Census of Cotton Put At 23,928

The official census of the number of bales of cotton ginned this season until November 1 shows almost three times as much as that ginned on the same date last year.

A. L. Galley, special agent, U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Washington, sent in his cotton ginning report November 17. The card read: "Census report shows that 23,928 bales of cotton were ginned in Hall County from the crop of 1947 prior to November 1, as compared with 8,857 bales for the crop of 1946."

County Nets Big Fines In Liquor Law Violations

A total of $1,109.80 in fines was assessed against persons charged with liquor law violations in trials this week, in county court with Judge John Russell, presiding.

Of five arrests made by the sheriff's department, three were negroes and two were white, Sheriff Earl Hill stated.

Five were charged with sale of liquor and one for possession of untaxed beer. The one pleading guilty to possession of the untaxed beer had been arrested in connection with "bootlegging" before, the sheriff pointed out. This charge brought a fine of $47.45, with the other cases bringing the total fines up to $1,109.80.

One of the white men plead not guilty and he will be brought to trial at a later date, the sheriff declared.

A youth plead guilty in county court to a charge of swindling by passing a worthless check and was fined $23.45.

SUNDAY TO BE HOMECOMING DAY AT MEMPHIS METHODIST CHURCH

Next Sunday will be home coming and roll call Sunday at the First Methodist Church of Memphis, officials of the church announced this week.

The First Methodist Church was established in Memphis in 1890 with the Rev. Isaac L. Mills founder and first pastor. The Rev. R. B. Bonner was pastor during the construction of the present church which was built in 1909. The program for achievement during the 57 years of its existence has been commendable, the officials declared.

A letter mailed to all members of the church this week follows, in part:

Dear Friends: We are planning for that day we sincerely trust may be a great day in the history of our church, and you can help to make this occasion the success that it should be by giving it your enthusiastic support.

It is our earnest desire that we may have your wholehearted cooperation in this undertaking. We want you to "talk up" this occasion among your friends and, of course, be present at both Sunday School and church services.

We are counting upon the Methodists of Memphis to make this a great day. We believe in the goodness of our people, consequently, we are confidently expecting to see a great crowd present. We simply cannot afford to "let our church down" in this time when its ministry is so sorely needed all over the world. This is a day of extreme need and, also, of almost unbounded opportunity. We simply must rally to the cause of our Christ (Continued on page 8)

Cotton Quarantine May Have Little Effect This Year

Hall County has been tentatively placed under pink boll worm quarantine by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, because a pink boll worm was found in a cotton burr pile at a local gin last week by F. L. Jeffrey, agent for the department. Orders will come from Washington and the State of Texas making the quarantine official, Mr. Jeffrey stated.

The effect of the quarantine, which began this week, on cotton in Hall County, will not be felt this year, Jeffrey declared. The farmer will still take his cotton to the gin and take the amount of seed home he will need for next year's planting. He will not be able to take the burrs home.

"Of course," he stipulated, "many farmers did not use the burrs and they were burned in incinerators at the local gins. But now, in enforcing the quarantine measure, we must look at the facts that have gone before in the history of the pink boll worm."

And in a lengthy outline, Jeffrey talked of the damage the boll worm had done to other places and why the government placed these regulatory measures on localities where the boll worm is found. His story follows in part:

The government has found that where one pink boll worm is there is another and on account of operating on a small budget the inspection crew, when it finds one boll worm, sends the insect to Washington, D. C., and the quarantine operation begins. Then the inspection crew moves on to another untested area.

Each gin will operate under a dealer-carrier permit on an agreement between the gin management and the government. The gin will be responsible for all the products of ginning—from the time the cotton gets on the yard. He will have to care for the loose cotton before the ginning begins, the lint and seed after the process, for the bale and finally the burrs and other trash. This latter he will have to destroy. He cannot permit it to leave the gin.

The reason for burning burrs is because it is the natural hibernation habitat for the pink boll worm, and placing them back on the ground only serves to spread the worm from one farm to the next. (Continued on page 4)

THANKSGIVING WILL BE OBSERVED IN VARIOUS WAYS NEXT THURSDAY

Next Thursday will be Thanksgiving Day. No special observance is announced for that day but a number of individual groups have planned parties and entertainments.

An early talk with merchants around the square and in uptown Memphis have indicated they will be closed, if not all day, then part of the day. Most of the county offices will be closed as will the banks and post office. A few of the cafes will close while others will remain open, some of them announcing special Thanksgiving menus.

The Democrat will be published on Wednesday, instead of Thursday, and the publishers urge the advertisers to get their copy in early.

Austrian Winter Peas Can Now Be Bought

The AAA has Austrian winter peas available to the farmer who wishes them, Lynn McKown, administrator of the Memphis office announced Wednesday.

He said that in some years land on which the peas were planted showed a 100 per cent increase in cotton yield. He said that the peas did exceptionally well last year but that they were planted in early November while this year they will probably not be in the ground until early December.

The price this year is $3.75 per 100 pounds.

MEMPHIS 4-H BOY DECLARED NATIONAL WINNER

Gayle West is a national winner in the 4-H Club Better Methods Electric contest, a letter from J. W. Potts, Extension 4-H Club specialist to Hall County Agent W. B. Hooser, revealed this week.

West, who along with four other state winners, from this county, was announced last week as receiving a trip to Chicago to the National 4-H Club Congress to be held in that city Nov. 30 to Dec. 4. John Luther Byars, also as a state winner won a trip to the congress.

The winning of the national award will add the young Memphis High School student's already large list, Mr. Hooser said. He will receive a two hundred dollar scholarship as the national winner, the county agent added.

The letter from the Extension specialist follows, in part:

Dear Mr. Hooser: Congratulations to you and Gayle West! Saturday I received a telegram from Chicago informing me that Gayle had been selected as a national winner in the Better Methods Electric Contest. I have not had a chance to write to Gayle so I wish you would convey to him and his parents my congratulations on this latest 4-H honor. I have not heard from any of the other records which went in from Hall county.

Some time this week I will send Gayle's ticket and final instructions covering the trip to the club congress. I want to congratulate you personally on the nice records you entered in the various contests and I still have hopes that maybe we will have another national winner or two. I will not see Gayle until we get to Chicago but he has, I am sure, received a letter from Westinghouse covering some of the activities that will be held for the state Better Methods Electric Contest winners.

I hope everything is coming along in good shape and I am looking forward to a lot of fun in Chicago with the boys.

Fall Spading is Good for Garden Free from Erosion

Study of the serious damage to garden top soils caused by erosion has brought doubt about value of fall spading in many cases. Plots which are not level, where the newly turned soil might be washed away, or valuable elements leached out by heavy rains, may be more harmed than benefited.

Leave Surface in Rough After Fall Spading.

Where this danger is not present, fall spading is beneficial for heavy soil, and in cases where sod is turned under, or manure spaded in. When practiced, the surface should not be leveled or raked after spading, but left in rough conditions with small hills and hollows.

Frost action will tend to break down and loosen heavy soils, and the uneven surface will check the runoff of water, and cause it to soak in. Fall spading will not always take the place of spring spading, but it will make spring preparation much easier.

Where erosion is a problem, and the soil is heavy, stir it with a wheel hoe a few inches deep and sow seed of rye at the rate of 1 pound to 300 square feet. This will germinate in a few days and should make some growth this fall. It will survive the winter and start growing in the spring with the first thaw. It can be turned under when the time comes and its green leaves will decay quickly and add substantial quantities of both humus and nitrogen to the soil.

Gardens which are spaded this fall, can be sown to this cover crop; and this is a good practice when manure is to be spaded under, or sod turned. The rye will give protection against erosion. But since spring spading will also be necessary, to turn under the rye, little is gained by spading a garden where a cover crop is to be grown, unless there is some material to be spaded under.

Fall is the best time to spade under limestone screenings, which are excellent for loosening heavy soils. There is little danger of using too much and a quantity as small as four pounds to 100 square feet will be effective.

State Guard Will Have Annual Meet

Former members of the Texas State Guard from at least 20 cities are expected in Austin for the annual convention of the Guard Officers' Association December 6-7, Allan D. Rooke of Woodsboro, president, estimated this week.

Included in the reservations list are requests from Dallas, Fort Worth, Victoria, Mission, Corpus Christi, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio, Laredo, Amarillo, Pampa, Nocona, Marshall and Alice, Rooke said. He predicted that approximately 200 men would attend the convention.

Heading the agenda will be discussions on organization of the Texas State Guard Reserve. Gov. Beauford H. Jester, Adj. Gen. K. L. Berry and Asst. Adj. Gen. Will H. Martin are considering formation plans for the Reserve, which was authorized by a law enacted by the 50th legislature. Generals Berry and Martin are scheduled for Guard Reserve talks on the convention program.

In addition, Don Peacock, San Antonio, program chairman, said that stress would be given to enlarging the present officers' association. He said that nearly 100 former members of the Guard had joined the association, and predicted that it would be more than doubled by the convention date.

As a civilian unit, Rooke said, the State Guard Reserve would be a beneficial bulwark to the military set-up. Not only would it strengthen present internal security, but it would prove a valuable and necessary aid in event of future war, he said. Serving while the Texas National Guard was in active duty in World War II, the State Guard had a membership of more than 18,000 men, Rooke pointed out.

Astronomers Will See Mars Feb. 18

Astronomers are going to get a good look at the planet Mars next February 18, Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, director of the University of Texas McDonald Observatory, says.

On that date, Mars will be close enough for magnification to a size four times as large as the full moon appears to the eye. Dr. Kuiper said he hopes to observe the infrared spectrum of polar caps and green areas previously visible, and perhaps determine whether water is present on Mars. Mars will make its closest approach to earth for the next two years. Astronomers will look at the planet through a spectrometer, sensitive instrument which applies the science of electronics to astronomy.

Christmas Flowers Can Be Grown in Window Garden

A Winter Window Garden Makes Spring Come Faster, and Teaches Many Lessons.

Growing flowers for Christmas in the modern home is not easy, but it can be done if Paper White Narcissus bulbs are started Nov. 1, and grown in carefully regulated temperatures. Without such care the flowers are likely to be inferior, and the stems weak, because the bulbs have not matured to the degree most favorable for "forcing."

"Forcing" is the florist's word for making a plant flower out of season; and the formula for accomplishing this is much the same with all bulbs. Bulbs develop, even in storage; and take time to reach the stage where they are ready to grow. If planted then, they first must produce roots, since top growth without good roots is weak, and seldom flowers.

Paper White narcissi, planted in bowls filled with gravel or perl chips, should be kept in a temperature below 60 degrees for four weeks; preferably in dim light. When root growth is sufficient, top growth will begin, and then they should have all the light possible. Best flowers will result when the temperature never exceeds 70 degrees; keep them away from radiators and steam pipes, and out of overheated living rooms.

Instead of gravel, bowls may be filled with bulb fibre, or potting soil. Containers should be deep enough to allow two inches of gravel, fibre or soil below them. Set the bulbs close together but do not let them touch; and only the necks should emerge from the soil. Yellow Paper Whites (soliel d'or) and Narcissus Early Perfection can also be grown by these methods; but they take longer to make flowers. The best time to start all these is Dec. 1, for mid-January flowers.

Large bulbs of hyacinths can be grown in water in special glasses; and both bulbs and glasses are available this year for the first time since the war began. The glasses support the bulbs just above the water, into which their roots drop. It takes 10 to 12 weeks for the roots to develop, in a dark place in cool temperature. When roots fill the glass and top growth begins, accustom the plant gradually to light, and grow slowly in a temperature below 65 degrees. The water should not be changed, but merely replenished.

When top growth begins, these bulbs must have all the light you can give them. They should be kept near windows, in a sunparlor or room where ventilation can be given and temperatures kept down. By arranging shelves in front of a window on which the plants can stand, an attractive display is made.

Lily of the Valley plants, which can be flowered in bowls of moss and water, are again available in extremely limited quantities.

Rowell Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barnett of Lakeview, sailed from California this week.

Mary Lollis shopped in Amarillo Tuesday.

Basketball Champions To Be Decided Here

Memphis will be the site of the round robin basketball championship games, to be held in February, Coach Loren McCullough of the Cyclone revealed here Wednesday.

He said that it had been the custom for the districts where more than ten teams competed to have a north and south champion, which competed in the meet for the regional championship. The southern half of this district, which is 2-A in basketball, is composed of Memphis, Shamrock, McLean, Wellington, Clarendon, and Wheeler.

If two champions are permitted (north and south), the championship will be decided on two separate series on the weekends of February 14 and 21. But if two champions are not allowed the first round will be on the weekends of February 7 and 14.

There are 461 million acres of commercial forest area in America, of which 75 per cent is privately owned and 25 per cent by the federal government, states, and municipalities.

Last year, farmers in the U. S. raised only about 50,000 mule colts and 205,000 horse colts, the smallest total since at least 1920.

TURKEY STEAKS GOOD EVERY DAY

Turkey usually means a Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner to most people. Or a banquet for some special occasion.

That idea has always made turkey production a risky business. An unsteady demand plus an uncertain price made poultrymen think twice before going into the turkey business.

The consumer thinks twice before buying a turkey, too. A small family can't use the large bird except for special occasions and it isn't always an economical buy, nor easy to prepare and serve.

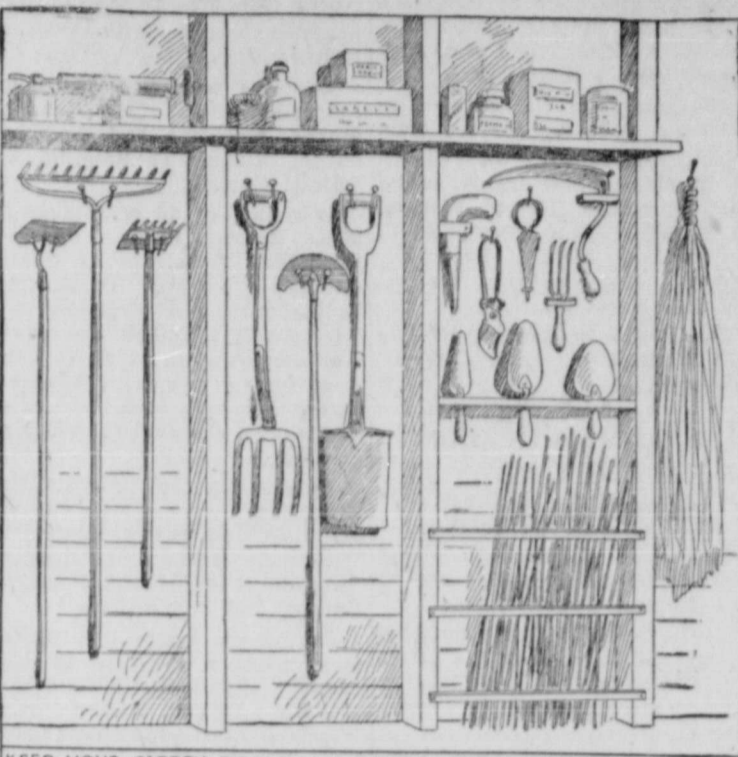

F. Z. Benz Blossom, extension poultry marketing specialist for Texas A. & M. College, says that some work has been done during the past few years on selling turkey in forms that would be attractive to consumers the year 'round. He says there are six fundamental requirements of merchandising which turkey products must meet before greater year 'round consumption will occur—uniformity, economy, nutrition, eye appeal, ease of preparation, and service. One turkey product which meets these requirements is the boneless turkey steak, and it also offers an opportunity to use the large toms to an advantage.

Boneless turkey steaks are comparatively simple to prepare and many processors throughout the state offer them for sale. The meat is removed from the thigh and breast bones, cut into four to four and one-half ounce portions, and then run through a machine such as is used to make veal cutlets. The result is a generous serving of boneless turkey, either light or dark meat. They are easily and quickly cooked.

The drumsticks, wings, giblets, back and neck are left to be used in different ways. Some firms sell these parts as pieced turkey, other to canneries. Locker plant operators have found that their customers use these bony pieces for salad meats, soup stock, and roasting. The drumsticks, wings, and backs may be boned and the meat made into the steaks, but it requires more labor and consequently the cost of such steaks is a little higher.

Other turkey products which have been developed recently to encourage greater consumption all year are disjointed turkey, canned turkey, smoked turkey, fryers, and barbecued turkey. They all have a definite place in the better merchandising of the Great American Bird.

Save Costly Garden Tools By Checking Winter Rust

KEEP YOUR GARDEN TOOLS IN A HANDY RACK. IT IS ECONOMY.

Garden tools are precious in this inflation era. Wise gardeners will take care of those they have, knowing that to replace them will cost far more than in prewar days.

Since the greatest deterioration comes when tools are idle, careful cleaning this fall and dry storage over winter are necessary precautions.

The greatest enemy of tools is rust. This attacks the metal parts during the winter when the tools are in storage and does more damage than in the summer, when they are in constant use.

To check the rust, first clean all outside metal parts by washing thoroughly. Caked mud should be softened and removed. Then dry, and cover the metal with a thin film of lubricating grease, or oil. All bearings of wheel tools should be oiled. It is possible to obtain new handles, where the old ones have broken, and these should be set in place this fall.

Spraying and dusting equipment should be cleaned thoroughly of all old spray materials. Take the nozzles of sprayers apart and clean. Oil the pumps of sprayers, and set them away without screwing down the tank caps, so that the rubber gaskets are not compressed.

Dusters should be cleaned and the outside metal parts oiled, but instead of oil, powdered graphite should be used on the inside.

Make a resolution when your tools have been cleaned, to keep them clean in the future. This will prolong their lives, and make a substantial saving. A rack in which every tool has its place will be found well worthwhile.

Legion Auxiliary Gifts

We believe every American Legion post in Texas needs no urging to cooperate with each auxiliary unit in seeing that its full quota of presents, and a little more, is raised this year. The load at the six hospitals in Texas has increased more than 300 per cent since last Christmas. It will, by the law of averages, get larger every year. The units need those gifts, or the money for them. Mr. Post Commander, it should be your privilege, and pleasure, to contact your auxiliary president and offer her your own, and your post's fullest cooperation.—Texas Legion News.

Delphian Club Honors Newcomers At Seated Tea

The Delphian Club honored the new women of Memphis at a seated tea Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Bill Kesterson. Mrs. W. C. Dickey and Mrs. W. C. Davis were co-hostesses on this occasion.

"Our Neighbors Next Door" was the study topic for the day and was in keeping with the year's study, "World Neighbors." Mrs. C. C. Hodges, president, welcomed the guests and Mrs. Gordon Gilliam, secretary, introduced each club member who responded with the number of years she had been a club member, and each guest who answered with the length of time she had been a resident of Memphis.

Mrs. Roy Guthrie, well known book reviewer and a former member of the club, reviewed the classic, "Old Wives Tales" by Arnold Bennett. In a most interesting and charming manner, Mrs. Guthrie discussed the qualities that make a book a classic, briefly presented the life of the author and why he wrote the book, and presented the characters and events of the story.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardul is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

- 1 Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "lame" to come.
- 2 Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardul. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

"Social Council" Program Theme At Culture Club

Mrs. Herschel Combs, 608 North 10th, was hostess on Wednesday afternoon to the Woman's Culture Club.

Business was discussed under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Morris, president, and the theme of the afternoon's program was "Social Council."

Introducing the entertainment, Mrs. Homer Tribble discussed "Provision for Need of Special Groups—Physically Handicapped, Delinquent, and Orphans." In her talk, Mrs. Tribble placed special emphasis on what is being done for the physically handicapped in Memphis, both by local organizations and state and national departments.

Concluding the program Mrs. R. E. Clark gave a very interesting and informative address on "Scientific Advance of Measures for Control of Infantile Paralysis, Cancer, and Tuberculosis."

During the tea hour a refreshment plate was served to Mesdames R. E. Clark, Clarence Morris, Ward Gurley, Jeanette Irons, Lloyd Phillips, Homer Tribble, Miss Esta McElrath, and hostess.

the war and a number of violations of this law are in evidence, he declared.

Besides the noise, which adds to the towns normal traffic din, the firecrackers are a nuisance where there are large crowds, as well as dangerous and add to the fire hazard, he said.

The fire loss this year thus far has been low and the law enforcement agencies of Memphis urge continued support of the 1917 good record. "We would appreciate it if merchants would caution those who purchase firecrackers, to take them home before discharging them," Chief Baten stated.

The fire zone, as defined by the city ordinance, begins at the court house and extends for two blocks in each direction.

other, thereby giving means other than natural flight to infest areas free of the menace.

In the Presidio Valley, where in some areas the loss has been as high as fifty per cent of the crop, the farmer uses sterilized seed that are heated to 150 degrees Fahrenheit which kills the hibernating larva, that can bore into a seed and live until spring unless the seed are given this treatment.

Bale to Acre

Germination of the seed is not affected by the heat, a temperature of 175 degrees being necessary to render the seed useless for planting. And in some areas where only sterilized seed are used the farmer averages a bale to the acre. Heated seeds are used in Arizona, the El Paso area, parts of New Mexico, and in the Rio Grande Valley.

The worm hibernates in the larva stage of its development and it has been found that it can go farther and spread faster when transported by humans. The history of the pink boll worm on this continent begins in the country of Old Mexico prior to 1912. Cotton had been shipped into the state of Durango near Torreon from Egypt and the infestation had begun. Seed were being shipped into the United States and that is how it first entered this country. Mills over here were checked and in 1917 the first discovery of pink boll worm activity was found near Hearne, Texas.

Working hard at research the government has found means of completely ridding an area of the worm and when this is done they lift the quarantine. But at this early date they knew little of it or its capacity for damaging crops.

Fortunately, however, the activity of the government, with the help of farmers and processors, has kept the spread of the worm confined to the southwestern area, the states of Arkansas, Mississippi and the other cotton producing southern states never having been an affected area.

Weather Is Large Factor

Humidity and heat brings the larva out of hibernation and it is hoped that the late planting season here will aid naturally in the grub's eradication. The larva changes into the pupa and from that into the moth adult which does not feed but only lays eggs, then dies. But in order to do this the adult must have cotton in the square stage. It is the hope that the late Panhandle spring will be warm enough to cause the growth to an adult before the square season and it will die without reproduction. If this does not work other means of eradication will be resorted to.

The worm is first an egg, then a larva, pupa, and adult; and it completes its life cycle in thirty days in warm weather. But in the late fall in the state of larva, it bores into cottonseed; lives in trash and vegetation in the cotton fields, or bores into the earth where it hibernates until spring.

Only authorized cotton mills can receive the seed from an infested area and there are some thirty of them near Memphis. The West Texas Cotton Oil Company of Memphis will continue to receive seed from all areas and within two weeks expects to have machinery to sterilize seed under quarantine regulations.

The oil mill at Childress is also preparing to install the equipment necessary and report they will be ready immediately and the Quana oil mill is already a qualified receiver under quarantine conditions.

In Fort Worth the Traders Oil Mill is a qualified outlet for seed as is the Swift Company plant there. These mills are part of the thirty-odd crushing plants in this area that can receive the seeds the same as they did when there was no quarantine.

Inspection Regulations

Only authorized mills can receive seed from infested areas and only authorized gins, dealers and truckers can handle the products. Each truck must be inspected. It must have a tight body to prevent leakage of seed en route and the beds must be smooth enough to be swept clean on unloading. And each load must be covered with a tarpaulin before leaving the dealer's yard.

Approximately 35 counties in Northwest Texas have been found to have the pink boll this season.

Assignment for the presence of the worm is difficult. As said before, the weather is a large factor. The moths were carried from old Mexico to Texas fields in a hurricane a number of years ago.

The insect itself can only travel short distances by flight, but it is thought that the dry season and low pressure areas in the Southwest aided the worm to get into Hall County as well as the other southwestern counties this year by winddrift.

The boll worm causes a 20 per cent loss annually and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine modern methods of control and eradication are studied by representatives of the Byrle Elliston of Hereford and Deaf Smith County was a visitor in Memphis Thursday morning, contacting local business men. He was en route to Dallas, Austin and Houston, where he will show a film to business leaders and industrialists in an effort to promote West Texas.

Byrle Elliston of Hereford Visitor Here Thursday

The film, part of which was taken during the recent Cotton Carnival, will be brought to Memphis and shown some time in the near future, Elliston said.

The apparent lack of interest or worry about the washing away of soil through wind and water erosion recalls a story which happened several years ago. It goes like this:

A farm magazine published pictures of a dilapidated house and washed-away field and invited its readers to "tell your own story of the two pictures." An Oklahoma Indian won over 2,604 contestants with the following:

"Both pictures show white man crazy. Make big tepee, plow hill. Water wash. Wind blow soil, grass all gone. Squaw gone, papoose too. No chuk-away. No pig, no corn, no hay, no cow, no pony. Indian no plow land. Keep grass. Buffalo eat. Indian eat buffalo. Hide no make terrace. No build dam. No give dam. All time eat. No hunt job. No hitchhike. No ask relief. No shoot pig. Great Spirit make grass. Indian no work White man heap crazy."

now has to go over Highway 66, and give alternate routes from coast to coast—a nice set up for the people who travel. The road from Clarendon to Turkey should also be pushed, for it would serve a lot of local people as well as be a feeder for the through highway.

M. O. Goodpasture hands me this one:

CHINESE LAUNDRY SIGN

You want credit,
Me give.
You no pay.
Me get sore.
Me think it better
You get sore.

Summer ends and winter begins. It was a long, dry and hot summer, and now winter and wet weather are at the helm. When a farmer can make enough per acre to pay for this high-priced Hall County land without any rain, there is no telling how much he can make if the proper amount of moisture and right weather conditions prevailed at the proper time.

While the cotton farmer is getting a rest because of wet weather, the wheat farmer is rejoicing because he can now sow his winter wheat. The first is doing his best to clothe the naked humanity and the latter hopes to fill humanity's stomach.

We of this farming section realize the benefits derived from proper soil conservation and caring for the land. We know it will produce better crops if kept up and will last long enough for future generations to use. Farmers who have been tilling the soil in this area have learned by experience how to take care of the land, when to plant, what to plant, when to cultivate and when to gather. A soil conservation speaker recently said the farmer should have a technician to tell him what to do—leaving the inference that he should not think for himself. I imagine a technician would find himself at sea trying to tell a farmer what to do on certain types of soil in Hall county.

Right now the farmer, after being told that cotton burrs are beneficial to the soil, finds that he cannot take his burrs home from the gin because a pink boll worm was found in a burr rick on a gin lot. Perhaps it is the proper thing to do—quarantine against the pink worm—in order to stamp out the pest before it becomes a liability. If that is the case, no one will complain, even if Hall County soil will lose $50,000 worth of good fertilizer because the burrs cannot be put back on the land.

Morris Higley, publisher of the Childress Index, flew into Amarillo from California Tuesday. The fog was so dense the plane couldn't light, so he was taken on to Oklahoma City, Wednesday morning he was flown back to Amarillo, and again the fog prevented lighting, so he was flown to Albuquerque, Wednesday afternoon, he was to be flown back to Amarillo and it was foggy again. Haven't learned whether he has been landed, but an Amarillo man suggested that he get a horse and ride to Childress from Oklahoma City or Albuquerque—whichever place he can light.

Turkey Census Below Last Year By 16 Per Cent

U. S. farmers now have 34 million turkeys on the farm, and although that sounds like a lot of meat, it's 16 percent less than last year's production.

About 3,681,000 of those birds are in Texas, which is being ranked out of another first place by California, where almost 4 million turkeys are being raised. All but three states in the union show decreases in turkeys raised compared with a year ago, according to USDA's Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The decrease, says the bureau, is due to unfavorable price relationships, unusually large storage stocks toward the end of last season, high feed costs and the uncertainty of 1947 turkey prices. Texas turkey raisers have 13 percent less birds than in 1946, when at this time of year there were better than 4,231,000 turkeys in the state.

Showing of New Hudson Will Be Announced Soon

The new Hudson has been enthusiastically received by the Hudson dealers who have previewed it, reports E. E. Rice, Hudson dealer for Memphis and vicinity who returned Saturday from Fort Worth where he attended a closed showing for Hudson dealers. He was accompanied to Fort Worth by A. O. Sturdevant, shop foreman.

"Production of the new Hudsons is steadily increasing at the Hudson Motor Car Company's plants in Detroit," Rice said.

The public showing and announcement of this entirely new automobile will take place in Memphis as soon as all of Hudson's 3,000 distributors and dealers have received their display cars, Mr. Rice said. At that time the full story of the new Hudson will be told.

"The new Hudson was made possible as the result of recognition by Hudson engineers of the fact that, if the American-made car is to give its owner the beauty and stability advantages found in low-built automobiles, and still maintain interior comfort and headroom, a wholly new approach would have to be devised, tested, proved, and put into mass production," Mr. Rice said. He listed the following as significant developments: The new Hudson has a lower center of gravity than any other American automobile. It is only five feet from the ground to its top. It provides more headroom than any other mass-produced automobile. It is a car which upon entering, you step down into, not up on. It has the roomiest seats. It really cradles passengers between the axles.

"Passengers in the new Hudson sit down within the foundation frame members cradled between the axles and completely ahead of the rear wheels," Mr. Rice pointed out. "This, together with the car's low center of gravity, and unusually rigid construction, contributes to an easy gliding ride heretofore never experienced in motoring."

The new Hudson, Mr. Rice added will be powered by a new super-six engine, the most powerful six cylinder engine built today, and an improved super-eight engine.

Mr. Rice said that because the new Hudson is so different from any car ever mass-produced, changeover problems were greatly multiplied, but despite this fact only a few weeks elapsed between the time the last 1947 model was built until the first new Hudson rolled off the final assembly line.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

CONCENTRATE ON DOING THE BIG THINGS

ABOUT 20 miles from Cleveland is Solon, Ohio. And in Solon lives quite a remarkable woman. Now we will have to pick up our suitcases and go back to 1939. In that year Earl I. Kohler bought a small tractor factory. The bookkeeper was named Pearl and it happened just as you are thinking; the boss fell in love with the bookkeeper and pretty soon it was the middle aisle at high noon.

D. Carnegie

After some days of doubt, she decided to see what she could do... yes, a woman the head of a tractor business. It's called the Breedy tractor, after the name of the original maker. It's pronounced as if spelled Breedy.

So she started up. Now came a shock. In just 19 days after she started up she lost control of the business.

"We told you," said her alleged friends.

She was stunned. Business was beyond her.

Then she decided to try again; she went to court and six months later was successful in having control of the tractor factory returned to her.

She found out how little she really knew about the business. For instance, she was not aware that there was more than one kind of steel. She did not know anything about the ratio of gears and the speed of a motor; in fact, in all the factory there wasn't a man or boy who didn't know these fundamentals.

Yet she decided to go ahead and make a success. She began to study the business; she spent night after night studying books and interviewing experts. She found that other firms regarded a woman-headed business with suspicion, but she kept plugging ahead.

Here's a story on the back of a postage stamp: in 1941 she manufactured 130 tractors.

She now began to get the hang of it. In 1946 Mrs. Pearl J. Kohler manufactured 8,000 tractors.

This year she tells me she thinks they may hit 20,000—a staggering number indeed.

I asked her if she had some rule that had helped her more than anything else and she said she had. Here it is: "Concentrate on doing the big things." Then she went on to say that in her opinion, many business executives failed because they couldn't distinguish between the important thing to be done and the small or trivial thing.

So there she is: Mrs. Pearl J. Kohler, of Solon, Ohio, who took over her husband's business when he died and has made an outstanding success of it.

Three High School Students Compete In National Contest

Three seniors from Memphis High School have been elected by their classmates to compete with students from other high schools throughout the United States and territories for the 119 Pepsi-Cola four-year college scholarships and more than 550 fifty-dollar college entrance awards being offered again this year by the Pepsi-Cola scholarship board.

The contestants chosen were Jimmy Bownds, Charlene Griffith, and Marion Long.

According to Weldon McCreary, principal of Memphis High, it is both a scholastic and a personal honor to be selected as a contestant for one of these scholarships, since a student so elected must be one who is in the opinion of his classmates "most likely to make an important contribution to human progress." The election, which was held at a senior class meeting on November 14, was in itself an exercise in practical American democracy, Mr. McCreary said.

If one of the students from Memphis wins a scholarship, he or she will have full tuition and certain incidental fees paid for four years at any accredited academic college he wishes to attend in the United States, its territories, or Canada. In addition, he will receive an allowance of $25 a month during the four academic years plus traveling expenses at the rate of three cents a mile for one round trip between home and college each school year. There will be five runners-up for every scholarship to be given, and each will receive a college entrance award which carries a grant of $50 payable if the winner enters college by the fall of 1948.

These scholarship awards are financed by the Pepsi-Cola Company as a part of its public service program, it was said.

At 9 a. m. Friday the seniors who have been elected will take a two-hour specially prepared scholastic aptitude test in the high school. Immediately following the examination, the test papers will be collected, placed in an envelope provided for that purpose, and sent at once for scoring to the college entrance examination board, which is an independent testing board composed of representatives of American colleges and universities.

The students in each state who receive the highest scores on this preliminary test will then take a second examination January 24. This test will be the regular supervised scholastic aptitude test of the college entrance examination board. The contestants in each state who receive the highest scores on this final test and who have financial need will win the Pepsi-Cola 4-year college scholarships set aside specifically for that state, and the five highest runners-up for each scholarship will receive the college entrance awards.

The winners will be announced early in March.

Two scholarships will be awarded in each of the forty-eight states and in the District of Columbia, and one each in Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. One additional scholarship will be granted to a Negro student in each of the eighteen southern states having separate school systems for Negroes.

The scholarship program is planned and administered by a group of educators known as the Pepsi-Cola scholarship board. The board is incorporated separately from the Pepsi-Cola Company and has as its president Floyd W. Reeves, professor of administration at the University of Chicago. The director of the scholarship program is John M. Stalnaker, professor of psychology at Stanford University, who has worked extensively in the field of testing and selection procedures, it was stated.

Although it is just now going into its fourth year, this scholarship program is already sending 167 boys and girls to more than 140 of the nation's colleges and universities for four years of undergraduate work, and 1,800 other students have been encouraged to continue their education through the winning of college entrance awards. Once a winner is in college, the only scholastic requirement for the continuance of his scholarship throughout the four-year period is that he remain in good standing and progress normally from year to year. He has no obligation to the Pepsi-Cola Company either during the four years in which the scholarship is in effect or after he has graduated, it was pointed out.

In announcing this fourth annual scholarship competition to educators throughout the United States, Mr. Stalnaker, director of the program, said, "All over the country, boys and girls of exceptional promise are denied the opportunity of college training because they cannot afford it. We have set ourselves the task of discovering and promoting the growth of some of these students who can add materially to the enrichment of the American way of life. Thus we are investing in human resources—an investment which, according to the president of one of our colleges, is probably the most permanent and abiding contribution which can be made to society today."

People living on farms owned an estimated $22,077 million of currency, bank deposits, United States Savings Bonds in cooperatives at of 1947, in comparison $4,975 million early The birth rate 1946 was approximately since 1929. There increase of 2,360,000 lation in 1946 over this number 773,000 born during the year

The Fine Art of the Apothecary has not been lost

The old apothecary of years ago was a mysterious and influential figure. Under his influence roots, herbs, and minerals were turned into pills, tracts, and plasters. The doctor's prescriptions were filled, the patient's health and comfort stored. Although much of the mystery with which he was surrounded has vanished, the fine art of the apothecary has not been lost. A visit to the prescription department will convince the skeptical that his function is an important adjunct to modern medical practice. When you it necessary to consult a physician, bring prescriptions to us to be filled. Your doctor's orders will be followed to the letter.

BASTE, DON'T WASTE

Miss Natalie K. Fitch, professor of home economics at Teacher's College, Columbia University, New York City, shows women an efficient way to save used fat during holiday cooking. Excess grease poured from the roasting pan before making gravy, goes into the container for re-use. When it is no longer fit for cooking use, fat should be turned over to the meat dealer. The world is piteously short of fats and oils and every pound of used cooking fat turned over to the meat dealer helps relieve the world wide shortage.

"Thanksgiving is here,
Turkeys are fat,
Please put a dime

"Thanksgiving is here,

Please put your grease
In the used fat can."

THANKSGIVING THRIFT

Margaret Alton, aged two, helps buy herself a Thanksgiving drumstick by turning used cooking fat over to meat dealer Vincent DiMarco, New York City. Her mother, Mrs. Gizi Alton, editor of "Modern Knitting," knows that fat should be salvaged from holiday ducks, chickens and turkeys as well as lesser weekday meats, to cut down future meat bills.

Library At High School Growing

The library of Memphis High School has added two new sets of books to its shelves, it was announced Tuesday.

They are a complete set of Galsworthy and Britannica Junior. These new sets will be a great interest and help to the student body, teachers said.

The library receives the Book of the Month. The two latest members in this section are "Lotz" and "When the Mountain Fell" according to the report of Miss Ira Hammond, librarian. Miss Hammond also said 10 copies of News Week magazine were received each week.

The library is a growing unit in the school system. It is used by the entire student body.

Amateur Landscaper Needs to Plan For Growth of Plants

It's easy to spot an amateur landscape gardener.

He does two things that give him away. First, he plants too close to the house, especially when the shrubs are small. They look better there, he thinks, and he forgets that when several feet tall, the plant will be crowded and its shape spoiled. Long limbs will scrape paint from the house, too.

Second, the amateur landscaper will often plant too many shrubs. In his enthusiasm, he wants every kind of shrub he sees. The well-planned landscape will look rather barren for the first few years. After that, the shrub growth will fill out the bare spots.

Sadie Hatfield, extension landscape gardening specialist for Texas A. & M. College, says that large growing plants, such as arizona cypress, wax ligustrum, cherry laurel, and evergreen privet, need ten feet or more of space. Other plants and shrubs need space in proportion to their full growth.

An overplanted yard, like an over-crowded home, lacks neatness and symmetry. A well-developed landscaping plan, prepared before planting, will pay dividends in the end.

Girl Gladiator In Grid Game

Frankie Groves, 103-pound, 16-year-old Stinnett high school girl, was good enough to hold her own on eight plays in the game last Friday at Stinnett against the Groom high school football team.

In fact she did so well that she and her coach, Truman L. Johnson, former Centenary college star, who is a Cherokee Indian, have been invited to appear on a national radio program this week.

Stinnett merchants were so enthusiastic over the prospect that they passed the hat around Saturday and the result is that the girl gladiator of the gridiron will get the trip east for the radio show.

Stinnett lost 14-6 but the victory was all Frankie's and the local townspeople's.

Smart Gardeners Get Jump On Insects By Fall Preparation

It's smart gardening to double-cross garden insect pests by fall spading or plowing in preparation for spring planting.

Extension entomologists for Texas A. & M. College say that fall spading or plowing is one of the most important steps in insect control. It interferes with the natural and normal activities of the insects for living through the winter. There are two groups of insects that give trouble—those that winter above the ground, and others that winter below the surface.

Fall spading upsets both groups. The surface group can stand severe cold but not burying in moist soil. The burrowers cannot endure exposure to winter weather. Fall spading after they have settled themselves for the winter disturbs the protection they have chosen and results in a heavy winter kill of the pests.

There are other good reasons for turning the soil in the winter. In heavier clay soils, winter freezing and thawing breaks up clods and improves the physical condition of the exposed soil. It's possible to plant earlier in the spring. And spading under of rotted manure or compost in the fall improves both the fertility and physical condition of most garden soils.

Dental Examination Of Hall County Students Finished

The dental survey of Hall County students was concluded last week, Dr. F. B. Wiebusch of the State Dental Department said.

He said that a detailed report of the findings would come from Austin later, but the general condition of the children's teeth was good. He said the party would leave Thursday for Austin unless plans were changed at the last moment.

The detailed work of the D. M. F. study for long time comparisons and re-search were not done this time, he explained, indicating that the earlier reports of D. M. F. study would actually take place in the future.

He told W. C. Davis, superintendent of the Memphis schools, that he would send a copy of his report that he will make in Austin, to him soon.

The efforts of the Memphis chamber of commerce secured this examination for Hall County children.

Dr. Wiebusch was assisted by Mrs. Virginia Paddock, a technical clerical dental assistant. They are under the supervision of the Texas State Health Department of which Dr. Edward Taylor of Austin is the dental head.

Miss Vera Harris Becomes Bride of A. J. Berry in Fort Worth Rites

Miss Vera Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Harris of Fort Worth, became the bride of A. J. Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berry of Estelline, at the parsonage of the Central Methodist Church of Fort Worth on Wednesday, November 5.

Dr. Alfred Brown, pastor, read the single-ring ceremony. For her wedding the bride chose a pearl grey suit of gabardine accented by a white blouse and a corsage of white gardenias and tuberoses tied with white satin ribbon. She carried out the traditional custom of wearing "something old, new, borrowed, and blue." For something old she wore a rhinestone pin and carried a hand-made Irish linen handkerchief as something borrowed.

Miss Marie Read of Fort Worth, maid of honor, was wearing a beige gabardine suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Bunk Taylor attended the bridegroom as best man.

The bride is a graduate of the Cleburne High School and for the past five years has been employed at the Stafford-Lowden Printing Company in Fort Worth.

The bridegroom, who attended the Estelline schools, is well known in Memphis having been employed at Tarver Drug for several months prior to entering the armed service. He entered the armed service in January, 1945. He was discharged on September 1, 1946, and soon after returning home enrolled at SMU. At the present time he is a student at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry are at home at 2929 Lipscomb, Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Williams of Hanford, Calif., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Bertha Lee Cassel of Memphis, and brother of Lakeview.

FOR BENEFIT OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

The dental examination of the approximately 2,505 school children in Hall county was commendable. All too often in life have we neglected for one reason or other oral health.

Whether we have lived in a modern metropolis with a drug store on every second corner and bought dentifrices by the dollars worth, or in the far reaches of a rural community the means to good teeth has been at our door.

Brushing the teeth twice daily is a habit easily acquired by all. Once after breakfast, and once each night before bedtime and the secret to pure white teeth, minus decay is our own.

Often in childhood, as in grown up life, we let little things slip—we forget; we go to a picture show, we attend a neighborhood party and finally at home, sleepily, we climb into bed without remembering to "brush our teeth for health's sake."

Then when we reach the ripe old age of thirty and following that, come to forty, we find that our visits to the dentist are more frequent. If, only in our youth we had listened to the advice of our elders—that oral cleanliness is as important as our bath.

It will pay off in dividends twenty years from now. A dentist should be consulted regularly once or twice a year but brushing the teeth needs no consultation. Only a few minutes scrubbing each day can do the job.

So again we say the dental examination of our school children was commendable. May the Memphis chamber of commerce be saluted for its efforts in getting this service from the state health dental department.

Thirty-five Hereford calves were purchased by fourteen 4-H Club boys for their 1947-48 feeding program. The calves were contracted in November from Chester Burnett of Silverton and were delivered Saturday, November 1. Most of us blame nature because we do not become famous. We don't have the voice or the presence or something else. There are many singers with far richer voices than Cantor or Jolson or Durante—but these three have personality. As Durante says, "It's gotta come from the heart."

This Week in WASHINGTON

IN SPITE OF THE special session of congress the talk here in Washington centers largely around the recent report of the President's civil rights committee and the widespread ignorance of the American people on the Bill of Rights and just what American democracy means to them. It is a pretty much for granted that the congress will provide the money for a stop-gap relief program in Europe and that although there may be some discussion of the long-range Marshall plan, it will not be taken up seriously or enacted until the regular session convening in January.

The colossal ignorance of the people on the liberties of an individual under our government as reported by the President's committee, and the consistent violation of civil rights of large segments of the citizens of the country has finally lashed official Washington into a mood to do something about it. What to do, however, is the question. It constitutes a grass roots problem of education, for the report says that factual surveys show that one third of American citizens never heard of the Bill of Rights and only one out of five have a reasonably accurate knowledge of what they are or what they mean. The report called for a vigorous campaign of education to prevent this ignorance and the resultant prejudice and bigotry which causes the violations of these principles upon which the republic was founded.

However, we see these rights violated here in Washington by members of the congress who should and do know better but who are blinded by intolerance. The most recent example was in the probe of communism in Hollywood. The committee as an arm of congress of course has a right and a duty to inquire into any subject which may affect the welfare of the nation. Particularly they have a right to investigate communism in all its phases and ramifications. But they do not have the right to set themselves up as a grand jury and invade the judicial field and trample upon all civil rights in so doing. This is the thinking here among those most anxious to preserve the American ideology.

Educators, government officials, community and civic leaders and others who are interested are seeking a way to dramatize rights and bring it before the people than even the President is now doing. Even the loyalty tests for government employees and the army without a hearing. This condition, however, the same category as the citizen called down congressional communitarians who, branded as such, is then forced to defend himself and if he fails into jail. Loyalty tests for government employees is a condition of employment. Just as a person in a private industry if the best interests of the public be fired.

WITH SPEAKER of the house of representatives posing considerations at the special session, Congressman's Knott may possibly go over for a larger session. What the special session about prices and the living is questionable from a re-imposition of taxes to export control on scarce commodities, price control on commodities and many others have been offered to realize the danger of rises, but there is a fusion of ideas which no cohesive program.

HEARINGS BEFORE ways and means committee taxing of farmer as a result of testimony which was sent at a dozen of the past few years.  REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

The Way of Love.
Lesson for November 23: I John 2:7-11, 15-17; 3:3-18.
Memory Selection: I Corinthians 14:1.
 The lesson may be considered in a series of contrasts between those who love and those who hate. The man who hates his brother is in darkness; he who loves abides in the light. The love of the evil of the world is enmity toward God; he who loves God overcomes the world and its lusts. Whosoever hates his brother is a murderer; he who loves God is ready to serve.
 To love is an old commandment, and was in John's time, because Jesus gave it. It may become new to those who learn its meaning in their hearts through faith in Jesus.
 Love distinguished the early disciples—their pagan neighbors were wont to exclaim, perhaps in wonder and maybe in scorn: "Behold how these Christians love one another!" Love brings an assurance of a man's acceptance with God. He may know that he has passed from death unto life because he loves the brethren. And to this assurance may be added the witness of the Christ who loved him even unto death. And no man can love God and be callous to the needs of men around him.
 This old lesson of love is quite applicable today—in a world that has recently known so much of hatred and suffering. There is need that Christians shall know the spirit of love in all the activities of every-day life—in the home, in business, everywhere—if our country is made a good place for all our people to dwell in. If we would be loyal to Christ, we must be loyal to our fellows. To be loyal, we must be willing, at any cost, to be spent in a ministry of love and helpfulness toward others.

Memphis Team Looks Good

THE '48 CYCLONE TIES PLAINVIEW SIX ALL

The newly formed '48 Cyclone with only a week's practice tied a strong Plainview "B" football team in Memphis Tuesday night, 6-6, on a soft field.

With only a week's practice as a team unit the rugged Cyclone fought stubbornly for four quarters and twice almost had the contest in their hands being turned back on the 4-yard line each time after four downs.

The visitors only made one threat in the last half but the stout Cyclone line held inside its five for four downs and took over on their one-foot line. From then on it was anybody's ball game with both teams fighting hard between the thirty yard lines.

Plainview's center, Malone, who later went into the backfield, kicked off to Sammy Rasco, Cyclone end, who returned 10 yards to the 40-yard line.

Gardenhire hit the line for no gain. After two more Cyclone attempts at the line West kicked to the Plainview 35-yard line.

Miller hit off tackle for 12 yards and a first down and then the B's chalked up another first on three plays. Miller, B half back, launched around end on the next play behind good interference and scored but the ball was called back on account of unnecessary roughness and the B's were penalized 15 yards.

Miller hit end for 15 yards and then Kay went into the line to the Memphis 22. Messer broke in to throw the B's for a four yard loss on the next play but the Plainview backs kept hammering at the line and scored 6 points after four more plunges.

Halfback Crooks took the kick-off and raced back to the Memphis forty. West hit center for 4 yards. West reeled off 12 yards and a first down around end. Then West stepped back and tossed a long pass to Rasco who went on to the B's 25 yard line before two players tackled him.

Messer Scores

Crooks hit the line for three yards. A pass failed and Crooks hit guard for four yards. Then on a fine play Messer took the ball from West, and with head low plowed 12 yards through center with three men hanging on for the tying score.

The Plainview team made another bid in the second quarter working the ball down field against strong Cyclone resistance to the one foot line where the stout-hearted Memphis team refused to yield.

The Cyclone took over there and kicked off safely gaining 15 yards on two exchanges of punts. The line backing of Messer and Blackmon stood out in the second half, as well as the stout Cyclone forwards who fought against the seasoned Plainview "B's" who were early season conquerors of the Amarillo Yinnigans.

After an exchange of punts Messer intercepted a pass on his thirty-five and got loose to the Plainview 42 yard line before being tackled.

West passed to Crooks a long who carried on to the 18. West passed to Rasco for 8 yards, and he fell forward four more to the four yard line. After one play for two yards the half whistle

District 3-A Teams Strong This Season

Coach Scott McCall's Irishmen of Shamrock who finished a perfect season in district 3-A play last week, is awaiting the winner of district 4-A to see who they will face in the bi-district round of this region.

Lockney appears to be ahead in the latter district having won five straight district contests, but still have Paducah to play. Shamrock will probably meet Lockney Thanksgiving Day in bi-district play, McCall said.

Of a nine game schedule the charges of Coaches McCall and Kenneth Glasglow have been defeated only one time, Perryton being the conquerors 20-0 in an early season contest.

Perryton is conceded to be the leader of this region in sports polls with Shamrock third.

A list of the ten strong teams in this district follow: Perryton Rangers, Phillips Blackhawks, Shamrock Irish, Lefors Pirates, Wellington Skyrockets, White Deer Bucks, Lockney Longhorns, Dimmitt Bobcats, Spur Bulldogs, and Canyon Eagles.

The above is about how they stood near the end of the season. It will be noted that three of the top five teams of the region are from district 3-A.

In order to qualify for this certificate an agent must produce a volume of new and renewal business as well as the quality of policy during the club year.

blew robbing the local team of what would have proven the winning score.

Cyclone Recovers Fumble In the second half following the kickoff Messer recovered a "B" fumble on the visitor's 24 yard line. Messer hit end for 7 yards to the 17. Crooks carried on for a first down off tackle. West passed to Rasco for 5 yards. Crooks plunged to the "B" two but here the Plainview team strengthened and held the locals for downs.

The Plainview "B's" kept the ball mostly in the last half but the locals refused to give in and had the ball on their own 44 as the game ended.

Plainview edged the Cyclone 12 to 9 in first downs, but the Cyclone had the best of penetrations 3 to 2. Observers said it was a good game for the '48 players who will round out next year's attack.

Because of injuries to Gardenhire, Pyeatt, and Newbrough, Coach Don Ezell of the Cyclone sent West and Akard into the game and they played good ball.

Starting lineup for Plainview "B's" were ends, Taylor and Howton; tackles, Harris and Davis; guards, Morgan and Thompson; center, Malone; quarterback, Long; halfbacks, Miller and Dameron; and fullback, Kay.

Starting lineup for Memphis, ends, Sammy Rasco and Harvey Jarrell; tackles, Ray Clark and Ken McQueen; guards, Creed Lamb and Bill Newbrough; center, Jack Knight; quarterback, Charles Morrison; halfbacks, Benny Pyeatt and Charles Akard; and fullback, Andy Gardenhire.

Memphis substitutes: Don Corley, T. C. Blackmon, Don Rasco, Tom Messer, Bob Crooks, Gayle West, and Randolph Messer.

Officials for the game were Wilkinson (North Texas State), referee; Coppedge (SMU), umpire; and Smith (Howard Payne), headlinesman.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Appleby of Pampa visited with Mrs. Appleby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Craver, last week-end.
