Coach may be named Tuesday

by David Bowser
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Independent School District board of trustees is expected to announce the selection of a new head football coach

Tuesday. The school board will meet at 5:30 p.m., Tuesday in the Pampa Junior High Library, 2401 Charles, to discuss and take possible action to employ a head football coach for Pampa High School.

Shawn Clifton spoke to the school board last night in support of Assistant Football Coach Chad Dunnam, who is also the head boy's track coach. "Understanding the complexity of the decision that is placed before you, Coach (Stuart) Smith and the search committee, I would like to express my support for Chad Dunnam, who's a candidate for the position of head football coach," Clifton told the school board Thursday night.

Clifton said that at a meeting of the football booster club Monday night a total of 24 parents developed a list of attributes and characteristics that they feel are vitally important for a head coach. He said that list was given to Smith along with letters from families of 13 football players.

Clifton said his son had told him that they had become more of a team in a week than they had in the past two years due to team building exercises that Coach Dunnam had put them through.

"He has truly been attempting to build a program," Clifton said. "My personal opinion is that Chad Dunnam processes the qualifications needed to propel our program to a winning level. In the past two weeks, he has implemented changes that have been very positive."

Clifton said his son had told him that they had become more of a team in a week than they had in the past two years due to team building exercises that Coach Dunnam had put them through. PISD cont. on page 3

BRINGING HISTORY ALIVE

Button Criswell, member of the Frontier Regiment of the High Plains, was one of many volunteers who gave a tour to students from Austin Elementary at the White Deer Land Museum Friday morning. The students were learning about the late 1800's from eight different exhibits in the museum.

Texas Senate votes to take federal money

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—While Gov. Rick Perry is drawing national attention for slamming Washington bailouts and excessive spending, his own state Senate went against his wishes and voted Thursday to accept $555 million in federal unemployment benefits.

The measure, which passed 22-9 on a preliminary vote Thursday, would expand state unemployment benefits by including part-time workers and people who quit for compelling reasons, such as a child's illness or family violence.

Perry, a Republican, has agreed to take almost all the nearly $17 billion stimulus package slated for Texas. But he says there are too many strings attached to the $555 million in unemployment money.

"The governor has made his position on this issue very clear," said his spokeswoman, Allison Castle. "He does not support expanding the unemployment insurance program which will burden employers and hurt job creation."

The slap from the state Senate comes as the governor, facing a re-election challenge from U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, steps up his criticism of Washington spending, appearing at numerous anti-tax rallies and taking to the airwaves to bash the federal government.

Wohlford pleads guilty in five cases

by Rachel Stennett
 rstennett@thepampanews.com

Ryan Wohlford was sentenced to more than 40 years in jail last week in the 31st District Court. Wohlford pleaded guilty to multiple drug charges, including manufacturing methamphetamine in an amount over 200 grams.

Wohlford was arrested in connection with meth labs, counterfeiting, possession of controlled substances, tampering with evidence, and on outstanding warrants.

Wohlford was processed in five separate cases, and pleaded guilty to all five charges. He was sentenced to over 40 years confinement in the separate cases, but Judge Steven Emmert ordered all time to serve concurrently, so Wohlford will spend 20 years in prison.

Wohlford's charges included manufacture/delivery of a controlled substance in an amount greater than four grams but less than 200 grams, enhanced, a first degree felony. Wohlford was sentenced to serve 20 years of confinement at the Institutional Division at the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Wohlford was ordered to pay a $2,000 fine and $140 in restitution.

Wohlford also pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled substance, less than one gram. Wohlford was sentenced to serve 16 months of confinement in the state jail division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. He was also ordered to pay a $1,500 fine, and $140 restitution.

Other charges included possession of a controlled substance, greater than one gram but less than one gram, enhanced, a second degree felony. Wohlford was sentenced to 20 years

Valentine chosen as girl's head coach

by David Bowser
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

Gene Valentine is the new head Pampa High School basketball coach for the Lady Harvesters.

The Pampa Independent School District board of trustees Thursday night approved a two-year dual assignment contract for Valentine for coaching and teaching. Pampa Athletic Director Stuart Smith said that Valentine, the assistant boy's basketball coach this past season who stepped in and took over the girl's program after the season started, will be the new girl's head basketball coach.

The school board discussed candidates for head football coach during an executive session, but took no action. That announcement is expected next week.

Shawn Clifton, head of the Pampa High School Football Booster Club, spoke in favor of stepping in and taking over the girl's program after the season started, will be the new girl's head basketball coach. The school board also approved the monthly and quarter financial reports and bids for band instruments. Betty Meadows, the district's purchasing director, explained that the band doesn't buy all the instruments, but the bid sets prices for individual instruments that the band may buy. The total bid was for $83,622, up from last

PISD seeks football coach

"He also mentioned that off-season football and weightlifting are now enjoyable," Clifton said. "They're still hard, but the mentality and confidence of the players has totally changed, and their enthusiasm in the weight room is unlike ever before."

Clifton said that an overwhelming majority of the players with whom he has visited have a deep respect for Coach Dunnam.

"Obviously, tradition is very important to us here in Pampa," Clifton said. "However, I believe Coach Dunnam would not be a part of the old Cav regime, but would have a wonderful opportunity to begin fresh and new due to his experience working under other head coaches."

Clifton praised the previous coach for his moral leadership.

"I feel that Andy Cavalier did a fantastic job teaching our young men moral character," Clifton said. "I believe those positive can be maintained under Coach Dunnam."

Clifton said he has had numerous conversations with Dunnam.

"I believe he understands what breeds a winning program on and off the field," Clifton said. "He has experienced both success and failure in his profession."

Clifton said that if Dunnam is not hired as head coach, he may accept a position at Randall High School as defensive coordinator, head track coach and head strength and conditioning coach. That program, Clifton said, has been successful for several years.

"Regardless of the choice that you make for head coach," Clifton told the board, "I feel that it is imperative that we support whoever is hired. As president of the football booster club, you have my word that our organization will cooperate in order to help fuel the success of this program."

Pampa Athletic Director Stuart Smith said the selection process is being very thorough.

"A lot of care is going into this," Smith said.

Highlights Thursday from the Texas Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)— On the second anniversary of the Virginia Tech shooting massacre, about 300 University of Texas students marched to the state Capitol to protest bills that would allow concealed firearms on Texas college campuses.

The state House and Senate are both considering bills that would prohibit colleges from banning concealed weapons license holders from carrying their weapons on campus.

Supporters say it would reinforce their constitutional right to bear arms. Opponents say it would make campuses more dangerous with the potential for typical college disputes over grades, romances and fraternity rivalries to become deadly.

The House version sponsored by Rep. Joe Driver, a Garland Republican, has 77 of the 150 members signed on in support. It has already passed committee and is waiting to be scheduled for a vote by the full chamber.

The rally at the Capitol steps included a bell tolling 32 times for the victims killed by a student gunman at Virginia Tech in 2007. Some of the students held signs that read "More Guns, More Blood" and "Remember VT."

Supporters note the bill applies only those licensed to carry concealed weapons. License holders must be at least 21 years old and pass a training course and a criminal background check.

The UT student government, the graduate student assembly and the faculty advisory council have all passed resolutions against the campus guns bills.

UTMB REPAIRS

Officials and residents from Galveston Island broke out in applause and cheers from the gallery of the Texas House as the supplemental House budget got initial approval on Thursday.

The supplemental budget includes $300 million that UT officials have said is necessary to draw down federal funds to repair the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

Community leaders have joined doctors and students at UTMB calling for the Legislature to support rebuilding the state's oldest medical school after it was devastated by Hurricane Ike on Sept. 13.

The total cost to restore UTMB to its pre-hurricane capacity of 550 beds has been estimated at more than $1 billion. The $300 million is a key part of the UT System's rebuilding plan. It is expected to be matched by $600 million from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The Speaker of the House had to ask for order as the Galvestonians continued to cheer when Rep. Craig Eiland, D-Galveston, formally recognized them from the floor. Eiland has been leading efforts calling for the funds to bring the medical school back to its pre-hurricane capacity of 550 beds.

The budget still faces a final vote in the House before it can go to the Senate.

MANSION MILLIONS

During floor debate over the supplemental House budget on Thursday, Rep. Senfronia Thompson called the budget-making committee to task for failing to thoroughly vet proposed costs to restore the charred governor's mansion.

"All we know is that the preservation board made the decision, spent the money without approval of the Legislature, and the legislative committee came back on appropriations and validated their decision," said the Houston Democrat.

The supplemental budget includes more than $8.2 million for repairs and restoration of the historic mansion that was gutted by a fire last summer.

"I'm not trying to put you on spot, but this is 8.2 million dollars that could have built a new house," Thompson said.

Another $16.9 million for restoration is proposed in the main House budget, which will be debated Friday.

Thompson said the millions to restore the charred mansion could cover a new house and costs to convert the old mansion into a museum that would draw in revenue for the state.

A bill proposed elsewhere in the Legislature would do just that. Rep. Jim Dunnam, D-Waco, is behind the measure seeking to purchase a new historic residence for the governor so the other can become a museum.

Senate takes the money

sion' by opponents of federal funding to attack an economic nosedive, today's action by the Senate, taken with a minimum of debate, demonstrates that a bipartisan approach by legislators can address the real problems of Texas," Texas AFL-CIO President Becky Moeller said in a statement. "Today the Senate has done well and done right by all of Texas."

All 12 Senate Democrats and 10 of the chamber's 19 Republicans formally disagreed with Perry by voting to bypass him and accept the federal dollars.

Sen. Kevin Eltife, R-Tyler, sponsor of the legislation, said laid-off workers needed the help from Washington, noting the federal stimulus package offers unemployment benefits for nearly a decade.

"It's very important to those who have lost work through no fault of their own. The stimulus money will pay for those benefits for nine years," Eltife said. "To me it's a no-brainer to take the money."

The legislation still faces more hurdles before becoming law. Sen.

Tommy Williams, R-The Woodlands, said Texas employers would be stuck paying the bill, through higher state taxes, once the federal money ran out.

"I just felt like the long-term consequences of expanding that program are not good for Texas employers," Williams said.

Perry hasn't said whether he'll veto the legislation. Castle, his spokeswoman, said it's still not clear it will make it to his desk.

"It's still early in the process," she said.

PISD board meeting

year's bid of $79,499. Depending upon the band's budget, she said, the band buys very few instruments.

In some instances, however, the Band Booster Club may buy some of instruments at these prices.

The school board also approved an application for a waiver from the Texas Education Agency for bus evacuation training. The state agency has indicated that it would grant a waiver.

The agency in the past has required two bus evacuation training sessions, but this year the PISD has held only one. District officials said they felt one was sufficient and the time required for a second session would be better spent studying or in classroom instruction.

The board members approved a budget amendment, moving funds for their building and renovation projects from one project to another. Initially, some funds were transferred from the budget for renovating the old junior high school for administrative offices to construction of the new junior high school. Since the new junior high school came in under budget, those funds have been put back for renovation of the old junior high.

A discussion of a wind energy project was postponed until more information could be gathered.

After reviewing ideas from Pampa High School Junior High School art students for a new logo to be painted on the wall of the gym at the new junior high, the board voted to open the process to the community at large.

"I think there is excellent artwork here," said board member Lee Porter as he perused the student's work. "Certainly, there are some good ideas here."

The board also discussed issuing about four tickets to each senior for graduation ceremonies at Harvester Stadium on May 30. The tickets would be to the center section on the home side seats.

Smith, who heads the graduation committee, told the board that the graduation committee had met earlier in the day and planned on keeping the gates to the stadium locked until the morning of graduation. He said that in the past the bleachers had been damaged by markings and tape put there by people wanting to reserve seats for the ceremony.

The board discussed the work of the school board's Facilities Committee, which consists of Porter, Charles Smith and Lance DeFever.

Porter said he would like for the rest of the board to be more involved and have more access to the information that is discussed with the builders and architects.

"Information isn't withheld," he said, "but things change."

Porter said he doesn't anticipate any major problems with the construction and renovation projects now underway, but he said he feels uncomfortable with only the three member committee making many of the decisions.

"I feel the committee has done an outstanding job," said board member Derrell DeLoach.

"I'm comfortable with the committee," said board member Mark McVay.

The committee brings their decisions to the full board for review and approval.

The trustees also discussed the purchase of real estate for parking at district schools and events during their executive session, but took no action.

The board will have a team builder meeting on May 28.

Wage gap threatens economic recovery

By Liz O'Donnell

Economists are predicting the number of women on the national payroll will surpass the number of men in 2009 due to the fact that 82 percent of recession-related job losses have impacted men. This news has sparked many discussions about how gender roles may or may not be affected in traditional American families. Will Dad now run the household while Mom earns the income? Will Mom still do 17 hours of housework per week?

While who washes the dishes may be of great concern within the four walls of any couple's kitchen, there is an issue of much greater importance that hasn't been talked about. Women still earn, on average, just 78 cents for every dollar a man earns. Plus, the number of women in the top paying jobs is trending downward based on a comparison of how many women held executive positions in 2008 versus 2007. This means while American families sort out who will take out the trash and who will scrub the toilet, they also need to figure out how they will live on less income. Mom and Dad may be able to swap chores, but they still can't swap earning potential.

Those who think pay inequity is caused by women who opt out of full time, fast track careers may continue to think this is a women's issue brought about by choice, therefore affecting only women. But a shift on the national payroll will affect all Americans: women, children and men. It is important that we take note of this, especially in light of the current economic climate. Women are consistently paid less than men for the same work, and when it becomes those women that are the financial heads of households, it is entire families that suffer, likewise when women are boxed out of the top-earning jobs.

As the wife and sole breadwinner in my family, I know for a fact that healthcare costs, grocery bills and mortgage payments don't discriminate based on gender. The cost of raising a family isn't cut by 22 percent, even when a salary is.

It doesn't take an economist to understand that when American families are struggling, consumer spending goes down. And consumer spending accounts for approximately 70 percent of total economic activity. Even the best laid stimulus plan is at risk unless we right the gender inequities in the workplace.

Closing the wage gap and promoting women in the workplace has to be part of the package if we are going to revive our economy. Businesses and government need to implement mentoring and succession planning for women, offer and secure equal pay for equal work, and implement family-friendly work/life programs.

If they don't, how can we expect Dad to pay for the groceries when he does the shopping each week?

Martha's Big Adventure and The Great Recession

By Martha Randolph Carr

Life is lived on a very small scale despite our occasional fixation with celebrities and distant tragedies. The same is true on an economic level.

The Great Recession will be remembered on a global scale for the emergence of China as a powerhouse and the surprise by India at being caught up in the mess. On a national level we will all be talking about the massive bailouts and business failures for at least the next twenty years. There are already lots of book proposals about what it all means before it's even halfway done with us yet.

But on the very personal level the recession will be remembered as a time when we all had to rethink the labels we had given to ourselves such as homeowner or corporate type. It is one of the few times in the history of our country where so many people who made all the responsible moves in their lives lost everything anyway.

That can be a very tough lesson to quickly digest and then step forward once again. In part that's because a big piece of all of those responsible moves was delay of gratification for a little bit of a safety net. That means that a good portion of America is doing their best not to wince at the vacations they put off or the improvements to their home that never happened as they watched bonuses being paid from taxpayer bailouts.

This year a lot of people celebrated the day U.S. taxes are due by holding large tea parties in protest of the large bailouts and proposed tax hikes. Contrary to what a lot of pundits were blabbing about it being a protest of Obama, most of the people who were attending were there to say they're worn out from being last on the list for everything but the bill. That didn't start with the current administration.

Pile on top of that being laid off and sending out a flurry of resumes with only one or two responses. Or try reconciling paying back all of those loans from college to ensure a better life only to face in midlife steadily cutting back on every family activity in order to make sure there is still food on the table every night.

A rock solid definition as a good provider starts to seem a little harder to grasp but hold on to that thought because wrapped inside that loss is an enormous opportunity. Once we can let go of the shock and embarrassment we can also let go of the idea that what we do or where we live defines who we are or what we're worth. Those last two are intrinsic values that don't actually fluctuate but in the midst of the buying binge we've all been on lately it was getting a little harder to see.

If we can truly absorb the notion that choice can be based on what we really want to do or how we might be of service rather than how it will make us all look, imagine what we will create next.

America at its core is a country of optimists who always come back to believing in the possibilities whether it's bad for us like super-sized food, or good for us like creating Habitat for Humanity to empower communities. Therefore, the longer we are without our old labels the more likely we are to start to see ourselves and then everyone around us as valuable just because we're all here. That's when we'll put our creative genius to work and look for ways to enrich our communities rather than admire our Italian marble countertops.

We'll start to ask different questions that center more around what we're contributing rather than what we're acquiring and we'll value the community more than the corporate names played all over the sides of what are really civic buildings.

Our children and our grandchildren will probably look back at this era and be forever grateful that the party finally ended. They will then turn to us with a small thank you for the example we set way back in 2009 when we all got right back up again and came together to rebuild something better. After all, that's who we are in America. More adventures to follow.

Harvesters crush Palo Duro 11-1

by Kevin Hunt

After several close losses, the Pampa Harvesters got a big win on Tuesday by crushing the Palo Duro Dons 11-1.

The game ended after 5 innings due to the 10-run rule.

Blake Sieck got things going for Pampa in the top of the first when he led off with a long home run over the left center field fence.

With one out, Ryan Funderburg was hit by a pitch. He alertly stole second and third base, and with 2 outs, he scored when Braden Hunt doubled to left center field.

Hunt went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Jeremy Maxwell. After the first inning, Pampa held a 3-0 lead.

In the bottom of third, with the score still 3-0, Pampa added 3 more runs to take a commanding 6-0 lead. With 1 out Maxwell reached first on an infield single and took second on a throwing error. Jeremy Busse sacrificed Maxwell to third. Then, with 2 outs and Maxwell on third, Pampa drew five consecutive walks that scored the 3 runs.

In the bottom of the fourth with the score 6-1, Pampa added 2 more runs.

With 2 outs, Busse was hit by a pitch and eventually went to 3rd on 2 wild pitches. With Busse on 3rd, Madison Wilson drew a walk. Busse would score when Wilson stole second and Palo Duro unsuccessfully attempted to throw Wilson out at second base.

Wilson then went to third on a wild pitch and scored when the throw from the catcher sailed into left field.

In the bottom of the fifth, needing 3 runs to end the game, Pampa's bats responded quickly.

Powell reached first base after he was hit by a pitch for the second time in the game and the 17th time this year.

He scored when Funderburg hit a bomb to left center field that easily cleared the fence for a 2 run homer. It was Funderburg's first home run of the year. Needing just one more run, Mitchell Killgo delivered. He hit a 1-0 pitch well over the right field fence for a game-ending home run. It was Killgo's 8th homer of the year.

Brett Powell went the distance, pitching five solid innings giving up only 1 run on 3 hits. Powell hit one batter, did not walk anyone and struck out 7. Pampa's defense was solid, only being charged with 1 error. In the top of the fifth, after a lead off single, Pampa turned a great double play on a ground ball to Sieck at shortstop who threw to John Luke Covalt for the out at 2nd. Covalt then threw to Hunt at 1st base to end the inning.

With the win, Pampa improved their district record to 3-5, and 16-8 overall. After starting district play 3-0, Palo Duro's record now stands at 3-4. There are only 4 district games left for Pampa and they are battling for 1 of 4 playoff berths. Pampa is off the rest of this week and will next take on Dumas in Dumas at 7:00 next Tuesday.

Kinsler hopes cycle part of a complete season

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The cycle complete after his headfirst slide into third, Ian Kinsler emphatically slapped his hands together while still kneeling over the base.

Kinsler then removed his Texas Rangers batting helmet and looked up, the sense of satisfaction clear in his expression.

"Opening day, my first game in the big leagues was pretty special," Kinsler said after Wednesday night's game. "As far as performance on the field, this one has to top that."

It was a complete game that Kinsler hopes is just the beginning of a complete season.

His first All-Star season a year ago was cut six weeks short by a sports hernia, after stints on the disabled list each of his first two seasons.

Kinsler is off to an incredible start. While the 6-for-6 night certainly boosted the numbers, the second baseman and lead-off hitter has reached base in all nine games.

Going into Thursday's off day for Texas, Kinsler was third in the majors with a .474 batting average (18-for-38), tops with 18 hits and seven doubles. Kinsler's 13 RBIs matched Albert Pujols for the most in the majors, and his 11 runs were one short of leading.

"He's certainly our catalyst," manager Ron Washington said.

Kinsler wasn't finished after his triple in the sixth inning of a 19-6 victory over Baltimore that made him only the fourth player in Rangers history to complete the cycle.

With another double and another run in the eighth, Kinsler became the first Texas player with six hits in a nine-inning game and matched team records with his five runs and four extra-base hits.

"It's a career-type game," said teammate Michael Young, a five-time All-Star who is one of his best friends.

Kinsler became the first major leaguer since August 1894 — yes, nearly 115 years — to have a six-hit cycle in a nine-inning game, according to Elias Sports Bureau. Only three other players in the past 55 years have had six hits, five runs and four extra-base hits in a game, the most recent being Shawn Green of the Los Angeles Dodgers seven years ago.

When he got hurt last season, Kinsler was hitting .319 with 18 homers, 71 RBIs, 41 doubles, 102 runs and 26 steals through 121 games. He was fourth in the AL in average and finished eighth in runs and 10th in stolen bases even without playing the final six weeks.

Kinsler knew he needed a triple to complete the cycle when he came to bat in the sixth with Texas up 13-4. His deep flyball headed to the right-center field gap, where it bounced against the wall, Kinsler took off running and wasn't going to stop until he got to third.

The situation was different when he batted in the first, with Texas down 2-0. Kinsler hit the first pitch he saw into the left-field corner for a double, then scored on Josh Hamilton's single to quickly cut the deficit in half.

"All I was thinking is get us back in the game somehow, score a run somehow," Kinsler said. "After that, you play the game, you take every situation, every at-bat for what it is. ... It just kind of worked out."

Kinsler hit his third homer of the season in the third, a solo shot that got Texas within 3-2. Then he had two singles in the fourth, when the Rangers scored eight unearned runs.

"It was pretty obvious. You could see it coming," Orioles catcher Chad Moeller said of Kinsler's big night. "It didn't matter what we threw. The last one from (Matt) Albers almost bounced. It just didn't matter."

Medication safety

Statistics

- In 1999, approximately 7,000 patient deaths were linked to errors in the prescribing and administering of medications.
- One person dies each day, and 1.3 million people are injured each year due to medication errors.
- Adverse Drug Effects (ADEs) may rank between the 4th and 6th leading causes of death.
- The annual cost of drug-related morbidity and mortality is estimated to be $177 billion in the U.S.
- At greatest risk for medication-related problems are America's seniors. While medications are probably the single most important factor in improving the quality of life for seniors, this population remains especially susceptible to medication-related problems.
- Taking four or more of the same medications increases the risk for falls in seniors.

The Tabernacle Experience is coming to the First Baptist Church of Borger. Over 100,000 guests have participated in the life-size, interactive Tabernacle of Moses.

From April 18 through 26, a full replica of the Tabernacle of Moses will be open to guests at First Baptist Church, 100 S Hedgecooke, Borger. This fully interactive exhibit has seven stations that lead visitors through an Old Testament journey that is formative as well as informative.

Visitors are welcome from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. Saturdays, or 1 through 5 p.m. Sundays. Cost per person is $5. Weekdays are available for reservation by school groups at a discounted rate of $3 per person.

The replica of the portable sanctuary remains true to the precise size and layout of the original tabernacle. One step inside the courtyard transports you to Old Testament times and brings you face to face with the Tabernacle of Moses. A privately narrated tour through the seven intersective stations draws you further into the exhibit. Visitors will learn at each station about the tent that housed the Ark of the Covenant over 3,000 years ago, as described in great detail in the book of Exodus.

For more information about this event, please contact Matt Cox at First Baptist Church of Borger, 806-273-5621, or visit the church's Web site, www.borgerfbc.org. The Tabernacle Experience has its own Web site, www.tabernacleexperience.com

Then, Dave will spend an hour answering questions from live audiences gathered all around the country.

There is no cost for the meeting. Hope to see you at Central on April 23rd at 7:00.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am 8 years old, and I love science. I am writing you because when I go to the doughnut shop, they always give me paper bags when I order my doughnut to eat there. I also notice other people getting bags they don't need because they are eating their doughnuts there, too.

How many trees have to die for no reason?

I care about recycling and how long it takes for things to break down in the earth. What can I do so the doughnut shop will stop wasting bags? -- MANDI IN SCARSDALE, N.Y.

DEAR MANDI: I respect the fact that you are conscientious about how your actions -- and the actions of the people around you -- affect the environment. You are a sharp young lady.

What you should do is speak to the manager of the doughnut shop. Tell him or her that these days a strong selling point in many businesses is that they are "going green." In the case of the doughnut shop, it would cost them less and even gain them more customers if they would stop handing out bags to customers who are eating their doughnuts on the premises and tell them why. (A piece of waxed paper would suffice and create less waste.)

Readers, if you are interested in how long it takes the items we toss into our landfills to decompose, I found the following illuminating. Read on:

- Paper ..... 2 to 5 months
- Orange peels ..... 6 months
- Milk cartons ..... 5 years
- Filter-tip cigarettes ... 10 to 12 years

- Plastic bags ..... 10 to 20 years
- Leather shoes ..... 24 to 40 years
- Plastic containers ..... 50 to 80 years
- Disposable diapers ..... 75 years
- Tin cans ..... 100 years
- Aluminum cans ..... 200 to 500 years
- Styrofoam ..... Never

DEAR ABBY: I'm having a problem with my next door neighbors. We just purchased a wonderful historical home located in an awesome neighborhood. My problem is, after we moved in, we realized that these people are exhibitionists. They have no window coverings in their home, which has large windows on all sides. At night you can see all the way through to the other side.

Our home has no back door, so when we need to let our dog out, we must walk along the driveway. We refer to it as "walking the gauntlet." This couple eats their breakfast at a table next to the side window dressed only in their night clothes. At 7 a.m., I am in my robe. Should I wave or hang my head in shame?

I know I should have checked the neighbors out before we bought. I come from a rural area, but still, I had blinds. Flaunting my nightwear or my husband's is kind of personal. Please advise. -- PUT OFF IN TEXAS

DEAR PUT OFF: There is nothing shameful or exhibitionistic about wearing one's pajamas to the breakfast table. If the sight of your neighbors' nightwear embarrasses you, plant a lovely, lush, fast-growing hedge between your driveway and their kitchen.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, April 18, 2009:

Friendship stars in this year's events. Your pals often make all the difference. Understand your goals completely.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Through verbalizing your long-term desires, you will be taking the first step in making your desires reality. Learn to adjust and let go. Often what you thought would happen professionally is a lot different from what goes down. In some other way, you will invigorate your daily life with a new pastime or hobby. If you are single, a friendship could become a lot more. You suddenly note that you have feelings. If you are attached, be more understanding of your sweetie.

AQUARIUS understands you far better than you think.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Someone might have a very different idea for plans. You do need to clear out your work. Take off for a day trip, or explore a new area of town. In this environment, you feel renewed. Tonight: Where people are.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

A must-do situation allows you to move in a new direction. You could be overly worried or overthinking an idea. Let go, and visit with others in the p.m. An older friend enjoys your attention and time. Try not to go to work. Tonight: Out late.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Reach out for someone at a distance. Consider planning a meeting halfway. You understand a lot more than you realize. Change settings, and you'll see a worry disappear. Walk through a new door, and try a new type of entertainment or cuisine. Tonight: Where there is music.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Work with a loved one on an individual level. Realize what is happening behind the scenes. Make a safe place for this person and others to display their vulnerabilities. A friend doesn't mean to interfere with a relationship. Tonight: Let someone else determine plans.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Use your unique people skills to draw out others. You could be uncomfortable as to the split when going out with others. Be clear and direct ahead of time in order to prevent difficulties. A family member appears to be unusually demanding. Tonight: Where the action is.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You could be quite hard on someone without intending to. Listen to what is being shared without judgment. You could like what you hear. Your ability to zero in on what others cannot separates you from many. It is just your style of letting others know your thoughts. Tonight: Remember, honey works better than vinegar.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Allow your imagination to wander through many different paths and curves. You could rediscover how much you enjoy being a kid again when interacting with a child or loved one. Just let it all hang out. Relax. Tonight: Fun and games.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

You are coming from a very solid position and could actually be stuck. Learn to be less controlling. A friend could think he or she is giving you good advice. Say thank you, but follow your instincts. Tonight: Entertain from home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Keep communication flourishing. If you are having a problem with someone, start up talks now. If you give this person space, he or she will be far more willing to open up. Just by being yourself and available, opportunity strikes. Tonight: You don't have to go far.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Refuse to be coerced into doing something; rather, be direct and forthright. Your laughter helps melt someone else's resentments. Someone at a distance has a very strange way of approaching a problem. Tonight: Let go of negativity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

You naturally make the right move. Others seek you out, but a key friend or partner could feel left out. Be sensitive to this person. Although you love your friends, he or she does make a significant difference in your life. Tonight: Learn to mix both.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Take off by yourself. Perhaps some time alone will help revitalize your perspective and mood. Communication might seem more worrisome than in reality. Give yourself the space to see events differently. Tonight: Hang out.

ACRE Farm Bill meeting scheduled

Texas AgriLife Extension Service and the Farm Service Agency will be hosting a meeting to explain the new program added by the 2008 Farm Bill. ACRE, as the program will be known, is an alternative revenue-based safety net to the price-based safety net provided by counter-cyclical payments beginning with the 2009 crop year.

A decision to elect ACRE may be made in any of the crop years 2009-2012 but the ACRE election is irrevocable and cannot be changed once a farm number is signed into the program.

Producers who choose to sign-up for the ACRE program need to understand they will be giving up all of their counter-cyclical payment as well as 20 percent of their direct payment and a reduction in their marketing loan rate by 30 percent.

ACRE payments will be made only when two conditions are met. The first condition is met when the Actual State Revenue (price x yield) falls below the State ACRE Guarantee.

The second condition is met when the Actual Farm Revenue falls below the Farm ACRE Guarantee.

The Texas A&M Agricultural and Food Policy Center has developed an online software decision-aid program that will allow producers to enter all the necessary data to compare the possible benefits of ACRE with the possible costs of signing into the program.

At the meeting, AgriLife Extension personnel will discuss the ACRE program, demonstrating the online decision-aid software tool and the data necessary to run the program.

The online program will enable a producer to enter his own data by the Farm Service Agency farm number along with what is expected to be planted and what the expected prices will be.

With the data entered, the program will calculate the expected benefits of ACRE compared with what the producer has to give up to get those benefits. Each producer should leave the meeting knowing how to access the program online and understand what data is needed and how to interpret the results.

There are many factors that determine whether the ACRE program will be beneficial to area producers and using the online software will help in the understanding of this complicated decision.

The Farm Bill meeting will be held at the Carson County Ag Barn on Thursday, April 23, at 9:00 a.m. For more information, contact Jody Bradford at the Texas AgriLife Extension Office at 806-537-3882 or Eddie Winegeart at the Farm Service Agency at 806-537-3533.
