Autopsy finds French had coronary disease

DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com

A Lubbock pathologist reports that Robert Lee "Arley" French suffered severe coronary arterial disease, but that there was methamphetamine in his system when he died.

French, 55, was found dead next to the Hiking and Biking Trail just east of the Starkweather Street Bridge Wednesday morning.

Gray County Justice of the Peace Joe Martinez ordered an autopsy in the case.

Pampa police said there were no signs of a struggle or injuries to the body.

Police Chief Kelly Rushing said this week that foul play was not suspected, but that the police department would treat the case as a homicide until further evidence was developed.

An autopsy was scheduled Thursday in Lubbock. The preliminary report this morning showed that French had previous heart attacks but that there was methamphetamine in his system.

Judge Martinez said he would delay a ruling in the case until the complete autopsy was reported. A full report that would include analysis of blood and organs could take several weeks.

Police officers said French's body was discovered by a person walking along the hiking trail on the north side of Red Deer Creek before dawn Wednesday.

Rushing said there were no signs

PUMPED FOR PINK

Hundreds pack PHS Pink Out rally

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

Despite the rainy weather on Thursday evening, hundreds of people flocked to the Pink Out Pep Rally at Pampa High School to get pumped up for Friday's Senior Night football game against Perryton and honor the community's cancer survivors and their families.

Over 300 people came to the cookout in the commons preceding the rally, with the crowd moving into McNeely Fieldhouse afterward to recognize the football team's seniors and get fired up for the game.

Head football coach Heath Parker started the rally by recognizing his 15 seniors.

"(Our seniors) have the opportunity to lead this team to the playoffs for the second year in a row," Parker said.

"They have the opportunity to lead this community and football program to a home winning streak for the first time since 2003. I believe they are going to get the job done tonight."

The student council presented Christy Robinson, chairperson of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, with a pledge of $3,000 to Relay for Life. The money came from

Dentist offers trick-or-treat candy buyback

DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com

One Pampa dentist is redefining the phrase, "put your money where your mouth is."

In an effort to motivate kids to cut back from cavity-producing sweets this Halloween, Dr. Jay A. Johnson is encouraging trick-or-treaters to bring their excess candy to his office at 2427 N. Hobart. Johnson will buy back the candy for $1 a pound.

"Ditch the candy, that's what we're saying," said Johnson. "Visiting your dentist twice a year and brushing daily are great preventive measures, but doing away with excess sweets altogether would really give your teeth a healthy boost."

"Kids can still have all of the fun of trick-or-treating, and now their piggy banks will benefit as well."

All the Halloween candy collected by Dr. Johnson's office will be shipped to troops overseas.

Johnson is also giving away glow-in-the-dark electric toothbrushes as part of the promotion.

"These glowing toothbrushes we're giving out are really cool," Johnson said. "They're like light sabers for your mouth."

Global sugar consumption for children increases by about two percent annually and currently sits at 50 million tons per year, cautioned Laura Allen at Jay A. Johnson, DDS, Inc.

Lovett to stage 'Haunted Library'

SKYLA BRYANT
Special to The Pampa News

Lovett Memorial Library will throw open its doors to all manner of spooks and ghouls on Saturday, Oct. 30, when it will stage its all-new "Haunted Library" in conjunction with its regular annual Fall Festival.

Both events are slated from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the library. The library will close at noon that day so staff and volunteers can prepare for the evening's events; regular business hours will resume at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 31.

The festival will be conducted in the library auditorium, while the library itself will be converted into a haunted house. The attraction is an expansion on last year's mini-haunted house in the auditorium, which saw a bigger-than-expected turnout, according to Library Director

Misty Guy.

"The 2010 haunted house is greatly expanded and ramped up from last year," echoed Children's Librarian Marsha Rollins, "so we want to get the word out to all the community and surrounding towns."

Rooms in the Haunted Library include a haunted study and maze, a mad scientist's lab of horrors, a cemetery haunted by Count Dracula and a "spider room," presided over by a "Spider Lady."

"Costumes are welcome but not required," Rollins added.

The 2010 Fall Festival will host a variety of activities with candy and prizes awarded at individual booths. The Fall Festival slate of activities will include a "treat" walk, pick-up ducks game, bean bag toss, ring toss, witch's hat challenge, Pin the Tail on the Cat game, Ghost

Plant awaits FDA results

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Texas food processing plant shuttered over allegations of tainted celery says they are awaiting a separate analysis from the Food and Drug Administration.

Attorneys for SanGar Produce & Processing Co. said Friday the company also had an independent lab retesting its San Antonio facility for listeria. Texas health officials have linked the plant to contaminated celery that sickened at least six people this year, four of whom died.

Jason Galvan, an attorney for SanGar, says the state has provided the company no proof linking the cases to the plant. He said SanGar is hoping to receive the FDA results as early as Friday.

The state ordered a recall of all produce from the plant. An FDA official has told The Associated Press the recall could be expanded as the agency learns more.

More of Gulf opened to fishing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — More than 7,000 square miles of the Gulf of Mexico south of the Florida Panhandle were reopened Friday to fishing after federal officials declared the area safe from oil.

Now, 96 percent of the Gulf is open to fishing, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The remaining closed area, which covers 9,444 square miles, is in the vicinity of where the Deepwater Horizon drilling rig exploded on April 20 off the Louisiana coast.

No oil or sheen had been found in the newly reopened area since July 19, NOAA said.

At its closest point, the area reopened is about 60 miles east of the BP well that spewed more than 170 million gallons of oil into the Gulf.

GOP candidate talks of violence

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas minister who's running for Congress says violence against the government is possible if leadership changes do not happen following the Nov. 2 elections.

Republican Stephen Broden, according to his website, founded Fair Park Bible Fellowship Church in 1987. Broden is challenging Democratic U.S. Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson in District 30.

Broden, in an interview Thursday with WFAA-TV, said he would not rule out violent overthrow of the government if the elections did not produce a change in leadership. The tea party supporter said a violent uprising "is not the first option," but it is "on the table."

Johnson declined comment on Broden's remarks.

Dallas County GOP chairman Jonathan Neerman called Broden's remarks "inappropriate" and said he would discuss the comments with the pastor.

Texas jobless rate posts drop

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas unemployment rate dropped slightly to 8.1 percent in September, fueled by modest job growth.

Numbers released by the Texas Workforce Commission on Thursday indicate the latest unemployment figure, down from 8.3 percent in August, is the lowest rate for the state so far in 2010.

Texas added 3,700 new jobs in September and most of those positions were in the service industries. The state has gained a total of 152,800 jobs since September 2009.

Texas Workforce Commissioner Andres Alcantar calls the job growth in manufacturing and other industries encouraging.

The state's lowest metro unemployment rate last month was 5.1 percent in the Midland area. The highest unemployment rate in Texas was in the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission region, at 11.2 percent.

First whooping crane arrives

AUSTWELL (AP) — The first migrating whooping crane of the season has arrived at a wildlife refuge in southeast Texas.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service on Thursday confirmed one of the rare birds has been spotted at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge.

Coordinator Tom Stehn (sten) says the rest of the expected whooping cranes are still in Canada, where the weather has stayed unseasonably warm.

The Victoria Advocate reports the birds usually begin arriving at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge around Oct. 16.

Stehn says 74 nests and 46 fledglings were recorded in August in Canada.

Stehn says there were 263 birds in the flock when they migrated north last spring. Biologists at the refuge in Texas expect 285 to 290 cranes this fall.

Dallas woman insane, not guilty

DALLAS (AP) — A woman accused of throwing her two children from an Interstate 30 overpass in Dallas and then jumping off the 20-foot-high span has been found not guilty by reason of insanity.

A judge in Dallas ruled Thursday in the trial of Khandi Busby, who was charged with attempted murder and injury to a child. Then judge then ordered her to a state mental institution.

Investigators say the boys were ages 6 and 8 when they were injured after being thrown from the highway overpass on March 12, 2008. They were treated and placed in foster care, where they remain.

Defense attorney David Pire says Busby felt God had told her to throw her sons off the bridge to protect them from Satan.

Relatives say Busby is bipolar and had stopped taking her medication.

Fired cop reinstated

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin police officer who fatally shot a man in 2009 then was fired this year for alleged drunken driving has been reinstated.

An arbitrator on Thursday ruled in favor of Senior Officer Leonardo Quintana.

A grand jury declined to indict Quintana over the fatal shooting of Nathaniel Sanders II during a struggle.

Quintana was fired in May, four months after his DWI arrest hours after he was questioned as part of a federal civil rights lawsuit into the shooting. The drunken driving case is pending.

Arbitrator Louise Wolitz, ruling that Quintana should get back pay, also ordered him to serve a 15-day suspension for the drunken driving charge.

of violence. French was one of nine people arrested in August on warrants out of Randall County as part of an on-going Texas Department of Public Safety drug investigation. French was free on $10,000 bond in connection with methamphetamine charges. French's obituary appears on Page 2 of today's issue.

"Parents need to be sure their kids' teeth are being cared for more than ever," she said. "In addition to hurting children's teeth, candy can lead to hyperactivity and weight gain. In some cases, the wrong types of candy can also lead to broken teeth and damaged braces." Unopened candy will be collected at

Dr. Johnson's office on Monday, Nov. 1, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. For more information, call Dr. Johnson's office at 665-0921.

Library

Bowling, Ghost Darts and a fishing booth.

Both Halloween events are free and open to the public, although the Haunted Library is not recommended for children younger than age 5.

The Fall Festival is appropriate for all ages, Rollins said.

No items may be checked out of or checked into the library during the Fall Festival or the haunted house. The outdoor drop-box, however, will be unlocked at noon on Oct. 30 to better serve library patrons.

Community assistance with the Halloween festivities is still welcome, according to the library staff.

"We are still seeking a variety of donations from local businesses and there is a tremendous need for volunteers to step up within the community to help make this the best Halloween event ever at Lovett Memorial Library," Rollins said.

For more information about volunteer opportunities or to make a donation, please contact Lovett Memorial Library during regular business hours at 669-5780.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Oct. 22, the 295th day of 2010. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On Oct. 22, 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced a quarantine of all offensive military equipment shipped to Cuba, following the discovery of Soviet-built missile bases on the island.

On this date:
In 1746, Princeton University was first chartered as the College of New Jersey.

In 1797, French balloonist Andre-Jacques Garnerin (gahr-nayr-AN') made the first parachute descent, landing safely from a height of about 3,000 feet over Paris.

In 1836, Sam Houston was inaugurated as the first constitutionally elected president of the Republic of Texas.

In 1883, the original Metropolitan Opera House in New York held its grand opening with a performance of Gounod's "Faust."

In 1928, Republican presidential nominee Herbert Hoover spoke of the "American system of rugged individualism" in a speech at New York's Madison Square Garden.

In 1934, bank robber Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd was shot to death by federal agents at a farm in East Liverpool, Ohio.

In 1968, Apollo 7 returned safely from Earth orbit, splashing down in the Atlantic Ocean.

In 1979, the U.S. government allowed the deposed Shah of Iran to travel to New York for medical treatment — a decision that precipitated the Iran hostage crisis.

In 1981, the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization was decertified by the federal government for its strike the previous August.

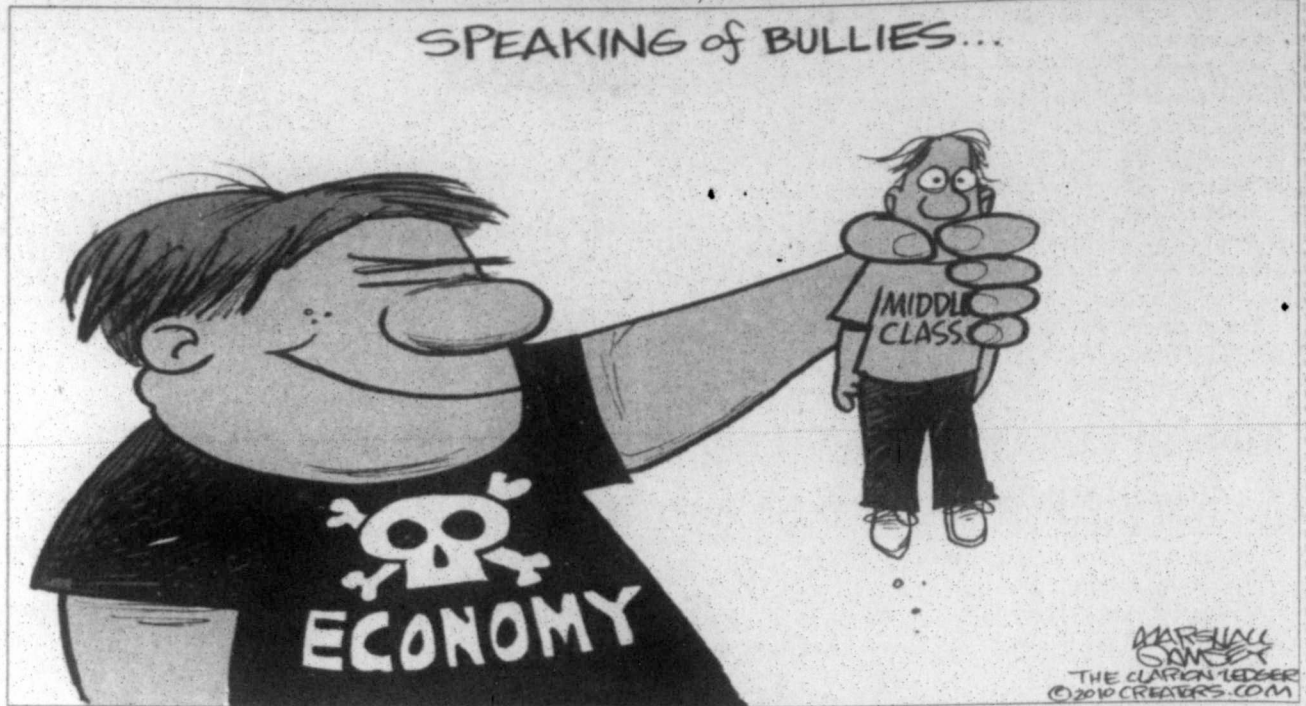

In 1986, President Ronald Reagan signed into law sweeping tax-overhaul legislation.

Ten years ago, Arab leaders meeting in Egypt wrapped up a two-day summit on Israeli-Palestinian violence with a declaration that stopped short of an outright call for cutting ties with Israel.

Five years ago, Hurricane Wilma punished Mexico's Caribbean coastline for a second day. Meanwhile, a record 22nd tropical storm of the season formed about 125 miles off the Dominican Republic; because the annual list of storm names had already been exhausted, forecasters called the new system Tropical Storm Alpha. A Nigerian Boeing 737 passenger jet crashed after leaving Lagos, killing all 117 on board. The Chicago White Sox defeated the Houston Astros, 5-3, in Game 1 of the World Series.

One year ago, Mortars fired by Islamic militants slammed into Somalia's airport as President Sheikh Sharif Sheikh Ahmed boarded a plane, sparking battles that killed at least 24 people; the president was unhurt. Gunmen kidnapped Gauthier Lefevre, a French staff member working for the International Committee of the Red Cross, in Sudan's western Darfur region. (Lefevre was released in March 2010.) Comedian Soupy Sales died in New York at age 83.

Let's rally around all forms of cancer

OK, call me a curmudgeon, a crank and a malcontent, but I'm getting a little tired of pink.

Don't get me wrong. Breast cancer is a horrible affliction and I hope for the day when it is eradicated.

But I also hope for the day when all other cancer is eradicated. That's part of my issue — why does one type of cancer get all the headlines, the drives, the rallies? What about ovarian cancer? I never see any promotions of awareness, no "Save the Tubes" campaigns.

I also don't see many testimonials of survivors. There's a reason for that — it is rarely detected early and is almost always fatal.

I realize that I am oversensitive on this issue, but there's a reason for that, too. My children have very few memories of their grandmother — Mom died too young of ovarian cancer.

Beats a poke with a sharp stick (but not by much!)

Speaking of cancer, Dr. Rene Grabato is offering a free PSA Blood Test and Digital Exam for men over 50 or those with a family history of prostate cancer. The date is Friday, October 29, from 1-4 pm at Pampa Regional Medical Center — Second Floor. It's not something guys like to think about, but early detection is the key to successful treatment. Make an appointment today by calling 663-5577.

When is Halloween, anyway?

The obvious answer to that is, October 31. However, since that's a Sunday, some folks have been wondering if a different day has been designated to trick-or-treat. Neither the Chamber nor the city has designated any other day, and there are no plans to do so. Several churches and other organizations have some things planned at various times. We welcome their postings on the Chamber website calendar. Scared of cavities? Dr. Jay Johnson will buy candy. Not FOR trick-or-treaters, but FROM trick-or-treaters! Bring your unopened candy by his office at 2427 N. Hobart on Nov. 1 from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. and receive a dollar for each pound of candy, plus a cool prize! Dr. Jay will send the candy to our troops overseas. (Wear your Halloween costume if you'd like!)

Fifty ways to do whaaattt?

There may be 50 ways to leave your lover, but how many ways are there to sell a house? Probably a lot more than I realize, but Century 21-Pampa Realty has been really creative with Bingo Home Sales on KGRO-KOMX radio. Listen to the station or call 669-0007 for details.

A house in my neighborhood recently went up for sale, with the typical sign in the yard. After it sold, a sign from another realtor went up. Patti Hudson with ReMAX, who was the buyer's agent, put up one that says "Welcome Your New Neighbor". Not only does it promote the agency, but it encourages positive action.

I've got my love — and Gebo's — to keep me warm

It's pretty obvious that cooler—make that cold—weather is on the way. Gebo's, on Price Road, has a huge selection of cold-weather gear, including jackets, coats, overalls, coveralls, caps, gloves, etc., by the brand names you trust: Carhartt, Walls, and others. I have been going to Gebo's since before I can remember. Back in the day, we went for farm supplies, and I have a tendency to think of them as a great farm supply store, but the fact is, they have so much more. The outerwear I mentioned, pet food and supplies, great gift items, and Leanin' Tree greeting cards, just to scratch the surface.

Get lit this Christmas

Remember the "Celebration of Lights"? The gang at Shepherd's Crook Home Health Care are ramping it up for 2010 with a full-blown Christmas celebration to coincide with other events the weekend of December 4 and 5. Arts and crafts bazaar, choirs, bands, carriage rides, visits with Santa and Mrs. Claus, parade, the Nutcracker, the Messiah, community Christmas tree...the list goes on. If your club, organization, church, business, or what-have-you wants to be involved, call Pam or Myra at 665-0356.

What if...

...Angie and Mark Friend, Butch Noble, and Melissa True formed a social club called "Friends, Noble & True"?

Parents need to teach kids against bullying

If you think I'm one of those folks upset with James Jones -- the Florida father who jumped on his daughter's bus to confront the bullies who were terrorizing his daughter -- you've got another thing coming. In fact, we should recommend Jones as Father of the Year.

Caught on tape, Jones angrily yelled at the children that were bullying his 13-year-old daughter, who has cerebral palsy. He later issued a tearful apology saying he was wrong. No, James, you weren't wrong; the punk children who bullied your daughter were wrong. And the punk parents who didn't discipline their own children are wrong, too.

I can sympathize with James because I witnessed my dad do the same exact thing when I was in middle school.

Some students on our bus were roughhousing one day and another kid pulled down the sweater of a girl, exposing her breasts for all to see. This kid's name was "Roland." Now I had nothing to do with it, and the two of us didn't even look alike. Yet when friends and family of the girl heard about it, they assumed it was me. More than 40 kids were on the bus and they all knew that wasn't the case, but her supporters didn't care.

My brother and I were threatened repeatedly with physical harm, so we clearly didn't want to ride the bus home. We made up a reason to not take the bus and begged my dad to pick us up. When he got to the school and demanded to know the truth, he got out of the car, jumped on the bus, and said, "Point out to me who keeps messing with you."

ROLAND MARTIN

Now I may have been scared of the school bullies, but I was more scared of my daddy! So I told him. My dad walked over to a kid and asked him, "Are you messing with my sons?" He made it clear we had nothing to do with it and said he didn't want to hear about this one boy hurting us. So, this kid pulled out a knife on my dad and threatened him.

My dad laughed, snatched the knife from him, and said, "Don't you ever do that again to me or anybody!" He then looked every kid in the eye and made it clear that he didn't want to hear one more story of them bullying his sons or he would be back.

Suffice to say, no one messed with the Martin sons again.

But my dad wasn't the kind of person who would protect his sons like that. He was the kind of person who would travel around our Clinton Park neighborhood and break up kids fighting, even following some home to talk to their parents and grandparents. He was never afraid to go to another parent and hold them accountable for the actions of their child. And more often than not, the parent was stunned to hear about their children being bullies and disciplined them themselves.

Bullying has always been in schools, so that is nothing new. But it's different today because kids are committing suicide due to the constant taunting. We can have all the town hall meetings about bullying, but what is going to change all of this is to have teachers, administrators and other parents get in, face, of parents and guardians. They need to make it clear to parents that they must discipline their own children and teach them not to be bullies.

A child must understand that there will be repercussions for his or her actions. When I have witnessed one of my nieces hit and push around her sister or one of her cousins, I take immediate action and intervene. As the grown-up, I don't even wait for their mother and father to say something. I'm their uncle, and as an adult, I won't allow that behavior to set in.

Bullying does not have to go along with reading, writing and arithmetic in our schools. It can end immediately if we are willing to hold parents accountable for their children. And if the parents don't want to step up; then other adults must be willing to stand up.

A child has enough on his or her mind in school than to have to deal with being bullied. None of us should pass this off as "what kids do" when it is resulting in the suicide of even one child.

Recess a towel bar into the wall cavity

Dear Pat: We are totally redoing our master bedroom and bath. The bathroom is narrow, and I always bump the towel bar. Is there a good way to redesign this so there is more space and I won't bruise my shoulder? — Pam G.

Dear Pam: It is convenient to have a towel bar extend well out from the wall for hanging towels, especially wet ones after a steamy shower. As you have found, though, this can take its toll on your shoulders and elbows when a narrow bathroom is full of steam.

One simple option is to install a towel bar that mounts on the back of the bathroom door. Other designs mount on the door hinge. With either type, the towel bar is out of the way when you enter and exit the bathroom. The primary drawback to these, particularly in a long, narrow bathroom, is the towels are hanging far from the shower door.

Another option is to recess the towel bar into the wall cavity. This not only gets the towel bar out of your path, but it also provides attractive relief to an otherwise long, flat wall. Depending upon the size of the bathroom, the towels may be in easy reach from inside the shower.

Before you begin this recessed towel bar project, you must find a spot on the wall that does not have any plumbing or electric wiring running up through it. It is fairly easy to check the plumbing fixtures to know if water pipes run through it.

Check for electrical outlets on the opposite side of the wall in the adjacent room. Electric wire sensors, which detect a hot wire in a wall, can be purchased at most home center stores. Also, try to select a spot in the wall that has a closet on the opposite side. Since you will be removing one layer of drywall, there may be more sound transmission into the adjacent room through the wall.

Once you locate a suitable spot on the bathroom wall, determine the width you need for your towels. If you can get by with just 15 inches of width, this simplifies the job. Most homes have the wall studs on 16-inch centers, so a 15-inch opening will not require you to saw through wall studs.

Locate the wall studs and cut away a section of drywall to expose the wall cavity and sides of the studs. If you decide you need a wider towel bar, you will have to saw through the center stud. Nail a horizontal header between the two studs to support the severed center stud. This will provide about 31 inches of towel bar space. The height of the opening should be about six inches above the towel bar location. Finish the edges of the wall opening with drywall and corner bead similarly to how a door opening is done. For a more decorative look, use a fancy molding along the edge. Select one with rounded edge detail; otherwise, you might bump into it or stub your toes.

Place a sheet of high-grade plywood against the back of the opening. This will look nice and create a second layer for a better sound barrier between the rooms. Another option is to glue cork tiles against the drywall or plywood. Cork tiles are attractive and they have good sound-absorption qualities.

HOME HOW-TO

Towel Bar

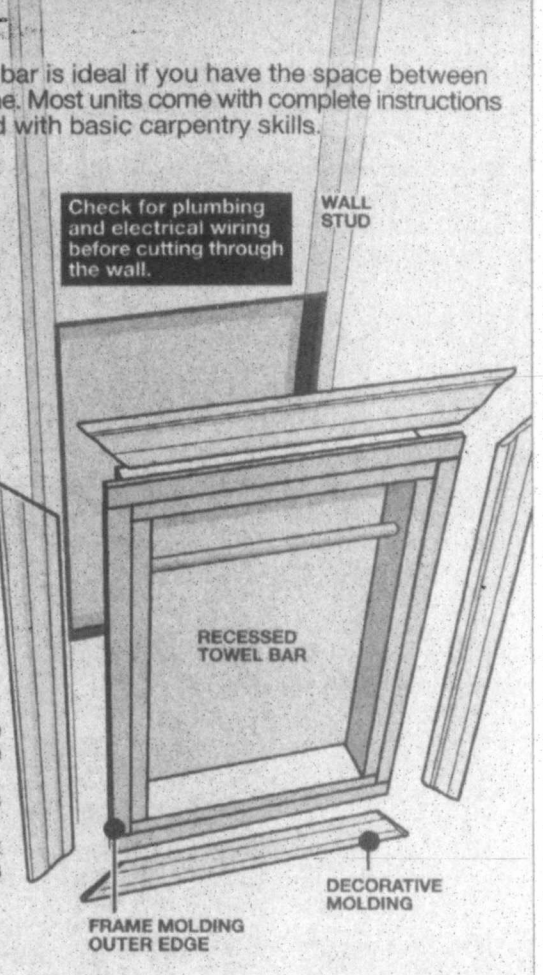

A recessed towel bar is ideal if you have the space between the studs to install one. Most units come with complete instructions that can be installed with basic carpentry skills.

PREPARATION
First, choose a location for the towel bar. Next, locate the studs with a stud finder and mark where they are located.

PLACEMENT
Use the template provided with the kit to draw the area on the wall that you will be cutting out.

WALLBOARD SAW
Cut the hole in the drywall using a utility knife and a wallboard saw.

INSTALLATION
Apply a bead construction adhesive all the way around the outer edge of the back of the towel bar's frame molding. Insert the towel bar unit into the hole, and press it into place. Add optional molding for added visual appearance.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My 12-year-old daughter, "Skye," is starting to go through puberty. She's not comfortable discussing things with me; instead she goes to her older sister with all her questions. They talk to each other in whispered tones in their bedroom with the door closed and locked.

When I try to discuss things with Skye, she becomes red in the face and refuses to talk to me. She is now ashamed to even have me see her undressed, but has no shyness about her body with her sister.

They have always had a close relationship, and I am pleased about that, but I feel shut out of what should be something between a mother and a daughter. I do not feel I have ever done anything to make Skye feel uncomfortable with me about such things, and I feel hurt to be excluded like this.

My older daughter was very open with me about what she was experiencing when she was going through puberty. I have tried to ask Skye what the problem is; she won't talk to me. What can I do? — SHUT OUT IN KANSAS CITY

DEAR SHUT OUT: No two children are alike, and it appears that your younger daughter is modest to the extreme. It's possible that because Skye has always shared a room with her older sister, that's the reason she's more comfortable discussing the changes that are occurring with her rather than you.

My advice is to step back and don't push Skye. Be glad she can confide in her sister, and check with your older girl periodically to find out if there is anything you should know.

DEAR ABBY: Due to the war on terror and a renewed sense of patri-tism, more individuals and businesses are displaying American flags. However, many appear to be unfamiliar with flag etiquette.

With Veteran's Day approaching (Nov. 11), please encourage readers to inspect their flags and make sure they are being displayed correctly. If the flag is torn or dirty, it should be cleaned and mended, or disposed of with dignity. A properly handled flag is a sign of respect to those who have served, and currently serve, to protect the freedoms we Americans often take for granted. — PROUD FAMILY MEMBER OF A VETERAN

DEAR PROUD FAMILY MEMBER: Your letter is timely and important. Proud Americans who display flags should be aware of a rule of flag etiquette that states that the flag should be in good condition. Sadly, I have seen more than a few that looked like faded red, white and blue rags.

According to the U.S. Flag Code, "When a flag has served its useful purpose, it should be destroyed, preferably by burning." The pamphlet "Flag Etiquette" published by the American Legion states: "For individual citizens this should be done discreetly so that the act is not perceived as a protest or desecration."

Many American Legion posts conduct Disposal of Unserviceable Flag ceremonies on June 14, Flag Day, each year. The Boy and Girl Scouts of America also are able to conduct these ceremonies. If you're ready to dispose of yours, check with the local Boy or Girl Scout Council — or wait until the Girl Scout cookie sales start locally and offer the flag to a troop during a sale at a small business.

Discouragement can be overcome

Discouragement, what is it? You notice that the word has a prefix and a suffix. When you take away the prefix and suffix, you find the root word, "courage". The suffix is "ment". It means: a condition resulting from an action. The prefix is "dis". It means to take out. By the way, the prefix "en" means to put in. And we can put courage into people or we can take courage out of people. We have the power to encourage or discourage. Have you ever been around someone that was an encourager? Just being around them, makes you feel like you can be victorious no matter what you face. They make you feel like, "I can do this". That's because they encourage you. They put courage in you. On the other hand, have you ever been around someone who was a discourager? You can be having the best day of your life and after being around them, you think, "I can't do anything". They have drained you of your courage.

Discouragement is something that we all have to battle from time to time. But if we are going to be successful, we must overcome discouragement. God wants our lives to be filled with joy, but discouragement will rob you of joy. It will leave you defeated. And that is not God's plan for any of us.

There are many things that bring about discouragement. One is fatigue (just being tired). Sometimes the best remedy for discouragement is rest. Get out of town for a few days. Go to Dallas or Oklahoma City or Santa Fe or Old Mobeetie. A change of scenery can change your perspective. If your life is in constant chaos and you are not taking time to rest, you are a candidate for discouragement.

Another cause for discouragement can be frustration. Frustration is when you have expectations that are not met. You thought something was going to happen a certain way, but it didn't. It even may be a series of expectations that are not met. And it builds. Maybe it's people who don't meet your expectations, or your marriage isn't meeting your expectations. Maybe your job isn't meeting your expectations. People's words don't meet your expectations. Frustration begins to build and it causes you to become very discouraged.

Another cause of discouragement is failure. In our american culture it is not okay to fail at anything. But failure is a part of the journey to success. Some think that we should always move from success to success to success. And if you ever fail, there's something wrong with you. The fact of the matter is every great success story is filled with failures. We learn a great Deal from failure. In fact we learn things in failure that we would have never learned. And they become stepping stones to our success. Don't let failure rob you of your courage. If you are not successful, have the courage to try again and again and again.

Another thing that causes discouragement is fear. In Isaiah 41:10, God says, "Fear not for I am with you". In fact, the command that God gives the most in scripture is: "Fear not". He does not want us to be consumed and immobilized by fear. Many people live discouraged, because they are controlled by fear.

We all have things that happen in our lives that will tend to discourage us. However we must be determined to win the battle for our courage. The key is to maintain the right focus. Focus on the good and not the bad. Focus on the positive and not the negative. Focus on God and his word and not the circumstance. In Philippians 4:4-7, Paul says this: "Rejoice in the Lord always. Again I will say rejoice! Let your gentleness be known to all men. The Lord is at hand. Be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplications, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known to God; and the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." There are two things in this passage that are key elements in our overcoming discouragement. They are praise and prayer. Praise shifts the focus from you to God. Prayer shifts the burden from you to God. Whenever we go through difficult times, we need to remind ourselves of these two basic things. Praise God. (It shifts the focus from you to God.) Pray to God. (It shifts the burden from you to God.) Then Paul says in the very next verse (phil. 4:8), "Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are noble, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there is any virtue and if there is anything praiseworthy—meditate on these things." In other words Paul is saying, "focus on the positive". Paul in essence gives to us three keys in overcoming discouragement: focus on praise. Focus on prayer. Focus on the positive. You can win. You can overcome discouragement.

CHURCH SPOTLIGHT

Five FBC members go on mission in Southeast Asia

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

Russ Alexander, David Corey, Butch Noble, TV Cuellar and Randy Dyson of First Baptist Church went on a mission trip to Malaysia from October 1 to October 10.

Alexander

Alexander said they chose Malaysia because they had some friends working there and spent the trip praying and building relationships with the people.

Cuellar

"We prayer-walked in the water villages and helped our friends build relationships with the people," Alexander said.

Cuellar said building relationships will help their friends develop those relationships further.

"They will be able to follow up on them," Cuellar said. "This will hopefully help them share the gospel with them."

Cuellar said a lot of the people living in the water villages were driven out of the Philippines.

"They would get run of the Philippines because of religious parties in the upper region," Cuellar said. "They weren't accepted in Malaysia. So they built their houses over the water, so they could live in Malaysia legally."

Alexander said they chose prayer walking because it would be an effective way to minister in a Muslim area.

"When you are in a Muslim area you work more silently," Alexander said. "It's slow work but eventually you will be able to share with some people about your faith and what you believe."

Alexander said the benefit was bathing that area in prayer.

"That's something they aren't used to," Alexander said.

The mission trip leader said the trip is a life changing experience.

"We do this because it changes their lives," Alexander said. "Hopefully it puts changes in our lives."

Alexander, who has done mission trips with the church for 10 years said they won't go back to Malaysia.

"I want to take them somewhere different every year," Alexander said. "I don't know where we are going next year. We have been all over Central America."

PHS DB, Eagle Scout Boyd a model of dedication

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

On the football field, Olin Boyd is a senior leader on the secondary. Off the field, Boyd earned Eagle Scout honors after years of dedication of being in Scouts.

Boyd has been in Scouts since he was in the fourth grade. Boyd said it took a lot of hard work but it paid off.

"I'm glad I'm did it and stuck with it," Boyd said.

For his Eagle project, Boyd installed trail markers every ¼ mile on the Hike and Bike Trail from Evergreen Park to Southwest of M.K. Brown. Boyd said he wanted to do something that benefited the city.

"I wanted to do something outdoors," Boyd said. "I got it approved by the city."

The project took Boyd 92 man hours surveying, marking and installing the markers. The senior defensive back has earned 29 merit badges. Boyd said he's learned the same values in Scouts that he has in football.

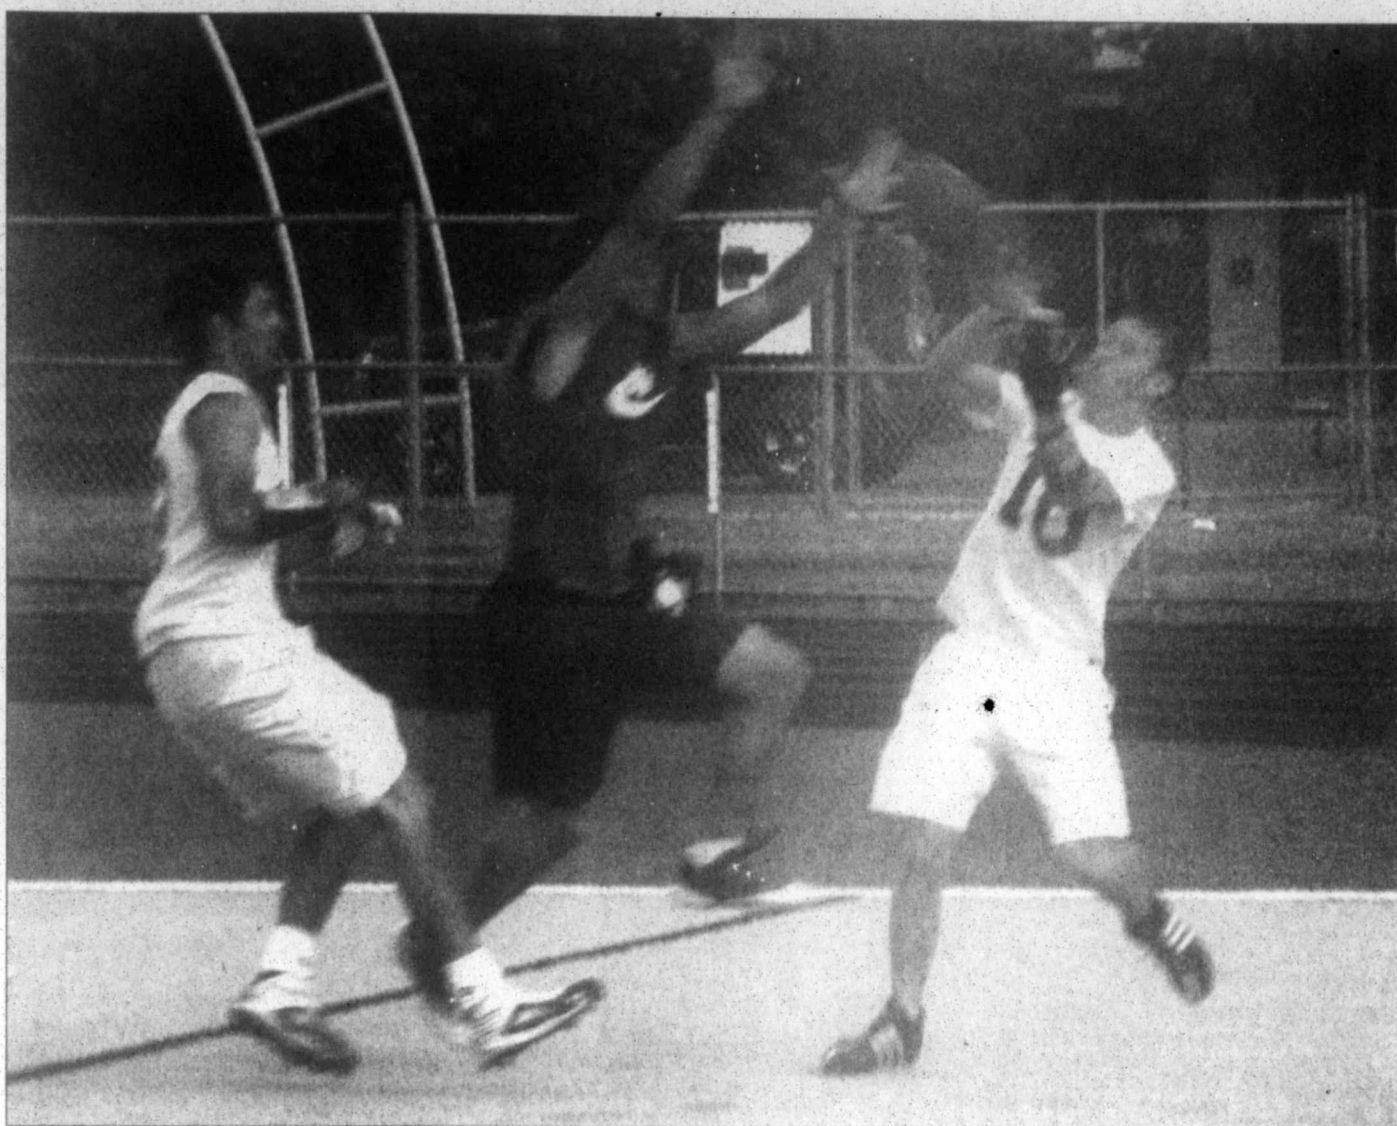

"It teaches persistence and dedication," Boyd said.

Secondary coach Forrest Harding said Boyd has been a tremendous leader in the secondary and can tell how his participation in Scouts has an impact.

"He is always prompt wherever he goes and a very hard worker," Harding said. "He is an athlete who always leads by example."

"You can tell how the great life lessons taught in Boy Scouts tie into athletics just by watching Olin in his daily walk."

Boyd was key in Pampa's victory over Vernon Sept. 24 with two interceptions. Besides football and scouts, Boyd participates in the National Honor Society, First Presbyterian Youth, Rotary Interact Club, 4-H Air Rifle Team and UIL academics.

Olin Boyd makes a catch in a 7-on-7 game June 4. Boyd has been a leader this season for the secondary. Off the field Boyd has been a leader earning an Eagle Scout honor August 29. Boyd is plays his final home game tonight.

Fr. team wins sixth straight, JV football falls vs. Perryton

aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters freshman team won their sixth straight in a 6-2 victory over the Perryton Rangers Thursday in Perryton.

Coach Kaleb Snelgrooves said the weather played a role in the outcome but the defense played well.

"It was a sloppy mess," Snelgrooves said. "Our defense played well."

Snelgrooves said he was proud of how the freshman performed.

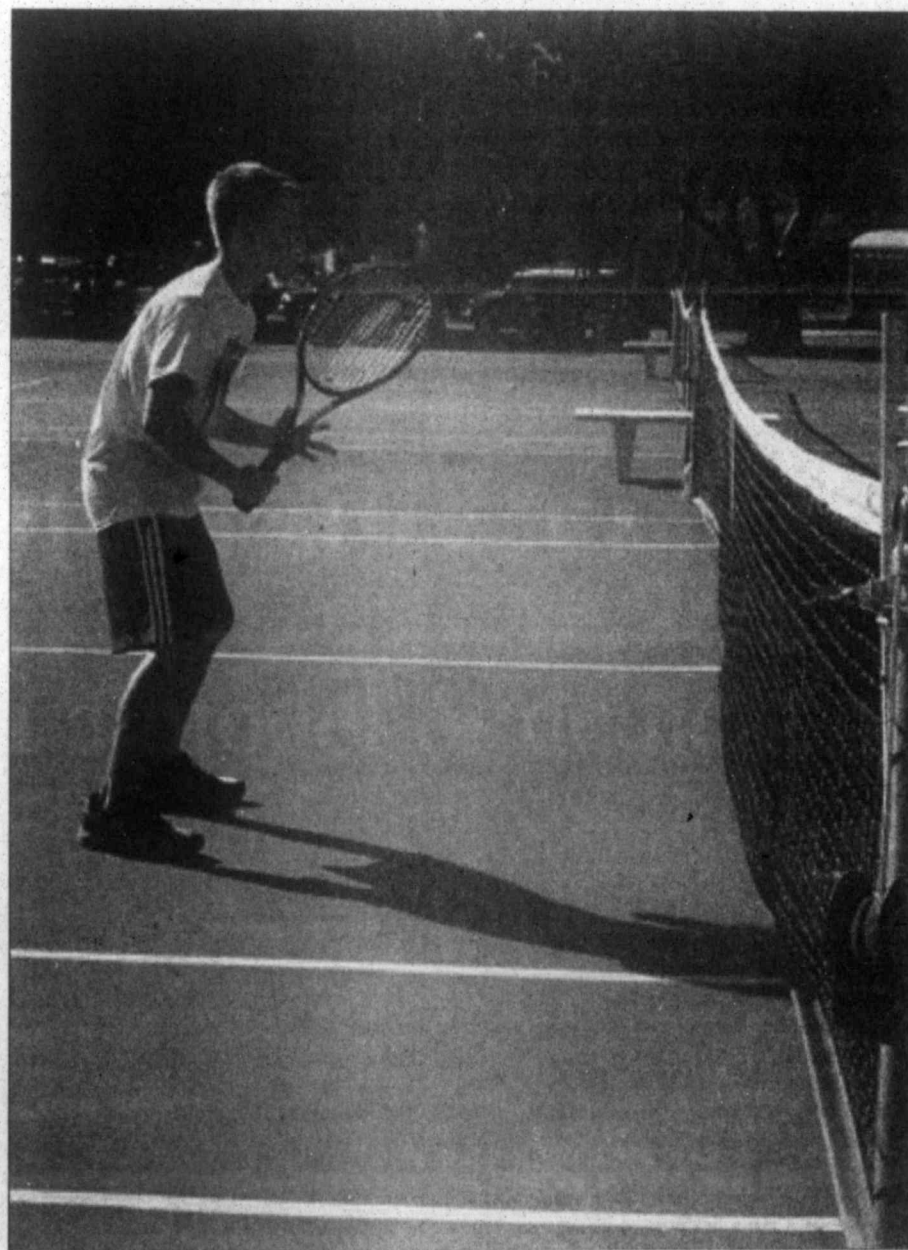

"It's great for this group of kids to be having this kind of success," Snelgrooves said. "It's amazing how winning a couple of games can increase your motivation and attitude."

The junior varsity (2-6, 1-1) lost 21-8 with the game being called with 5:57 left in the third. Coach Scott Lewis said his team had good effort.

"They played hard," Lewis said.

The freshmen (7-3, 2-0) and junior varsity host Dalhart for their final game 5 p.m. Thursday.

daily horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 23, 2010:

This year, you will roar, as you seem energized and close to unstoppable late spring. Opportunities come through others. Remain open, and discharge negativity. You'll discover that much of what you desire is possible. If you are single, you draw others like honey attracts bees. Carefully pick your suitor. Feel free to say "no" if you feel someone isn't right for you. If you are attached, look to your daydreams for answers and goals. The two of you have a lot of give-and-take. Your relationship is nearly like a seesaw. TAURUS often seems a little too "apple pie" for your taste.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 ★★ Listen to news, and understand where others are coming from and what might be needed. You see life in a new way. Understanding evolves if you remain open to suggestions. Curb a tendency to go overboard. Tonight: You move in a new direction.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 ★★★★★ Keep smiling and fielding options. Remember that there are many ways to skin a cat. Confusion sets a situation apart and demands attention. You see life in a renewed fashion because of options. Tonight: So many options!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 ★★★ Sometimes what isn't said could be more significant than what is. You see life in a far different manner. Understanding evolves. Push comes to shove. Recognize what is going on behind the scenes. Tonight: See life in a new light by observing more.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 ★★★★★ How you handle yourself could be scrutinized more closely than you would care to think. Much happens quickly, causing a change that might be significant. You could be juggling different concerns. Slow down. Tonight: Where the action is.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 ★★★ Pressure builds, whether you like it or not. How you see a changeable situation could be dramatically different from reality. So many people are reacting to different issues, getting a grounded reading could be close to impossible. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 ★★★★★ Keep reaching out for someone at a distance. You will gain a deeper sense of direction if you relax and just go with the flow. Communication flourishes. Others grasp new perspectives in animated discussions. Tonight: Where the music is.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 ★★★ You feel a change and become more grounded than you have in many years. Listen to news and understand what is happening behind the scenes with a family member. Often, this person puts on a good face just for you. Perhaps a talk is needed. Tonight: Your treat.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 ★★★★★ Your ability to relate is high, though many people could be very challenging. Understand exactly what is going on behind the scenes. Also know that you can only find what you look for. Try to remain open. Tonight: Just don't be alone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 ★★★★★ You might want to keep reaching out for others. How you see someone and what happens could change because of how you look at a situation. There is an element of confusion. Decide not to personalize a comment -- for now. Tonight: Take in new information before reacting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 ★★★★★ You could be taken aback by just how different you feel. A friend or someone who is quite verbal presents his or her opinion. Let this person, as you cannot stop him or her anyway. It might be futile trying to explain any other point of view. Tonight: Where you will enjoy yourself. Pick the right company.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 ★★★★★ You note a more tense flavor this morning. You might feel as if you have to do so many things. You will accomplish a lot more than you think if you just get started. Use a change of plans to your advantage. Tonight: Take in new vistas.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 ★★★★★ Stretch and start seeing beyond the obvious. Mixing a highly intuitive sense with an ability to walk in another's footsteps pushes a long-desired dream forward. You find a partner to be unusually negative. Tonight: Try a new spot or type of happening.
