PD's McCullar: Nine burglaries since start of 2012

■ Many recent break-ins involve forced entry into homes

MOLLIE BRYANT
 mbryant@thepampanews.com

Since the beginning of the new year, Pampa has had nine burglaries, according to Crime Prevention Officer Stormy McCullar of Pampa PD.

“We’ve been telling people for a while that they need to secure their homes, but citizens need to start watching their neighbors’ houses,” she said. Burglaries were on an upswing during 2011, but many of the break-ins were crimes of opportunity, where suspects gained entry via unlocked doors or windows. Most of the recent burglaries involved forced entry, and most through the back of the home. The crimes have been scattered across town, with no particular area targeted.

“If you’re driving down the street and see someone in the alleyway, call us so we can at least check it out,” said McCullar. “The police department can’t do it alone. We need citizens to start calling us on suspicious activity.”

Emergency alert system to launch

MOLLIE BRYANT
 mbryant@thepampanews.com

On Monday, a new emergency alert system that incorporates mobile phones will be unveiled across the Panhandle.

The Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC) developed the notification system with assistance from a grant for more than $600,000 from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and $100,000 from the Amarillo Area Foundation. PRPC covered $24,000 of the cost associated with the alert system.

“It’s been a long time coming,” said Emily Nolte, Regional Emergency Preparedness Planner of PRPC. “We needed an additional method of notification. Some jurisdictions didn’t even have sirens. We also saw that mobile communication needed to be the way to go from a technological standpoint.”

Residents can sign up to receive emergency alerts for their area by text, email or text-to-voice, with text-to-voice being the only option associated with a fee. The messages will cover emergencies like fire evacuation, but also include missing children or elderly

Chubby's Burrito Co. now open in Pampa

■ New local restaurant offers burritos made for you as you place your order

ARNIE AURELLANO
 editor@thepampanews.com

Pampa diners have a new local option to fill their burrito fix.

Chubby’s Burrito Co., owned by Jason and April Dyer, held its grand opening Thursday evening, offering burritos, tacos, salads and more to a crowd of hungry Pampans. According to April, it was a big first night.

“We had a wonderful turnout,” April said. “We had a lot of people. We were real proud to see everybody.”

The Dyers bought the Chubby’s building, located at 1328 N.

Hobart (the former Consuelo’s), last June, and the family has spent the last few months conceptualizing for and renovating the space.

“We’d just been working on concepts and trying to figure out what the best thing for Pampa would be,” April said. “That’s when we came up with the burrito concept and ran with it. We’ve just been doing construction and making it as perfect as we can and getting the food ready. We decided to get past the holidays — Jason does a lot of catering during the holidays — and so we got that behind us, and January was just the right time.”

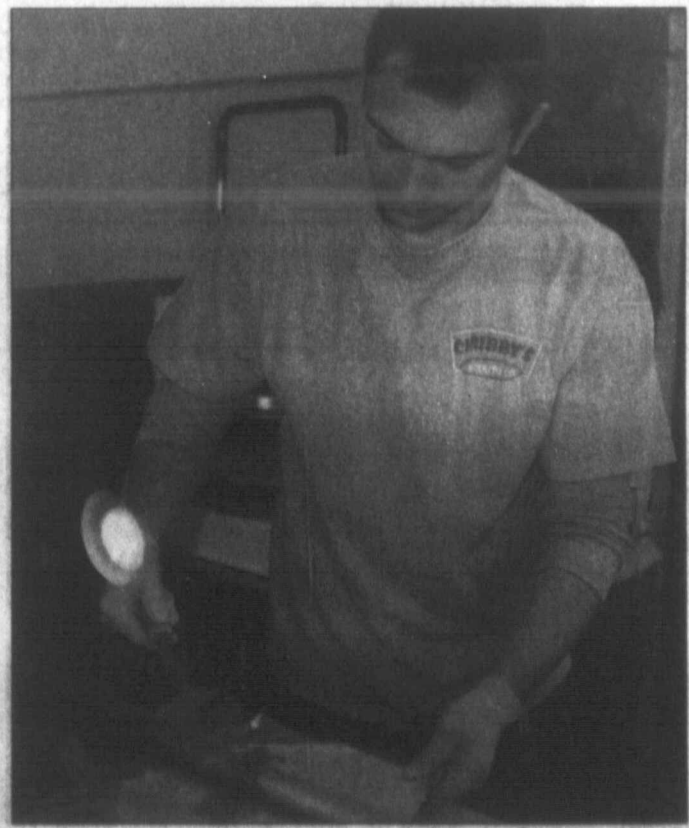

So far, April said, the restaurant is employing a team of 16 people of all age groups, reflective of the idea that Chubby’s is a place where everyone can eat.

“Chubby’s is perfect for any age group, whether you’re an older person who doesn’t like to eat a lot or whether you’re a child, there’s something for everybody there,” April said. “It’s a fun environment. There’s fun people. It’s a fun place, and there’s great food.”

“Everything’s made fresh,” she continued. “We make our own tortillas, press them out on the tortilla press right in front of you.”

In S.C., Perry treads lightly on GOP rivals

Boehner pressed on trafficking

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican President Felipe Calderon has asked U.S. House Speaker John Boehner to crack down on weapons trafficking that has fueled drug violence in Mexico.

Calderon's office says the president stressed the importance of stopping illegal trafficking of weapons and cash into Mexico.

The government says Mexico's drug cartels import much of their weaponry from the United States.

Boehner and Michigan Rep. Dave Camp visited Mexico on Friday along with other members of Congress to discuss security and economic and political issues with Mexican officials.

Calderon's office says the U.S. delegation praised Mexico's five-year offensive against drug cartels.

The U.S. delegation previously visited Colombia and Brazil.

Woman dies after break-in

HOUSTON (AP) — Police are looking for a male suspect after a break-in at a house in southwest Houston that left an 82-year-old woman dead.

Police say the intruder beat Margaret Marie Gage with his hands after she tried to intervene as the intruder was kicking her husband in the head. Police Sgt. C.E. Elliott says the 84-year-old husband was treated at the scene.

Elliott says the couple's dog began to bark just before 9 p.m. Thursday and the husband went to open the back door to let it out when the man forced his way in.

The couple's daughter, Loa Glenn, tells KPRC-TV of Houston that the intruder went straight to her mother jewelry and made off with it.

Transgender widow jailed

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston judge has jailed the transgender widow of a fallen firefighter after she was late for a scheduled court date.

Nikki Araguz has been waging a court fight for the death benefits of firefighter Thomas Araguz III, who died in July 2010 while battling an egg farm fire near Wharton.

The Houston Chronicle reports she was to appear in court at 8:30 a.m. Friday to plead to a $2,800 wristwatch theft from an acquaintance. She didn't arrive until 9:10 a.m., however, and state District Judge Vanessa Velasquez ordered her jailed.

Araguz's attorney, Jeff Downing, said his client was planning to plead guilty to theft in exchange for a 30-day jail sentence and $2,800 in restitution. Now, she could remain jailed for two weeks before entering a plea.

Court tosses convoy death suits

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has ruled that long-running lawsuits over insurgent ambushes that killed civilian truck drivers in Iraq won't go before a jury.

The lawsuits had been filed in Houston federal court by truckers and their families. They accused Houston-based Halliburton and former subsidiary KBR Inc. of knowingly sending supply convoys into a dangerous area. Six KBR drivers were killed and several others were wounded in that area on April 8 and 9, 2004.

Halliburton and KBR had argued the claims couldn't be litigated. Instead, they said the claims are covered by a law that provides workers' compensation to civilian employees injured while under contract with defense agencies.

In a Thursday ruling, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed with the companies and ordered the lawsuits dismissed.

Man dead after ski slope fall

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A Texas man is dead after a fall while riding down a slope at Ski Apache near Ruidoso.

Authorities say 29-year-old Robert Kieschnick died Wednesday shortly after the spill on the Capitan Slope intermediate trail.

The medical investigator says Kieschnick might have hit his head on a rock. He wasn't wearing a helmet at the time of the spill.

KOB-TV says Kieschnick's wife is a registered nurse and witnessed the accident and was the first responder.

Toddler found in stolen SUV

HOUSTON (AP) — Terron Henry was busily preparing food for his Jamaican restaurant Friday morning when he was told an SUV was mysteriously parked behind his Houston business. He walked to the vehicle along a concrete path behind the strip mall where his restaurant is located and peeked into a window. There he saw a toddler strapped to a car seat, bundled in a gray sweat shirt and apparently sleeping.

It turned out to be 17-month-old Evan Montgomery Lamar Miller, the subject of a frantic search that began 14 hours earlier when the vehicle — with the baby inside — was stolen from a Walmart parking lot about three blocks away.

Henry brought the toddler into the restaurant, wrapped him in a shirt and waited for paramedics, who arrived about five minutes later. The boy was taken to Texas Children's Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Houston police were still looking Friday evening for the suspect who stole the vehicle. Police believe he probably left the SUV shortly after he stole it and Evan was in the vehicle overnight.

Abortion law cleared to go

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal appeals court cleared the way Friday for Texas to immediately begin enforcing a new law requiring doctors to conduct a sonogram before performing an abortion.

The three-judge panel agreed to a request by the state's Attorney General Greg Abbott to cut short the typical three-week waiting period between a ruling and its implementation. Earlier in the week, the judges had lifted a temporary stay issued by a district court judge who found the new law potentially unconstitutional, but did not at that point issue a legal mandate that would make the law enforceable.

Texas' new law requires doctors to conduct a sonogram before performing an abortion, to show the woman the image, to play the fetal heartbeat aloud and describe the features of the fetus, at least 24 hours before the abortion. There are exceptions in the case of rape, incest, fetal deformities and for women who have to travel great distances to reach a doctor.

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Texas Gov. Rick Perry aimed his sharpest criticism at President Barack Obama rather than his GOP rivals as he campaigned Friday in coastal South Carolina, eight days ahead of the state's primary.

Perry, using a light touch as he spoke to people in crowded restaurants in Bluffton and Charleston, mostly stuck with the campaign speech he used in Iowa and elsewhere. He mentioned front-runner Mitt Romney by name only when a Charleston man said he feared Perry has a poorer chance of beating Obama this fall.

Perry cited Texas' record of job creation during his 11 years as governor, and said it is far better than Obama's national record. "Romney cannot make that contrast," he said.

In one of his rare light-hearted moments, Perry said anyone seeking higher taxes and mandated health insurance coverage "can move to Massachusetts." It was another jab at Romney's four-year record as Massachusetts governor.

In Bluffton, Perry said his GOP opponents are "all either Wall Street insiders or Washington insiders" and called himself the genuine outsider who can change Washington.

Of the president, he said: "Our country is in trouble, and Obama is mortgaging our children's future" by running up a huge debt.

Perry made no mention of Romney's record at the private equity firm Bain Capital. Several party officials and conservative spokesmen chastised him earlier this week for tying Romney to 'instances' in which Bain investments worked out badly and resulted in job losses.

Perry has gotten off fairly easy thus far in the political ads swamping South Carolina TV stations, especially during local news hours. The main targets of the harshest ads have been former House Speaker Newt Gingrich, former Sen. Rick Santorum and Romney. Perry, like the others, is airing positive ads about himself.

Chubby's

... You walk through the line, build your own burrito. We don't leave food just sitting in the pans. Everything's made fresh, so we don't keep a lot in (the heating pans). We make it fresh all through the night and all through the day.

The restaurant is the fourth establishment within Pampa for the extended Dyer family, along with Texas Rose, Hoagie's Deli and, of course, Dyer's Barbecue. April said that it's the loyalty that the community has paid the family that keeps the Dyers building locally.

"The people of Pampa have treated (our family) pretty good," said April. "We stick with it because it works. The people here have been good to us and kept us going, and as long as they'll have us, we'll stick around."

As for Chubby's itself, April said that the family is excited about its latest project and is encouraged by the early word of mouth.

"We're really, really excited," April said. "We think it's going to be something fun, a different place for people in Pampa to go. We're just excited that so far, everybody seems to love it and seems to have very good things to say, and we hope we can keep it up and make everybody proud."

Chubby's is currently open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. The restaurant will start serving breakfast within a couple of weeks, April said, during which operating hours will expand to 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Join us for an academic celebration

In any small town in Texas, the high school's "game day" is an exciting and memorable day. At Pampa High School, the day of competition finds each athlete with a knot in his or her stomach for much of the day, excited talk about the contest fills the down-times of the day at the school, and an air of excitement fills the halls.

The whole community becomes involved in the excitement of and preparation for the game. Parents decorate dressing rooms, bus windows are painted, and the town turns out to support the PHS athletes as they demonstrate their individual talents and team accomplishments.

High school athletic events unite the community. Every citizen becomes involved in the celebration of a successful "big" game. Athletic success brings a sense of pride to a community. We all enjoy supporting a winner!

On Monday evening, Jan. 16 at Pampa High School, our community will have the opportunity to participate in and celebrate the academic success of the students of the schools in the Pampa Independent School District.

From 5:30 until 7:30 that evening, your school children will be in the

County Class

PHS Commons, auditorium, and library and in McNeely Fieldhouse to demonstrate for the community the academic successes that occur in our community's schools each day.

Every school and every curricular area will be demonstrating something that has been learned during the first semester of this year. Every fine arts performing group in our district will amaze you with their talents.

The "Pampa ISD Academic Showcase - Harvester Style" will be an opportunity for the community to celebrate the academic work of its students and schools.

BARRY HAENISCH

You will be filled with a sense of pride as our students show you what they know and how they learned it. You may have to fight the urge to carry some of our young scholars on your shoulders in celebration after the event has ended!

Monday evening, Jan. 16 will be a big evening at Pampa High School. The forecast is for a warm and lovely evening. There will be plenty of parking, but if the parking lots do fill, school buses will be traveling around in the neighborhoods to offer rides to the school and back to the cars.

The event is even scheduled early enough so that all can be home before bedtime. The teachers and students have been planning and preparing to make this evening unforgettable.

You are receiving a special invitation to come and participate in this celebration of learning. It has been planned especially for you. When you leave, you will know that our students are academic winners!

Barry Haenisch is the Superintendent of Pampa Independent School District.

Conservatives torn over defending, opposing Romney

Laurie Kellman
Associated Press - Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) - Torn between reality and their political dreams, leading conservatives are defending Mitt Romney's private sector success and acknowledging that his presidential nomination may be inevitable even as they search for a more palatable candidate.

Romney, meanwhile, is marching steadily through South Carolina, unveiling a prominent endorsement and sending a message to his party: It's time to stop bickering.

Not just yet, some conservative leaders say.

"Honestly, it looks like Gov. Romney's nomination is inevitable," said the Rev. Robert Jeffress, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas and a supporter of Texas Gov. Rick Perry. "Evangelicals, come November, might have to hold their noses and vote for the lesser of two evils. But it's not November yet."

Just over a week before South Carolina's first-in-the-South vote, there are signs that conservatives are struggling with their goal of finding what some would call "the anti-Romney." They appear no more organized in their search for a credible challenger than they were before former Sen. Rick Santorum raised their hopes with his second-place finish in Iowa.

More than 100 conservative leaders, many of them evangelical in their faiths, were set to converge this weekend at the Texas ranch of former state appeals court Judge Paul Pressler to consider their options, if any. One subtext of the discussion could be the terms of any eventual endorsement of the former Massachusetts governor.

Surrogates for each campaign were expected to make presentations and answer questions.

In spite of their reluctance to embrace Romney as the GOP nominee, some conservatives have been drawn into defending him against charges of "culture" capitalism from rivals Newt Gingrich and Perry. Both are potential recipients of conservative backing in the effort to oppose Romney.

Trying to tap into populist sentiment, Gingrich and Perry accused Romney of being a fat-cat venture capitalist during his days running the private equity firm Bain Capital, saying he laid off workers as he restructured companies and filled his own pockets.

That strategy boomeranged. A long list of conservative leaders who have not endorsed Romney are nonetheless sticking up for his success - former Bush adviser Karl Rove, former presidential candidate Mike Huckabee, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the Club for Growth, an array of conservative talk show hosts and even Santorum. Conservative leaders say the attack amounts to an assault on capitalism and the free market system at the heart of their movement.

"It's a sad day in South Carolina and across this country if Republicans are talking against the free market, let me tell you that," said South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley, a tea party star who has endorsed Romney.

"It's just been foolish," said Thomas Donohue, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which does not endorse presidential candidates. "They're not doing anything other than setting up the ad base for their (Democratic) opponents."

On that point, the anti-Romney conservatives agree.

"I've not talked to many conservatives that support these attacks on Romney," said Family Research Council President Tony Perkins. Evangelicals, he pointed out, support a free market with moral restraints and generally wouldn't object to Romney's success at Bain. "I don't think they see that as the real issue. It sounds more like something the Democrats might bring up."

It's a stark turnabout from last week, when speculation crackled through conservative ranks over whether Santorum could capture support from the large chunk of Republicans who aren't behind Romney.

Post-Iowa, things went sour for this group. Romney's second-in-a-row win in New Hampshire on Tuesday solidified his standing atop the GOP field. He was followed in that race not by Santorum but by Texas Rep. Ron Paul and former Utah Gov. Jon Huntsman. Gingrich and Perry also drew only tepid support in the opening contests.

Now, everyone's looking to South Carolina's Jan. 21 primary as potentially the last stand for the anti-Romney crowd.

"He is not anything near conservative enough," said Rock Hill, S.C., resident Carlene Madison, 54, shaking her head and making an unpleasant face.

Polling shows Romney gaining ground in South Carolina. A poll conducted Jan. 4-5 by CNN/Time/ORC International showed Romney with the support of 37 percent of the state's likely Republican primary voters, up from 20 percent a month earlier. He won Iowa with only 25 percent of the vote and New Hampshire with a more robust 38 percent.

Romney also won the endorsement this week of former U.N. Ambassador John Bolton, a favorite of conservatives for his consistent criticism of President Barack Obama's foreign policy.

Romney has a difficult history with South Carolina's Republican voters, who are some of the nation's most conservative. In exit polling from the 2008 Republican presidential contest there, 60 percent of primary voters said they were born-again Christians. Romney, whose Mormon faith is not considered a Christian denomination by some, carried just 11 percent of their votes, fewer than his 15 percent tally overall. Mormons consider themselves Christians.

Conservatives looking to back someone else have a heavy workload in a compressed period of time. Romney's closest rival, Santorum, is 18 points behind in South Carolina, followed by Gingrich, Paul, Perry and Huntsman, according to the CNN/Time/ORC International poll. Six percent are undecided, the survey found.

Jeffress, the Baptist minister, who once called the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints a cult and doesn't consider it a Christian faith, said he is skipping the Texas conference of conservatives but might eventually recommend voting for the former Massachusetts governor.

His rationale: "It's probably better to embrace a non-Christian like Romney, who embraces biblical values like the sanctity of life and the sanctity of marriage, rather than a professing Christian like President Obama, who embraces unbiblical positions."

Alert

persons in the area and information on recovery assistance after an emergency. You can also sign up for alerts in multiple areas in the Panhandle region. Nolte said this could be an advantage for people with family that live nearby in the Panhandle.

"I can register in Dumas, where my parents live, and I can be an additional source of information for my parents," she said.

Previous to the new alert system, Emergency Management Coordinator of the City of Pampa, Fred Courtney, relied on the outdoor warning system, television, radio or land line telephones for emergency notifications to residents.

"It's taken between two or three years to get it all together," he said. "It's a good experiment to do it as a region, rather than through individual jurisdictions."

He said that the system will be used to supplement communication methods like the siren system.

"We're excited about it coming into being, and I hope people with cell-phones register, so we can reach more people when we have an emergency," said Courtney. "Registration in the system is purely voluntary, but we hope people will realize the value of it and sign up."

Both Nolte and Courtney emphasized that the notification system is not intended to be the primary communication method for emergency preparedness, and continue to encourage people to take note of their surroundings and to use traditional media like radio and television.

"It's not meant to be the primary method of emergency awareness, but an additional mode of communication," said Nolte. "Messages will vary from community to community and emergency to emergency."

People can register to receive the alerts at www.R2BeReady.com.

Burglaries

"We need to get back to the days where we know our neighbors," she added. "If you know your neighbors are going out of town, watch their house."

McCullar urges anyone with information about a burglary to contact Crime Stoppers, which has the added benefit of being anonymous.

"When a crime is committed, someone usually knows something, so if you know something and are scared of retaliation, call Crime Stoppers," she said.

Tips can be made to Pampa/Gray County Crime Stoppers by phone at 806-669-2222, online at www.pgcestips.com, or by texting the tip to 274637.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, "Cole," and I have been together since college — several years now. We have a loving relationship, but the problem is distance. My job sometimes requires me to take short-term (two- to five-month) contracts in other cities and overseas.

Even though it is difficult to be apart, I handle long-distance relationships relatively well while Cole does not. This began in college when I studied abroad for a semester. Cole tries to be supportive and wants me to be successful, but he takes it personally when I have to leave. For me, it's just about a job, but Cole doesn't see it that way.

I would support Cole wherever and in whatever he needed. Although it would be ideal to be together all the time, I realize that sometimes it isn't possible. Am I being selfish, or do we simply need different things out of a relationship? — GLOBE-TROTTER IN DES MOINES

DEAR GLOBE-TROTTER: Are you being selfish, or is Cole being selfish? Are you willing to give up a career you have prepared for and work in so that he will no longer suffer separation anxiety? While your relationship is a loving one, the two of you have serious differences, and you must rationally decide which is more important to you. After that, everything will fall into place.

DEAR ABBY: My wife died nine years ago after a long illness. We have a son, a daughter and seven grandchildren.

I met "Lucille" two years ago at a basketball game that involved both our grandsons. Slowly, we began dating. Lucille has been a widow for many years and has five children. We are now engaged and planning a wedding for about 60 people after Lucille retires next year. We want to include our families in the ceremony.

Lucille's two eldest sons plan to give her away. Two of her granddaughters will be flower girls. I asked my son to be my best man and he refused. He said he is happy for us and will attend the wedding, but he prefers not to stand up for me. He feels it would be disloyal to his mother's memory. He is adamant.

I never imagined my son would act this way. I didn't mean to offend him. I'm not trying to replace his mother. We just want to bring both families together. Abby, your opinion, please. — WELL-MEANING DAD ON THE EAST COAST

DEAR DAD: It's a shame that your son feels unable to support you as you enter this new phase of your life. If he is offended at the idea that after nine years you would want to remarry, the problem is his. Do not make it yours. I'm sure your late wife would want your life to be fulfilling. Ask your daughter or a close friend to stand up with you and let nothing spoil your day. You and Lucille have earned your happiness. Bless you both.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me the proper etiquette for gift-giving. My in-laws often leave the price tags on gifts, especially if the gift was expensive. I believe price tags should be removed. Shouldn't a gift come from the heart and not be a monetary statement? — OFFENDED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR OFFENDED: Yes, it should. Leaving a price tag on a gift implies that the giver is also "giving" the recipient a burden of gratitude. And the burden of gratitude can weigh so heavily that it diminishes the pleasure of receiving a gift.

Weekly US oil, gas rig count drops 20 to 1,987

HOUSTON (AP) - The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. is down by 20 this week to 1,987.

The Houston oilfield services company Baker Hughes Inc. reported Friday that 1,191 rigs were exploring for oil and 791 for natural gas. Five were listed as miscellaneous. A year ago this week Baker Hughes reported 1,700 active rigs, 187 fewer than this year.

Of the major oil- and gas-producing states, Pennsylvania gained three rigs and Alaska gained two. Arkansas and North Dakota picked up one apiece.

Wyoming lost eight rigs, Colorado lost six and Oklahoma dropped four. Louisiana, Texas and West Virginia dropped two apiece, and New Mexico lost one. California was unchanged.

The rig count peaked at 4,530 in 1981. A low of 488 was recorded in 1999.

FDA unveils user fee program for generic drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food and Drug Administration would collect hundreds of millions of dollars in new fees from pharmaceutical companies to help speed up the review of generic drugs, under an agreement with industry released by the agency.

The FDA has used industry fees to hire extra staff to review regular prescription drugs since 1992. The proposal unveiled Friday would extend that approach to generic drugs, which have long had slower review times.

Whereas most new drugs are reviewed in 10 months, the typical review time for a generic drug is 30 months. The FDA has a backlog of 2,500 generic drug applications awaiting review.

The FDA proposes collecting $299 million in fees annually to hire additional generic drug reviewers. The proposal must be approved by Congress to become law.

Lady Harvesters struggle to hit early, fall to Perryton

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

PERRYTON — After hitting their rival, Borger, with 73, the Pampa Lady Harvesters were hoping their offensive success would continue against the defending district champion Perryton Rangerettes.

Kuhn

Unfortunately, the Lady Harvesters struggled offensively and a strong defensive effort wasn't enough in a 42-34 loss Friday in Perryton.

"We weren't hitting much," senior guard Kirsten Kuhn said. "We had to pick it up on defense."

Pampa forced five Perryton turnovers in the first quarter but wasn't able to take advantage. The Lady Harvesters committed three turnovers and missed a couple of jumpers. Head coach Gene Valentine said his team made some of the shots in previous games.

Valentine

"I don't know if it was adrenaline," Valentine said. "We missed some easy shots."

The Rangerettes (17-5, 2-0) kept Pampa's fast break in check as senior Caitlin Sieck was the only one who scored. Kuhn said that's something the Lady Harvesters rely on.

"We got to find something to help us get closer and set up our offense," Kuhn said.

Pampa trailed 16-7 after the first quarter and 22-15 at halftime. In the second half, the Lady Harvesters converted. Senior Delaney Clendening hit a three and Sieck followed with two threes. Sieck's second three gave Pampa its only lead of the game at 26-24 midway through the third. Kuhn said they created openings on the offensive end.

Troxell

"We helped each other get open," Kuhn said. "We relied on a lot of ball movement to help make openings."

Senior Kailyn Troxell said the team played aggressively on defense.

"Our defense held it together," Troxell said. "We stepped it up a lot."

Perryton quickly retook the lead as Shelby Skaggs hit a two and was fouled. Skaggs converted the free throw and the Rangerettes never relinquished the lead, outscoring the Lady Harvesters 10-2 the rest of the quarter.

Pampa was unable to rally in the fourth, as it didn't score until 1:28 left in the game. Valentine said he was proud of his team's effort adding that mistakes late hurt them.

"We made a couple mental mistakes with a double dribble and turnover," Valentine said. "They went down and hit a three and we were down by two. I told (my team) if it continues that intensity, we will be fine. If we get them at our place it will be a different ball game."

Clendening and Sieck led the Lady Harvesters in scoring with 10 each. Sydney Walton and Lacey Herbert led the Rangerettes with 11 apiece.

Former Pampa resident Smith to play in Australia

JULIE SMITH
Special to The Pampa News

Panhandle Panther senior, Shane Smith, has played football for years, but this summer he will be experiencing the gridiron Down Under. Shane, a running back for the Panthers, has been selected to represent not only his community and state, but his country on the North Central Conference Football Team in Australia at the 24th Annual Down Under Bowl. His team will battle teams from other states as well as New Zealand and Australia. Shane is excited to be a part of this once-in-a-lifetime experience, he said.

In order to achieve this goal of competing internationally, Shane is looking for sponsors to make donations towards the $4,500.00 cost of competing Down Under.

A major source of funds comes through voluntary contributions of family, friends, and business sponsors. Donations can be made online at www.downundersports.com or by contacting Shane's parents, Shawn and Julie Smith at 806-898-1884 or 806-537-4424. Any and all contributions will be greatly appreciated and will help make this great opportunity a reality for Shane, said Julie.

Shane thanked his family, his coaches he has played under throughout his football career that have taught him the meaning of hard work and dedication, the fans that have always stood by and cheered him and his teammates on game after game, and his fellow teammates who have worked hard right by his side and who have made many extraordinary memories and long lasting friendships.

The Down Under Bowl is the largest American Football Championship Tournament held outside the United States. The Down Under Sports program not only focuses on football, but has competitions in basketball, track and field, volleyball, cheer and dance, wrestling, and cross country. Its goal is to continue to provide athletes who excel in their sport the opportunity to experience the culture, beauty and grandeur of Australia all within the framework of spirited and intense competition.

Texans, Ravens make a run at glory in the playoffs

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Ravens and Houston Texans are quite content to run against the grain in the pass-happy NFL.

Baltimore relies heavily on running back Ray Rice and a stingy defensive unit led by Pro Bowl linebackers Ray Lewis and Terrell Suggs. Houston depends on the rushing prowess of Arian Foster and the NFL's second-ranked defense.

Neither team intends to alter that approach in Sunday's playoff game, so the one that stays true to form the longest likely will advance to the AFC championship game.

The Ravens (12-4) respect rookie quarterback T.J. Yates and the breakaway speed of wide receiver Andre Johnson, but they figure their best chance to win is to bottle up Foster and force the Texans to throw.

"The objective, first and foremost, is to stop the run. You can't let him get going," Baltimore defensive end Cory Redding said. "And then No. 2, get guys on No. 80 (Johnson). Then No. 3, get after Yates, period. You have to stop the run, control the pass and get after the passer. That's the formula for winning every single week. That's been our formula from Week One, and it hasn't changed."

When Houston (11-6) came to Baltimore on Oct. 6, the Ravens limited Foster to 49 yards on 15 carries in a 29-14 victory. But Foster rambled for 153 yards and two touchdowns in a 31-10 rout of Cincinnati last week, leaving little mystery as to what the Texans' game plan will be on Sunday.

"We've got to see how the game goes, but I know that we need to stay committed to running the football," coach Gary Kubiak said. "Hey, we're going to have to run the ball effectively to win this football game. We know that. We know it will be a difficult task, but we're preparing to go do it."

The Ravens have never allowed a runner to amass 100 yards on the ground in a playoff game, and they have every intention of keeping that mark intact.

"Our focus is, No. 1, we've got to stop the run," defensive coordinator Chuck Pagano said. "Their whole idea is to get third-and-manageable. There are a lot of third-and-2s, 3s, 4s and 5s, and then it puts the pressure back on the defense. You're a little bit leery of coming after them in those situations because of the run and the pass. So if we do a great job on first and second down and get them in third-and-long, we'll be able to dial some things up."

The last thing Yates needs is to be dropping back in the pocket with the Baltimore defense looking for him to throw.

"They've seen it all. They've been through it all," Yates said. "We know that they're going to do things to try to trick us and kind of catch us off guard, so we have to do things to counteract that. We've been doing different things all week long to give us the best chance against an experienced defense like that."

The most effective way to blunt a pass rush is to have an efficient running game. That's where Foster comes in.

"We know that they're going to run the ball," Lewis said. "We know they're very good at running the ball."

So is Baltimore, which plans to feed the Texans plenty of Rice, a double-threat who ran for 1,364 yards and had a team-leading 76 catches for 704 yards. In that earlier Ravens victory over Houston, Rice ran for 101 yards and had five receptions for 60 yards.

Let those other teams throw the ball all they want. Baltimore has plenty of faith in quarterback Joe Flacco, but their main priority is getting the ball in Rice's hands — one way or another.

"It's been a pass-friendly league. Let's just put it out there: There's been a lot of passing going on," Rice said. "There wasn't a 2,000-yard rusher this year; there wasn't even an 1,800-yard rusher this year. But, if you look at where I put myself in the situation, I gave you 13 (hundred yards rushing) and seven (hundred yards receiving) to put myself at 2,000 yards. It might not be 2,000 yards rushing, but me just doing my job this Sunday, whether it's rushing or receiving, I think will be good enough."

daily horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Jan. 16, 2012:

You could be overly serious and stern, especially within your community and professional world. Others often back off when you make a statement. Within your circle of friends you are serious yet caring. Others don't see you as an authority figure but as a deeply caring friend. You will have an opportunity to meet someone quite different this year who could be instrumental in transforming your beliefs. If you are single, this person could become more than a friend. If you are attached, you and your significant other will gain through getting to know each other better. SCORPIO comes through in a crunch.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ The balance of power is clearly not in your ballpark. Allow others to play slagger. When all is said and done, they will be more willing to defer. A new beginning becomes possible if you relax. Tonight: Watch what comes forward.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ You know when to throw up your hands and say, "I give up!" You are not actually giving up but making a decision not to interfere as much. Let others discover without your input what works. After this experience, they will be more amenable. Tonight: Just don't be alone.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★ You would appreciate an easy, relaxed pace. But what you get could be something quite different. In the morning, funnel some of your energy into a project. Nothing will perk you up as much as success. Tonight: Go after what you want.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Your playfulness could be tamed if need be. Funnel some of your imagination into your work or a project. You could be surprised by how much you get done. A meeting reveals your true friends and supporters. Tonight: Let the good times happen.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You know more than you would like to. Listen more carefully to what others share. You might want to rethink your choices, especially those concerning a close friend. Can you accept everything that you are hearing? Know what you want. Tonight: Happy at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ If you want a change of pace, there is no time like the present. Your friendly manner and fun ways take you far. Change the conversation. Someone offers a new idea that could force you to rethink. Tonight: Find your pals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You are a bundle of energy in the morning. In the p.m., you start slowing down. Be sensitive to not only your financial situation but another person's as well. You can only control yourself. Tonight: First balance your budget, then decide.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ You might want to brainstorm before making a financial decision. You might not completely understand another person's expectation, but you will find out. It will make you smile once you two see eye to eye. Tonight: The only answer is yes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★ Use the morning hours to follow through on a project that is near to your heart. Everything moves slowly during this time. By the afternoon, you pull back and do some long-overdue thinking. Tonight: Wherever you are, you would prefer some privacy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ You know what you want and what works for you. In case you attempt to do something differently, make sure you have the support of a higher-up. If you do, the period from this afternoon on could be unusually successful. Tonight: Enjoying yourself wherever, doing whatever!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★ Others expect you to carry even more responsibility. You could feel more overwhelmed than you have in a while. Listen very carefully to news that is forthcoming. You might want to check into what is fact and what is fiction. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ Listen to what a partner shares. You need to make a decision, and perhaps let go of personal priorities for now. By taking an overview, you'll come out ahead and be very happy. Touch base with a respected friend who serves as a source of information. Tonight: Still pondering? Relax your mind to good music or a game of Scrabble.

sunday horoscope

Note: Bigar's Stars is based on the degree of your sun at birth. The sign name is simply a label astrologers put on a set of degrees for convenience. For best results, readers should refer to the dates following each sign.

A baby born today, Jan. 15, 2012, has the Sun in Capricorn and the Moon in Libra.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Jan. 15, 2012:

This year you could be more keyed in to your career and public image than you have been in a while. Others often don't understand your motives, as you keep a lot close to the chest. It is clear that you have unusual leadership qualities. If you are single, a relationship could form out of a misunderstanding. You will need to juggle a lot of demands if you are attached. If you involve your significant other in some of your outside commitments, your bond will warm up. LIBRA understands much more than you think.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

As a proactive sign, you often assume the lead. Stop for the day. Let others make the first move. At the same time, by allowing them to be more dominant, you learn more about the individual in question. If you're confused by someone's message, ask questions. Tonight: Continue today's theme.

This Week: Togetherness is the theme; however, on the other person's terms. You just might not cooperate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

You might have had a project on the back burner. Now is the time to pull it out and get going. You might be surprised by how much you complete. Don't let a misunderstanding become anything more. All quarreling is about creating distance. Tonight: Time to relax.

This Week: Others prove to be challenging. You can deal with them, but what do you want as the end result?

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Your creativity opens up. Should a disagreement occur, pull out of the immediate, give up being right or wrong, and let go. You don't want to make more of this sniveling than need be. Tap into your creativity for answers. Tonight: Let your hair down.

This Week: Put your nose to the grindstone and work. Only mid-Thursday might the pace lighten up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Stay close to home and honor how you feel. Don't let a talk take on connotations that really aren't there. Involve yourself in a favorite activity or two. Listen to feedback. Tonight: Anchor in.

This Week: Focus on an issue, and you'll come up with a solution quickly. Dig into work midweek.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Initialize talks rather than speculate. Honestly understand where others are coming from. Don't be surprised if there is a misunderstanding between you and another person. Don't jump the gun trying to resolve a problem. Tonight: Happily hanging out.

This Week: You enter a period in which you want to spend more time at home. Only Thursday do you feel like spreading your wings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You could be slightly overwhelmed by everything that is happening in your immediate circle. There is no reason to put up with a disagreeable situation. However, others could be surprised by your sudden reaction. Your creativity blooms if you let go and relax. Tonight: Live for the moment.

This Week: Open up to new ideas. Brainstorm and communicate. You'll discover just how many possibilities exist for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

You have it in your power to put the kibosh on any problem that comes your way. Once you straighten out a misunderstanding, everything flows as you would like it to. Wherever you go, the people you run into sincerely enjoy your company. Tonight: Act as if there is no tomorrow.

This Week: Curb the green-eyed monster that lies within. Use self-discipline with spending. Thursday, your demons settle down.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Taking a day just for yourself isn't a sin. Everyone needs his or her private time. A misunderstanding isn't all that serious. You might be making mountains out of molehills. Think positively, and look toward resolution. Tonight: Do your thing.

This Week: Monday you hit your most powerful period this month. You are on a roll, as it lasts through Thursday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Friends surround you. There is no reason for you to be upset or angry. Just talk through a misunderstanding. Why ruin a close to spectacular day? The only thing that is mandatory is not to isolate yourself. When the fun starts, it will be difficult to end. Tonight: Going to the wee hours.

This Week: You could feel off until Thursday. This, too, will pass, as you will see.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

You might not be aware of how others admire you. The way you handle a confusing if not difficult matter demonstrates your innate instincts. Bring family together for a fun game or movie. Tonight: Enjoying the people you are with.

This Week: Move on a vital issue Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and/or a good part of Thursday.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Listen to the whisperings around you. Your ability to get past an insecurity emerges. Be willing to let go of the trivial issues of life and enjoy the moment and those around you. Someone at a distance shares his or her good feelings. Tonight: Choose a new spot for dinner.

This Week: Assume the lead early on. The sooner you do, the better the results.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

A partner chooses to be much closer and more open after you ride through a misunderstanding. Recognize that neither of you are wrong and you simply have different ways of thinking. Benefit from rather than criticize the differences. Tonight: Go with a loved one's choice.

This Week: Allow your mind to be your best resource. Understanding — intellectually and emotionally — comes forward.
