2010 Best of Gray County 'TEA' FOR TERRIFIC

Kendra Blades (center) and the staff at the Vicary House Tea Room celebrate their award for 2010's "Best Place to Have Lunch."

Vicary House 'Best Place to Have Lunch'

Best Place to Have Lunch: The Vicary House Tea Room

"It truly is a huge honor," said owner Kendra Blades of the Vicary House Tea Room being voted the "Best Place to Have Lunch" in Gray County.

As for why the restaurant won the honor, Blades said that it's a combination of things.

"I have wonderful people that work with me," said Blades. "We can't keep this place up without them. The waitresses remember what people like to drink so that they have their drinks ready before they even ask. We try to serve things on china plates so that, when people come in, they feel like it's a special occasion."

Blades was also quick to praise her customers, of which, she said, she has many regulars.

"We have very faithful customers," said Blades. "People love to come time after time and try our desserts. Our desserts are the drawing card. The first thing people do when they come in is they pick out their desserts, since we have a limited number, then they order their entree. Their favorite desserts are their priority."

Of course, added Blades, the entrees aren't anything to sneeze at, either.

"My goal when I prepare food is to make something that has vibrant flavor that is aesthetically appealing," Blades said, "so that when people look at it when it comes out, they can't wait to taste it."

The Plaza's Wanda Campbell was elated about winning 2010's "Best Server" award.

U.S. Census to take to streets this Monday

SPECIAL TO THE PAMPA NEWS

Individuals who did not mail their United States Census Forms can count on a visit from Census Enumerators beginning Monday, May 3rd. The Census Bureau will be going door-to-door conducting a Nonresponse Follow-Up (NRFU) in an effort to achieve an accurate count of the population of the City of Pampa.

United States Census 2010

"The Census data will help form the basis for many important political, economic, and social decisions that affect our city and impact our daily lives," said Jildardo Arias, an Engineer-in-Training with the City of Pampa.

A more accurate, higher population count opens the doors to federal and state grants that may be available only to cities of certain populations.

Census data also helps determine the allocation of federal funds for community services, such as school lunch programs, family support programs, senior centers and new construction, such as highways and hospitals.

Accurate counts also assure proper representation in state and local government.

Enumerators can easily be identified by the badge that they will be wearing with a United States Department of Commerce watermark. The Census Taker may also be carrying a bag with a Census Bureau logo and may provide you with supervisor contact information for verification if asked.

Census Workers will not ask for citizenship status, Social Security numbers, credit card or banking information. All Census Takers have undergone a FBI name check and an FBI fingerprint check.

"I highly encourage people to take a few minutes out of their busy lives to answer a few simple questions for the Census to ensure an accurate count of the population of the City of Pampa," City Secretary Karen Price said. Census Takers will be working daily between the hours of 8 AM and 8 PM until they have contacted every address that did not return a Census Form.

Judy Neslage, 70

Dallas—Judy Neslage, 70, died April 29, 2010 in Dallas.

Services will be at 12:30 p.m. Monday, May 3, 2010, at Restland Funeral Home in Dallas. Graveside services will be at 12:30 PM Wednesday, May 5, 2010, at Fairview Cemetery in Pampa with Msgr. Michael Colwell, officiating. Arrangements are by Restland Funeral Home in Dallas and Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors in Pampa.

Our beloved sister, aunt, friend and colleague, Judy, passed away at her residence in Presbyterian Village North in Dallas TX. Judy has endured many health problems over the past years; she always came back from these, but this time it was not to be. Her family and friends know that Judy is at peace and restored to health in the presence of our Heavenly Father.

Judy was born in Ponca City, Okla., on October 22, 1939, to her parents, Dorothy and Fred Neslage. Judy was the eldest of eleven brothers and sisters. She loved her family and was very proud of them, loved to talk about them and all of their accomplishments. She doted on all of her nieces and nephews and regarded them as her own kids. They brought so much joy to her life. As her nieces and nephews married and brought their own children to visit, Judy embraced them and they learned to call her "Dodie," as their parents had before them. Family pictures always surrounded Judy. This feeling of family and being loved brought Judy much peace.

Judy received a bachelor's degree from West Texas State University and a master's degree from The University of North Texas. She taught for several years in Pampa, Texas, prior to moving to Richardson where she became a member of the Richardson ISD staff. She was an educator for 42 years prior to retirement. Judy served RISD in a variety of leadership roles: teacher, assistant principal, principal, and director. She began her career in RISD as a first grade teacher at Richardson Heights Elementary. Judy was chosen to go to Hamilton Park Pacesetter Elementary the first year their program began. She loved her days there and was very proud to have been a part of this innovative school. Judy also worked at Bowie Elementary, Brentfield Elementary, Spring Valley Elementary and Dartmouth Elementary, as well as at the Special Education Department where she served as director.

Judy received many accolades and honors while serving the RISD. Her proudest accomplishments were in being recognized as an advocate for children. She always had time for students, parents and staff—and always made them feel valued. Judy maintained friendships with many who worked with her over the years, and former students often visited her. Just recently, a former student brought his wife and children to visit. He wanted his family to meet her as she had had such a positive impact on his life.

Judy possessed an amazing intellect and wit. She was called upon many times to be the keynote speaker at school district events and functions, and her speeches always had the audience laughing — no one could tell a story like Judy. Her ability to capture an audience was never more evident than the year she spoke to district personnel at the annual convocation prior to the beginning of the school year. The audience loved her, and she loved doing it.

Judy was named to Leadership Texas, an organization that recognized outstanding women leaders across the state of Texas. The time she spent in this organization was among her happiest. She made so many friends from across Texas, many of whom remained close friends throughout her life.

Her generous and caring spirit was a big part of Judy's personality. She was most generous with her time and resources to anyone in need, and always had an encouraging word or a shoulder to cry on—whatever would help. She cared deeply about her family, friends and everyone with whom she came in contact.

In the past few years, family, friends and colleagues were a constant presence in Judy's life. Her visits, calls and cards brightened her days. Birthdays were really big with Judy—especially her own! She loved her last birthday when friends and family gathered with her to celebrate. Presents, flowers, cards and, of course, a crown for "The Queen" were all part of the celebration.

Judy felt fortunate to have a wonderful family who loved her and cared for her so much. Her family loved her unconditionally, as she did them. Her friends held a special place in her heart, as she did in theirs. She leaves a hole in the lives of many.

Her survivors include her brothers Fred, Bill, Bob, Tom, Terry and Tim Neslage, and her sisters Marion Gerome, Jean Wright and Patsy Urbanovsky, as well as many nieces and nephews. Preceding her in death was her mom, dad, and brother, John.

Relay - more than just a fundraiser

PAM DALTON
Shepard's Crook Home Health

Relay For Life is more than just a fundraiser. It's a life-changing experience. At Relay, every person in the community has a chance to celebrate, remember, and fight back. And every person who participates joins others around the globe as part of this worldwide movement to end cancer.

Everyone's reason to Relay is as unique as their own personal story. At Relay, you can find healing, comfort, and support from others who have faced cancer or who have lost a loved one to the disease. You have a chance to meet people in the community who are equally as passionate about finding an end to cancer in our lifetime. You can thank all the people who have done so much to support you through your personal cancer experience. And you can gather together with friends, family, and colleagues to laugh, cry, and create lasting memories.

No matter why you take part in Relay, however, one thing is clear: with every step you take, you are helping the American Cancer Society save lives. With your help, we aren't just fighting one type of cancer we're fighting for every birthday threatened by every cancer in every community. Each person who shares the Relay experience can take pride in knowing that they are working to create a world where this disease will no longer threaten the lives of our loved ones or claim another year of anyone's life.

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life® of Gray County gives everyone in the community a chance to help the organization save lives and create a world with less cancer and more birthdays. Register your team today by visiting Relayforlife.org/graycotx or by calling Pam Dalton at 806-665-0356

Former and current cancer patients, those who have lost a loved one to cancer, families, businesses, faith-based and civic organizations, and anyone wanting to make a difference in the fight against cancer are invited to take part in this exciting team event. Relay For Life takes place from 7 PM on June 25, 2010 until 7AM on June 26, 2010 at Pampa Recreation Park.

Relay For Life events are held overnight as individuals and teams camp out at an athletic track, park or other gathering area, with the goal of keeping at least one team member on the track or pathway at all times throughout the evening. Teams do most of their fundraising prior to the event, but some teams also hold creative fundraisers at their camp sites during Relay. Relay brings together friends, families, businesses, hospitals, schools, faith-based groups . . . people from all walks of life - all aimed at furthering the American Cancer Society's efforts to save lives by helping people stay well, by helping them get well, by finding cures and by fighting back.

"Relay For Life draws attention to the progress being made in the fight against cancer," said Christy Robinson, Gray County volunteer Relay event chair. "Many participants are our family, friends, and neighbors who have faced cancer themselves. Their involvement helps bring hope that, together, we can eliminate cancer as a major health problem."

Information about how to form a team or become involved in Relay For Life is available at RelayForLife.org/graycotx or by calling Christy Robinson 806-440-2351.

The American Cancer Society combines an unyielding passion with nearly a century of experience to save lives and end suffering from cancer. rallying lawmakers to pass laws to defeat cancer and by rallying communities worldwide to join the fight. As the nation's largest non-governmental investor in cancer research, contributing about $3.4 billion, we turn what we know about cancer into what we do.

The gulf oil spill is the recipe for disaster

WASHINGTON (AP) - What makes an oil spill really bad? Most of the ingredients for it are now blending in the Gulf of Mexico.

Experts tick off the essentials: A relentless flow of oil from under the sea; a type of crude that mixes easily with water; a resultant gooey mixture that is hard to burn and even harder to clean; water that's home to vulnerable spawning grounds for new life; and a coastline with difficult-to-scrub marshlands.

Gulf Coast experts have always talked about "the potential for a bad one," said Wes Tunnell, coastal ecology and oil spill expert at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi.

"And this is the bad one. This is just a biggie that finally happened."

It hasn't quite become a total disaster yet. But it's hard to imagine it not being devastating, said Ed Overton, who heads a federal chemical hazard assessment team for oil spills. The Louisiana State University professor has been testing samples of the spilled crude.

He compared what's brewing to another all-too-familiar Gulf Coast threat: "This has got all the characteristics of a Category 5 hurricane."

If conditions don't change quickly, devastation of the highest magnitude is headed for somewhere along the coast, said Overton, who works with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

More than 200,000 gallons of oil a day are spewing from the blown-out well at the site of BP's Deepwater Horizon rig, which exploded April 20 and sank two days later. Crews are using at least six remotely operated vehicles to try to shut off an underwater valve, but so far they've been unsuccessful. Meanwhile, high winds and waves are pushing oily water over the booms meant to contain it. Besides BP, a slew of federal and state agencies are scrambling to minimize the onslaught of damage.

Experts in oil spills have drills every few years to practice their response for spills of "national significance." One of those practice runs took place just last month in Maine. The Gulf of Mexico leak is a "combination of all the bad things happening" and makes it far worse than any disaster imagined in the drills, said Nancy Kinner, director of the Coastal Response Research Center at the University of New Hampshire.

"This is relentless," Kinner said.

Most Americans think of Exxon Valdez when it comes to spills. But the potential and likelihood here "is well beyond that," said University of Rhode Island ocean engineering professor Malcolm Spaulding. Because the Deepwater Horizon well has not been capped and may flow for months more, it should be compared to a bigger more dangerous one from a well explosion in 1979, said Tunnell. That was Ixtoc 1, off the coast of Mexico. It was the worst peacetime oil spill on record.

The current spill "is kind of a worst case scenario," Tunnell said.

What makes this spill relentless and most similar to Ixtoc 1 is that it's an active well that keeps flowing. The Exxon Valdez was a tanker with a limited supply of oil. The rig 40 miles from the Gulf Coast may leak for months before a relief well can be drilled to stop the flow, Kinner said.

And LSU's Overton said: "I'm not very optimistic that they'll be drilling a relief well in three months."

The type of oil involved is also a major problem. While most of the oil drilled off Louisiana is a lighter crude, this isn't. It's a heavier blend because it comes from deep under the ocean surface, Overton said.

"If I had to pick a bad oil, I'd put this right up there. The only thing that's not bad about this is that it doesn't have a lot of sulfur in it and the high sulfur really smells bad."

The first analysis of oil spill samples showed it contains asphalt-like substances that make a major sticky mess, he said. This is because the oil is older than most oil in the region and is very dense.

This oil also emulsifies well, Overton said. Emulsification is when oil and water mix thoroughly together, like a shampoo, which is mostly water, said Penn State engineering professor Anil Kulkarni.

It "makes a thick gooey chocolate mousse type of mix," Kulkarni said.

And once it becomes that kind of mix, it no longer evaporates as quickly as regular oil, doesn't rinse off as easily, can't be eaten by oil-munching microbes as easily, and doesn't burn as well, experts said.

That type of mixture essentially removes all the best oil clean-up weapons, Overton and others said.

Under better circumstances, with calmer winds and water, the oil might have a chance of rising without immediately emulsifying, but that's not happening here, Kulkarni said. It's pretty much mixed by the time it gets to the surface. The wind and waves are also pushing the oil directly toward some of the most sensitive coastal areas: the marshlands of Louisiana and surrounding states.

And there are three types of beaches: sandy, rocky and marshy. Sandy beaches, like those in Florida, are the easiest to clean, Overton said. By far the hardest are marshlands and that's where the oil is heading first.

Marshes are so delicate that just trying to clean them causes damage, Kinner said. Once the oily mess penetrates, grasses

Top judge on criminal appeals court fined $100k

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The top judge on Texas' highest criminal appeals court has been fined $100,000 for not fully reporting her income and property holdings as required by law.

The fine against Court of Criminal Appeals Judge Sharon Keller, who is also facing separate charges of misconduct for refusing to allow the court to accept a late appeal before a 2007 execution, is the largest ever imposed by the Texas Ethics Commission.

Keller's sworn personal income statements for 2007 and 2008 didn't include properties valued at more than $2 million and other income sources totaling about $183,000.

The panel issued the order Wednesday.

Keller's attorney, Ed Shack, said Friday that Keller is "very disappointed at the excessive penalty" and plans to appeal.

He said Keller did not try to mislead anyone and filed corrected reports when she learned of a problem.

Texans for Public Justice, the liberal watchdog group that filed the ethics complaint over the financial disclosures, said Keller "deserved a substantial penalty."

"It sends the wrong signal when top state judges don't follow the law. I think this fine is the Ethics Commission's way of saying that public servants will be held to the highest standards," said Texans for Public Justice Director Craig McDonald. "Nobody can put themselves above state ethics laws."

Keller, a Republican, has been on the court since 1994. The financial reporting misconduct complaint came after The Dallas Morning News reported that Keller's routine annual financial disclosures did not include two Dallas homes and commercial land.

Keller later filed amended reports to include the properties and income. She explained that she had mistakenly omitted the property assets from previous disclosures because her father, Dallas landowner and hamburger restaurateur, Jack Keller, hadn't told her of them.

The Ethics Commission ordered Keller to pay the fine by Aug. 10.

In the death row case, the state Commission on Judicial Conduct is scheduled to meet in June to decide whether to punish Keller for refusing to let twice-convicted killer Michael Wayne Richard file a late appeal in the hours before his execution.

On the day he was scheduled to be executed, Richard's attorneys saw a window of reprieve when the Supreme Court agreed to review a challenge to Kentucky's three-drug combination used in executions. Texas uses a similar lethal cocktail, which was the basis of Richard's final appeal.

Prosecutors allege Keller "cast public discredit" on the judiciary and denied Richard the right to be heard. When Keller received a call asking whether the court could stay open past 5 p.m., prosecutors said she was required by court protocol to direct the call to the appellate judge on duty that night.

State District Judge David Berchelmann, who presided over Keller's trial on the misconduct charges, found that Keller showed "highly questionable" judgment.

But he recommended that she receive no reprimand "beyond the public humiliation she has surely suffered."

Spill

must be cut. But it also penetrates the soil and that is extremely difficult to get out, she said.

The normal bacteria that eats oil needs oxygen to work, and in the soils of the marsh, there's not enough oxygen for that process, she said.

It's also the time of year in the Gulf of Mexico when fish spawn, plankton bloom and the delicate ecosystem is at a vulnerable stage.

Hurricane season is fast approaching in June and experts are sure the oil will still be flowing by then. Though it might seem counterintuitive, a big storm could help by dispersing and diluting the worst of the oil, Overton said.

"A hurricane is Mother Nature's vacuum cleaner," Overton said. Normally it cleans things up. But that's not a solution with a continuing spill.

Xcel Energy seeks approval for generator

AMARILLO — Anticipating future electric load growth, Xcel Energy is seeking approval to add a new, 168-megawatt natural gas-fired combustion turbine at its Jones Generating Station near Lubbock.

Xcel Energy, through its Amarillo-based subsidiary, Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS), filed an application to amend its certificate of convenience and necessity (CCN) Friday at the Public Utility Commission of Texas, opening a process to prove the merits of installing another generator in the SPS service area.

Jones Station, located southeast of Lubbock, is a natural gas-fueled, steam-electric generating station with two operating units — Jones Unit 1 completed in 1971 and Jones Unit 2 completed in 1974. The plant currently has a generating capacity of 486 megawatts. Pending regulatory approval, Xcel Energy plans to build Jones Unit 3 by 2012, equipped with a Siemens Energy gas combustion turbine with a summer capacity rating of approximately 168 megawatts. The project will cost approximately $116 million.

Initially, Xcel Energy expects to use the additional power to help meet summer demand, traditionally higher than any other period of the year.

"Our regional oil and gas industries have expanded even as the national economy slumped, and we know that these and other industries are planning more development and more jobs over the next few years," said Riley Hill, president and CEO of Southwestern Public Service Company, an Xcel Energy company. "We want to prepare for this anticipated growth with additional resources that are clean, reliable and cost-effective."

"Another benefit is the new turbine will help us respond more quickly to changes in the region's growing wind generation output. This type of technology makes sense at this time," Hill added.

Xcel Energy's Texas and New Mexico service area covers more than 50,000 square miles, including most of the Texas Panhandle, the Texas South Plains region, and eastern and southeastern New Mexico. Peak electricity demand in this region is currently about 5,000 megawatts.

Perry rejects health insurance risk pool

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Rick Perry told U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius on Friday that Texas will not submit plans to operate a temporary high-risk insurance pool.

The high-risk insurance pools are part of the federal health care overhaul and Sebelius had asked states to submit their plans by Friday.

The high-risk pools will offer coverage to people with pre-existing health conditions who have been uninsured for 6 months, at a cost similar to what everybody else pays. In states that decline to run the pools, the federal government will step in and run them.

Perry said the state can't commit to the new program due to the "lack of program rules or reliable federal funding."

"As we've seen in federal education and stimulus programs, the administration is again asking states to commit to a program without knowing the rules of engagement," Perry wrote in a letter to Sebelius. "I do not believe that the aggressive implementation and the lack of assurances on financial solvency of the program are in the best interest of Texas taxpayers, families, patients or health care providers."

Perry has been one of the nation's most vociferous critics of the health care legislation and has said he will continue to oppose provisions that eventually will require most Americans to buy health insurance or face a fine.

Texas is one of more than a dozen states that are challenging the new health care law. Among other things, critics argue it is unconstitutional because of the mandates to buy insurance and because it violates states' rights protected under the 10th Amendment. Although Congress has committed $5 billion for states to run the risk pools for at least four years, Perry said he has found the amount to be insufficient.

"In the coming years, state officials could be forced to reduce health coverage, raise premiums or ask state taxpayers to pay for these high-risk pools once federal funds run dry," he wrote.

COPS CORNER

There are many Americans that have guns in the home either for protection or for hunting. In cases of guns in the home with children, we as parents have a responsibility to our children and our community to keep our guns in a secure location for the safety of our children. "Common Sense about Kids and Guns" (www.kidsandguns.org) said in 2005, every nine hours a child or teen was killed in a firearm-related accident or suicide. The National Rifle Association (NRA) states if your child is not ready to be trained to handle a gun, he or she needs to follow the gun safety rules "STOP! Don't touch. Leave the Area. Tell an Adult." The Pampa Police Department wants the community to be aware that it is also illegal for a person to leave a firearm that can be accessible to a child, Penal Code 46.13 states "A person commits an offense if a child gains access to a readily dischargeable firearm and the person with criminal negligence: failed to secure the firearm; or left the firearm in a place to which the person knew or should have known the child would gain access". ## Drilling stocks sell off amid industry scrutiny

NEW YORK (AP) - Investors sold shares of companies with ties to oil drilling in the Gulf of Mexico as the industry came under greater scrutiny as oil from a massive spill reached the marshlands of Louisiana.

As the extent of the spill unfolded, investors tried to determine the near- and long-term impact. Shares of companies that operate offshore rigs fell while major oil producers that reported healthier first-quarter earnings this week fared better.

Oil spewing from the deepwater well where an explosion occurred 10 days ago reached Louisiana's wetlands as storms threatened to deter efforts to protect the environment.

President Barack Obama directed that no new offshore oil drilling leases be issued unless rigs have new safeguards. He gave Interior Secretary Ken Salazar 30 days to report on what new technologies are needed.

Representatives of energy companies are following the investigation into the cause of the explosion. They're awaiting more details of what Obama's position will be on drilling after Salazar's report is complete.

Palo Duro Canyon State Park upgrading access

CANYON — Spectacular, rugged and starkly beautiful, Palo Duro Canyon State Park has always been a worthy Texas bragging point. To make sure everyone has an opportunity to enjoy the canyon's scenic splendor, early this summer begins making more of this 76-year-old park current with the Americans with Disabilities Act. Construction is expected to be completed in spring 2011.

"There are accessibility issues that have to be conquered to give everybody the same access," says Park Superintendent Randy Ferris.

Thanks to bond funding authorized by the Texas Legislature and approved by statewide voters, Texas Parks and Wildlife is repairing and renovating several Palo Duro Canyon facilities to make them ADA compliant.

At the same time, TPWD is protecting the historical integrity of park structures. At the park headquarters, that is a particular challenge because it was built by the legendary Civilian Conservation Corps. Six CCC companies labored from 1933 to 1937 to build the park. Their work is carefully protected by the Texas Historical Commission and other entities.

"The main part of the building is a CCC-era structure," says project manager Ronny Gallagher. "There are two restrooms in the headquarters that are extremely small but are in that older, historic area."

The building also has a newer section, built in the CCC style but only about 40 years old. That section will be renovated so people in wheelchairs can easily access the building. The headquarters service counter also will be made accessible. But the historic area's small restrooms defied being altered without destroying their original character.

"So we are taking another building that is adjacent, a CCC building that was used to house a water tank," Gallagher says. That structure had the space to alter it without destroying its historic nature. "We are going to modify that tank and put restrooms inside there."

The more than $600,000 in improvements at Palo Duro Canyon are part of a long list of major Texas State Parks rejuvenation projects underway this year, all aimed at keeping the parks fun, safe and customer friendly. Texas State Parks general obligation bonds have been sold to fund more than $44 million in repairs and renovations to park cabins, bathrooms, electrical and water systems, and other state park infrastructure. In addition to fixing up more than 40 state parks, the bonds provide $25 million to dry berth the Battleship Texas.

Another ADA restroom update will be done in Palo Duro Canyon's Chinaberry Day Use Area. The walls of that non-CCC structure will be moved outward several feet to provide adequate wheelchair turn-around room inside, and the doors will be widened.

Chinaberry also gets ADA-compliant pathways from the parking area to picnic pads and the restroom.

More upgrades will be made at the Sagebrush Camp Area, where three campsites will be brought up to ADA compliance.

"We are going to be doing some elevation work, some grading, adjusting the picnic pad to make sure it's the right size and allow easy access from the camper to the pad," Gallagher says. "And we will put an ADA walkway between those campsites to the restrooms."

Palo Duro Canyon is indisputably one of Texas' most spectacular state parks. It is often called the "Grand Canyon of Texas," although the experience, for many guests, is more intimate than visiting the national icon. The Grand Canyon is so vast, deep and challenging that most visitors see it only from the rim. A visit to Palo Duro Canyon State Park means driving — using a road originally built more than 70 years ago by the CCC — down the canyon wall and right into the heart of the canyon.

Ferris says it is the amazing contrast of the canyon with the surrounding landscape that most enralls people. "You've driven across the Panhandle's flat farmland and ranch land. Then all of a sudden you've got the second largest canyon system in the United States."

The park features numerous examples of CCC handicraft. The visitor's center, originally the Coronado Lodge, was one of the first structures. Others, Ferris says, include the Rim Cabins and the Cow Camp Cabins. The latter were built as open air shelters and later modified into cabins using the CCC design. The CCC boys also constructed a number of the park's bridges and picnic areas.

The almost 30,000-acre park also boasts great geologic and military history. It took 250 million years of water erosion to carve out the 120-mile long, 800-foot-deep canyon (not all in the park). That story is revealed by the layers of rock exposed as the canyon deepened. The presence of iron causes the distinctive rust red of the Quartermaster formation, the lowest and oldest layer seen in most areas of the park.

One wonders if all this beauty was appreciated by the combatants — soldiers and Indians — in the month-long Red River Wars of 1874, which essentially ended the lifestyle of Plains Indians. The final battle of that war took place in and around the canyon, climaxing with the capture and destruction of the food and horses of the remaining Native American resistance.

Palo Duro Canyon State Park attracted about 277,000 visitors last year with its potent combination of scenery, camping, hiking, cabins, equestrian rentals and great diversity of plants and wildlife. It is located in the Texas Panhandle, 14 miles east of Canyon and 30 miles south of Amarillo.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a plus-sized woman who finds it difficult to squeeze into a tiny restroom stall. I frequently use the stall for people with disabilities because it's larger.

A few years ago, when I was traveling with my mother, we made a pit stop and, as usual, I headed for the large stall. Mom was horrified. She said the large stalls should be treated the same as parking places for people with disabilities and used only by those who are disabled.

I told her I disagreed, thinking that a few moments in the potty is different from a few hours in a parking space. Was my mother right? Her voice still rings in my ears every time I step into the larger stall. I'd appreciate your input. Maybe it'll silence my mother's voice. — JENNIFER IN MAINE

DEAR JENNIFER: Because you have difficulty fitting into a regular stall, I see nothing wrong with using the larger one. If a woman in a wheelchair entered the bathroom at the same time as you, then good manners would dictate that you defer to her because she'd be unable to use a smaller one. However, there's no reason for the stall to be kept empty at all times, so stop being so hard on yourself.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have two children, a 3-year-old and a 1-year-old. He has been deployed since June. We talk frequently on the phone, and I have been managing well since his deployment.

My problem is, I'm afraid I have managed too well. I am terrified that when he gets back we will have grown apart. I am so used to doing things on my own now that I'm not sure I will be able to go back to our "normal" routine of his helping me with the kids.

Abby, what are your thoughts? We love each other very much and had a wonderful relationship before he deployed, but I don't know how well you can gauge a relationship over the phone and via e-mail. — ARMY WIFE IN MISSISSIPPI

DEAR ARMY WIFE: The feelings you're having are not unusual for spouses whose partners are in the military. The repeated separations are painful and wrenching for all the family members involved. I have a deep respect for the spouses of military personnel who must adapt to long separations and the reunions that follow.

Of course there will be a period of adjustment when your husband returns. It will take understanding and compromise on the part of both of you. If you love each other, you will work it out — BΣ with counseling if necessary. And should you hit a rough patch, please don't hesitate to reach out for it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband lost his son a few years back. His death was sudden and unexpected. We had no children of our own, but I had a wonderful relationship with my stepson.

When people ask if I have children, I'm never quite sure how to respond. On the one hand, I don't want to make anyone uncomfortable by telling them my stepson is deceased, but I also don't feel right not acknowledging him. Any advice on how to handle this kind of question? — STEPMOM IN OTTAWA, ONTARIO, CANADA

DEAR STEPMOM: I'm sorry for the loss of your stepson. When you are asked, my advice is to be honest. Say, "I had a stepson with whom I was very close, but he passed away a few years ago."

Harvester softball continues roll, advances with win

aglover@thepampanews.com

On a Friday night that was filled with beautiful weather, bugs, nervous parents and exciting playoff softball action, Shanna Keown drives in two runs in the top of the sixth, Carlyn Teichmann strikes out 10 as the Pampa Lady Harvesters defeated the Abilene Cooper Lady Cougars 3-1 in game one of their bi-district series.

Keown said she just hit the pitch as hard as she could to drive in the winning runs.

"For me, I can't take big hacks because I'll whiff it," Keown said. "I've always been that way so that's out of the question for me to swing for the fence. So I figured like Coach Gill always says take your pinkie to the ball and go with the flow."

Head coach Bobbi Gill said the playoffs is when teams need to bring their 'A' game and she was proud of her team.

"You're going to have to play to win there's no gimmes," Gill said. "I was proud of the girls for scrapping this one out. We're going to have to come out tomorrow and scrap another one out."

The first inning set the tone for the game, as it would be a pitcher's duel throughout. Claire Hopkins led off the game with a bunt single. Ashley Facio advanced her to second on a sacrifice bunt. Hopkins stole third but that's where she stayed as Shelbie Watson and Carlyn Teichmann struck out.

The Lady Cougars only reached base with their lead-off batter, Devin McCorry getting hit by a pitch. McCorry advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt, but Teichmann struck out the final two batters of the inning.

In the second and third innings, Teichmann and Abilene Cooper's starter Sierra Sudberry didn't allow much. Pampa only reached base twice in those two innings on two walks. The Lady Cougars didn't have any base runners as Teichmann retired nine straight.

In the top of the fourth, Teichmann led off with a single and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Samantha Pearson. But Bailey Beck and Jordan Mayhew struck out to end the inning.

Abilene Cooper broke into the hit and run column in the bottom of the fourth. Jennah Hernandez led off with a single. After the next two batters struck out, Samantha Meissner singled just beating a Shelbie Watson throw to first. Olivia Delagarza hit a fly ball to left that scored Herenandez and put Abilene up 1-0, increasing the nerves of the Lady Harvester parents. Teichmann got Allison McDonald to ground out to short to end the inning.

Pampa responded in the fifth and even things up. After Brooklyn Barker grounded out, Keown walked. McKinlee Stokes pinched ran and stole second sliding in safely. Claire Hopkins singled to advance Stokes to third. After Facio struck out, Watson singled and scored Stokes to tie the game at one.

bottom of the fifth, as Watson overthrew Facio and allowed Selena Carona to reach second base. Carona advanced to third on a ground out but she was stranded there as Watson caught a pop up to end the inning.

In the top of the sixth, Pampa scored the runs they needed to win the game. Madi Shults pinched hit for Bailey Beck and drew a one-out walk. With two outs, Barker reached on an error by the centerfielder who dropped the ball. Emilie Troxell ran for Barker. Keown hit a 0-1 pitch over the centerfielder and drove in Beck who came back and ran for Shults, and Troxell to put Pampa ahead 3-1.

Teichmann only allowed a single in the bottom of the sixth and got two of the three outs by strikeouts. Keown said they do well as a team when they remain calm in adverse situations.

"Our whole team realizes that if we get to excited, we lose focus on the game," Keown said. "So, our team as a family pulls everything together and stays level headed, and pulls things out that are good by keeping calm."

Gill said being down by a run was no big deal for her team.

"We've played from behind this season a few different times," Gill said. "It's nothing new for us. I don't think one run makes us feel down. Six runs hasn't made us feel down."

Watson reached base on a walk in the top of the seventh but she would be the only one to reach base.

In the bottom of the seventh, McDonald flied to Hopkins for the first out of the inning. Teichmann struck out Carona on six pitches for the second out. Pampa was one strike away from ending the game, but Vanessa Carranza reached on a blooper in the infield. McCorry would fly out to Keown to end the game.

Earning the win, Teichmann allowed one run on five hits, hit one batter and struck out nine. Keown led the Lady Harvesters in hitting, with one hit and drove in two.

Pampa (22-9-1, 11-1) plays game 2, 12 p.m. today. A victory would send the Lady Harvesters to the area round against either El Paso Jefferson or El Paso Parkland. If Game Three is necessary, it will be 30 minutes after Game Two.

My day in Abilene: A running diary

Yesterday, I had the pleasure and opportunity to travel to cover the Pampa Lady Harvesters softball playoff series against Abilene Cooper in Abilene. My anticipation for Friday and Saturday's games was the same I had on November 1, 2008 when my Red Raiders beat top ranked Texas in football. So here is a look at the events before, during and after game one. A second column will be in Monday's paper describing Saturday's events.

ANDREW GLOVER

2:30 p.m. I leave Pampa riding with the Teichmanns to Abilene

3:10 p.m. We stop in Clarendon. I buy a Coke to drink on the road.

5:00 p.m. The first mile sign with the distance to Abilene is spotted and we were 95 miles away and four hours away from the first pitch.

6:00 p.m. We are 40 miles away from Abilene and the nerves start heating up for Shelly Teichmann, as we are three hours from gametime.

6:30 p.m. We arrive at the hotel. After I had to have my publisher convince the front desk I had a reservation, I was checked in.

6:45 p.m. I arrive at my suite and set my stuff down. I immediately call down to the front desk for a $300 Swedish massage (just joking — I just thought I would throw my publisher Randy a curveball). I put on Toby Mac's song "Boomin'" to get myself psyched for the game.

7:22 p.m. The Teichmanns and I eat dinner at Dairy Queen. The nerves are setting in even more for Mrs. Teichmann, as she couldn't eat.

7:30 p.m. We arrive at the field and the Lady Harvesters are doing early warm-ups for their upcoming game.

7:45 p.m. I donned my new Lady Harvesters district champions shirt. The new attire is something that senior first baseman and pitcher Ashley Facio digs.

8:00 p.m. Only one hour until the first pitch, and the game between Tacoma and Plains is in the bottom of the fourth.

8:16 p.m. The first game is over, and the Lady Harvesters are getting ready to take the field for warm ups.

8:40 p.m. The umpires from the San Angelo chapter arrive at the game. I already have my camera around my neck, and I'm set to go.

8:42 p.m. The Lady Harvesters huddle up and Samantha Pearson gives some last words before they take the field. The team engages in a prayer.

8:53 p.m. The starting lineups for Pampa and Abilene Cooper are introduced. The anticipation has risen to a new level.

8:56 p.m. The national anthem is played and the first pitch is minutes away

9:21 p.m. A large bug joins the Pampa spectators along the third base line and creates a stir amongst the players' moms.

9:34 p.m. Claire Hopkins' first inning single remains the only hit of the ball game to this point. Both teams haven't gotten on the scoreboard yet. Not putting the Lady Harvester faithful at ease. Heck, I'm even having trouble breathing because it's such a tight game.

9:54 p.m. The Lady Cougars heighten the Pampa spectators' nerves as they score on a two-out single to take a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the fourth.

10:05 p.m. Moms of the Lady Harvesters are able to breathe a little easier after the top of the fifth. McKinlee Stokes tied the game on a single by Shelbie Watson with two outs.

10:15 p.m. With a runner on third, Carlyn Teichmann got Abilene's Jennah Hernandez to pop out to Bailey Beck to keep the game tied at one going into the top of the sixth.

10:26 p.m. Shanna Keown hits a two-out, two-RBI single to center. Beck and Emilie Troxell scored to make it a 3-1 game in favor of the Lady Harvesters.

10:34 p.m. Carlyn Teichmann gets Olivia Delagarza to ground out to third to end the sixth. Abilene Cooper only got one base hit and the runner didn't move past first base.

10:42 p.m. After batting in the top of the seventh, the Lady Harvesters go on defense needing three outs to secure a victory in game one.

10:55 p.m. After Carlyn Teichmann was one strike away from ending the game, The Lady Cougars take advantage of some confusion amongst the Lady Harvesters and get on with a pop up that no one caught. The pitcher's mom can't stand to watch.

11:00 p.m. Shanna Keown hangs on to a fly ball and ends the game with Pampa winning 3-1. To use a song title from my favorite band, Mercy Me, the Lady Harvester faithful are "Coming up to Breathe" as the Lady Harvesters seek to close out the series at noon on Saturday.

Note that I started writing this column at 2:30 a.m. and I finished it one hour later. Got to go to bed, because I get to do this all again tomorrow.

PHS baseball team ends tough season with 13-1 loss

BRAD RABURN
Special to The Pampa News

The Pampa Harvesters ended a tough season with their heads held high as they faced off against the Canyon Eagles on Friday at Conner Park.

The loss came after Pampa allowed seven runs in bottom of the third, which led to the 13-1 victory.

"It's always tough playing a team like Canyon on the road, on Senior Day, when they are playing for the district championship and your playing for nothing but pride," said Pampa head coach Kaleb Snelgrooves.

The Harvesters came out with hits in the first three innings, but could not get the ball past Canyon defenders.

The Eagles answered back in each inning, getting their bats a little more under the ball and rounding the bases. Canyon earned five runs in the first two innings and came out in the third to for their seven runs off of six hits.

Junior Garret Ericson battled from the mound up to this point, when the freshman reliever was called in to close out the inning.

Pampa found some production in the fourth with Anthony Allen taking the base off of a beam. He stole a base off of a loose ball and Mitchell Killgo connected for a single. Canyon reacted to Allen rounding the bases and tagged him out at home plate.

Killgo made good on his single as Braden Hunt earned the team's single RBI.

Canyon was held to one run in the fourth by the Harvester defense which marked their final at bat of the game.

The loss places Pampa at 7-19 overall, while Canyon moves to 24-3.

"Canyon's very good," Snelgrooves said. They hit the ball and if you give them extra pitches then it's three runs every single time. We are a very young team. We were baptized by fire this year, so next year we will be loaded.

"Makes you feel good about next year."

GDP rise not enough to make dent in jobless rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The numbers would be excellent in normal times, but for a country recovering from deep recession, they're not enough.

Spending by consumers rose by the fastest pace in three years, helping the economy grow at an annual rate of 3.2 percent in the first quarter of the year, the Commerce Department said Friday. It marked the third straight quarterly gain as the nation heals from the longest and deepest recession since the 1930s.

That has not been enough, however, to ignite a recovery capable of driving down the jobless rate, which has been stuck at 9.7 percent since January and is not expected to dip significantly for months.

"The recovery is slowly gaining traction, but it's not growing fast enough now to bring down unemployment and let ordinary Americans feel like they are finally off and running," said Mark Zandi, chief economist at Moody's Analytics.

Economists say it takes about 3 percent growth in gross domestic product to create enough jobs just to keep up with population growth. Growth would have to be about 5 percent for a full year just to drive the unemployment rate down by 1 percentage point.

After the last severe recession in the early 1980s, GDP grew at an annual rate of 7 percent to 9 percent for five straight quarters, and the unemployment rate plunged from 10.8 percent to 7.2 percent in 18 months.

Economists don't see anything like that happening this year or the next. In fact, growth in the first quarter was weaker than in the fourth quarter of last year, when the economy grew at a 5.6 percent rate.

Facing the prospect of 9 percent unemployment leading into the November congressional elections, President Barack Obama called the GDP report an "important milestone on the road to recovery" but acknowledged that the economy must create more jobs.

Consumers increased their spending at an annual rate of 3.6 percent in the first quarter. It was the strongest showing since early 2007 — before the Great Recession. And it marked a big improvement from the fourth quarter, when spending grew at a lackluster 1.6 percent pace.

Americans spent more on home furnishings and household appliances, recreational goods and vehicles and clothing. They also spent more at bars and restaurants.

Analysts, however, say consumers will be wary of stepping up spending much further. The high unemployment rate, sluggish wage growth and a reluctance or inability to borrow probably will limit spending, they say.

Another report Friday highlighted one of those headwinds: low wage gains for workers. Wages and salaries rose just 0.4 percent, after a 0.5 percent gain in the fourth quarter of last year.

Just 21 percent of Americans consider the economy to be in good condition, according to an Associated Press-GfK Poll conducted April 7-12.

Robert Harris, a 33-year-old father of four in Utah, said he's spending only marginally more these days. He just bought a new cell phone and is throwing a few more items in the grocery cart. He's spending a tad more on birthday gifts.

Still, he isn't willing to go on any shopping sprees, even though he and his wife have secure jobs in an art department at a marketing company.

What would it take for consumers to boost their spending much higher and help catapult economic growth?

Analysts say employers would need more confidence that sales will rise enough for them to ramp up hiring and raise workers' pay. Shoppers need to be able and willing to borrow more. And Americans need to rebuild more of their household wealth, especially equity lost from home values that tanked during the recession.

Few people expect any of those things to happen quickly. Many economists think it will take until at least the middle of the decade to lower the unemployment rate to a more normal 5.5 percent to 6 percent range.

"How will consumers behave in terms of spending in the coming months? On a scale of one to 10, I'd put it at a four," said Richard DeKaser, president of Woodley Park Research.

DeKaser and others predict increases in consumer spending will slow to a rate of around 3 percent in the second and third quarters. That's respectable. But it falls far short of how much consumers spent coming out of the deep recession of 1981-82.

The first quarter's reading on GDP was a tad shy of the 3.4 percent growth rate economists were forecasting. GDP measures the value of all goods and services, from machinery to manicures, produced within the United States. It is the best gauge of the nation's economic health.

Companies helped boost GDP by restocking inventories shrunken during the recession. Their first-quarter spending on equipment and software rose at a brisk 13.4 percent pace, after an even bigger 19 percent growth rate in the fourth quarter of 2009.

Gordon Mote to perform tomorrow at Briarwood

Gordon Mote, pianist for the Gaither Vocal Band and honored musician who has recorded with many other prominent musicians, will join the Sunday Morning Celebration tomorrow morning at Briarwood Church in Pampa.

Mote has been called one of the most gifted singers, musicians, and song writers in America today. Many know him as the pianist for the Gaither Vocal Band, but his musical career goes far beyond that. He is one of the most sought after recording studio session players in Nashville. He has recorded with the likes of Martina McBride, Trace Adkins, Alan Jackson, Brad Paisley, Carrie Underwood, Rascal Flatts, Alison Krauss, Josh Turner and Bob Seeger.

For six years in a row Gordon was nominated as Piano/Keyboard Player of the year by the Academy of Country Music, and won the award in 2009.

"Gordon Mote is one of the most talented people I have ever met. He just happened to be born blind," said Rev. Lynn Hancock, pastor at Briarwood.

Mote began playing the piano when he was three years old. He later graduated with honors from Belmont University with a degree in music. Two days after graduation, he was hired as a keyboard player and background vocalist for Grammy Award winning recording artist, Lee Greenwood and his musical journey began. It has taken him literally around the world. He performs in excess of 100 concerts a year.

He shares the stage with legendary Gospel recording artist Bill Gaither and his multi-Grammy Award winning group, The Gaither Vocal Band.

The public is invited to the Sunday Morning Celebration, which begins at 10:45 a.m. at Briarwood Church, 1800 Harvester. For more information, call 806-665-7201.

'Balloon Campaign' under way at Wal-Mart

Amarillo - Wal-Mart and Sam's Club are holding their annual Children's Miracle Network Balloon Campaign.

The 2010 Miracle Balloon Campaign will begin May 1st and run through June 19. All proceeds will benefit Children's Miracle Network, a non-profit organization dedicated to saving and improving the lives of local infants and children.

Wal-Mart and Sam's Club have been partnered with Children's Miracle Network since 1987 and during those years have raised more than $500 million. Last year the Texas Panhandle and High Plains Region Wal-Marts and Sam's Club raised over $70,000. These unrestricted funds have gone directly to vital services such as patient care, health education, and equipment..... all for the benefit of local children.

The Texas Panhandle and High Plains Region have 13 different Wal-Mart stores and one Sam's Club, (Amarillo, Borger, Hereford, Pampa, Canyon, Dumas, and Childress, TX, Guyton, OK, and Portales and Clovis, NM).

This year the Wal-Mart and Sam's Club Miracle Balloon Campaign is continuing the green message. When customers are ready to check out they have the opportunity to buy a virtual balloon by donating $1, $2, $5, or any amount from one cent to as much as they choose to give.

"Wal-Mart truly wants to make a difference in our community by not only working to raise money for Children's Miracle Network but also by their support to volunteer at numerous events," said Kellie Tiner, Children's Miracle Network Coordinator.

For more information regarding Children's Miracle Network, please contact Kellie Tiner at (806)212-9168 or kellie.tiner@bsahs.org.
