CAA Announces Memphis Airport Fund Allocation

The Civil Aeronautics Authority has allocated $7,750 in federal funds to the Memphis airport for the purpose of "constructing a class one airport, acquiring site and constructing three landing strips, buildings, and miscellaneous facilities," CAA officials have announced.

The Memphis airport committee met Wednesday afternoon with W. K. McFall, a representative from the district CAA office, to discuss the most appropriate means of using the $7,750 allocation, according to Mayor C. C. Hodges. It is thought that an engineer will be employed for some of the work at the airport.

Memphis has $15,250 in local funds being used for the airport development, and the federal allocation is the first of several allocations to be issued over a three year period, the federal money to be matched by local funds, according to Horace Tarver, president of the chamber of commerce.

Texas' federal allocation was the largest in the nation. CAA announces a total of $2,081,311 to be spent for construction and improvement of 58 smaller airports in the state. New York ranks second with an allocation of $1,864,180 from the $33,899,265 put up by the federal gov.

Learn to Start Seed Early in the House

Seeds of annual flowers which germinate slowly, or which require a long growing period to produce flowers, can be started in the house weeks earlier than they could safely be sown outdoors.

Varieties usually given this early start include petunias and snapdragons, which germinate slowly; asters, which flower very late, and such tropical subjects as begonias and salvia. Many quick-growing, hardy annuals are started indoors, when early flowers are wanted.

Nearly every home has a sunny window where on a shelf, or the window sill, if it is wide enough, plants can be started.

Florists' "pans" half the height of a flower pot—2 1/2 to 3 inches—are excellent for this purpose; low boxes with holes in the bottom to provide drainage can be purchased or built at home.

Soil for seeds should be finely screened compost with sufficient sand to make it porous and quick to drain. A good soil consists of one-third sand, one-third peat and one-third garden loam. It need contain no plant food.

Drainage holes should be bored at intervals in the bottom of a wooden box or flat; if seed pots or pans are used, the drainage hole should be well covered with pot shreds, small stones, sphagnum moss or other material.

Fill the box or seed pan with soil, and level it off with a small flat board or ruler. Firm the soil by pressing down with a board cut to fit the inside of the box; be sure the corners are well firmed or they may sink when water is applied.

Seeds can be sown broadcast or in rows, the latter method being preferable because of ease in cultivating and weeding, if necessary. Care must be taken that the seeds be sown thinly, for when crowded a fungous disease called "damping-off" may attack the plants. Overwatering or a sudden drop in temperature while the foliage is wet may cause this disease to appear.

Damping-off disease may be avoided by covering the soil with a thin layer of sphagnum moss, passed through a sieve, and sowing the seeds in this. A substitute for soil which has given satisfaction is vermiculite, prepared for horticultural use, which is very light and retains both air and water for long periods.

Fine seeds, like those of the begonia, may sown in rows.

Seed Box Construction and Operations.

the soil; larger seeds, like flowering sage, should be covered with finely screened soil, sand or moss to about twice their thickness or about one-eighth inch.

After the seed is covered, the soil should be gently pressed with the board and watered very carefully. Larger seeds should be watered with a fine spray, but the seed box of fine seeds should be watered by placing it in a second container partially filled with water and allowed to remain until surface moisture appears on the soil.

Seeds germinate better in darkness and need constant moisture. To keep a moist condition it is sometimes well to cover the box with a pane of glass, but if moisture collects to excess on the underside, the glass should be raised to admit air. Never allow the soil to dry out but never over water, for either condition may cause serious injury to the young plants or prevent a uniform germination.

When seedling plants are large enough to handle they should be transplanted to other flats, where they will have room to develop; or thinned out to stand one to two inches apart each way.

The Dangerous Diseases Are Preventable

Thousands of persons, including children, become ill, and of them die needlessly each year of diseases which can be prevented by immunization, the work of the Memphis chamber of commerce health committee this week.

Although smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid fever, and whooping cough can be prevented by immunization, these diseases continue to occur. The value of immunization against these diseases has been demonstrated by the reductions in incidence that have been achieved in the years, but even a small number of cases of a preventable disease is too many. Every child should be inoculated against smallpox and diphtheria some time between the ages of one and two, and whooping cough and tetanus injections should be given to children living in areas where diphtheria fever occurs. Some cases of diphtheria can be prevented by immunization against scarlet fever. Early medical attention may prevent the development of scarlet fever, or reduce its severity, among children who are exposed to have been exposed to disease. Serums also are available in preventing or reducing the severity of measles among children.

When the time children enter kindergarten, or just before they enter the first grade, the doctor recommends further immunization against diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough. Parents should consult their physicians or the local health department for information regarding vaccinations and immunizations to protect against communicable diseases.

Nimrods Stalk The Wary Quail

Today is the 16th—and the end of the quail season. The hunting really got under way in this area with the recent snow which started most of the hunters in the county tramping through pastures and fields looking for the elusive Bob White.

Some of the hunters report there "aren't any quail" after walking all day without seeing a single bird. However there are a few that have bagged the limit. Here are a few that have had some luck and their stories:

Homer Burleson, Burl Hayes, and Herschel Stewart got nine quail recently in Donley County. Burleson said that Stewart, who has let it be known that he is a good "bird-shot" from the hip, got one, while he and Hayes bagged the rest shooting from the shoulder. Stewart said however that he really got more than one but Hayes always claimed the birds. You be the judge.

Chuck Jones and Freddie Starr Johnson report that they have been hunting three times this season and have just about got a one-day limit all told.

J. V. Shepperd, Buck Johnson, D. S. Johnson, and Creth White went recently and would have had good luck had they seen more birds. Three shots—four quail.

Ed Hutcheson and Ted Barnes went east of town week before last and bagged six.

Carl Eudy and Herbert Curry tried their luck with the tricky Bob Whites on a recent Sunday. Result—one rabbit.

Dave Price and O. J. Gilreath hunted near Red River a couple of weeks ago, but reported bad guns. Four shots—no birds.

Willis Luffew and Clifford Padgett hunted last week west of town and bagged their limit—12 each.

Gip McMurry and Bobby Jack McMurry tried last week on Red River and got 12.

John Molesworth Funeral Rites Are Held at Clarendon

Funeral services for John Molesworth, 88 years old, retired rancher of Clarendon, were held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at St. John the Baptist Episcopal Church in Clarendon. Rev. Warren Fry, pastor, was in charge. Burial was in the Citizens Cemetery under the direction of the Murphy-Spicer-Buntin Funeral Home.

The retired rancher had lived in Clarendon the past 22 years and prior to that on ranch properties in Donley and Collingsworth counties. He came to Texas when he was 21 years old from his native England.

Mr. Molesworth came to the Clarendon country in 1897 as manager of the Row Ranch.

He remained at the ranch until the early 1900's, when he went to South America with Murdo McKenzie to make a report on land and cattle conditions for the Brazzil Land and Cattle Company.

After Mr. Molesworth returned he became a partner of W. J. Lewis on the Mill Iron Range. A few years ago he bought the Oak Creek Ranch, formerly part of the T. S. Bugbee property, and at the present time the ranch is operated by a son.

The pioneer rancher was a member of the first polo team organized in Texas. When he arrived in this country, he worked in freighting and wool grading.

Mr. Molesworth's wife died in Clarendon several years ago. He is survived by a son, Jack Molesworth, Clarendon; two daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Brown, El Paso, and Miss Charlotte Molesworth, Clarendon; and three grandchildren. A brother, W. H. Molesworth, Austin, and a sister, Miss Emma Molesworth, England, also survive.

File Individual Tax Return on Form 1040

Several days ago, internal revenue officials indicated that it may be best for taxpayers who have overpaid their 1946 income tax through withholding and estimates to check their returns for refunds instead of asking for credit application, due to the fact that there is greater chance of an error being made on the involved procedure.

Last week, Herbert Arnold, acting collector of internal-revenue for this district stated that it is his opinion that less errors will be made by taxpayers and by the internal revenue office if taxpayers file their individual 1946 returns on Forms 1040. It is also his opinion that individual income taxpayers may benefit by using Forms 1040, due to the following reasons:

1. By using Form 1040 a taxpayer immediately knows the extent of his liability or refund.
2. If a taxpayer has overpaid, the refund on Form 1040 is processed first; therefore, by using Form 1040 a refund shown thereon will be received by taxpayer at an earlier date.
3. The use of Form 1040 will never result in a greater tax liability, and the filing of returns by signing withholding receipts sometimes, due to additional transactions, results in a greater liability than if Form 1040 had been used.
4. The use of withholding receipts by husbands and wives in filing returns is complicated by the fact that Texas is a community-property law state.

Winter Task for Gardener Is Building Cold Frame

A garden task which can be performed in winter is the construction of a cold frame. Every garden should have one: in every month of the year there is important service which it can render. In some form cold frames have been used by gardeners for centuries; originally they were pits open to the sun in which plants were sheltered from cold wind. Since glass has been available, to keep out cold air but let in the sun's warmth, cold frames have become more efficient and useful. Standard glazed sash are difficult to get this year, but various glass substitutes are available which can be stretched on light frames and serve the same purpose, while being much lighter than glazed sash, and unbreakable. To make a cold frame is so easy, any one who can wield a saw and hammer can do it. It is usually made 3 by 6 feet, or some multiple of this, for the reason that standard hot-bed sash are of these dimensions. But a cold frame (or a hot-bed either) may be any size you wish, to fit old windows, or frames of any convenient size. The frame should be constructed of heavy boards, of cypress, white pine or some wood which resists rot. Dig a hole in the ground slightly larger than the size of the frame. It should be at least a foot deep. Into this hole put the frame you have built so that 6 inches of it is beneath the surface and the remainder above. This will insure that no drafts enter from beneath. Construct the frame so that the front is 6 inches above the surface, and the rear, 12 inches. It must slant toward the south, where the winter sun shines. It is well to hinge the sash at the top of the frame, so it can be easily opened for transplanting purposes and airing. A sunny spot in the garden, protected as much as possible from the full force of winds and driving rain, is the best situation for the cold frame. It may be too cold now to dig in the garden, but the sash may be procured and the lumber frame made, so that when the first warm days arrive you are ready for serious gardening.

Sun-Loving Flower

Four o'clocks (mirabilis jalapa) are especially valuable because they withstand the smoke and gas of cities. They grow rapidly in ordinary soil and like a sunny location.

Easy to Save Vegetables
When Freezing Threatens

When freezing weather threatens the vegetable garden, there is usually a considerable quantity of vegetables in the ground which can easily be stored in good condition until used.

To abandon these is not only a financial loss. They may have to be replaced with food of inferior quality, and less variety, in which you will not find the same pleasure as in eating the product of your own garden.

The time to harvest them for storage is as late as possible, with safety. Squash and pumpkins should be taken in before heavy frosts; but most others may be left in the garden until severe freezing weather. Temperatures which freeze the soil will not injure beets, carrots, cabbage and turnips so long as it thaws out the next day; but they should be lifted before the ground begins to remain frozen all day.

temperature does not fall below 10 degrees above zero. Place them in boxes packed in soil, or peat moss, but not sand; or pack them in cardboard boxes which are placed in larger boxes, and surrounded with shredded paper, sawdust or shavings for insulation.

To protect these vegetables from the lowest winter temperatures, a convenient receptacle is a 24-inch drain tile sunk into the earth and closed with an insulated cover, which may be opened at will for the removal of any part of its contents. A working drawing of this device accompanies this discussion.

All vegetables and fruit placed in storage must be free from decay or injury. Avoid those with skin punctures, and never store vegetables which are wet.

WHITE SWAN
FINER FOODS

It may be grown as a specimen, as a hedge plant and is useful for foundation planting in places where little else will grow. The dominating colors are red, yellow, white, which is said to be fragrant, and a curious variegated sort of mixed colors. It grows two to three feet high.

Seeds can be started early in the house, or directly in the open ground. Seedlings should be thinned to stand 8 to 10 inches apart. The seed is quite large and can be sown singly three inches apart. The flowers open in late afternoon, closing in the morning. An application of plant food made at intervals while the plants are blooming will give better flowers and foliage.

In fall, after the plants are cut down by frost, the heavy tubers can be lifted and stored in sand in a frostproof place, to be planted outdoors again early in May, depending on weather conditions.

The Four O'Clock is so dependable that it should be given more attention because it is one of the few plants that will endure in congested city areas and also it will make growth in poor soil if it is at its full beauty when given rich soil and proper care. It is native to tropical America and was introduced to cultivation in 1596.

HIROHITO MEETS CABINET ... For the first time since its formation, photographs were taken of the historic and impressive ceremony inside the imperial Japanese palace when members of the Japanese cabinet appeared before Emperor Hirohito and presented him details of the new constitution. The emperor is sitting in the center of the group.

FIRST GERMAN GI FIANCEES ARRIVE ... The first group of German fiancées of American GIs are shown as they arrived at New York City by air from Berlin. They were enroute to the hometowns of their respective husbands-to-be where the marriages will take place. Left to right: Martha Lehmann, 20; Hildegarde Eichler, 19; Ellen Krause, 21; Ursula Jablonski, 23; Ursula Greunke, 21; Heide Von Strosch, 20, and Edith Quabek, 21.

Believes in Moderation ... Confined to his bed in the San Francisco Veterans Administration Hospital and bound by a cast that leaves only his arms free, 23-year-old Samuel Francis of Palo Alto, Calif., shows how he paints pictures good enough to hang in the San Francisco and Denver art galleries. He is recovering from tuberculosis of the spine, which he contracted while an Army Air Cadet three years ago.

BELIEVES IN MODERATION ... A man who says he owes his longevity to his moderation in all things puffs contentedly on his pipe in his Forest Hills, N. Y., home. He is Nathaniel Vickers, architect, water colorist and golfer, who recently celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary.

AGGRESSIVE PRINCELING ... A determined looking young man is Prince Don Duarte Loao, son of Don Duarte de Bahaanca, pretender to the Portuguese throne.

WHAT ANOTHER YEAR ... Little Joyce Pretka, 1, rubs her eyes when she awakes upon another year. Her parents Eleanor and John Pretka, Camp Shanks, N. Y., said her New Year's thrill did not match the view of her first decorated Christmas tree.

PARTING IS SO SAD ... "So long, pal," appears to be the sentiment as Rene Springer, 3, Dejon, France, leans over and kisses his shipmate, Deny Madison, 3, Marseilles. The youngsters arrived together aboard the S. S. Henry Gibbons.

PLAYED FOR THE PRESIDENT ... Sylvia Zarembo, 15, Chicopee, Mass., concert pianist who performed for Pres. Harry S. Truman, quite a pianist herself, and foreign statesmen at a White House dinner. She is shown practicing for her appearance as guest star on a radio show.

BASKETBALL PIONEER ... William R. Chase, 86, New Bedford, Mass., member of the Springfield college team of 1891 that introduced basketball in the United States, looks over an original set of rules with the present coach of the team, John W. Bunn.

FLOOD MISERY IN WASHINGTON ... An unhappy family of Renton, Wash., is evacuated from their flooded home with the assistance of neighbors in the Earlington flats district, which was hard hit by the floods caused by the overflowing of Green river.

CHILEAN PRESIDENT ... Gabriel Gonzalez Videla, as he was inaugurated president of Chile, Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, USN, represented the United States at the ceremonies.

DRAUGHT SUFFERER ... Hungry and ill-clad with bits of old rags, this young Rumanian boy has little hope for his future. He forlornly waits to be assigned to a more fortunate family with whom he will live because his own folks face starvation as a result of the drought and ravages of war which have turned his land into a barren wasteland.

REMEMBERS HEROES ... On October 26, 27 and 28, Greece celebrated the 6th anniversary of the war against Italy with parades and church services. Above little girl in native costume, minus the pom-pom from one slipper, awaits her turn to lay a wreath in remembrance of the gallant dead.

LEAVING LANDS END ... Landslides send Sea Gull cottages sliding to beach at Lands End, Ore., caused by heavy rainfall. Heavy rains and floods have been inflicting heavy damage in northwestern Oregon.

PAWNS AND EX-PAWNS ... These former pawns of total war, war-orphaned youngsters from battered Europe, are enjoying a game of chess at the reception center in the Bronx, N. Y., where they are being cared for by the U. S. committee for the Care of European Children. Sometimes there are language difficulties, but chess moves are the same in any language. Some day they will all be speaking our language as American citizens.

TIMBER SUITS ... Give the modern girl an inch—of lumber—and she'll make a bathing suit out of it. The belles in this bevy are all wearing bathing suits made from water resistant plywood. Left to right, Dorothy Iroala, Mary Viduchich, Gloria Byrnes, Betty Poust, Lois Hart, Edith Sandberg, Doris Lucas, Arline Lukes and Marilyn Coleman. All are Hoquiam, Wash., high school girls.

WILFRED G. HOLSBERG ... Wilfred G. Holsberg, contact representative in the Boston VA Regional Office, refuses to permit his double leg amputation to interfere with his love for sports. He is shown above on the golf course completing a change over on the adjustable golf club he devised. On the right Holsberg exhibits the swimming aids he perfected to provide buoyancy and propulsion.

WILFRED G. HOLSBERG ... Wilfred G. Holsberg, contact representative in the Boston VA Regional Office, refuses to permit his double leg amputation to interfere with his love for sports. He is shown above on the golf course completing a change over on the adjustable golf club he devised. On the right Holsberg exhibits the swimming aids he perfected to provide buoyancy and propulsion.

WILFRED G. HOLSBERG ... Wilfred G. Holsberg, contact representative in the Boston VA Regional Office, refuses to permit his double leg amputation to interfere with his love for sports. He is shown above on the golf course completing a change over on the adjustable golf club he devised. On the right Holsberg exhibits the swimming aids he perfected to provide buoyancy and propulsion.

WILFRED G. HOLSBERG ... Wilfred G. Holsberg, contact representative in the Boston VA Regional Office, refuses to permit his double leg amputation to interfere with his love for sports. Marrying Veterans Are Given Advice

Mr. Veteran, are you planning to get married any time soon? This may seem a bit personal, but if you are drawing subsistence for on-the-job-training or for going to school, it would definitely be to your advantage to send the Veterans administration regional office at Lubbock an invitation to your wedding.

The VA will not send you a lot of wedding presents, but if your subsistence allowance is to be increased from $65 to $90 per month, beginning with the day you are married, it is necessary that the VA have prior notice that you intend to take out yourself a wife.

If you wait until after you are married to notify the VA, and to request an increase in your subsistence to that of a married veteran, the VA is governed by law to commence your $90 subsistence from receipt of notification and cannot make the increase retroactive to date of your marriage.

So, if you are receiving VA educational benefits and plan to get married, let the VA know in advance by card or letter over your signature and indirectly following marriage send in a certified copy of the public record of your marriage, thus your increased subsistence allowance will commence the date of your marriage.

Remember, when writing the VA on any subject, be sure to give full name, address, service serial number, and claim number, officials said.

Some of our laboring men have become rich so suddenly they still spit on their hands before swinging. We met a young debutante the other day who had sarcastically named her diamond ring after the capital of Arkansas.

Monthly payments in the form of old-age and survivor benefits amount now to $25. In the Amarillo area, according to a statement by J. R. ...

compared with July 1, 1946. Although an increase was expected, the unusually large increase was no doubt due to the beginning of monthly payments to the survivors of World War II veterans in those cases where the veteran has died within three years of his discharge.

In the 26 counties served by the Amarillo office there are 1,622 persons drawing monthly payments. 540 of these are retired workers, 150 are wives of such workers, 869 are children of retired or deceased wage earners, and 263 are widows of deceased wage earners.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE CALLS INCREASE!

Average No. of Calls per Day

Although many people (perhaps including the telephone company) expected long distance calls to decrease following the end of the war, just the opposite has happened. Traffic on long distance lines is reaching new peaks each month... and the equipment necessary to take care of the increase just can't be produced fast enough. The 1946 long distance traffic load is officially pegged at more than 5,000,000 calls per day, about 370,000 more than last year's daily average. Perhaps this graphic illustration will help to explain why it takes your operator longer to answer and why your calls are sometimes delayed.

There's EXTRA SAFETY in the Tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

While many postwar products are still in the dream stage, one is not... the new postwar B.F. Goodrich Silvertown that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES. It's been produced... and what is more... in the past twelve months it's been delivered to car owners in greater quantities than any tire in B.F. Goodrich history. Of course, many car owners have heard about the thousands of extra miles of service from the broader, flatter tread that covers more road area and gives greater protection against skidding. They know about the 35% stronger cord body that gives better resistance to road shocks and bruising. It's no wonder the factory's outstanding production has been taxed keeping up with this extra demand. But this is one product you can take out of your dream book... it's here.

Daffodils Easiest Bulbs For Amateurs to Grow

Of all fall bulbs, the daffodils are the easiest for the amateur to grow; they bloom each spring for many years without replanting, and with small attention. Many types multiply until they crowd, when they should be lifted, divided and re-planted over a larger area.

They are the first "major" flowers to blossom in the spring, soon after winter's frost has left the ground. The large trumpet varieties rise two feet high, with flowers six inches across, when well grown. But in color range they are limited to white and yellow, except for the red and orange cups, or trumpets of a few varieties.

Breeders have long sought to produce "pink daffodils," and a few varieties have been introduced which have trumpets faintly suffused with pink when grown in greenhouses, or in shady places outdoors. But this color fades quickly in the sun.

Daffodils thrive in woods, where they can be naturalized and grow with little attention. They like to nestle at the feet of shrubs, or under trees, where they blossom before the leaves come out in locations which then are in the sun, but later will be shaded. They are seldom lifted oftener than once in three years. But never plant them where their foliage will be cut off before it turns yellow, which indicates that a new bulb has been formed and has matured.

The poeticus types are favored for woodland planting in combination with the native bluebell or mer-tensia, the wood phlox, phlox divaricata, and the white wood lily, trillium grandiflorum. In the garden they are in season with the early tulips and the dwarf irises and smaller spring bulbs.

Some of them are delightfully fragrant and are prized for this feature as well as their beauty. The narcissus family offers the first long-stemmed cutting material of spring. They are ideal cut flowers, as is shown by the quantities of daffodils forced and sold by florists each winter. The trumpet varieties are easily grown as house plants, provided only that the atmosphere is not too dry, in which case buds often blast.

The sooner daffodils are planted in the fall, the better; it gives them more time to make roots and become established in the new location before the freeze-up. They need this time, because they blossom so early in the spring, they have little time to grow then, after the ground thaws out.

POETICUS NARCISSUS.

We've Hired an XTRA SERVANT

AT NO EXTRA COST

With household help becoming more and more a problem to obtain—a fact that is not pleasant to recognize—our customers are increasingly looking to Reddy Kilowatt as the only servant available, not only for part time work, but as a regular 24 hour day chief cook and housekeeper. Positive evidence of the demands for Reddy's services are at all electric employment centers—our display floors and the display floors of every electric dealer.

That people are hiring Reddy to do their cooking and house cleaning is shown by their eagerness to purchase every electric range and vacuum cleaner on arrival, and their insistence in holding their place on waiting lists for delivery as soon as possible.

Reddy's wages are still the bargain of the age. For year-round service with no time off, he's the post war super domestic.

March of Dimes Director Named

George D. Wilson

George D. Wilson, of Houston, has been named Texas State Chairman of the 1947 March of Dimes, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has announced.

A prominent civil and religious leader, Mr. Wilson was formerly president of both the Board of Trustees of Houston University and the Board of Education of Houston's Public Schools. He is vice chairman of the Harris-County Chapter of the American Red Cross and is one of the Houston chairmen of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Mr. O'Connor, in making known Mr. Wilson's acceptance of the chairmanship, revealed that in coping with the 1946 outbreaks of infantile paralysis the National Foundation sent to its chapters in the field more than two and a half million dollars in epidemic aid up through September.

"Many of this year's polio patients," Mr. O'Connor said, "will require hospitalization and care for a long period of time. The after-care of these patients will be more expensive than treatment in the acute stage of the disease. The high cost of epidemics points up the real need for the services of public-spirited men such as Mr. Wilson. His efforts will prove of great value in the forthcoming appeal."

Mr. Wilson is also Chairman of the Harris County Chapter of the National Foundation and was formerly County Chairman of the 1945 and 1946 March of Dimes.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1. It should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.
2. Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

RETAILERS SEEK QUALITY

IN AN EDITORIAL on the retail price situation, in which it advised its readers not to look for any strong downward trend, the Portland Oregonian said: "Any real reduction in retail prices will come through the transference of savings in manufacturing — by greater efficiency and higher production, since there is no prospect of wage reductions."

Competition, in the traditional American sense of the word, pretty largely vanished during the war. Ceiling prices were also "basement" prices, in that all producers and retailers had to work within the strict framework of OPA controls. Goods were scarce at best, and many items disappeared completely, due to the channeling of raw materials to the insatiable maw of the war machine. Low inventories precluded the possibility of seasonal and year-end sales on prewar scale.

But competition is regaining its old vigor, and that in itself is a guarantee that the consumer will get what he wants at the lowest price possible. Again, consumer discrimination is a wholesome sign—it indicates that the anything-at-any-price era, with its strong inflationary pressure, is drawing to a close. Finally, the growing insistence on the part of retailers for better quality goods, in all price brackets, is a great aid to consumers who are sick of the shoddy and the unreliable. The stores you patronize are eager to return to the old, competitive basis of doing business, and conditions are steadily improving.

PREVENTING UTILITY STRIKES

IT IS UNIVERSALLY recognized that some means must be found to settle labor disputes within the utility industry without strikes. A shutdown of utility services is a direct blow not only at a community's industries, but the health and life of the people.

A group of utility executives recently met with officials of all the principal unions represented in the industry, in a conference conducted by the U. S. Conciliation Service. And it looks as if the groundwork has been laid for model employer-employee relations in this vital field.

In the words of Conciliation Service official in charge, "Both management and labor in the utility industry have a basic responsibility to the citizens of the communities which they serve. The representatives of industry and labor who have been meeting, recognize that this responsibility requires every effort on their part to maintain industrial peace."

One of the most encouraging phases of the meeting was that both sides favored voluntary plans for settling disagreements, and were anxious to avoid damaging legislation that would place arbitration on a compulsory, government-dominated basis. They were determined to guarantee continuity of utility services at all times—and to establish machinery for settling disputes that would operate fairly, impersonally, and reach decisions in accordance with the evidence.

This is the kind of work that gets results. It saves both industry and labor from laws that would sharply curtail their freedom of action. The degree of success achieved will have a direct bearing on the welfare of all.

Vet Memorial Building

A dream visualized for more than two years became a reality at a joint meeting January 7 at the Paducah city hall, when blue prints for the proposed Cottle county Veterans Memorial building were accepted by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. The building committee had already accepted the plans. The modern building will cost approximately $25,000, with two-thirds of that amount already subscribed. It will have a frontage on a location of 140x200 feet.—The Paducah Post.

Education Investigated

The initial step toward the solution of some Swisher county's educational problems was made this week when the county school board gave its consent for Judge H. A. Wallace to request an educational survey to be made of the county. Before the state legislature gives any appreciable assistance to public schools, these counties must first prove that they are using to the best and most economical advantage those resources which they possess. It is the purpose of these specialists to ride above the petty prejudices and selfish desires of individuals who are willing to retard the educational progress of an entire community for the sake of some pet notion. Swisher may be on the threshold of a new day in education. Watch for news of this educational survey. Study the facts. Let's get behind the men who are trying to put Swisher's schools on a sound, economical financial foundation.—The Tullia Herald.

Canine Courtesy

During the past quail season, I met an old man out shooting over a rather ancient pointer. Twice the dog pointed at a clump of bushes. Each time the old man walked over, kicked at the matted growth, wheeled sharply and fired into empty air. When I saw no birds rise either time, my curiosity jumped out of bounds. I asked what it was all about. "Wal, shucks," the old man answered. "I knew there warn't no birds in them bushes. Old Jim's nose ain't what it used to be. But he's still sensitive, and I'd hate to call him a liar."—Out-door Notes, in The Turkey Enterprise.

Randy Moore, former big league baseball star, is at the head of a big industry at Omaha, Texas—a nursery. He has 500 acres in peaches and some of the trees are over 25 years old. He says a peach tree will live forever if proper care is taken so that new limbs will grow.

Moore goes in for terracing, fertilizer, and chemicals to combat insects and plant disease. Last season, as an experiment, he planted a valley in lespedeza and produced 8,000 bales of hay.

He is fond of fishing and has a lake on the place and is building a clubhouse and boathouse.

- And no new or increased taxes.

CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION IS DISCUSSED

Note: This article is in a series submitted by Texas State Teachers Association.

In 1941, 40 per cent of the teachers in Texas have resigned. In the United States, teachers have done the same. The main reason is Results: A grave education problem and one out of five teachers sub-standard. The school year 1945-46 teachers in Texas drew $1,200 per year. Even the withholding tax on it was very small, most teachers are members of the Teacher Retirement System and contributed 5 per cent of their salaries because of membership. Hence, they receive home pay of less than what would be considered necessary to provide a bare subsistence. Is this as it should be? Most everyone will tell you that it is not and that something must be done to remedy the situation.

A brief, yet careful study of the public schools in Texas will convince any citizen of the gravity of our educational problems. Such is the purpose of the series of articles to follow.

A study of the constitution of Texas will show that it was the intention of the framers of our organic law that the state of Texas should provide for a system of public education in keeping with the needs of the citizenship. Article VII, Section I, reads: "A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the legislature of the state to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools."

In order to lay the foundation for carrying out this section of the state constitution, there was created a Permanent Free School Fund by using the vast public domain of the state for this purpose. The permanent fund now aggregates more than $100,000,000. The interest from the investment of this fund is allocated to the available school fund, and amounted to $2,770,685.19 for the school year 1945-46.

The constitution also provided for the creation of county permanent school funds by assigning to each county some 17,000 acres of land from the public domain. The principal of the 238 county permanent funds is approximately $11,000,000 and provided an income of $500,000 last year.

The constitution also created the Available School Fund and provided that not less than "one-fourth of the revenue derived from state occupation taxes . . ." one dollar of the poll tax and an ad valorem tax not to exceed thirty-five cents of the $100 of property valuation should be allocated to the available fund to be distributed annually for the support of the schools.

The available fund is distributed annually on a per capita basis to approximately 1,500,000 children between the ages of 6 and 18.

Significant is the fact that no express limitation is placed in the constitution on the powers of the legislature to levy additional taxes or make additional appropriations for the support of the public schools or for the establishment and maintenance of institutions of higher learning.

Has the state of Texas and local school districts made suitable provision for the education of the 1,500,000 children of school age in Texas? This will be the subject of succeeding articles in this series.

† REV. ROBERT H. HARPER †

Jesus Interviewed by Nicodemus. Lesson for January 19: John 3: 1-11; 16, 17.

Memory Selection: John 3:3. Most persons refer to the coming of Nicodemus by night to Jesus as an evidence that he was afraid to be seen seeking Him by day. The narrative does not warrant the conclusion that he was afraid of being seen. It will be remembered that when the disciples had slunk away, Nicodemus and Joseph carried the body of Jesus to a private sepulchre.

The fault of Nicodemus was not cowardice but spiritual pride. As a Pharisee and member of the Sanhedrin, he doubtless expected to be received with great deference when he went to Jesus. It must have been a shock to him when Jesus said he must be born again. He was doubtless further shaken in his self-esteem when Jesus asked, "Art thou a master of Israel and knowest not these things?"

We wish we could know what became of Nicodemus in the years afterward. Did he seek the new birth through faith in the great Teacher who had told him he must be born again? Or did he return to his ecclesiastical bigotry and the effort to be saved through his own good works? Of this we may be certain—in the great hour when he talked with Jesus the way of life was opened to him, and through him to us.

Born again! Many years ago a great preacher called John 3:16 the "Little Bible." If any one sentence could comprise the whole of the great Book, John 3:16 can. Through it is manifested the divine love toward men in Christ, to the end that all may be saved unto eternal life. Let us make sure of being of the number.

Davis Writes Article for "Parent-Teacher"

The January issue of the magazine, "Texas Parent-Teacher," carried an article by W. C. Davis, superintendent of the Memphis schools, the title of which was "Business Men, Wake Up!" It is reprinted:

Three major factors in education development in the United States are (1) economic conditions, (2) business-man orientation and aggressiveness, (3) salary adjustment to draw high quality personnel and to hold what we have. Since the first factor is favorable to the profession and to the standards of school work, and the third factor will be a by-product of success in developing the second factor, this article will be confined to giving an example of how business men can be brought "into the fold" for better things for the local school systems.

"Education Week" is not a new thing but the lack of use of this important emphasis for the benefit of the local schools continues and the loss of education in general is tremendous in that thousands of school executives in the United States passed it by in 1946.

An outstanding organization working for the advance of national education is the education department of the chamber of commerce of the United States, Paul H. Good, secretary, through its Washington office. This chamber offers many aids to school executives and fosters education committees in hundreds of local chambers of commerce.

But our point is factor number 2: how to bring the local business man into the school picture and to create a high degree of enthusiasm for improvements that are otherwise difficult to accomplish. The greater part of political and industrial power bearing on economics remains in the hands of the American business man and education requires further tapping of this source if many hoped-for advances are to be accomplished.

"Education Week," November 10-16 was chosen by the Memphis chamber of commerce for one of the projects in the year's program, and the education committee, of which the writer is chairman, was given the job of promoting a successful observance. This set-up required the business man, patron, and school personnel, active support of the project.

The activities for the week provided some outstanding observance for each day and night, starting on Sunday with short discussions by each minister in the city during the Sunday worship services. Monday the schools gave programs related to Armistice observance with the high school having Charles Danron of the Childress address the student body. On Tuesday the education committee, assisted by high school students, presented a demonstration of school work to the Rotary Club and repeated the program to the Lion's Club on Wednesday.

Tuesday night the annual banquet and election of officers for the Hall County unit of the State Teachers' Association was held in the high school gymnasium with the school board, the board of directors of the chamber of commerce and wives, and the chamber of commerce education committee members guests of the teachers.

Dr. James B. Boren, president of Hardin College, was the principal speaker. One hundred twenty-five teachers and patrons attended. The Wednesday program, in addition to the special program to the Lion's Club, gave a great crowd of citizens a meeting on the courthouse lawn in which music was furnished by the high school band, the singing clubs from the different schools, school yells by several pep squads, and an address by J. B. Crockett, manager of the chamber of commerce. A public address system was furnished by the chamber of commerce for this occasion. Approximately 1,000 students attended and 500 patrons were present for this outdoor meeting.

Thursday was "see-the-school-at-work-day" with 1,000 patrons attending short classroom sessions from 7 to 9 p. m. This feature was closed with a social period for patrons and students. Many phases of classroom work were demonstrated with patrons accompanying their children through the schedule. School was dismissed at noon for assembling at 7 p. m. The local parent-teacher association deserves much credit for the success of Thursday's program. Without this splendid cooperation the program would not have been so effective and of such far-reaching significance.

Friday was designated "Athletic Day" with the program including a downtown pep rally, the final football game of the season, crowning the football queen, and introducing letter men of former years, dating back to 1921. Tickets to the game were given to all pupils below the high school age. The chamber of commerce sponsored a number of downtown pep rallies preceding important games. All stores closed for one of these rallies. The chamber gave the entire teaching staff a welcoming banquet earlier in the season, at which time J. Herschel Coffee, of the West Texas State College, was the principal speaker. The members of the board of education were guests. Arrangements for this banquet were made by the chamber of commerce education committee.

Many fine results are evident but the most important is the teacher contact with patrons and business people and a marked increase in patron-interest. We recognize the necessity of creating greater interest among the business men of our city in a program of expansion, and improvement for teachers, but realize that this large group must be informed and tied-in if the best results are to be obtained. This was one of the objectives of "Education Week" and we are assured that our hopes were surpassed. The education committee of the chamber of commerce is making to follow up this advance the school system is planned enlarged program that will use of these gains.
