He's certainly giving them plenty of incentive.

Fenton Motors announced during Homecoming weekend that it will be giving away a brand new car to one lucky Pampa High School student with perfect attendance this year. The giveaway will happen at a ceremony after graduation at the end of the year.

Gerald Louis Matthews, 77

POINT VENTURE-Gerald "Jerry" Louis Matthews, born May 3, 1933, beloved husband, father, grandfather and friend was taken from us on Monday January 3, 2011.

He was preceded in death by his parents Joseph Prese ton and Viola Patton Matthews and son Gerald L. Matthews, Jr. Also brothers J.P. Matthews, Clarence Matthews; sisters Velma Ellington and Reta Stewart. Jerry was born in Mobeetie and raised in Pampa. Jerry served in the United States Army Reserves; retiring at rank of Captain. Jerry lived a very fulfilling life with three different career loves. College Bookstore Management took him from the University of Cincinnati - to the University of Maine, San Jose State, UCLA, UCDavis, University of Texas, Wright State University and USC. All the while participating in the auxiliary organization - National Association of College Stores (NACS). He taught and mentored many while working diligently to improve the college store business. In 1984-85 he was honored to serve as President of NACS. Upon retirement from bookstore management, he and his wife, Leslie, returned to their home state of Texas where he started a career in real estate. In 1995 he merged his company with Highland Lakes Real Estate - where he continued to be an active force in the office and the community. He served as President of Lago Vista Rotary and was an officer with Point Venture Lions Club. Throughout his life, sports was a constant endeavor. He went to New Mexico State on a football scholarship. After graduation he became active in officiating baseball, basketball and football. He was active with football until this past September. He treasured his relationships with his officiating team. Jerry was a trusted friend and always there for all that knew him.

As Republicans prepare to take control of the House and exert more influence in the Senate, it's clear that option No. 3 will soon wither. States will continue to face substantial deficits over the next few years, but they will have to get by with the end of stimulus spending and less financial help from the federal government. In recent interviews, top GOP lawmakers made clear it will be much less.

'We've got to put our fiscal house in order in Washington, D.C.," said Rep. Mike Pence of Indiana. "It's going to be essential that leaders at the state level roll their sleeves up, make the hard choices and put their fiscal health in order, as well."

"The states got themselves into their problem by profligate spending. They need to take care of that and not rely on the federal government to bail them out," added Rep. Doe Hastings, R-Wash.

Beef fat leaks into ship channel

HOUSTON (AP) The Coast Guard says a nearly one-mile stretch of the Houston Ship Channel will be closed for at least four days as workers use pitchforks and fishnets to corral, pierce and remove 15,000 gallons of beef fat.

Coast Guard spokesman Richard Brahm says shipping has not been impacted. The refinery-lined waterway is one of the busiest marine thoroughfares in the country.

On Tuesday, about 250,000 gallons of beef fat leaked from a storage tank, and some reached the waterway through a storm drain. The fat solidified when it hit the colder water.

Initially, the Coast Guard thought the channel would reopen early Thursday. But Brahm says the cleanup is taking longer than expected. By late Wednesday only 25 percent of the mess had been removed.

Stanford asks for trial delay

HOUSTON (AP) - Former Texas billionaire and financier R. Allen Stanford could learn if his trial on charges he bilked investors out of $7 billion in a Ponzi scheme will be delayed from its scheduled start later this month.

U.S. District Judge David Hittner is set to hold a hearing Thursday in Houston federal court on whether to postpone Stanford's Jan. 24 trial. The jailed financier's attorneys are asking for at least a two-year delay. Prosecutors say Stanford's latest defense lawyers, who were appointed in October, should have additional time to prepare but argue that two years is unreasonable.

Hittner was also set to discuss claims by Stanford's attorneys that their client is not competent to stand trial. Stanford has denied any wrongdoing in the case:

Jeffs fires his new attorney

SAN ANGELO (AP) - Polygamist sect leader Warren leffs fired his attorney Wednesday just hours after hiring him, prompting a West Texas judge to delay a trial on sexual assault charges after Jeffs said he would need more time to find a lawyer who "suits my needs." Gerry Morris, a prominent Austin-based lawyer, told district court Judge Barbara Walther during a morning pretrial hearing that he would represent Jeffs as long as a trial on sexual assault charges set to begin Jan. 21 was pushed back to give him time to prepare.

But in a subsequent late-afternoon hearing, Morris said Jeffs had "discharged" him. He did not elaborate and said after the hearing that he could not comment.

30-year mortgage rates dip

NEW YORK (AP) - Rates on fixed mortgages dipped this week after rising steadily over the last two months.

Freddie Mac says the average rate on the 30-year mortgage dropped to 4.77 percent from 4.86 percent the previous week. It hit a 40-year low of 4.17 percent in November.

. The average rate on the 15-year loan slipped to 4.13 percent from 4.20 percent. It reached 3.57 percent in November, the lowest level on records starting in 1991.

Rates have been rising since November. Investors have shifted money out of Treasurys and into stocks. Many expect the fax-cut plan will fuel economic growth and increase inflation. Yields tend to rise on inflation fears.

Mortgage rates tend to track the yield on the 10-year Treasury note. Those rates have been fluctuating in recent weeks.

Oil hovers above $90

SINGAPORE (AP) - Oil prices hovered above $90 a barrel Thursday in Asia after a better than expected U.S. jobs report bolstered investor optimism that crude demand will improve.

Benchmark oil for February delivery rose 1 cent to $90.31 a barrel late afternoon Singapore time in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange. The contract rose 92 cents to settle at $90.30 on Wednesday.

Payroll processor ADP said Wednesday that private companies added 297,000 jobs last month, nearly triple the number that economists were expecting. The Labor Department releases Friday its monthly report on total U.S. payrolls and the unemployment rate.

Judge orders gas well shutdown

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - A federal judge has partially sided with a Nebraska company that wants to condemn more than 9,100 acres of land in south-central Kansas.

U.S. District Judge Wesley Brown on Wednesday issued a preliminary injunction sought by Omaha-based Northern Natural Gas Co. to shut down gas wells operated by L.D. Drilling, Val Energy and Nash Oil & Gas.

Northern Natural Gas claims in a lawsuit that the gas produced by those wells migrated out of its Cunningham Storage Field. The wells are located in an expansion area certified by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to be included in its underground storage field.

The injunction requires Northern to post a $2 million bond pending the condemnation lawsuit against land; owners in Pratt, Kingman and Reno counties.

Compromise clearly dirty word to Congress

LIZ SIDOTI AP National Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -There's an inherent conflict in the country's new political reality: a much more polarized Congress must answer to an increasingly powerful centers of the electorate that abhors partisanship or risk its wrath in 2012.

Much like President Bill Clinton after his party's disastrous 1994 elections, President Barack Obama now has the chance to shift to the middle as leaders on Capitol Hill struggle to strike a balance between the desires of ideological purists in their ranks and the independent, centrist voters who played a significant role in electing them.

For Republicans and Democrats, that task began Wednesday when the new Congress was sworn in; Republicans assumed control of the House and padded their numbers in the Democratic-led Senate.

'There's going to be politics. That's what happens in Washington. They are going to play to their base for a certain period of time. But I'm pretty confident that they're going to recognize that our job is to govern . My hope is that John Boehner and Mitch McConnell will realize that there will be plenty of time to campaign for 2012 in 2012," Obama said this week about GOP leaders in the House and Senate, casting himself as the compromiser in chief even while maneuvering for his upcoming re-election. The president's tone was in stark contrast to his first two years when he leveraged large Democratic majorities in Congress and thwarted Republicans - to enact sweeping laws, including an economic stimulus measure and revamps of the health care and financial regulatory systems, that independents greeted skeptically if not derisively. After backing him heavily in his presidential bid, they punished him in November by ending one-party rule in Washington.

Now, with no serious Democratic primary challenger emerging to siphon support from his liberal base, Obama already has begun moving to the center. As 2010 ended, he compromised with Republicans to reach bipartisan deals on tax cuts that paved the way for a rush of end of year legislation, including repealing the ban on gays openly serving in the military as well as a new nuclear treaty with Russia.

It's clear the 2012 ele tions are in everyone's sights with obvious objectives: Obama needs to win back middle-of-the-road voters, and Republicans need to keep them happy, or at least not anger them.

Their power was strongly felt in the last three elections. In 2006 and 2008, independents furious with Republican governance gave Democrats power in Congress and the White House. By 2010, these voters had grown disillusioned by Democratic rule and sided with the GOP.

And their sway is only growing.

Today, more Americans are identifying themselves as independent while majorities of the country view both the Democratic Republican parunfavorably. Disaffected Republican and Democratic operatives are forming groups to advocate on behalfoof - if not organize - unaffiliated voters, indicating that momentum may be building among the center for increased political action. So, given all that, how did the Republican and Democratic caucuses in Congress end up so much more conservative and liberal? The two-party American political system produces polarization in Congress. Both the Republican and the Democratic parties hold primaries to choose general election candidates. Those nominating contests are dominated by the most vocal, active party members ΓÇö conservatives and liberals who tend to support like-minded people.

Last year, that situation was even more pronounced as the tea party coalition roiled GOP primaries and produced Republican nominees who were far more conservative than usual.

the House Republican roster includes some seven dozen tea party-backed lawmakers and other staunch conservatives. And moderate "Blue Dog" Democrats are virtually extinct; scores lost their swing-voting districts in a coast-to-coast GOP

"Compromise is a dirty word to the new members of Congress and a vital word to the people they were sent to represent," said Matt Bennett, a former Clinton aide and a vice president of the centrist Democratic group Third Way. "It's a more polarized House representing an electorate that is really seeking moderation. There's a big disconnect between their caucuses and their voters." The Senate is arguably less polarized than the House; Democrats succeeded in limiting the number of GOP takeaways to six. Still, new Republican senators include tea party-supported Rand Paul of Kentucky and Ron Johnson of Wisconsin, as well as conservatives Pat Toomey of Pennsylvania and Marco Rubio of Florida.

From the outset, it's clear that Boehner is trying to strike a balance between his constituents and his members.

"This is the people's house. This is their Congress. It's about them, not us," Boehner said after he took the gavel as speaktł

Still, in a nod to his caucus' right flank, he scheduled a vote next week on repealing the health care law. Republicans don't expect to kill it. It makes sense for them not to; the GOP wants to run against health care in 2012 and that important constituency ГÇö independents ΓÇö prefer that the law be changed, not repealed. House leaders facing demands from the right to immediately cut spending also indicated they wanted to cut $100 billion from the federal budget. But it didn't take long before GOP leaders bowed to the reality of governing and scaled back their goal.

Come February, during debate over a massive spending bill to keep the government running, the country will see how successful Boehner has been at keeping the right in line and how much Obama is willing to compromise.

The challenge for Boehner is to avoid what happened after the 1994 Republican Revolution when the GOP took control of Congress.

Back then, House Speaker, Newt Gingrich failed to keep his rabblerousing conservative warriors in line, leading to a government shutdown. Clinton came out on top, and handily won re-election in 1996.

Obama already has signaled a desire to go the route of Clinton, signaling a willingness to work with Republicans on several issues, including trade deals with Colombia and Panama as well as the Water park is city's own 'stimulus'

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Recently, a friend of mine gave me a little different perspective on the "ever popular" discussion of why Pampa government sees fit to build a "water park", something that most folks believe should have been built by private enterprise, not tax money!

But my ever analytical friend kept his cool and said, "Look at it this way. Look at it as a 'progressive' stimulus. By the time folks deliver their kids to the park, the pot holes, missing bricks and speed bumps will send people straight to the front end shops and tire dealers!"

Poof — economic stimulus! Mike Stone Sr.

Longtime mail carrier deserves thanks

tion act.

Patty retired December 31, 2010 after 30 years of service. It is difficult to replace the experience of a dedicated person such as she, one so friendly and nice.

We will miss her kindness and service to us.

things that really surprised them was learning cell phone calls don't just go from one phone to another. All text messages and calls are transmitted through cell phone towers, which route the calls or texts to the company's server. All sent messages and photos are stored on the provider's server. This means pictures deleted from the phone are never really deleted - and text messages and photos never go away. They still exist in the virtual world.

Should those pictures become the is subject to "discovery." With the right equipment, law enforcement can retrieve deleted photos from anyone's cell phone.

A: Founded in 1927 in East Liverpool, Ohio, Porcelier China Co. moved to South Greenberg, Pa., in 1931. They produced vitrified china teapots, coffeepots, electric coffeepots, cups, saucers, creamers and sugar bowls. Vitrified china is fired at a high temperature.

The shape of your coffeepot was inspired by Art Deco design. Their Southwestern pattern, which was a popular motif in the 1920s and 1930s, had several variations of a figure with a sombrero and a serape next to a cactus. Your coffeepot was originally part of a set that included a teapot, creamer and sugar bowl.

Porcelier China Co. employed around 300 people at its peak. They went out of business in 1954.

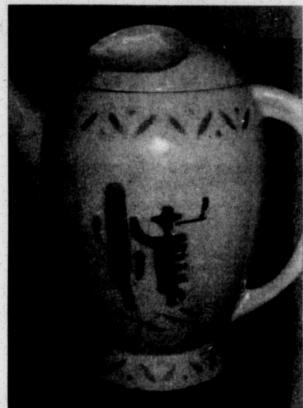

Your hand-decorated coffeepot is circa 1930 and would fetch anywhere from $25 to $50 in antiques shops.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, Jan. 7, 2011:

This year, you enhance others' ability to understand, as you find the right words to communicate. If you see a matter differently, you can find new paths. Your many assets emotionally and intellectually help point to new ground. If you are single, you are likely to meet someone in your everyday travels. Be careful, as you have a tendency to pull the wool over your eyes. If you are attached, the two of you share much more, as you seem to grow and transform. Communication flourishes come summer 2011. AQUARIUS helps you make money.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Think "people, friends and weekend." Has your mood changed? Your fatigue could be playing a factor in you not making a strong decision. Postpone what you can; do only what is necessary. Schedule a meeting at the end of the day. Tonight:

And now the weekend begins TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Sometimes taking a stand isn't the best decision. Note the amount of divisiveness around you. Your imagination plays a role with listening to a higher-up. Count on the fact that you are distorting some information. Tonight: Could be late.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

* Understand that others might not enjoy the same situations or people as you. Though these differences could be annoying right now, you could appreciate them later. An offer from a distance might have a hidden agenda. Tonight: Take off ASAP.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Let others dominate as they would like. You feel a bit tired and pushed to the limit. A domestic matter could be coloring your thinking. Loosen up and remember that there is more to life than a certain issue. Tonight: Meet a friend, then ...

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

* Others appear quickly but don't have the same issues. Your objective could be very different, but soon you will be on the same page if you have patience. A discussion could be vague. Make sure you aren't wearing rose-colored shades. Tonight: Follow the leader.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  Your understanding evolves. You might feel as if there is only one way, but a discussion allows you to see otherwise. What you thought was a done deal has trailers. Watch, observe and understand. Tonight: Let another person take the driver's

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Your ability to understand could be quite different from others' perceptions. Your creativity and thought process bypass many people. Make plans to escape the doldrums early, which might look like a late lunch or inviting an associate to join you. Tonight: Call it a night whenever you want.

SCORPIO (Oct 23-Nov. 21)

 Slowly move away from being closed off and keeping your thoughts to yourself. A brainstorming session feeds your imagination and allows greater giveand-take. Sometimes it is better that others understand your ideas more thoroughly -if you want to greet success. Tonight: Toss yourself into the game of life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 You say what you mean and mean what you say. Clearly others listen but don't necessarily agree. Debate, discuss and find a middle point if you feel you need agreement. Many of you will go out and forge a new path on this issue. Be open to suggestions, even if only making plans. Tonight: Ask, and you shall receive .

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) * Fatigue marks a decision. You ceptable. Your abilities go way past the obvious. Don't make what seems too good to be true a reality. Tonight: Go with the flow. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  Notice what is happening be-decide that maybe another path is more ac-hind the scenes. You have a remarkable ability to bypass problems by just donning your rose-colored shades. You have a sense of having done too much and need to relax. Schedule light activities toward the end of the day. Tonight: Make it OK to go in early.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Being able to say "enough" means absolutely that. A partner might be closing down. Manipulation plays a significant role in events and what occurs. Let this person brood, and when he or she is ready, he or she will come out of the doldrums. Tonight: Nap, then decide.

Pirates click before district play

The Lefors Pirates basketball team got off to a rough start, but that can be expected considering they started play two weeks after football season. Now, that they are approaching district, Lefors is executing better and is poised to make a run in district.

The Pirates are running the offense better. In their opening games of the season, Lefors had an abundance of turnovers but their defense kept them in games. In their last game before Christmas break, Lefors was able to get the ball down low and got easy lay ups from the post. That was something they did successfully Tuesday. The Pirates have two solid posts in junior Taylor Ray and senior Austin Brooks. Both players can power the ball in the net and get second chance shots.

The last two games the Pirates are forcing more turnovers on defense, which is leading to some easy transition shots. This will be key for Lefors in district and help gain momentum in those games. Additionally, the Pirates have limited their opponents offensive rebounds, which limits scoring their chances. If you limit an opponent's scoring chances, you limit the number of points they score. Odds are if you do that, you are going to win. Lefors will have a good chance in district if they can keep rebounding. One of the advantages the Pirates have in district is there is not a clear front runner. All six teams are fairly even. The next five weeks should be a good fight as six teams battle for three playoff spots. What will the Pirates have to do to clinch their third straight playoff trip? For starters, the offense will have to be successful and consistent. Lefors needs to make smart decisions with the ball and be patient for the quality shot. The Pirates will be reliant on their post players to get inside shots. Lefors will need to develop an outside shooting game because opponents will try and take away the inside. Senior Joey Johnson has shown he can nail that shot but will need to on a consistent basis.

The Pirates will need to stay out of foul trouble, especially their big men. Post players aren't going to be much help if they are sitting on the bench. Keeping fouls down will be essential so Lefors can use their bench more effectively.

Most importantly, Lefors needs to stay healthy. Depth is great if you have it and tough if you don't. A team is usually better when it is full

Where will the Pirates land in district? We will find out in the middle of February when it's all said and done. If the Pirates can keep improving, be consistent on both sides of the ball and stay clear of foul trouble and injuries, they might be playing past February 15.
