VENIRE IS CALLED Kidnap Pair Due Quick Sentences

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4 —UP— Plans for quick sentencing of child-killers Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady moved forward rapidly Wednesday after their pleas of guilty to federal charges in the kidnaping of slain Bobby Greenlease.

Calling of a venire of 125 residents of the western district of Missouri was ordered preparatory to a trial set for Nov. 16, in which the jurors' only duty will be to recommend the penalty.

Edward L. Scheffler, United States district attorney, said in asking that a jury be impaneled that he would seek the death penalty provided under the Lindbergh kidnap law.

Federal District Judge Albert L. Reeves indicated the trial would be brief. The government was expected to offer a summary of evidence comprising a chronological account of the crime, including the six-year-old boy's abduction by Mrs. Heady from his Catholic Day school Sept. 28, the firing of a bullet into his head in an isolated Kansas field the same day, and his burial in a lime-filled grave in the backyard of Mrs. Heady's attractive bungalow at St. Joseph, Mo.

Confessions signed by Hall and Mrs. Heady will be admitted, Judge Reeves said, explaining this could not be done if they had not pleaded guilty.

Indications were that the court anticipated no difficulty in obtaining a jury. Reeves pointed out that prejudice would not be a juror there is no question of determining guilt or innocence.

He said, however, that he would permit the 52 challenges customarily allowed in a federal trial.

Although approximately half of the record $600,000 paid by millionaire Robert C. Greenlease in a futile attempt to ransom his already-dead son has not been recovered, there was nothing to indicate it would bring a delay in the trial or execution of sentence.

Cowmen Want Millionaire To Debate Issues

SALLISAW, Okla., Nov. 4—UP— The Sequoyah County Cattlemen's Association announced Wednesday it is now seeking a rancher worth one-half million dollars to debate price supports at a meeting here Nov. 14.

Last week the association challenged another cattlemen's group to furnish a millionaire rancher to take the negative side of the argument, Melvin Faulkner, president of the local group, explained. The challenge was not acknowledged. The debate is planned as part of an all-day rally and barbecue which also will include a speech by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) who favors direct cattle price support at 100 per cent of parity.

"Maybe there's no such thing as a millionaire cattlemen anymore," Faulkner said. "We therefore have sent another challenge to the American National Cattlemen's Association at Denver." This was the organization which received the first request. It is opposed to price supports.

Faulkner's latest wire stated: "Have not received a reply from our wire of Oct. 25 regarding proposed debate of one of our million-dollar windmill ranchers and one of our family type herd owners. Since Tuesday's leveling-off prices we have growing concern that you might find it difficult to furnish millionaire cashman. They are fast getting whittled down to our size. We are willing to settle for a half-millionaire. Would appreciate earliest reply."

Light Rain Seen For Pampa Area

Prospects for more moisture in the Pampa area were good today with the sky being overcast and the forecast calling for light showers.

Farmers of the area agree that, although the three recent rains have been very beneficial to winter wheat crops, they still could use more moisture.

While light showers were forecast for today, no important temperature changes were expected. Tuesday's high temperature, as reported by the weather station of Radio Station KPDM, was 68 degrees seven degrees lower than the previous day's high of 75. The low reading Tuesday night was 48 degrees, while the mercury stood at 51 at 11 o'clock this morning.

Amarillo Video Request Okayed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 —UP— Plains Empire Broadcasting Co. was unopposed Wednesday for a Channel 7 television station at Amarillo, Tex., after two other applications were dismissed on request.

The Federal Communications Commission dismissed Tuesday applications by Mrs. Louis Mae Harrison, doing business as the Texas Telecasting Co., and Charles Henry Coffield, doing business as Panhandle Television Co. They asked to withdraw for economic reasons.

Ex-Spar Male Of Louis Sends Three Policemen To Hospital

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 4 —UP— Three policemen were in the hospital Wednesday after a former sparring partner of Joe Louis staged a spirited donnybrook on a Milwaukee street corner.

It took six policemen to subdue 29-year-old "Long John" Hubbard after he started his one-man riot Tuesday.

Dazed officers reported that they broke two leather-covered night sticks over his skull but the sturdy pugilist was apparently unfazed. Hubbard, who claims he was fired by Louis' handlers because he played too rough with the great heavy-weight champion in training camp bouts, was charged with resisting an officer and assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Arrests were continued to Nov. 4 and bond set at $1,000.

Speaker Tells Of Effects In Atomic Attack

"It is a dismal picture." That was one of the final comments by Dr. John W. Jermyn who spoke to 22 district registered nurses Tuesday night in the county courtroom on "The Nurse's Role in an Atomic Attack."

A Korean War veteran, Dr. Jermyn had visited Hiroshima, hit by an atom bomb Aug. 6, 1945, so he was able to describe to nurses the effect in deaths and injuries that caused. To illustrate the devastating effect of such a weapon, he said:

"If a 20 kiloton atom bomb were dropped on Amarillo, 90 per cent of the persons within a half-mile radius would die."

Explaining to the assembled that, in the event of such an attack, they would have duties to perform that they had never done before, Dr. Jermyn maintained they would include "acting as physicians without any guidelines of a technical nature on the injuries that would need treatment, he encouraged the U.S. Civil Defense program and added, "Perhaps a little prayer in church this Sunday might be a good idea."

Prior to his talk, a district meeting of school nurses was held at 6 p.m., attended by Mrs. Helen Cullum, Shamrock; Mrs. Gwen Walsh, Pampa; Mrs. Dorothy McCreary, White Deer; Skellytown; and Mrs. Lucille Koble, Gray County.

'Explanations' Fail

PANMUNJOM, Nov. 4 —UP— United Nations, neutral and Communist officials walked out of stormy prisoner explanation sessions Wednesday as Chinese captives rejected communism by a record 95.3 per cent.

"Inhuman" interviews by Communist political officers with the Chinese prisoners caused the separate walk-outs of the UN and neutral officials, and then of the Reds themselves.

The Communist tactics of dragging out the interviews cut the number of prisoners facing the Red political officers from a scheduled 403 to 208. Of those interviewed only three elected to return to communism.

Declared Mentally Incompetent Only two of the Chinese who requested to be repatriated to Red China will be sent back. The third prisoner was declared "mentally incompetent" by the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission and sent to a hospital.

The Chinese political officers in interviews termed "mental torture" by American officers prolonged their propaganda poundings despite repeated refusals of the prisoners to return to Red rule.

One prisoner shouted "I want to go to Taiwan" (Formosa) 132 times and screamed obscenities at the political officers for a half hour before he was excused. Other interviews lasted more than two hours and one "explanation" continued four hours and 20 minutes.

United Nations officials said the prisoners were "brain washed" and indicated an official protest would be made to the commission.

Demos Sweep Elections

See Trend Of Return To Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 —UP— The Eisenhower administration was hard hit Wednesday by a Democratic election triumph in New Jersey which sliced the Republican house majority to a pair of seats and took the governor's office for the first time in 10 years.

Democratic leaders called off-year election returns from New Jersey, Virginia, New York and a scattering of other states the beginning of a trend which would sweep them into office in 1954 and 1956. Republicans conceded they were in political trouble—"as of today."

Democrats easily won New York City's municipal election and beat down a Republican effort to establish a two-party system in Virginia.

New Jersey Draws Interest

National interest centered on a by-election in New Jersey's Sixth Congressional District which had been steadily Republican since it was established in its present boundaries 21 years ago. The vacancy was created by resignation of Rep. Clifford P. Case, Republican.

Complete but unofficial returns gave: Harrison A. Williams, Democrat, 66,870 votes; George F. Helms, Republican, 66,994 votes.

The new standing of parties in the House: Republicans 218; Democrats 218; Independent 1; vacant 1.

Paul L. Trossat, Republican, conceded a few minutes after midnight that he had lost the New Jersey race for governor to Robert B. Meyner, Democrat.

Incomplete returns gave Meyner 847,460 votes; Trossat 686,519.

Wagner Wins Easily Democrat Robert F. Wagner Jr. easily won election mayor of New York in a tight vote. Complete returns gave: Democrat Robert F. Wagner Jr. easily won election mayor of

He Should've Looked Twice

FRANKLIN, Ind., Nov. 4 —UP— George Looko Twice didn't look too closely when he hailed a taxi.

He and another South Dakota Indian soldier were fined $15 on intoxication charges after police gave them a free ride to the local jail. Looko Twice hailed the police car thinking it was a taxi.

City To Prepare Ice Box Ordinance

City Attorney Bob Gordon within the next two weeks is to prepare two proposed ordinances — one to regulate the storage of explosives within the city limits, the other to regulate the storage of discarded iceboxes and refrigerators.

City commissioners Tuesday instructed Gordon in the drawing-up of the two proposed ordinances. First of three readings on them will probably come Nov. 17, the next regularly-scheduled get-together of commissioners.

In other action, the commission read a petition, signed by property-owners, asking for the extension of fire zone to the 600-block of South Cuyler. They lobbied (1) heard Grocer Mitchell Hill read a petition, signed by property-owners, asking for the extension of fire zone to the 600-block of South Cuyler. They lobbied (2) took under consideration proposed replacement purchases of automotive equipment, as provided for in the budget. (3) paid two estimates owed to contractors on city work.

Southern Governors Bypass Public School Segregation

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 4 —UP— Dixie governors indicated Wednesday they would avoid any official pronouncement on a pending Supreme Court suit to wipe out racial segregation in public schools.

Several governors said privately the Southern Governors Conference would adopt no resolution dealing with the segregation issue at an executive session Wednesday.

Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, outgoing chairman, was reported to have sounded out some of the governors on the possibility of adopting a resolution asking the court not to rule out segregated schools.

But some of the governors were known to feel that it would be "inappropriate" for the conference to take such a step at this time. The case, which effects school segregation laws of 17 states and the District of Columbia, is scheduled for further argument before the high court next month.

Resolutions of the conference require unanimous approval of the governors for adoption. This usually rules out any controversial measure.

Meanwhile, Gov. Robert F. Kennedy of Louisiana, predicted the Democratic party will have more trouble on its hands in his state in 1956 unless an acceptable presidential candidate is nominated.

Winter Hay Plan Scheduled Monday

AUSTIN, Nov. 4 —UP— Agriculture Commissioner John C. White announced Wednesday Texas' winter hay aid program is expected to get underway next Monday but expressed "certain reservations" about the joint federal-state program without beef price supports.

White outlined the program upon his return from Washington, where he negotiated a contract Tuesday under which the U.S. Department of Agriculture allotted $704,000 for drought-stricken Texas stockmen.

Under the joint federal-state program, transportation costs of hay will be provided, but the rancher will pay the cost of the roughage.

White said the program would be handled through existing local drought committees, and added he expected necessary forms would be ready for distribution next Monday.

However, he commented he had "certain reservations" about the effectiveness of the program, without "some kind" of price supports for cattle.

"I can't encourage them (the ranchers) to go borrow money to participate in this program," he said.

But White said "we're not asking for a pauper's oath in this thing." He outlined procedure for obtaining transportation-paid hay. The first step, he said, calls for the stockman to apply to his local drought committee for a certificate of eligibility and the amount of hay the stockman is entitled to and how much he may purchase for a 30-day period.

Farmer Run Over By Wheat Drill

A 62-year-old Gray county farmer was resting well in Highland General Hospital here today, after suffering injuries when he was run over by a wheat drill Tuesday.

R. J. Sallor and Gordon Williams, Skellytown, were sewing wheat on the sailor farm west of Pampa when he fell from the fender of a tractor into the path of the drill, as Williams turned the tractor, it was reported. The drill ran completely over him, the report said.

He was taken to the hospital in a private automobile by Williams where he was suffering from a broken vertebra, chopped breast bone, two broken ribs and cuts and bruises.

SECRECY CLAMPED ON U.S. ATOMIC POLICY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 —UP— Secrecy was clamped on American policy on sending atomic weapons overseas Wednesday following a double denial that any A-bombs will be stored in Spain.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made it clear that the United States has no intention of broadcasting its plans for storing A-weapons.

Possibly fearing repercussions in Europe, they both pronounced Tuesday on a statement attributed to Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott that this country will supply atomic weapons to its air units operating from Spanish bases.

Madrid dispatches said Talbott made the statement Monday after surveying the areas where air bases will be located under the new pact with Spain. Tuesday night, after he had arrived in Athens, Talbott was reported in dispatches to have denied the remarks attributed to him in Madrid.

While the Defense Department still did not know precisely how Talbott phrased his Madrid press conference remarks, it took the apparent attitude that whatever he said he should not have said. An official said Wilson and Dulles had disposed of the matter effectively and there was no plan even to ask for any explanation from Talbott prior to his return here next week.

Opposes Entrance To UN As Neutral

SEOUL, Nov. 4 —UP— President Syngman Rhee violently attacked Wednesday suggestions that India be given a limited role in the Korean peace conference as a compromise with Communist demands for neutral participation.

Preliminary talks at Panmunjom on arrangements for the political arrangements are deadlocked over Red insistence on giving Russia and Asiatic neutrals a voice in settling Korea's future.

"Let India come to the conference as a Communist state," Rhee said in a written answer to questions by United Press.

"But as a neutral, never!"

Charges Indian on Reds' Side While many American officials have been outspoken in their praise of the Indians' fairness in handling the neutral custody of unrepatriated prisoners, Rhee charged that they have sided with the Communists.

"The Indians are not involved in Korea except as propagandists for the Communists," he said. "At the Panmunjom prisoner commitments, the 5,500 or more Indian troops are parading about in a demilitarized zone armed to the teeth, killing and abusing anti-Communist prisoners."

Rhee indicated that one of the principal reasons for his animosity to India was its effort to be neutral.

"Those who do not care whether democracy survives are not neutrals, anyway," he said, "they are against us."

Rhee expressed confidence that the United Nations would not back down in their opposition to neutral participation in the peace conference and would not negotiate the issue in the current Panmunjom talks.

No Authority for Settlement He said U.S. special envoy Arthur H. Dean, negotiating for all the UN allies and South Korea, has no authority to settle the composition of the peace conference.

"He cannot act, nor can any action be taken, to alter the conference composition without reference of the whole matter to the Republic of Korea and the anti-communist allies that have helped to fight the war," Rhee said.

The peace conference, he said, "is not supposed to be the meeting of a debating society but a face to face showdown pitting the Republic of Korea and its allies against the aggressor Communists, who are just one issue, and that is the ROK, U.S. and UN insistence that the Reds get out of all Korea and stay out."

Wool Growers' Leader Backs Benson's Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 4 —UP— Farm policies of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, under fire from some livestock associations, received the solid backing Wednesday of Ray Willoughby, president of the National Wool Growers Association.

Willoughby, of San Angelo, Tex., will speak before the convention of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers.

He said he had "the utmost confidence in Benson's integrity" and believes his farm principles are sound.

"He's doing all he can to get the industry on a more stable basis. I don't think Benson should be criticized for the drop in prices and other predicaments of the livestock industry," Willoughby said.

"We cannot make him responsible for legislation passed by Congress. Given the proper tools, he will go a long way toward putting correct administration back on a sounder basis than on which they have rested in years."

The sheep man said there were "better chances that some kind of benefits might come to the wool-growing industries under the present administration than under administrations of the past."

He explained domestic industries are being strangled by foreign wool imports and had a difficult time obtaining legislation from a "free-trade-minded" administration.

Hobart Underpass Meeting Planned

The purpose of the meeting is to study further the several possibilities of approach to the underpass problem. Several plans for the proposed underpass now are being studied by both the sub-committee and city officials.

Members of the subcommittee are Weathered, Fred Thompson, DeLea Vicars, Clinton Evans and Irvin Cole.

Gray County's annual school bus driver school is just 10 days away. Get-together will be held at 9 a.m. Nov. 14 in the Pampa High School cafeteria according to County Schools Superintendent B. R. Nuckols.

There are 37 drivers in the county public schools system, and Nuckols said today he hoped that all of them would be able to attend the one-day session.

Largely devoted to the element of safety, the school will feature short talks by Texas highway patrolmen from the Amarillo office; Archie Roberts, Lefora school superintendent; and Mrs. Raymond Stephenson, Hopkins, speaking as a parent.

Election Watched In Philippines

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign Analyst
Democracy's Philippines "show window" goes on special display next week.
Some 5,000,000 Filipinos are expected to cast ballots Nov. 10 in a bitterly contested presidential election which could have repercussions throughout the Far East as well as in the Philippines.
In a sense, both Philippines and United States prestige are at stake. Contestants are the opposition Nacionalista party of candidate Ramon Magsaysay and the entrenched Liberal party machine of President Elpidio Quirino.
Newspaper reporters covering the campaign generally seem to believe Magsaysay will win.
It is possible they count too much on Magsaysay's glamour with the voters and too little on Quirino's experience.
The 46-year-old Magsaysay is a popular hero in the Philippines where, as Quirino's secretary for national defense, he broke the back of the Communist-led Hukbalarhap movement and persuaded many of the Hukos to settle peacefully on government-donated lands.
Now he is turning that same persuasiveness on the Filipino voters, including an intensive campaign in the "Solid North" where the Quirino supporters count most heavily on victory.
Quirino Not Well
Magsaysay says he'll win by a million and a half votes.
Quirino men have not estimated the exact margin but claim their victory will be substantial.
Quirino, 62, still is thin and obviously unwell after recently undergoing two operations in the United States for stomach ulcers.
But he, too, has campaigned hard and remains a polished speaker.
In theory at least, the Philippines are set up in the image of the United States.
Danger to U.S. Prestige
And the present danger lies not in who is elected nor in what occurs between now and election day. Rather, it is what may occur on Election Day and afterward.
Both sides have been free in their charges of terrorism against the voters.
Some Magsaysay supporters have said they will not allow the senate to confirm Quirino as president, if he wins and there is evidence of fraud in election. They also have charged the Quirino administration plans to keep itself in power by martial law, if necessary.
Fraud in the election or trouble later can only be a blow both to the Philippines and the United States and provide fresh ammunition for the Reds in the Far East.
There are about 1500 earthquakes a year in Japan, but most of these are too weak to do any damage.

Hollywood Youngsters Going In For Hot Rod Automobiles

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4 —UP—The sports car craze that began in this area, now includes three members of the diaper-and-poppin' and television, but reassuring signs appeared today it's still the same. One junior motorist is Ralph old, whacky Hollywood—now the Hartley Jr., aged nine, who drives a miniature Cadillac. Ralph's father, manager of a machinery factory, built the eight-foot-long car in seven months, patterning it after the family's grown-up Cadillac.
After school, Ralph Jr. climbs into his one-seat convertible and gears around an eighth-of-a-mile race track in the back yard.
"Oh, this is his second car," said Ralph Sr. "When he was four he drove a smaller car I made for him."
"I spent $1600 on this car and have been offered $4000 for it. I started with a cut-down Austin chassis."
Little Ralph's auto has fancy fish-tail fenders like the big cars and can whiz up to 70 miles an hour. He isn't allowed to go over 15.
So far Ralph has run over one peach tree and his dog, who howled but recovered quickly.
Curtis Smith, believed to be the babies drive hot rods and Cadillacs.

world's youngest motorist, drives a stripped-down hot rod in San Diego. He is all of 3 years old. Curtis hasn't been talking long but he can toddle into his jolopy and "rev" 'er up. His gasoline-motor car has three fourths horsepower.
You will never see Curtis wheeling into Romanoff's parking lot, diapers fluttering, however. Like the other baby drivers, his motoring is restricted to the back yard.
One day young Smith drove one-fourth of a mile, reaching the speed of 8-8 1/2 miles an hour, on a special racing strip. His father beams that's a world's record, for his weight, anyway.
Mopet motorists also include a four-year-old William Whiting, who is in a class with Donald O'Connor, Bing Crosby and other owners of fancy foreign cars. William boasts an Italian model, a 39-inch-long baby Alcat. His grandfather, oilman Loren Hillman, bought it for $400.

Hotel Named In Civil Suit

Pampa's Hillson Hotel has been named defendant in a breach of contract suit. The case of John E. Hill vs. Continental Hotels, Inc. et al, filed Tuesday afternoon in the district clerk's office, involves an amount of $14,400 which plaintiff contends is due him.

According to the suit, plaintiff made the agreement for rental with defendant June 16, 1950, an agreement concerning most of the Hillson Hotel property. Continental Hotels, Inc. the suit continues, "agreed, bound and obligated itself" to play plaintiff as rental $33,000 in monthly installments. Mishap Victim In 'Good' Condition

Raymond Smith, 45, of McLean, injured on a road construction job when some piling rolled off a truck onto his legs, was reported in "good" condition late this morning in Highland General Hospital. Accident occurred the morning of Oct. 28 — a week ago — at the washed-out end of the Denaworth Bridge, some 10 miles north of McLean, according to County Commissioner O. L. Tibbets, who said today that Smith had gone through hours of operations "very well" and was "resting comfortably."

Good Food Mark Of San Francisco Since Gold Days

RUTH MILLET

Here is a letter that should comfort some fathers and cause others to take a second look at themselves. A woman writes: "I was delighted with the article you wrote some time ago, 'Remember, mother, a house is to live in.'" "My mother was criticized for years, by a few of her friends, for having an upset house. All 10 rooms were spotlessly clean, but there were 'things' about always. One glance and you could see that from attic to cellar the house was lived in and loved. There were 15 children my age made crumby house their second home. Some of their things helped to clutter our house. All of them had homes of their own, but like the man you quoted in your column—the children were 'miserable at home.'" "My father was not wealthy, but he was always generous with help, patience, kindness and understanding. He never expected mother to keep a perfect house. "I know why your children love to visit their grandparents. They can spread papers out on the floor and have toys around. They can bring in the neighborhood kids for a snack and it is all right. And grandpa will play ball with them when he should be resting." "Then they come back to our neat home, I should say house, and my heart is heavy for it is not a real home. The yard cannot be enjoyed, for the lawn must be kept just so. My boys know their dad will raise the roof if they leave one thing out of place. "Hats off to the men like the one who wrote the letter you quoted and like my dad—men who know what a home should be."

Mrs. Robert Payne Is Guest Speaker At Annual Civic Culture Club Tea

Mrs. Robert Payne was guest speaker at the annual Civic Culture Club tea held Tuesday afternoon in the City Club Room. Mrs. Payne compared her own country, France, with her impressions of the United States and discussed several points for each. Mrs. A. C. Houchin, vice president, attended the guest register while Mrs. Roy Johnson furnished piano music. Robert Payne, Pampa High School music director, introduced five members of the girls ensemble. Miss Carol Paxson was pianist for the group which included Misses Christine Pierce, Sandra Cartwright, Jay Baker, Leta Inman and Gaye Nell Carter. Mrs. J. B. Townsend, president, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Payne, who quoted Benjamin Franklin's remark, "Every man has two countries, his own and France." She explained that the old customs and traditions which furnish so much of the charm and poetry of France are at the same time partly responsible for problems in the fields of progress, economics, sanitation, etc. She compared educational systems favorably to those of other countries stating that French students benefit from the practice of waiting until the later years of their schooling before going into a specialization. "Very few Frenchmen," she continued, "own cars. Only the very wealthy have television sets. Even modern bathrooms are rare. The lack of canned goods, washing machines, inexpensive clothing, and in many cases, of money, combine to make the French woman's life very complicated." The refreshment table was decorated with a miniature Eiffel Tower complete with French flag. This centerpiece was surrounded by clusters of grapes. Mrs. Townsend presided at the coffee service. Attending the affair were Mmes. Otis Nace, Loyal Davies, C. E. Powell, F. E. Leech, K. H. Stien, Jr., H. C. Federer, Dow King, J. E. Kirchner, S. C. Evans, H. P. Dossier, Y. L. Hobbs, O. W. ONE BLANKET PLENTY SINCE I HOOK UP WITH REDDY!

In the old days, it took three or four blankets to keep the Chief warm when the wintry winds began to blow across the reservation. But, now that he's "wired for winter", with one electric blanket, he finds that one does the job—even better than a big pile of old-fashioned blankets did.

You, too, can enjoy complete winter-time sleeping comfort with one blanket—electric, of course. And don't forget, they come with dual controls, so that each sleeper can have the comfort setting desired.

Harvesters Hold 6th Spot In Williamson Ratings

The Fighting Harvesters stood pat on their sixth place ranking over the state this week, according to the Williamson System. There was only one change in the top 10 in the rankings from last week's rankings. North Dallas replaced Lubbock as the No. 10 team. Lubbock, by virtue of its 14-4 loss to San Angelo, dropped to 14th. North Dallas was ranked 11th last week.

The top 10 teams this week are: 1. Waco; 2. Lamar (Houston); 3. Odessa; 4. Wilson (Dallas); 5. Fort Arthur; 6. Pampa; 7. Abilene; 8. Baytown; 9. Ray (Corpus Christi); and North Dallas 10th.

In addition to Odessa, Pampa and Abilene, four other District 1-

AAAA teams are in the top 20. Amarillo is 11th, Lubbock 14th, Midland 15th and San Angelo 17th. Borger, the 8th member of 1-AAAA, is ranked 30th.

In the top 10, Big Spring moved all the way from ninth to second with its 6-0 win over Breckenridge, the defending Triple-A state champion. Breckenridge, which was second last week, dropped to seventh this week.

Class AA and Class A had two new leaders this week. Stamford took over the No. 1 position in AA which was held by defending state champion Terrell last week.

And in Class A, Ranger assumed the top spot held by Wink, another defending state champion, last week.

The Dumas Demons of 1-AA remained in the top 10 but dropped from 8th to 9th this week.

Other AA rankings include Childress 20th, Phillips 23rd, and Dalhart 42nd.

In Class A, Canadian ranks 28th and McLean 32nd.

Tech Top Offensive 11 In Border Loop

By UNITED PRESS

Texas Tech, the Border Conference's top offensive team, led Ken Cardella, the Arizona tailback who paces the conference in rushing and total offense, come to grips this week at Lubbock.

Latest official statistics fail to disclose Tech or Cardella from their dominating position in the figure columns.

Tech's sparkling 27 to 20 upset over Mississippi State last week further emphasized the Raiders' rushing supremacy as their per game average rose 274.4 yards and total offense to 341.1-unchallenged by any other Border member.

Civic Club To Make Awards

The Kiwanis Club, winners of the Civic golf tournament for the fourth straight year, will be officially crowned champions of the 1953 tournament tonight when awards will be made at the annual dinner in the Country Club ball room.

The time of the dinner is 7:30.

In addition to crowning Kiwanis as team champion for the '53 tourney which was held Sunday at the Country Club, individual awards will also be made tonight. The low gross and net for each club will receive awards.

Dr. J. F. Elder of the Kiwanis Club is the low gross winner of the field with a 77. Shorty Layne of the Kiwanis and Horton Russell of the JayCees tied for low net honors with 68.

Following the dinner tonight, one of the activities is on tap for the local country club course this year: The Panhandle Men's tournament will be unrereed next Sunday at the PCC course. This tourney was originally scheduled for Oct. 25 but was postponed because of rain and cold.

All local golfers planning to take part in the Panhandle tourney are urged to contact pro Johnny Austin.

Cardella ran his season's ground gains to 680 yards as the Wildcats beat West Texas and that figure also was good enough to hold his total offense leadership over Dee Windsor, the loop's top passer from Hardin - Simmons.

Windsor has gained 587 yards on 34 of 73 pass completions, but his total offense record sagged to 519 yards because of 68 yards lost trying to get away his passes.

Robert Wheelchel of West Texas is Cardella's closest challenger for rushing honors with 410 yards, while Bob Hendricks of Tempe State is Windsor's chief threat for passing honors with 429 yards on 28 or 52 complete.

John Allen of Tempe leads the pass receivers with 22 for 395 yards; Dan Seivert of Tempe paces the punters with a 34.4-yard average, and Cardella is the top scorer with 42 points.

Texas Western, which has the second highest offensive average of 292.6 yards, and the best passing average of 107.3 yards per game, offers the toughest defense, 118.8 against rushing and overall total of 191.6 yards.

John Darby Is Released From Hospital

John Darby, regular halfback for the Pampa Harvesters, who received a severe kidney injury in the Abilene game Oct. 23, was released from Highland General Hospital yesterday after a 19-day stay.

Whether Darby will be able to play against Odessa remains to be seen but he isn't expected to be ready by that time, according to team physician, Dr. Charles Ashby.

"I'm sure he will be ready for the Lubbock game but I don't believe he will have his strength built back enough for the Odessa game," Dr. Ashby said this morning.

"Darby will be permitted to join the Harvester workouts next Monday but that still won't give him much time to regain his strength," Dr. Ashby added.

Although Darby has been slowed down for most of the season with various injuries, he is the third leading ground gainer and scorer for the Green and Golds. He has gained 285 yards on the ground and has scored 24 points. He trails Harold Lewis and Ed Dudley in both of these departments.

The Harvesters, in the meantime, returned to work yesterday following a holiday Monday. The Harvesters will be busy this week and next in preparing for their crucial game with the Odessa Bronco invasion Nov. 14. The Pampans, as well as all other teams in the district, will have an open date this week.

2-Way Tie For 1-A Scoring Honors

Dean Hoover, Canadian Wildcat scabback, pulled back into a tie for the lead in the District 1-A individual scoring lead this week, adding a touchdown against Lubbock last week to tie Gene Bentley of Panhandle for the lead, each with 73 points.

Bentley, however, who had replaced Hoover as the scoring leader last week, didn't play Friday as his team had an off date.

Pat Tipps of Canadian remained the No. 3 top scorer with 62 points followed by Rickey Mantooth of McLean with 54. Don Crockett and James Smith, both of McLean, follow with 49 points each.

One other player, Duke Frieble of Memphis, is over the 40-mark. The Memphis star has 44 points.

Sacrifice Fly Rule Restored For 1954

By MILTON RECHMAN
NEW YORK, Nov. 4—Ted Williams, almost a virtual certainty every other year in the major leagues, warmly welcomed the restoration of the sacrifice fly rule Wednesday as a sure-fire formula to their batting averages.

The 35-year-old Williams, who batted .407 in 37 games with the Red Sox after returning from Korea last August, hailed the rule change as a definite boon to "every hitter in the game" at his Miami home.

"I'd say it would increase batting averages 10 points, anyway," declared Williams, who batted .496 in 1941 and is the only active major leaguer ever to hit .400.

No Dissents Heard

"I think you'll find most of the players will be in favor of it," he added, "and I think it will make for a little more interesting baseball."

Not a dissenting voice was heard from either players or baseball officials throughout the country when they were informed of the restoration of the sacrifice fly rule by baseball's rules committee.

The rule, which credits a batter with a sacrifice rather than charging him with a time at bat after he hits a fly ball that scores a runner from third, originally was adopted in 1907 and abolished in 1931. In its original form, a batter was not charged with a time at bat if he advanced a runner from any base.

Re-adopted in its present form in 1953, the rule was tried for that one season and dropped until the action by the nine-man rules committee Tuesday.

Aided by the rule, Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees led the American League in batting with a .381 batting average in 1939 while Johnny Mize, then with the Cardinals, won the National League title with a .349 mark.

"Of course, I like the rule because I led the national league in hitting in 1952 while it was in effect," said Mize at his DeLeon Springs, Fla., home.

Critics Proposed Change

"I think all the hitters will be in favor of it. The rule might even improve their hitting by making them keep the ball in the air instead of on the ground."

Actually, Bill Terry, former Giant first baseman, was the last player ever to hit .400 while the rule was still in vogue. He batted .401 in 1930 and there is scant question but that the rule enabled him to accomplish the rare feat.

General Manager Joe Judge of the Red Sox, who proposed the change, said after its passage he felt "it never should have gone out of the books at all."

Laminated Bats Okayed

In addition to restoring the sacrifice fly, the committee authorized use of laminated bats on an experimental basis during 1954 and adopted a requirement whereby all fielders must bring in their gloves from the field when they come back to the bench after each half inning. This practice was employed in the Pacific Coast League during the past season and almost all players were in favor of it. The committee also ruled no player could take a running start on a tag-up after a fly ball, a practice employed by Alvin Dark and Bobby Thomson of the Giants the past season. The group also recommended standardization of the suspended game rule throughout baseball. Although there was some sentiment for the return of the spit ball, a proposal to restore it was rejected.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—Summary of action taken by baseball's rules committee:

1. Restored the sacrifice fly rule.
2. Authorized the use of laminated bats on an experimental basis.
3. Passed a rule requiring fielders to bring in their gloves and sun glasses instead of leaving them on the field during a game.
4. Clarified the ruling on a fielder throwing his glove at the ball.
5. Ruled a base-runner hit by a foul ball is not out.
6. Ruled no player will be permitted to make a running start on a tag-up after a fly ball.
7. Ruled no fielder can place himself in line of a batter's vision or engage in moves to distract the hitter.
8. Ruled each league president would determine the extent of punishment of a manager who forfeits a game.
9. Authorized standardization of suspended game rule throughout baseball.
10. Rejected a proposal to restore the spit ball.

Dartmouth's McLaughry Is UP 'Coach Of The Week'

By CARL LUNDQUIST
NEW YORK, Nov. 4—UP—Through five long dismal Saturday afternoons he had been coach of the WEEK.

Then, as he had felt they would be passing, his boys suddenly exploded for the biggest upset in the East's season.

He's the United Press Coach of the WEEK, Deormond (Tuss) McLaughry of those green but fast Dartmouth Indians.

Dartmouth went into its game with unbeaten Yale a two-touchdown underdog and the wise ones felt the spread was too small. After all, Dartmouth had lost seven in a row, including the last two games of the 1952 season, and seemed to be going nowhere in a hurry.

A Real Old Timer

But they didn't reckon with wily Old McLaughry, whose football experience dates back to the era of muleskin pants, drop kicking and the flying wedge.

"I told them they could do it," he said, "and they believed me. We were a lot better than anyone thought. But did we have our troubles?"

"First of all, we had all our injuries at once. With no spring practice we went in overmatched against Holy Cross, Navy and Army on consecutive week-ends. We improved a little against Colgate and looked pretty good against Harvard when we lost to two touchdowns passes. We knew we'd come on and we thought we might do it—all at once."

Exploded Early for Little

Let old pal Lou Little take it from them. The Connecticut coach said he talked to McLaughry by telephone at Hanover, N.H., late last week.

"He told me that Dartmouth was going to explode in somebody's face," said Little, whose team plays Dartmouth Saturday. "He said it probably would be in about two weeks. I asked him 'Couldn't you make it a week early?' and that's just what he did. The only trouble is that they're rolling now and we expect a rough afternoon Saturday."

McLaughry, who plays straight old-fashioned football, said he felt Yale could be taken when he studied the reports of his scouting staff.

Dartmouth Didn't Believe Figures

"I felt we could run on Yale at every position and we did, too," he pointed out. "Their guards were supposed to be so good but we trapped and ran right over them."

Yale, prior to the upset, had the nation's top ranking defensive team, but Dartmouth made a myth of those statistics. The pass defense went all tied up with the hitters. Beagle especially is high strung and nervous. But we knew he would become a real good passer.

"And we knew we had two fine pass-catching ends in Dave Thielscher and Dave McLaughlin. If we could just get the ball to them, we had nothing new in our pass patterns, but had better pass protection. That was the whole story."

As far as Yale is concerned, it is one that might better not have been told.

Perhaps the oldest road on earth winds across the Near East between the valleys of the Euphrates and Nile River. Camel trains and marching armies packed down this ancient caravan route thousands of years before the Christian era.

Rain Hampers Workouts In SWC Camps

Mud and rain hampered Southwest Conference football practice Tuesday, but most teams planned full-scale scrimmaging Wednesday in preparation for three conference games and one out-of-state clash.

The University of Texas workout was slowed down by mud, but Coach Ed Price said he planned a hard scrimmage Wednesday.

The Longhorns play Baylor in Austin this Saturday, and Texas in a defensive and offensive ground pattern.

The potent Bears worked in a steady downpour that prevented any concentration on a passing attack. However, a defensive scrimmage was held and Coach George Sauer planned another, with the Bruins running plays against the freshman and junior varsity squads.

Rain kept SMU indoors for its workout. Mustang coaches outlined the offensive and defensive maneuvers planned for Saturday against Texas A&M at College Station.

A&M Coach Ray George mingled his first and second Aggie teams at the workout in a constant rain. One team, led by quarterback Don Ellis, went through a passing drill, while the other held a defensive scrimmage against freshmen and sophomore who ran the SMU split-T plays.

Arkansas scheduled a stiff scrimmage session with everyone on the team taking part but guard David Lassley. He received a sprained ankle last week and may be out for the encounter with Rice Saturday night in Houston. Coach Bowden Wyatt planned another scrimmage.

The Rice Owls worked in sweat-soaked conditions in a heavy downpour hampered practice. Coach Jess Neely said the team was preparing for Arkansas' single-wing attack, the only one Rice faces this year.

Texas Christian switched Mal Fowler from quarterback to left halfback at Baylor Saturday night in Houston. Coach Bowden Wyatt planned another scrimmage.

Longhorns' Massey Went To UT In A 'Second Hand' Deal

By ED FITTE
DALLAS, Nov. 4—UP—Carlton Massey, a nimble 195-pound end who went to Texas in a "second hand" transaction, shapes up as a key cog in the defending southwest conference champions' plans to hang a pall of gloom around Baylor's high-ranking Bears Saturday.

The 28-year-old farmer's son was overlooked by Southwest Conference teams upon his graduation from Rockwall, Tex., high school because he carried only 165 pounds on his six foot four inch frame. So, he wound up at little Southern Western University, a denominational school at Georgetown, only 25 miles from the Texas campus.

But, after he filled out to a husky 200 pounds at Southwestern, that school dropped football and Massey drifted on down to Austin for the remainder of his education—and football.

Coach Ed Price and his assistants at Texas have never been sorry, but undefeated Baylor may be after this Saturday's clash at Austin.

For Massey is a crashing-type end who flattens would-be blockers in his rush for the passer. Even if he doesn't trap his man he usually can carry him enough to spoil the passer's aim.

This trait was much in evidence last Saturday as his passer-rushing contributed mightily to Texas' 18 to 7 upset of Southern Methodist by the Saturday.

Switched to Double Duty

He personally dumped SMU backs for 29 yards in losses in that game in a typical defensive performance. Against Houston, he lost a would-be punter on the Houston 19-yard line to set up Texas' first touchdown and on the ensuing kickoff he recovered a Cougar fumble of the Houston 33-yard line to set the stage for a second six-pointer.

Although he was a defensive specialist last year, he has made the switch to double duty without a loss of speed. His quick getaway and stride plus his height and sure-handedness make him an exceptional pass target.

A phenomenal catch of a 36-yard pass set up Texas in position to score against Oklahoma, and last Saturday he snagged three of the five passes Texas completed in strategic spots during scoring drives.

Work Out Out For Him

His specialty in that phase of the game is snatching quick, spot jump passes just over the middle of the line. He took one for seven yards to keep a lagging Texas drive alive, then snared another for 11 yards in another surge. In addition, he hauled in one long one for 31 yards and threw the key block that set Delano Womack free on a long run.

His job Saturday in the conference's feature game will be to smother Cotton Davidson's passing efforts and smash through to break up the outside running of Baylor's speedy rushing terrors—L. G. Dupre, Allen Jones and Jerry Coody. Texas fans feel Coach Price concurs, that if anybody can throw a monkey wrench into the fearsome Baylor attack, Massey's the boy to do it.

Elsewhere, SMU and Rice will be making last-ditch stands to stay. In contention with SMU at College Station against the Texas Aggies and Rice playing upstart Arkansas at Houston in a night game.

You Be The Quarterback

 Houston leads Tulsa, 14-13, with a minute and 15 seconds to go in the game.

Tulsa's staunch line has been impregnable on the ground, and Houston's fine passing attack has accounted for both touchdowns. It is Houston's ball on the Golden Hurricane 37-yard line, second down and nine.

ACC Withdraws From TC

ATHLENE, Tex., Nov. 4—UP—Officials of Athlene Christian College said Wednesday they voted to withdraw from the Texas Conference next month because independent athletic status seems more profitable.

The surprise decision was announced Tuesday night after a special meeting of the executive committee of the college's board of trustees.

Don H. Morris, ACC president, said the action had been considered for more than a year. The official withdrawal will be made at a Dec. 12 meeting of the Texas Conference in Dallas.

He said an independent athletic status would mean a better schedule with larger attendance, increased revenue and increased recognition for the college. The school plans to play out present schedules of games.

Officials said the school would remain independent "until a new conference can be formed," and they saw no possibility of a new conference in the near future.

Other Texas Conference members are Texas A&I, Austin College, Howard Payne, McMurry, Eastern New Mexico University and Rice. The conference effectively is joining the conference effective next season.

Class A Card Light Friday

By DICK HARDWICK
United Press Sports Writer

Three conference games—one in East and two in South Texas—highlight an otherwise dull Class A football card this weekend as most of the leading contenders for district titles meet next weekend and the week after.

However, the District 22-A championship can be won by Lyford if it beats Rio Hondo Friday night at Lyford. Lyford, unbeaten and untied in seven games, three in the district, will be playing its last game, Rio Hondo, though beaten twice and tied once during the season, has a 1-0-1 win-loss-tied conference record.

Another important conference game comes off in Lyford's immediate neighbor district—31-A—as unbeaten but once-tied Hebronville plays at Benavides. Both have two district wins without loss but Benavides has been beaten three times by non-district foes.

In a crucial East Texas game, unbeaten but once-tied Cooper, which pulled its first district win 12 to 8 over Farmersville last week, plays at twice-beaten White-wright. White-wright has one district loss.

Five other games match the leading contenders for district titles—New Deal at Hale Center in 3-A, Gilmer at Hawkins in 16-A, Gaston at Troup in 17-A, Palacios at Louise in 27-A, and Boerne at San Antonio Sam Houston in 28-A. New Deal, Hawkins, Gaston, Palacios and Boerne are top-heavy favorites.

The defending state champion Wink Wildcats, idle this week, won't face a 5-A showdown until Nov. 20 when they meet unbeaten McCamey in the last game of the season.

Leaders of the 32 districts in the state include Memphis in district 1; Springlake and Dimmitt in 2; Hale Center and New Deal in 3; Sundown in 4; McCamey and Wink Yale fumbles. Benson's Problems

President Eisenhower "went to bat" for his Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra T. Benson, but whether the President can take enough of the heat off Benson to enable him to continue in the office remains to be seen.

The secretary is in the hottest spot of any member of the cabinet. He has stepped into a muddle the likes of which is without parallel.

The Department of Agriculture has been the working base for a swarm of socialistic planners for many a long year. It has been the useful tool also of the political schemers who have sought to keep the New Deal in office through buying the farm vote with funds from the federal treasury.

Add all these things up and you get a mess that will require drastic action to unscramble.

The secretary seemingly went into the office with an idea that he could reverse the trend of years by giving of a few orders and he ran smack into a vast jumble of vested interests. Most of these vested interests are organized and, like the labor unions, are able to make a lot more noise than the numerical strength of their membership justifies.

On top of that he plumped into the middle of a long drouth.

The drouth was no valid argument for retaining subsidies, but it put a lot of fancy arguments into the mouths of those who could holler loud without knowing what they were talking about.

The theory of subsidies, when all the gobbledog is shoveled away, is that the government should pay a farmer for being a bad businessman.

If a manufacturer overproduces in the face of an oversupply of competing products, nobody feels sorry for him much except his banker. If a farmer plants too much corn or cotton or peanuts or wheat, or increases his dairy herd and floods the market with butter, the subsidy advocate takes the position that the taxpayer should bail him out.

One of these days we will all awaken to the fact that you can't do business that way and still avoid inflation and eventual bankruptcy.

Secretary Benson merely mentioned this fact and the so-called farm leaders sprang screaming to destroy him.

But subsidies were not all. Benson was up against a vast bureaucracy inside the department. There are offices within offices, branches within branches, bureaus on top of bureaus. Each one is spread out over the country in a vast network.

Some of this intricate maze is necessary and serves a useful purpose. Most of it is just plain deadwood.

But the very first time he made a move to reduce the number of offices in one arm of the octopus, the threshold of the waters was something terrible to see.

What he stepped on was the Soil Conservation Service, which pays farmers for doing things for and to their land that they should have sense and ability enough to do for themselves.

The service makes great claims that it operates on the local level and that all its policies are carried out by committees of farmers right on the ground. If that is the case, then why the need for a lot of regional offices in which to pile up the paper work?

Mr. Benson may not be the greatest secretary of agriculture who ever came down the pike, but every time he moves to cut down subsidies and hack off some limbs from the bureaucratic tree he cannot be far off base.

Recent estimates of the future increase in the number of people in the United States are declared to show that this country is going to need a lot more farm production as the years go by, but if they depend on government subsidies and guidance to feed them millions will never live to adulthood.

Only a return to free enterprise on the farm will accomplish the needed results. Let's hope Mr. Benson can give us a start in that direction.

Atomic Power

Announcement of America's first full-scale atomic power project had at least a semblance of the impact of the bomb dropped on Hiroshima eight years ago. Thomas E. Murray, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, let go with the news that the government will spend "many tens of millions of dollars" on an industrial power reactor that will supply enough electricity for a city of 75,000 people. And he did so in a speech prepared for "the electric power companies public information program," which is sponsored by the private power interests who have been struggling so long to get the government out of the power business!

Mr. Murray says it's all for Russia's benefit. "This is America's answer," he declared, "its significant peacetime answer to recent Soviet atomic weapons tests. It should show the world that, even in this gravest phase of arming for defense, America's eyes are still on the peaceful future."

But electric power people were inclined to regard it as bureaucracy's answer to private enterprise. They seemed stunned that the AEC would so completely ignore the study that industry members and groups have been giving to atomic power developments, and the present competence of the industry to build such plants — on a more modest scale.

Atom bombs are nobody's business but Uncle's. Atom power is something else again. The new venture is redolent of the Roosevelt-Truman days of "tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect." Some day the new plant may be known as "Ike's TVA."

Communist-Socialist Propaganda in American Schools

IV

Those who have not read the social studies text books used in tax supported schools could hardly believe how these text books tend to corrupt the minds of our youth.

Those who are really interested what their children are taught along moral and political lines should read the new book by Verne P. Kaub. It is called Communist-Socialist Propaganda in American Schools.

Under the heading of "Using Communist-Socialistic techniques the author writes: "No technique of the propagandist for Communism-Socialism is more satisfying to its users, or more effective in preparing the minds of both adults and young people for acceptance of the Marxian ideology, than the "debunking" of American history, which includes gross misrepresentation of the character and aims of the Founders and of the historical documents which they wrote.

"Following through with disclosure of National Education Association "exploits" in this "debunking" and other use of Communist-Socialistic techniques, is no more than continuation of documentation of NEA practices in following the Communist "line," discussed in the previous chapter.

"Other Communist-Socialistic techniques used by NEA spokesmen include praise of Soviet "accomplishments" and apologies for Soviet brutality; teaching the Marxian doctrine of class struggle, in part by sly insinuations that American society is made up of classes; teaching that "change" — always, of course, in the direction of collectivism — is not only inevitable but desirable, and using crude Communist tricks to make it appear that Communism-Socialism is the only antidote for Fascism, with Communists and Socialists presented as the only true anti-Fascists.

Property or Human Rights?

Here is a quote from the Social Studies Council of NEA: "The original statement of the American dream of a decent, democratic society was first drafted, by scholarly men, in the Declaration of Independence and the Declaration of the newly independent Commonwealths.

Thereupon, quickly re-evaluating itself, an alarmed bourgeoisie, frightened at the prospect of populistic and democratic excesses, and with the alarms of Captain Shays ringing in their ears, promptly — almost furtively — drafted a conservative constitution omitting all reference to personal freedom and erecting elaborate defenses for property.

From that time forward, the stresses engendered by the conflict of property rights and human rights has brought us by fits and starts closer to the espousal of the latter at the expense of the former if the difference could not be composed without injury to either.

"Quite aside from the fact that true history tells us that the states adopted the Constitution only after agreement had been reached that the Bill of Rights was to be adopted at early date, this writer adopts as his own the old Communist prattle about "property rights." The truth is, of course, that there is no such thing as "property rights" — any property has no rights! But one of the most important of personal rights is the right to own property; this right is so ancient and so well established that it is mentioned in two of the Ten Commandments—"Thou shalt not steal . . ." and "Thou shalt not covet . . ."

Adult Education Under the chapter Broadening Propaganda Field the author observes:

"In Roads to American Prosperity of the NEA, Mr. Coyle offers this "appealing" bit: "A part of our personal savings . . . are not legitimate, but arise from failure to pay the full cost of maintaining this country in good shape. . . .

"By paying income taxes for conservation and improvements, we can return idle savings to circulation, without creating any debts. At the same time we shall add to our wealth and security. And this is the most legitimate use of our savings."

John Dewey's Philosophy "Since my adult years have been given to the pursuit of philosophy, I shall ask your indulgence if, in concluding, I state briefly the democratic faith in the formal terms of a philosophic position. So stated, democracy is belief in the ability of human experience to generate the aims and methods by which further experience will grow in order of richness. Every other form of moral and social faith rests upon the idea that experience must be subjected at some point or other to some form of external control; to some "authority" alleged to exist outside the processes of experience. Democracy is the faith that the process of experience is more important than any special result attained, so that special results achieved are of ultimate value only as they are used to enrich and order the ongoing process.

"In his statement Dr. Dewey has given us a definition of democracy as it is understood by him and his followers; we have every right to assume that when they talk or write about democracy, they have in mind the Dewey definition.

"Examining the Dewey definition we find that democracy, as he conceives it, rejects all "authority" . . . outside the processes of experience. Under this concept, no

International Whirligig. Midwestern Cattlemen Urge Parity Program By Congress

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Figures as formidable as current meat prices at the butcher's counter defeat a counter proposal of Secretary Ezra Taft Benson for conceding to angry cattlemen's demand for application of 90 per cent government subsidies to their product.

Every phase of the proposed solution has been studied by administration experts in the frantic attempt to still the growls of the Midwestern interests, who threaten to raise something besides steers, if their parity program is not included in any agricultural program which the White House submits to the next Congress.

On their face, the meat producers' suggestions seem reasonable. Uncle Sam has extended parity partially to five other so-called "basic" crops including the corn and wheat which cattlemen must buy for feed. On several occasions, with respect to potatoes and hogs, he has taken over commodities under his protection.

But, aside from the fact that President Eisenhower and Secretary Benson would like to liquidate this costly and embarrassing system of federal subsidization, certain elementary considerations close this avenue of escape. It is amazing that White House publicity agents have not publicized this data nationally in capsule form.

A STAGGERING FIGURE — Secretary Benson's statisticians estimate that almost 1.5 billion pounds of beef would have to be lifted from the market to raise prices of this product to the 90 per cent parity level. And it is probable that the same amount would have to be taken over under loan or purchase by the government every year, if the innovation was made permanent.

Although the figure may have no meaning to the average consumer, it amounts to enough beef to feed about 20,000,000 people for ten months or the total population of New York State and New England, if Massachusetts is omitted for calculating purposes.

Unless this meat were tossed into the ocean, possibly upsetting the eating habits, prices and markets for fish, the storage problems become staggering and seeming is true, nothing is good, and no course of human action is correct because of divine decree, nor are there any eternal verities, things good and things true, yesterday, today, tomorrow and forever. Hence, the future is what mankind, alone and unaided, will contrive to make it, with only man's own experience for a guide.

"Out of the window go the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount; human actions are to be guided only by human judgment based on human experience as to the value to human comfort which will result, and as they may be used to "enrich and order the ongoing process."

FREEZING SPACE NEEDED — Freezing the carcasses would require almost double the storage space now available throughout the country. It would match the fiasco for wheat and corn surpluses, which have had to be tucked away in caves, former office buildings and World Wars I and II cargo ships in rivers and harbors.

Canning it would provide an annual six months' supply, and would eventually break down the existing industry. Moreover, the freezing process causes beef to lose its flavor and juices, while there is too much fat in the choice cuts of beef to make them susceptible to canning. Uncle Sam would suffer a tremendous loss through either process of preservation.

Naturally, a system of subsidies would, as with other products, only stimulate overproduction. Already, cattlemen are holding more than 10,000,000 head of the market while awaiting a hoped-for price rise. They would undoubtedly be dumped on Uncle Sam's hands, if the 90 per cent parity were granted.

According to Benson, the present glut is accounted for, in part at least, by the fact that wartime prices induced every inexperienced Tom, Dick and Harry to raise cattle. It was like the tulip craze in Holland and elsewhere several hundred years ago, when the delicate flowers ousted gold as a basis for investment and currency. He attributes part of the present problem to these get-rich-quick amateurs.

INCREASED COSTS ALONG LINE — Legitimate cattlemen, however, feel that they have a legitimate kick against the whole system of raising and marketing their product. While they receive about 25 cents a pound, sometimes less, on the hoof, fancy steers and roasts bring from 70 cents to $1 a pound at the retail markets. It is this "spread," they insist, which prevents such a lowering of prices that Americans, already the world's greatest meat-eaters, would buy enough to solve the surplus problem. But every intermediate cattle cost — rail and truck transportation, feed, wages, insurance, distribution charges — has gone up steadily.

Poor Ezra Taft Benson! Poor Ike Eisenhower! Poor GOP, may be, next year!

The Nation's Press

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS

(The Ledger, Montrose, Calif.)

In one of the Valley's many gracious churches, a pamphlet on the "United" Nations is available for parishioners. The paper is entitled "Facts and Fallacies," and the very first broadside aimed at patriots by the internationalists, through the Church Peace Union, states as follows:

"THE FALLACY — The UN threatens to destroy U.S. sovereignty."

"THE FACTS — The UN is based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all its members. Nothing contained in the present Charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction."

"The UN is made up of independent sovereign states, each one of which is just as intent to preserve its sovereignty as the United States. Etc."

The minister of the church, who disapproves of The Ledger's determined stand against the United Nations, perhaps bases much of his own evaluation of the UN upon such material as this. But let's look at another publication from the same Church Peace Union, entitled "Inside the United Nations." On page 13, article 9, we find:

"Within the UN there is no pretense to the 'sovereign equality of nations' as within the League of Nations, but rather a willingness on the part of the 'Big Three' to assume leadership." The good minister, and he is a fine, sincere clergy, should think twice before he sends his flock to these contradicting booklets for information.

A 20-year-old bride, schooled in many things but not in cooking, served us a peach pie that was a "quite" as good as mother used to make," maybe better.

Almost any American housewife could guess how she did it: by using ready-mixed ingredients and fresh frozen fruit, products of capitalistic progress.

To get those things to the young bride's kitchen took millions of dollars of investment in making the dreams of thousands of inventors come true — investments in machinery to make the flour, mix the ingredients, and put it in cans or boxes; investments in machinery to help the farmer tend his orchards; investments in refrigeration trucks and railway transportation; and investments in warehouses and shops to keep the products always within easy reach of the customers.

Fair Enough.... Churchill Confirms Slaughter Of Polish Underground Heroes

By WESTBROOK FEGLEY

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.) DANBURY Conn.—There are two men in New York whose personalities are some crawling to mind again now that Winston Churchill has finally told the awful truth about the slaughter of most of the 40,000 heroes of the Polish underground in Warsaw by the treachery of the Soviet political command in Moscow. To be sure, the German army did the actual killing, but Churchill now admits in his memoirs, the Russians touched off the uprising in the midst of the occupied capital and then sat back and let the Germans butcher them.

At that, it took the Germans more than two months, probably for the combined reasons that they had their hands full to the west and that the Poles were magnificent heroes.

The men in New York whom I refer to are a renegade rabbi and pro-Communist propagandist who calls himself William S. Gailmor, and the sponsor of his broadcasts back in those days, one Samuel J. Novick, president and treasurer of the Electronics Corporation of America. Gailmor stole automobiles, bounced checks, ditched his wife and denied that he had any religion at all.

The American Broadcasting Co., not too particular about the character of its broadcast men at that time if they could show ABC a profit, was loath to fire this scoundrel off the air even when his record was thrown in the faces of its executives in their own offices in Rockefeller City.

And even then, there was no objection to Gailmor's repetitious plugging of the "Lubliner" Committee, as he pronounced it, which was the kernel of the Muscovite government which took over Poland and still runs that wretched people in a tragedy which brought no protest from Franklin D. Roosevelt or Harry S. Truman.

Novick was Gailmor's sponsor and although the FBI was right on top of him throughout the war, he went merrily ahead manufacturing electrical stuff in New York and elsewhere.

This is another item in the voluminous docket of incidents which nullify La Crosse Grande's frequent assurances that "we have no need for our Joe McCarthy and Bill Jenner in Congress. Sure the FBI can root out the facts, but her husband loaded the government with traitors and she and Truman have done their utmost to prevent Congress and the courts from throwing them out of their jobs and into prison.

I know the FBI was onto Novick on the very best authority of all, that of the FBI. But he went right along with his electrical business using secret stuff, and the revenue from government contracts went to pay the renegade Gailmor for his loathsome babble about the Lublin Committee. Four years after he had been thoroughly exposed and even the ABC had been forced to throw him off the air, Gailmor showed up as a pitchman in the Henry Wallace troupe which barnstormed the country for the American Communists.

I have long held the belief that physical punishment is the only appropriate retaliation on such people, and I would include Bubble-head Wallace, too. He turned against the enemy after Korea began to devour our young men, but he knew what was doing when he was running with the rats in 1948 and long before. I say anyone who did that, knowing how horribly the Reds hurt other people, ought to be hurt himself.

How the Polish underground managed to exist at all from 1939 to 1944 is not explained. But there they were all the time, with arms and ammunition at hand, and when finally the Russian guns could be heard in Warsaw and the Moscow radio urged them to attack the Germans, they suddenly began to shoot from the windows. Then the Russians deliberately scattered in the outskirts so that the Germans could destroy a force of Polish patriots who would have been equally hostile to Gailmor's cherished Lublin Committee.

I can hear that evil, oily voice even now, lecturing Americans on the "Lubliner" Committee's position. Of course, it was just a Russian cell, the same as those which were set up in Romania, Hungary, Eastern Germany and the Baltic republics, but few Americans knew that at the time. We knew very little about affairs over there then and Roosevelt wasn't telling us. Churchill may be tried to get Roosevelt to join him in a protest to Stalin, but Roosevelt wouldn't do it.

"They wished to have the non-Communist Poles destroyed to the full," says Churchill now. "But also to keep alive the idea that they were going to their rescue."

The man who sent the Black and Tans to Ireland took a hell of a long time to say so.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

because this column appears in a considerable number of cities and towns which contain a probably normal quotient of unhappy, restless, amply-financed women who home to sell out what they have where they are and take up the dream of a luxurious, upholstered life in a New York hotel.

I would like to talk about a play today. The play is called "The Ladies in the Corridor." A wisp who can write named Dorothy Parker is responsible for half of the writing, and it has just opened on Broadway. It has just about the most brilliant performances available on Broadway, performances supplied by a group of actresses who specialize in brilliant work. It has agreeable sets, skilled direction and good clothes. It also has a message — for every widow, divorcee or separated woman, who is tired of housekeeping, has a hankering for money in the bank and fancies that nothing could be more attractive than to live in a New York hotel and live life to its fullest. The message is: stay put.

Here are a fiftyish widow from Akron, a young woman who has fled from a monstrous marriage, a daffy and garrulous kleptomaniac, another widow taking out her bruising loneliness in fierce application to her job as a decorator, still another pathetic soul who mouths inane platitudes in the form of hope that she is being charming, and so on to add up to an aggregation of miserable, bored, footless, aimless lives desperately trying to clutch at something that has reality. They drive themselves to nightly movies because movies eat up the most horrible enemy they have: time. They sit in the drab, rubber-planted lobbies and degrade themselves with idle but basically vicious gossip. They are without love, ambition, goal or health. They are beyond whistling; hopelessly caught up in a tragic existence.

This is a play that could have been written 30 years ago and, probably, can be written again 30 years hence. It is timeless, because the annual excursion of reasonably moneyed women to New York hotel life goes on constantly. From 35th Street on the East Side, to 96th Street on both the East and West Sides of Manhattan, you can see these women trudging out their dull, colorless lives. They have left towns in which they had friends, usually a home with dear and familiar furnishings, people to whom they could talk and turn, a druggist, a grocer, a gas station operator, a beautician, a physician, all of the neighborhood services which keep a life warm — all to pursue a false dream of having one's own room and one's own life in a hotel in which they would never have to cook, sweep or make a bed. And in six weeks, after the first quickening thrill of independence and freedom from chores has worn away, they are almost without exception the unhappy women alive. Once or twice a year friends from home come to New York and they have a momentary fling at theater and good restaurants, pretending to a gaiety that is counterfeit and a freedom that is worse than slavery. And when the old friends go back home they are, these women, more desperately lonely than ever.

They are daily victims of the bores around them, just as hungry for human companionship as their unhappy sisters of the corridors. They are prey to the uscrupulous, clutter their lives with petty annoyances and tasks, and they are constantly inventing ways to kill time and make their lives something they never can be. As one woman in the play says: "I saw that movie, so I think today I will go to my bank and talk to Mr. Jones. I don't have to go but he is nice to talk to and I haven't been there in a week." Can there be a more illuminating and touching confession of acute loneliness?

Like in Akron, Spangenburg, Atlanta, Terra Haute, or Anaheim may seem business and adventure may seem to lie at the end of a ticket to New York, but actually and on this play so penetratingly proves, they are swapping what is familiar and comfortable for what is drab and chill.

Donations Given Lubbock Victim

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 3.—UP—Radio announcer William Duncan said Tuesday that more than $200 had been donated for a 16-year-old Lubbock cancer victim on a widow, and he was still receiving contributions.

The boy's name was not revealed.

Duncan said $22 listeners responded to his announcement over radio station KDAZ Sunday, and pulled slightly more than three bags of cotton on the farm of C.R. Ashcraft Jr. Ashcraft paid them the going wage, which amounted to $144, and this was donated to the young cancer victim.

The cotton was ginned free by the West Texas Gin Co., which gave $36, and Duncan said other radio listeners who did not participate in the cotton picking had donated $118.

DOG-GONE GOOD CORN—Despite summer's searing drought which shriveled crops throughout Missouri, Leonard Hasse, of Maita Bend, Mo., managed to grow a bumper crop which yielded 131.58 bushels per acre. Hasse says his fields received only 4 1/2 inches of rain during the growing season. He has entered his corn in the state-wide Mutual Farmers' Association Corn Yield Contest.

Goobers Toasted In 3-Alarm Fire

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.—UP—A Fort Worth peanut plant was destroyed early Tuesday by a three-alarm fire which caused $250,000 damage and roasted several thousand tons of goobers.

Firemen reported they were delayed "two or three minutes" en route to the blaze when a switch engine blocked their path at a railroad crossing.

A. S. Moke, president of the firm—the Baine Peanut Co.—estimated damage to contents of the building at $150,000. Fire Marshal C. C. Killian said damage to the building was about $100,000.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Cool Playing Gave South A Profit

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

If West opened a spade in today's hand, South would have landed in the red ink. It's hard to blame West for picking a trump lead from his solid holding, but this lead gave South a chance to show a profit.

It wasn't exactly a free chance that South got, for he had to play the cards to perfection to land on the right side of the ledger.

East discarded a diamond on the first trump, and South won the trick thoughtfully. It was evident from the outset that care was necessary. South led a low club to dummy's queen and then cashed the ace of clubs, dropping the nine from his own hand.

The idea was to coax West to ruff an early round of clubs, but West shrewdly refused to ruff. Declarer led another club to his king, but West still refused to ruff. (If West had taken his trump trick early in the form of a ruff, South could have regained the lead, drawn trumps, and taken the clubs.)

When West persisted in his refusal to ruff, South simply led the four of hearts from his hand. West had to take his trump trick while dummy still had a trump. West promptly led the king of diamonds and followed it with the ace of diamonds, trying to shorten declarer's trumps, but South discarded a low spade instead of ruffing.

There was now nothing further for West to do. If he led a third diamond, dummy would ruff. (This was the point of giving up a trump trick while dummy could still keep a trump.) If West led a spade, South would take the ace of spades, draw the rest of the trumps, and then run the clubs.

South would have lost his contract, of course, he had led a first round of clubs when the first three rounds of clubs went happy to ruff a fourth club, for then dummy would be dead. After ruffing, West would lead back another trump and just wait for the defending side to collect a diamond and two spades.
