Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I'm 25 and live in my mother's basement apartment with my boyfriend. We would like to be married soon, now that we're out of school and have stable careers. But I insist that we move out of Mom's house before making any permanent plans.

The problem is my mom, who is divorced, is unemployed and a social phobic, with few friends. We provide her with financial support by paying several hundred dollars a month in rent, in addition to other bills. She helps me with a loan when the rare emergency arises.

Every time I mention moving out, she becomes angry with me. She cries that she'll be left alone with no money -- and it makes me feel so guilty I relent. I have no idea what to do. My older sister, who is married with two children, might be able to help me out, but we have never been close and I'm reluctant to ask for her advice. Please help, Abby. — MAMA'S GIRL IN ROSWELL, GA.

DEAR MAMA'S GIRL: You are not the solution to your mother's problems. The time has come for you to spread your wings and fly the nest. Before you leave, be sure the apartment is in the freshest condition possible so it can be rented and your mother will have some income. She will probably need professional help to overcome her ingrained social insecurities -- so encourage her to get it. (Some licensed psychotherapists specialize in phobic disorders.) It will change her life -- and yours -- for the better.

DEAR ABBY: If a girl ever needed advice, it's me. My father walked out 20 years ago, leaving four children and a disabled wife. He just vanished. We grew up and I searched for him. Because of the power of the Internet, I was contacted by his family, and Dad was found. He had reunited with his sister, who updated me.

Now I'm faced with the dilemma of how to speak to him for the first time since I was in diapers, and I am angry. My aunt advises me not to ask for answers to questions like "why" because I may not get them. Of the things he did say to her, not once did he express remorse.

I guess what I'm asking is how to talk to this stranger who altered my life. Most of what I have are questions. How am I not entitled to answers? Abby, this has been a long search and now that I have succeeded, I don't know what to do. — STRESSED IN TEXAS

DEAR STRESSED: Your anger is justified. Unless he was locked in a mental ward, a man who would leave a disabled wife and four small children and "just vanish" is someone with no concern for anyone other than himself. Approach him with the same caution you would any other stranger, because that's what he is. Because this is stressful, list your questions in advance so you won't forget any. But I'm warning you: Do not allow him to make you feel sorry for him.

AFTERNOON RUSH 'Ultimate Fighting' comes to Pampa — sort of Weakened Bonnie still packs punch

BELLE CHASSE, La. (AP) — Bonnie was downgraded to a depression Friday, but still packed enough kick to prompt emergency declarations along Louisiana's coast and make officials begin the tedious preparation for tropical storm-force wind and rain bearing down on the shore.

"We always prepare for one category stronger than the projections, so we think it's prudent to plan for a Category 1 hurricane," Gov. Bobby Jindal said during a news conference flanked by Plaquemines Parish President Billy Nungesser and other officials.

Jindal said coastal parishes and some as far inland as East Baton Rouge Parish have issued emergency declarations that allow local governments to take actions such as arranging for debris removal or stockpiling supplies.

Plaquemines and Lafourche parishes were calling for voluntary evacuations of low-lying areas and St. Bernard Parish President Craig Taffaro issued a similar order for those living outside the hurricane levee protection system.

Inmate freed after 19 years

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston man was released from prison Friday after an investigation by the district attorney's office found he was locked up 19 years for a rape he didn't commit.

Allen Wayne Porter's attorney, Casey Garrett, said Porter was released Friday afternoon on a recognizance bond awaiting a final decision in the case by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Members of the 39-year-old's family joyfully jumped from their seats after a teary-eyed judge recommended on Thursday that he be released.

If the court accepts the recommendation of state District Judge Joan Campbell, it will order a new trial. But Bob Loper, the special prosecutor, told the Houston Chronicle on Friday that he will move to dismiss the case, so Porter will not be retried.

"He is very happy and he's very grateful," Garrett told The Associated Press. "And the thing about him that's interesting is he's not angry and bitter and he's just ready to start a new life."

Panel seeks documents on rig

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee investigating the Gulf oil spill has asked Transocean Ltd. for documents concerning safety and the condition of equipment on the company's ill-fated oil rig Deepwater Horizon.

The House Energy and Commerce Committee made the request in a letter Friday. The committee cited testimony that day by an electronics technician on the rig that an alarm system was partially shut down the day the rig exploded.

Mike Williams told an investigative panel that the system was turned on to monitor for fire, explosive gas and toxic gas but that its sound and light alarms had been disabled.

The committee also cited a New York Times story this week which reported rig workers' concerns prior to the explosion about safety and the condition of some equipment on board.

Plumes definitely from BP well

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Researchers in Florida say they have the first scientific proof that two plumes of oil beneath the surface of the Gulf of Mexico came from BP's broken well.

University of South Florida scientists said Friday they linked the oil to BP's well based on chemical tests of two plumes discovered in late May. BP initially denied the plumes even existed.

Federal researchers say concentrations of underwater oil doubled last month over what they were in May.

Figuring out the oil's source is pivotal as the government assesses the environmental damage caused by the massive spill and how much BP will have to pay for it.

Find detained immigrants online

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say they are making it easier for families and attorneys to find people held in 250 immigration detention facilities around the country.

Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency has created a search tool on its Web site similar to one used by the Federal Bureau of Prisons. Searchers can look by name or so-called "alien" numbers given to people who immigrate to the U.S. or end up in immigration custody. The detainee locator was to be running beginning at midday Friday.

Some 30,000 people a day are in immigration custody. ICE has its own facilities but also contracts with local law enforcement agencies for bed space in local and state jails and prisons.

Creating such a locator was one of the reforms the Obama administration proposed to make the detention system more humane and transparent.

There will be fighting in the streets in Pampa come the end of the month. Well, in 3D-rendered, computer generated streets, anyway.

Vision Computer Services will be holding the "Ultimate Fighting" Street Fighter IV video game tournament at Cinema 4, scheduled for 6 p.m. to midnight July 30 and 9 a.m. July 31, with finals set for 2 p.m. August 1.

Registration is now open for any interested gamers. Combatants can sign up online at pampatx.com or the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Web site, or around town at several local businesses including Doug Boyd Motor Company, Trinity Fellowship, Rasco Construction, First State Bank of Miami, Aaron's, Hibbett Sports, T-Shirts & More, One Stop Flooring, Dolly's Bar & Grill, Top O Texas Auto and Domino's Pizza.

"This is going to be something we hope kids in Pampa can get excited about," said Vision's Daniel Silva. "It's something cool for them to do over the summer."

Street Fighter IV is the ninth iteration of the popular Street Fighter series. Participating gamers will have their choice of any of the franchise's familiar cast of characters, from stoic martial artist Ryu to military man Guile to Final Fight transplant Cody.

"Cody, he's my guy," said Vision's Brandon Price with a laugh. "He's not that good, but I like playing him."

Turnaround

same boat." "It's definitely affected the hotels in a positive manner," confirmed Mike Ward, manager of the Hampton Inn. "Some are going to be here for two weeks, some are going to be here for two months. However long they stay, the extra business is good for us."

Coupled with the Cal Ripken tournament that has brought many families from surrounding states to Pampa, Ward said that the turnaround has brought in a stream of new guests that the hotels have been enjoying.

"Realistically, we have 81 rooms and we're full," said Ward. "You'd think that if you came to Pampa, you wouldn't have too much trouble finding a room, but it's really filled us up."

"We're sold out for the next week, week and a half," added Patti Parks, general manager of the Holiday Inn Express. "We're doing good."

The influx of workers into the hotels is also a boon for the Chamber, who receive a percentage of the hotel/motel tax collected by the city. The Chamber's annual cut maxes out at $50,000, which Weaver said he is expecting to reach.

Projecting even further, the addition to the consumer base should also bring a new source of revenue to places like restaurants and nearby shops.

"The thing is, too, some of these workers bring their families with them, and while they're out working, their families are here shopping and looking around, checking stuff out," said Weaver. "So that helps, too."

There may be yet another benefit to the injection of visitors to the city — one that may not be felt until the future, but an important one nonetheless.

"Hopefully, they leave here with a good impression, so they go back to where they're from and they talk about what a nice place Pampa is to stay and to work," Ward said. "There's going to be a lot of buzz, and I think that's going to be good."

area, but it also has small stage, so that is where school performances will be held. It is a beautiful, open area with high ceilings."

The commons area will also serve as the concession stand area during ball games.

A change from the old building will be two identical gymnasiums with seating for about 250 people in both gyms.

The wing on the north will be the eighth grade wing and on the south side will be the sixth and seventh grades.

Haenish said the new facility is not significantly larger than the old junior high. "It will house about 200 more kids," he said. "It is designed for 950 students."

Next year the district expects to enroll approximately 720 junior high students.

Today in History

Today is Saturday, July 24, the 205th day of 2010. There are 160 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On July 24th, 1959, during a visit to Moscow, Vice President Richard Nixon engaged in his famous "Kitchen Debate" with Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev.

On this date:

In 1847, Mormon leader Brigham Young and his followers arrived in the Great Salt Lake Valley in present-day Utah.

In 1866, Tennessee became the first state to be readmitted to the Union after the Civil War.

In 1929, President Herbert Hoover proclaimed the Kellogg-Briand Pact, which renounced war as an instrument of foreign policy.

In 1937, the state of Alabama dropped charges against four of the nine young black men accused of raping two white women in the "Scottsboro Case."

In 1969, the Apollo 11 astronauts — two of whom had been the first men to set foot on the moon — splashed down safely in the Pacific.

In 1974, the Supreme Court unanimously ruled that President Richard Nixon had to turn over subpoenaed White House tape recordings to the Watergate special prosecutor.

In 1975, an Apollo spacecraft splashed down in the Pacific, completing a mission which included the first-ever docking with a Soyuz capsule from the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago: President Bill Clinton continued to mediate the Camp David Mideast summit.

Five years ago: Lance Armstrong won his seventh consecutive Tour de France.

One year ago: Trying to tamp down a national uproar over race, President Barack Obama acknowledged using unfortunate words in declaring that Cambridge, Mass., police had "acted stupidly" in arresting black scholar Henry Louis Gates Jr., adding he'd invited the Harvard professor and Sgt. James Crowley, the arresting officer, for "a beer here in the White House."

Thought for Today: "Everything has two sides — the outside that is ridiculous, and the inside that is solemn." — Olive Schreiner, South African author and feminist (1855-1920).

Steered wrong: Arnie goes to the rodeo, Part I

Dallam Clemens grunted as he crashed against the dirt, his arms wrapped around the head and horns of the steer as he wrestled it to ground.

His boots kicked up tiny clouds of dust as they slid against the dry earth, and he smiled as he picked himself up, leaving the "animal" curled at his feet.

"That was real nice," yelled Billy Billingsley from the back of a pickup truck.

"You see how he leaned back as he jumped from the horse to the steer there?" he said to me. "That's what you've got to do. You just have to shift your weight on the saddle to the stirrups, and then you pick a spot on the steer's back and jump to grab his head. Got it?"

Billy, you see, was an instructor at the Texas Rodeo Bible Camp that wrapped up at the Rodeo Grounds just last week. A longtime contributor to the camp, Billy has been teaching kids how to bulldog, or steer wrestle, since the program's inception in 2001. He just watched Dallam jump from a makeshift horse, a saddle mounted on a pipe contraption pulled by a truck, onto a padded "practice steer," complete with a plastic head and a pair of big orange horns. The steer was being pulled by another truck, and Dallam just leaped onto it, held on and forced its weight down until it buckled.

Pretty simple rodeo stuff, right?

For many of the kids, yes. Several of them have been coming back to the camp year after year, bitten by the rodeo bug and drawn by the camaraderie and life lessons imparted by the camp through its cowboy lessons. Dallam himself, like many of the campers, had been working on bulldogging for quite a while, and Billingsley said that he was close to being ready for the real thing.

Billingsley's newest student, though — that would be yours truly, by the way — was a different story.

I was born in England and raised in Indianapolis. I have never been to a rodeo. I've never been within five, 10 — might even be a safe bet to say 50 — miles of a rodeo. I think the closest thing that qualifies is the 4H Fair I covered at the last newspaper I worked; I took a walk around the stables and a cow peed on my shoe.

Frankly, I've never even ridden a horse. I've been on a burro (at the Grand Canyon), an elephant (in India), an ostrich (in South Africa), a camel (at the circus) and a llama (quite a few times, actually). No horses, though. Not yet, anyway.

I'm also not what you'd call a physically-oriented person. I played soccer and ran track in high school, but that was a 20-foot fall off of a ladder and two knee surgeries ago. I was a Boy Scout for exactly half an hour, after which I got tired of walking around outside, called my dad, and went home to watch "G.I. Joe."

So when Jamie Greene, co-organizer of the camp, spoke to me early last week about paying the camp a visit, naturally, I was just a little skeptical.

"I think it would be fun for you," said Greene. "When I look at you, I think bull rider."

"I think I just soiled myself," I replied. Well, that's not exactly what I said, but this is a family newspaper.

Still, I'm nothing if not a sucker for a new experience, so I took Jamie up on her gracious offer. After all, with the Top O' Texas Rodeo riding into town in less than a month, I figured it would be worth the time to put in a little journalistic research. At least, that's what I told myself, so that if I broke my neck I could file worker's comp.

I had been watching Dallam and a few other campers go at it for a good 20 minutes, frantically scrawling mental notes in my head on posture, timing and how not to get run over by either truck. With a real steer and horse at full speed, the whole thing happens at about 30 miles an hour, Billy told me; the practice versions only go at about 10. Not that it mattered to me — I try to make it an everyday goal not to jump from moving things onto other moving things, regardless of the speed that I will most likely get injured.

I was so busy trying to keep up in my head that I almost didn't hear Billy speak.

"Well, that's about it," said Billy, patting me on the shoulder. "You've pretty much seen all there is to see without trying it yourself. You ready?"

I looked at him blankly for five full seconds before I said anything.

"I...um...sure," I said. "Where's my helmet?"

Hay fields respond to moisture, sorghum harvest on the run

COLLEGE STATION -- With few exceptions, hay meadows, rangeland and row crops continued to respond to rain received from tropical storms, according to Texas AgriLife Extension Service personnel.

The rains continued to cause flooding in South Texas, particularly in Hidalgo and Starr counties. The challenge for many farmers in this area was to get sorghum harvested before the next rain, said Brad Cowan, AgriLife Extension agent for Hidalgo County.

"We're harvesting grain sorghum as fast as we can," Cowan said. "Some of the fields are still too wet to get into, and, of course, we've got challenges with long lines at elevators and those sort of things too."

Cowan said he'd only heard limited reports of sprouting in the grain heads, though there had been some quality reduction discounts at the elevators.

"The main thing, is we do have dry weather right now, and we're trying to get the crop out of the field as fast as we can," he said.

While rains were a challenge to South Texas agriculture, hay producers in East and North Texas were particularly thankful for the revitalization of pastures that it brought, AgriLife Extension agents reported. The rain allowed many farmers to take a second cutting.

But when it comes to hay supplies, local producers aren't out of the woods, yet, said Chad Gulley, AgriLife Extension agent for Nacogdoches County.

Like much of East Texas, Gulley said that the rains were hit and miss, and so are the hay stocks.

"Parts of the county received rain, and parts are pretty dry," he said. "Some producers are cutting hay; some of the cuttings are pretty good. Some are pretty light."

Gulley said many got a first cutting, but the unusually cool weather meant the Bermuda grass was diluted by a lot of ryegrass.

But what's been unusual, this year is the severe infestation of both grasshoppers and armyworms.

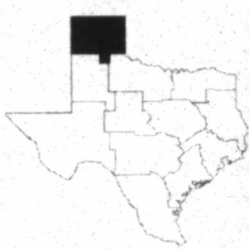

"Producers who have been in the county for a long time tell me this is the worst case of grasshoppers they've ever seen," Gulley said.

Grasshoppers typically follow dry weather problems, but the armyworms were early, he noted.

"We usually don't get armyworms until late July or August, but we've had them for a couple of weeks now," Gulley said.

AgriLife Extension district reporters compiled the following summaries:

PANHANDLE: Parts of the region received only a trace of rain while others recorded as much as 4 inches. Only a few fields of wheat were yet to be harvested. Producers were irrigating corn where there was no rain, but overall the crop was in good condition. Spider mites were becoming a problem in areas.

Other corn producers had to apply fungicide because of wet conditions. Where there wasn't rain, cotton received good heat units and progressed well. Sorghum and soybeans were in fair to good condition. Peanuts were in excellent condition. Cattle were in good condition with some problems with horn flies. Rangeland was in good to excellent condition.

ROLLING PLAINS: Hot, humid weather followed the tropical-storm rains. Creeks and stock tanks were full, and a new crop of weeds emerged. Spray planes were flying seven to 10 days behind, and some producers tried to take sprayer rigs into fields, but some areas still remained too wet.

Some cotton stands were discolored due from much water. Other stands were in excellent condition and setting bolls. Some haygrazer fields were cut and baled and were ready for another cutting. Sorghum headed out and was coloring. Peaches were better than average, and peanut producers expected good yields. Numbers of mosquitoes and flies were up, having been able to rapidly reproduce under perfect conditions of stagnant water and hot weather. Cattle were in excellent condition.

SOUTH PLAINS: Conditions were pleasant with rain followed by warmer temperatures. Soil moisture was adequate to surplus. Corn was in fair to good condition and coming along nicely with over half the crop beginning to tassel. Cotton was in good condition with much blooming. Producers were fertilizing as fast as they could, and many were applying plant-growth regulators. Weed management was ongoing. Sorghum was in good condition and is heading. Pastures and rangeland were in good condition after improving significantly in the past few weeks. Cattle were in excellent condition.

Daily Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, July 25, 2010:

This year, you often discover that you are juggling different concerns and people. This trend could become tiresome. Perhaps the only solution might be to mix different elements. Observe a tendency toward black-and-white thinking, which prevents you from seeing alternatives. Surround yourself with different types of thinkers. If you are single, your popularity soars. Make sure that if you think you've found the right person, there is a fit. If you are attached, the two of you often are at odds. Respect your differences, and you will take the steam out of the pressure cooker. AQUARIUS is always a friend.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ Greet a busy day around friends, family and loved ones. Others could be surprised by what you share. Push comes to shove, as it seems you cannot be everywhere all the time. Tonight: Surrounded by favorite people.

This Week: Zero in on your priorities. Worry less.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ Others expect a lot, especially a parent or someone you look up to. You can juggle the pressure, but you could be frozen, as so many demands are being made. Go off on your own to relax. Tonight: Think "work."

This Week: You are on top of your game. Act like it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Keep reaching out for others. You have the ability to understand and empathize with others. When people start to open up, you understand recent blocks or strange behavior. Eye what you want ultimately. Tonight: Don't stay home; try out a new restaurant or blues club.

This Week: Stay chipper. Know what is important, and don't deviate from it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ Listen to feedback from a partner. This person might be coming from a set position where he or she expects or wants something. Check in with an older relative or friend. Others love your effort. Tonight: Don't go overboard. There is a tomorrow.

This Week: Work closely with others. The results could be a lot better.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ The Full Moon shoves you into the limelight. On some level, someone seems to be holding back and not sharing. News from a distance, possibly coupled with an unanticipated insight, presents new dynamics in an interaction. Tonight: Refuse to do the same old same old.

This Week: Let others display their true colors. You will like what you see.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ What is on your mind is impacting your actions. Try to detach from a recurring inner statement. Be aware of what someone is offering you and where he or she is coming from without coloring the story. A partner gives you important feedback. Listen. Tonight: Make it early.

This Week: Put your feet up and relax. You will get feedback of an unusual nature if you stay open.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Don't put yourself in an either/or situation, but see how you can incorporate both options, plans or people into your life. You might need to eliminate rigid thinking. Sometimes you cannot separate and segment your life. Tonight: Romp away.

This Week: Creativity flows from out of nowhere. Just enjoy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★ Pressure builds. Somehow you wish you could go out and avoid a problem. A roommate or family member could be demanding your attention and effort in a project. Might it be easier to give in? Tonight: Order a pizza or go for Chinese.

This Week: The time has come to deal with a personal issue. Do just that.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You cannot complain about being lonely this Full Moon, but perhaps there are moments when you might feel overwhelmed. Just greet the many calls, suggestions and people with a smile. People care. Consider a vacation in the near future. Tonight: Out and about.

This Week: Create more of what you desire. Start talking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★ Keep a strong eye on spending, and count your change. If ever you might make a mistake with your funds, it could be under the pressure of the Full Moon. You might need to rethink a work situation that is limiting you. Tonight: Stay within your budget.

This Week: Treat yourself. Break your pattern. You will smile more.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ Take your bows. This Full Moon frames you. Others notice you, to such an extent that you might want to run away. Ultimately, would it not be better to seize the moment and be open? Someone really needs to let you know how much he or she cares. Tonight: Stop holding back.

This Week: You are on top of your game. Others depend on your judgment and actions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★ Make it OK to play the recluse or take a personal day. Given space and permission to do what feels good, you transform fatigue and weariness into energy and a smile. A partner could be unusually uptight about giving you space. Tonight: Do for yourself.

This Week: Midweek, you feel much better. Only then should you make decisions.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, July 26, 2010:

This year, you often will let go of what isn't working. Not getting stuck and being willing to walk a new path, as insecure as you might be, is critical. You have a sense of direction, but the path to get there is unpaved. Learn to look at the big picture and use your ability to detach. If you are single, you could meet not one but two people of interest. The process of choosing could be more fun than you realize. If you are attached, you come to a new level of understanding with your significant other. However, nothing will be written in stone. Let change in, and you will greet a more dynamic relationship. AQUARIUS can be challenging.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ Your mettle gets tested. You encounter challenges within your immediate circle and long-term plans. Your ability to see past immediate issues marks a newfound optimism and resourcefulness. Let these traits emerge. Tonight: With friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 21)

★★★ You feel that you must give up a cherished goal. You might want to clarify and prevent vagueness. Your instincts will come through for you; tap into your creativity. Solutions will slowly appear if you are flexible. Tonight: A must appearance.

GEMINI (May 22-June 20)

★★★★ Reach out for someone who might have a different grasp or perspective on a situation. Your ability to see past the obvious helps you create an unusual solution to a challenge. Walk away from the tried-and-true. Tonight: Break patterns.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ You have your hands full juggling assorted pressures. In your opinion, a partner is overly optimistic in his or her thinking. Take a stand, though you might be surprised by how it changes. Be smart -- don't hold on to the old. Tonight: Visit with a trusted friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ You are able to move through a confusing situation and come up with ideas. Perhaps you might want to detach and gain a deeper perspective. You might want to spend money and indulge -- maybe not the best idea at the moment. Tonight: Hang with friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★ You might be overly worried. The unexpected could cause a strong reaction. Deal with a partner directly. Let your imagination and understanding guide you in your sleuthing. The unexpected forces you to let go of a coveted idea. Tonight: Do only what you must.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ Be careful with anger. It could show up in a way that you later express remorse over. A child or loved one cannot abide your attitude, even if you think you have suppressed a problem. It needs to be cleared up. Tonight: Let go of what you think is working -- it isn't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★ Confusion surrounds a domestic matter. Note that your inner thoughts might be pointing you in the wrong direction. Let go and consider your options more carefully. Accept an innovative and possibly nerve-wracking idea. Tonight: Quiet and easy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★ You are able to tilt a situation back and forth, but know that confusion is a major issue. A power play could hurt your wallet. Your creativity flourishes. Your sixth sense comes forth. Tonight: Be open to others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★ Be aware of your need to always have certain matters your way. When one has that type of rigidity, it can be difficult. Observe today's hassles, and weigh the pros and cons of working on being flexible. Tonight: Be good to yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ Air out your concerns, as you might want to walk away from problems and greet more happiness. In a way, releasing current issues might be the most effective possibility. An unexpected element runs through your communication and daily dealings. Tonight: Share more.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★ You are absorbing a lot. In this context, you must release a lot, too. Make no decisions right now. You need to process and think. It isn't time to say or do anything conclusive. Tonight: Lie back. Get some extra R and R.

Cal Ripken Tournament kicks off with two shutouts

aglover@thepampanews.com

On a hot late July morning, dotted with dozens of dragonflies, the Cal Ripken Tournament kicked off at Optimist Park with a pair of shutout victories.

In the first game of the afternoon, Tahlequah, Okla. defeated Deaf Smith County 10-0 with the run-rule invoked in the bottom of the fourth. A five-run second and a four-run fourth helped Tahlequah to a first round victory. Tyler Leatherman led the team in hitting with two hits and two runs scored. Lydeen Steed ended the game with a three-run inside-the-park home run. Ryan Hembree was the winning pitcher with three innings pitched, allowed two hits, walked one and struck out two.

Jake Kelso, Gunner Head, Conner McIntire and Michael Garcia hit singles for Deaf Smith. Head was the losing pitcher with two innings pitched, allowing six runs on one hit, walking eight, and striking out four. Tahlequah plays Little Rock in the second round 11 a.m. Saturday. Deaf Smith County plays East Central Mississippi in the loser's bracket first round 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

North Randall County had two pitchers combine for a no-hitter as they defeated East Central Mississippi 8-0. Four runs in the bottom of the first was all North Randall County needed. Caleb Flores got the biggest hit of the inning with a two-run inside-the-park home run. Jacob Maiwald led the team in hitting with a single and triple. Isaac Maes pitched the first five innings, walked four and struck out six. Mason Mays pitched the last inning and walked three.

North Randall County advances to the third round and plays either Benton Arkansas, Pampa or Mountain Home Arkansas 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Lydeen Steed (catcher) celebrates after Tyler Mullen tags out Deaf Smith County's Conner McIntire at home to keep the shutout alive in the top of the fourth. Talequah won 10-0 with the run rule being invoked in the bottom of the fourth. Talequah advances in the winner's bracket while Deaf Smith County faces elimination.
