refrigerator Bowl for a Dec. 6 game at Evansville, Ind. Tech supporters had hoped there would be an offer from the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, and Weaver said he also "would rather go to the Sun Bowl (at El Paso) if we had a chance."

Texas Tech has played in six bowl games—the Sun Bowl in 1957, 1941, 1947 and 1951, the Cotton Bowl in 1953 and the Raisin Bowl in 1949.

The Red Raiders have lost only to Texas A&M of the Southwest Conference this year, and has defeated West Texas State, Texas Western, Oklahoma A&M, College of Pacific, New Mexico A&M, Mississippi State and Arizona.

They still have Tulsa, Houston and Hardin—Simmons on the season's schedule.

3 Teams Can Still Win 1-A Grid Title

Three teams are still in the running for the District 1-A title as the season reaches the next to last week of play this week. Memphis, McLean and Canadian are the teams still in the running for the district crown. All other teams have been eliminated from title contention.

Memphis is currently leading the race with three wins and a tie. Canadian has a 4-1 record and McLean 3-1. The Pampa B team this week and will be heavily favored to finish with a win. The Wildcats will play Clarendon at Clarendon Friday night.

McLean and Memphis will have rougher sledding in their games this week. McLean goes to Lefors while Memphis hosts Panhandle. Both games could well go either way.

White Deer, the seventh member of 1-A, will step out of the district to meet the Pampa B team this week at White Deer.

In last week's games, Canadian knocked Panhandle from the title chase, 21-7; McLean stayed in the championship running with a 26-0 win over Clarendon; and Lefors edged White Deer, 7-0. Memphis

Ags Nip OU In Cross Country
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 10—UP—James Blaine broke the course record Monday to help Texas A&M edge the Oklahoma A&M cross country team 27 to 26.

The senior Southwest Conference champion from Imperial, Tex., finished in 11:36 to break his own record for the Aggie course by five seconds. He set the record last week against Southern Methodist.

Oklahoma Aggie Frederik Eckhoff, Norwegian, finished second in 11:44; Steve Landquist, Oklahoma Aggie runner from Sweden, finished fourth.

11 Unbeaten In AA Ranks

By DICK HARDWICK
United Press Sports Writer
Six of Texas' 11 unbeaten Class A football teams appeared to have smooth sailing right into the post-season playoffs Tuesday, but the five others must beat one more tough district opponent.

Nothing short of a complete collapse should keep Terrell from moving into the playoffs in defense of its state championship. The Tigers have whipped their two toughest 12-AA opponents, Willis Point and Van, and now have only one game between them and the playoffs.

Already thinking about the playoffs besides Terrell are Stamford, Comanche, Jasper, Huntsville and Lamarque. Lamarque is unbeaten but has one tie on its record.

However, Dumas, Spur, Del Rio, Uvalde and Refugio can't see the playoffs clearly because of a district foe muddling the view. In the case of Del Rio and Uvalde, the date of Nov. 20 will settle the issue when the two powerhouse play at Del Rio in a 29-AA conference game.

Dumas has once-beaten Phillips to cloud its aspirations and the two teams play Nov. 20 at Phillips. Spur has once-beaten Tahoka for a Nov. 20 date at Spur, and Refugio plays once-beaten, once-tied Cuero Friday night at Cuero in one of the top games on this week's schedule.

In the other standout game this week, Wharton and El Campo match perfect 3-0 non-loss district records Friday night at El Campo. This game will decide district 28-AA.

Seven other games share the spotlight. They are Floydada at Tahoka in 5-AA, Monahan at Fort Stockton in 7-AA, Seagoville at Carrollton in 12-AA, Commerce at Pittsburg in 14-AA, DeKalb at Atlanta in 15-AA, Madisonville at Huntsville in 20-AA and Cameron at Belton in 23-AA.

Andrews, which lost 20 to 19 to Levelled last week, was the only team dropped from the unbeaten list.

Stamford's Bulldogs had the closest call. Battled to a standstill by Anson and its star tackle, Gilbert Peiton, the Bulldogs kicked a third-quarter field goal to win 3 to 0.

Drawing Held For Cotton Bowl Ducats

DALLAS, Nov. 10—UP—A public drawing was held Tuesday to determine which of 60,000 football fans will use 25,000 seats available for the New Year's Day Cotton Bowl game.

The drawing was set by the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association to determine the order in which applications would be filled.

A number, taken from a box, was matched with the number on one of some 600 folders. Each folder contained 25 letters asking for tickets, and past experience showed that virtually every letter asked for the maximum of four seats.

The applications were thus to be filled in the order of numbers drawn. The 25,000 available tickets were all that went to the general public with others reserved for participating schools and still others for option holders of Cotton Bowl tickets.

SWC Teams To Begin Bearing Down Today For Weekend Tilts

By UNITED PRESS
Harder workouts were scheduled Tuesday for most Southwest Conference football teams that spent Monday with light drills and discussions of last week's games.

The Texas Longhorns, who spoiled Baylor's record last Saturday, prepared for this week's game with Texas Christian, the team that has spoiled Texas hopes in the past. Coach Ed Price said center Leighton Younger was lost for the season because of a dislocated shoulder received in the Baylor game.

TCU Coach Abe Martin spotted a defect in the Horned Frog offense Saturday. He said Washington State knew what direction the Frog split-T plays were going because one of his halfbacks leaned in that direction before the ball was put into action. The TCU squad expected to be at full strength against Texas.

Texas A&M had light workouts with offensive plays emphasis on downfield blocking. The Aggies made it through Saturday's contest without serious injuries and expected to be at full strength this week against the tough Rice Owls at Houston.

The Owls were briefed by assistant Coach Joe Davis on the Texas Aggies. He called the Cadets a tough team, fully capable of upsetting Rice. Unless injuries crop up, the Owls should be at top condition for the homecoming game Saturday.

Unless some Baylor players make speedy recoveries from injuries received in the Texas game, the "Fog" will be in their worst physical condition of the season when they meet the University of Houston Saturday in Waco.

Baylor halfback Jerry Coody, top ground-gainer in the Texas game, has a side injury, and tackle James Ray Smith has an assortment of injuries, as has end Wayne Hopkins, guard Bill Lucky and several others.

Hard scrimmage sessions are in store for the Arkansas Razorbacks this week in preparation for their last game in Texas this season—against SMU Saturday in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. Arkansas Coach Bowden Wyatt had only praise for the Rice team that defeated the Hogs 47 to 0 Saturday.

He said "they could have beaten last game in Texas had they not been injured." The SMU Mustangs took a light workout and then watched the injury varsity defeat Fort Hill, Okla., 6 to 0. Two regular Mustangs, halfback Jerry Norton and tackle Don (Tiny) Goss, who missed last week's Aggie game because of injuries, are expected to see action this week against Arkansas.

Brigham Young has just scored, using five consecutive medium-length passes for 80 yards, but Tempe still leads, 19-14.

Brigham Young kicks off short to the side, where the Brigham Young right tackle falls on the ball on the Tempe 42-yard line. It is now first down for Brigham Young with the winning touchdown 12 yards away.

Parents Unable To Forgive Kidnapers

TULSA, Nov. 10 —UP—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duane Stammer said Tuesday they could never forgive the 17-year-old carnival strip-teaser who kidnaped their fat, cheerful baby boy.

The young couple planned to return to their Evansville, Ind., home by plane with the boy, Richard Lee Stammer. They spent the night with the five-month-old child in a Tulsa hotel.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Tommie Dene Doughty, who kidnaped Richard Lee Friday night while babysitting with him in Evansville, said "I sure do love that baby."

Mrs. Stammer, reunited with her child, cried silently for some two minutes before she could speak.

Husband Cries

Finally, with tears rolling down her cheeks, she whispered, "I'm so happy to have him back that I can't say anything."

Her husband sobbed.

Mrs. Doughty, who said she took the child to replace one of her own that had died, became more penitent and said in a Muskogee, Okla., jail she felt "awful" about the act. However, any hopes of forgiveness were killed by the child's mother.

No Sympathy for Kidnaper

"I don't care what happens to the girl," Mrs. Stammer said bitterly. "I have no sympathy for her; she had no feelings for me."

The father said he couldn't "say in public what I think."

Mrs. Doughty, arrested late Monday night at her parents' home in Bokchito, Okla., said she only worried now that she had to give up the baby.

"If the baby's parents and my parents can forgive me, I'll spend the rest of my life making it up to them all."

"When I get to thinking about how the baby's mother felt, it makes me feel awful," said the Wyoming, it was learned Tuesday, former carnival worker who once was arrested in Amarillo, on a charge of indecent exposure while strip-teasing.

Can Get Life Sentence

"I sure do love that baby. I didn't commit no crime. I was going to take it back. I hope they will forgive me."

The Stammers were reunited with the baby Monday night. The child was being cared for by a registered nurse in the home of FBI Agent Leo Uebling in Durant, Okla. The baby was not harmed.

The shapely Mrs. Doughty was held in lieu of $20,000 bond in the Muskogee jail, pending a federal grand jury indictment in Indiana. If she should choose to plead guilty, her case could be disposed of in Muskogee.

Under the Lindbergh law, she faces possible life imprisonment if convicted.

Commodity Credit Watching Losses

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 —UP—The Commodity Credit Corp., biggest food buyer in the world, watched its losses mount Tuesday despite its efforts not to throw the United States' check-book too far off balance.

Its multi-billion dollar operations are of major concern to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, who hopes to reduce some of the spending in the new farm program he will suggest to Congress next year.

The corporation, the banker for agriculture department's price support operations on surplus food and fiber, already has totaled up a 27,781,167 loss in the two months since July 1. That's three times more than losses it showed for July and August a year ago.

If the rate continues—and chances are it will — losses will exceed the $148,000,000 estimate for fiscal 1954 by the time next June 30 rolls around.

Even the estimate losses are more than double those of fiscal 1953. They would be below the all-time annual loss of $345,600,000 in fiscal 1951, but officials fear this is the beginning of an upward trend in price support losses.

Of chief and immediate concern to the CCC and the Budget Bureau are actual money withdrawals the CCC makes from the Treasury this year. Because farm law requires the CCC to loan money on or buy crops whenever farmers ask, the CCC withdrawals are one of the few "uncontrolled" items in the federal budget.

Officers Say No Violence Used On Accident Victim

TEXAS CITY, Nov. 10 —UP—Texas City police officers testified here that there "definitely" was no violence used upon an accident victim between the time she was released to them by Galveston County Memorial hospital and her death two hours later in a jail cell.

The victim, Mrs. Georgia Boudreaux, 36, was examined by attendants at the hospital, pronounced all right, and released to Texas City police on a drunkenness charge.

The Texas City commission held a two-hour hearing Monday in an attempt to vindicate the police officers after Mayor L. A. Robinson charged the hospital with "trying to make a goat out of" the police department.

Took Her Pulse

Patrolmen C. A. Burks and James M. Bell took the woman from the hospital to the jail in a patrol car. Burks testified that he told him the woman had only slight lacerations and would "sleep it off." He said he and Bell carried the woman to the car and laid her down, unconscious, on the back seat.

City Attorney Holman Lillienstern asked Burks: "Did you use any violence on the way over?"

"Definitely not," Burks replied.

The officer testified he made only two stops on the way to the police station. He said Bell was following behind him in another car with his wife and mother.

Police Sgt. J. E. Goodwin met Burks and rode to the jail with him. Goodwin and Bell carried the woman into the jail. City Commissioner Carl Rust said he booked her in the cell on a charge of intoxication and as a material witness.

Harland G. Powell, who was in the audience at the hearing, told the commission he came upon the accident shortly after it happened. He said Mrs. Boudreaux was thrown out of the car and the driver, Blanche Moye, was on the other side.

Patrolman John B. Allen testified he went into the cell and checked the woman's pulse about every 10 minutes and she seemed okay to him. He discovered she was dead about 12:20 p.m.

"As far as the police are concerned, we are convinced they are not responsible for the death."

Earlier, John B. Richardson, head of the hospital board of managers, said as far as the hospital is concerned, the case is closed.

Miss Moye will be tried Nov. 13 on a charge of murder with a motor vehicle and driving while intoxicated. She is in John Sealy hospital with broken ribs, broken collar bone, and a broken arm.

"Frankly I think our neighbor's mad at us!"
