BANDING TOGETHER FOR SGT. GASS

Several community members gathered at the north end of City Hall on Tuesday evening and held a prayer vigil for officer Houston Gass and all parties involved in Tuesday's standoff.

The Pampa community joined together after Tuesday morning's officer-involved shooting, which injured Pampa police officer Patrol Sergeant Houston Gass. A wealth of prayer and support for Gass and his family began Tuesday afternoon with a Facebook event started by the non-profit organization 53 Hours, which has reached a national level of awareness, encouraging citizens to keep a porch light on in support of police. A blue light bulb is specified in the post, but any color will suffice as local stores quickly ran out of blue bulbs after an overwhelming increase in demand Tuesday evening for the event. The name of the event was later changed to "Lights On for Officer Houston Gass" after his name was officially released to the public Tuesday evening. As of early Wednesday afternoon, the event had more than 9,200 attendees and dozens of pictures posted of lights left on for officer Gass. Mary Ann of Top of Texas Ice stated that the store has ordered 1,000 blue bulbs, so they will have some available. They do ask for a one dollar donation for each blue light bulb. For every light bulb donation they receive, the company will match it, and donations will go to Sergeant Gass and his family. A number of local businesses also started collecting donations for the injured officer Tuesday afternoon, and by Tuesday night, there were at least two accounts set up to do the same. In addition to the Facebook event and business donation collections, a prayer vigil was held on the north end of City Hall Tuesday evening. Members of the community

The City of Pampa, on behalf of the Pampa Police Department would like to express our heartfelt gratitude for the many prayers and words of encouragement that have been given for Patrol Sergeant, Houston Gass, his family and members of our police department. Those words of encouragement have meant so much to all of us during this difficult time. A group of people from our community came to City Hall last night and prayed on the front steps of the Police Department. There is also a social media movement, Lights On for Sergeant Houston Gass, that many across the United Way at 65 percent

STAFF REPORT

The Pampa United Way is at 65 percent of their goal for their 2014 campaign. The goal for the Pampa United Way is to raise $350,000 and they are currently at $224,000. Those interested in donating can call, mail or even visit the Pampa United Way office. Not only does 99 cents of every dollar stay in the Pampa or Gray County area, but those donating can specify which of the 17 agencies they wish for the donation to go to. "If they have a preference on a donation no matter how large or small they can donate it to a particular agency," Gregory said. "The agencies are the ones that will suffer if we don't meet our goal cause they won't get the money they were allocated." Gregory does appreciate the Pampa community and reminds them that every dollar helps. "We appreciate the communities support and help," Gregory said. "Every dollar helps, it doesn't have to be a big donation." Donations can be made either by mail to P.O. Box 2076, Pampa, Texas 79065, by phone at 806-669-1001 or by visiting their office at 200 N. Ballard St. in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Thornberry takes reins of Armed Services Committee

SUBMITTED BY THE OFFICE OF MAC THORNBERRY
 WASHINGTON, DC - Area Congressman Mac Thornberry officially became the Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee this afternoon. He is the first Texan--Republican or Democrat--to serve in this position. The Armed Services Committee has a responsibility to oversee the Pentagon, all military services, and all Department of Defense agencies. Each year it writes a defense authorization bill, which authorizes military spending and sets the policies for the Pentagon to follow. "I am only able to do this job because of the support from my family, people at home, and others who have encouraged me and prayed for me. For these things, I am grateful," said Thornberry. "Serving as the Chairman of this committee is a great privilege and a tremendous responsibility. And now I am ready to get to work." The 13th Congressional District of Texas has a strong

nity gathered and braved the cold for an hour as they prayed underneath the flag pole for officer Gass and all others involved in Tuesday's standoff.

If you are interested in showing your support by making a monetary donation, here are the current ways to go about doing so:

- Horst Woodworking, located at 516 East Tyng Avenue, has a jar on the counter inside to accept donations for Officer Houston Gass and his family. The Horst family has also offered to match the first $1,000 in donations. Upon stating this, business owner John Horst challenged each and every business in Pampa to match his offer. Several other local business owners, including Meredith Horton Bagwell of U-Top-It and One Stop Flooring, Kevin Mond of The Cottage Collection and Brenda Guess of Guess Insurance, among others, saw the post that was shared onto The Pampa News' Facebook page accepting the challenge.

• There is also a Go Fund Me page set up for Houston and Jessica Gass. By 12:30 p.m. Wednesday afternoon, which was within the first 15 hours the site was up, 101 donations had been made amounting to $5,900. You can find the page and donate, publicly or anonymously, to the cause at <http://www.gofundme.com/jt2a08>.

Sara Belia Martinez

Sara Belia Martinez, 76, of Pampa, died Jan. 6, 2015.

Vigil Services will be at 6 p.m. Friday, Jan. 9, 2015, at Carmichael-Whatley Colonial Chapel and the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass will be celebrated at 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 10, 2015, at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church with Rev. Christopher Schwind, associate pastor, officiating. Burial will follow in Fairview Cemetery, under the direction of Carmichael-Whatley Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Martinez was born on Dec. 17, 1938 in Brackettville, Texas. In 1957, she married Demetrio Martinez, Jr. and moved to Pampa. The couple was blessed with three beautiful children. She was a bold entrepreneur. At a time when few businesses were owned by women or minorities, she opened her own drapery business (Sara's Draperies and Interior Design) in Pampa. She was the author of "The Art of Home Décor," a weekly advice column featured in The Pampa News, and she hosted a local Spanish-speaking radio show featuring Latin music by request. She was the first Hispanic female radio DJ personality in Pampa. She was not afraid to try her hand at new things and take risks.

In her later years, Sara worked at Genesis House in Pampa, a low cost home care facility for troubled teens who were receiving treatment for drug and alcohol rehabilitation and other life skill therapies and education.

Sara had a passion for rehabilitating properties. Her last property was a century-old home which was her dream home in Pampa. In her spare time she absolutely loved the thrill of haggling for interesting finds she would discover at garage sales.

She was a member of St. Vincent de Paul Parish in Pampa for more than 50 years. In her work and by her faith she touched many lives.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Simón Martinez and Manuelita Martinez; her husband Demetrio Martinez, Jr., her three brothers, Jose K. Martinez, and Lupe Martinez, of Pampa, Texas and Simon Martinez Jr, of Tulia, Texas.

Survivors include two daughters, Maria Rios and husband Joe Rios of Amarillo, and Cynthia Smith and husband Mackal Smith of St. Louis, Mo.; one son, Demetrio Martinez III and wife Dana Martinez of Amarillo; one sister, Alice Hernandez of Plainview; and one brother, Juan Martinez of Hart; 11 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

Spain increases terror threat level after France attack

MADRID (AP) — Spain raised its terror threat level Wednesday following the attack on a French satirical newspaper that killed 12 people.

But Interior Minister Jorge Fernandez Diaz said there was no intelligence indicating the nation faces imminent danger more than a decade after it was hit with Europe's worst Islamic terror attack.

The threat level was raised from Level 2 to Level 3, with four being the highest on the scale. The move means that authorities will increase security measures at key infrastructure installations, but Fernandez Diaz didn't specify which ones.

Spain last used the terror Level 3 measure in June for nine days when the country prepared for the coronation of King Felipe VI.

About 200 people in Madrid gathered outside the French Embassy Wednesday night to voice their outrage about the attack on the Charlie Hebdo newspaper. Some held pens aloft in support of the newspaper's satirical cartoon-like drawings while others chanted "Freedom of Expression" and "We Are

All Charlie."

A similar rally with about 200 people was held outside the French Consulate in Barcelona.

In March 2004, bombs on rush-hour trains killed 191 people in Madrid in Europe's most deadly Islamic terror attack.

On Wednesday, the offices of the leading El Pais newspaper were evacuated after the France attack when a person left a package that security personnel deemed suspicious.

Journalists spent about an hour outside the building until police determined the package containing a bottle connected to a cable wasn't explosive.

The Madrid Press Association representing journalists in the Spanish capital condemned the Charlie Hebdo shootings as a "blatant attack on freedom of the press intended at fostering a climate of journalistic fear and self-censorship."

The association added in its statement: "Killing the messenger, in this case journalists, has always been the method of intolerant and fanatical people to restrict freedom of expression and to restrict citizens' rights to information."

Tales from the Final Frontier

My 2015 nerd to-do list.

Happy belated New Year to everyone! As many people are making their New Year's Resolutions which include everything from eating better, losing weight and cutting/dropping the vices, I tend to make to-do list for myself.

JOHN LEE

So I have thrown together a little nerd to-do list for myself that perhaps I can finish by the time the ball drops in 2016.

• Read the Tolkien books — It doesn't appear that George R.R. Martin will be finishing "Winds of Winter" anytime soon, so I need something to occupy my time while I wait. Now a lot of fellow nerds are appalled that not only I haven't read "The Hobbit" and "The Lord of the Rings" series, but I also found the first two in "The Lord of the Rings" to be boring. I didn't even bother watching "Return of the King" or any of the recent "The Hobbit" movies. Maybe I will find some appreciation for the movies if I actually read the books.

• Finish "The Legend of Zelda: Skyward Sword" — I am the worst procrastinator when it comes to the Wii and any RPG's that come out on it. Growing up with standard controllers like those on Xbox and Playstation consoles, playing games on the Wii that aren't friendly to their stick controller generally aren't enjoyable to me. Thus the case with "The Legend of Zelda: Skyward Sword." I was a trooper and actually played probably about 80 percent of the game, if not more, before getting intrigued with another game and setting this game back on the shelf. I have been working on this game off and on since it's release in November of 2011. Maybe I can take the final hour and half that probably remains on that game and finish it to put another notch in my Legend of Zelda belt.

• Get caught up on many of my comics — I was an avid comic buyer in late 2013. I was probably buying 10-12 different series monthly which got to be pretty costly. In early 2014, with my lovely wife three months with child, my priorities both financially and personally needed to shift in order to prepare for my first-born son. Since the dust has settled, as far as pregnancy and delivery is concerned, I have tried to catch up on some of the series, but this time limiting myself to a max of five series. I have gotten caught up on Batman, now working on Green Lantern. Maybe by the end of 2015 I will be completely caught up on my chosen series.

• Finish 'Arrow' and watch 'Flash' — If there is one thing the network, "CW," seems to do well it's with it's superhero franchises. I have recently started watching "Arrow" and am enjoying it quite a bit. I have also heard that "Flash" is a solid show so I guess I need to watch it too.

What kind of nerd resolutions do you have in mind? Needing to catch up on a book series? Maybe watch a show or movie that you haven't seen yet?

GOP, stop making excuses for Scalise

The unsavory story of Rep. Steve Scalise, Louisiana Republican and House majority whip, should serve as a clear warning to the leaders of the Republican Party. They need to ask why their message attracts some of the most despicable elements in American society — and why they can't effectively reject those extremists.

Despite many fervent vows of "outreach" and "inclusion" by top Republicans, they keep making the wrong choices. Both House Speaker John Boehner and House Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy have expressed their confidence in Scalise despite his "mistake." And the excuses they now offer on behalf of the man chosen for the third-highest position in their congressional caucus are rapidly eroding.

Twelve years ago, Scalise was merely a state legislator with ambitions to run for Congress. In May 2002, he accepted an invitation to speak before the national conference of the European-American Unity and Rights Organization at a hotel in Metairie, Louisiana. EURO is a racist and anti-Semitic hate group founded by the notorious neo-Nazi David Duke.

None of those facts is disputed. But since local blogger Lamar White Jr. exposed Scalise's participation in the conference, Scalise has insisted that he was unaware of EURO's ideology and its connection with Duke, a former grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan. He blames the incident on his staff and claims he only showed up to talk about the state budget.

As additional facts emerge, however, Scalise's version is increasingly implausible. Certainly, he must have known about Duke, a former state representative in the same district who had campaigned for governor and Senator in a glare of international publicity. But if Scalise somehow didn't notice all the neo-Nazis, members of the KKK and other white supremacists present at the EURO conference, they surely noticed him. When he ran for Congress a few years later, one of them wrote:

"It was just announced that Rep. Steve Scalise, R-Jefferson will enter the race in the 1st Congressional District. Those that attended the EURO conference ... will recall that Scalise was a speaker, offering his support for issues that are of concern to us.

"I suppose if Duke does not make the election for whatever reason, this gentleman would be a good alternative."

Evidently, Scalise's legislative record was worthy of such approval. He was one of only six Louisiana legislators to vote against establishing Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday as a state holiday.

Over the past few days, Duke himself has spoken out repeatedly to defend Scalise as a "nice guy" and "family man," noting that they share what he calls "conservative" values. Although the veteran Klan leader says he doesn't know Scalise well, he noted that one of his top aides has known the congressman for years.

"Scalise would communicate a lot with my campaign manager, Kenny Knight," Duke told The Washington Post. "That is why he was invited (to the EURO conference) and why he would come. Kenny knew Scalise; Scalise knew Kenny. They were friendly."

So friendly that Knight personally donated $1,000 to Scalise's congressional re-election war chest in 2008, six years after the EURO meeting, according to Federal Election Commission records. Today Knight is president of the southern Louisiana chapter of the Council of Conservative Citizens, the racist organization that succeeded the segregationist White Citizens Councils. It was a series of connections with the CCC — including a speaking engagement — that ultimately forced Trent Lott, the Mississippi Republican and Senate majority leader, to resign his post in 2002.

Before Lott stepped down, he briefly offered some of the same excuses that Scalise deploys now. Lott's defenders rolled out some of the same distractions, blustering about the 1940s Klan associations of the late Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., or various stupid remarks by Al Sharpton. Yet even Karl Rove quickly realized that Lott had to go.

It is a different Republican Party now, more reactionary and revanchist, dominated by tea party nativism and Confederate nostalgia. For more thoughtful conservatives, this is an opportunity to drop the partisan debating points and confront the troubling truth exposed by the Scalise scandal. What matters is the persistent codding of bigotry — and the damage that may inflict on their future and ours.

Bereavement and Healing New beginnings

The holidays are over and everyone has gone home. If you have lost a loved one during the holidays, you may suddenly find yourself all alone. Friends and family are now busy getting back into their usual routines of school, work and children, yet your usual routine has been forever changed.

TRACY LEE

Sadness after the holidays is not unusual. Many people are disappointed with the gifts they did or did not receive, they are sad to leave family that they love and miss throughout the year and many people are just sad to return to their miserable lives. Sadness in and of itself is not dangerous, but when it turns from sadness to depression, danger lurks and abounds.

Survivors who have lost a loved one during the holidays are at an incredible disadvantage. Life has forever changed for them and in particular, so too has the holiday. For the rest of the survivor's life, this particular holiday will always be a reminder of their loss. In addition, all of those around the survivor will be in the thralls of holiday spirit, yet the survivor will be estranged from the gaiety. This exuberance and joy will inevitably weigh heavily upon the survivor, making recovery just that much more difficult.

If you have lost someone this holiday season, do not worry about the holidays next year. Focus on recovery now. You have a full year before you will experience the holidays again, so work on feeling better now, in the present. If you feel you need help, seek out a support group, your clergy, or if necessary, a professional counselor. Life is going to be difficult for quite some time, but eventually, with determination and hard work, it will become bearable again.

My name is Tracy Renee Lee. I am a funeral director, author and professional speaker. I write books and weekly bereavement articles related to understanding and coping with grief. Church gets the boot by county government

My wife, Gena, and I discovered this past week that in her small mountain hometown in Plumas County, California, our pastor's church was kicked out of the county building it had been renting for Sunday church services. What's disgusting is that the eviction is engulfed in political moves to stop the church from meeting there.

CHUCK NORRIS

Mt. Lassen Community Church started last Easter, spearheaded by some long-term residents and respected community leaders, including teachers, law enforcement, principals, business owners, community activists and our pastor and former chaplain.

They rented a county-run and taxpayer-funded public recreational building, built in 2012, to meet in for a few hours every Sunday morning. After two months of meeting there, they were blessed by being given (free and clear) an old closed-down theater building. But instead of initially moving the church services there, those church leaders, who loved their community and raised their families in the vicinity, decided to gift the old theater building's primary use back to the community. They created a separate nonprofit theater (Mt. Lassen Theatre) to help bolster the small town's flailing economy and encourage community involvement among youths and other local businesses.

It was a perfect plan to help small-town America until the county government decided to prioritize its own projects over the people's needs.

Instead of supporting the local constituency and these great nonprofit endeavors, the county government was bent on renovating a kitchen in the recreational building that was built in 2012, which would allegedly take several months to finish and shut down the entire building. Then the kitchen renovation grew into a few more non-sensational projects, which would take several more months to complete. And the church leaders were given a 30-day eviction notice (effective Jan. 1) with no contract to return.

Of course, the county's eviction notice "provided another option" (at least for the county) by offering the church a 70-year-old badly insulated, dilapidated community hall across town in that snow country for the same rental price as the new recreational building. And there was one more major problem and catch: There was nowhere for the church's nursery and kids class to meet in that commu-

Norris

community hall besides an old kitchen area full of items that could risk child safety.

The church members had no other choice, if for no other reason than their concern for the babies and children. They were forced to occupy the theater building and postpone its complete renovation and theater opening because of the immediacy of their disposal during a busy Christmas season and because there was no other building in their small town suitable for the new and growing church, its nursery and its classrooms.

(On WorldNetDaily, which has an expanded version of this column, you can read roughly a dozen bullet points about several additional spurious county actions taken to politicize and soft-pedal the church's eviction from the county's recreational building, starting before the church even met in it. Go to <http://www.wnd.com/2015/01/church-gets-the-boot-by-county-government>.)

I guess I've just become too conspiratorial in an age of White House cover-ups, but something doesn't smell right in the county zoo cage!

As I wrote in my New York Times best-seller "Black Belt Patriotism," our Founding Fathers created the First Amendment to prohibit government from infringing upon our religious practices and free speech. What doesn't the county government get about the fact that its duty is not to prohibit "the free exercise" of religion or "the right of the people peaceably to assemble"?

Case in point, here's what Thomas Jefferson (the so-labeled chief of all separatists) and James Madison ("the Father of the Constitution") practiced and had to say about churches meeting in civic buildings. Warning: For those who don't know, the following information might leave you in shock over where Jefferson and Madison (and other founders) met for church services throughout their presidencies.

The Library of Congress website states the following (italics mine):

"It is no exaggeration to say that on Sundays in Washington during the administrations of Thomas Jefferson (1801-1809) and of James Madison (1809-1817) the state became the church. Within a year of his inauguration, Jef-erson began attending church services in the House of Representatives. Madison followed Jefferson's example, although unlike Jefferson, who rode on horseback to church in the Capitol, Madison came in a coach and four. Worship services in the House — a practice that continued until after the Civil War — were acceptable to Jefferson because they were nondiscriminatory and voluntary. Preachers of every Protestant denomination appeared. (Catholic priests began officiating in 1826.) As early as January 1806 a female evangelist, Dorothy Ripley, delivered a camp meeting-style exhortation in the House to Jefferson, Vice President Aaron Burr, and a 'crowded audience.' Throughout his administration Jefferson permitted church services in executive branch buildings. The Gospel was also preached in the Supreme Court chambers.

"Jefferson's actions may seem surprising because his attitude toward the relation between religion and government is usually thought to have been embodied in his recommendation that there exist 'a wall of separation between church and state.' In that statement, Jefferson was apparently declaring his opposition, as Madison had done in introducing the Bill of Rights, to a 'national' religion. In attending church services on public property, Jefferson and Madison consciously and deliberately were offering symbolic support to religion as a prop for republican government."

So much for separation of church and state!

The following is the contact information for those officials in my wife's home county:

—Supervisor Sherrie Thrall, sherrie.thrall@almanorpost.com, 520 Main St., Room 309, Quincy, CA 95971, 530-283-6170.

—Dony Sawchuk, director of facilities/airport, donyawsawchuk@countyofplumas.com, 198 Andy's Way, Quincy, CA 95971, 530-283-6299.

Please also write those local church and theater community leaders back in my wife's hometown, and consider helping them raise the funds to find a new place to meet and restore that old theater for their community's benefit. Maybe patriots everywhere will consider donating one of the theater's engraved foundational bricks, mentioned on its website, with the words "For God and country" inscribed on them and then list their hometown's name. If you'd like to help out, go to <http://www.mtlassentheatre.org>. (All donations are tax-deductible.)

Friends and fellow countrymen, it's time to fight back against local and national government that opposes your First Amendment rights and simultaneously help small-town America and our country at large in doing so.

What happened in my wife's hometown could happen in yours next.

daily horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, Jan. 9, 2015:
 This year you open up to a new way of living. Simplicity and authenticity will be the key elements to focus on for improving your life. If you are single, someone you choose to be your sweetie today might not be of any interest to you by your next birthday. Take your time getting to know any potential suitors! If you are attached, the two of you enjoy sharing your personal dream world together. You will help each other manifest what you both desire. CAPRICORN needs to be less involved.
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 ★★ You seem to be "all work and no play," even if you are not at your job. This very serious approach allows you to be focused and driven. Follow your instincts if you are facing some confusion. A partner or associate could be extremely controlling. Tonight: Relax to good music.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 ★★★★★ Your circle of friends could have different concerns from your loved ones. Today, they might pull you in different directions, and you'll feel the resulting tension. Detach, and see if there is a way you can find a solution that works for everyone. Tonight: Have some fun.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 ★★ Tension continues to build on the homefront. The only person you can control is yourself. Therefore, it would be wise to take up a stress-busting activity or pastime. When you relax, others will, too. Be careful with a loved one who is very controlling. Tonight: Be a duo.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 ★★★★★ Reach out to a close relative or neighbor who understands where you are coming from. You cannot deny the bond that exists between you. Be sure to listen to your inner voice. Romance, music and a foreigner could intertwine. Tonight: TGIF!
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 ★★ You might be deluding yourself about the ramifications of a recent major purchase. Relax with others, and know that you can make a different choice. A conversation could lead to a power play. Don't lose sight of your long-term objectives. Tonight: Don't push too hard.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 ★★★★★ You might be confused by a friend who doesn't always hear you well. Be patient; otherwise, you could lose your temper. Go along with the moment, and know full well that you could be dealing with a manipulative person. Tonight: Paint the town red.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 ★★ Your ability to get past an issue will depend on whether you can let go of your need to control others. You might express a tentative interest in opening up a discussion. Think carefully about this before making a decision. Tonight: Vanish before your popularity overwhelms you.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 ★★★★★ Friends pave the way to your success. You also will receive a lot of support from these same people. Perhaps it is time for a thank-you card. When all of you are together, there tends to be an air of camaraderie among you. Communicate with care. Tonight: Hang out at home.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 ★★★★★ Take charge of an important project with which you have been involved. Your ability to move past obstacles will emerge. Others seem delighted to have you at the helm of the ship because of your leadership capability. Tonight: A force to be reckoned with.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 ★★★★★ Reach out to someone at a distance once more. If you can take off for a day trip, by all means, do. Be sure that you and this person are on the same page. A misunderstanding could result in a rift between the two of you. Tonight: Let your feelings lead the way.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 ★★★★★ You will see a personal matter differently after you have a chat with a key person. Pressure could force you to look for an unusual answer. Refuse to get uptight about a problem you tend to focus on too much, which could make a situation even more difficult. Tonight: Opt for togetherness.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 ★★★★★ You could wake up feeling as if you have not a care in the world. You certainly seem to be wearing a pair of rose-colored glasses. See where your optimism takes you. For many of you, it will help you manifest more positive interactions. Tonight: Let the party begin!

Harvesters, now 16-1, keep on winning with 68-59 victory over Childress ■ Kambrin Scott drained 3 threes in 4th. Brendon Woelfle added one also.

BY ZACHARY GREEN
zgreen@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Hustlin' Harvesters (16-1) hosted the Childress Bobcats (14-4) on Tuesday night.

Junior Cade Engle started things off with a layup on the Harvesters' first possession. It was a back and fourth first quarter with the teams trading buckets for the most part. Pampa's biggest lead was five at the end of the quarter. That lead was built thanks to Junior Shanoaha Bridges' basket and then he added a three as well.

Engle had four in the quarter. Bridges had five in the quarter. Junior Bryson Burrell had six in the quarter. Seniors Jett Gibson and Johnathan Stevens each added two points in the quarter.

Sophomore Brendon Woelfle started off the second quarter just like Engle did the first. Pampa had an early seven point lead in the quarter. Childress hit a three with 4:45 to go in the half to cut the lead down to 24-19. Stevens decided to go on a 4-0 run by himself to give Pampa a 28-19 lead with 3:15 to go.

Childress hit a three and two free throws to cut the Pampa lead down to 30-24 with 1:03 left in the first half. Junior Kambrin Scott was quiet in the first quarter but drained a three with 26 seconds to go before the half to give Pampa a 33-24 lead. At half, Pampa led 33-26.

Engle had five points in the second quarter. Stevens had four points and Scott had three points.

Gibson hit a layup with 6:55 to go in the third quarter to make the score 35-29. Burrell hit a three with 5:42 to go in the quarter to make the score 40-31. An Engle layup made the score 42-31 with five minutes to go in the quarter. Childress didn't want to go away quietly as they kept hitting three-pointers. This latest one made the score 42-34 with 4:05 left in the quarter. The lead was cut to six at 44-38 with 1:49 to go in the quarter. Pampa called a timeout with 1:40 to go.

Childress continued to cut into the Pampa lead. It got down to 44-42 with just one minute left in the quarter. After three, Pampa led 46-43.

Burrell had five in the quarter. Engle had four. Bridges and Gibson had two.

Childress hit an early three pointer in the fourth quarter to tie it at 46 all. Scott, who was held scoreless in the first and third quarters, came alive in the fourth. He hit an answer three right away to put Pampa back on top 49-46. Scott hit another three to make the score 52-48 with 6:50 to go. Childress pulled within two again at 54-52 with 4:22 left before Pampa took control.

Stevens hit two free throws to make the score 57-52 with 3:30 to go. Bridges went 1-2 at the line to make it 58-54 with 3:07 to go. Scott hit yet another trey with three minutes to go in the game that gave Pampa a 61-54 lead. Woelfle added in on the party from downtown with a trey of his own to make it 65-54 Pampa with 2:15 to go. Engle hit two free throws with 1:40 to go to put Pampa on top 67-57. Final score, Pampa 68-59.

Cade Engle led scorers with 17 points and hit 3-4 from the line. Kambrin Scott had four threes and finished with 12 points. Bryson Burrell had 11 and one three. Shanoaha Bridges was 1-2 from the line with eight points. Johnathan Stevens was 2-5 from the charity stripe and had eight points. Jett Gibson went 1-2 from the line and had five points. Brendon Woelfle was also 1-2 from the line and had four points. Senior Dante Jordan was 1-2 from the line and had one point.

Head coach Matt Embry was pleased with the Harvesters performance.

"This game is what our team needs going forward. We needed a game like this. We needed to be tested, needed to be pushed," Embry said. "I can't remember for sure but I think Childress is 17th ranked in 3A. To beat a ranked opponent right before district is a big win for us."

Embry also said that Dante Jordan had some great defensive plays and Bryson Burrell got Pampa off to a fast start.

Kambrin Scott had four threes in the ballgame. Embry loved that.

"Kambrin had three threes in the fourth. Woelfle had one. We scored 22 in the fourth. Twelve of the 22 came from those baskets. That was huge," Embry said. "Kambrin had some monster rebounds in the first half. I was proud to see him show up to the party."

Embry added that Engle did a really good job controlling the pace of the game and Shanoaha came off early and sparked Pampa in the first quarter with a three and a two early in the first quarter.

Pampa is now 16-1 on the season. They travel to Fritch for a 6:30 p.m. tip on Friday, Jan. 9. Then Pampa will head to Dumas for a 7:30 p.m. tip on Monday, Jan. 12 to wrap up non-district play. District play begins on Friday, Jan. 16 when the Perryton Rangers come to town.

Lady Harvesters fall on the road to Tascosa

jlee@thepampanews.com

AMARILLO — In what was the final non-district game before the team takes the road to Dalhart Friday for the opening of District basketball, the Pampa Lady Harvesters (10-12) fell to the Tascosa Lady Rebels 73-31 Tuesday night in Amarillo.

Head coach Kim Chaffin said the team should not take this loss hard, as the games won't count towards the playoffs until Friday.

"I told the girls, right now we are 0-0. This is the big show now, we don't scout a lot of non-district games, but we have scouted our district opponents," Chaffin said.

"We know what's ahead of us. We know what we need to do. We need to execute. We need to worry about us. We are coming in tomorrow to practice with a focus that hopefully we haven't had all year. A real intensity to be ready for Friday."

The game started out with senior Madison Brown hitting a basket to put the Lady Harvesters up 2-0. A pair of fouls by Pampa allowed the Lady Rebels to go 4-4 in free throws giving them a 4-2 lead.

The Lady Rebels continued their 9-2 run until another basket from Brown, followed by a free throw from senior Rayna Wall cut the lead to four, 9-5. The Lady Rebels added three more points before senior Taylor Eubank converted a free throw to make it a 12-6 game, three points and a Tascosa foul later, Eubank hit another free throw and it was a 15-7 game. Tascosa made another 3-pointer to make it an 18-7 game to end the first quarter.

The Lady Rebels outscored the Lady Harvesters 17-5 in the second quarter. Brown went 3-4 from the free throw line, while junior Reata Collins went 2-2. The Lady Rebels took a 35-12 lead going into halftime.

"What I told the girls is they were calling just as many fouls against them (Tascosa) and we just weren't finishing. We would get good execution near the rim and we wouldn't make them pay at the free throw line."

The Lady Harvesters were the most productive in the third quarter scoring 12 points, including a 3-pointer from Eubank. Eubank also went 1-2 in free throws. Brown scored a pair of baskets and a free throw on a one-and-one. Senior Keisha Daniels scored a basket and went 1-2 in free throws. But the Lady Rebels outscored the Lady Harvesters 15-12 and took a 50-24 lead into the final quarter.

The Lady Harvesters scored their final seven points off baskets from Wall and Hannah Nichols.

Wall also went 2-4 in free throws to add to Brown's 1-2 from the stripe. But Tascosa continued to run up the score, finishing the game with the 73-31 score.

Both teams were called on numerous fouls and had moments where both teams were receiving bonus free throws. Pampa finished with 15 fouls.

"It was foul-heavy. It was a different kind of foul heavy," Chaffin said.

"Normally we're getting the hand checks but tonight they were calling stuff in the paint. It was a little bit different than what we have seen all year. But we could go into a district game and it could be a completely different refereed game than we have seen all year. So we just gotta be ready for everything."

Madison Brown was the leading scorer on Tuesday with 12 points and went 5-7 from the charity stripe; Taylor Eubank had a 3-pointer and went 3-6 from the line; Rayna Wall had five points and went 3-6 in free throws; Keisha Daniels had three points and went 1-3 from the line; and Reata Collins and Hannah Nichols each had two points, with Collins going 2-2 from the free throw line.

As for Friday's game in Dalhart, Chaffin said the girls just need to touch up on transitions and defense, and the rest will take care of itself.

"I think our defense (is what we need to work on), we just need to polish it up a bit. Our offense will come around and we are just fine with that," Chaffin said.

"We just really need to polish up our defense and make sure we really know where our transition points are, whether it be from offense to defense or defense to offense. I think that's what we're going to focus on the most. Just staying focused."

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Recently, a member of the family suggested that my mother Google the name of my sister's new live-in boyfriend. (Another family member said he had done it months ago.) When Mom did, she saw that he is a convicted sex offender. We were all shocked as he has been very good to my sister and other members of the family.

So far, we haven't said anything to my sister or her boyfriend, and I am unsure what to do. I have a small child and it makes me nervous. I don't know if my sister knows, and I don't know how to bring it up.

I am upset with my family member because he didn't say anything immediately after finding this information. I'm upset at my sister if she knows and hasn't been honest with us, and I am upset with this man. What should I do? — UPSET IN VIRGINIA

DEAR UPSET: First let me tell you what NOT to do. Do not remain silent and stew. Tell your sister everything you have written to me and ask if she's aware that her live-in boyfriend is on a sex offender website. If his offense concerned a minor child, it is possible that he is not supposed to be around children — and if he has been that the authorities would like to know. But first, discuss this with your sister who may — or may not — be able to put your fears to rest.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a widower for a year. While he was eager to jump into the dating pool, he still has a mini shrine of his late wife's ashes and belongings in their house. I can't bring myself to have dinner or sleep over there with that overt presence.

He recently told me he's saving her remains to be intermingled with his when he dies. It was among a long list of her afterlife instructions he described. He's in good health. I figure he has 25 years — or more — life expectancy before the big event.

Realistically, shouldn't I expect more than second best in his world? Is there a time limit for grieving, or does the deceased get to control her hubby from the other side? — WAITING AND WONDERING

DEAR WAITING AND WONDERING: Realistically, this has less to do with what you should "expect" than conclusions the widower must arrive at on his own. Ask him in a nonconfrontational way how he FEELS about carrying out all of his deceased wife's wishes — and whether he thinks it is fair to himself or you. Be prepared to discuss it without becoming emotional. His answers will tell you everything you need to know about a future with him.

P.S. If your relationship with him is good, why not focus on the present and not worry about what happens to his body when he's gone? However, er, if this is a deal breaker, then don't invest any more time.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

Good advice for everyone — teens to seniors — is in "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It." To order, send your name and mailing address, plus check or money order for $7 (U.S. funds) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Shipping and handling are included in the price.)
