Wounded Memphis Soldier Visits Old English Hall

The following letter was received this week from Duncan Gray, city librarian of the Nottingham (England) Public Libraries, accompanied by a photograph of eight American boys. T. Sgt. Clarence E. Maddox of Memphis being one of the number.

Dear Editor: I have spent part of this afternoon with a group of some thirty United States soldiers who are convalescing, and for whom an excursion had been arranged to Wollaton Hall, about two miles from the city centre of Nottingham. It is an Elizabethan mansion or manor house, now owned by Nottingham Corporation and housing the Natural History Museum of the City.

Visiting a resident of this kind over four hundred and fifty years old, gave the boys an opportunity of first hearing about and then seeing a way of life in England which is gradually disappearing in the county of Nottingham. For example, not only is Wollaton Hall no longer used as a family residence, but the same fate has overtaken several other former family mansions—those of Clumber, Newstead Abbey (the former home of Lord Byron) and Bestwood. This change demonstrates the contrast between an older way of life—the self contained community who grew their own food, brewed their own beer, and made their own clothes—which demand

The Church of Christ announces a series of services will be held all next week, beginning Sunday January 7, and continuing through January 14. W. S. Boyett of Walla Walla, Wash., will be the speaker.

J. P. Lusby, minister of the Memphis church, in announcing the coming of Minister Boyett says: "He is highly qualified for this type of work as he has been so engaged for a number of years. He is a kind, yet forceful, speaker who is neither ashamed nor afraid to declare the whole counsel of God. I think you will not only enjoy hearing him but will be benefited by every service."

The week-day services will be each evening at 7:45. Sundays there will be Bible classes for all ages at 10 A. M., preaching at 10:55 A. M. and again at 7:45 P. M.

The last Sunday of the meeting there will be an all-day service with dinner served at the church building and singing in the afternoon.

All are invited and earnestly urged to attend every service. Start the New Year right by missing a single service, Minister Lusby urged.

PROMOTED

Homer Tucker, in the storekeeper division of the Navy, now stationed in the Admiralty Islands, South Pacific, has been promoted to Petty Officer 3-c from Seaman 1-c, according to information received by his wife, Mrs. Tommie Tucker.

ed little from outside contacts and the newer, urbanised society whose very lifeblood derives from commerce and industry, and the output from machines and factories.

As you walked around Wollaton Hall, your boys were able to see the things that made up this type of life, and will now be able to contrast it both with life at home and the life of successful industrial cities such as that of our own Nottingham.

The boys as you will see from the photograph which includes T-Sgt. C. E. Maddox, Memphis Box 4, Texas, looked well, and their keenness and high spirits—obvious from one or two very witty remarks they let fall—were much in evidence. I account it a privilege to have met them, and an added privilege to be able to write and tell you about it.

Yours Sincerely,
Duncan Gray

TEXAS DIVISION COMMENDED BY CORPS COMMANDER

WITH THE 36th "TEXAS" DIVISION OF THE SEVENTH ARMY IN FRANCE—The 36th "Texas" Division has been commended by Major General Edward H. Brooks, Commanding General, VI Corps, for its part in the fighting through the Vosges Mountains in eastern France. His commendatory message, addressed to Major General John E. Dahlquist, Commanding General of the 36th "Texas" Division reads:

"As you pass to another command I want to express to you my deep appreciation for the part played by the 36th Infantry Division in clearing the enemy from his strong positions in the Vosges Mountains.

"Your sagacious handling of the troops at your disposal, spread over an extended front, and their constant pressure and aggressive attitude for several days prior to the Corps attack, held the attention of the enemy and forced him to commit local reserves which later were not available to oppose the main thrust of the VI Corps.

The capture by the 36th Infantry Division of the St. Marie Pass and its continued attacks culminating in the debouchment on the Alsatian Plain near Ribouville, not only blocked the enemy on the right but forced him to fight and continued to deny him the use of his troops elsewhere. "This was all done without fuss or feathers and in a manner worthy of the splendid Americans under your command."

It is well to remember that courtesy is not rationed.

In this time of uncertainty and anxiety the only safe investment is in the bank of Heaven. From the Body of Christ which is His Church, every baptized believer may draw upon the glorious hope of eternal life. The check above is a "free gift" of God. You will observe the scriptures that it is made to "baptized believers." He who would lead you to believe that the "believer" may receive the benefits of the check needs to read again the terms of the great commission. Mark 16:15-16.

There is not an example in the N. T. under the commission of any one being promised salvation before his baptism. Why should preachers do it now? This check must be signed by the proper person. Trust and obey the Lord today and you may cash the check. Heb. 5:8-9.

And I learned I was here to fight and not to pout. We had a war to win and I was chosen, So we had to be alert and no dozing. Although I worked hard I did not like it The beds, the chow, the drilling or hiking. But since it is a job that has to be done I'll do it, by golly! Since I'm not there anymore and far away; I hope you are having a wonderful Christmas Day.

NEWS

From County Men in the Armed Forces

Sgt R. C. Vinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Vinson, wrote the following letter to his parents. He has been in the service four years and is now in France with the signal corps.

CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL TO "TEXAS" DIVISION SOLDIER

Staff Sergeant Homer L. Wise of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, a 27-year-old infantryman with the 36th "Texas" Division, was recently awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for effectively conducting a one-man war against the Germans in Italy. The nation's highest award was presented in France by Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, Commanding General of the Seventh Army.

"Blackie," as his buddies in the division call him, was in an assault squad of an infantry battalion of the 142nd Infantry Regiment on a mission to smash German positions on the high ground near Magliano, Italy. As the "Texans" moved into position for the attack, they were subjected to heavy small-arms and mortar fire from three directions. Cautiously moving forward, Wise heard the cry of a wounded man amidst the exploding shells and whistling bullets. He left his place of comparative safety and raced across the fire-swept area to the stricken doughboy, and with the help of three others, carried him back for treatment.

Rejoining his men, Sergeant Wise, although frequently exposed, coolly moved among them directing fire. It was then that he saw two German officers and an enlisted man apparently moving to an observation position on his flank.

Working his way over exposed terrain, "Blackie" reached an advantageous position, and with three carefully-aimed shots from his M-1, finished the three Krauts for good. Then, snatching a tommy-gun from a nearby soldier, he sprayed the surrounding area enough to temporarily disorganize a number of the enemy.

However, enemy fire coming from a deflated position caused his men to hold back, so Wise swapped his tommy-gun for a rifle-grenade launcher and grenades. Moving under enemy observation and fire, he moved forward, blasted several rounds of ammunition, causing numerous casualties and breaking the enemy stand. As the remaining Germans attempted to flee the area, Wise grabbed up the tommy-gun again and killed and wounded most of them.

The battalion took advantage of the enemy's disorganization and moved forward. Yet the stubborn Krauts reformed and opened up again with murderous fire. "Blackie" motioned his machine gun crew forward, but they, too were pinned down.

Completely ignoring the German fire, Sergeant Wise secured a BAR and crawled ahead of his pinned-down men. Reaching a favorable position, he rose, and cut loose with his automatic rifle dispersing the startled Germans. Then he walked forward deliberately, killing and wounding more of the enemy.

The Krauts momentarily halted his one-man breakthrough with carefully-aimed fire. But Wise with cold determination, squatted and sprayed their position until he had neutralized their fire. His platoon quickly advanced into the gap and was able to capture the remainder of the enemy force.

Following behind the doughboys was a tank-destroyer unit which had difficulty moving because of the close-in fighting and the nature of the terrain. The lead vehicle was mounted with a machine gun which was jammed and out of action.

Needing additional automatic fire, Sergeant Wise moved under cover to the armored vehicle, disassembled the gun, and corrected the stoppage. He took over the gun and fired 750 rounds, clearing the enemy from their area along the road, and permitting the tank destroyers to advance.

By his heroic action, Sergeant Wise killed, wounded, and dispersed many enemy, caused many others to surrender and so removed the last stumbling block to his battalion's advance.

The 27-year-old infantryman operated a gasoline station in civilian life. He is one of eight children born to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wise, route 4, Baton Rouge, Louisiana. "Blackie" joined the 36th Division at Camp Bowie, Texas, on September 9, 1941. During the 19 months he has been overseas, he has been in combat 13 months. Besides the Congressional Medal of Honor, he also wears the Silver Star, Purple Heart with an Oak Leaf Cluster, Combat Infantryman's Badge, Good Conduct Medal, American Defense Ribbon, and the North African Theater of Operations Ribbon. He participated in the Salerno and Southern France invasions.

DANGER!
 GERMS MEN-WORKING

Every enlightened school child knows that disease germs are ever present, doing their deadly work. They infest all we eat and the air we breathe. But the normally healthy person can throw off these disease germs without harm or hindrance.

It is when we become "all run down"—when our resistance is low—that danger lurks. Then, we become easy prey for colds and infections. So, watch your step! If you are not feeling physically fit, better go see your physician right away. Let him prescribe for your particular condition. And be sure to bring his prescription here for precise, careful compounding.
