City hears report on horse stalls

BY DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com
During the Pampa City Commission meeting this week, commissioners heard an update on horse stalls being built next to the rodeo arena at Recreation Park using volunteer labor.
Michael Craig with the Top of Texas Rodeo Association told commissioners at Tuesday's city commission meeting that the association started preliminary work on building horse stalls at Recreation Park last Saturday. He said that with the improvement in the weather Tuesday, he expected to get more done. A cold front and strong winds from the west, however, could stall construction for the next few days.

The commission had approved the project earlier.
Craig said that all the work on the project is volunteer so it's difficult to predict a completion date, but he expects to have the project finished by the Top of Texas Rodeo in mid-August.

"We're going to try to get it done before our rodeo," he said.
The project consists of three barns with 20 stalls in each barn.
"Maybe we'll have some done if we're not completely through," Craig said.
"We're going to do one barn and try to get it finished and then start another one. That's the way we're going to go about it."

PGCD to meet

The Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District will have a hearing at the end of the month concerning changes in its rules.
The district will take public comments beginning at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 24, on amendments to its rules at its offices at 201 W. Third Street, White Deer.
Specifically, the district is proposing to clarify the penalties that may be assessed by the district by adding a schedule of initial minimum penalties, rearrange and clarify the permitting process, rename the Drilling Permit to a Drilling and Production Permit, require a signed permit to be returned to the district within 60 days of issuance, require new wells to be constructed with a clear run of pipe to allow for proper meter installation and change the production requirements in a Conservation Area from quarterly to annually.

PPHM installing new interactive exhibits

BY DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com
For a place that houses history, the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum has a lot of interactive exhibitions coming up.
Honnah Taylor, assistant communications coordinator for the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon, told the Pampa Rotary Club at their Wednesday luncheon that they are about to renovate a lot of the exhibits at the museum.
"It's huge for us," Taylor said.
A 2005 graduate of West Texas A&M, Taylor joined the 77-year-old museum in 2007.
"We have about five galleries that constantly change every six months to a year," she said of the museum.
She said that Pioneer Town exhibit in the museum would be renovated this fall.
"It will have a grand opening in 2011," Taylor said. "Huge interactive going in there. We're still going to keep it Pioneer Town like we all know, but of course they're going to update that and hopefully change the floor and ceiling and not have fluorescent lights when you walk in."

The paleontology area is also scheduled for a change in the next couple of years, she said.
"We'll still have a dinosaur and everything," Taylor said.
She said it would be updated. The museum now has a two to five year renovation program.
"We are starting this fall," she said.
The museum has a new newsletter.

"We did a whole new layout this year," Taylor said.
The museum also offers a monthly e-newsletter on the internet.
sports at the school.
One of the sports features will enable people to call on their cell phones to find out where former West Texas athletes are now.

"We do activities for Generation Y," she said, "and different things like that."
Taylor said the museum also has a couple of new exhibits coming up in April.
West Texas A&M is celebrating its 100th anniversary so the museum is putting together two centennial exhibits, she said.
One of them will focus on the school. The other will focus on Texas athletes are now.
"We're going to take you back to the farthest athlete we can go to see where they're at," she said, "and they're going to tell you how they played sports at WT, what they liked about it, what they did, where they're at now, stuff like that."
One of the athletes they've lined up is Charlie Martin, who now plays wide receiver for the Carolina Panthers in the National Football League.
"We're also going to cover what was going on in sports in the Cold War, the Depression, World War II, World War I, all related to WT," Taylor said. "It's going to be really, really neat, I think."
With regard to art, Taylor said they opened their Panhandle Plains Invitational exhibit in February. It featured artwork by local artists in the area.
"People like you," she said, addressing the Rotary Club, "can come in and buy art."

The art exhibit will remain open until March 27. All the proceeds go to the museum, she said, to finance future exhibits and restore artwork the museum owns.

Taylor said the cell phone tours aren't limited to just the WT Sports exhibit.

"You can use your own cell phone," she said.

A visitor to the museum can call a number listed in the exhibit and hear about the exhibit.

"You can do that from your house, too," Taylor said.

The museum also offers pod casts.

"We have video casts online where we'll take you through the exhibit with the curator," she said.

The promotional video Taylor showed the Rotarians boasted that the museum could take visitors on a 26,000-mile tour of the panhandle in one day on foot in the museum.

Taylor said the 285,000 square foot museum contains 22 galleries with three million artifacts.

He said that he hoped to get some outside help from area colleges.

"The main thing they're probably going to build is our gates," Craig said. "It's something that can be built in their shops."

The cost of the barns, he said, will be about $13,000 in cash. Part of that is being funded by the Pampa Economic Development Corporation. Everything else, including labor has been donated.

"We're hoping to be through by our rodeo time," Craig said.

He said Pampa will have the largest Texas Rodeo Cowboy Association rodeo in the panhandle this year.

"Silverton beat us last year by a little bit, but not much," Silverton has changed their affiliation from the Texas Rodeo Cowboy Association to the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association this year.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, March 12, 2010:

This year, you often feel frustrated, as you have many great ideas but might not be sure about their success. Build your sense of security and confidence. Take your time plotting your course. If you are single, you could meet someone who you find quite enchanting. Check out this person with care. You won't know who he or she really is for at least a year. If you are attached, the two of you benefit from taking getaways together. Love abounds. AQUARIUS reads you cold.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ You decide that you can do whatever you want to do. Just don't allow anyone to stop you. You could end the workweek with a rather spectacular event or finale. You have many reasons to celebrate. Tonight: Where the action is.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★ All eyes turn to you. You have no choice: If you want to get out of the office, you will have to do nearly everything yourself. Investigate new possibilities or ways of delegating in the future. Tonight: A must appearance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ Keep reaching out for new information. You'll get past a problem because of your ability to see beyond the immediate situation. Listen to what is being shared, but don't lose sight of the big picture. Tonight: Take off ASAP.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ You are able to clear through much more working as a team. Single-handed, you simply don't have enough oomph. Someone has a dream, but you can make it a reality if you give it your practical touch! Tonight: Say "yes."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ Others dominate, and you really have no choice but to defer to them. Listen to suggestions and, if you can, put them on the back burner until you are ready to deal with key issues. Realize what is needed here. Tonight: All you want and more.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ Focus on getting the job done. Evaluate what is happening behind the scenes at work. You might need to clear out a problem if someone is causing a snafu. You might want to mellow out some come late afternoon. Tonight: TGIF.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ Your creativity peaks as you seem to remove obstacles that are preventing you from enjoying yourself. Use your imagination to open doors that seem closed. You could surprise even yourself with your accomplishments. Tonight: Fun and games.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ Stay centered and understand what you can do. If you can make home your base of operations, at least for the day, go for it. Your imagination could play a role. Be sure you are not distorting the facts. Tonight: Entertain from your pad.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You might be excited by everything that heads down your path. You could be wondering which way is best and in which direction would you most like to head. If you tap into your imagination, there can hardly be a choice. Tonight: Hanging out is fun to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★ Keep your financial ideas to yourself, until you know that you are 100 percent right-on. You could have difficulty convincing someone else that you are on target. Do necessary research, and get on top of your game. Tonight: Treat yourself... why not?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ Your sixth sense could be right-on. Until some people actually see how intuitively accurate you can be, they might not trust that instinct of yours. Don't feel pushed by someone close who makes one demand after another. Tonight: All smiles.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ Investigate what is happening behind the scenes. You might want to take your time deciding which way to go. The less said the better off you will be. Understand your limits and honor them. Someone could be quite pushy. Tonight: Get some extra sleep.

Lady Harvesters honored for 2009-2010 season

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampnews.com

The Pampa Lady Harvesters basketball team held their banquet commemorating the 2009-2010 season Wednesday in the high school commons.

The varsity finished the season 11-18 and 6-6 in district and made it to the playoffs for the first time in four years. The junior varsity finished 12-13 and 5-6 in district. The freshman team finished 15-5 and 8-2 in district. Each coach commented on their teams and their season.

"These guys did a really great job for me this year," Freshman Coach Alan Segura said. "I really enjoyed coaching them. I told them this is probably the most fun I've had coaching a group."

"These are great girls," Junior Varsity Coach Forrest Harding said. "They have a lot of love and support from home and that's great for the program. I had a great time this year and the girls got better."

Varsity Head Coach Gene Valentine wore his game day attire: black shirt and green vest for one more time this year at the banquet. Valentine talked about when he first came to Pampa and started out as a teacher, before taking over as freshman girls basketball coach.

The head coach continued with talking about the success of the first freshman team he coached and then talked about when he took over as head coach.

"This year began with summer league. We went over to West Texas High," Valentine said. "Played in summer league with kids here and there went 5-2 in that league. Go to team camp. Out of 32 teams we end up in the top four...that started the year we knew what we had and what it was going to be."

Valentine continued with summarizing the season and talking about certain goals they accomplished during the year.

"Our confidence level knew if we get through PD and Canyon we were going to take care of business and we did," Valentine said. "We went 6-6 in district after we went 1-11 the year before. I was never so proud of a group of girls."

After Valentine talked about the season they handed out awards and every Lady Harvester left with at least one award. Taryn Eubank won the Most Valuable Player, second team all-district, Rebound Award, and Offensive Player of the Year Award. Shelbie Watson won the Hustling Lady Harvester Award, first team all-district and selected to play in the Golden Spread All-Star Game. Emilie Troxell won the Fighting Heart Award, academic all-state team and all-district honorable mention. Andi Hutto won the Fighting Heart Award and all-district honorable mention. Kirsten Kuhn won the Defensive Player of the Year Award and was an all-district honorable mention.

Cori Cook won the Buzzer Beater Clutch Shot Award for her baskets against Perryton and Caprock. Ashlee Holland won the Brave Heart Award for fighting through injuries. Liz Hoelting also won the Defensive Player of the Year Award. Kayla Hughes won the Sixth Person Award.

The banquet closed with watching a highlight video of the season and the senior will to the underclassmen. During the senior will, the seniors Andi Hutto, Emilie Troxell and Shelbie Watson gave the returning players gifts based on inside jokes amongst the team. The Plaza catered the meal with enchiladas and fajitas.

Watson selected for Golden Spread All-Star Game

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampnews.com

Lady Harvester senior basketball player Shelbie Watson was selected to play in the Golden Spread All-Star Basketball Game Sunday.

Watson was picked to play for the East Team in the all star game that will take place April 15 through the 17 at West Texas A&M. The senior said she was excited when she found out she was playing.

"I didn't expect it because there is a lot of great players that are going to DI schools in our district," Watson said.

The Lady Harvester senior will get to play with some of the best players in the panhandle region including athletes that are going to NCAA Division one schools. Watson said it will be an interesting experience getting to play with them.

"It will be fun to play with them," Watson said. "I've always played against them so it will be different to play with them."

Watson said it will be a great way for her to close out her high school basketball career.

"It's a great way to end," Watson said. "I didn't expect it and it feels good."

Head Coach Gene Valentine said he was asked to nominate players for the game after their season was over and was surprised one of his players was nominated.

"I nominated my three seniors after the season was over," Valentine said. "I would like to see something happen not knowing what would happen. Last week I got an email back from a coach saying she was selected."

Valentine said people started noticing her as the season went on because of her three-point shooting.

"I'm very proud of her getting to play with these other kids and just getting recognized that's the biggest thing," Valentine said. "It helps recognition of the program. There is people noticing and I'm proud of them for that."

Watson will be going to Clarendon College next fall on a softball scholarship.

Troxell makes 2010 all-state academic team

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampnews.com

Emilie Troxell was selected for the all-state academic team for having strong grades and being a student athlete.

Troxell said she felt really honored to be selected for the team this season.

"I've always worked really hard to keep my grades up," Troxell said. "I'm really excited about it."

Head Coach Gene Valentine said grades have never been an issue on his team.

"I was asked at a Rotary Club meeting how I dealt with grades," Valentine said. "I said I didn't have to because they take care of it themselves."

Valentine said the Texas Girls Coaching Association honors students who make above a 94 grade point average and Troxell had a 98.2.

"She's one of those kids that have enough hours through dual credit, AP classes, college credit that she can go into college being a sophomore," Valentine said. "I'm very proud of that because if you got girls that smart with that kind of intelligence and put them on the basketball floor it makes my job easier. I can tell them something to do and they know how to do it and adjust."

Along with playing basketball, Troxell played volleyball last fall and is currently playing softball. Troxell said she has a lot of late nights studying.

"I do homework on the bus," Troxell said. "School comes first before my athletic career because if I don't pass I don't play. My grades have been very important to me."

Valentine said he was impressed with Troxell having high grades and playing multiple sports.

"I think right now she's number 11 in her class so that's very exciting and I'm proud of her for that," Valentine said. "A lot of that goes to her parents and her willingness, and hard work that she puts in."

Pampa falls to Rangers 2-0

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampnews.com

The Pampa Harvesters baseball team lost their third in a row 2-0 to the Perryton Rangers Tuesday in Perryton.

The Rangers scored a run in the fourth and fifth inning to win the game. Head Coach Kaleb Snelgrooves said the team struggled to get hits.

"Everything we hit went right to them," Snelgrooves said. "We just couldn't string together enough hits to win."

The Harvesters only got four hits in the game. Collin Killgo hit a double, Braden Hunt singled and Tyler Malone singled. Hunt was the starting pitcher and pitched four innings and struck out five in a losing effort. The loss was also the first time the Harvesters were shut out this season.

Pampa (5-5) opens the Burkburnett tournament today against Rider and plays Abilene and Birdville Friday.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Last week I suggested to a co-worker, "Zack," that I treat him to a beer after work. Before our pints arrived, he disappeared to a corner of the pub to text on his phone, and 10 minutes later his girlfriend showed up. Her being there obligated me to buy her a drink, and it derailed the work-related discussion I had initially had in mind.

The following Monday, I mentioned to Zack that he should have asked me first if it was OK to bring someone else. He was none too pleased to hear that I thought his behavior was rude. How far off base was I? I'll bow to your opinion. — WONDERING IN WESTMOUNT, CANADA

DEAR WONDERING: Did Zack know when you invited him for a beer that you wanted to discuss business? If not, then you're being too hard on him. But if he did know, then asking his girlfriend to join you was presumptuous — and he should have offered to pay for her drink in any case.

DEAR ABBY: My 12-year-old daughter, "Jenna," is in the closet — literally. About a week ago, she moved into her closet. She put her dresser in there, threw some blankets on the floor and that's where she hangs out now. When asked why she doesn't hang out in her room, she says, "I just like it in the closet."

Some of her girlfriends claim to be bisexual or gay. Is she telling me that she's "in the closet" or is she messing with my mind? Some of her friends are into cutting, and Jenna seems to be curious about it. I don't know what to make of any of this. Any advice? — CONCERNED IN HOUSTON

DEAR CONCERNED: How close are you and your daughter? Are you the kind of mother she feels safe talking to about anything that might be troubling her?

Happy, outgoing girls don't usually take refuge in dark, confined spaces. She may be overwhelmed or depressed, or something may be going on in Jenna's life she needs help with but is afraid to tell you. Stay closer to your daughter for a while. If her change in behavior persists, keep probing until you find out what's going on.

Cutting can be an attempt to mask emotional pain, and if she starts, a licensed psychotherapist should be consulted.

DEAR ABBY: I have an 11-year-old son who has started having issues with lying — nothing important, just little things like did he do his chores or brush his teeth.

I also have an alcoholic husband who says and does things he doesn't remember later. When I get conflicting stories from the two of them, I don't know whom to believe.

Don't suggest I leave my husband. It's not financially feasible right now, though it is something I am looking into. — WHOM DO I BELIEVE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR WHOM: I am not suggesting that you leave your husband, unless he poses a danger to his son during one of his blackouts. However, if I had to choose between a husband who says and does things he doesn't remember later, and an 11-year-old boy who lies occasionally about having brushed his teeth or done his chores, I'd be inclined to believe the more sober of the two, your son. And I'd make damn sure my son understood that, while I might be disappointed he hadn't done what he was supposed to do, he'd be punished if I caught him lying to me about it.
