16-inch square tubing," Kotara said. It's one of a number of crosses that he and Crook have built across the country.

"This is the biggest one that we have done so far," Kotara said. It's the third largest such cross in the state, said Anita Anderson, a family friend and bookkeeper for the ranch. The largest is the one at Groom. The second largest is downstate near Ballinger.

Anderson said this cross is on private land, the Bowers Ranch, on a hill.

"It's really, really gorgeous," Kotara said. "Tommy is the third generation on that ranch," Anderson said. "Ever since he was very young he wanted a cross up there."

Due to his health, Anderson said, he hasn't been able to get back and forth to church, so his wife contacted Kotara and Crook about building and installed one on the double peak across the river behind the house on the ranch.

"Tommy wanted one," Anderson said, "so Pam decided to get one for him for father's day."

Anderson said there was a lot of work that had to be done to get the cross mounted on the peak.

The electric company had to extend a power line up the hill and the ground had to be tested and prepared to hold the 40-foot high, 20-foot wide metal cross. The cross sits atop a two-foot base.

"It was quite an undertaking," Anderson said. "It took a lot of planning. We had geological engineers to make sure the land was solid enough to support something that big."

She said bulldozers had to be brought in to work on the ranch roads so the concrete trucks could get to the peak.

"It's really been a massive undertaking," Anderson said, "but it's a beautiful thing."

The cross on the Bowers Ranch is complete, but Anderson said there is still some work to do around it. They're building a viewing place for Tommy to sit and contemplate.

"Tommy said he wanted a cross to acknowledge the Creator and the sacrifice of Christ," Anderson said, "and as a memorial to members of the family that have passed and a monument to the courageous people that came out here and settled all of this."

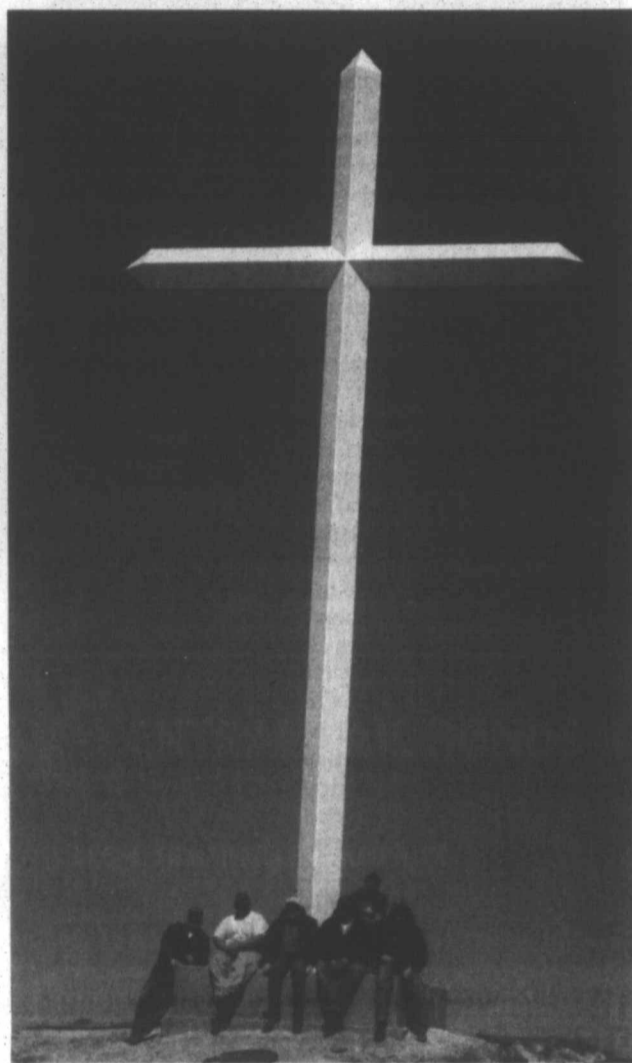

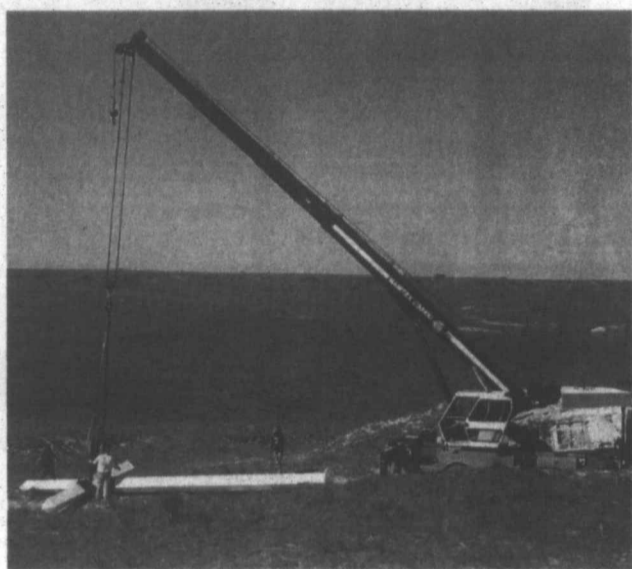

Since the cross is on private land, it's difficult to see from the highway, but it is lit up at night and Anderson said it can be seen from Texas Highway 70.

"It does have a really big light on it," she said. "It's a beautiful, awesome thing."

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: "No Laughing Matter" (Feb. 22) wrote about her mother-in-law making snide comments because there is so little resemblance between her son and her grandchild. It's a fact that not all offspring look like their parents.

My husband and I have seven biological children who are now young adults. We marvel at the breadth and depth of our collective gene pool.

I am a petite brown-eyed brunette, and my husband is tall and blond with hazel eyes. None of our kids look alike. One daughter inherited my brown eyes, but her hair is blond. Two kids have my dark hair, but one has blue eyes and the other has green eyes. One son is the spitting image of his dad, while another resembles my father as a child. Our "baby" girl is the tallest female and has a buxom figure she certainly did not inherit from me.

Another thing: Out of all nine of us, our second child is the only family member who cannot curl her tongue. The study of genetics is an amazing thing, especially when we find out what we think we know isn't necessarily so. — THEY'RE ALL OURS IN VIRGINIA

DEAR ALL: Thank you for your in"gene"ious response. Other readers felt "No Laughing Matter" should ignore her mother-in-law's comments and handle the matter with humor. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: When my daughter was about 13, my "dear" mother-in-law said she didn't look like her son, also implying that I had been unfaithful. I looked her directly in the eye and replied, "Of course she doesn't look like your son. She resembles MY side of the family." She never commented again. — NOT UNFAITHFUL IN FLORIDA

DEAR ABBY: The next time "No Laughing Matter's" mother-in-law remarks how one child bears no resemblance to Dad, she should say, "You know, genetics are fascinating. I've often thought how much this beautiful child resembles you." — MARC IN CLEVELAND HEIGHTS

DEAR ABBY: My oldest brother and I look identical despite our 10-year age difference. Our middle brother, however, didn't look like either one of us. Our family jokingly referred to him as "the milkman's son" until he hit middle age. At that point in his life, he became the spitting image of our father. "No Laughing Matter" should not take her mother-in-law seriously. — KATHY IN SCOTTSDALE, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: I bet if that mother-in-law looked through an old photo album she might notice that this grandchild has Grandpa's nose and eyes, and maybe Great-Uncle Charley's ears. My wife and I have five children. Three of them closely resemble us. The other two don't look like they belong to us — until you look at my wife's maternal cousins. Our daughter and one of her cousins could pass as twins. — LEROY IN POULSBO, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: My mother was widowed at 35 with three young children. A few years later, "Pop" came into our lives and married "us." He always treated us like we were his biological kids and we knew we were loved. Pop was a mailman in our small town and my brother used to tag along with him on his route. Many people would comment that they "knew" immediately that this was his son, "He looks just like you!"

"No Laughing Matter" needs to move on. Life is too short to feel bad about thoughtless people and their silly comments. — JACK'S DAUGHTER IN UPSTATE NEW YORK

Thought for Today:

"No idea is so antiquated that it was not once modern. No idea is so modern that it will not someday be antiquated." — Ellen Glasgow, American author (1874-1945).

Despite criticism, Arizona is right

From President Obama, Attorney General Eric Holder and California Senate President Pro Tem Darrell Steinberg to legislators such as Rep. Luis Guterrez (D-Ill.), Raul Grijalva (D-Ariz.) and members of the L.A. City Council, political opportunists are lining up against American citizens. It's beginning to look like a conspiracy! They are using the Arizona law just signed by Gov. Jan Brewer (R) to further polarize the illegal immigration debate and cry for "reform," that is, amnesty.

The Arizona law was immediately attacked by open-borders activists such as Grijalva, who went so far as to advocate a boycott of his own state in which he was elected to serve American citizens. Here in California the word "boycott" also is being bandied about, along with threats to tear up government contracts with Arizona. Comedian George Rodriguez is even getting into the theater act, asking for all people with the last name of Rodriguez not to go to Arizona. "That's a few million people," he joked. All this is getting media coverage, while the fact that 70 percent of Americans want our immigration laws enforced is all but ignored. How are so many politicians - and the stray comedian - so out of touch?

For decades, the federal government has failed to enforce existing immigration laws to the point that we now have an estimated 12 to 30 million people living in the United States illegally. Those numbers are staggering in their implications. No other country tolerates such abuse of its borders and disrespect of its own citizenry. Arizona finally said "enough" when it passed the legislation that will allow law enforcement officers to ask for proof of residency if individuals are suspected of being in the country illegally. This falls in line with Rasmussen Reports that found 73 percent of voters believe law enforcement officers should check immigration status during traffic stops. As well, the law will make it illegal for people to knowingly transport illegal aliens and will overturn the sanctuary policies of local governments and agencies.

Arizona has been under attack in recent years on several fronts - an unchecked increasing illegal population and crime. From 2000 to 2008, the number of illegal aliens in Arizona skyrocketed by 70 percent. The state, with a population of 6.6 million, has an estimated illegal alien population of 500,000 and a prison population that includes nearly 6,000 Mexican nationals (14 percent of the inmate population).

Then last year, Phoenix was given the dubious distinction of being the kidnap-for-ransom capital, with 370 reported kidnappings, second only to Mexico City. As a major thoroughfare for drug and human trafficking, Arizona - and Phoenix - has become a war ground for drug cartel battles. Most often the kidnapers are Mexican criminals sometimes helped by local street gangs in Phoenix, according to police.

Beyond the sheer numbers and the crime, Arizona, like other states with large numbers of illegal aliens, is dealing with the associated costs of illegal immigration. For example, in emergency rooms and public schools one in seven children is a direct or indirect product of illegal immigration.

Arizona is trying to take on what the federal government has failed to do for years - carry out its responsibilities to American citizens. Arizona is right, and the courage it is showing should motivate other states in the union. Thomas Jefferson would be proud.

Maria Fotopoulos is a Senior Writing Fellow for the Santa Barbara-based Californians for Population Stabilization (CAPS).

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor

Seems there are some rather thin skins working in city hall these days over public comment involving proposed new ordinances and why existing ordinances are not being enforced. It ain't just me, folks in city hall. I've citizens — pillars of the community — routinely stopping me and asking me just what is going on with our city government when it comes to the run-down appearance, i.e., litter, number of derelict buildings, etc. in Pampa. Specifically, why don't I write something about it?

Well, I have written about it over the past seven years, primarily focusing on Pampa's litter issue that is of Biblical proportion. Anti-litter laws that have long been on the ordinance books in Pampa simply are not enforced.

It is not that I and others are against the proposed anti front lawn parking ordinance. We're certainly for the action.

It is simply the enforcement issue. All one has to do when driving the city streets of Pampa is count the number of ordinance violations that have existed at residences for years.

In that simplicity, had the residence owners been ticketed for their violations, would they continue with their actions? One has to think the answer would be no.

So (pardon my redundancy) when I heard from the mouth of our public works director that he counted 200 violations, if an anti-front lawn parking ordinance was law, I immediately thought two things: A cleaner, neater Pampa, and revenue for our city.

It is true, folks. If you call the City Hall code enforcement office in regards to an ordinance violation, they will act on it post haste. I have done so and the results were impressive. The squeaky wheel theory does work. Call them!

On the other hand, when I heard (again, pardon my redundancy) from the mouth of the city's code enforcement officer that the only way he knows of a code violation is by phone call, I immediately thought that he would get a greater picture of the mess around Pampa were he to simply drive the streets! In the rocket science of city government, we're not talking the square mile coverage of say, Houston... and for the matter, the City of Houston does patrol it's streets for code violators...

Redundant, I realize for a third time, but we're talking about Pampa, our little burg, that was once the crown jewel of the Panhandle. Taxpaying Pampa citizens have issue with our city government when they see no action, no improvement — enforcement — with long-standing ordinances that continually are overlooked.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, May 11, 2010:

This year, you might need more downtime. Much comes at you from out of left field. The unexpected aspect of what happens can tire you more than you think, even if it is good news. You might move this year or, if you stay in the same home, change your environment. You are changing, and your home reflects that change. If you are single, don't move in with each other too quickly. You are better off waiting. If you are attached, the two of you could quarrel more than usual. Is this about control? Neither of you will win. Why not enjoy your differences? ARIES reads you cold.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ***** You might be pushing a little too hard to accomplish what you must. Your fiery temperament, if well-harnessed, allows greater happiness and success. Don't deny a loved one's need to talk. There is more there than you think. Listen. Tonight: Slow down. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ***** You might not want to share everything you know. In fact, it will serve you well to say little and learn more. Your instincts are important, but only if they come from a centered place. Emotions could get tied in otherwise. Tonight: Nap and then decide. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ***** Use the daytime for any matter that you are vested in. Be careful how hard you push a friend or deal with someone in a meeting. You finally get to clear the air. Use your instincts properly. Tonight: Take some much-needed personal time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ***** You will be asked once more to take the lead in a matter that is close to your heart. Be careful about spending money in order to make an impression on someone. Ultimately, for many reasons, this could be a mistake. Tonight: Burning the midnight oil.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ***** Detach if you feel that you are in an inordinately touchy situation. You might gain more understanding. Realize what is going on with someone you care about deeply. Could you be misreading a partner? Tonight: Count on being a force to be reckoned with.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ***** Understand where a partner is coming from. You might have pushed this person far too hard, to the extent that his or her feelings have changed. Open up to a discussion that surrounds this issue. Tonight: Togetherness remains a theme.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ***** Defer to those with high energy levels or someone you trust to represent your interests. You could be more focused on a personal matter or pushing forward in another area of your life. A male friend could play a significant role. Tonight: Clear out a problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ***** Your focus defines the end results of a project. A must appearance could make all the difference. You will take action if you don't get the desired results. Understand that this action could cause more problems. Tonight: Have an important discussion. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ***** Tap into your imagination and think about a new direction. Make a call or two to someone who might have a very different perspective from yours. An effort toward a partner pays off. Tonight: Let your hair down.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ***** Pressure builds on the home front and/or in your personal life. A partner or key associate takes extra time. One-on-one relating could start in a volatile manner. Communication needs to surround practical matters. Tonight: Order in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ***** Keep conversations moving. You could get caught up in a power play. An argument that has been brewing simply might not be worth the effort. Isn't it normal to have different opinions? Let your imagination set the tone. Tonight: Visit with a friend.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ***** You might be so into your head that you are accident-prone. Know when to pull back and rethink a situation. You could hit a problem if you act without thought. What you believe is a good risk might not be. Tonight: Your treat.

Cobras win dodgeball tournament for good cause

aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa High School Leos Club held their first dodgeball tournament Monday at McNeely Fieldhouse.

Dustin Miller said the tournament went great and they had a good turnout.

"We had a pretty full house and a lot of teams," Miller said. "We raised a lot of money to help some great kids get a chance to do some things they wouldn't normally get to do."

Fifteen teams competed with nicknames ranging from the Dodgers to the Barmy Maize. The Pampa Police Department had a team compete called the Po-Po. Jason Rushing, the School Resource Officer said officers enjoy giving back.

"We enjoy interacting with the youth of the community," Rushing said. "If they do this tournament again we will definitely do it again."

The Cobras, made up of Latigo Collins, Benny Martinez, Jeremy Martinez, Colbey Copeland, Payton Reagan, Schavious Kelly, Josh Humphrey and Wayne Parker, won the tournament.

Miller said this is something they will definitely do again.

"We would love to see it grow and get even more community involvement," Miller said.

This is the first year for the Leos club at Pampa High School. It is a community service organization and is a junior branch of the Pampa Lions Club. The primary focus of the organization is to raise money to benefit local children with special needs.

Each player had to pay $12.50 and people watching got in for $3. All proceeds raised from the event went to different projects in the organization, which includes sending local kids to Texas Lions Camp and assist the Senior Developmental class at Pampa High School.

Glo-Valve Service takes sole possession of first place Friday

SPECIAL TO THE PAMPA NEWS

Glo-Valve Service took sole possession of first place in the Pampa Optimist 11-12 Cal Ripken League with a 16-5 victory over Cabot Corporation Friday.

Joseph Radke scored four times for Glo-Valve. He had two hits and one RBI. Brendon Woelfle, Colton Thompson and Michael Michelay had three runs and a hit each. Thompson knocked in two runs while Woelfle had one RBI. Bryson Burrell was the leading hitter for Cabot with a single, double and two runs scored.

Glo-Valve jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Radke singled, stole two bases and came home on a wild pitch. Thompson also singled and stole two bases. He scored on a double by Ryan Lee.

Cabot tied the score in the bottom of the second. Burrell singled and stole second. Chance Butler walked. Chris Cryer moved the runners up a base with a ground out.

Colton Landrum collected one RBI on a ground out with Burrell scoring and Butler moving to third. A misfire on an attempted pickoff brought Butler in.

Glo-Valve took the lead again in the third inning. With one out, Mechelay struck out but made it to first when the ball was by the catcher. He stole second and moved to third when Radke beat out an infield hit. A walk to Woelfle loaded the bases. Thompson was safe on an error which plated Mechelay. Lee reached base on a fielder's choice which did not get anybody out scoring Radke. Zach Hill stroked a single bringing in Woelfle and Thompson. Glo-Valve led 6-2.

Cabot got three of the runs back in the bottom of the third. With two out, Ryan Roden and Nate Furgason reached base on errors. A double by Burrell scored Roden, and a double by Butler brought in Furgason and Burrell to narrow Glo-Valve's lead to 6-5.

In the fifth inning with one out, Mechelay started a Glo-Valve rally with a solid double to left center field. A single by Radke sent him to third, and a single by Woelfle brought him home. Thompson walked. Radke, Woelfle and Thompson all scored on a combination of fielder's choices and wild pitches upping Glo-Valve's lead to 10-5.

Glo-Valve put the game out of reach in the sixth inning scoring six times after two were out. Bryce Parker started the rally by reaching base on an error. Jason Velasquez walked. Walker Kennedy singled to drive Parker home. Mechelay walked to load the bases and set the table for a RBI walk to Radke. Woelfle was safe on an error. Thomson was safe on a fielder's choice, netting him another RBI.

Woelfle won his first game of the season pitching the first three innings. He surrendered one earned run and four hits. Thompson relieved in the fourth and allowed no runs or hits in two innings. He hit a batter, walked two and struck out three. Lee finished up with two walks and three strikeouts without allowing a run or a hit.

Burrell made the outstanding defensive play of the game for Cabot by fielding a ground ball at shortstop, stepping on the bag to force the runner from first and throwing to first for a 6-3 double play. Defensive gems for Glo-Valve included a caught stealing from Thompson at catcher to Jason Velasquez at third to Radke at shortstop. Thompson later picked a runner off second with Radke throwing to Velasquez at third for the tag.

Glo-Valve took over sole possession of first place in the Pampa Optimist 11-12 Cal Ripken League with a season record of 5-1 and a record of 2-0 in league play. Cabot and Rotary Club are second with 1-1 records while Duncan, Fraser & Bridges Insurance Agency is 0-2.

DFB will host Glo-Valve Monday at 7:45 p.m. while Rotary and Cabot square off Monday at 5:45 p.m.
